Trustee suggests plan, three oppose Monday

By DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor
A Western Texas College trustee Monday told his fellow board members he believes the time has come to seriously consider a one-year phase out of the basketball and golf programs at the college.

In making his proposal, however, trustee Roy Baze met resistance from at least three other board members, to include trustee Bob Hargrove, who called the athletic programs the "vim and vitality" of the college.

As outlined by Baze, his recommendation is based on the economics of the programs, which he described as "dead expense."

"We just don't generate income from these kind of programs," he said, noting loss estimates in excess of $100,000 annually.

"If we asked the taxpayers whether they want to take out this expense or raise their taxes, I think I know the response we'd get," Baze said.

Hargrove countered, however, "If we take the athletics out, I'm afraid (the college) is going to die on the vine."

Also speaking against the idea were trustees R.C. Patton and Howard Sterling.

"If we're doing something wrong," Patton asked, "why are all the other schools in the conference keeping athletics and why is Amarillo College thinking about getting back into it?"

Amarillo College dropped its mens and womens basketball programs two years ago.

Sterling voiced his opinion by saying, "I'm for keeping basketball, period."

Baze based his proposal on the continued outlook for a declining tax base in Scurry County, noting that oil reserves, which at one time paid 95 percent of local taxes, are dwindling to the point that even a major jump in the price of oil will do little to aid Scurry County.

Two trustees from the seven-member board were absent Monday, John Fagin and John Gayle. Bill Wilson presided over the meeting as president.

As part of Monday's regular April session, all contracts for WTC personnel were renewed with the exception of two who had earlier submitted resignations.

As a result, Baze noted at the start of his discussion that his plan would involve a one-year phase out of the sports programs.

College to gain foundry

Ceramic art is new emphasis

Trustees gave a go-ahead Monday to an expanded facility for the Western Texas College art department, the erection of a "ceramic foundry structure" to be attached at the southeast corner of the Fine Arts Building.

The 30 ft. by 30 ft. area will consist of a cement slab, a roof and outside walls which will be open around the top to allow for ventilation.

The authorization Monday was for "up to $10,000" in expenditures for the structure.

The proposal for the addition was submitted by Fine Arts Division chairman John Gibson and art instructor Ty Brunson, who is hoping to expand the college's program for teaching ceramics as an art form.

Currently, ceramic pots and other forms are fired in electric kilns housed inside an enclosed classroom. The result, Brunson told the board, is the creation of toxic gases which provide a health threat to students and instructors.

Also, chemical supplies which can pose a health threat are stored in the same classroom.

The proposed "ceramic foundry structure" will see both the kilns relocated and in some cases replaced with more fuel efficient gas models—equipment in part donated by Brunson—and the more hazardous chemicals and supplies stored in the open air structure.

As proposed, welding instructor Sam Walker and his students will provide the labor and most of the expenses will involve material only.

Also Monday, the board accepted the resignations of the two staff instructors, Bill Fry, a government teacher, and Bill Murchison, journalism instructor.

Two bid items were also formally ratified after being previously approved by a consensus of the board by telephone.

These included a $5,846 estimate from Sukup Manufacturing Company of Marianna.

Child Welfare Board holds annual meeting

The annual meeting for the Scurry County Child Welfare Board was held Monday night at the Senior Citizens Center with new officers for the board elected.

Barbara Burney will continue as chairman for another year and Jessie Price will serve as vice-chairman. Laha Hataway is in charge of publicity; Cindy McAnally will serve as secretary; and Frances Denman will be treasurer.

Monday night, Burney gave the opening talks and introduced guest speakers Charlie Reynolds of the sheriff's office and Jerry Morgan, a detective sergeant with the city police department.

They presented a program on drug and alcohol abuse.

Reynolds showed two short films, one about cocaine and the other about alcohol abuse. The film noted that crack cocaine, which has been making its way out of the big city ghettos into middle America, is now reported a "problem" in some 18 states.

Reynolds and Morgan both said that no crack cocaine has been discovered in Snyder or Scurry County but there have been reports of it surfacing in Abilene and elsewhere in Taylor County.

Reynolds also said that those using crack cocaine have a 50 percent chance of becoming a

The feller on Deep Creek says, "After the Contra hearings, students are now seeking immunity before bringing home report cards."

Every college student, past and present, has used Cliff Notes as a shortcut to reading assignments. We remember one guy in the dorm who had such an extensive library of notes, that he did a good cash business near the end of the semester.

But note taking has become big-time business, and it is a controversial trend that is on the rise. A fuss is brewing about the growing use, some say abuse, of services that provide lecture notes to students.

Grade A Notes operates on the campus of Ohio State University and the firm offers students typed notes of lectures for $2 per class. The notes are taken by students hired to attend classes. A three-month subscription is available for $18.95.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The founder of the firm came up with the idea while attending UT in Austin. She said she occasionally bought notes there and said it helped her learn how to take better notes and become a better student.

Business is so good that she intends to offer the same service at 10 more universities within the next five years. Educators are divided on the subject, and some critics say widespread use will degrade a college degree.

The company's owner argues that the service is simply a study tool and is not meant as a substitute for attending classes.

Seems to us that students finding ways to beat the system is not all that new, but they're just more inventive and open than before.

Times are sure changing. Mothers should beware of "kiss it and make it better" if you don't have malpractice insurance.

Four convicted, 1 cleared in robbery

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — The government has won convictions of four Puerto Rican nationalists in a $7.1 million heist. But the militants' supporters claimed victory, saying the trial will help the island gain independence.

The four have maintained that the trial stemming from one of the country's biggest cash heists was politically motivated. They and their lawyers vowed to appeal Monday's verdicts.

Carlos Ayes Suarez, who was acquitted, said prosecutors had sought to "criminalize the pro-independence movement in our country."

But U.S. Attorney Stanley A. Twardy Jr. said the government's case was vindicated: "The defense put the system on trial and after nine days the jury came back with a verdict that was well reasoned and proved that the system work."

The government said the five defendants participated in the Sept. 12, 1983, robbery at the Wells Fargo depot in West Hartford to raise funds to finance terrorist acts for Los Macheteros, a violent group seeking Puerto Rican independence.

Key defendant Juan Segarra Palmer III was convicted of robbery, conspiracy and transportation of stolen money, but acquitted on four weapons-related charges.

Segarra's bond was revoked and he was led from the federal courtroom by marshals as his supporters sang about revolution to the tune of the Puerto Rican national anthem.

The 39-year-old Harvard graduate faces up to 165 years in prison.

Antonio Camacho Negron, 45, a car mechanic, and Roberto Maldonado Rivera, 53, an attorney, were convicted of conspiracy and transporting stolen money from Connecticut to Mexico. Camacho faces up to 15 years in prison and Maldonado face up to five years.

Norman Ramirez Talavera, 32, an artist, was convicted of conspiracy and faces up to five years in prison.

No sentencing date was set. Judge T. Emmet Clarie also revoked the bond of Camacho. After the verdicts were read, Camacho raised a clenched fist and yelled in Spanish, "The imperial power is showing how small it is."

Ayes, a 29-year-old anthropology student, was acquitted of conspiracy.

Judge authorizes county to seize property for jail camps

FORT WORTH (AP) — District Judge Michael Schattman has authorized Tarrant County officials to relieve jail overcrowding by seizing property to establish "POW-Style" jail camps that could be patrolled by the National Guard.

Schattman's order, which he described as "draconian," was in the form of an injunction that is believed to be without precedent and is an attempt to get the state to pay for housing its prisoners with the county.

The Texas Department of Corrections is under a federal court order to keep its population below capacity because of overcrowding conditions.

The TDC has refused to accept many prisoners from most Texas counties because they do not have space for them, leaving county jails filled with prisoners who have been sentenced to prison.

County officials have attempted without success to get the state to pay for housing of the prisoners who should be in the state prisons.

The order instructs Tarrant County Sheriff Don Carpenter to "requisition on the credit of the state of Texas" any public or private property needed for temporary jail compounds.

Officials say the temporary compounds would house about 1,100 felons now in the Tarrant County Jail who have been sentenced to prison.

The judge also instructed the sheriff to request that Gov. Bill Clements send National Guard troops to patrol the compounds. If the governor refuses, the judge authorized the sheriff to deputize as many guards as he needs.

It was not clear in the order how the guards would be paid, but the judge could order the state to pay their salaries.

The judge said the sheriff could set up "however many POW camps (as) are needed" to relieve jail overcrowding.

"This is Draconian," the judge said after signing the order. He also said he would appoint a court master to instruct the sheriff on how to comply with the injunction.

The injunction resulted from a civil suit filed against the county by former jail inmate Billy Wayne Markham, who claims he was raped and beaten by other prisoners and alleged that the assaults resulted from jail overcrowding.

The judge first ruled that the county jail is overcrowded according to state standards and is in violation of state jail regulations.

Officials said there are now about 2,600 inmates being held in the jail designed for 1,970 prisoners. The populations in-

Downey Jr. is really very polite

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Morton Downey Jr.'s television act may be all finger-pointing and shouting, but his behavior off the show is a shock: He's polite.

Showing little of the swagger that characterizes his syndicated talk show, Downey dined at a former lawyer for the Federal Communications Commission on Monday on government regulation of broadcasting.

The conclusion? Civilized minds may differ.

"I might like filet mignon and you might like a hot dog," Downey said at a forum celebrating the bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution. "No one can dictate good taste."

The conservative television host said he found it amusing to be taking a more liberal viewpoint than his counterpart, lawyer Bruce Fein. Fein argued that government should take a more active role in making sure television doesn't descend into bad taste.

Downey said it's dangerous for the government to decide what people should or shouldn't listen to.

Despite their disagreements, the two were quite civil during the 45-minute discussion. Fein was even kind about Downey's show.

"There's nothing indecent or obscene about being provocative, being colorful, or even about name-calling," he said.

Dear Abby

Reserved Clergyman Prefers Huggers at an Arm's Length

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I know you meant well when you said, "Everybody could use a hug once in a while," but this advice can easily get out of hand.

I am an English-born clergyman who is presently living in California. I like my ministry and I love Americans. But one of the biggest culture shocks I've had to face in your country is the phenomenon of hugging.

Total strangers will rush up and grab me as though I were a long-lost relative! Otherwise charming women will clasp me, impaling my cheeks on their flyaway diamond earrings. Even more alarming are the burly males who grip me in a bear hug from which there is no escape.

Abby, I am not a cold person, but such trespass bespeaks a false intimacy. As I had to put it to one clinging vine, "Madame, a handshake will do."

If you use this, I trust you will not disclose my name or location. Just sign me...

FORGIVE THEM THAT TRESPASS

DEAR FORGIVE: While a handshake may do for you, some are not all that eager to shake hands. One reader actually changed religions in order to escape the hand-shaking routine. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: After many years of reading your column, I finally came across a subject I feel so strongly about that I'm writing a letter to you. It was regarding the importance of washing one's hands after leaving the bathroom.

Hands are an incredible repository of germs. In fact, I recall reading that there are more germs on one's hands than on any other part of the body. That's why washing them frequently is so important.

Which brings me to the main point of my letter: Many colds are spread by shaking hands. A person with a cold sneezes into his hands, shakes hands with you, and if you touch your nose, mouth or eyes before washing your hands — bingo, you've caught his cold! Why does this archaic form of greeting still exist in most parts of the world? Actually, it began as a guard against treachery. (If you were holding someone's right hand, neither of you could go for your sword.)

I abhor shaking hands because I am susceptible to colds. I've even changed religions for this reason. I was a devout Catholic from birth, but became a Protestant when the "sign of peace" (shaking hands with the people around you) was introduced into the liturgy of the Mass. I couldn't stand to see people blowing their noses and sneezing into their hands for 40 minutes, then offering those same hands in greeting.

At work, I take a vacation day on Christmas Eve because all day long, co-workers stop by to shake your hand and say, "Merry Christmas." This, at the height of the flu season!

Abby, I am not an anti-social person, but we could all take a cue from the old-world Oriental people who bow in greeting while shaking their OWN hand! Sign me...

SHAKY IN COLLEGE POINT, N.Y.

DEAR ABBY: The poem "Present Tense," written by 14-year-old Jason Lehman, was truly a gem. It reminded me of another poem I learned a long time ago. I never did know who wrote it, or if it had a name. It goes like this:

As a rule, man is a fool
When it's hot, he wants it cool
When it's cold, he wants it hot
Always wanting what is not!

Child with fever needs a pediatrician

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My mom and dad won't tell me if my problem is fatal. I'm 12 and every morning on the bus, I get a bad headache, a fever of 102 and I can't remember what my friends are talking about. Is this weird?

DEAR READER: I doubt that your problem is fatal, but you certainly need professional attention to discover the cause of your fever.

From your brief description, I'd say that the fever is making you delirious. Once the cause of the fever is identified, you can receive treatment and return to normal. Ask your parents to make an appointment for you to see your pediatrician.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm in a dilemma. I have hemochromatosis, which requires regular phlebotomies. My health insurance does not pay for this procedure. On the other hand, various blood centers will not knowingly accept blood from a carrier, but don't test. If I continue to donate blood, will I make someone sick?

DEAR READER: Hemochromatosis is a rare disease marked by excessive build-up of iron in the body. It causes liver enlargement, skin discoloration, diabetes and heart failure. The most effective treatment is phlebotomy, the periodic removal of blood (and iron) from the system.

Hemochromatosis is a hereditary disorder due to an abnormal gene. It is not transmissible or catchable in the way an infection is. Therefore, the blood you donate is probably not going to harm a recipient. However, you should check with your local blood bank authorities.

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Insuring Your Good Health." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My severe eczema cleared up after a small tumor was removed from my thyroid gland, which was taken out also. Is this a typical reaction?

DEAR READER: No, this is not typical.

Eczema is not caused by thyroid tumors. However, growths of one kind or another can be associated with skin changes and rash. Perhaps your original skin problem was not eczema but a manifestation of the thyroid tumor.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have benign familial tremor and have had it all my life. Until two years ago I could control it by concentration. That no longer works. Gorgard helps somewhat. Is there another medication which might be more effective?

DEAR READER: Benign familial (essential) tremor is a common and harmless inconvenience that is inherited. It is marked by a shaking of the hands, head and voice that is worse during the performance of skilled acts and may be intensified by fatigue, stress and age. Sometimes caffeine, nicotine and other stimulants make the tremor more noticeable.

Three current treatments are useful in blocking the tremor: low doses of tranquilizers, primidone (Mysoline) and beta-blockers (of which Gorgard is one). Ask your doctor to adjust the dose of Gorgard or consider changing to another type of drug.

of three hearts, and North judged well to raise to four on the K-9 doubleton. The declarer, our old friend Willy Nilly, ruefully contemplated dummy. "I don't suppose there was any good way for us to reach slam," he complained. With those words he ruffed the opening diamond lead and played king and ace of hearts. When West showed out, playing the queen of spades, the pace of play slowed considerably. Finally Willy played the queen of hearts and gave up a heart to East. Maybe he would be witness to some kind of miracle, a possibility if East had been dealt A-K doubleton of spades. Not this time. East played his top two spades and continued the suit. So the defenders took a heart trick and four spades to set the contract two tricks. Willy would have been well-advised to call for his friend Careful Charlie to sit in for him as declarer. After ruffing the opening diamond lead, Charlie would simply have played a low heart to dummy's nine. That would have guaranteed his game contract even against a bad heart split. East could take the heart jack and a spade trick, but the remaining heart in dummy would stop the defense from reeling off three more spade tricks.

French's turns out mustard on big scale

SOUDERTON, Pa. (AP)—The pungent smell of yellow mustard permeates the air at the Durkee-French Foods plant in Souderton. In the parking lot you can smell the vinegar and spices blended to make the yellow mash. The 212,000 square-foot plant — the world's largest mustard-maker — produces enough French's in a year to slather more than 10 hot dogs for every American. It's a far cry from the old Philadelphia plant bought by Robert Timothy French in the 1920s to make Colman's mustard, hand-packed spices, birdseed, gravel and biscuits. French's outgrew that four-story building and moved to Souderton in 1957. French's has long been owned by Reckitt & Colman of London. In 1987, Reckitt & Colman merged its Durkee Foods subsidiary with French's Mustard to form Durkee-French Foods. Durkee is a well-known spice processor with operations in Bethlehem. The 133-employee Souderton plant, with sales of about $40 million last year, produces several varieties of mustard, including Bold 'N Spicy, Dijon and Colman's Hot English mustard, plus several private labels. But the company's most popular item is the bright yellow mustard in the plastic squeeze bottle. It fills more than 5 million of the 16-ounce bottles per year. Sales are hottest when it's hot outside — from Memorial Day to Labor Day—the time Americans most frequently feast on grilled dogs and burgers. Mustard-making at the plant — a fairly simple process of mixing and grinding ingredients — begins with train cars filled with mustard seeds. The small, round seeds are pumped into four silos, three for yellow seed and one for the brown seed used for heartier mustards. Each silo holds 160,000 pounds. The plant also uses several truckloads of vinegar a day. In a warehouse, 220-pound barrels of red pepper, onion powder and turmeric sit near sacks of Dijon mustard. The mustard seed is pumped into a spiral-shaped machine that cleans and separates it from the hulls. Large barrels hold a variety of powdered spices that workers measure into tanks along with water and vinegar. The 800-gallon mixers tumble the ingredients, which are then piped into a neighboring room. The mixed batches go to the company's "mills," which grind the seed and other ingredients into the smooth yellow paste. After more processing, the mustard is stored in large tanks before heading to the assembly lines for packaging. Dijon mustard, 5 percent of the plant's output, is made by a slightly different method. Along with a variety of spices and vinegar, white wine is added to the Dijon recipe and the seeds are processed with different machinery to create a finer texture. The finished mustard products are pumped from storage tanks to a machine that fills, caps and labels jars.

Doty's past comes back to haunt him in regional rodeos

The past hasn't come back to haunt Bob Doty too often and he hopes that trend continues when nine of his exes return to Snyder for the annual Western Texas College NIRA Rodeo.

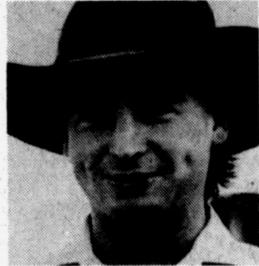

Scurry County Coliseum opens its doors to the four-day collegiate rodeo on Thursday. Shows are nightly at 8 o'clock through Saturday, with Sunday's short-go scheduled for 2 p.m.

Western's men are currently in second place in the Southwest Region standings, but that's nothing new for Coach Doty's "hands", who have advanced to the College National Finals Rodeo for eight straight years. Not new, but certainly impressive considering only the top two teams in the region qualify for the CNFR and that the Southwest Region includes four-year schools Sul Ross State University, Texas Tech University, Eastern New Mexico University and Tarleton State University, among others.

Which brings up the question of exes. Doty works with them for two years, then lets them out only to compete against them.

The group of former students includes Snyder's Adam Brewster, Wesley Henderson and Robert Frier, who all rodeo for Sul Ross State these days. Todd Danley and Cody Foster wear Tarleton vests and Scott Sharp competes for Eastern New Mexico. Former WTC women performers include Niki Moist at Sul Ross and Shelly Eldridge Tate and Mistri Davis at Easter. Davis was the all-around champion last week at the Howard College NIRA Rodeo.

WESLEY HENDERSON

ADAM BREWSTER

They will join an expected contestant list of 250, representing 15 colleges and universities in the region. The group also includes Snyder cowgirl Leslie Ward and Gail's Ralynn Key, who rodeo for Texas Tech.

Jerry Baird will announce the action. Stock contractor is Harry Vold.

Thursday night's performance will recognize a new rodeo queen. Candidates are Lorre Moser of Iowa Park and Anne Marie Blagg of Colorado City.

The rodeo will be dedicated in memory of Shawn Odom, a team roper and student at Western Texas from Cross Plains, who was killed in a March auto accident.

Tickets are $4 for adults and $3 for students. Scurry County students will be admitted free Thursday with tickets which will be distributed at the schools.

Lane to take the hill...

Lineup changes made as Tigers gear for LV

SAN ANGELO - Injuries and a tough schedule ahead have forced some lineup changes for Snyder High School as the Tigers prepare to meet Lake View at 4 p.m. here today in a District 4-4A baseball game.

The Tigers will be without outfielder Willie Garcia, who suffered an ankle injury in pregame warmups at Sweetwater last Friday. Garcia slapped a first-inning home run, but was unable to stay in the game. He is doubtful for this Saturday's game with Fort Stockton, but could be ready when the Tigers entertain Pecos on April 18.

Coach Albert Lewis noted that short stop Bert Otto, who also injured an ankle in the game with Sweetwater, is expected to start this afternoon. If he cannot play, Randy Morris will move over to short stop and Gilbert Hernandez will come in at third base.

The schedule - Fort Stockton on Saturday, followed by Pecos on April 18 and Andrews on the 21st - has also led Coach Lewis to start Tommy Lane on the mound today. Lane is a hard-throwing, talented pitcher who lacks the varsity experience of regulars Lee Fletcher and Kevin Dollins. Lewis hopes to take advantage of what has been a mediocre Lake View team by using Lane and Fletcher and Dollins, if necessary, Dollins will come in in relief.

Today's tentative lineup then calls for Toby Goodwin to lead off and bat for right fielder Simon Gutierrez, followed by Morris at third, Tracy Odom at catcher, Bart Morton at first base, Otto at short stop, Lane on the hill, Bert Merritt at center field, Israel

Snyder takes a three-game winning streak into the contest. The Tigers are 11-6 overall and 3-2 in district play. Lake View is 3-10-1 for the season and 1-4 in the 4-4A.

In other 4-4A games today, Pecos (9-6, 4-1) entertains Monahans (8-6, 2-3), Fort Stockton (8-5, 4-1) hosts Andrews (10-5, 3-2) and Big Spring (8-8, 3-2) treks to Sweetwater (3-9, 0-5).

Michigan names Fisher

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) - America's favorite nobody is the Michigan somebody now.

Steve Fisher, a little-known assistant who won the NCAA basketball championship one week earlier, won the Wolverines coaching job Monday on a permanent basis.

"I went from someone who very few people knew - and even those who knew me, very few knew me well - to one who everybody in America felt they knew," Fisher said. "For that, I'm tremendously indebted to our

Tiger underclassmen stop Lake View teams

Bobby Clinkinbeard slapped four hits for the Cats while Conger and Crawford hit two singles and a double each. Morris had a double and a single and Daniel Espinosa, Chad Fox and King added a single apiece.

Plaintiffs seeking class certification

PAMPA, Texas (AP) — Ted Rogers, who spent 20 years working at Hoechst Celanese's chemical plant here, says his former employer never told him the chemicals he sometimes waded in were harmful.

In fact, one of those chemicals was the carcinogen benzene, used as a solvent in some of the chemical processes at the plant, which produces acetic acid and other chemicals.

"I've had lots of respiratory problems," said Rogers, 47, who lost his job at the plant last fall.

Shortly after losing his job, he became one of more than 250 people to join a suit against Hoechst Celanese alleging negligence in a pair of explosions that rocked the plant in Nov. 1987 and resulted in three deaths.

Attorneys for the plaintiffs will ask a state district judge in Houston today to certify the plaintiffs as a class in an amended suit that charges that Hoechst Celanese has contaminated the air and water with such carcinogens as benzene, asbestos and chromium chemicals.

Celanese officials have denied the charges, saying that only trace amounts of benzene have been found in isolated areas underneath the surface of its chemical plant.

Plaintiffs' attorney Tom Upchurch of Amarillo charges that benzene from the plant has leaked into the Ogallala Aquifer, huge underground reservoir that supplies water to the Panhandle and extends northward through the Farm Belt.

"This will be a trial of a company that has systematically failed to warn any employees or any citizens in the area that they have been putting a very toxic contaminant ... into the air," Upchurch told a meeting of about 100 of the plaintiffs Monday night.

The plaintiffs gathered to hear experts tell about possible dangers posed by chemicals used at the Pampa plant, which produces acetic acid.

Upchurch said medical records of some plaintiffs have shown a high incidence of Downs' syndrome, cancer, miscarriages and respiratory problems.

Mike Gardner, a 31-year-old former conductor for Santa Fe Railroad, said he has undergone three years of chemotherapy for acute leukemia that he believes was caused by his constant exposure to hazardous chemicals while working as a rail conductor at the Celanese station.

"When we switched at Celanese we got totally soaked with chemicals, sprayed with chemicals," he said. "Now I have no feeling in my fingers and no feeling in my feet."

Gardner is one of dozens of railroad workers who are participating in the suit, along with 25 current Celanese employees, residents of Pampa and the nearby community of Kingsmill. Their attorneys, who are seeking $500 million in actual damages plus punitive damages, allege that a pair of explosions in the plant's butane liquid phase oxidation system released more harmful chemicals into the air and water.

No benzene has been used at the plant for more than a year, according to Celanese officials. Studies done by the Texas Water Commission in 1987 showed only small amounts of benzene in a small area directly below the plant.

Bill Colbert, TWC spokesman, has said that there is no evidence to support the theory that a trace of benzene in the aquifer would mean the entire water supply was polluted.

However, Gale Billings, a chemical pollution cleanup expert from Albuquerque, N.M., who has been brought in as an expert witness in the case, told plaintiffs that based on his examination of records kept by Celanese, "there are and has been toxic, hazardous and cancer-producing chemicals at the site and these have in some concentration been released into the air."

He said he would need further investigation to determine whether the chemicals have contaminated water wells in Pampa or Kingsmill.

Peoria fire kills nine

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Fire raced through a house early today, killing at least nine people and injuring three, authorities said.

Three people were pronounced dead at the scene, and six were pronounced dead at two hospitals, said Beverly Todd, nursing supervisor at St. Francis Medical Center. Two of the injured were reported in serious condition.

The 2:30 a.m. blaze at the two-story wood-frame home began on the first floor, but the cause was not immediately known, said Assistant Fire Chief Sam Sisk.

"Our primary concern was rescue, and the house was pretty well involved when we got there," he said.

The victims' identities were not immediately released. Ms. Todd said that judging from their names, they may have been from the same family.

Panel finds gift-reporting violations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ethics Committee has concluded that Speaker Jim Wright probably violated the chamber's rules by failing to report benefits from a Texas business partner as gifts.

A source familiar with the investigation said late Monday that the committee has found "reason to believe" that Wright violated the gift-reporting rules on benefits given to him and his wife by the business associate in Fort Worth.

The source, who spoke on condition of anonymity, declined to say how many instances of failure to report gifts had been identified by the panel.

But the number could easily be in the dozens, because several benefits Wright received continued over a period of years and would have had to be reported on each year's financial disclosure form. Among the benefits under scrutiny are his virtually free use of a condominium in Texas, an $18,000 salary for his wife, Betty, and use of a 1979 Cadillac.

CBS News reported Monday that the committee had found 30 instances of possible rules violations by Wright.

"We think it's an absurd report," said Mark Johnson, Wright's press secretary. "We have absolutely no information along those lines."

The committee, which resumes deliberations Tuesday in what is expected to be its final week before issuing a report, is engaged in a process not unlike that of a grand jury.

Finding "reason to believe" that rules have been violated would be equivalent to an indictment of Wright. The speaker would then have a chance to defend himself in a disciplinary hearing, the equivalent of a trial.

Wright reported his wife's employment with Fort Worth developer George Mallick on his financial disclosure forms as salary for her work. But the ethics panel's outside counsel, Richard Phelan, argued that the salary amounted to a gift because Mrs. Wright did little work in exchange for it.

Wright, Mallick and their wives jointly formed a small investment company called "Mallightco" and used it to make several investments. Mrs. Wright first drew her salary directly from Mallick's development company and then from the partnership between 1981 and 1984.

Wright made no mention on the disclosure forms of the car or the condominium, which he now contends were simply fringe benefits from Mrs. Wright's employment.

Remaining to be resolved are a number of more serious charges against Wright, including whether Mallick had "direct interest in legislation" before Congress. That would make any gift worth more than $100 improper under House rules.

Also remaining to be decided is whether Wright used his book, "Reflections of a Public Man," as a device to evade limits on outside income. In several instances the speaker made bulk sales of the book to interest groups in lieu of accepting speaking fees.

Honoraria for speeches are limited under the rules, but book royalties are not.

The committee is struggling with the question of whether Wright, in the committee's parlance, "recharacterized" money that was intended as a speaking fee into book income — or whether the book sales constitute an entirely separate and permissible business deal.

The ethics panel since last June has been conducting what it terms a "preliminary inquiry" and has spent upwards of $1 million on investigating Wright's dealings over the past four decades.

If it finds reason to believe rules were violated in any of the dozens of instances cited by its outside counsel, the panel would vote to include them in a statement of alleged violation.

Wright would have up to 21 days to respond. Then the committee would vote on whether to proceed to a disciplinary hearing.

If the committee concludes that the allegations have been proven, it can recommend that the full House impose punishment ranging from a reprimand or denial of privileges to expulsion.

If the committee finds the violations to be only "technical," it may recommend no punishment. Wright, in recent weeks, has argued that any violations he may have committed would fall into that category.

FAA might fine Hermann hospital for safety violations

HOUSTON (AP) — Hermann Hospital may be fined for safety violations in the operation of its Life Flight program in the wake of a helicopter crash that seriously injured three people, the Federal Aviation Administration says.

Gerrie Cook, a spokeswoman for the FAA regional office in Fort Worth, said Monday the possible civil penalties stem from findings of non-compliance with Federal Aviation Regulations and FAA guidelines and policies cited in a March 1988 National Aviation Safety Inspection Program (NASIP) report.

Three people were seriously injured Sunday morning when a Hermann Hospital Life Flight helicopter plummeted 100 feet after lifting off from a hospital parking lot.

The inspection report, obtained by the Houston Chronicle, lists more than 50 instances of non-compliance, ranging from failure to keep proper records to not making required aircraft inspections.

The inspection by a seven-man team composed of FAA officials from across the nation took 10 days last March.

A hospital spokeswoman said hospital officials understand that they had fully responded to each instance of non-compliance.

"We have no response, because we have not heard anything about this (the possibility of civil penalties)," said Mary Stark-Love.

Roger Knight, manager of the flight standards division for the FAA's southwest region, also confirmed that the allegations against Hermann Hospital remain active.

"The findings (of the NASIP inspection) are under investigation by the agency and while they are in litigation we can't comment on them," Knight said.

Senate Finance Committee approves proposed budget

AUSTIN (AP) — Although the House and Senate budget proposals differ widely in funding critical areas, the leader of the Senate Finance Committee says he believes budget writers will be able to reach an agreement.

On Monday, the Senate Finance Committee formally approved a proposed $46.75 billion spending plan for the 1990-91 biennium.

The action follows Friday's adoption by the House Appropriations Committee of an approximately $46.9 billion plan.

The spending proposals are similar in cost — roughly 10 percent more than current spending — but they have different ways of funding state services, such as prisons, education, and health and human services.

But Senate Finance chairman Kent Caperton, D-Bryan, said, "It sounds like we're going to be able to reconcile our differences. I know we will."

Appropriations Committee chairman Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, said his panel's proposal can be funded without a tax increase, while Senate budget writers say their plan requires an increase in the cigarette tax.

The House panel's proposal appropriates about $108 million for the construction of about 4,500 prison beds, in addition to another 5,000 beds funded through bonds.

The Senate committee's proposal includes only prison construction financed through bonds.

House budget writers appropriated $500 million to try to equalize public school funding; the Senate, $400 million.

In higher education, the Senate's $743 million increase would boost faculty pay about 7 percent for each year of the two-year budget.

The House's higher education increase of $650 million would increase faculty pay by 3.4 percent for the first year of the budget period. It also includes a $115-per-month pay increase for higher education staff.

The Senate panel appropriated $350 million for a general state employee pay raise, but senators have yet to decide how to allocate that raise. The House's $300 million increase, includes a pay raise to help offset insurance increases.

The proposed Senate bill would increase funding to health and human service agencies by nearly $1 billion, while the House bill increases it about $670 million, according to preliminary figures.

Caperton says the Senate bill will require a 7-cent per package increase in the cigarette tax, even though state Comptroller Bob Bullock has indicated that because of the improving state economy, more tax dollars will be forthcoming.

Caperton said senators have already taken into account the promise of more revenue, and still need the cigarette tax increase.

"We've been counting on that for a long time. He (Bullock) has been pretty emphatic early on that there will be more there," Caperton said.

Both the Senate and House will vote on their respective committee reports and if approved a conference committee will be selected to negotiate the differences. Caperton said the full Senate will take up the Finance Committee's bill this week, while House members are expected to vote on their proposal within two weeks.

Cut your own taxes and save

Be safe: Take a final look at your return

By George W. Smith, CPA

(12th of 14 parts)

Filling out your 1988 Form 1040 has taken considerable effort on your part. You have had to gather your canceled checks and other records. You have determined which expenses qualified as tax deductions, credits or adjustments to income. In short, you have worked too hard to let a simple error delay the processing of your return, especially if you have a refund coming.

So, before you mail your 1040, take a minute to go through this checklist. Surprisingly, some of the simplest errors, such as not signing your return, are also the most common, according to the Treasury Department. Did you know that an unsigned income tax return is considered incomplete and is in the same category as not filing a tax return at all?

- Did you sign your return?
- Did your spouse also sign if you are married filing jointly?
- Did you attach all W-2 forms? You must attach a W-2 from each employer you worked for during 1988. If married filing jointly and your spouse works, you must attach his or her W-2s as well.
- Did you enclose a signed check or money order if you owe tax?
- Did you write your Social Security number on the check?
- Is your address correct? Change any errors on the Internal Revenue Service address label to keep your record in order.
- Is your Social Security number entered correctly on the form?
- Did you check the right filing status box?
- Did you check the right number of boxes for exemptions?
- Did you take a $1,950 deduction for each exemption?
- Double-check that you looked up the right tax in the tax table.
- Did you check your math?
- Did you attach all the necessary schedules to your return?
- Did you make sure all the entries are on the correct line?
- Have you checked your deductions to make sure you have claimed all you are entitled to?

Review the following section as a last-minute memory jogger for any deductions you may have overlooked.

- Medical — The 7.5 percent level for medical expenses is a difficult hurdle to clear for many taxpayers. Check your figures carefully. Remember your transportation expenses (9 cents per mile) when you have a significant list of doctor and dentist bills. Unless you live next door to their offices, you must have incurred some form of transportation expense.

- Interest — Don't forget to add in all those extra interest charges that appear on your department-store statements or credit-card statements at the end of the year. Be sure you deducted only 40 percent of these charges.

- Contributions — For contributions of items other than cash, be sure to attach an explanation to your return. An appraisal made when the merchandise was picked up is the best verification for this deduction.

- Casualty or theft losses — You may deduct losses to the extent their total exceeds 10 percent of your adjusted gross income. You may include any loss for which you were not reimbursed by an insurance company. Make sure you first deduct $100 per loss.

There are so many valuable opportunities miscellaneous deductions that you should carefully review them.

Generally, most miscellaneous itemized deductions are deductible only to the extent they are income- or business-related. This is only a partial list. Unfortunately, the total of these deductions is limited to the excess exceeding 2 percent of your adjusted gross income.

- Appraisal fees for donated property;
- Legal fees for contesting estate, gift, property and other taxes;
- Clerical help and office rent in caring for investments;
- Custodial fees in connection with property held for producing income;
- Cost of "Cut Your Own Taxes and Save" and other tax guides and periodicals;
- Damages paid to former employer for breach of employment contract;
- Dues to professional societies;
- Employment agency fees;
- Employment-related education;
- Fees to collect interest and dividends;
- Hobby expenses, but generally no more than hobby income;
- Investment counsel fees;
- Job-hunting expenses;

- Laboratory breakage fees;
- Malpractice insurance premiums;
- Medical examinations required by employer;
- Part of home used regularly and exclusively in work;
- Professional licenses;
- Research expenses of a college professor;
- Resume expense;
- Safe deposit box rental;
- Safety shoes;
- Secretarial convention;
- Small tools and supplies used in your work;

- Subscriptions to professional journals and trade magazines related to work;
- Tax preparation fees;
- Trade association dues;
- Transportation expense between offices;
- Union dues, initiation fees;
- Work clothes and uniforms not adaptable to general street wear.

Now that you have gone through this final checklist, your return should be in good shape. Make a copy of the return for your records (it will be helpful in getting started on next year's return), apply the proper postage, give yourself a pat on the back, and mail no later than Monday, April 17. April 15 is a Saturday in 1989, which extends the due date to April 17.

If you cannot complete your return on time, file Form 4868, Application for Automatic Extension of Time to File U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, and receive an automatic four-month extension.

The automatic extension does not extend time for paying your tax liability. Form 4868 must be filed on or before April 17.

Retain a copy of your return for at least three years. If the IRS notifies you of an error, you will then be able to check your return to see if, indeed, the IRS is correct.

Rough weather churns oil slick

VALDEZ, Alaska (AP) — Bad weather turned into good news for the effort to clean up the nation's worst oil spill as a rough sea became a churning cauldron that helped break up part of the Exxon Valdez slick.

Exxon, meanwhile, said it will reimburse the government for the costs of military assistance ordered by President Bush but would write off the charges from taxes.

"In the normal course of things, cost of doing business is deducted from your income tax and that is how it is expressed to customers," said Don Cornett, the company's top Alaska executive.

The spill has killed thousands of birds and animals, and gasoline prices in the United States have surged in the wake of the disaster.

U.S. Transportation Secretary Samuel Skinner warned oil companies against using the spill as an excuse to increase prices.

"If they're doing it, they're making a big mistake," he told reporters in Cincinnati. "I hope the oil industry isn't foolish enough — and I don't think they

Ark. for grain storage tanks and "handlers" to be used at the college farm.

Also accepted was a bid from McKinley Plumbing of Snyder to install this summer new hot water pipe serving the student center and cafeteria.

The cost estimate was set at $11,993 with the qualification the work could be "as low as $9,100."

Contracts were approved also for 64 professional personnel at WTC. College President Dr. Harry Krenek noted this number included all staffers with the exception of the two resignations.

Athletic debate sparked at WTC

athletics came as trustees were considering a "direction" for the college as part of upcoming budget planning sessions expected in late spring and early summer.

As part of that discussion, several members of the board, to include Baze, voiced support for some type of salary increase for college staffers next year.

"We can't continue this pattern," Baze had commented earlier, a reference to staff salaries being frozen the past few years with the exception of "merit" pay raises last year.

Hargrove had voiced support for salary adjustments also, saying, "I think it's time to make up (salary losses) to the staff."

Both were referring to information provided to them Monday which indicated salaries at the college had not kept pace with inflation over the past few years and that WTC salary levels are now considered at the bottom of Texas community colleges.

The information, gather by the College Welfare Committee, indicated that inflation levels from 1986-89 had increased the cost of living some 15 percent. During this period, it was noted, the only across-the-board pay adjustment at the college was a $600 annual raise granted in 1987-88.

That same year, the employee's hospitalization insurance premium was increased $50 monthly, equaling an offsetting expense of $600 annually.

The faculty report indicated the state's average community college salary for faculty is $30,739. At WTC, this average salary is $25,372.

Also noted was that of 49 college districts in Texas, WTC now ranks 47th in pay. In 1982-83, WTC ranked 26th on this list.

In addition, last budget year, other West Texas community colleges averaged an approximate 4 percent salary increase.

At the end of the discussion, the board directed WTC President Dr. Harry Krenek to move forward with plans for a "flat" budget, one which would hold the line on spending, but with pay incentives built in to include, first, merit pay raises and, secondly, cost of living pay adjustments.

Couple in San Antonio still mourn children slain in '88

SAN ANTONIO — The parents of four siblings brutally slain a year ago say a newborn baby is helping them cope with the loss of their other children.

Ernest and Becky Mann believe the souls of their murdered children were rolled into one package and delivered to them last December in the form of a baby girl, Samantha Lee Ann.

"That's not just one child. That's five of them," Ernest Mann said. "That baby there is what saved us."

The couple said the impending anniversary of the slayings has made them relive the entire events.

"Physically, we're not in bad shape," Mann said. "Emotionally, it's been real bad at times. As the approaching month came up, it brought it all back. It has changed both our lives. The loneliness and emptiness has set in."

His wife agreed.

"It was like living in darkness and she brought a little bit of light," Mrs. Mann told the San Antonio Light.

It was early on April 15, 1988, that Jennifer Lee, 19; Shannon Lee, 17; Martha Ann, 15; and Ernest Jr., 11, were attacked in their trailer home as they slept.

Shannon Mann made a desperate call to the 911 emergency service and reported that her boyfriend was attacking them and had already killed one of her sisters.

Blows inflicted on the siblings with steak knives were so intense that the blades broke off in their bodies, autopsies showed.

Shannon Mann's former boyfriend, Leo Narvaiz Jr., 19, was arrested later that morning and in November was convicted of capital murder and sentenced to death by injection.

He said in a confession that he was high on cocaine and that he attacked the siblings in self-defense.

But prosecutors, who played the 911 tape in court and in which Shannon Mann pleaded for her life, charged that Narvaiz attacked them because Shannon Mann quit dating him.

Mrs. Mann said she still cannot comprehend the slayings.

"I just keep waiting for them to come back home, like they went away on a trip," she said.

Mann, who was asked by prosecutors not to read news accounts of the trial, recalled how he exploded after reading about the brutal way in which his children were killed.

His anger led him to steal garden and lawn equipment in an unsuccessful attempt to get into jail to get near Narvaiz, who had been moved to the Texas Department of Corrections even before Mann was arrested.

Mrs. Mann said she believed the death sentence was not enough for Narvaiz.

"He would have to die four times," she said. "The only thing that helps us is that he is being mentally tortured. He doesn't know when he's going to die."

addict after using the drug just one time.

The second short film dealt with alcohol abuse. Several facts reported were:

- Americans have a 50 percent chance of being involved in an alcohol-related accident in their lifetime.
- 700,000 teenagers have a drinking problem in the U.S.
- Over one million have been injured or crippled in alcohol-related accidents in the U.S.
- Persons aged 16-24 cause 44 percent of alcohol related accidents.
- Drunk drivers cause more deaths and destruction of property than other crimes.
- 250,000 persons in the last 10 years have died in alcohol-related accidents.
- Every 23 minutes someone dies in an alcohol-related accident.
- Sixty-seven percent of all child abuse cases are alcohol-related.
- Reynolds said that today alcohol is the number one drug problem and that some 18,000,000 million people are either alcoholics or problem drinkers. But he said it will be hard to get tougher laws passed since social drinking is considered acceptable and many of our legislators are social drinkers.
- Reynolds also pointed out that liquor ads are geared toward young people.
- Following their presentation, Reynolds and Morgan fielded questions from the audience.

Takeshita admits taking $1 million; will not resign

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita told parliament today that he received $1 million from the company at the center of a highly damaging bribery scandal, but he rejected opposition demands that he resign.

Takeshita's statement was a reversal of earlier comments that he had not received money from Recruit Co., an information and publishing conglomerate.

"I am feeling my political and moral responsibilities very strongly," he told parliament's budget committee. "I think it is important to settle this matter legally and politically as soon as possible."

A series of recent news reports linking Takeshita to Recruit had prompted the prime minister to explain his role in the widening scandal.

Disease-killing protein found

DALLAS (AP) — A biochemist says he has discovered a human protein that has the potential to kill cancer and the HIV virus and has increased its intensity tenfold in laboratory tests.

The naturally occurring lytic peptide has been used to kill cancerous tumors in mice and diseased cells infected with bacteria, viruses and parasites.

Jesse Jaynes, speaking at the 197th meeting of the American Chemical Society, said Monday.

Jaynes also said he and a research team have evidence that the natural peptide kills certain types of cancer cells and the viruses that cause malaria and the human immuno deficiency virus, or HIV, which can lead to AIDS.

"We can kill the human cells that are infected by these agents and then kill the agents themselves," he said.

Jaynes of Louisiana State University said he made the discovery after developing several synthetic compounds that effectively punch holes in cell membranes.

"We've (now) found something in human beings that we can synthesize in a machine," Jaynes said before his presentation. "I've researched quite a long time before I found this thing."

Jaynes said he focused on tiny "signal peptides."

Signal peptides are part of a thread-like protein combination. They are much smaller than other parts of the combination and open up the cell so that other larger proteins can enter.

Jaynes found a signal peptide known as a Beta Fibrinogen and reproduced the formula in a synthesizer machine.

After Jaynes reproduced the chemical formula in a synthesizer machine, a researcher at LSU tested it in mice against cancerous tumors and in test tubes against diseased cells.

The exciting part of the discovery, according to Jaynes, is that the peptide is naturally occurring in humans so it likely will face fewer medical hurdles than would a similar synthesized substance, which could take up to 10 years to reach the marketplace.

Through Helic International Corp. of Baton Rouge, La., the university has applied for patents on Jaynes' lytic peptide work.

Although Beta Fibrinogen is naturally occurring in humans and cannot be patented, its use can be, Jaynes said.

Jaynes theorizes the peptide was more prevalent in ancient man.

"These similar types of things have been found in very primitive organisms," he said.

Perhaps some humans still retain more of it in their bodies, making them more able to fight off particular diseases, he added.

Woman gets rammed & robbed

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Police today circulated pictures of a man they believe may be involved in seven cases in which motorists were robbed by a man who intentionally rammed their vehicle.

In the latest case, police said Monday, a 20-year-old Kaufman County woman was beaten and robbed by a man who bit her on the hand and stole more than $500 in cash and jewelry.

The woman told police she was driving on the Lyndon B. Johnson Freeway Sunday night when a truck pulled over and bumped into her car. When she pulled off the road and turned on her emergency lights, the man approached the car and she spoke to him through a partially open window.

Your Birthday

April 12, 1989

In the year ahead it looks like you will target several major objectives. Although each may not be attained, you are still likely to do well with the one that offers the greatest benefits.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you are overly protective or too restrictive of those in your charge today, your measures will not be understood or well received. Ruling with tight reigns could create rebellion in the ranks. Aries, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Bring it out into the open today if someone you care about has done something that has hurt you. There's a chance the offender might be completely unaware of the infraction.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Continue to exercise your very best judgment in matters that are meaningful to you financially. This is a sensitive area where mishaps could occur.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Strive to be diplomatic and tolerant in any dealings you have with the boss today. Although the boss may be wrong, this is the person who signs the paycheck, not you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today you might secretly resent having to do something for another who you'll feel is making unreasonable requests of you. Don't make an issue of it if this person has helped you in the past.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A friend of yours who likes to keep confidential might get angry at you today if you ask too many prying questions. Subdue your curiosity.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You might not be in too strong a position today when it comes to negotiating agreements. Don't impulsively say yes to something without thinking it through just to be nice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It might be wise today to temporarily shelve tasks or assignments you don't enjoy doing. When your mood changes you'll be far more effective doing the same job.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Envy or jealousy mustn't be permitted to gain the upper hand today if someone you love seems to be paying more attention to another than to you. Keep your emotions in check.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Minor differences between you and your mate could turn into something rather serious today if they are mishandled. Don't be the one who starts to rev up the mean machine.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today if you are required to be of service to another, don't do it in a way that will let the recipient know your heart isn't in it. Your resentment will evoke resentment.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It might not produce the results for which you hope if you try to appease someone you've angered in material ways. A sincere, simple apology will be far more effective.
