County Philosopher Finds He'd Have Little Enthusiasm For Living In A Russian House

Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw discusses the housing situation this week. We think that's what he's doing.

Dear editor:

Every time the Russians criticize us, it's not necessary to answer them, but I was especially interested in a criticism Premier Khrushchev made the other day about American houses, which he is an authority on since he has never been in one.

According to him, American houses look all right, but they're not made to last over 20 or 30 years. "Such a method wouldn't suit us in Russia," he said. "We will build in the Russian manner, so that the houses may be used not only by us and our children, but also by our grandchildren and great-grandchildren."

Well, maybe so, but things don't always work out like the Russians claim. You don't notice Stalin's children living in the house Stalin used, do you? Khrushchev has a pretty good house at the moment, but I wouldn't bet on any of his children taking over when he's gone.

Also, I don't know how a Russian can leave his house to his children when he can't own it in the first place. As I understand the Russian position, if she built any houses, she'd build durable ones, but in the meantime the people can have one room per family in a state-owned apartment house.

And when it comes to building homes that last only 20 to 30 years, if Russia keeps brandishing its military power around the average Russian house may not last that long, regardless of what it's built out of.

Now as to American houses, I don't know how long they'll last, but the one I'm living in has been here a lot longer than 30 years and will be here a lot longer, if I can ever get around to patching the roof and fixing the front porch.

Moreover, when a man builds one of these modern new fancy houses, he doesn't want to put too much permanence into it, he never knows when a new super-highway will come along and pass right through the middle of it.

But even so, I believe I'd rather live in a house of my own that's going to last only 30 years, than live in one that's going to last 200 years, if it was owned by Mr. Khrushchev.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

There are some men so settled in their ways that they seldom change under any circumstances. Their attitudes and reactions are so predictable that we could easily foretell their course of action in many situations.

They are very necessary in our society but also they are usually very dull, unimaginative people who are not interesting to talk to. Not much ever happens to these people.

And then there is the other type, the unpredictable person. He usually is a man of superior intelligence and ability with many interests and a vast store of energy.

Such a man was the apostle Simon Peter. Extremely impulsive, very intense, he was always ready to risk everything on the outcome of a great adventure. When his plans seemed to fail, Peter was also very gloomy and disappointed.

Although his name was Simon, Jesus called him Peter "The Rock." This nickname was a symbol of the thing Peter became as he grew older and more active in the new church.

FARM & RANCH REVIEW

That farm operations have started to move into high gear in Martin County, is evidenced by the number of farm tractors coming to Stanton the past week to have repair work done, ready to move into the fields and plant the crops.

The recent rain showers visiting the county left a sizable amount of moisture to germinate the seed.

The county was alerted to storm warnings moving in ahead of the rains. The warnings embraced considerable territory with this county being within the range. No twister nor damaging high winds materialized in this area.

The trees, grass and other foliage have greened considerably in Stanton. Tree sprouts and wild flowers and other greenery have emerged to cover the dry spots. The wild thistle has something to offer other than its thorny spine — it's the pretty blossom on top of the stalk.

The farmer can't be too careful to see that an abandoned dug water well is filled as well as other gapping wounds in the earth are made safe from stock falling into them, or possibly, a human being.

A 12-year-old boy, riding a harrow pulled by a team of horses on his father's farm in Nova Scotia, was being dragged into a gapping hole behind the horses when his father rescued him. The boy had tried unsuccessfully to unhitch the horses before they plunged into the deep hole.

The farmer said he planned to dynamite the hole and fill it in but was hoping a geologist could examine the pit and offer an explanation. Fortunately, the boy and the horses escaped any serious injury.

Records show that each year in the United States more than 1,100 deaths occur on farms as the result of tractor accidents. It has been proved that tractors have been involved in 35 per cent of all farm accidents, and that 40 per cent of tractor accidents were fatal.

Speeding a tractor increases the chance of its turning over four times.

When working in brush and tall grass survey the land carefully beforehand for hidden stumps, rocks, and ditches which will cause the tractor to upset with little warning.

The Matador Tribune last week announced the historic Matador Ranch headquarters, including 31,748 acres, for sale. When built in 1918, the ranchhouse contained 21 rooms. It's a country club type ranchhouse built of native stone, blasted from the foothills. The present headquarters ranch house contains 14 rooms, including two servants rooms, and three baths.

The acreage offered is the Roda Tam Corporation (Matador spelled backward.)

The Menard News reports the Menard County ranchmen and business men have a yearly income of $30,000 to $40,000 from hunting leases. Last season it was estimated that 1,500 deer and 125 turkeys were bagged in Menard County.

The Menard Soil Conservation District has selected Lorenzo Mogford, Menard County's outstanding conservation farmer in the Fort Worth Press award program. Mogford has increased his maize yield from 1,500 pounds to 3,000 pounds per acre and has produced two bales of cotton per acre. These are outstanding accomplishments for dry land farming, according to The Menard News.

the affairs of the office for Martin County.

The Service Club decided May 26 as Trades Day in Stanton.

Trotling is an old-time way of catching fish. And it's still one of the best, and most productive means of taking fish.

But trotling now, as always, requires skill and patience. The fisherman can't expect to be successful if he merely stretches a line in the water then goes away and forgets about it for a long, long time. So let's explore some of the secrets about trotling.

A trotline is simply about a hundred feet of strong cord with drop hooks suspended at intervals of several feet. Usually, one end of the line is tied to a tree or a rock on shore, and the other to an anchor in the water. Different conditions, however, often dictate other ways of setting out the line.

One way is to attach an end of the line to a dock piling, under water, then stretch the other end out to its extremity, using an anchor at each end to keep the line taut and the hooks just above the bottom. With this method, the line is kept concealed, entanglement with boats is avoided, and two-legged predators are frustrated.

When it is desired to set the line in deep water, some distance from shore, a float is used for each 25 feet of line.

In a slow-flowing stream, some fishermen use a float at one end only. Thus the level of the various hooks extends from near the surface, at the float end, to near the bottom at the other end. In this way, you make an offering of bait to the fish no matter at what level he may be swimming.

Another method is to fix a float at each end of the line, inside of the two anchors. Then let the hooks dangle down along the line, not stretched tight, between the floats. This method presents the baited hooks at various levels.

In a river or lake bed, many fishermen drive stakes at opposite ends of a fairly taut line, then tie on an anchor in the middle of the line. This drops the center of the line to the bottom. The hooks then vary upward in depth from the anchor to the stakes, in two directions. If no anchor is attached to the center of the line, and it is stretched tight, the baited hooks will ride just under the surface.

There are other variations of the trotline set. Many variations will occur to the fisherman as he surveys the water where he plans to operate.

Best time to set out a trotline is a dusk. This because a catfish is notoriously a night feeder. As most other fish feed in the daytime, the night fisherman avoids stealing of bait by the other finny ones.

Of course, catfish do sometimes feed during the daylight hours, especially the channel cat.

As indicated above, one of the main questions about setting a trotline is whether you want it deep or shallow. Your decision on this part will depend on what kind of catfish you're going after. And what kind are most numerous in the body of water where you are fishing.

Yellow and blue cats feed on the bottom. In fact, so do most varieties, except the channel cat. The latter usually will be found close to the top.

Trotline fishing varies a great deal with each locality and each body of water. The fisherman will do well to learn the feeding habits of the fish he seeks. Channel cat will come out of the deep water to feed along the banks on insects that fall off the trees and bushes. Therefore, a line stretched parallel with the bank in two or three feet of water is in a good position to catch some fish.

Another good place to set your line is at the mouth of the creek as it empties into the lake, or a creek into a river. The running water usually brings different sorts of food into the deeper, quieter lake water. Here it is best to set the trotline across the running water, just upstream from the ripples.

If there are large patches of cattails, or small trees and brush, growing in the water where the blackbirds and other birds roost, a good set can be made by circling the patch. This situation usually occurs in the fall when the birds are migrating. Catfish of all kinds will be caught near such a roost.

One caution—there are about as many laws on catfishing as there are lakes, rivers and counties. Always check with your local game warden before going out. There's another good reason for seeing this official. He wants you to catch fish and likely will give you some good tips on where to go and how to set your line.

Length of line usually is governed by local regulations. Just remember that two short lines are better than one long line. The minute you start running your line, the hooked fish on it will start fighting to get off. The longer it takes you to reach him, the more chance he has of tearing himself loose.

Don't stop to bait empty hooks until you have finished running the line. Bait them coming back.

Trotlines should be checked every three hours at night to remove the captured fish and to rebait the hooks.

If you spend several nights on the river or lake, it is wise to remove the trotline after one or two nights, because the rough fish and predators will have discovered it and will hang around to reduce your catch.

You want to use hooks in a size not larger than 4/0. That one will hold almost any big fish you will get, but it is not so large that most catfish can't get it in their mouths. Some trotliners use 2/0 or 3/0 hooks. It's a matter of choice.

You can rig up your own trotline readily enough. Ask your local tackle dealer for supplies and instructions. Or, if you are not a do-it-yourself type, get the Octopus Trotline, manufactured by F. Lawrenz Co. of Dallas. This rig features a two-way swivel that prevents the fish from getting off the hook, no matter how much he spins, jerks or twists.

Location of the first of five experimental plants to test various salt water conversion theories will be determined in the next two weeks.

The decision will be made by a Department of Interior site selection board which will meet May 16-19.

One of these plants will be built somewhere on the Gulf coast, a second will be on the Atlantic coast and a third on the Pacific coast. The remaining two of the five plants will experiment with converting brackish water to fresh water. One of these will be built in the Southwest and another in the Northern Great Plains.

In all, 40 Texas cities are represented in applications seeking either a coastal or an inland plant.

Interior Secretary Fred Seaton said the other day the government is seeking a process that will convert salt water to fresh water at a cost of $1 a thousand gallons—or even less.

Experts seem to believe the promise of achieving a remarkable breakthrough in saline water conversion is now a definite possibility.

The problem is to develop a process that will make salt water useable in quantity at a cost low enough to make it practicable.

Think what this would mean for the future of Texas.

Vast areas of non-productive land could be opened to irrigation. Brackish or gyp water could be made drinkable.

We would be opening the door on a new horizon of development that would embrace both agriculture and industry. Through a use of resources undreamed of now, would come new jobs, increased prosperity and a better life for all of us.

I believe that day is almost here. And I can assure you that—within the Senate—we are doing day-by-day everything we can do to speed its arrival.

Snooter Knows

A GIGANTIC BOOST IN ELEVATING the high spirits of the Martin County farmers was dropped in a package from the skies last Thursday night in the form of one and three-eighths inches of rain. The elements were on their best behavior during the rainfall as there was little wind, no vivid lightning displays, and only peals of thunder.

A survey of the scope of country the rain covered, showed the rain was general over the county.

The downfall differed in amount at various points, ranging from three-quarters of an inch to one and two inches.

In the matter of 10 days, all in this month, Stanton had received three inches of rain. Information gained from talking to farmers residing at strategic points showed same amount of rainfall was general over the county.

The month of Mays' introduction to this area of West Texas, bears the earmarks that considerable rainfall can be expected before the month passes.

Almost from the very first day of the month to the present time, precipitation has fallen in this section, ranging from light showers to the one and two inch mark.

At least the farmers are rejoicing and that's what counts in this area of producing crops.

The farmers' smile also illuminates the faces of the citizens in general. It's the fruits of the farmers' handiwork on which Stanton and Martin County depend.

THE DISTINGUISHING FACTOR of importance which advertising in newspapers has over radio and television advertising, is announcing the prices of articles by the announcer. The listener may misjudge the price made by the announcer, or possibly the announcer through the slip of the tongue, makes the error. Either way, the shopper learns when visiting the store advertising the article that the price she put down on paper doesn't correspond with the price she said the announcer made over the wireless setups.

Of course, if the price the merchant announced in his advertisement is being offered for less than the shopper had listed, there will be little or no rumpus come from the shopper, but if

Silver Tea Held Saturday By Music Club

Active past presidents of the Stanton Music Club entertained with a silver tea Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edmund Tom.

Serving as hostesses were Mesdames Edmund Tom, Glenn L. Brown, Morgan Hall, Curtis Erwin and James Jones.

In the receiving line were the five hostesses.

Mrs. Roy Pickett played piano selections during the tea hours of 4 p. m. to 5 p. m.

Lela Hamilton served miniature angel food cake squares frosted in white and green, mints, and lime punch from a table laid with a floor length white organdy cloth. Decorating the table was an arrangement of garden flowers. Green napkins completed a white and green color scheme.

Lela Hamilton took snapshots of the group to put in the club's scrapbook. Miss Hamilton is in charge of the scrapbook.

The tea was one of the activities the club participated in to observe National Music Week.

Money collected at the tea will be used to help carry out projects during the coming year.

Twenty-five persons attended.

the price on the item is more than the shopper had down on a piece of paper there is sure to emerge complaint by the intended purchaser.

The advertisement carried in the newspaper by the merchant lists all prices in black and white. The shopper fortifies herself by carrying along this newspaper when she goes to the store to shop. She has the "deadwood" on the merchant in case he should attempt to dispute any of the prices listed.

If any error appears in the price of an article carried in a newspaper more often it is charged to the newspaper's oversight in reading proof. But it in no way affects the shopper. She has the prices listed in black and white printed in the advertisement she carries in her shopping bag and the article she purchases is given her according to the price listed in the newspaper.

The shopper has a guarantee she can buy the articles at the prices listed when she has along the newspaper that published the advertisement.

It's a safe way to shop by the printed word carried in advertisements published in newspapers.

SEE YOUR QUALITY BUICK DEALER...AND Get inside the clean winged beauty of Buick '59

Watch Dale Robertson in Tales of Wells Fargo on NBC-TV Monday Nights

Along with the most talked about style on the road today goes performance new even to owners of previous Buicks... and too great for you to miss.

Buick '59 is livelier yet smoother, more powerful yet thrifter, as any previous Buick owner will tell you. And credit goes to the turbine smoothness of Buick transmissions, plus the new responsiveness of Buick "Wildcat" engines.

At the wheel, too, you'll find new handling ease and finned-brake sureness that owners put high on their "most liked" list. But that's far from all these owners tell us. They talk about new operating economy from the most efficient power plant on the road today. About quality of finish and detail, and of quietness that even beats the best of Buick heretofore. They speak of reliability... and they speak of the pure pleasure of owning a Buick '59... in ways that warm the heart.

But the best spokesman for Buick '59—and what it can do for you—is a Buick itself. Why not go to your Buick dealer and get the inside story, today?

TO OWNERS OF CARS IN "THE LEADING LOW-PRICED 3"... You'll be surprised how easily you can own a Buick LeSabre instead! Be sure to ask your Buick Dealer about "THE MOST IMPORTANT $200 IN THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD!"

Cigaretts Pace Field In Survey Of Lung Cancer

Outdoor work, heavy drinking and frequent respiratory illnesses are statistically significant in lung cancer. But they are far outranked by cigarette smoking, the newest study of the problem — which now includes Arthur Godfrey among the statistics—showed Friday.

Of 500 lung cancer victims whose personal and ancestral histories were minutely investigated, about one-fifth were outdoor workers, about one-seventh were heavy drinkers, and one-third were frequently ill of respiratory troubles. But more than nine-tenths were cigarette smokers and four-fifths had smoked two packs or more a day for years.

The study was made by Drs. Herbert L. Lombard and Leonid S. Sniegoff of Harvard University, Tufts College and the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. It took seven years and was designed to meet criticisms of previous statistical studies of relations between cigarette smoking and lung cancer. Such criticism has been made by the tobacco industry and some statisticians.

This new study showed that 80 per cent of the victims had smoked more than 9,125 packs of cigarettes, or two packs a day for 12½ years. But the average life-time consumption of the group was about 15,000 packs, or 20 years at two packs a day. It found that the younger patients were among 36 who had smoked less than 5,475 packs in their lifetimes. This was the sole exception to the study's finding that "the total number of packs smoked . . . is the important variable, and it makes no difference whether the total effect was accumulated over a short or a long period of time," the scientists said in reporting to a technical organ of the American Cancer Society.

W. E. Allgoods Honored With Tea Sunday In Franklin Home

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Allgood of San Miguel, Calif., were honored with a tea Sunday afternoon at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Franklin.

Giving the tea were the couple's sons-in-law and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Adkins, and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Cravens, and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cherry Allgood of Patricia.

The tea was in honor of the couple's 50th wedding anniversary which they celebrated December 28, 1958. Since the children were unable to be with their parents for the occasion they held the tea Sunday afternoon. It was also in observance of Mrs. Allgood's birthday.

Greeting guests were Mrs.

Franklin, Mrs. Adkins and Mrs. Cravens.

Joetta Franklin and Larue Adkins, granddaughters of the couple, served punch and cake from a table laid with an ecru lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of bronze mums. White and gold were carried out in decorations. The white cake was decorated in gold with the names of the couple, "Will and Ella."

Arrangements of cut flowers were used throughout the home. Mrs. Lole Badgett, granddaughter of the couple, was at the register.

Fifty persons called between the hours of 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. An out-of-town guest was Mrs. Allgood's sister, Mrs. W. H. Galbraith of Long Beach, Calif., who accompanied the Allgoods to Stanton.

Cotton Crop Of '58 Worth $2.1 Billion

The Agriculture Department Friday fixed the size of the 1958 cotton crop at 11,512,000 bales. The value of the crop, based on the season average price to May 1 of 33.1c a pound, is about $1,907,000,000. This is 17 per cent larger than the value of the 1957 crop. This 1957 average price was 29.65c a pound.

The 1958 crop estimate, based on actual ginnings, compared with production of 10,964,000 bales in 1957 and a 10-year average output of 14,136,000 500-pound bales.

The department said the season average price received by farmers for cottonseed was $43.80 per ton. Cottonseed production was valued at $210,000,000. The 1957 season average price for cottonseed was $51.10 per ton and the value of production was $235,000,000.

This gave a total value of cottonseed from the 1958 crop of about $2,117,000,000 compared with $1,860,000,000 for the 1957 crop.

The production and value estimates were based on final reports of the Census Bureau of ginnings.

The average planted to the 1958 crop was 12,397,000 compared with 14,310,000 for the 1957 crop.

The average harvested last year was 11,849,000 compared with 13,558,000 in 1957.

Senators and Representatives will have only a brief break between regular and special sessions of the Legislature. Gov. Price Daniel announced that lawmakers would convene again, the first of next week.

Big question around the Capitol now is how many special sessions will be needed to solve the state's tax problem.

Since the lawmakers failed, during their 120-day regular session, to erase the $65,000,000 deficit and balance the budget for 1960-61, that chore will be number one on their agenda. And most observers think it will take at least two, and maybe more, 30-day special sessions to iron things out.

Only matters specifically offered by the Governor may be considered during a special session of the Legislature, and all legislation started during the regular session must start over, practically from scratch. Revenue-raising proposals will have to be introduced again in the House, heard in committee, etc., before they can go to the Senate.

"OPEN SHOP" TEACHING — Any college graduate could teach school in Texas—at least for a year or two — under a House-passed bill.

Bill would grant a teacher's certificate good for one year to any bachelor's degree holder, whether he had had teacher training or not. Certificates could be renewed twice. After that, the applicant would have to take 12 semester hours of teacher education.

Miss Maud Isaacs of El Paso, herself a teacher for many years, sponsored the bill. Professional educators were divided on the merits of the plan.

Some said it would increase qualified personnel; others, that it would attract to Texas the misfits and ne'er-do-wells from "all the freshwater colleges" in the nation.

PLOUGHED UNDER — In the final days of a session, there usually isn't time to revive a bill that gets pushed aside. Among the bills whose setbacks were interpreted as death for this year are these:

MILK IMPORT REGULATIONS, sponsored by Sen. Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo. House supporters couldn't muster the two-thirds majority to take the bill out of order. Proponents said the restriction on milk brought across the state line was needed for health reasons. Opponents called it a trade barrier that would raise the price of milk.

BROADENING THE COMMON PURCHASER OIL LAW, by Sen. Hazlewood. Senate refused to take up the bill which would require pipelines to provide connections to new fields or transport the oil to market by truck.

BAN ON SUNDAY AUTO SALES, by Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas. It passed Senate, but House refused twice to take it up.

BAN ON NUDIST CAMPS, by Rep. James Turman of Gober. Senate passed, but House refused to call it out of committee. Committee had referred it to the Attorney General who said it would be legal.

HIGHWAY ZONING — Both houses moved quickly toward passage of a bill to protect smaller roads from heavier truck loads.

Governor Daniel asked for such regulation when he signed the bill to increase permitted truck loads from 58,420 to 72,000 pounds.

Proposed bill would allow the State Highway Department to zone state highways and farm roads for lighter truck loads and give same authority to County Commissioners for county roads.

INSURANCE QUESTION MARKS — Whether the State Board of Insurance should operate full-time or part-time was an issue expected to carry over into the special session.

House made its preference clear by putting full-time salaries in the House appropriations bill and by passing a bill specifically providing for a full-time Board.

Senate version of the appropriation bill provided for what would amount to about one-third time salaries ($5,000 a year) for Insurance Board members. Many senators opposed a full-time Board in addition to a full-time Commissioner when the Department was re-organized two years ago. Since then, they have been angered because the Board retained William A. Harrison as Commissioner after the Senate had disapproved him.

Since no conference committee was appointed to adjust differences between the two houses' appropriation bills, it was obvious the insurance hassle could not be resolved in the regular session.

TOURIST BILL PASSES — The much discussed and battered bill to permit the state of Texas to advertise its tourist advantages finally was approved by both houses of the Legislature before adjournment of the regular session.

As passed, the bill puts into effect the constitutional amendment approved by a close margin by the voters at the election last November. It differs in one important respect, however. It does not provide that industries shall match state funds—which was the sales pitch that was used to effect passage of the amendment by Texas voters.

Designated to handle the program is the Governor, the Chairman of the State Highway Commission, and the Chairman of the Texas Industrial Commission.

SHORT SNORTS — House passed a resolution opposing federal regulation of wages to imported farm labor. It was sent to the U. S. Dept. of Labor and to Congress. Some called it the "get your cotton picking hands off our cotton picking hands" measure. . . . Senate approved the House-passed bill to allow for abolishing the office of county school superintendent in counties not needing one. But it was amended so it applied to only two counties, Young and Parker. . . . Number of persons receiving unemployment payments in Texas is one-third fewer this month than in the recession spring of a year ago. Texas Employment Commission reported 58,410 jobless now compared to 90,946 in May, 1958. . . . It was a rough session for a presiding officer, but House Speaker Waggoner Carr had "his day." Many colleagues paid tribute to Carr on Speaker's Day, and Carr and his family received numerous gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hanson and Gary were in Newcastle over the weekend to attend a Walker family reunion. Mrs. Hanson and Gary accompanied her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Walker home to Fort Worth to spend the week.

Rob Haggard is a patient in Medical Arts Hospital, Big Spring.

Corner on Cotton
BY BOB COLLINS

... fortunately cotton can do many jobs so much better than anything else that there isn't any problem there . . . the only reason anyone should ever buy cotton goods is because they will give more service or comfort for the money than anything else.

Evidence

There's evidence that cotton is gaining in consumer use now . . . last year man-made fibers failed to expand their share of the market . . . but they did hold their own . . . but synthetic's failure to expand sales has only happened twice in 16 years . . . cotton now has 65.9% of the textile market . . . that's a 4% increase over 1957 . . . remember when cotton had 81.7% of the textile market? . . . let's see, that was in 1942!!!

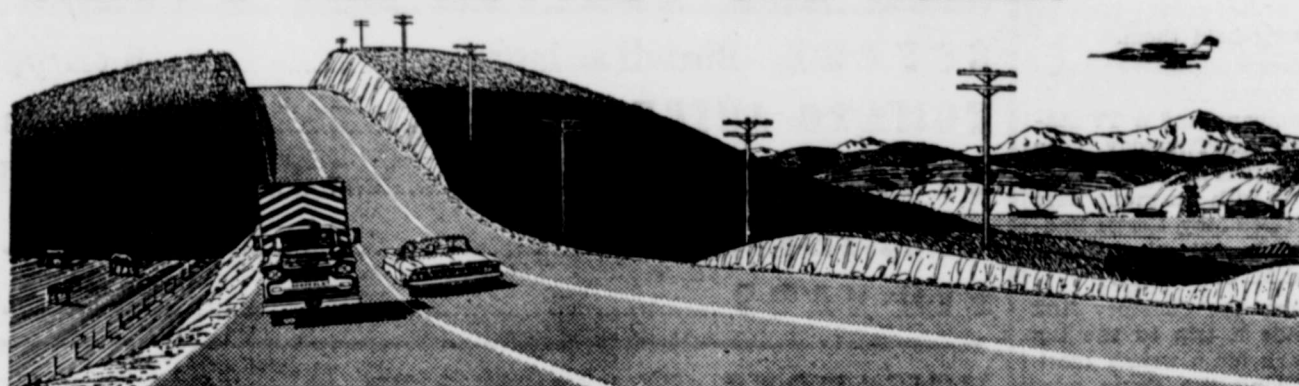

Times Change

If anything indicates how cotton farming has changed, it's the questions to be asked on the government agricultural census . . . conducted every five years . . . for the first time in history the farmers won't be asked how many mules they have . . . could anything indicate better the changing pattern of cotton farming???

New Weed Killer

A new "lay-by" weed spray for cotton is showing lots of promise . . . used in the West it has replaced two cultivations and a hoeing . . . savings amount to $12 to $18 per acre . . . experiments in Mississippi Delta look good, too . . . needs plenty of moisture to work, though.

Martin Project Develops Water

By JAMES C. WATSON

Gordon P. Street of Midland No. 1 White, wildcat in Southeast Martin County, three miles southeast of Stanton, swabbed only salt water from the Ellenburger perforations after a 2,000-gallon acid treatment.

That stimulating fluid had been pumped into the Ellenburger through perforations at 11,118-11,155 feet. Prior to the 2,000-gallon treatment, the Ellenburger zone swabbed dry after a 500-gallon mud acid wash.

The explorer logged some shows of possible commercial production in the Strawn. However, that section—after extensive testing—did not develop any salable petroleum.

It is 660 feet from south and 1,320 feet from west lines of section 21, block 35, T-1-S, T&P survey.

Texas Pacific Coal & Oil Company of Fort Worth No. 1-B O. H. McAllister is to be drilled as a 12,000-foot Ellenburger wildcat in Northeast Midland County, 12 miles southwest of Stanton.

Drill site is two miles southeast of the Germania field and 1 1/2 miles southwest of the same operator's No. 1 O. H. McAllister, Devonian discovery, and 1,320 feet from south and west lines of section 41, block 37, T-1-S, T&P survey.

Pan American Petroleum Corporation No. 1-C F. D. Breedlove, scheduled 13,500-foot wildcat in Northwest Martin County, was progressing below 6,820 feet in lime and shale on last report.

Drill site is 657 feet from south and 685 feet from west lines of labor 98, league 257, Briscoe County School Land survey, 27 miles northwest of Stanton.

Texas Crude Oil Company No. 1-10 Kerry-Kim-Bo, another deep Martin County wildcat, was digging below 10,811 feet in lime and shale.

Scheduled for a 12,500-foot bottom, the project reported its last drillstem test in the Wolfcamp from 9,890 to 10,141 feet.

Open two hours, the test recovered 90 feet of gas and 90 feet of heavily oil and gas-cut mud, with a slight skim of oil on top of the recovery.

Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 10, block HA, B. R. Lanier survey.
