Mrs. J. D. Black, mother of Mrs. A. M. Limmer, left last Saturday for Lampasas after a three weeks visit in Stanton. She was accompanied to Sweetwater by Mr. and Mrs. Limmer.

SNOOTER NOSE
THE CODES submitted by the various industries seem to be productive of much good, but before complete peace of mind can reign, the gangsters will have to submit theirs. It will be worth something to have the assurance that a person will be likely to be black-jacked or held up only during a five day week eight hours per day.

The trouble the conductor of this column finds in the code that governs the operation of this print shop is that our "40-hour week" leaves too much time to keep the good wife in good humor that she will not mention our mowing the lawn or hoeing in the flower bed. It is hoped the NRA will not effect her present code of doing all the grooming work about the yard.

If you are poked in the ribs with a gun and requested to hand over your wallet explain to the high-jacker if he is working within the 8-hour limit, all well and good but if not the NRA will get him.

Following the request made by a petition signed by ten per cent of the qualified voters of Martin county, the commissioners' court has called the local option election to be held on August 26, along with the state election on 3.2 per cent beer and three other amendments. This department has been informed that thirty years ago Martin county held a local option election and it went dry by a good vote. The vote cast on that date will determine whether or not 3.2 beer will be legally sold in the county.

There are two opinions prevalent as to the outcome of the beer vote in this county. One is that the county will remain in the dry column and the other, that the county will go wet. Snooter will reserve his prediction until the votes on the proposition have been counted.

One thing can be said of the proponents of 3.2 beer for the county and that is they have saved the county from footing the expense of holding another election in case the State should go wet. The special election on the four amendments coming anyway, in order to be on the safe side and save the tax payers of the county further expense, they petitioned the commissioners to call the election.

THERE in one more week remaining for the voter to make up his mind how is going to vote on the election. In Martin county the voter amendments and in the local option will be confronted with three tickets. First, the four amendments to the constitution; second, the ticket carrying two candidates for Representative of the 88th district; third, the local option ballot. The voter to handle his job correctly will have to watch his "p's" and "q's".

The very important measure to be voted on is the amendment carrying a bond issue of $20,000,000. Failure to vote this amendment means that Texas will be wiped off the list to receive Federal aid to care for the needy. By all means VOTE for this bond issue.

PARENTS GUESTS DAUGHTER AT BAYLOR UNIVERSITY

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Boyd, left Monday afternoon for Waco to attend the exercises of the closing of the summer term at Baylor University. Their daughter, Miss Lela Boyd, will receive her Master's degree at this time having finished with honors.

Miss Boyd as been elected to teach Spanish in the Big Lake high school. She formerly taught at Honda, and this position is an advancement for the Big Lake school system, is one of the best in the State, paying salaries 12 months in the year and that in advance.

Roy Hornsby of Midland was the guest Sunday of Woodrow Maggart. They were school friends at John Tarlton.

Home Owners' Loan Corporation

County Attorney Bob Hamilton, has been appointed attorney for the Home Owners Loan Corporation, and W. A. Kaderli, appraiser.

The corporation is authorized to provided respectively in Sections (d), (e) and (f) of the law, as follows: make loans of three different types as

Section (d): The corporation is authorized "(1) to acquire in exchange for bonds issued by it, home mortgages and other obligations and liens secured by real estate (including the interest of the vendor under a purchase-money mortgage or contract) recorded or filed in the proper office or executed prior to the date of the enactment of this Act (June 13, 1933) change, to make advances in cash to "(2) in connection with any such exchange to make advances in cash to pay taxes and assessments on the real estate, to provide for necessary maintenance and make necessary repairs, to meet the incidental expenses of the transaction, and to pay such amounts not to exceed $50 to the holder of the mortgage, obligation, or lien acquired as may be the difference between the face value of the bonds exchanged, and the debt to be taken over." "(3) The face value of the bonds so exchanged plus accrued interest thereon and the cash so advanced shall not exceed in any case $14,000, or 80 per centum of the value of the real estate as determined by an appraisal made by the corporation, whichever is the smaller."

Section (e): "The corporation is further authorized . . . to make loans in cash subject to the same limitations and for the same purposes for which cash advances may be under subsection (d) of this section, in cases where the property is not otherwise encumbered; but no such loan shall exceed 50 per centum of the value of the property securing the same as determined upon an appraisal made by the corporation. Each such loan shall be secured by a duly recorded home mortgage."

Loans to be made under both sections (d) and (e) will bear interest at the rate of 5% per annum.

Section (f): "The corporation is further authorized . . . in any case in which the holder of a home mortgage or other obligation or lien eligible for exchange under subsection (d) does not accept the bonds of the corporation in exchange as provided in such subsection and in which the corporation finds that the home owner cannot obtain a loan from ordinary lending agencies, to make cash advances to such home owner in an amount not to exceed 40 per centum of the value of the property for the purposes specified in such subsection (d). Each such loan shall be secured by a duly recorded home mortgage and shall bear interest at the rate of 6% per annum."

YOUNG RANCHMAN WEDS

Friends in Stanton were notified Monday of the marriage at Carlsbad, New Mexico, Saturday of Son Powell of the "69" ranch and Miss Frankie Bolin of Colorado.

Elmer Lay (Sep) Powell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lay Powell of Colorado, a pioneer West Texas family, and ranches twenty miles south of Stanton.

Miss Bolin is manager of the Western Union in Colorado, and is an Ennis girl.

The couple will visit in Ennis and Kaufman after which they will return to make their home on the ranch.

STANTON SAND BELTERS LOSE TO SWEETWATER 32-8

Stanton's golf team put up a good fight but went down to superior golf on the local grounds Sunday.

Haynes 75, Harding and King's 77 each, Glaser and C. Burnam 79 each, were not good enough to match a 69, 71, or a pair of 72's and a 78 that were shot at them just like that.

Clyde Southworth came in with a 69 to set up a new course record here.

Sweetwater's first flight shot a 66 for the low ball. The second flight a 68 and the third flight a 67.

This game just about wins the championship for them, but we can say to the rest of the League that we gave them all we had but could not match this kind of golf.

WEDDING ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Barman announce the marriage of their daughter, Vera, to Jim McCoy, Sunday, February 12, at the Baptist parsonage in Big Spring. Rev. Smith, pastor of the First Baptist, officiating.

This came as a surprise to friends in Stanton but since the news became known, the bride has been the recipient of several lovely parties and showers.

Vera has been reared in Stanton, daughter of one of the finest families in Martin county, and has many friends to wish her well.

Mr. McCoy's parents live at Rule, but he has been in Stanton at various times to make his home and he is also well liked.

The young couple will make their home at Paducah, Texas, where Mr. McCoy is employed by an oil company. Mrs. McCoy is leaving this Friday morning for Rule, where Mr. McCoy will meet her and they will proceed to their new home.

The Stanton Reporter feels like Vera and Jim and join their many friends in Stanton in wishing them all the good things of life.

Mrs. Ingram of Patman came in Sunday to be with her sister, Mrs. Luke Cathey, who is very ill.

UNDERGOES MAJOR OPERATION

Mrs. A. W. Keisling, underwent a major operation at the Big Spring hospital last week. She is reported as getting along nicely.

STANTON PUBLIC SCHOOLS TO OPEN SEPTEMBER 4TH.

At a recent regular meeting of the Stanton Board of Education, it was decided to open the public schools on Monday, September 4.

With the recent splendid apportionment by the State Board of Education along with the generous aid that will be granted in the matter of transportation the schools will be in somewhat better condition than has been anticipated.

All salaries have been reduced to the minimum and every possible retrenchment in the matter of expenditures has apparently been made. So with just reasonable support from the local citizens it will be possible to have a full nine months school term.

Let every student be present at the opening day and continue to be present and punctual and a successful school year will be in store for you.

W. C. HOUSTON, Secretary

SERIOUSLY BURNED BY EXPLOSION OF GASOLINE

Doyle Stroud, an employee of the Morgan Construction Co., and working on the highway west of town Tuesday, was painfully burned by the explosion of gasoline which he was using. The injuries are on his face, and both hands and arms, very painful but not thought serious. The worst burns are on his face. He is able to come to town for treatment but unable to return to work.

Revival Begins Sunday At Methodist Church

Next Sunday morning will be the beginning of our revival. This meeting will be conducted by the Methodist church, the pastor doing the preaching, but we are inviting and expecting all the town and community to cooperate with us. We hope for the meeting to be of help to all the people. We want you to come and sing, pray, work, and do whatever you think will help the meeting. We especially invite all who sing to join us and help make the singing a good part of the services.

Services will be at 10 A. M., and 8 P. M. We are hoping to have the largest attendance at Sunday school we have had this year. Won't you be one to help? Bring some one with you.

Sunday school begins at 9:45. We will look for you.

W. B. VAUGHN, Pastor.

REVIVAL AT LENORAH CLOSED

The revival held at Lenorah by the Baptist and Methodist churches was a great success. The preaching was done by Rev. W. S. Garnett and Rev. W. B. Vaughn.

Large crowds came to all the services. People of other churches came and took part in the meeting. The whole community was blessed and we will never know just how much good was done.

There were twenty-three added to the churches.

FRIENDSHIP CLASS PARTY WITH THE HAMILTONS

Mrs. H. Hamilton and Mrs. Morgan Hall, were joint hostesses for the Friendship class party Monday night at the home of Mrs. Hamilton.

The guests were welcomed and seated on the lighted lawn and then the fun began. The party took the form of a "Stunt Party" and all entered into the spirit of the thing. There was a large crowd present, about an even number of men and women as some of the wives left their husbands at home and husbands came without wives.

This class is one of the largest in the Methodist Sunday school and this year has furnished eight teachers for other classes and soon to be called on to furnish some more. Sam Stamps is president and Mrs. Nobby Hamilton the teacher. The election of officers will occur soon at which time the class will have a chicken barbecue. The hostesses served delicious refreshments.

LOCAL OPTION ELECTION CALLED FOR AUGUST 26TH

COMMISSIONERS ACT FOLLOWING FILING OF PETITION CONTAINING THE REQUIRED NUMBER OF SIGNERS.

Hardly had the ink gotten dry on the Reporter last week following its county publication of the Reporter last week than a petition seeking the required number of 10 per cent of the voters in Martin county, to call a local option election had been placed in circulation. Monday the petition was approved by the commissioners court in its regular session and the election called for August 26, along with the amendments to be voted on in the state.

When the Martin county voter goes to the polls on August 26th, he will be confronted with three separate tickets. One will be the state ballot bearing the four amendments; one, a ticket with two candidates for Representative of the 88th district, and one, the local option ticket.

There are two candidates for representative of the 88th district. They are Frank Stubbeman of Midland, and Bert Francis Howell, of Rankin. Mr. Stubbeman is a prominent young attorney of Midland, former partner of B. Frank Haag, who was Representative from the 88th at the time of his death following an automobile accident. Mr. Howell, has lived at Rankin six years, and said to be a successful young lawyer.

On August 26th, the voters will vote on the question of four amendments to the Texas constitution of the United States—or the ratification of the amendment as made by the last session of the house and senate. At the same time the voters will name delegates to the constitutional convention.

In voting the amendments herewith it is necessary that the voter merely cross out the wording headed "For" or the wording headed "Against." In case of the delegates, if it is not desired to split and vote for some delegates that are wet and others that are dry, the same system of marking may be used, just cross out names not wanted and vote for one set of delegates and one set of alternates leaving them unscratched.

All the amendments have passed the law making bodies—and the voter is to ratify the action, hence, as in the amendment of prohibition, it will read either for or against the ratification of the amendment whereby the 18th amendment is repealed.

Following are the amendments to be voted on:

FOR the amendment to Article 9 of the Constitution of the State of Texas, adding section 3, providing authority for the adoption of a Home Rule Charter by the voters in the counties having a population of sixty-two thousand (62,000) or more, to effect more efficient and economical government within such counties, and to authorize mergers of separate governmental agencies with such counties as may from time to time be authorized by vote of the people therein.

AGAINST amendment to Article 9 of the Constitution of the State of Texas, adding section 3, providing authority for the adoption of a Home Rule Charter by the voters in counties having a population of sixty-two thousand (62,000) or more, to effect more efficient and economical governmental agencies within such counties as may from time to time be authorized by vote of the people therein.

FOR the amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas providing that the Legislature may authorize the issuance of bonds of the State or Texas not to exceed Twenty Million ($20,000,000) Dollars, for relieving the hardships of unemployment and for the necessary appropriations to pay said bonds.

AGAINST the amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas, providing that the Legislature may authorize the issuance of bonds of the State of Texas, not to exceed Twenty Million ($20,000,000) Dollars, for relieving the hardships of the unemployment and for the necessary appropriations to pay said bonds.

FOR FAILURE PROOF BANKING STRUCTURE

Speaker Outlines Threefold Cooperation Between Bankers, Government Officials and the Public to Maintain Bank Standards

TWO elements beside the bankers themselves are required in order to give the nation a more efficient type of banking it should have. Franklin H. Sisson, president of the American Bankers Association, declared in a recent address. He said that the efficiency of government officials upon whom the people rely to supervise the banks properly, and the patronage of the people themselves are factors in the kind of banks a community shall have.

"There can be no question that the people of the United States should have banks immune from failure and wholly free from bad or questionable banking," Mr. Sisson said. "It is not enough, as President Roosevelt has said, that while some bankers had been incompetent or dishonest, this was not true in the vast majority of our banks. A situation should exist in which there is not even a small minority of bankers open to question. There should be no room for dishonesty or incompetency to exercise any influence in banking anywhere."

"While bad faith and bad management enter the human factor in all types of business, their effects in banking should be surrounded by such special safeguards as to render them no longer a factor in bank failures. The responsibility for bringing this about, however, cannot rest upon the bankers alone, for the means to accomplish it are not wholly in their hands. There are other essential elements."

"One is the efficiency of government supervision. Since we rely so greatly upon supervision, it may, unless it is of the highest order in safeguarding the public interest, create a sense of false security. Supervision should render bad banking impossible, but it has failed to do so. There was supervision by presumably the highest type of bank supervisors in every one of the instances of questionable banking that has shocked the attention of the country during the past three years. Therefore a thorough strengthening of supervision is clearly called for if the people are to rely on it to the fullest extent for the protection of their interests."

The Public's Part
"Another essential factor in maintaining good banks involves the part played by the public in banking. There is certainly a responsibility on the part of the banker whose rigid adherence to sound principles makes a sound bank, rather than to give their patronage to the going banker who may be easier to do business with, but whose methods create a weak bank."

"Bank customers are charged with a great responsibility in protecting the safety of their banks in respect to their utilization of the assets of the banks as borrowers. Banks have failed because many of their loans and securities, created in good faith by bankers in co-operation with the business interests of the country, proved unsound and subsequent conditions. An unsound loan is created by the borrower as well as the banker. A bank is only as sound as its community, and this applies also to the banking structure as a whole in relation to the economic condition of the nation as a whole."

"A bank is truly a semi-public institution, but in a reciprocal sense—it has its obligations to the public, but so has the public equal obligations to the bank. No one who has not sound banking principles at heart has any business in a bank whether as a banker or as a customer."

"The banker is a semi-public servant. He is charged with the heaviest of responsibilities and obligations that occur in our economic life. But he can meet these fully only through the cooperation of good laws, good public officials who are empowered to exercise authority over his bank, and good business methods on the part of business men generally who utilize his bank. Only through such cooperation by all elements in our nation's community life can we be assured of a failure-proof banking structure."

"The Administration at Washington has taken hold of this problem with a firm grasp of essentials and is exercising splendid leadership toward the desired end. The strongest feature of the government program will be found in recognizing the joint responsibility of the public, of business and of government officials together with the bankers themselves in creating the kind of banking the nation should have."

Improved Pasture Pays

IMPROVED pastures are a cheap source of food for stock. A farmer at New Hampshire, experimenting with a newly applied top-dressed his 4 acres of pasture with 500 pounds of complete fertilizer at a cost of $75. He gets the United States Department of Agriculture. After 4 weeks he turned a cow out on this pasture. Two days later during the six weeks the cow raised she showed that his herd produced 7,800 pounds more milk than they did in the same period the previous year, although the farmer had no cow fever and fed 800 pounds less grain. Based on current milk prices, he made $150 on the extra milk and saved $16 on the grain, netting him an increase in income of $134.—U. S. Department of Agriculture.

YARNS OF COLONEL TRUE

Readers of this newspaper are invited to write to Colonel True and tell him of their own remarkable experience. Address Colonel True, in care of THE STANTON REPORTER. Every person writing the Colonel will receive free membership card in The Amalgamated Association of Bull Throwers.

I used to own a dog that was so fast when he started running he had to run sideways to keep from flying. I remember one day when he was chasing a coyote, he caught the coyote by the tail and pulled it along with him for a quarter of a mile before he could stop.

Miss Lurline Cathey, Stanton I have always had a weakness for dogs. In fact, it is one of the most outstanding of my large number of weaknesses. "A dog, I have heard, is man's best friend. That applies if it is the right dog and the right man. Some dogs I have seen were fit friends for no man, and some men I have seen were too ornery for any dog.

My first experience as a dog owner was very sad. You see, my brother Ossie was out west and I was living in Alabama. He shipped me a fine sheep dog, but I had to kill him because I had no sheep.

Sometime later a dog followed me home from town one day I discovered he was one of the most remarkable dogs alive. He was a semaphore hound. Had one red ear and one green ear. When we went hunting, he would do the scouting ahead and wigwag signals to me with his ears. Both ears up meant "game." Then if the red ear dropped, that meant "this game isn't worth bothering about." Both ears flopping up and down while all four legs swung back and forth rapidly toward me meant "skunk" or "a dog I can't whip."

Wiggy—his name was Euphisticles, but I called him Wiggy—was a fast dog, the same as the one you were telling me about. He ran so fast I had to cut an inch off both his right legs so he could take turns safely as he ran. Being a law-abiding dog, he never made a left-hand turn.

The only rabbit I ever knew him to love in the 64 years that I owned him was a big jackrabbit he jumped one day just before noon. They ran about four miles and Wiggy had his mouth open, ready to clamp down when a whistle blew. Wiggy stopped. He was always a good union dog and wouldn't work overtime.

Wiggy was so fast that when he really unbuckled he would go clear off and leave his shadow. A month or two later after I got him, he ran away from me one day and got about a mile ahead. He dropped down behind a bush to rest, and when his shadow came along it didn't see him; it went on down the road and out of sight. We never saw it again. Wiggy spent the rest of his life going about without a shadow.

In addition to being fast, Wiggy was exceptionally smart. He could smell the corner of the house and tell whether I was going hunting the next day.

When Wiggy was about twenty years old a cyclone came along, picked him up and pulled him through a knot hole. Originally he was a St. Bernard but when the cyclone got through with him he was a dachshund the longest one I ever saw.

I do not exaggerate in the least when I tell you Wiggy was thereafter the longest, keenest dog in the world.

When he went prowling at night, as most dogs do, the front end of him would be where he was going before the other end uncurled and got off the porch. He was so long that food he ate on Sunday didn't get to his stomach until Tuesday afternoon.

If you are interested in dogs, you ought to see some of the wild dogs of Sillybania. I spent 16 years there, exploring the jungles of that country and saw lots of these dogs. In some ways they are unique. They have a thick mat of hair on the left side and none at all on the right side. The explanation of this phenomenon is that they always sleep on the left side, the hair serving as a mattress, and don't need any hair on the other side.

Sillybania wild dogs have tails 25 feet long, which they use to rope game. They also grow horns, and blow them loudly while on the chase.

The most extraordinary thing about these dogs, however, is the fact that their hind legs grow in front. This is the result of evolution. In the early days they were always on the run, and ran so fast their hind legs were constantly ahead of the front ones. In a few generations the pups came to be born that way.

But speaking of dogs, I want to tell you about an experiment of mine. Observing the popularity of the hot dog sandwich, I crossed a Mexican hairless dog with a sausage grinder and developed a breed of dogs especially for this purpose. They were small, hairless dogs, with a tough outer skin. All you had to do was cut off their legs and head and they were ready for the sandwich. Later I fed them on mustard leaves so they already had the mustard flavor, too.

A BANK REFLECTS THE LIFE ABOUT IT

Loans and Investments on Which Condition of a Bank Depends Determined by the Kind of Business Surrounding It

POLITICAL and popular misapprehensions toward banking are due to little else than failure to realize that it is what the people themselves do that the condition of banking reflects, and that banking cannot of itself reflect events and conditions other than those that actually originate from surrounding circumstances. Francis H. Sisson, President of the American Bankers Association, says in an article in Forum Magazine.

The character of an institution's notes and investments indicates whether it is in the farm regions, a manufacturing center, a mercantile neighborhood or a great financial district, he says, and furthermore, besides identifying the institution as to its locality, a study of its notes will equally clearly indicate the economic conditions surrounding it.

"If a farm district bank's note history shows that its loans rise and fall with the normal cycle of production and marketing of the products of the region, it may be taken as an index of economic good-health for the locality," he says. "But if, over a period, the loan volume shows a dwindling trend it may mean a region that is losing ground,—becoming exhausted or being robbed of business by another community. Or if a large proportion of the loans are not paid at maturity but are chronically re-payed, or if stocks or bonds or real estate have to be taken as additional security, these too have economic significance, reflecting perhaps crop failures, over-production or inefficient, high cost farming methods in a highly competitive national or world market, such as wheat. Inevitably all these facts are reflected in the condition of the local banks.

City Banks Too

"If the loans of a bank in a manufacturing or merchandising field show a smoothly running coordination with production and distribution they, too, mirror a healthy economic situation. Or there may be here also signs that reflect growing unfavorable conditions, such as excessive loan renewals, over-enthusiasm and therefore over-expansion of credit extended to makers or dealers in particular products, and similar circumstances. Similar conditions apply to banks engaged in financing the activities of the securities markets.

"The foregoing is merely suggestive of the infinite aspects of the life outwardly surrounding the banks which form and control their internal conditions. Although these facts seem obvious enough, the discussions and criticisms that have raged about the banks often appear to set them apart as somehow separate from the lives of our people, existing forth a malignant influence upon agriculture, industry and trade from forces generated wholly within themselves.

"The truth of the matter is that the fate of the banks is inseparably interwoven with the fate of the rest of the people and of the nation. What happened to the country happened to the banks and what happened to the banks is in no way different or detached from what happened to the people. They are all part of the same pattern of the same continuous stream of events. No one element in that stream can be called the cause of business depression.

"If the banks caused trouble to some of our people it was because they were irresistibly forced to pass on troubles that came to them from other sources. These troubles included the failure of their security investments, the loss of their deposits, the failure of their customers to pay back to other customers their deposits that had been properly used to create these loans and investments. Unless these troubles are kept continual in mind there is no such thing as approaching an understanding of the working problem or of properly safe remedying the very many ways of the public in that problem."

The Bank as a Rebuilder

IN place of a 3 per cent loss on an investment of $50,000 a large New York savings bank is now getting a 6 per cent profit on an investment of $25,000, because it had the good sense to put its money to work in modern buildings a group of 40-year-old tenement houses on the lower East Side which it was forced to take over on mortgage foreclosure, says an article in the American Bankers Association journal. A year or two ago the owner, who had always kept up his mortgage payments, began to neglect the property, it became run down and the tenants began to leave.

The bank remodeled the buildings completely, putting in an oil-burning heating plant, incinerators and other modern changes, with the result the buildings are now entirely rented, and there is $14,000 a year coming in instead of several thousand going out. At that rate the improvements will pay for themselves in three years.

This same bank has done 15 other renovation jobs similar to this, and all have proved profitable. The bank has its own architects and is employing seven painters who are kept busy continuously.
