Fourth candidate seeks at-large seat on Snyder council

A fourth candidate has filed for the two at-large seats due to expire on the Snyder City Council. Filing Tuesday afternoon was Rodger Potts, 34, a lineman for Midwest Electric who also serves as a volunteer fireman here. Potts, of 3006 40th St., has lived in Snyder the past 13½ years. Also filed for the at-large council positions are incumbent Paul Zeck, 38, president of Y-Z Industries and a member of the council since April of 1987; Mike Thornton, 40, director of adult and continuing education at Western Texas College; and Jim Tully, 59, a former director of student financial aid at WTC who is currently employed as a public relations staffer for Wal-Mart. The other incumbent council member with an at-large post due to expire, John Johnson, has indicated he will not seek a second two-year term.

Mayor Troy Williamson has also announced for his second two-year term as mayor and is, to date, unopposed. Williamson, 51, owner of Williamson Auto Supply, has been on the council since 1983, serving three years as a councilman. For the two at-large council seats, the two candidates receiving the greatest number of votes will be declared the winner at the May 6 election.

In Brief

Daley wins

CHICAGO (AP) — Richard M. Daley's Democratic primary victory over Mayor Eugene Sawyer carried him to the door of the City Hall office his father held for 21 years, but a new foe and an old nemesis want to bar his entry.

By defeating Sawyer Tuesday, Daley advanced to the April 4 general election and a contest Democrats have won without fail since 1931 — including six straight terms captured by Richard J. Daley, the late, legendary boss of Chicago politics.

The 46-year-old white nominee faces third-party candidate Alderman Timothy Evans, previously Sawyer's chief black rival and now Jesse Jackson's choice.

Student shot

JEFFERSON, Texas (AP) — A 17-year-old student was in stable condition with a chest wound and another teen was taken into custody following a Jefferson High School shooting.

Bryan Varnell was transferred Tuesday from Marshall Memorial Hospital to the University of Texas Health Center in Tyler, where he was listed in stable condition after two hours of surgery.

Doctors removed a bullet from Varnell's lower abdomen, hospital spokesman Ken Witt said. Witt said the bullet had entered Varnell's chest on his left side and barely missed his heart.

A 16-year-old Jefferson student armed with a pistol was arrested following the 10:45 a.m. shooting Tuesday in a school hallway, said Superintendent James Richardson.

Senate majority leader opposes Tower nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell announced his opposition today to John Tower's nomination as defense secretary, and Vice President Dan Quayle conceded the appointment currently falls short of the votes needed for confirmation.

"We hope the prospects improve," Quayle told reporters.

"We don't have 50 votes yet. But we're moving in that direction, and I'll be the 51st," he said, referring to his ability to cast a tie-breaking vote in the Senate.

Key Republicans said they would meet later in the day to decide whether to seek a delay in the beginning of the debate on the nomination, which has drawn widespread opposition from Democrats.

Tower has been battling questions about his drinking habits, allegations of womanizing and concerns about his acceptance of thousands of dollars in defense consultants' fees.

The former Texas senator scheduled an early-afternoon

Furor over Tower linked to Combest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Larry Combest is refusing to comment on reports that he gave different information about defense secretary-designate John Tower's drinking habits in the 1970s to leaders of the Senate Armed Services Committee and the FBI.

Combest, a Lubbock Republican who worked for then-Sen. Tower for seven years in the 1970s, issued a terse statement Tuesday supporting Tower. But he refused to comment on reports that he told the Armed Services leaders that Tower used to drink as much as a full bottle of Scotch at one sitting.

A congressional source told The Washington Post that Combest's statement about Tower's drinking habits in the 1970s came down on committee Chairman Sam Nunn "like a ton of bricks."

A knowledgeable source confirmed that Combest had detailed Tower's heavy drinking in the 1970s in the Feb. 3 conversation and it was Combest's comments which sparked Nunn's concerns about Tower.

Snyder S&L to fete 30 years of service

To recognize her 30 years of service, Snyder Savings and Loan Association secretary-treasurer Mable Glass will be honored with a reception Friday.

The public is invited to the event, set to begin at 3 p.m. at the 2619 College Ave. institution.

MABLE GLASS
...30 years service...

Glass is a Pyron native who joined the company on March 1, 1959, after working as a gin bookkeeper at Inadale and working nine years in the county school superintendent's office.

"When the association had its original opening, I was working at the courthouse, and one of the girls came by and asked me to come to the open house with her," Glass recalled. "I did, and they were giving savings accounts, and all you had to do was register."

"One was for $100, one for $50 and one for $25. My name was drawn, and I received the $100 savings account. I remember asking one of the directors just what a savings account was as savings and loans were just getting started at that time."

She said "all work was done by adding machine and hand-posting, so it was quite a job."

Noting that she has worked for four presidents, Max West, Gene Best, Roger Mize and now J.B. Tate Jr., Glass said one highlight in the history of the institution was the opening of its new building in 1963.

Youth escapes injury in automobile rollover

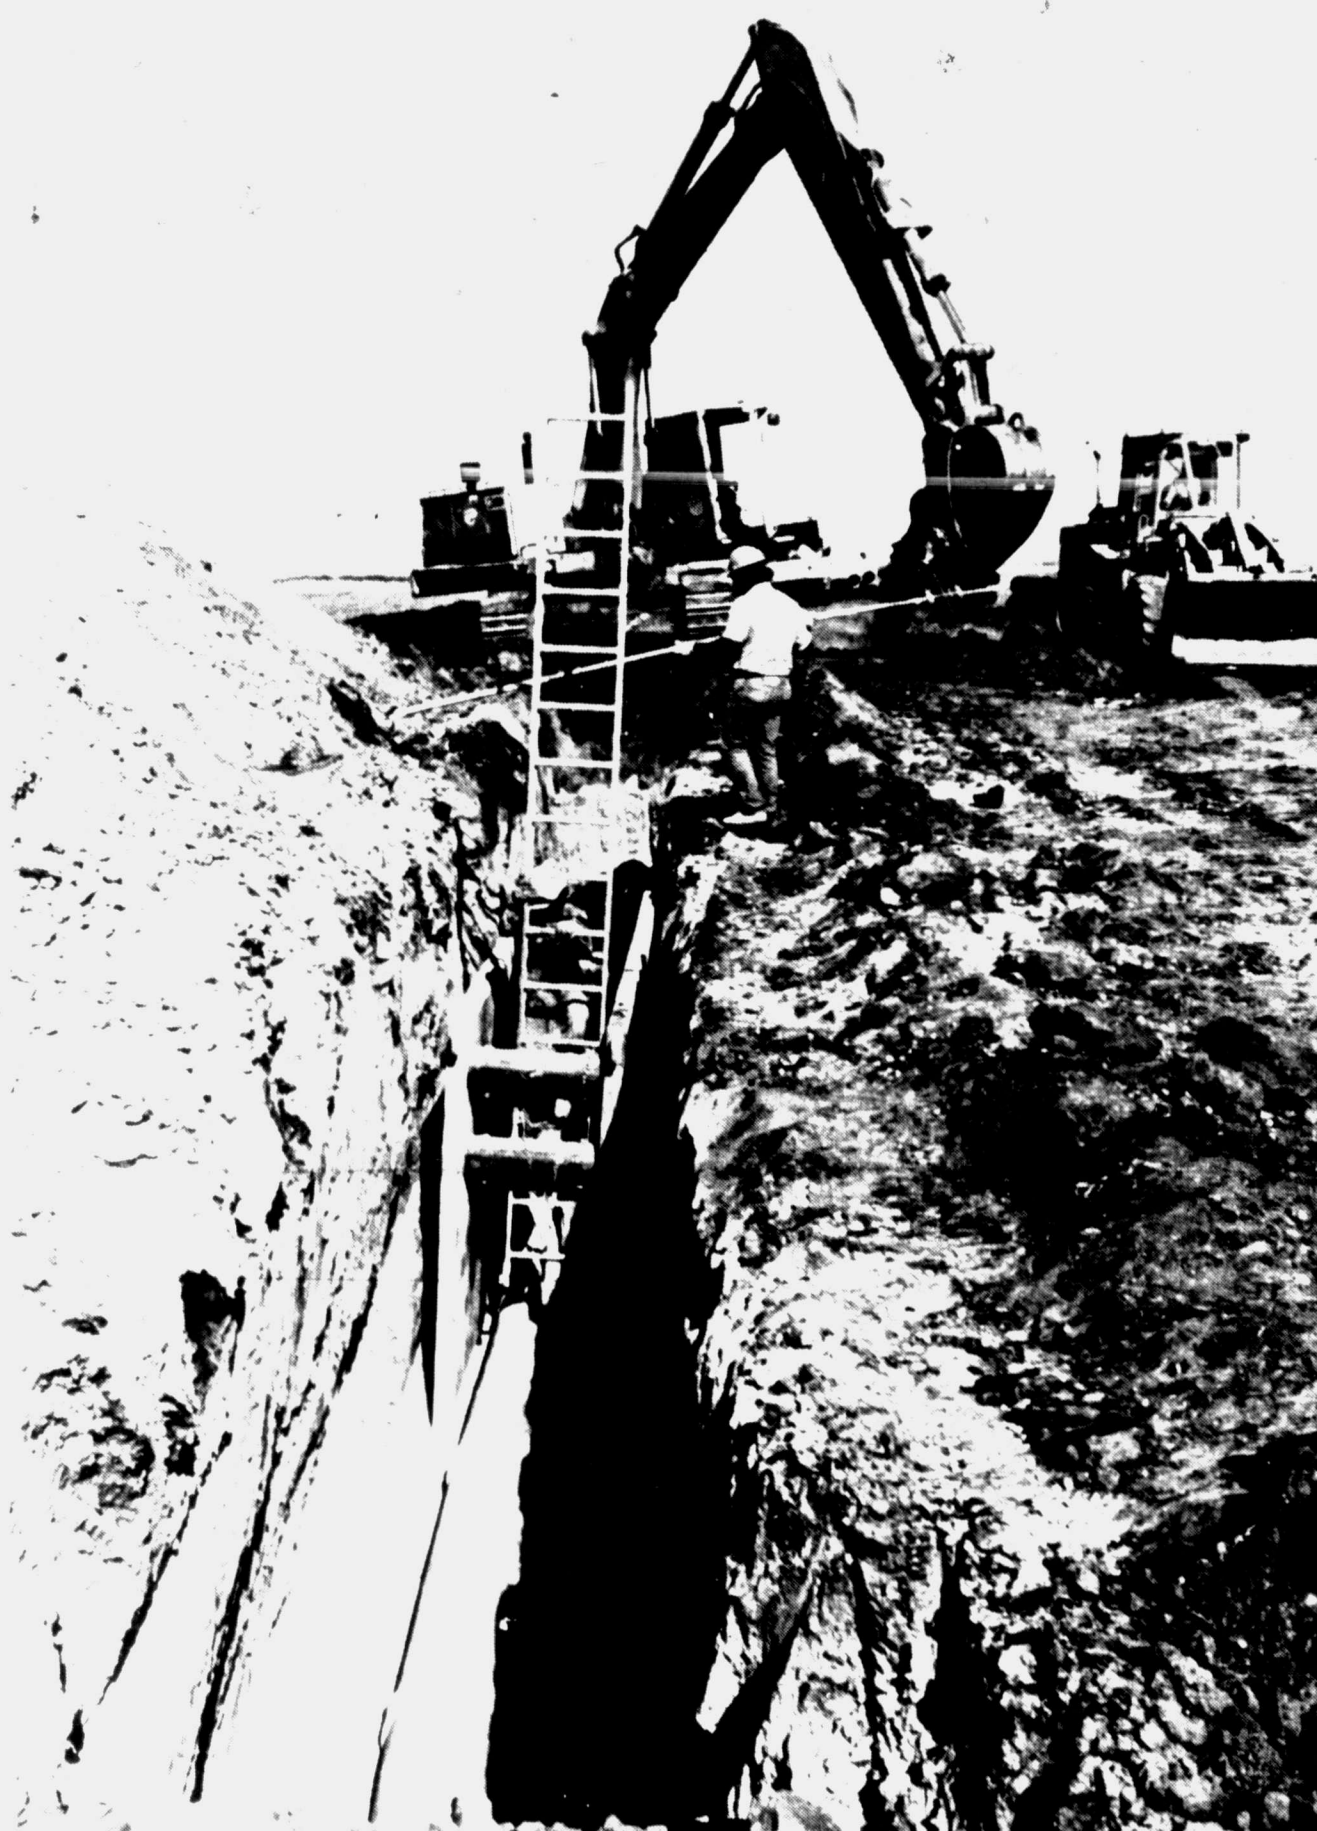

An 18-year-old Snyder youth escaped serious injury Tuesday morning when his car went out of control on the Big Spring Hwy. 17 miles south of town and overturned in a field.

The Department of Public Safety said a 1975 Pontiac driven by Justin C. Pinkerton of 402 29th St. was southbound and attempting to pass another vehicle when the accident took place around 8:55 a.m.

A DPS trooper said the other vehicle attempted to turn left in front of Pinkerton and that the youth steered left, skidded 256 feet on the highway and 68 feet into the field before the car turned over and came to rest on its roof.

There was no collision involved.

Pinkerton had apparently minor injuries and declined medical attention.

School renovating ball field

The renovation of the baseball practice field located just south of Snyder High School is essentially complete, school officials say.

Dirt work has re-leveled the field, also allowing for the planting of new grass.

In addition, a pipe fence has been built around the outside perimeter, work made possible, school officials say, by the donation of pipe material from David Holt of Fluid Transports.

The fence measures 8 ft. tall and is a distance of 350 ft. from homeplate.

Since the material was donated, Superintendent Dalton Moseley said the district managed to hold its out-of-pocket expense to some $2,000. The majority of this, an estimated $1,800, involved the dirt work, he noted.

Bringing the field back to playing standards will assist during tournament play here and will provide the ninth grade members of the SHS junior varsity team a location for home games.

With its completion in mind, a five-game home schedule has been slated for the freshmen team members in addition to the regular junior varsity and varsity game schedules.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Parents who use TV as a baby sitter shouldn't be surprised if their kids wind up on the evening news."

February was the month for presidents. If congress keeps fooling around with the holidays, history students will never be able to remember which date is which.

Leaders, whether in government or business, know that the salesman is the most important person in any organization. The nation's president can't get a program on line without a good selling job both to congress and the American people.

But sales folks can be their own worst enemy. Loquacity is listed as the number one fault of four out of 10 sales people.

A recent survey shows that salesmen who talk when they should have been listening is a cardinal sin that comes before promising too much and failure to follow through.

Perhaps salesmen and politicians are about the same: they talk too much, they promise even more, and often they fail to produce.

Every now and then somebody comes across an outdated law that remains on the books, but isn't enforced.

There is once such law still part of the Texas code. If you're a male Texas resident between the ages of 21 and 45 and in good health, by law you could be required to work for five days on your county's roads.

In 1876, the Texas legislature passed a law requiring all men, with the exception of preachers, to spend five days each year working on county roadways.

That might be a way to deal with a shrinking county tax base, but we predict there would be people stepping forward to pay more taxes if the work law was actually enforced.

Reynolds finds out it's what's up front that counts the most

BOSTON (AP) — Premier was a cigarette designed for people who hate cigarettes: a butt that didn't cause cancer, that didn't cloud the air with smoke, that didn't even dribble ashes.

It also didn't taste very good. And that apparently is what made the planned billion dollar project go up in smoke.

On Tuesday, R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. announced that after five months of test marketing in Missouri and Arizona, it had snuffed out Premier because it "has not achieved adequate consumer acceptance."

During its short life, Premier neither satisfied cigarette smokers nor placated cigarette haters. Despite its label, it was not exactly smokeless. It gave off a steamy vapor reminiscent of cigarette smoke.

It was a clever bit of engineering, so high-tech that it was probably the first cigarette to come with instructions on how to smoke it.

Its advantages seemed impressive. It produced almost no tar, so it probably did not cause lung cancer. And no smoke curled off its lighted tip, so non-smokers were less likely to become upset.

But like many compromises, this one seemed to please nobody. To smokers, it did not taste, feel or look enough like a real cigarette. And to doctors who worry about smoking's effects, this one was still a coffin nail because it almost certainly would have caused heart disease.

Smokers who tried it complained it was hard to light, it went out, it did not burn down like a normal cigarette and it was hot to hold. But worst of all was the flavor.

"People smoke for taste. It's very bland, and you have to draw until you get a headache to get any taste out of it at all," said Dave Grinstead, tobacco buyer for the Shop & Save chain in Missouri.

"I thought the project initially was revolutionary in concept," said analyst Lawrence Adelman of Dean Witter Reynolds Inc. "But the technology wasn't there yet to satisfy consumer requirements."

Reynolds maintained that people needed to smoke two or three packs to develop a taste for Premier. But instead, retailers said smokers often bought a pack, smoked one or two, passed around the rest and never came back for more.

Doctors noted that even though Premier lacked cancer-causing tar, it delivered nicotine and carbon monoxide like other cigarettes. Those things cause heart disease, which is an even bigger smoking hazard than lung cancer.

Agency says food supply is safe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government confirms the drought helped increase the cancer-causing fungus aflatoxin in the 1988 corn crop in the Midwest, requiring some corn to be diverted to feed non-dairy cattle.

But the government disputed concerns raised in a report by The Wall Street Journal last week that aflatoxin-tainted corn is moving through the nation's food chain because of inadequate sampling and unreliable testing.

Teacher's Language Lesson Today Comes From the Paper

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A little while ago, I took a break from my job of reading and grading essays written by high school juniors. Their grammar, spelling and punctuation defy description — but with the mail you get, you probably have a pretty fair idea.

Anyway, I relaxed for a few minutes, scanning headlines and reading Dear Abby, and there it was: "Confidential to Eunice: All men do not cheat on their wives. But it's a fairly safe bet that the man who says they do, cheats on his."

Abby, I believe what you meant to say was that not all men cheat on their wives, since what you did say stated that there weren't any men who cheat on their wives, and, unfortunately, we all know better than that.

Forgive me for being so picky, but I used a lot of red ink today.

ADELE CHRISTENSEN, CALIFORNIA SCHOOL TEACHER

DEAR MS. CHRISTENSEN: I forgive you for being so "picky," and regret that my editor lacked the pickiness to pick up on this error.

Thus far only you and another sharp-eyed San Francisco Chronicle reader have written to correct me. He wrote:

DEAR ABBY: There you go again. Perhaps you meant to say, "Not all men cheat on their wives." What you have said is like saying, "All women writing advice columns do not say it that way." (Some do, including your sister.)

JERRY THOMPSON

DEAR JERRY: It figures. We both cut the same classes.

DEAR ABBY: I want to thank you for your quiz about homosexuality in which you debunked many myths. I am sure you educated many people, but, Abby, you write about gays as though they were another species, as if the reader had never known any, as if there were none among your readers. The fact is, we are your readers. We are also your sons and daughters, your grandchildren, your brothers, sisters, cousins, aunts, uncles, mothers and fathers.

We are your neighbors, your teachers, your supermarket checker, your stockbroker, your plumber, your mail carrier, your nurse, your doctor or your lawyer. In short, we are people you know; and often people you love.

Because people often confuse effeminacy in men and masculinity in women with homosexuality, most are not aware how many gays they come in contact with every day.

If they knew, and stopped thinking about us as strangers or strange creatures, it would go a long way toward helping solve many of the problems gay men and women face in our society.

South could play as before, ruffing the third spade, returning to dummy with a heart to ruff a fourth spade, and then drawing trumps ending in dummy. Declarer would regret not trying the club finesse only if spades split worse than 4-2. Since the chance of the club finesse was less than 50-50 (remember that West's takeout double promised opening-bid values), and the chance of the spade suit behaving was about 85 percent, the right choice was apparent. Declarer won the club ace and set up dummy's long spade to make his contract.

Give yourself better odds

By James Jacoby

When you hold a broken suit like A-Q-9-6-4-3, your hand gets immeasurably better if partner supports your suit. Thus, even if partner simply raises to two hearts, showing six to nine support points, you would make a game-try because of the strength of your six-card suit once it is supported. Here, after West's takeout double, North showed better than a simple raise by first redoubling. So, despite only 14 high-card points, South was justified in bidding game.

There were choices in the play, however. The defenders led three rounds of diamonds. East won the third round with the jack and returned a club. Declarer would need the club finesse to work, unless there was some way of avoiding that risk. Fortunately such a way did exist. If spades were 3-3, a 36 percent chance, South could play A-K and ruff a spade, draw trumps ending in dummy, and throw his small club on a good spade. Furthermore, if spades were not 3-3, maybe they would be 4-2, nearly a 50 percent chance, and then

Texaco considers expansion of facilities at Port Arthur

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — Texaco Inc. is considering capital expansions at the company's two chemical plants at Port Arthur, a Texaco official says.

James Kinnear, president and chief executive officer of Texaco Inc., would not provide details on the expansions under review, except to say he sees chemical manufacturing as a good value-added business for Texaco.

Kinnear's remarks came Tuesday during a trip to visit employees and express thanks for their support during the company's legal battles with Pennzoil Co. and Texaco's subsequent filing for bankruptcy under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy code.

Texaco sold 50 percent of its Port Arthur refinery, among other assets, to the Saudi Arabian Oil Co. in 1988 to provide cash after it agreed to a $3 billion

Scheme costs investors

DALLAS (AP) — Federal investigators say a currency investment program under criminal investigation in Dallas may have taken $150 million from investors in 10 states.

Investigators said Tuesday the investment plan, operated from last July to Feb. 15 by WWG Investments Inc., a brokerage firm in the suburban Las Colinas development, is the target of state securities investigations or criminal inquiries in Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

Principals in that firm, H&O Marketing, filed suit in a Tarrant County court Friday seeking more than $17 million, representing about $4 million in investor funds and $13 million in interest owed, from two principals in WWG Investments, William W. Gray of nearby Grapevine, Texas, and Robert Leslie Johnson of Tulsa, Okla.

settlement with Pennzoil.

The Texaco refinery here is now operated by Star Enterprise, a joint venture owned by Texaco and Saudi Arabian Oil.

Kinnear said Texaco has concluded selling assets, adding that a sale of its chemical division would be highly unlikely.

Manager Lee Townsend said Star Enterprise is considering adding a de-coker unit at its refinery in Port Arthur. He would not discuss how much the capital expansion would cost the refinery but said it would be "a major, major project."

The refinery is doing in-house engineering studies to determine whether the project is feasible. The refinery does not have a de-coker unit, he said.

WTC outlasts Rangers

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor
WACO—Western Texas College's inside-outside game was too much for the Range-Anns here Tuesday in the tipoff game of the Women's Regional V Basketball tournament. Western got double-figure scoring from four players to outlast Ranger, 81-72, and advance to tonight's quarterfinals at The Highlands gym on the McLennan College campus. The Lady Dusters, 23-8, will take on New Mexico Junior College at 7 p.m.

The Dusters had beaten Ranger handily twice earlier in the season, but Coach Kelly Chadwick wasn't concerned that the third win was by just nine points. "I think Ranger is a pretty hard team to beat. They are better than what their record (12-16) indicates," said the Duster Coach. "In a one-game situation, they are especially tough because of all those three-point shots they shoot. A team like that probably won't win a national championship, but they can win one game."

Ranger led only once and that was early, 3-2, when Trisha Young hit the first of the squad's five three-point baskets. Western went back in front quickly, however, and never trailed after Haskell sophomore Julie Roewe completed a three-point play with 11:48 left to go in the half. Roewe scored nine of her 15 points in the 20-minute period.

"Julie just had a great ball game," said Chadwick. "She got things going for us the right way. She showed great sophomore leadership out there."

Elayne Maddox came off the bench for eight points and freshman Valery Jackson added 10 as Western managed a 44-32 halftime advantage. Western was never able to run away from the Range-Anns. Young and Tami Cornell kept Ranger in the game with long-distance shooting. Ranger trailed by 10 most of the second half, but pulled within three points, 59-56, when Cornell flipped in a couple of free throws at the 9:01 mark.

Chadwick, who has never been afraid to challenge an opponent, sent Jackson to counter Ranger's long-ball shooting with some of her own. The Morton first-year player calmly zeroed in on back-to-back three pointers, lifting the Dusters to a 65-56 lead. Baskets by Roewe and Tami Wilson put the WTC advantage back into double figures and locked up the victory.

"She turned the game around for us with those three-pointers. Valery is a money player," beamed Chadwick.

As importantly, tactics stretched the Ranger defense and allowed Western to go back inside. Ranger was forced to foul in an effort to get back within striking distance. Western hit only six of 12 shots from the line in the final two minutes, but it was enough.

Jackson led the Dusters with 21 points, including the two three-pointers.

"I've been working on those a lot," said Jackson, who scored five of the long shots in WTC's final regular-season win over Howard College. "I don't worry about it." In addition to the points from Jackson and Roewe, WTC got 17 out of Wilson and 14 from Nickey Allen.

In other games Tuesday, Mexico whipped Cisco, 88-66, Odessa edged McLennan, 85-72, and fifth-ranked Grayson outlasted Frank Phillips, 68-63.

Allen is loop's most valuable

WACO—Lady Dusters standout Nickey Allen has been named Most Valuable Player of the Western Junior College Athletic Basketball Conference.

Allen, a 5-11 sophomore from Amarillo, average 17.8 points and 9.4 rebounds in helping Western Texas to a WJCAC co-championship.

Joining on the first team was teammate Tami Wilson. A freshman from Seagraves, the 6-0 post player put up averages of 12.3 points and 9.2 rebounds an outing. She also had 93 regular-season blocks for an average of 3.2 a game.

Western Texas' Julie Roewe, a team co-captain along with Allen,

Dallas nips Walks allow Mats victory in opener

MIAMI (AP) — Rolando Blackman says he should be scoring the most points now for the Dallas Mavericks, and he's doing just that.

Blackman had the Mavericks' final seven points, including a three-point play with three seconds left in overtime, as they beat Miami 111-110 Tuesday.

Blackman topped Dallas with 27 points and has led the Mavs in scoring in seven of their eight games since the Adrian Dantley-Mark Aguirre trade Feb. 15.

"With Mark gone and A.D. just coming in, I'm the guy with the most familiarity with our system," Blackman said. "So I should be getting the points now. When A.D. gets more comfortable, he'll get his. But I'll still be scoring too."

Dantley scored 17 points in his fourth game with Dallas.

The Heat led 109-102 with 1:33 left in the extra period. Dallas then scored six straight points, the last four by Blackman, to make it 109-108 with 24 seconds to go.

After the Heat's Sylvester Gray made one of two free throws, Blackman hit a lean-in 15-foot jumper, was fouled by Kevin Edwards and made the free throw.

"The play was designed for me to come off the double screen," Blackman said. "I saw the right side was clear, but Edwards stayed right with me. I got him in the air and I was able to jump through him and hit the shot."

Following a timeout, Edwards was short with a 20-foot shot at the buzzer.

Blackman scored Dallas' final six points of regulation over the last 1:58.

"Ro has taken over many times in the past, and he'll do it many more times," Coach John MacLeod said. "He loves it when the game is on the line. He thrives on that kind of competition."

Blackman's two free throws with 51 seconds to go gave the Mavs 99-97 lead. Two free throws by the Heat's Rony Seikaly 11 seconds later tied the game.

LUBBOCK—Snyder High School Tigers gave up six easy runs in the second inning and could never recover as the Estacado Matadors coasted to an 8-4 victory over the Tigers Tuesday afternoon in the season opener for both teams.

Cold, damp weather turned the scheduled twin bill into a single game, and Coach Albert Lewis' Tigers enter the Abilene baseball tournament starting Thursday.

Lewis was disappointed with the opener. "It's not like us, but it's early in the season and we have time to recover."

Starting pitcher Lee Fletcher walked five batters in the second inning and allowed three singles as the hosts picked up six runs.

Snyder had started the game in good form, scoring three runs.

Randy Morris advanced to first on a walk and was followed with singles by Bert Otto and Simon Guterrez and then a triple by Jason West.

Snyder left a runner stranded at third in the second inning, but could never get anything going until the fourth when Tracy Odom singled and then pinch runner Les Rinehart scored on a double by Willie Garcia.

Estacado picked up two insurance runs in the fourth inning.

Bart Morton relieved Fletcher on the mound and the two Snyder pitchers gave up seven hits, 10 walks and struck out eight.

Snyder batters collected seven hits, led by West's three-base connection. Singles were collected by Garcia, Morris, Otto, Guterrez, Israel Hinojos and Tracy Odom.

Snyder JV tops Brownfield

Snyder Tigers junior varsity baseball team opened its season with a 6-2 victory over Brownfield Tuesday night at Moffett Field.

Snyder got its six runs off two hits—one each by Richard Morris and Chad Fox. Snyder batters were walked 12 times, struck out eight times in the opener and left 13 runners on base.

Jamie Morton was the winning pitcher. He gave up two unearned runs on two hits, and struck out 13 batters while walking five in five and two-thirds innings. Chad Fox relieved, going one and a third innings. He struck out three and walked two.

The Tigers host Lamesa at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Andrews cagers win

ABILENE—Neck and neck for three quarters, District 2-4A's Andrews Mustangs exploded for 31 points in the fourth quarter for an 81-67 regional semi-finals victory over Burkburnett.

Andrews, now 30-4, for the season, was tied with Burkburnett 50-50 going into the final quarter, but the explosive finale was fueled by Gym Bice, Damon Clay and Ara Baten who each ended up in double figures.

Clay led the Andrews scoring with 25 points while Bice and Baten each had 23.

Court sets aside conviction of Randall Adams

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A state appeals court today set aside the murder conviction of Randall Dale Adams in the 1976 slaying of a Dallas police officer, a case that was reexamined in the film "The Thin Blue Line."

Adams had maintained that he was innocent and had not received a fair trial. He initially was sentenced to death in 1977 for the slaying of Officer Robert Wood, but that sentence was commuted to life in 1980.

In its unanimous decision, the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals said prosecutors had suppressed evidence during Adams' 1977 trial.

"It is the fundamental, constitutional purpose of his court to insure that a convicted defendant received a fair trial," wrote Judge M.P. Duncan. "When deceit produces court rulings that have the effect of denying one a fair trial then the conviction should be vacated."

The court ordered Adams transferred from prison to the custody of the Dallas County sheriff. A sheriff's spokesman, Jim Ewell, said his office had not received paperwork concerning Adams' transfer by mid-morning.

In Dallas, assistant District Attorney Norm Kinne said the case was being reviewed to determine whether to retry it.

"We have one of the prosecutors reviewing evidence and interviewing witnesses in the case. We're in process of determining whether we have sufficient evidence for a retrial," Kinne said.

He said that determination could be made quickly. "We have had him (the prosecutor) investigating more or less reviewing the case and talking to witnesses for some time."

Adams initially was sentenced to death for in the slaying, but that sentence was commuted to life in 1980. He has served 12 years in Texas prison for the 1976 slaying of Wood.

Adams attorney, Randy Schaffer of Houston, did not immediately return phone

The appeals court reviewed the case upon the recommendation of state District Judge Larry Baraka of Dallas, who said after a hearing in December that Adams didn't receive a fair trial.

The Court of Criminal Appeals made its decision on three grounds. It said Adams' right to due process and due course of law was violated when the state knowingly suppressed an inconsistent statement made by a woman who testified against Adams.

The court said the state knowingly suppressed evidence that the witness, Emily Miller, had failed to identify the Adams in a police lineup; that a police officer advised her she didn't identify Adams, and that the officer told her the person she should have identified.

The court also said Adams' conviction was obtained in violation of due process and due course of law when Ms. Miller committed perjury by testifying outside the presence of the jury that she had identified Adams in the lineup.

In his opinion, Judge Duncan wrote: "In the present case, the trial court found the state was guilty of suppressing evidence favorable to the accused, deceiving the trial court during applicant's trial, and knowingly using perjured testimony. In each instance, the nature of the evidence or testimony was such that the state at the expense of due process."

Adams' mother, Mildred Adams of Columbus, Ohio, was overjoyed at the news.

"We had planned on going down to TDC over Easter break to see him," she told the Dallas Times Herald. "Now I just don't have the words to express myself. We're just as happy as can be up here."

Adams' case was resurrected with the help of New York filmmaker Errol Morris' documentary "The Thin Blue Line," which strongly suggested the slaying was committed by a prosecution witness, David Harris.

Tower nomination short of votes

speech to the National Press Club to press his own case.

Speaking an hour before Tower's remarks, Mitchell said he was troubled by Tower's work as a defense consultant. "He received payment while it was widely assumed that he might be a nominee for defense secretary if President Bush were elected," the Democratic leader said.

Turning to the controversy over Tower's personal conduct, Mitchell said "it is not moral perfection or the qualifications of senators that are at issue here."

"Public officials have a right to a private life," he said. "They do not have a right to engage publicly in behavior which could interfere with the discharge of their public duties."

"A single lapse in judgment — or perhaps even a few — should not disqualify an individual from public service," Mitchell continued.

"But when the lapses in judgment form a pattern of many incidents spanning many years, and when there is insufficient evidence that the pattern has been broken, then there are reasonable grounds to question whether the individual possesses the qualities necessary for the uniquely demanding job of Secretary of Defense."

Mitchell's position was widely anticipated, particularly since all Democrats who have expressed an opinion on the nomination have opposed it, and almost all Republicans have endorsed it.

But at the same time, the Democratic leader said he hoped the Tower struggle would not have "an adverse impact on relations between the Democratic majority in the Senate and the administration."

"I do not believe any senator's decision should be based upon partisan considerations," he said. "This is a personal decision for each senator to make..."

Asked if Tower's nomination could still be salvaged, he said, "I think so. I hope so."

He said he was not worried about Pentagon operations, saying, "The Pentagon is ongoing right now" under acting Secretary William H. Taft IV.

"There will not be any interruption until we get a new secretary of defense," Quayle said.

The debate over Tower has become increasingly partisan in recent days. Senate Republican Leader Bob Dole, after a meeting with President Bush at the White House on Tuesday night, said the opposition "is an affront to the president of the United States who was elected last November to make these nominations."

Foster earns honor at Tech

Rodney Glenn Foster, a 1988 graduate of Hermleigh High School, has made the President's Honor List at Texas Tech for the fall semester.

On the basis of his record, he has been invited to be initiated into Phi Eta Sigma Fraternity on Saturday, March 4. Phi Eta Sigma is a scholastic honor society at Tech.

The requirements for membership in Phi Eta Sigma are very high so that membership in this fraternity is the highest scholastic distinction a freshman can attain at Texas Tech.

Approximately 2 1/4 percent of the students in the freshman class attain the honor each year.

Foster is the son of Douglas and Belinda Foster of Hermleigh, and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Foster of Hermleigh and Gaither Bell of Snyder.

Drama scholarship established at WTC by $25,000 gift

A gift of $25,000 for the establishment of a new drama scholarship at Western Texas College has been announced by Jim Rambo, WTC theater director.

The gift was given by Roy and Geleska Baze of Snyder with certain matching funds from Exxon and the scholarship will be known as the Roy A. and Geleska Jean Baze Drama Scholarship. Scholarships will be awarded annually to students nominated by the college theatre director and recipients must be full-time theatre majors.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Roy Baze are Snyder natives. Baze was with Exxon for more than 34 years, retiring as a senior vice president. The Bazes chose to return to Snyder following his retirement and he has served on the WTC board of trustees since 1983. In giving the drama scholarship, Mr. and Mrs. Baze hope to help develop a balance of fine arts in the community. They pointed out the outstanding work of both the college and Snyder High School drama departments and feel that by making scholarship money available to WTC the college can continue to strengthen its program.

"On behalf of the college and my department, I thank Mr. and Mrs. Baze," Rambo said. "I am, of course, delighted to have the opportunity to offer these scholarships to outstanding students."

The $25,000 will go into the WTC Scholarship Fund, with the interest available for scholarships each year while the body of the gift remains intact.

Freedom of association is key to high court dance hall case

DALLAS (AP) — Roller rink owner Michael Stanglin says a local law setting age limits at teen dance halls ruined his business, a combination rink and dance hall that catered to teens.

The rink is closed now, but the lawsuit Stanglin filed against the city of Dallas — to be heard by the U.S. Supreme Court on Wednesday — may have long-lasting effect on civil rights as well as the future of teen recreation centers that have sprung up around the country.

Lawyers say a ruling in the Twilight Skating Rink case is likely to determine whether the government can limit freedom of association in social settings.

"The court has never really squarely faced the issue of an individual's right to associate for a purely social or cultural purpose," said Daniel Sheehan, Stanglin's attorney.

At issue is a city ordinance licensing "Class E" dance halls that serve teen-agers. The ordinance permits only youngsters between 14 and 18 and their parents or guardians inside the halls.

Stanglin's Twilight Skating Rink in east Dallas, divided with traffic cones for skating and dancing, fell into the teen dance hall category.

"I think the city was well intentioned with this, but they just went over the line," Stanglin said. He contends the ordinance prevents people from dancing because of their age.

"That means that a 19-year-old guy cannot come in with his 18-year-old girlfriend," he said. "If you had a 13-year-old in there, you're in violation."

Sheehan questions why the same restrictions weren't applied to other gathering places, such as parks or ice cream parlors.

"So the city has in effect legislated against certain age groups dancing together — and singled out that activity," he said.

The ordinance was passed in 1985. When he began complying, Stanglin said, his crowd dropped from 800 one week to about 200 the next, then less than 20 the third week.

"It has cost me a considerable amount of financial tragedy," said Stanglin, who owns a second rink in a Dallas suburb.

Stanglin filed suit against the city in July 1986, but a local trial court ruled against him.

In October 1987, a state Court of Appeals ruled in Stanglin's favor, striking down the part of the ordinance dealing with age. The court said it interfered with young people's constitutional right to associate with whom they please.

"It is primarily the responsibility of the parent, not the city, to tell the minor how old his dance partner may be," the appeals court said. "The answer lies in supervision, not in strict segregation by age group."

In asking the U.S. Supreme Court to reinstate the ordinance, the city said, "The potential harm comes from the association with persons who may influence the behavior of the children not only at the dance hall where supervision exists but also away from the dance hall."

DPS trooper Murphy assigned to Anson

AUSTIN—Trooper John H. Murphy, 22, graduated from the Department of Public Safety training academy and has been assigned to the Highway Patrol Service in Anson.

Trooper Murphy was one of over a hundred cadets recently commissioned as state troopers in graduation ceremonies in Austin. He is a native of Snyder and assumes his new duties immediately.

Colonel Joe Milner, DPS director, said he is proud of the new troopers and looks forward to their service with the department.

"These men and women have completed a vigorous 18-week course in basic law enforcement procedures," Milner said. "They have been well trained to uphold the laws of this state in routine as well as difficult and dangerous law enforcement situations."

"A Texas trooper is required to perform a number of different tasks in addition to traffic law enforcement. The trooper will assist in narcotics arrests and other felony cases as well as manhunts and disaster situations," Milner said.

The DPS training course included instruction in traffic law, criminal law, arrest procedures, accident investigation, and numerous other law enforcement related duties.

Former resident receives prestigious appointment

Dr. Thomas Lowe, son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Lowe of Ruidoso, N. M., both former teachers in Snyder, has received an exceptional capability promotion from the United States Public Health Service (PHS) to the Navy rank of captain.

In the notification of promotion sent to Dr. Lowe by the surgeon general of the PHS, Dr. C. Everett Koop, it was noted that being promoted several years early for exceptional capability is a rare and "most prestigious accomplishment."

Dr. Lowe is currently assigned to the U. S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA). He served as the AIDS Coordinator for the Center for Devices and Radiological Health, the part of the FDA that regulates medical devices. As AIDS coordinator, his efforts are focused primarily on medical devices which serve as barriers to the transmission of the AIDS virus.

He also serves as the liaison and coordinator of activities involving AIDS and medical devices between FDA, the national Institute of Health (NIH) in Bethesda, Md. As such, he co-authored the updated universal barrier precautions to prevent AIDS transmission used in every hospital and clinic in the U. S.

At present, Dr. Lowe is spearheading an effort by the FDA which will establish a program to sample and test surgical and examination gloves used in health care settings in the U. S., as FDA continues to do with condoms.

Dr. Lowe, who graduated from public school in Snyder, has received degrees from the University of North Texas, the University of Texas, and the University of Minnesota.

DR. GOTT

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What's the latest treatment for asthma?

DEAR READER: This deceptively simple question has been the topic of many reviews in medical journals. Without getting too technical, let me give you an overview.

Asthma is a respiratory disorder marked by bronchospasm: tightening of the muscles lining the bronchial passageways. Also, during an asthma attack, patients produce more mucus than normal, which tends to fill the constricted breathing tubes, contributing to difficulty breathing. It's the mucus that gives the squeaky, wheezing respiration characteristic of asthma. Once the asthma attack has terminated, patients have no difficulty coughing up excess mucus; thus, the treatment of asthma is directed toward relieving bronchospasm.

Epinephrine (adrenaline) has been — and remains today — an effective, safe and rapid medication to relax bronchospasm. It is given by injection and works in minutes.

Theophylline, a bronchodilator available in pill or liquid form, as well as by intravenous injection, is usually given to relieve acute attacks.

Also, steroids (cortisone drugs in pill or by injection) are quite effective, although side effects, such as diabetes and susceptibility to infection, are problems with long-term use.

Numerous bronchodilators, such as metaproterenol and albuterol, are marketed as aerosols. When breathed into the lungs early in an asthma attack, they can promptly relieve bronchial spasm. The medicines are available in hand-held units or in solution to be used in a nebulizer, a machine that changes liquid into mist. Some are available in pills for asthma prevention.

Preventing asthma is still the most effective therapy. Bronchodilators and steroids come in pill, liquid or aerosol forms. They can be used for prevention. Each drug and its dose (and frequency) must be tailored to a patient's needs.

Cromolyn, an anti-allergenic inhaler, is not strictly a bronchodilator but is helpful for some patients.

In my practice, I've had the best success using a combination of sustained-release theophylline, aerosolized albuterol and aerosolized steroids (Azmecort) to prevent asthma attacks. I treat acute attacks with epinephrine, intravenous theophylline and intravenous steroids, depending on the severity of the breathing problem. When patients are feeling "tight" early in an attack (or during the asthma season in the autumn), I supplement with inhaled epinephrine or metaproterenol. Some patients respond well to sustained-release albuterol tablets.

Upper respiratory infections often trigger severe asthmatic attacks in susceptible individuals. Therefore, I promptly administer antibiotics to asthmatics at the first sign of such infections.

Finally, asthmatics should probably be given pneumonia vaccine and yearly flu shots.

And I shouldn't have to say this but I will: Asthmatics must not smoke.

Flowers wins third place in photo contest

Joe Flowers who farms southwest of Ira recently won third place in a photography contest sponsored by "Texas Farmer Stockman."

Contest winners were announced in the issue of the magazine dated Feb. 15, 1989. The magazine stated under the photo of Flowers' third place winning photo that he (Flowers) described his photo as a "lookout post in a fence in southwestern Scurry County."

Flowers said he had passed that post "a hundred times" but never really noticed it until his wife, Mickey, called his attention to it.

Flowers took the picture last summer and then submitted it to the contest about three months ago. He was notified two weeks ago that his picture had won third place.

New York to pay $1 for Shoreham

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Mario Cuomo signed a new agreement to buy the $5.4 billion Shoreham nuclear plant for $1 and close it permanently, but some opponents were skeptical, saying "Shoreham continues to rise from the dead."

Under the agreement, the Long Island Lighting Co. will sell the debt-ridden, unused plant to the state, which will dismantle it. The plant, which has been subject to repeated licensing battles since its completion in 1985, had come close to bankrupting the utility.

"It is time to end this matter once and for all and turn our energies to new, productive measures for Long Island and the state," said Cuomo in announcing the agreement Tuesday.

Unlike a similar agreement last year, which was killed by state legislators, Cuomo predicted this deal would succeed because it largely bypasses the Legislature. Reaction from opponents of the plant was mixed. Long Island business leaders contend the $2.5 billion loss that Lilco plans to take on the plant during the next three years will be passed to its customers, who already pay among the nation's highest electric bills.

Jack Kulka, of the Association for a Better Long Island, said his business group was "very, very skeptical" because "Shoreham continues to rise from the dead."

But Suffolk County Executive Patrick Halpin, whose county is where the plant is located, said: "I am pleased that Long Island's longest-running soap opera has finally gotten its cancellation notice."

In December, the state Legislature refused to act on a deal negotiated in June by Cuomo with the utility that would also have had the state buy the plant for $1 and dismantle it. In that deal, Lilco would have been guaranteed 5 percent rate increases for at least three years, and possibly for a decade.

At the time, key lawmakers said the deal was too expensive for Lilco customers.

Senator: may cut state's share

AUSTIN (AP) — Opponents of pari-mutuel wagering are crying foul after a state senator said he may seek to reduce the state's take of money wagered on horse races as a way to help get the racing business running in Texas.

The sponsor of the 1986 racing law, Sen. O.H. "Ike" Harris, R-Dallas, said Tuesday that he now thinks the state's share may have to be lowered to help establish the major, Class 1 tracks in Dallas, Houston and San Antonio.

Some horsemen have complained that the state's 5 percent share of the pari-mutuel wagering pool is too high. They have urged that the state's take be reduced, with that money going to boost purses and improve the quality of horses that will race in Texas.

"I'm convinced there's a real good possibility that we will not have a Class 1 track in operation until that's done," Harris said.

Harris said he was polling other lawmakers to see if they would support such a change.

Racing opponents immediately decried the change, saying promises made during the writing of the new law and the pro gambling election campaign of 1987 already are being broken.
