Early Land Company Records Donated To Tech Collection

Business records of a land company that played a big role in developing modern farming on the South Plains have been given to the Southwest Collection at Texas Tech.

Dr. Seymour V. Connor, Tech history professor and director of the Southwest Collection, said business records and papers of the Texas Land and Development Co. have been presented to the collection by Peyton Randolph and Mrs. Luther Bain, both of Plainview.

Connor said that the company spent well over $1 million purchasing more than 60,000 acres of farm land in the vicinity of Plainview during its first year of operation. With an eye to the future of the High Plains, the company's plan was to develop these tracts into irrigated farms for later resale.

GOOD ADVICE

"Keep off the gas!"

This is not a typographical error, but a life-line of advice from J. O. Musick, general manager of the Texas Safety Association, whose organization is sponsoring the current Slow Down and Live program being conducted throughout the state.

"Summertime — like any other season of the year — means safety time, but a lot of Texans forget this," Musick said. "They let the warm days and balmy nights detract from their driving responsibility as they hurry from one cool spot to another."

"They step on the gas and rush to vacation spots, picnic areas or a day at the water's edge—forgetting to ask themselves: 'How much time do I really gain by speeding, if I get there?'"

Musick pointed out that traffic engineering and enforcement are important in public speed control, but that the final answer lies with the individual driver.

"Every driver on our streets and highways must initiate his own personal campaign to obey all the traffic signs and signals and to regulate his speed so that it is neither too fast or slow," Musick said.

The TSA general manager said the purpose of the Slow Down and Live campaign is to simply draw the public's attention to the fact that speed is dangerous anytime, but especially now, during peak vacation months, through Labor Day.

BIBLE COMMENT

Jesus' Friends Included People Of Every Type

Although there were many during Jesus' lifetime who called themselves His enemies, He also had many friends. They were people from all walks of life and included the very rich and the most poverty-stricken people of the Holy Land.

Most striking of all was the Saviour's love of little children. He included many thousands of them among his friends and made a point of letting them come to Him, rebuking His disciples who turned a way the mothers bringing their children to see the Master.

His closest friends were the disciples themselves. They represented a cross-section of the society of the time. But there were great men of the age who felt a close friendship for Jesus. There was the Roman Centurion whose faith He commended; and Nicodemus, the ruler of the Jews.

There were friends who grieved for Him after the crucifixion, such as the man who claimed His body. Other wealthy men invited Him to their homes.

West Texas Press Comments

Gold dollars are rolling in from the golden wheat harvest in full swing in Foard County. The Foard County News reported last week that in the past few days the elevators in Crowell had received 700,000 bushels of wheat and between 50,000 and 75,000 bushels of oats and barley. The fields are yielding as high as 47 bushels to the acre, but the general average is 25 to 36 bushels to the acre.

Jim Cornish, publisher of the Post Dispatch, had his hands full last week during the absence of his editor, Charles Dudway. He had his column, "Postings" to fill and the editorial page to write, as well as many news stories. With all that, he supervised the publishing of 16 pages of the Post Dispatch.

Editor Dudway was off a week to attend the graduation exercises at the North Texas Teachers College at Denton the institution from which his married daughter living in Levelland graduated.

The vegetable crop at Munday in Knox County, is being harvested. The first load of cabbage was gathered last week, and was trucked immediately to Fort Worth and placed in the hands of the produce company who has contracted 50 acres of cabbage, 400 acres of potatoes and 65 acres of onions. The cabbage crop is yielding 10 tons to the acre and bringing the farmers from $20 to $25 per ton. Harvest of 400 acres of potatoes will start this week.

The Seminole Chamber of Commerce has started an industrial survey of Gaines County. The survey will include city and county population increase, business and industrial growth, retail and sales figures, building permit figures, bank deposits, and figures on already established businesses, industries and service firms, so reported The Seminole Sentinel.

From the Stamford American comes the report that Jones County is harvesting the best wheat crop in its history. The yield is from 50 to 100 bushels per acre. Oats are yielding from 20 to 60 bushels per acre. The wheat market opened at $1.09 a bushel and oats 45 cents.

An unusual accident happened in Stamford last week while the postoffice lawn was being mowed, according to the American. The mower ran into a stone about the size of a small egg and threw it violently across the street, smashing a plate glass window in a barbershop.

Editor J. W. King, Sr. of The Mitchell County News, mentioned in his last week's paper an unusual request made of him by a local citizen. The citizen and family were going on their vacation trip and he didn't want King to mention it in his newspaper. He gave the explanation their being away from home would invite thieves to break into the house.

King said in his paper: "It certainly does no good to leave such news out of the paper when word is spread around from mouth to ear."

Two photographs appearing on the front page of last week's Seminole Sentinel revealed a "cooling off" atmosphere on a hot sultry day. One picture showed three pretty damsels taking a plunge in the Seminole swimming pool. The other picture showed a local minister in bathing suit sitting in the middle of an inflated inner tube of a tire floating on the water in the swimming pool, feet dangling in the water, and equipped with a radio, sandwiches, lemonade, magazine and a vase of flowers.

The Andrews County News says the city of Andrews is being flooded with worthless checks. Last month the sheriff's department made nine arrests on charges of swindling with worthless checks under $50.

The office force of the Coleman County Chronicle already have two sections of the Centennial edition off the press. They have planned to print a section of the edition every week. The Chronicle says the edition will be historical in nature and will publicize the County Centennial celebration and the 21st Annual Rodeo.

The Colorado City Record issued a 24-page edition Sunday in observance of the opening of the new Baker Hotel in that city. The hotel opening day was Saturday, and 27 persons were on the hotel staff. Garlan Green is manager of the hotel, a former employe seven years of the Sun Oil Company. The Baker cost $250,000.

Eight new directors have been elected to the McCamey Chamber of Commerce, two of them, women. Four nominees were selected to vie for the annual "George B. McCamey" award, the most outstanding citizen. Two of the nominees are women. The annual chamber of commerce banquet will be held June 26. Fred Husband, executive vice-president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, will be the banquet speaker.

We have heard of the "fly in the omelet" but never before have we heard of a "Fly-in Breakfast." But last Sunday Andrews came across with such named event. The occasion was sponsored by the Mustang Flying Club of Andrews. The breakfast was not restricted to those flying in from other towns, but the public was invited to the breakfast.

Prizes were given for the goofiest landing, the first female pilot and the oldest pilot.

Editor Ben Peeler, in his "Column 1" in the Fort Stockton Pioneer, said: "The Pioneer ran more advertising lineage and more news material during the month of May than at any time during its 50-year history."

Jean Wade in her column, "Just Conversation" in the Jayton Chronicle, wrote a piece about the recession and wound it up with the old joke:

"When you have to tighten your belt, that's a recession. When you don't have a belt to tighten, that's a depression. And when you don't have any pants to tighten a belt on, that's a panic."

Philosopher Differs With Congressman Who Wants The Government Returned To The People

Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw has an odd idea this week, which is not unusual with him.

I was listening to the radio the other night—I don't listen to it very much on account of it doesn't leave enough time to think, by the time somebody has said something and you settle back to think it over he's off on something else, I prefer a newspaper, where you can read a paragraph, think it over, sleep on it awhile, get up and walk around, and still come back to the same place—at any rate, I was listening to a Congressman, I don't know what state he was from, and he said something that suddenly made me come alert.

What he said was: "It's time we returned the government to the people."

Now I have heard this statement lots of times before, but somehow or other it stuck in my mind this time and I've been thinking it over for a couple of days and have come to the conclusion that as far as I'm concerned I'm not sure I want the government back. Not at this time.

That is, I guess if I was running the government and it was in the financial shape it is, I'd be looking around for somebody to unload it on too, but with my present financial strain I don't see how I can take it on. Understand, I think the government's sound all right, it still owns more than it owes and it has an awfully steady income, and I think it will eventually pay out, but it's the longest-term investment I ever heard about, and some of its stockholders are the hardest people on earth to please.

Nope, I don't believe it's the right time to return the government to the people. We're saddled with so many other debts and burdens I just don't believe we're in shape to take on anything else right now. A man can get too far out on the limb.

I'll appreciate it if you'll tell that Congressman and a ny other government officials who have come around to the conclusion it's time they gave the government back to the people that I decline the honor. They're stuck with it and will have to work it out the best way they can.

In fact, the more I think about it the madder I get. That's a shoddy trick, waiting till the government's in the shape it is and then trying to give it back to us.

Yours faithfully,
 J. A.

4-H Club And Purpose Of It's Activities

STANTON REPORTER, THURSDAY, JUNE 19, 1958-7

(Editor's note: The following is a research paper written by Pat Fell, a McCamey High School student and the article is so complete it is worth reprinting here. We are happy to pass it along.)

No organization in the country is doing more to raise the standard of rural life and to enrich the outlook of farm boys and girls than the 4-H Clubs. This is the largest rural youth organization in the world with more than 1,800,000 members pledged to the four-fold development of Head, Hearts, Hands and Health. The 4-H Club seeks to promote ideals of good citizenship and to improve rural practice generally. The club began in 1899. Leaders in agriculture felt that the best way to get modern scientific methods used on farms was to train boys and girls to use them. Later the clubs adopted the 4-H name and emblem. The Smith-Lever Act, passed in 1914, provided Federal funds to help county extension agents in organizing and expanding this activity. Today the 4-H Club is doing a fine job of preparing boys and girls for the future.

The 4-H Club pledge is "In support of the 4-H Club Motto, 'To Make the Best Better', 'I pledge: My Head to clearer thinking, My Heart to greater loyalty, My Hands to larger service, and My Health to better Living For my Club, my Community, and my Country.'"

The 4-H Club creed is: "I believe in 4-H Club work for the opportunity it will give me to become a useful citizen. I believe in the training of my Head for the power it will give me to think, to plan, and to reason. I believe in the training of my Heart for the nobleness it will give me to become kind, sympathetic, and true. I believe in the training of my Hands for the dignity it will give me to be helpful, useful, and skillful. I believe in the training of my Health for the strength it will give me to enjoy life, to resist disease and to work efficiently. I believe in my country, my state and my community, and in my responsibility for their development. In all these things I believe, and I am willing to dedicate my efforts to their fulfillment."

All boys and girls between the ages of 9-21 are eligible to be members. To become a 4-H Club member, an individual must want to be one, know about 4-H work, realize what is expected of him and have a place in the program. 4-H Club work is voluntary, there are no dues, and it is not a school subject. The opportunities for girls in the 4-H Club include the fields of foods, clothing, home furnishings, family life, and home management. Boys' work includes gardening, poultry, dairy, swine, rabbits, field crops, tobacco, and safety.

Each local 4-H Club is conducted democratically, using parliamentary procedure, with its own officers and committees in charge, working under the guidance of one or more voluntary leaders. Leaders move into the background as advisors as rapidly as the members can develop self-reliance and leadership among themselves. By this process the most successful members also help plan the club program, serve as chairmen of the committees, take an active part in group discussions and assist as junior leaders—all the time "learning to do by doing."

In the club experiences, nearly all members take part in local and county achievement programs, camps and fairs. In addition, the more mature members vie with each other in contests to merit college scholarships and represent their respective county and state in the American Youth Foundation Camp in August, at the National 4-H Club Camp in Washington, D. C. in June.

The members of each club generally organize into a neighborhood, community project or school group, according to the plans and policies of their respective State Agricultural Extension Services. The County Extension Agent, County Home Agent and assistants represent the Extension Service in each county. They are assisted by Extension Specialists and State Club Leaders as needed from time to time.

In 4-H Club work, a project usually is considered to be a practical unit of work for each individual member. However, the whole club may carry out the same project and keep detailed records on it. A group activity generally is carried out by the whole club, as on courtesies, music appreciation, or flower arrangements.

Some of the individual projects and their purposes are the 4-H Safety program. The need for a safety program is the fact that accidents and fires to rural people take a tragic annual toll of 14,000 lives, 1,200,000 disabling injuries, and millions of dollars lost in property. The safety project is to stimulate the entire family to become safety conscious, to appreciate and understand that safety work, and to provide a way for youth to have an important part in the whole safety movement of the Nation.

The purpose of the 4-H dress revenue program is to help each 4-H Club girl to achieve the following: To develop leadership talents and to work toward achieving the broad objective of character and effective citizenship, to determine individual clothing needs in order to plan to limit purchases to those garments which are appropriate, serviceable and adequate for purpose intended, to acquire the skills and knowledge necessary to plan, select, construct, assemble and care for suitable costumes for work, school, and social occasions, to learn to dress appropriately, becomingly and healthfully, in keeping with a well-planned family budget, and to develop grace, poise, good posture, and the habits of good grooming. The purpose of the 4-H health program is to help 4-H boys and girls to develop leadership talents and to work toward achieving the broad objectives of character and effective citizenship, to develop desirable personal health practices and attitudes, and to share in the responsibility for improving the health of the family of the community.

The objectives of the 4-H electric program are: to develop leadership talents and to work toward achieving the broad objectives of character and effective citizenship, to learn more about electricity and the proper use and care of electrical equipment, and to help others learn more about electricity and its uses.

In all 4-H projects and activities the purpose is to train boys and girls to live better lives because of the fact that they were members of the 4-H Club.

Union

At this time, a good rain would be most appreciated by any community in West Texas. But with that hope the farmers cast an eye of suspicion and anxiety on every advancing rain cloud.

Last week a rain cloud advanced on Winters, south of Abilene, and the cargo it carried was of a destructive nature. Hail fell in such a quantity that 85 per cent of the roofs to dwelling and business houses of the town were damaged or destroyed and damage or destruction entirely was done to the small grain crop.

The damage was estimated at several hundred thousand dollars.

A battle royal is being waged in the eastern part of the state of Colorado against the invasion of grasshoppers. The multi-million dollar wheat crop stands to be destroyed by the hoppers. Eight planes are flying over the fields spraying poison in the hope the grasshoppers can be destroyed before they sprout wings and fly to other wheat fields. The wheat crop is valued at 110-million dollars. Grasshoppers are reported to number 400 to the square yard.

Seventeen counties are in the disaster area.

The Rising Star area of Eastland County, is ending a committee from the local Chamber of Commerce to visit the vegetable growing sections of Arkansas and Missouri in the hope of gaining information to use in expanding the growth of the vegetable crop in that section of Eastland County.

The CC group will be asked to make a special study of the processing plants, which it is said, have made possible a more effective truck and fruit and other produce-growing industries.

For the small grain outlook around Rising Star in Eastland County, it is reported that the yield of the oat crop is outdistancing the yield of wheat or barley. One farmer reported his oats are making 100 bushels to the acre while other growers are making as high as 70 and 80 bushels an acre.

Reports from the harvest of

small grain crops continue to come in from various points in West Texas.

It took a five column black headline on the front page of the Coleman County Chronicle to tell in a nutshell the amount of money the small grain crop will be to Coleman County. The headline read "County's Grain Crop Now Estimated at $1,250,000." The estimated number of bushels has been set at 4,450,000. The small grain crop includes wheat, oats and barley.

Over in Concho County, The Eden Echo, reporting on the harvest of the small grain crop, makes a conservative estimate that the 52,000 acres in small grain, will distribute to the growers over a million dollars. Oats will bring in the most money, something like $660,000. Wheat next with a gross value of $378,000, and barley, around $125,000.

The Mitchell County small grain crop is in the midst of its harvest. It is estimated the county's small grain crop will net the growers over $200,000. The wheat will average 20 to 40 bushels per acre.

The little city girl was on her first trip to the country. She was quite impressed by the cows, pigs, and chickens. But when she saw the peacock, which the farmer kept, she was amazed. "Look," she gasped, "a rooster in full bloom."

From the flattering reports coming out of the harvest fields of the small grain crops in West Texas Counties, the farmers have hit the jackpot this year. The information discloses bounteous yields and good prices received. The elevators have been filled to an overflowing capacity and grain is being dumped on the ground due to lack of storage facilities.

Snooter Knows

Then on the night of the Fourth the "welkin rung" with the pyrotechnical display of various assortment of fireworks from roof tops of business houses and other vantage points such as cannon firecrackers, Roman candles, skyrockets, etc.

The ethereal elements became disturbed, and almost invariably, they sent rain, if not on the day of the Fourth, then on the following day.

From this example a few fellows gained the idea they could invent some sort of a contraption to send high up in the air and touch off some sort of an explosive missile that would entice the elements to the point they'd send a rain on the countryside therabouts.

But in so far as the firing of explosives on the Fourth of July brought rain, the law of the land took over the idea of a safe and sane Fourth, and as a consequence that was the ringing of the death knell for continuing the explosive nature of the old Fourth of July celebration.

The dry weather now prevailing, if the country were allowed to "shoot 'em up" as in the olden times we might at least get a soaking rain on the Fourth of July.

SOME COMPLAINTS ARE BEING heard about our country getting dry and a good rain would be very acceptable. This time of year the rains that usually visit the country do more harm than good.

They bring hail and downpours of rain that do heavy damage to crops, if not destroying them entirely. And to add to this damage, winds of such velocity accompany the rain they unroof houses and topple electric lights and telephone poles.

Then we could have a rain like the one an old timer who calls himself Colonel True, said he experienced once. He said he saw it rain so much one time where he lived that the people had to spread tents on top of utility poles to keep high and dry, and that the snakes in the community turned to water moccasins.

A GRAVE DANGER IN THESE recession times is that some of those who are compelled to accept relief from others because themselves may get the habit to demand they may have a right to be taken care of.

One's own self respect is a mighty important thing to hold on to.

Charity should begin in such a way this priceless attribute should not be jeopardized.

EXPERTS ON MOVEMENT OF RURAL population to cities during the period of 1950 to 1957, have figured that the exodus from Texas farms numbered 815,000, but at the same time 314,000 moved to farms.

The migration from farms was heavier in areas of prolonged drouth than in areas where the drouth was not so serious.

Martin County was one of the areas that suffered from a prolonged drouth, and it can be said it suffered less from farmers getting up and leaving the farms. The secret to this statement is that all during the drouth period the cities of Midland and Big Spring, both close by, provided employment to all who wanted it. The former city provided employment on construction work, on business houses and the rapidly expanding growth of homes in the residential district. The latter city provided employment on construction work on the government air field.

The farmer could live on his farm and make daily trips back and forth to his work.

ACKERLY NEWS

By DOROTHY BAKER

William Patman Rudeseal of Ackerly and Iris Ann Albertson were united in marriage Saturday, May 31 in Roebuck Chapel of the First Methodist Church, Fort Smith, Arkansas.

Dr. Fred G. Roebuck, pastor of the church, read the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John L. Rudeseal of Ackerly and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Albertson of Fort Smith.

The bride's father gave her in marriage. She was gowned in white Chantilly lace over taffeta and wore a fingertip veil held in place by a small flat cap. She carried a white orchid on a white Bible.

Ruth McMaisters, bridesmaid, chose a mint green taffeta dress. Clyde Simonton of Bodian was best man. Guests were seated by Wallace Albertson, brother of the bride, Bob Jerico of Cleveland, Ohio and Bob McMillan of Brewton, Ala.

The couple will make a home in Lubbock, where the bridegroom is attending Texas Tech. The bride is a May graduate of the high school in Fort Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob H. Quinn of Star Route 2, Ackerly, pioneer residents of the old Soash community observed their golden wedding anniversary with an open house Sunday afternoon, June 8.

The couple moved to West Texas in 1924 from Eastland and began farming.

The Quinns are active members of the Ackerly Church of Christ.

Hosting the reception were their sons and daughters and their families: Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Quinn and Mr. and Mrs. Prim Wood of Lamesa; Mr. and Mrs. Karl Quinn of Causey, N. M.; and Mr. and Mrs. Sid Richardson of Big Spring. The couple has 14 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

The serving table was laid with a cloth crocheted by Mrs. Quinn. It featured a white floral arrangement, crystal appointments and the traditional anniversary cake. Granddaughters of the couple alternated at the serving table.

Sunday dinner guests with Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Bristow were Mr. and Mrs. Woody Caffey of Knott, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Caffey of Stanton, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Williams and sons of Big Spring and Donna Bentley of Pecos.

160,000 Quality For Benefits Under Social Security

Almost 160,000 disabled people have qualified for monthly disability benefits under the new provisions of the social security law according to H. P. Thomas, manager of the Odessa district social security office.

Although the law provides that social security disability benefits must be reduced by the amount of certain other disability payment without any "offset" because of the receipt of a nother disability benefit. Their average payment is $80.49 a month.

Another 20,000 are drawing only partial payments because they receive another disability benefit which must be subtracted from the social security benefit. This group's average social security payment is $21.47 a month.

In the remaining 11,500 cases, no disability benefit is currently payable through social security, because larger disability payments are being made by another agency.

Disability benefits through social security are reduced by the amount of any workmen's compensation payments, or by the amount of any federal disability benefit except compensation from the Veterans Administration for service connected disability.

The social security payments are not affected by receipt of disability payments through private insurance companies or employers unless these payments are made under a law which permits employers to carry private insurance in place of the regular workmen's compensation.

Persons between the ages of 50 and 65 with severe disabilities may qualify for social security payments if they meet

Quality Cotton In Good Demand

Extra rewards await the cotton producer who succeeds in producing a high-quality crop this year, while discounts for low quality will continue to be stiff, reports Fred C. Elliott, extension cotton specialist.

The abundance of low-grade cotton that was left over from last year's crop will continue to depress the market for lower grades, points out Elliott. However, he adds, the present outlook for the 1958 crop indicates a continued shortage of high grade fiber.

A late spring, shortages of good seed, and too much moisture have contributed to a poor start for cotton this year in many areas. But the specialists says there is still plenty of opportunity to aim for high quality through careful management and harvest practices.

These practices include weed, disease and insect controls; fertilization at rates based on Extension Service recommendations; irrigating for good maturity in areas where it is done with special reference to cutoff dates; careful harvesting and ginning; keeping low and high grade fiber separate and selling on grade.

Almost a third of last year's cotton crop classified as spotted, resulting in a lower average grade for the 1957 crop than for any year on record.

Much of this spotting could have been avoided through better management practices, says Elliott. Widespread failure to adhere to such practices weakens cotton's position with synthetic and other fibers in marketing for many uses. And this, in turn, contributes to cotton surpluses and depressed prices.

County agricultural agents can provide the latest information on how to grow cotton for quality, and how to preserve that quality in harvesting and ginning.

Volunteer Hospital Workers Aid Rehabilitation Of Mentally Ill

By DALE SCOTT

(Editor's Note: Dale Scott handed the Stanton Reporter society desk while Eugenia Hightower was on vacation the past two weeks. Mrs. Scott is one of the many area volunteer workers at the Big Spring State Hospital and was recently capped in ceremonies held at the institution in Big Spring. She is deeply interested in the rehabilitation program now underway at the West Texas Hospital and the article appearing here is very informative and should appeal to many women interested in aiding the rehabilitation program along.)

The month of May was designated by our state as Mental Health Month. Our magazines and newspapers have done much in recent years to enlighten our people and bring mental illness to be accepted as other illnesses. It is not something of which to be ashamed, to be spoken of in whispers, but is a problem which occurs in any walk of life. In this accelerated pace in which we live, the chances of your or my having a mental illness is much greater than in former years. But as we have progressed in all fields of medicine, the chances of a fast and complete recovery are much greater also.

It has only been in very recent years that the discovery of our new tranquilizing drugs has made much of this possible. Gone are the padded cells, the straight-jackets, and many of the locked doors. Many, many, are the patients who were so-called 'incurables' who have been permitted to return to their homes and families to live happy and useful lives. Since the use of the new drugs has calmed even the most disturbed patients, mental hospitals have been able to begin a hospital Volunteer Program. Peoria, Illinois was the first mental hospital to try the volunteer plan which had worked so well in other types of hospital. This plan was put into effect in October of 1951. The response of the patients to the volunteer program was greater than anyone had dreamed. There were so many little things that the volunteer could do that a busy nurse or attendant could never find the time to do. Things such as writing letters, taking patients out on the grounds for walks, playing games, helping with group activities, such as singing, dancing, etc. Then the volunteer could help out in the occupational therapy wards with sewing, weaving, embroidery, ceramics, etc. Others liked to help with physical therapy classes. One of the most helpful things a volunteer can do is to just sit and visit with a patient. Many of them have had no one at all to visit them in years. Just being a good listener is one of the best requirements you may have. You need no special training other than the short orientation course that is held at the hospital about twice a year.

You do have to have love and compassion for your less fortunate fellow-beings, and a sense of humor. There is always an attendant within call and the volunteer has only to call them if they need advice about how to handle a situation.

Our Volunteer Program at the Big Spring State Hospital has been in effect just since September of 1957. Mrs. Ira Thurman is Coordinator of Volunteer Services. At the beginning there were 28 Regular Volunteers, or those who have specific duties and specific days on which they work. There were 20 Occasional Volunteers or Volunteers who helped with parties, bingo games, dances, or just visited patients occasionally. In April of this year we had 113 Regular Volunteers who gave a total of 665 hours to the hospital. The Big Spring State Hospital is leading the state in as far as number of Volunteers, but the hospital at Terrell with only 83 Volunteers gave a total of 1,014 hours in April.

Last month the Big Spring State Hospital had their first Capping Ceremony at which time 58 women received their caps. A Volunteer must have put in at least 10 hours and have the orientation in order to receive their uniform. To receive the cap they must have an additional five hours. Of course, most of those who were capped had many more hours than this. Among these women who were from Midland, Stanton, Big Spring and the Lees community were several registered nurses. One of these RNs spoke for the group when they said that they were even prouder of their Volunteer cap than of their RN cap.

In talking to any of the Volunteers about their work, they will tell you that it is the most rewarding thing they do.

The Volunteer may choose the type of thing she would like to do and the time that it is most convenient for her to work. During the summer months there will be many of the Volunteers out of service for vacation, etc. This might be an excellent time for new women to volunteer. The doctors and nurses say that no matter how much money a hospital has it cannot buy what the volunteer brings to the patient. She is the link between the hospital and the outside community. She assures the patient that people care and want them when they do recover.

Dr. John Harrison, Superintendent of the State Hospital, has recently spent about six weeks studying the new methods of treating mental illness. He is announcing the current Orientation short course which will be held at the hospital on June 24th. At this time he will go into detail about the different types, and how they usually react to the different situations.

Anyone wishing to give some time to helping in any way connected with the hospital is urged to take this course. Volunteers who have already had an orientation are requested to attend this one in order to have the very latest methods and information which Dr. Harrison is to give. If you would like to take this course on June 24th please contact Mrs. Doris Thurman in Big Spring or Mrs. James Farris or Mrs. Travis Scott of Stanton by Friday of this week.

Pronghorn Story Traces Life Span Of Texas Stock

Texas' pronghorn antelope finds itself the object of history as well as hunters in the May issue of Texas Game and Fish. Two writers trace the pronghorn from the days of the sabre-toothed tiger to present times of controlled hunts.

Bob Slaughter, free lance writer, follows "Mr. Fleetfoot" from his beginning about 30 million years ago along a trail of danger from animals and man. Theron Corral, Assistant Director of the Information-Education Division of the Commission, picks up the story with the modern approach of protecting the pronghorn by propagation and controlled hunts.

Mr. Slaughter writes that the pronghorn antelope's ancestors were a branch of the same family of mammals from which cat and bison developed. He brings out that almost 25 million years of adaptation were required to produce a species with traits similar to the pronghorn of today.

After set backs during the "Ice Age" the pronghorn was then hunted by man, whose weapons became more and more effective against the creature's amazing speed and eyesight.

Coming to the present, Carroll paints the picture of the Texas pronghorn with facts and figures taken from years of research and population counts. He points out that since the hunting season was closed in 1903 the pronghorn was given the chance to increase to 4,742 in 1942 and to 7,500 in 1957.

In 1944, however, the hunting season was opened, and State wildlife biologists set up a harvest program to control the numbers of pronghorn. "Thus," writes Carroll, "Mr. Fleetfoot enjoys the distinction of being the first game species in Texas to be harvested under a method affording complete scientific control."

Recent guests with Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wheeler have been Mr. and Mrs. Al Kloven, Jr. of Big Spring.

Tax-Man Sam Sez:

The tornado season is about over for this year. Tornadoes and storm damage may bring you a tax deduction. There are a number of casualty and theft losses allowed by our Federal tax laws. You may deduct the net amount of actual property loss resulting from an accident, fire, storm, shipwreck, other casualty or from theft. These losses may be business losses or non-business losses. The heavy spring rains for the last two years caused considerable flood damage which is also deductible. If you suffered a property loss from any of these casualties, you should read your tax instructions carefully or secure competent professional help to prepare your tax return next year. Not all damage to property is a casualty. For example, if the termite eat up your house, you are not allowed a tax deduction even though I am sure all of us would consider it a personal casualty.

Pecos, Tex., Man Reports—

His 4-Year Average Is 2.8 Bales of Cotton Per Acre

Coy Nichols, a leading Pecos, Tex., cotton farmer says: "Counting 1957, which was an unfavorable cotton year, I've averaged 2.8 bales per acre of cotton. I certainly couldn't have maintained this high yield level without Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia. I use 250 to 300 pounds of ammonia to the acre."

Other Southwestern farmers have discovered that the 82% nitrogen in top quality Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia helps them get more profit per acre through higher yields. They get more cotton that classes higher at the gin . . . yields of sorghum grain and ensilage are increased . . . more marketable vegetables are harvested . . . profits on wheat and small grains are increased through higher grain yields and improved forage.

Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia contains 82% nitrogen and gives you more nitrogen per dollar than any other form of fertilizer available.
