Snooter Knows

By JAMES E. KELLY

A WEST TEXAS NEWSPAPERMAN, following the profession since the day he was initiated into the work as printer's devil, is retiring from the game. Willard Jones has sold the Hamlin Herald to Roy Craig of the Stamford American and associates.

In his farewell column, Jones said: "As one parting gesture to people generally of my town of Hamlin—an idea is almost as much a part of our life as our religion—Oh, that people would support their home town that educates their children, protects their homes with police and fire facilities and provides livability for most of them. Why, Hamlin would be a city of 10,000 people within five years if people traded at home—it couldn't help it."

"We challenge our friends to stop and consider what proportion of their income they spend to help other towns grow. It just doesn't make any sense to us. At any rate, we prophesy that until people resolve to boost one another, trade at home and work together more, our town has a bleak future, when it has the greater possibilities of any little town in the country."

August 1 Is Dollar Day In Stanton

Monday, August 1, is Dollar Day in Stanton.

This once-a-month event has been good for the community with both the customers and merchants benefiting immensely.

Many merchants have continued to advertise specials in the issue of The Stanton Reporter before the Monday sales. It would be a fine thing if all the merchants would list a few items and run them in the paper for the Dollar Day event. It wouldn't take a lot of space, and just two or three items would be appreciated by the buying public.

Some of the merchants who have not been advertising have been getting the benefit of the Dollar Day program, but have not realized what they should because of lack of publishing specials for the day.

Now is a good time to make a resolution that will help keep Martin County money at home by planning advertising space in the county newspaper.

If the price is right and the merchandise in demand there is no question but what businessmen will profit and at the same time prove to the people that their trade is appreciated.

In this issue of the paper we have some Dollar Day specials listed. We suggest our readers take advantage of the bargains.

Be in Stanton Monday.

By JAMES C. WATSON

Construction is to be started by August 15 on a new gasoline plant in the south end of the presently proven area of the Azalea (Strawn and Devonian) gas-distillate field in East Midland County.

The facility will be jointly owned by Odessa Natural Gasoline Company and Warren Petroleum Corporation. It will have a maximum capacity of 20,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day.

The plant, to cost approximately $750,000, will be operated by Warren. It will extract propane, butane and light gasoline from gas produced by some of the leases in the Azalea area.

It will be a low-temperature type of plant and has been designed for compactness and semi-automatic operation.

It will be on a 20-acre tract in section 2, block 38, T-3-S, T&P survey which is nine miles southeast of Midland and four miles south of State Highway 158.

The engineering design work and the ordering of equipment and material for the installation is about completed. The plant is slated to start operations during the fourth quarter of this year.

Depending on operating pressures, it has a design capacity of between 10 and 20 million cubic feet of gas daily.

Philosopher Says Most Business Could Be Run From Underground, But Not Farming

Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw has found something new to worry about, his letter indicates.

Dear editor: There's a move on in the world that has me worried. It's the theory that to be safe in this nuclear warfare age, everything has to go underground.

It's a fact, I read only last night that it's possible that all homes some day will be built underground. Why not, the argument went. We've already found out buildings don't need windows, you can air-condition them the year around, so why not build houses underground? Eliminate all the costs of style and outside architectural appearance, the need for painting, re-roofing, etc. Just build them out of concrete, cover them up with dirt, turn on the air-conditioning, and be cool in summer and warm in winter. Not even any laws to know.

Moreover, we've already got underground munitions manufacturing plants, underground airports for bombers, underground launching sites for guided missiles, underground government offices for emergency use, why only last week they launched some guided missiles from under water via submarine.

Now I've been thinking about this, maybe it is possible to live underground, to keep all the grocery stores, drygoods stores, highways, filling stations, churches, football fields, schools, etc., below ground level, at considerable initial expense, I'll admit, but what's money against survival?

But, it has just occurred to me that there's one occupation that can't be put underground, namely, farming.

Consequently, I can foresee the day when everybody else is living safely and snugly underground, while us farmers are up on top exposed to the hot sun and Russian fall-out.

This is a prospect on which I do not look with favor. Going to the added expense not only of keeping a high-priced tractor running, but also of equipping it with radar and a Geiger counter and a lead-lined

States To Parade At Tourney

"Welcome to Texas" will be the theme of the Parade of States, ushering in the 7th Jaycee International Tennis Tournament in Midland, August 1. The thrilling spectacle, with representatives of each of the States entered in the tournament, will feature beautiful floats and several musical contingents including a nationally known Air Force marching band. A generous selection of Texas' most beautiful girls will be included. Each of the 50 delegations of states will be presented with appropriate identification as to the place they represent. The spectacle will begin at 1:00 on August 1, forming at the Midland High School and winding its way through the city along "A" Street to Wall, to Main, to Texas and back to the high school. Many individuals have indicated they will be entered in the parade on horseback—a sort of tradition in Texas. Max Osborne, Midland Jaycee president will join with other local, state and national officers of the Junior Chamber in the parade to welcome the entrants and others to the city of Midland for the six day tourney.

radiation-safe cab, plus an anti-aircraft gun, will be more than a farmer can stand, regardless of how much help both parties are offering him during the next few months.

Farming is lonely enough as it is, but the thought of us being up here on top of the ground plowing away while the rest of you are down there safe and carefree in the ground, telling Russia and China to blast away, is highly unpleasant. It is something which will not only get all the inefficient, marginal farmers off the farms, but most of the efficient ones too.

Can't they think of some other way to run the world?
Yours faithfully,

Texas Safety Association Give Aid Hints

Old folks at home can be a problem. Many have failing eyesight, deafness, stiffening of the joints and muscles, diminished sense of smell and other physical failings.

According to the Texas Safety Association such failings contribute annually to thousands of accidental home deaths.

Nearly 15,000 Americans over 65 years of age die each year in home accidents. About 11,500 are victims of falls. Fire burns and other deaths associated with fires account for about 1,500 deaths a year. Accidental poisonings, too, are a big problem among oldsters.

How can you help keep senior citizens safe?

- To prevent falls, TSA suggests:
1. Increase the amount of light on stairs. Put a light by an older's bed.
 2. Remove slipping and tripping hazards.
 3. Install hand rails and grab bars in bathroom and hallway.
 4. Make sure there's a clear path from bed to door.

Burns and fire deaths can be reduced by:

1. Following manufacturer's directions for installing and operating home heating equipment.
2. Making sure older persons know the best escape route from the house.
3. Working out a plan for family members to aid an older in case of emergency.
4. Installing a home fire alarm for early warning.

Poisonings can be prevented if people will take these precautions:

1. Store internal and external medicines on different shelves in the medicine cabinet.
2. Store household cleaning agents away from food or seasonings.
3. Keep just one night's supply of medicine by the bed. That way, there's no chance of an over-dose.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Shockley of Kansas City, Missouri, returned home Wednesday, July 20 after visiting with Mrs. Ogal Avery and family.

Too Many Fatal Farm Accidents

Farm people have a slightly higher percentage of fatal accidents than do other population groups, reports the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council. The rate of accidental deaths from work and recreational activities on farms is increasing slightly each year, as is the death rates associated with machinery, drownings, firearms and electricity. Accidental deaths due to animals, falls, lightning and burns are decreasing, however.

According to a recent survey made by the National Safety Council, Texas ranks in the top ten states in the number of deaths caused from drownings, firearms, burns and electricity. The Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council points out that a little care and caution on the part of rural dwellers could help remove Texas from these unpopular lists.

During this week of July 24, an intensive safety campaign is being conducted in Texas, and all over the nation. The Texas Council urges all rural residents to participate in the activities of National Farm Safety Week—not only for that week, but for the entire year.

"A little bit of caution could prevent a lot of grief," reminds the Texas Council.

Bible Comment

Suffering Brings Fellowship In Christ

When Jesus hung upon the cross, one of the two thieves between whom He was crucified, reviled Him, urging Him to save Himself, and them. The other thief rebuked his fellow, reminding him they were suffering justly for their misdeeds, whereas Jesus was suffering for His innocence and goodness. The penitent thief had the reward of hearing Jesus say, "This day thou shalt be with me in Paradise."

It is the distinction between two kinds of suffering which Peter emphasizes in his writings that does so much to encourage suffering Christians.

The Christian who suffers is a partaker of the sufferings of Christ. Instead of being embittered, he may well glorify God. Certainly as we observe life, we can not very well say that the ideal life is entirely free from suffering.

We have seen those who have accepted the way of suffering patiently and in subjection to the will of God ennobled by their experience, finding a deep satisfaction in life often denied to those whose ways have been easier and more pleasant.

Peter brings this philosophy of endurance of suffering into the realm of Christian faith and practice, emphasizing the part of humility and the strength that comes to men through casting all their cares upon God.

The mystery of pain has never been solved. We do not know why the innocent suffer with and for the guilty. We do know, however, that there is a fellowship in Christ's suffering which has brought to suffering Christians happiness and peace. And this too, is a mystery.

Not a single cracked egg since Chevy took over the route

That '60 Fleetside pickup you see takes whatever kind of road comes along, and makes about 250 stops a day delivering eggs house to house for Mr. Harry Hansen of Missoula, Montana. "With my previous truck," Mr. Hansen writes, "I always had some cracked eggs. Cargo damage always cut into my profits. But the new Chevy eliminated that problem completely. I haven't had one cracked egg with my new truck and I've had up to a ton of eggs in it without any difficulty... I didn't know a truck could ride so nice."

Chevy rides nice, all right; takes good care of fragile cargoes. But that's not even the half of it. Torsion-spring suspension also means longer life for the truck, extra thousands of working miles, because the sheet metal and body components take less of a beating. You can run off-the-road or over back trails at faster safe speeds, too; get in more trips a day, make more money. Those facts are as true of the big Chevrolet heavyweights as they are of the pickups. Any model you name. Get one on your job and you've got the world's most efficient, most economical way to haul any load over any road. Your dealer will be happy to prove that statement any day you say.

"I'm getting close to 20 miles to the gallon," Mr. Hansen states, "and that's on stop-and-go delivery."

As summer presses on and the heat continues, more and more people are journeying to swimming pools and lakes.

Representatives of the American Red Cross offer advice that will insure your safety and your enjoyment in the swimming pool.

The Red Cross emphasizes these major do's and don'ts for swimmers. Don't swim right after eating. Don't go in the water when fatigued, and come out at the first signs of fatigue.

Don't swim alone.

Come out if you reach the uncontrollable shivering stage.

Don't swim too far out.

Never swim in water you don't know something about, such as abandoned quarries, small rivers, etc.

Don't engage in "horseplay" in the water, such as ducking or pulling someone down from underneath, when you don't know the other person's condition.

The concern now is taking gas from Gulf and Humble's completed producers in the Azalea area and moving it to Odessa where it is being sold to petrochemical plants now in operation there as fuel gas.

As soon as the Odessa Natural-Warren gasoline plant is put in operation all of the Azalea field gas gathered by the Odessa Natural system will be run through that facility and stripped of its petroleum liquids before being discharged into the pipe line to the Odessa industrial units.

The gathering system, the gasoline plant and the 20-mile pipe line all have been planned and designed so their capacities can quickly and economically be increased to handle added production in the field and also to provide more fuel gas - if and when needed - to the industrial plants in the Midland-Odessa area.

Already more than $500,000 has been expended by Odessa Natural on the gathering system and the Azalea-Odessa gas pipe line.

4-H Members Learn Public Speaking, Community Service

Not all 4-H Club work is centered around raising cows, chickens, corn and pigs as many 4-H'ers show by becoming public speakers. However, their agricultural and home economics projects do provide opportunities to learn the art of oratory. And the 4-H public speaking program spells out just how they can achieve this goal.

During the course of carrying on projects, the 4-H'ers make oral reports at club meetings, fit words to actions in giving demonstrations, and get the feel of appearing before an audience in showmanship and exhibit events. Boys and girls most likely to succeed as speakers are given special coaching by county extension agents, teachers, or qualified local leaders. Some receive tips on radio and TV techniques, and appear on home town programs.

The 4-H'ers not only learn to give a talk, but also to write their own speeches. Subjects for the most part are related to 4-H experiences, citizenship and leadership.

An allied activity is community relations. In this 4-H program, club members undertake joint projects to promote 4-H and community improvement.

The youth act as news reporters, give leadership to local civic, safety and health campaigns; plan and participate in recreational and social events.

Along with developing into public speakers and community leaders, these talented 4-H'ers have a chance to gain materially. The Pure Oil Company provides awards in the public speaking program which include gold-filled medals of honor for the outstanding girl and boy in the county. To the best boy speaker in the state goes a 19-jewel inscribed wrist watch, while the top ranking girl receives a set of silverware. State winners also have an opportunity to compete for one of two national $400 college scholarships and an all expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

TURKISH FIREMEN AMONG BEST—The Turkish fireman wears a helmet resembling that of a Roman soldier of old, but he uses the latest equipment and the most modern methods in fighting fires in Izmir. The city's fire loss rate is surprisingly low.

TEXAN IN TURKEY—

Firemen Dress Up For Duty In Izmir

(Editor's Note: This is another in a series of articles by Shorty Shelburne, formerly of Stanton, and the son of George Shelburne of Stanton. He is now on U. S. military assignment in Turkey.)

By SHORTY SHELBURNE

IZMIR, TURKEY — In all of its major aspects, the fire department in this city is trained, equipped, and provides services much like the fire departments in the United States. The uniform worn by the Turkish fireman and some of the routine duties he performs interestingly are different from those of American firemen, however.

My impressions when I first visited Izmir's Central Fire Station went like this:

As I approached the station, I saw a fellow in a peculiar looking helmet walking back and forth in front of the station. I thought to myself, "If this guy is a fireman and this is his uniform, it sure beats anything this Texan in Turkey ever saw on a fireman in Texas, even at a fireman's ball."

Sure enough, he was and it did. He was a fireman and the uniform beat anything I had ever seen on a fireman.

Eying him from the ground up, the shoes and the gray uniform trousers he wore were similar enough to those of an American fireman. But from there on, I found a marked difference in dress.

The belt the Turkish fireman wore wasn't really a belt at all. It was a leather and cloth sash about four inches wide, tightly pulled about his waist.

His shirt was distinctly on a military cut and prominent epaulets adorned his shoulders.

The helmet, in general appearance, closely resembled that of a knight or Roman soldier of an era long ago. It was made of metal and had a sort of coccomb about an inch high running down the center to the lowest part of the back which extended about four inches lower than in front.

It was a peculiar sight to a Texan who is accustomed to seeing firemen dressed in blue suits and visored caps.

I inquired as to why a sentry was stationed in front of the fire station to walk a post like a soldier, expecting an answer which would amaze me further.

I found out the reason for the sentry is a simple one, however. It seems that Turkish people, like people the world over, are attracted by the big red fire trucks. Sometimes too many of these visitors are attracted. So, as a precautionary measure to keep the station from being clogged with visitors when a call comes, a sentry is posted in front to keep out the uninvited.

Posting the sentry also stems from a long followed custom of having a fireman alert on a beat to listen for the spreading of an alarm of a fire. It started many years ago before telephones became the means of reporting fires, and a sentry continues to walk a post today just as they did long ago, a sort of tradition.

I have toured Izmir's Central Fire Station since I first saw that sentry walking his post, and I have learned to hold Turkish firemen in high respect. The department here has a remarkable record of holding fire loss to a minimum. A special honor roll in the station house lists a number of firemen who have given their lives in service to the community.

The Turkish fireman looks odd to us as he walks his post in his unusual uniform, but there is nothing odd about the way he performs his duties. He can take his place with the best.

Mitchell Rites Held Friday

Funeral rites for L. Dalton Mitchell, 60, of Big Spring were held Friday afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church, Big Spring.

Mr. Mitchell, who was the half-brother of Mrs. Ada Flemings, of Stanton, died suddenly of a heart attack Wednesday afternoon, July 20.

Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, pastor, officiated. Burial was in the City Cemetery. Born October 3, 1899, at Mt. Pleasant, Mr. Mitchell moved to Howard County from McCauley in 1923. He farmed for three years from 1927-30, and then was a barber until 1936 when he became associated with Great Southern Life Insurance Company.

He had served as a director and vice president of the Kiwanis Club and was an elder of the First Presbyterian Church. He was one of the founders of the Big Spring Life Underwriters Association and served as its president.

Other survivors include the widow of Big Spring; a sister, Mrs. Virgie Knight of Snyder; a sister-in-law, Mrs. Ada Mitchell of Roby and 11 nephews and nieces.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snailum and Loretta of St. Clair, Michigan, have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Austin Watts.

Carolyn Sue Hanson of Bowie has been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Smith.

Supply Of Texas Fruits Plentiful In Week's Markets

Texans need look no farther than the Lone Star State for the best buys in fruits and vegetables this week, the Agricultural Marketing Service says.

Watermelons, cantaloupes, tomatoes and peaches rank among the most abundant foods on the market this week. The bulk of these comes from Texas.

Besides these "best buys," Texas corn and peaches and Thompson seedless grades are coming in quite heavily at local markets. Also in good supply this week are cabbage and iceberg lettuce.

Celery, cucumbers, egg plant, grapes, honeydews, iceberg lettuce, peaches, Texas round red potatoes, yellow squash and tomatoes showed lower prices this week than last.

California nectarines, plums and peaches are in increased supply at about steady wholesale prices.

Apples, particularly winesaps, have increased in price this week. This is the off-season for apples and supplies are light.

Supplies are a bit lighter and prices higher this week on bananas, carrots, greens, okra and peppers.

Many stores are featuring turkeys this week. Broiler-fryers continue reasonably priced. Peanut butter and vegetable fats and oils are plentiful.

Guests with Mr. and Mrs. Clyde White and daughters and Mrs. Margie Cozby have been Mrs. L. B. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Don Branson and sons, all of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Richards and Billie of Breckenridge. Mrs. L. B. Cozby is a sister-in-law to Mrs. Margie Cozby.

Ray Collins of Odessa visited Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stewart. His daughter, Linda Collins, who had been with the Stewarts returned home with him.

Good Crop Year Looms In Texas

The U. S. Department of Agriculture said 1960 is looking more and more like a good crop year.

"A good crop season continued to shape up," the U.S.D.A. said in its weekly crop report. "Crops and pastures in the Trans-Pecos, Plains and Blacklands made rapid development following heavy rains."

Lower Valley and Coastal Bend farmers harvested sorghum while cotton poisoning, hay cutting and mowing weeds were the chief activities in Upper Coastal, South Central, Blacklands and Northeastern counties.

Panhandle onion and potato harvest moved into high gear as fields dried. Damage from excessive rain has been light. East Texas summer vegetable harvest continued active. Supplies of okra, peas, squash, corn and green beans are available in good volume.

Tomato harvest neared completion. North Texas watermelon and cantaloups harvest moved into full swing. Carrot planting started in the winter garden.

The heavy rains improved ranges and pastures and all classes of livestock were starting to pick up in the Trans-Pecos area.

The first bale of coastal bend cotton was ginned July 12. Picking will begin on a limited basis in South Central Texas in early August.

Cotton insects are damaging the crop in East Texas. Hot, open weather is needed in the Plains. Sorghum combining is over 75 per cent complete in the Lower Valley.

Hints On Keeping Cattle Shrink Low Listed

The heavy fall livestock marketing period is only a few months away, and producers are beginning to think about the returns they will get on their investments. Lloyd Bergsma, extension livestock marketing specialist, points out that selling price alone does not determine whether or not the producer will show a profit. A combination of selling price and pounds sold determines how much money a producer can put in the bank—or how much he must borrow to continue operations for another year.

Cattle shrinkage can cut down on profits or, in some cases, it can even mean the difference between profit and loss. Bergsma offers the following tips for keeping shrinkage low:

Keep physical activity of cattle at a minimum during marketing. An overnight stand, or at least a few hours, off feed and water before loading results in less shipping shrink.

Make full use of the feed and rest stops for cattle shipped long distances.

Plan the loading job so that there are no unnecessarily long delays.

Feed hay before shipping. Animals accustomed to hay will not only shrink less enroute but will take hay at the sales yards or rest stops much quicker than those not used to hay.

If you are shipping long distances, make sure your animals have a chance to feed and rest before sale time. It will pay to allow from 24

Congressman Mahon Gives Senator Kennedy Laurels

Congressman George Mahon from this district, told a Colorado City Lions Club Friday the major factors in the victory of Senator John F. Kennedy at Los Angeles were "his hard work, ambition, boundless energy and his brilliant, facile mind." He predicted that if Kennedy is elected he will "grow into the job until he will be recognized as of presidential stature."

Waited Too Late

"It is the pressure of the demands of a job that makes a man grow great or collapse," he said. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson failed because, Mahon said, the Texas senator stayed at his job and waited until too late to make the race and because of northern prejudice against the South.

This prejudice "must be experienced to be believed," Mahon said, adding, "The North talks about bigotry in the South, but the bigotry and hypocrisy of the North is certainly as bad as the South."

Mahon said that should the Democrats be elected, Johnson certainly will exercise great power in the President's Cabinet.

"And I will feel better and I know that many of you will feel better knowing that Johnson is in that group (the Cabinet)."

Mahon was one of the Texas delegates at the convention.

The Launching Pad

By NEAL ESTES

"We mortals, men and women, devour many a disappointment between breakfast and dinner time; keep back the tears, and look a little pale about the lips, and in answer to inquiries say, 'Oh, nothing!' Pride helps us; and pride is not a bad thing when it only urges us to hide our own hurts, not to hurt others." —George Eliot

Pride is as loud a beggar as want and a great deal more saucy. When you subdue a person's pride, indeed you have hurt him tremendously, but in cases where real love is at stake then it is sensible to swallow your pride and stand up and be counted like a man.

It's good to recall some of the happier hours when a case of blues seems to be engulfing you. Our advice is try and remember the experiences of better days. For instance, I had a great and good friend once that could always produce laughter between us by simply saying: "Yes, and there's a haystack in Kansas." Now days, the teen age crowd probably get that feeling of good companionship by saying: "That's cool man, cool."

Schools starts again pretty soon in Stanton and that reminds us of the football season. Won't be long until the coaches will have candidates for starting places on the Bison eleven out for daily practice. We remember when we used to play quarterback on our high school team. In those days the quarterback stood up and called signals out loud — no huddles. Sometimes, when it appeared the opposition had caught on to the key number of a play we would change up by shouting the name of a day in the week first—and then the signals might go like this "Friday-9-45-6-34-24." Sometimes a smart signal catcher could even figure that one out.

MAC McKAY, our mechanical superintendent has just told me to knock this column off this week for we are overset and short of time. So that's what we'll do. Besides this is the week that the French in us seems to be stirring strongly and that means we are easy to get along with and somewhat lazy.
