Kelly Will Receive State Ginners' Award

PRINCIPAL CHARACTERS—Bill Gillum looks bewildered in this scene from "Around The World In A Daze" put on Friday and Saturday nights by the Stanton Volunteer Fire Department. Gillum won a trip to exotic far-away places, but he was "accompanied" by his landlady, portrayed by Mrs. Howard Avery.

Bobby Kelly, Martin County 4-H Club member, and Aubrey L. Lockett, Vernon ginmer and banker, will be singled out for special recognition during the Texas Cotton Ginners' Association convention in Dallas April 3-5.

Kelly will receive the Association award for excellence in cotton production. He was selected by the Extension Service as the state's outstanding 4-H cotton producer.

Lockett, a veteran of 40 years in the gin business, is Texas Ginmer of the Year. He will receive the Horace Hayden Memorial Plaque. He owns four gins in West Texas, operates the Lockett Seed Co., and is active in all major cotton industry organizations.

Bobby Kelly is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Kelly, Route 1 Stanton and is described by Extension Service workers as an outstanding leader in farm youth programs. He has been growing cotton since 1952. His demonstrations consisted of five acres each year until 1959 when he increased his crop to 18 acres. Production has never dropped below 600 pounds lint per acre and went as high as two bales per acre in 1958.

The 4-H award is made annually to encourage a closer working relationship of youth with cotton handling, ginning and marketing, and to encourage the production of better quality cotton.

The cast for the play will include Dwayne Thompson, Veronica Sorley, Becky Smith, Marcus Hanna, and Carl Wright.

The play is a drama about a boy's revolt against his father. The setting is the pioneer days of 1947.

Census To Produce Mountain Of Facts

Uncle Sam has hired 160,000 helpers and is ready to begin the biggest fact-finding job in history, the 1960 census.

Tonight, census enumerators will go into action prior to the opening national count tomorrow, April 1. A canvass will be made of every tourist camp, hotel, motel, in the nation to take a count of transients. On Friday, April 1, the army of enumerators will begin marching toward every American home, from mansion to hobo jungle, in search of essential facts about every person and every household.

Since the nation has a population of nearly 180,000,000, the 1960 nose count will be the biggest since 1790, when President Thomas Jefferson ordered the first census. The constitution requires the federal government to take the census every 10 years.

The statistics that will be gathered this year will fill at least 100,000 pages in more than 100 bound volumes. They will be compiled by electronic computing machines in the headquarters of the United States

Auto License Deadline Up On April 1

The last long line of late automobile license buyers will form tomorrow in the Martin County courthouse.

April 1 is the last day to buy your 1960 automobile tags, and the Department of Public Safety announced several months ago that patrolmen would start enforcing the license law immediately.

Motorists caught after the April 1 date will be charged a 20 per cent penalty.

The tally of registered vehicles cannot be determined until after registration is complete, but a spokesman from the DPS said 1960 would probably be a record.

Another deadline is fast approaching for motorists. April 15 will be the final date for inspection of automobiles. After that date law enforcement agencies can enforce fines.

Coslow Says Repayments On FHA Loans High

D. M. Coslow, county supervisor for Farmers Home Administration, Martin-Midland unit, stated today that the percentage of repayment of FHA loans in Martin County was above the average for this section of the state in 1958 and 1959.

Coslow, a graduate of Texas Tech, has resided in Stanton since last June.

The FHA supervisor said the number of loans had been reduced from 170 to 88 here during the past year. He said that 45 loans were repaid in full in 1958 and 33 were repaid in 1959.

The aim of FHA in the Martin-Midland unit is to establish an even better loan repayment record during the coming year.

Coslow planned to attend a meeting of FHA supervisors in San Angelo Wednesday.

Martin County Cotton Ginnings In 1959 Listed As 66,800 Bales

The United States Department of Commerce has issued the final bulletin on cotton ginnings in the nation for 1959.

In Martin County, a total of 66,800 bales of cotton rolled from the gins as compared to 55,900 bales in 1958.

The tabulation of individual reports from ginners of cotton shows there were 14,506,638 bales of cotton ginned in the United States from the 1959 crop.

The report gives a comprehensive coverage of all cotton produced in the U. S. Preliminary statistics on cotton ginnings, by states, was released on Monday, March 21, 1960.

It will be interesting for Martin County cotton growers to know that the highest number of bales produced in the cotton state of Alabama in any one county amounted to 56,245, approximately 10,000 bales less than produced in this county.

Martin County also topped any county in Georgia and all parishes in Louisiana in cotton production. In Louisiana a total of 486,943 bales of cotton was produced and Georgia's total amounted to 521,055 bales.

To participate in Dollar Day it is not necessary for you to sell some item for one dollar or below—but to list some real specials at reduced prices.

Little Moisture Recorded During March In Martin

March, which has displayed much fickleness in its weather pattern, evidently intends to go out today in the traditional role of a lion.

After a few days of summer weather with the mercury dancing up to 85 degrees Monday and the skies blue and clear, Tuesday brought a pretty good sandstorm. The high winds and drifting dust moved in just before noon and the wind velocity was estimated at 45 miles mid-afternoon.

The new front dropped temperatures Tuesday night and Wednesday, but the weather forecasters for the area report higher temperatures Thursday, the last day of March and for Friday, April 1.

Can Tornadoes Really Talk?

Springtime is with us and this means the tornado season for a vast southern and central section of the United States. With the season here, this interesting question has been brought up—do tornadoes speak a strange and ominous language that can give weather stations warnings of their approach?

Some weathermen believe tornadoes "talk" in a way that can be detected and used as an advance warning.

Close up, a full-blown tornado's sounds are overwhelming, the National Geographic Society says. The violent winds shriek like hundreds of jet airplanes or thunder like thousands of railroad cars all roaring overhead at once. The din is developed by winds racing at 400, perhaps even 600, miles per hour.

Current speculation has it that tornadoes probably are also accompanied by low-frequency sounds inaudible to human ears. These sounds might conceivably be detected by sensitive instruments as an advance warning.

To test the "tornado-talk" theory, the United States Weather Bureau plans to send instrument-laden research planes over the tornado alleys of Kansas and Oklahoma this Spring. At the same time, Navy rockets will be used to try to photograph the tops of storm fronts containing tornadic activity.

Meteorologists watching radar screens can now identify the type of storm from which tornadoes are born. Soon actual tornadoes may be spotted from a distance by means of radar.

Little by little, scientists are unraveling the mysteries surrounding the tornado. They now know that certain conditions appear to be indispensable for a tornado's formation: moist, warm air at low levels and cool, dry air at higher levels; a southerly wind at the surface and a strong wind blowing over it from a different direction.

The final ingredient is some lifting mechanism, such as a cold front on a storm line, to push up the warm air.

Suddenly, from the midst of a thundercloud, a funnel-shaped cloud lashes out with a twisting elephant's trunk of whirling air that winds across the ground, sucking up matter in its path. As it picks up material, the twister may turn black, brown, or even white, if there is snow.

The tornado meanders across the country, usually at 25 to 40 miles per hour. Generally, it spends its force quickly. The average tornado travels only 16 miles. But within its area, it wreaks fantastic destruction.

Buildings literally explode. Chickens are stripped of their feathers. Straws are driven into fence posts. Water is sucked from wells.

Not the least of the terror is the tornado's electrical display. Forked lightning—vividly outlined with yellow, green, blue and purple—often dances against the dull glow of continuous sheet lightning.

The vortex remains a mystery, because instruments cannot survive the devastating wind. Few people have looked up into the terrifying funnel and live to tell what they saw.

More basic knowledge of tornadoes and cloud physics is needed, however. Learning the "language" of tornadoes may be a big step in that direction.

FARM REVIEW AND FORECAST

In a farm business letter published in Nation's Agriculture, it is learned that farm prices rose one per cent during the month ending February 15. Higher prices for meat animals and most fruits more than offset lower quotations for dairy products, cotton, vegetables, eggs and turkeys.

Farm costs remained stable. They are now around the all-time high. Farm land values moved up one per cent during the four-month period ending on November 1, 1959, to reach a new peak of five per cent above a year earlier. The business picture continues favorable but some analysts are less optimistic than they were at the beginning of the year, reports the letter.

How to raise more pigs per litter and grow more pounds of pork on less feed are major points to be covered on the program of the Ninth Annual Swine Short Crouse to be held at Texas A&M College, April 4-5. T. D. Tanksley, extension swine husbandman, says the carcass evaluation contest and the third auction sale of production tested boars are expected to be highlights of the short course.

Joe Goldman, employed by the Soil Conservation Service at Seminole, has been awarded the first annual Nuebold Range Management Award at Abilene Christian College. The award was established this year by Fred Nuebold, a 1958 graduate of ACC in range management and was made the recipient of the Nuebold Award because he finished the highest in the contest sponsored by the Texas Section of the American Society of Range Management.

Goldman is a native of Newport, Arkansas and was active in the Aggie Club at ACC before accepting a position as range conservationist with Soil Conservation Service at Seminole.

A report issued by the Agricultural Department in Washington, D. C., declares that about 6.4 per cent of the nation's cotton farms have elected to grow cotton this year under the "choice B" plan, allowing planting 40 per cent above federal allotments.

Under the choice B plan, growers get price supports at 60 per cent of parity. Under the alternate plan—called choice A—growers abide by their original allotments and are eligible for supports at 75 per cent of parity.

Texas increased its allotments from 6,817,477 to 7,326,963 acres as 23,288 of its 201,535 farms elected choice B.

The 1959 cotton crop, the second largest for the High Plains area. For the year the 23 counties on the Texas High Plains harvested and ginned 1,889,353 bales of Cotton. The production is second only to the all-time record crop of 1958 when 2,025,433 bales were produced.

As the top ranking counties in cotton production, Lubbock County in 1959 ranked eighth in the nation with 2,209,790 bales.

Bible Comment

Jesus Offered New Values For Old Concepts

One cannot read far into the New Testament without realizing the great extent to which Jesus challenged many of the attitudes toward living which now, as then, prevail.

Ambition, the desire to get ahead of others, the lust of power, all these motives that so strongly influenced men were present even among the Twelve Apostles.

The rich farmer, whom Jesus described in a parable, was a typically successful man. He did what almost every successful man would do; planned for bigger things, planned to pull down his barns and build larger ones, planned to enjoy the fruits of all them he had built up.

But Jesus challenged such a conception of success. For one thing, he pointed out it's false economy. The man had left out the most important thing of all, his own life. But he had also left out the more important spiritual factor—he hadn't been rich toward God. And such men are legion.

It should be noted that the challenges of Jesus to what might be called dominant worldly attitudes and ways are not negative. Over against these, Jesus sets positive, constructive conceptions of a more abundant life.

What Jesus' teachings emphasize is a set of different values. How great the values are, and how thor-

Philosopher Wants A New Style Insurance Policy Against The Russian Missiles

Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw won't get anywhere with his idea this week, but still it's a thought.

Dear editor:

Some people are always saying there aren't any more opportunities left in this country to get ahead, and while getting ahead hasn't been my prime goal, after all, if some of us don't drag behind we'll rob those up ahead of the glory of being there— whoever heard of a situation where everybody was equally ahead and everybody was satisfied with it—at any rate, to get on with this sentence, I wish to point out that there are still plenty of opportunities.

For example, an insurance salesman was out here the other day trying to sell me some insurance that would protect me in case a cow of mine got out and damaged a neighbor's property, whereas what I really need is mainly just a better fence, although he didn't seem to be interested in helping me build one, said he had to get on and try to sell some more insurance.

I got to thinking after he left and discovered a brand new field for the insurance people.

If the insurance people really want to do some business, what they ought to do is work up a policy that protects people from the Russians. It would sell like hot cakes.

Everybody knows those Russians have all those guided missiles aimed and cocked, and while I doubt if they have one zeroed in on my Martin County grass farm out here, they might not be as accurate as they're reported, you can't trust them Russians, and a five-tonner aimed at Midland might very easily over-shoot or under-shoot and land in my backyard. That's where I'd like to have some insurance. Not insurance though that would go to my estate, which by that time would be a big hole in the ground, but insurance that would stop that missile somewhere near the middle of the ocean, or make it turn around and head back toward Russia.

I think they call this living insurance, and if the insurance industry can work up such a policy, I'm in the market.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

SIX-PASSENGER CAR OR STATION SEDAN ...CORVAIR IS BOTH!

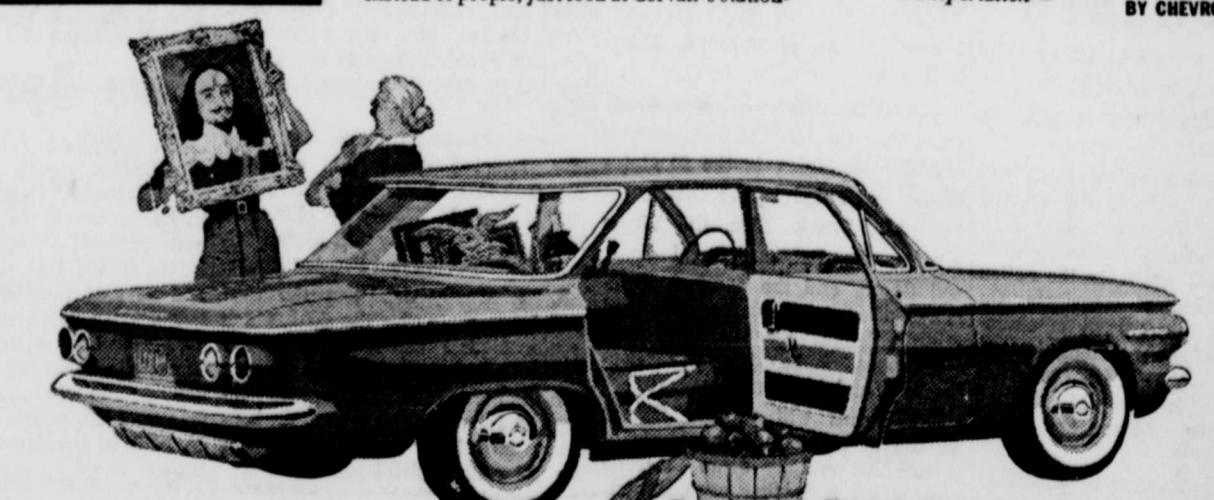

A wonderfully useful folding seat makes every Corvair two cars in one. Just one quick flip and you increase the luggage and parcel space to 25.9 cubic feet. And just as simply, you're back to comfortable six-passenger capacity. It's standard equipment... and extraordinarily practical.

Corvair does car-pool duty with the biggest and best of them. Going to work or school or out for the evening, you've got a genuine six-seater. As for carting around piles of stuff instead of people, just look at Corvair's station-sedan load space with the rear seat folded. And when that's full you can start on the trunk.

Corvair, you see, is no ordinary compact car. No others are so versatile, so ingeniously engineered—with independent suspension at all four wheels, an air-cooled rear engine that never needs water or antifreeze. You just can't compare anything else coming out these days with a Corvair. Drive one... soon.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

J. D. Crawford,
MARTIN-HOWARD SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT
Jack Buchanan, Bob Cox,
Bernard Houston, Larry Shaw,

Due to the excellent moisture conditions that now prevail in the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District many ranchers are planning to reseed deteriorated rangeland this year. The rangeland will be seeded to native and introduced grasses to spur the growth of forage.

Technicians of the Soil Conservation Service say that it is very important that seed of merit and high germination be purchased. Not only should the highest quality seed be selected, but those seed which are grown in the general area where they are to be planted should be demanded. It has been found that it is difficult to grow successfully many seeds from other climatic areas.

Much disappointment will be avoided if this factor is taken into consideration before seeds are bought. Study along this line will be most profitable for the ranchmen.

Refreshments of banana nut bread and coffee were served by the hostesses.

Those present were Mesdames B. J. Smith, Joe Duke, Donnie Jones, Darrell Payne, and Kenneth Gilmore.

Their next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Gene Smith.

Property Rending Deadlines Nearing

April 1 will be the deadline for most Texans to render their property to certain taxing agencies. State laws require all real and personal property to be rendered for taxes on or before prescribed dates. Those who fail to comply can blame only themselves for the money loss they may consequently suffer.

Some Texas cities set their own tax deadlines. These are the cities of more than 5,000 population which have incorporated under the "Home Rule" provisions of our statutes. All other cities are governed by the general laws of Texas.

In towns operating under the general laws property must be rendered for taxes between January 1 and April 1 each year. A number of home rule cities set up the same requirements in their ordinances, while others prescribe different periods.

For state and county tax purposes, property must be rendered to the County Tax Assessor by April 30, and homestead exemptions must be claimed by the same time.

In some localities a third taxing unit is involved — the independent school district. In other places school taxes are collected by the city or county. In addition, some localities have water, irrigation, or levee districts which assess and collect taxes. Make inquiry as to where these various taxes are assessed, and as to applicable deadlines for rendition.

What property must be rendered for taxes? If Texas laws were strictly enforced, we would be required to render to all taxing units nearly every piece of real and personal property which we own, down to the very clothing on our backs. An exception is the constitutional exemption of $250 worth of household furniture. However, no taxing unit carries their requirements this far, and it will be necessary to inquire of each tax assessor when rendering your property whether specific types of property are ordinarily rendered in that locality.

Some cities and counties collect ad valorem taxes on automobiles, television sets and other personal items, while others ignore practically all personal property. Business and professional men are generally required to render all merchandise, furnishings, fixtures, business automobiles and equipment. If property is not rendered by the tax payer, it may then be placed upon the unrendered tax roll, and the taxing agency places such valuation thereon as it considers fair. One advantage of rendering your property is that you can set your own valuation. Then, if the county or city decides a higher valuation is in order, you will be given an opportunity to appear before a board to explain why the higher figure should not be used in computing your taxes.

Thereafter, an appeal to the courts is possible in some instances. Generally speaking, however, the courts are unable to strike out a valuation unless the agency or board has acted arbitrarily and placed on the property a valuation higher than that placed on comparable property owned by others. If you do not render, the valuation set by the taxing agency is final.

Remember these facts: You may need to render your property at three or more different tax offices. Ask each tax assessor if in doubt concerning the deadline or the rendering of specific personal items.

Metropolitan To Visit Dallas

The Metropolitan Opera, the world's leading musical company, will be imported to Dallas by civic leaders for four operas May 13 to 15 in State Fair Music Hall. Four of the celebrated stars are shown above. The season will present: Friday evening, May 13, "The Marriage of Figaro," with George London, Elisabeth Soderstrom and Giorgio Tozzi, followed by the opera ball honoring the stars; Saturday matinee, May 14, "The Gypsy Baron," with Lisa Della Casa, Laurel Hurley and Broadway acting star Walter Slezak; Saturday evening, May 14, "Faust," with Cesare Siepi and Anna Moffo, and Sunday matinee, May 15, "Il Trovatore," with Antonietta Stella, Jean Madeira and Robert Merrill.

Night Hunters Lead Arrests By Wardens

Night hunters kept game wardens busy in February, according to the monthly report of the director of law enforcement of the Game and Fish Commission.

Thirty-five arrests were made for illegal night hunting and headlighting of game animals. At the same time, wardens arrested 37 persons for fishing without a license. A $2.15 license is required for all persons between 16 and 65 who fish with a rod and reel. This includes saltwater fishing.

Ten hunters found out they couldn't get away with killing deer out of season. Several others were booked for killing ducks, geese, quail, and squirrel after the season closed. In all there were 214 arrests, which brought fines and court costs to $7,947.29 for the month.

Biologist Says Fertilize Your Tank And Pond

"In recent years, in America, the idea of fertilization has been transferred to the raising of fish," states Lou Guerra in an article, "Fish Pond Fertilization," in the March issue of Texas Game and Fish. "The object here has not been specifically to increase the yield of water to produce the additional food but to cause the production of greater quantities of sport fish to improve the lot of the sport fishermen."

Water fertilization encourages microscopic algae growth. Zooplankton feed on this algae and then become choice food for insects and young fish. The insects and small fish become the nourishment of still larger fish, which in the end are targets for sportsmen who usually catch and eat these larger ones.

"In other words," writes Guerra, aquatic biologist for the Texas Game and Fish Commission, "the addition of fertilizer to the water increases the nutrient material needed by the tiny plants and animals which form the basis of the food chain. Thus, fertilizing small ponds and lakes leads to better fishing."

The author explains that fertilizer is identified by the number or ratio of its main ingredients which are nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium. The type of fertilizer needed in a particular pond would depend on the type, texture, chemical composition of the soil, use of the land, type of vegetation present or desired, whether the water is acid or alkaline, and various other factors.

Other articles in the magazine include such topics as the great horned owl, teaching a boy to cast, warden's school, the value of water, deer, oyster reefs, dogwood trees, sesame seed planting, SCOT, wildlife management area, and whitewings.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

J. D. Crawford, MARTIN-HOWARD SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT, Jack Buchanan, Bob Cox, Bernard Houston, Larry Shaw, Hugh Foster has applied for a Great Plains Conservation Program Contract for his farm about 23 miles North of Stanton. He plans to install underground irrigation pipelines with Federal cost-share assistance. His conservation cropping system will consist of small grain cover crops and grain sorghums.

The farmer who improves the fertility of his soil is truly a public servant and will leave more for posterity than he takes for himself.

Sam Parham is another farmer who has applied for a Great Plains Conservation Program Contract for his farm. Parham plans to install an irrigation reservoir and underground pipelines for his irrigation system.

In land management there is no substitute for proper use. Every acre used according to its capabilities and treated according to its needs means proper use.

Terrace construction was recently completed on A. F. Anderson's farm East of Stanton. Anderson constructed about 2 1/2 miles of level terraces on his cropland to hold as much rainfall as possible on his land.

Conservation seeks to insure to society the maximum benefit from the use of our natural resources.

Pipelines for irrigation were recently installed for Mrs. I. E. Welch and Charlie and Ed Smith on their farms near Tarzan. The Welches installed concrete lines and Smith installed asbestos cement line.

Visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Holland over the weekend was her mother and sister, Mrs. Gladys Bradford and Judy Bradford, of Delton, and her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bradford and children of Sundown, Texas.

Bob Johnson, county agent, closed the meeting with a demonstration on the safety of electricity.

This Week In Washington

With CLINTON DAVIDSON
The Golden Mirror

There hangs in the official office of the Vice President in the Senate wing of the Capitol Building a mirror that, if it were granted the gift of speech, could tell an interesting story.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota took the time recently to look up the story of the "Dolly Madison Golden Mirror," and to tell it in a recent letter which he sends regularly to his friends back home.

The story, we think, is worth retelling.

Dolly Madison, the charming wife of our fourth President, James Madison, purchased a small gold mirror while in Paris with her husband, who was on official business.

She paid $50 in American money but on returning to New York found there was a $30 customs fee due on the mirror. Mrs. Madison charged it to the official account, and the government paid the fee.

In due course, the audit committee of the Senate, in checking the salaries and expenses of the White House, came across the $30 custom fee charge. There being no authorization for such an expenditure, an investigation was begun to determine whether Mrs. Madison was guilty of wrong-doing.

After weeks of investigation the committee named to look into the charged decided there was no basis for prosecution and advised that the "case of the golden mirror" be dropped.

The committee, however, submitted a bill of $2,800 to cover cost of the investigation. There is not record of how the mirror, which cost taxpayers $2,830, got from Dolly Madison to the Vice President's office.

Whispering Chandelier

Sen. Mundt tells the story of another decoration in the same office; a chandelier that was purchased by Thomas Jefferson, also in France. It is made of Bohemian crystals and has all sterling silver clips and chains.

When Jefferson became the third President, he had the chandelier placed in the White House and it remained over the President's desk until the term of Theodore Roosevelt.

It is said Mr. Roosevelt was distracted by the wind blowing over the chandelier prisms when the windows were open during Washington's hot summer weather. It was like a ghost whispering stories of past Presidents.

At any rate, he had it sent down to the Vice President's office to, it was said, keep him awake since he didn't have anything else to do anyway. There it has remained, a reminder of the past and a novelty to tourists who are given a glimpse of the room.

The desk which occupies the center of the room was first used by President McKinley. After his assassination, members of his staff thought some superstition might be attached to it and had it moved to an obscure corner in the basement of the Capitol.

There it remained until 1917, when President Woodrow Wilson discovered it and had it moved to his office for his personal use. Like many of the other objects in the room, no one seems to know just how or when it ended up in the Vice President's office which, incidentally, is used only by the President as a place to sign last-minute bills passed just before a Congress adjourns.

Mrs. Joe L. Hall was admitted to the Big Spring Clinic Hospital Saturday, for several days of treatment.

Highlights and Sidelights FROM YOUR State CAPITOL

It's nine months until the 57th Legislature comes to Austin to pass laws, appropriate money and, probably, enact new taxes. But the major decisions are being made now.

Whether it's the warmer weather or the dwindling time — (first primary is only a little more than a month off) — the deciding process is now going full tilt.

Candidates have their literature off the presses and their campaign organizations in action. Challenges and promises are being made, mostly centered on one issue — meeting the state's in-the-red financial predicament.

On the statewide level, it's the same. Jack Cox, with the backing of former Gov. Allan Shivers, has come out for a two per cent sales-tax-for-education. Gov. Price Daniel has consistently maintained that the state's financial problems are not so great they cannot be solved by other means.

Jake Pickle is leaving his post as director of organization for the State Democratic Executive Committee and will work in Governor Daniel's campaign. Jake Jacobsen, former Daniel aide, will head the Daniel headquarters.

RANCHERS EXPECT GOOD YEAR — Reflecting the age-old Texas philosophy that everything depends on rain, most Texas ranchers are wearing a smile this Spring.

Members of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association meeting in Austin said wet weather had put a "season" in the ground. Prolonged cold meant a lot of expensive feeding, but, in general, the cattlemen look to this year as one of the best ever.

Amid the optimism, U. S. Sec'y of Agriculture Ezra Benson warned against too-rapid expansion of herds. It will almost certainly result in a sharp drop in prices, said Benson.

Benson noted that in the past two years cattle in the U. S. had increased by almost 4,000,000 head a year, double the rate he felt the consumer market can easily absorb. He estimated there were a record-breaking 101,000,000 head of cattle in the country at the start of the year. This is "not yet excessive," said Benson, but he urged that future increases be "moderate."

Governor Daniel warned the cattlemen to watch the import situation. Governor's Exhibit A was the Texas oil industry which has suffered crippling setbacks from the competition of lower-priced imports.

Secretary Benson opposed raising import barriers. He suggested that losses would offset gains in that a $4,000,000,000 export business in hides and tallow would be choked off.

Dolph Briscoe of Uvalde, former legislator, was elected president of the Cattle Raisers Association.

CATTLE MEASURES URGED — Cattlemen voted to seek governmental action in these areas:

1. State and federal agency help to enable railroads to operate more efficiently and economically.
2. Legislative enactment of a stronger trespass law to protect landowners.
3. Full authority for the Texas Animal Health Commission to direct the brucellosis eradication program begun under a law passed by the Legislature in 1959.
4. Confirmation by the U. S. Sec'y of Agriculture of the Association's right to carry out its brand registration and inspection program.
5. Launching by the USDA, as quickly as possible, of a screwworm eradication program in the Southwest similar to the dramatically successful Florida program.

HIGHER COLLEGE COSTS — Next legislature probably will be asked to appropriate about 23 per cent more for support of Texas' state colleges and universities.

Ralph Green, director of the Commission on Higher Education, said an estimated $31,400,000 more than present allocations would be needed for the 1961-63 biennium.

This is some $15,000,000 a year more than the $65,000,000 being spent this year. Green told a Legislative Economy Committee the extra funds would be needed to meet increased enrollments and improve faculty salaries.

Green reminded the lawmakers that part of increased cost results from the legislature's having made a junior college into a senior college — against the Commission's recommendation.

MORE YOUTH AID ASKED — Texas Youth Council has announced it will try again to get a paid parole supervision system for juveniles released from state training schools.

Legislature failed to enact this last session.

Council also outlined need for establishing a home for dependent and neglected negro children and expanding other state schools for young people.

Other two members of the Council refused to add their support to a wide-scale delinquency prevention proposed by Chairman W. C. Windsor Jr. of Dallas. It included such recommendations as making 12 years of schooling compulsory, keeping schools open to 5 p.m. for students

With Careful Planting, Bulb Season Can Last

Bulbs can add a great deal of color to the summer garden. After the early spring bulbs come and go, the glorious colors of the old and new irises glorify the beds. Later come the hemerocallis, in almost as many new varieties as the iris. There are other beautiful lilies that join the summer pageant of color. Of course there are the umbellifers and the rainbow hybrids, and there are the gloriosa and the sweet ginger lilies.

GLADIOLI WE have all summer long, with a succession of planting until July. Tuberoses give stateliness and fragrance to the day or night garden. Some like the Hymenocallis (among them Peruvian daffodil and Ismene), and everyone likes the dainty Magic Lily of Japan (Lycoris squamigera). Once planted, it regularly sends up lavender-pink blooms every summer.

The bulbs of Lycoris squamigera usually come on the market in August and should be planted immediately for flowering a short while later. Bulbs that give satisfaction in this area are both tall and dwarf dahlias. They will bloom all summer and until frost.

THE BULB SEASON can be carried into the fall with red spider lilies, with colchicums (flowering in September and October) and Sternbergia lutea, which looks like a big yellow crocus with daffodil leaves. All bulbs need a well-drained soil, with bone meal for food. Planting should be three times the thickness of the bulb. They like plenty of water, a good mulch and semi-shade or full sun.

Careful planning at this time of year will give the gardener a succession of blooms during the entire summer and fall seasons.

6.4 Per Cent Of Cotton Farmers Take 'Choice B'

The Agriculture Department reported Tuesday that about 6.4 per cent of the nation's cotton farms have elected to grow cotton this year under the "choice B" plan allowing plantings 40 per cent above federal allotments.

This compares with about 7.2 per cent making a similar choice last year.

The 61,139 farms choosing choice B increased the 1960 allotments from 2,962,171 to 4,175,014 acres—an increase of 1,192,843 acres. This put the total allotment for this year's cotton crop at 17,502,843 acres.

Under the choice B plan, growers get price supports at 60 per cent of parity. Under the alternative plan—called choice A—growers abide by their original allotments and are eligible for supports at 75 per cent of parity.

Texas increased its allotments from 6,817,477 to 7,326,963 acres as 23,288 of its 201,565 farms elected choice B.

Texas Waters Produce More Fish In '58-59

Nearly 43 million more pounds of marine products were marketed at various ports along the Texas coast during the 1958-59 year than during 1957-58, according to the annual report of the Texas Game and Fish Commission. In '57-'58 some 128 million pounds of fish and shellfish were taken from Texas' coastal waters and sold on retail fish markets.

The Galveston area received the most marketed fish in '58-'59 with over 115 million pounds. The Laguna Madre are handled some 96 million pounds. The Aransas area fishermen harvested about 14½ million pounds while the Matagorda area accounted for just over 4 million.

Menhaden catches represented more than 99 million pounds of the Galveston area production. No other area showed menhaden harvests. The same area led in red snapper catches with nearly 730 thousand pounds reported, more than double marketed at any other area. The Galveston area also led in total poundage with grouper, whiting, mullet, and warsaw.

The Laguna was way ahead in the marketing of brown and pink shrimp with over 34½ million pounds in '58-'59. The area also led in the production of redfish with 376,401 pounds, double that of any other area, and trout and drum.

The Aransas area was top in the marketing of oysters, flounder, and pampano. The Matagorda area led in blue crabs, gafftopsail catfish, and freshwater catfish.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

"If you are in employment or self-employment that counts towards social security, be sure that you get credit for your earnings," H. P. Thomas, district manager of the Odessa social security office, said today.

The amounts of benefits which may become payable to you and your dependents or your survivors are figured from the average earnings credited to your social security account. To become eligible for any benefits you must have been in work covered by social security for a certain length of time. If your earnings are not correctly reported, benefit payments to you and your family may be reduced; if your work under social security is not reported you will not get credit for years which you may need to be insured at time of retirement or in case of your disability or death.

Thomas said that most people now reaching age 65 need to have at least 4½ years of earnings on their social security account. People reaching 65 later will need even more credits. (A man born in 1906 or later or a woman born in 1909 or later will need 10 years of social security credit.) For disability benefit payments (age 50 to 65) at least 5 years of social security credit are needed.

An employed person should make sure that his employer reports his wages correctly; if he works for himself he should report his net earnings when he files his income tax return and pay the social security tax on those earnings every year. Failure to make a yearly report is a violation of the law and can result in penalties and interest charges on unpaid social security taxes. Failure to report, moreover, can result in the wiping out of social security insurance protection altogether. The law says that earnings must get on the record within three years, 3 months and 15 days after the taxable year in which they were earned.

Ask for a statement of your social security account at least once every three years.

Bank Deposits Show Decline In 1st Quarter

Deposits in West Texas banks generally showed a decline during the last quarter although they held about even with a year ago.

Loans, on the other hand, showed an increase in most cases over a year ago and during the last quarter.

The call for a condition statement came at the close of business March 15 from the state banking department and the Federal Reserve Board.

The weakening of deposits, according to most bankers, was not an indication of people digging into their savings. Rather they analyzed it as a shift of savings from banks to bonds to gain a higher interest yield.

Other reasons cited for withdrawal of deposits were to pay taxes and the wintry weather which was delaying construction projects and farm and ranch work.

The deposit decline was not universal in West Texas banks. In some cases big increases were shown, but on the average they were down.

TELEPHONE TALK
by Cliff Fisher, Manager

While it may be a little early to start packing your luggage for a vacation, it's certainly not too soon to begin planning it.

Traveling with small children? Here's a tip. Take along a familiar toy the child can carry. It will help to make him feel secure in strange places.

Here's another tip. Call ahead for reservations. If you're staying with friends or relatives give them a call too and let them know when you plan to arrive. And don't forget to make that thank-you call when you get back home. Long Distance is fast and economical; especially when you call station-to-station after 6 p.m., or on Sunday.

Pick-A-Phone . . .

"Sure be nice when the spring flowers start blooming," a fellow down the block said the other day. "Just looking at their colors makes me feel good."

"Say," I said, "since you like color so much I have a suggestion."

"What's that?" he asked.

"A color phone. You have a wide choice, red, white, green—nine altogether." Almost as an afterthought I added, "You can pick your phone from . . . a garden of colors!"

That did it. "Now you're talking my language," said my garden-loving friend. He chuckled. "Colors of the garden in my house with color phones. Think I'll get one—maybe even two."

Why don't you do as he did? Treat yourself to color phones.

It's Smart To Look Up The Number

"The best way to learn and remember something is to look it up . . ." That's what a teacher told me years ago when I asked how to spell a word.

It was good advice then. It's good advice now. When you want to know a number, for instance, the best thing to do is look it up in the directory.

Incidentally, if you'd like a free Blue Book for keeping frequently-called numbers, just phone the telephone business office.

Call by number. It's twice as fast.

The Launching Pad

By NEAL ESTES

GEORGE DAVIS is a good garden making man, and as far as beet culture is concerned, he is champion in our book. GEORGE never worries about when to plant. He wouldn't dare put seed in the ground until Good Friday. That date comes on April 15 this year. It will be the 106th day of the year. GEORGE explains why he plants only on Good Friday this way: "All the elements are right then, and you just can't go wrong." As far as this East Texas boy is concerned we had just as soon plant on April 13, the birthday of THOMAS JEFFERSON. JEFFERSON was author of our Declaration of Independence, and we imagine he could have written some pretty good instructions on planting vegetables. He sure wrote a good set of principles for us to follow and if more of us would insist on living by and fighting for our southern way of life maybe the elements stirring up strife on the economic and social scenes wouldn't have developed. That foreign element is bad anyway you take it—either in the soil or in the people who want to destroy the THOMAS JEFFERSON way of life.

REV. WALLACE KIRBY dropped by the office last week to leave information about the revival now in progress at THE FIRST METHODIST CHURCH and while visiting with us said: "NEAL, I like your new column and we of the church appreciate the manner in which you have readied the publicity for churches in the county newspaper." Thank you BROTHER KIRBY and may your current revival result in the goal you and your fellow workers have set—more Christianity for the community.
