We wish to extend greetings to the following who signed up for a year's reading pleasure with the Ole Reliable since we printed the last issue: Mrs. J. T. Young, Stanton; Ellis Everetts, Star Route, Stanton; W. L. Mattingly, Star Route, Tarzan; Jerrell Mattingly, Denton, Texas; Carroll Hull, Stanton; Carolyn Manning, Texas Tech; Deroey Anderson, Tokio, Texas; A. J. Beckmeyer, Ackerly; Cecil E. Brown, Beaumont; Ernest Hoek, Stanton.

To those football fans who follow the nation's top teams we recommend close scrutiny for these: Ole Miss, Iowa, Missouri, Georgia Tech, Baylor, TCU, and Texas.

Rains seem to visit the county on Sundays. At least the last big rain fell late Sunday evening. That date was September 24. And some of the highest wind of the year rolled over this area last Sunday night or early Monday morning. Although very little moisture fell in the Stanton section good rains were reported further East and Big Spring caught real high winds. No damage resulting from hail was recorded in Martin County following the windstorm early Monday morning.

Old Rip, a famous frog whose been dead since 1929 up in Eastland County was stolen from his resting place in a glass case in the lobby of the Eastland courthouse last week. Rip is now back in his red casket under the glass. A telephone call sent police hurrying to a bank building to retrieve Rip. The frog achieved fame in a legend that said he breathed for 31 years while sealed in the cornerstone of Eastland's old courthouse. Boyce House, noted Texas newsmen is credited with authoring the story of Rip.

Another photographer has gained prominence of some sort. Armstrong-Jones, husband of the English princess Margaret and former court photographer, has been named an earl. Reason for the big rank is to keep the couple's child from being born a commoner. Now how about that? It took us commoners two wars and a lot of lend-lease cash to keep Britain afloat. The other photographer, a commoner, who made good is the wife of President Kennedy. Yes, Jackie used to carry a camera around in Washington, D. C. while working on a newspaper up there. Jackie, a French doll, is apparently well satisfied to continue being one of us commoners. But we feel like we should point out that dukes and marquesses outrank earls in England but earls are above viscounts and barons. And in addition to the counts and viscounts, Britain also keeps a few 'no-counts' around too.

Saw George Davis at Friendly Food early Wednesday morning. The well known gardener was displaying some mustard specimens to us. George will always retain his love of gardening. Undoubtedly, he grows the best tasting beets in West Texas. His secret — perhaps — always planting on a certain day — Good Friday.

People who accept appointments or places of responsibility to work for such fine organizations such as the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and others, should always remember that the good credited to their records can be a permanent joy provided they give of their time for the good that can be accomplished for others and not for showmanship or for business gain or selfish personal reasons. And too — the acclaim for doing a fine public job can be badly dimmed by conducting your private life in such a manner that it discredits you. A person can't pull down the shades at night — the public eye is too big — and we maintain that reputation is repetition!

Gary Reid's Cat Responsible For Rattlers Death

Andy, a three-year-old Siamese cat is an important feline these days in the Jimmy Henson-Stanley Reid neighborhood. Andy, owned by Gary Reid, son of Stanley and Mrs. Reid, is probably responsible for saving Henson from a rattlesnake bite. Jimmy had started toward his pickup, parked in the driveway, when he spotted Andy sparring and weaving back and forth over a coiled object on the ground. The rattler sounded his snake siren — the familiar sound known to most West Texans and Henson knew Andy had cornered a snake. He retreated, picked up a shovel and shattered the reptile's head. Gary dropped by the newspaper office early the morning after the nocturnal event and said: "I have a rattlesnake to report." And he sure did — a rattlesnake story that tops a lot of those we have heard this year and young Gary should be proud of Andy, the cat that probably saved Jimmy Henson a rattlesnake bite.

Bufs Lose To Fort Stockton

Statistically Stanton won a football game Friday night but statistics don't count in the won-loss column and Fort Stockton was on the long end of the scoring 14-8. It was a heart-breaker for the local outfit. They put up a beautiful defensive performance and every man on the squad seemed eager to give all to win against the Panthers, but fate dealt the blow that blasted the Buff hopes when a fourth period touchdown allowed the visitors to break the 8-8 deadlock and go on to win. Stanton made 16 first downs as compared to eight for Fort Stockton and racked up 175 yards rushing as compared to 108 for the Panthers. The Bisons gained 54 yards by air while the visitors annexed 32 yards in the aerial division. The Panthers were supposed to have one of the classiest offenses in the section from which they hail but their thrusts forward were unimpressive here Friday night. The brilliant defensive play of the local boys completely stopped the heralded offensive of the Panthers. The Stocktonites put together a pair of drives — one for 37 yards and one for 56 yards to get the touchdowns that won for them. Mike Black, Robert Turner, Herb Sorley, Sammy Webb, and Mike Sorley stood out defensively for Stanton. (Continued on page 4)

Local Woman Writes Story Of Gardening

By MARIE WILSON

Chrysanthemums are considered a modern plant in that no fossils have been found of them or of their plant family, which includes the asters, dahlias, dandelion, golden rods, ragweeds and sunflowers.

According to history they were grown about 500 B. C. by the Chinese. Some say the seeds were brought into Japan in 386 A. D. The Japanese did much in developing the plant. It was about 1800 A. D. before it was cultivated in the United States.

Choose a well-drained spot to plant mums; this is more important than soil.

There are many varieties of chrysanthemums so it is best to plant those of one variety together, as some varieties temp pests more, and need special dusts and sprays.

Keep plants pinched until mid-July. This is done by nipping out the top bud when a shoot gets 5 to 7 inches long. This causes new side shoots to start, more flowers and bushier plants, more protection from hard wind and rain.

Water thoroughly, roots are interwove so tightly, that they are hard to water. Lay end of hose on a board between plants, let water run for at least five minutes for each plant. Water about twice a week in summer and once a week in cool weather. Don't sprinkle or spray, this causes diseases of plants.

Stake the plants early, and make several ties on each plant, and dust or spray often for diseases and insects.

Don't feed mums heavily in late summer, but feed generously until July. Any good plant food will do.

In summer mulch with peat, or one of the new mineral mulching materials; in winter use leaves, straw or hay.

Early spring is the best time to divide old plants. Save only the outer-half of each clump. Plant about five shoots together if divided in spring, 10 or more shoots together if later.

The mums root well from cuttings. Chrysanthemums require good ventilation. Don't plant them in a corner where there is limited air circulation.

An Open Letter To The Citizens Of Stanton, And Martin County

We have started construction on streets within your city. The estimated cost of this project is $237,415.35. This project is being paid for by the citizens of Stanton from a bond issue voted by you. Your City Council accepted bids on this project after publicly advertising for bids as is required by law. Our firm has been selected as the contractor on the project. We then gave the City of Stanton a performance bond guaranteeing we will complete the project for the amount of our bid price.

Some pertinent facts, which you as tax payers should know about the project are as follows.

- 1—Streets are being built for your future safety, comfort, and convenience. There will be a certain amount of inconvenience to you during construction, but an effort will be made by our firm and the City to keep this inconvenience to a minimum. Your cooperation and understanding will be appreciated, and will expedite completion of the work.
- 2—The estimated payroll on the job will be approximately $100,000.00. Approximately ninety per cent will be paid to laborers and mechanics hired locally, and the money will remain in Stanton and Martin County to bolster your economy.
- 3—The major portion of the remaining construction amount on the project will be spent for construction material, supplies, maintenance and repair on construction equipment, supervision, engineering, and overhead. A small per cent should accrue to the contractor for profit on his investment. This is in keeping with the free enterprise system under which we operate.
- 4—The engineering and supervision personnel used by the contractor on this project will be competent men who have had many years experience at this type of construction. They fully realize that good public relations is an important factor for the successful completion of the Stanton assessment program.

We invite your inquiries; If we can furnish you additional information or be of further service to you.

Closer inspection reveals adroit styling of roof sheet metal which gives the sport coupe an exclusive and jaunty appearance. The Impala tops a line of 32 passenger car models, including the Corvair, Corvette and the new Chevy II series.

With New Species Of Fish

Experimentation in providing additional fish stock for Lake J. B. Thomas is getting under way. R. A. (Skeet) Schooling, lake superintendent, said Saturday that two of the district's new hatchery ponds had been stocked with different species of fish.

One contains red-ear perch, a larger kind of perch than is now in the lake. The red-ear gains its name from a vivid red fin at the gill, and it normally attains half and three-quarters of a pound. Indications are that a good spawn already has been secured.

Another pond has been stocked with Rio Grande blue cat of this

Northern Doves
Haven't Moved Into Texas Yet

Where have all the doves gone? This is one of the principal questions now being asked of everyone who has anything to do with wildlife, according to Howard Dodgen, executive secretary of the Game and Fish Commission.

This question, of course, comes from the hunter in the North Zone. When the season opens in the South Zone October 7, indications are the hunter will find his answer. Reports from all over South Texas point to a heavy dove population, particularly in that area South of San Antonio and on down to the Valley.

"We've had reports of many doves in the Middle West," Dodgen said. "A few moved down recently when we had a little cool spell. Perhaps with another heavy front moving in we may get better shooting in this area."

Reports from Oklahoma are that quite a few doves are being harvested there. However, in the Lake Texoma area on the Texas side, the shooting has been down.

Quail seem to be plentiful over most of Texas, except in the coastal area where they were hard hit by hurricane Carla.

FARM REVIEW and FORECAST

Farm fires caused losses estimated at $165 million in the nation last year. W. S. Allen, extension agricultural engineer, said the figure was supplied by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Building losses accounted for about 65 percent of the total loss payments by companies for which a breakdown by property class was available, he added. Almost three-fourths of the building losses were on main buildings — homes and barns.

Allen continued that now is the time for neighbors to attack this problem of fires, and suggested that special emphasis be placed on fire prevention during National Fire Prevention Week, October 8-14. This period is just ahead of the month when farm fires take their greatest toll. November was the peak month last year. Four-fifths of all 1960 farm fires and 84 percent of the lives lost occurred during the six months from October through March, Allen said.

Family training in fire hazard removal and fire fighting and drills for establishing escape routes in case of fire were suggested by the engineer as things families and neighbors could work on together. Farm families, in particular, he added, must rely on their own fire safety training, fire prevention checkups, and fire protection measures to safeguard their lives, income and property.

Pruning plants is an art which can be acquired through learning certain basic principles and the exceptions to them, and through experience and close observation. The purpose of pruning is to remove unwanted growth, and the cardinal rule to follow is that if you have no good reason to prune, put the tools away.

Pruning tools should be of high quality, sharp and well adapted to the job at hand. These tools are made in several sizes so the purchaser should decide which size is best suited to his needs.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has released a bulletin which contains a wealth of information for the home pruner. This publication B-977, "Modern Pruning Methods," give a complete discussion on the reasons for pruning, pruning tools, pruning methods, safety rules, and contains a list of suggested reading material plus special sections on pruning shrubs and small trees, hedges, evergreens and roses.

Copies of this bulletin may be obtained from the local county agent or from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

What kind of results did you obtain the last time you pruned your shrubs? Did they come out as beautiful as you planned or did they look pretty botched up? Or perhaps your favorite tree died the year after you pruned it. These are common problems of the untrained do-it-yourself pruner.

Some growers do have a supply of good quality seed which they carried over and which were harvested under favorable weather conditions. Also, some of the stored supplies that have been damaged may still contain some salvageable seed. These supplies will help take up some of the shortage.

Since there will be a shortage, however, people who do have stored seed should take every precaution to make sure these supplies are not damaged. O. F. Garner, extension entomologist, says the stored supplies should be checked for insect infestation, and the storage bins and surrounding area should be kept clean. If a stored supply has been partially damaged, the seed should be removed from the bin and separated. Before the damaged seed is returned to storage, the bin should be thoroughly cleaned and dried.

After the bin and area have been thoroughly cleaned, they should be sprayed with either methoxychlor, TDE or premium grade malathion A 2 1/2 percent formulation of one of these insecticides should be used at the rate of about two gallons per 100 square feet of surface area, says Garner. Methoxychlor and TDE are also available as wettable powders and emulsion concentrates.

Early stalk destruction and farm cleanup are valuable tools for farmers to use in the control of pink bollworms and boll weevils. It has been proven many times that proper early Fall stalk destruction will reduce both the pink bollworm and the boll weevil survival the following Winter.

In many areas of the state, boll weevils have been a serious problem this year, and in certain areas the population of pink bollworms has increased. Extension entomologists say that a large number of boll weevils are expected to be present in cotton during the late Fall. Destruction of stalks destroys the food supply of this insect and reduces the number which may survive the Winter, they point out.

Insects are attracted in large numbers to late-irrigated fields of cotton, so farmers should stop late irrigations to prevent this. In most cases, it is expensive to produce a late Fall crop because of the large buildup of pink bollworms, boll weevils and other insects. Also, there is a good chance that a large population of pink bollworms and boll weevils will go into hibernation and survive the Winter as a result of this late cotton, explain the entomologists.

In areas of the state where stalk destruction is recommended, it is one of the most economical and effective methods of controlling the pink bollworm and redwing boll weevil populations. The use of stalk shredders is highly recommended since these machine kill many of the pink bollworms left in the field after harvest. It is advisable to plow under the shredded residue to a depth of six inches within five days after cutting. Stripper harvesting aids greatly in reducing the number of pink bollworms. A large amount of the infested material is stripped from the stalk and carried to the gin where the pink bollworms are destroyed during the ginning operation.

Beef cattle production records have proven very helpful to many ranchers in the never ending attempt to keep their operations profitable. Individual production records enable a rancher to select more productive replacement cattle and to cull those that fail to calve or produce "light-weight or off-type calves."

There are ranchers, however, that are not, for one reason or another, using production records. Keeping of individual records becomes time consuming for medium and large operations and many rancher feel that this requires too much time or too much money for secretarial help. Even the expected expense has caused many ranchmen to avoid this type of records.

Technology has come up with something that will make the job easier and cheaper for the ranchers who are keeping records, and persuade those that aren't to begin doing so. This development is data processing. Many segments of the business world have begun using data processing equipment to reduce the cost of keeping similar records. This same service is available to beef cattle producers. Private processing centers, equipped with high-speed sorters, tabulators and computers are available to serve the beef industry.

Associations of beef cattle producers, by pooling their records, can have enough volume to bargain for attractive prices in processing these records. The use of these services would substantially decrease the cost of keeping records for medium and large herds, and it would decrease record costs of a small herd enough to also warrant their use.

Anyone interested in the possibilities of data processing should get a copy of the recent Extension Service publication B-978, "Using Data Processing Equipment To Keep Beef Cattle Records." This bulletin contains a thorough discussion on the use of this service, as well as information on what is necessary to employ it. A copy may be obtained from the local county agent.

Gail Wins Over Garden City

The Borden County Coyotes handed Garden City its fifth straight football defeat at Gail Friday night, 26-6.

The Bearkats rolled up tremendous yardage between the ten-yard lines but the Coyotes were invariably up to the challenge when their goal line was threatened.

Despite the defeat Coach Bill Richardson of Garden City, said his team was showing improvement and predicted they would be tough for conference foes to handle.

Garden City will be idle next weekend. It opens District 5-B play against Imperial in Garden City October 13.

Gary McDaniel scored the Kats' only TD on a 20-yard run. Two of Gail's tallies were set up on penalties, a third on an intercepted pass. The Coyotes counted their final TD in the final three seconds of play.

Garden City made 162 yards rushing to 163 for Gail, 28 yards passing to 21 for the Coyotes, 12 first downs to 11 for Gail and three penetrations to four for the Coyotes.

Tailback Gary Pagan, a freshman boy, was an offensive standout for Garden City. On defense, Jamie Pagan, Bernard Seidenberger, Richard Robinson and Hugh Schafer glistened for Garden City.

Mrs. Flora Morris has returned home from Tornillo, where she had been visiting with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Neill and family. Mrs. Neill and Jami returned home with her and visited here.

Farm Prices
Up Slightly

Increases for hogs, dairy products, grains, citrus fruits and tobacco led farm product prices to an advance of about one-half of 1 per cent between mid-August and mid-September.

In reporting this, the Agriculture Department said the farm price level remained at 80 per cent of the parity price goal of federal farm programs. This is the same level as a year ago.

Partly offsetting the increases were declines in prices of soybeans, some vegetables and poultry.

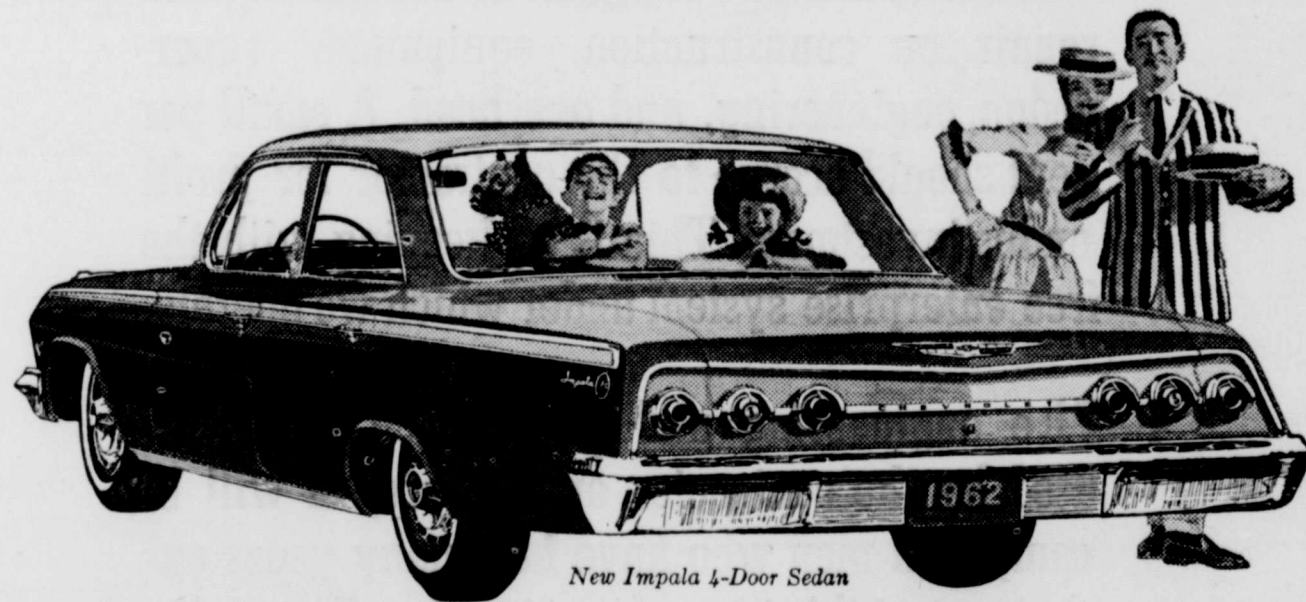

Prices paid by farmers in mid-September for goods and services, including interest, taxes and farm wage rates, averaged the same as a month earlier — 1 per cent above a year earlier.

The month saw food grain prices increase 2 per cent, dairy product prices 3.5 per cent and fruit prices 5 per cent. But poultry and egg prices declined 3 per cent. Commercial vegetables went down 7.5 per cent and oil-bearing crops 7 per cent.

Prices of hogs advanced 30 cents a hundredweight to $17.50. Beef cattle prices held unchanged at $20.20 a hundred.

State Business Report Touches All-Time High

Texas business activity rose to an all-time high in August, the University of Texas Business Research Bureau reported Saturday.

Dr. Francis May, bureau statistician, said the rise in the business index resulted from improvements in nearly all aspects of economic activity.

May said Texas' insured unemployment in August was 2.9 per cent of average covered employment, compared to the national rate of 4.5 per cent. He said this leaves Texas with one of the lowest insured unemployment rates in the country.

Crude petroleum production rose 1 per cent. The slight gain was attributed mainly to allowables for new wells.

The Railroad Commission has ordered a continuation of eight-day allowables through October, putting the total number of producing days so far this year at 84. This compares to 87 producing days in the same period last year and 104 in 1959.

Total electric power consumption in the state was up 7 per cent over July and 6 per cent over August of 1960. May said a 4 per cent increase in industrial power consumption aided the rise.

The index of average weekly hours in manufacturing in August was unchanged from July but 1 per cent below August of last year.

Average weekly wages in manufacturing for the month were $93.48, up 5 per cent from August of last year. The rise was due to an increase in average hourly earnings from $2.17 in August, 1960, to $2.28 this year, May said.

The top offering in Ford's station wagon line for 1962 is this four-door, nine-passenger Country Squire (top). The power-operated rear window is standard in this Squire as well as in the six-passenger Country Squire and in the nine-passenger Country Sedan. The Galaxie nine-passenger wagons have the only forward facing third seat in the low-priced car field. Tailgate openings on all of the wagons are more than 50" wide. This Galaxie 200 two-door hardtop (bottom) is one of twelve models being offered in Ford's expanded Galaxie series for 1962. The sculptured body of the 1962 Galaxie gives the appearance of actual motion to its unmistakably classic lines. This appearance of movement is emphasized in the recessed Thunderbird-like rear window and in the forward thrust of the roof itself. The new Galaxie series will feature an industry first—"Twice-a-year" maintenance.

A new addition to the Falcon line for 1962 is this Falcon Squire, (top) a standard, four-door, six-passenger station wagon with simulated wood exterior trim that imparts a custom-crafted look. The Falcon Squire is a "dressed-up" luxury wagon with all the basic advantages of Falcon economy and maneuverability. With the second seat converted, the Squire boasts a big, flat and level cargo space of more than 76 cubic feet. The Deluxe Club Wagon (bottom) is one of three "family fun vehicles" being offered in Ford's Falcon line in 1962. The Deluxe Club Wagon is designed to carry eight passengers, or easily convert into a camping unit, a mobile home on wheels, or an all-around utility vehicle with 204 cubic feet of cargo space. The big double doors swing back to give a side opening of more than 49 inches. This wagon features a deluxe interior with a two-tone pleated vinyl trim scheme carried through seats, doors and side panels.

The Launching Pad

By NEAL ESTES

YOUR writer was extremely flattered this week after receiving a beautifully engraved invitation to join a private club in New Orleans. The club already has units in operation in Chicago, New York and membership in the New Orleans organization will be closed in a few days. If you join the club, you get an attractive gold key and are entitled to the privileges of all the clubs. Now here is the punch line as far as we are concerned. The clubs are called PLAY BOY, and the invitation has come to us too late in life to become a charter member of the Louisiana group—why? Because we are saving trading stamps for a wheel chair—that's why.

NEWSMEN from throughout the Texas Panhandle, South Plains, Permian Basin and Eastern New Mexico, have been invited to the second annual Southwestern News Seminar slated at TEXAS TECH on October 7. Co-sponsored by the TECH journalism department and the West Texas Chapter of SIGMA DELTA CHI, professional journalistic society, the meeting is expected to attract many editors. DON REID, Huntsville newsmen, will be the principal speaker. REID is widely known as the deathhouse reporter covering the Texas State Prison. If at all possible, this is one meeting we want to attend.

AUTUMN has made her grand entrance with weather delightfully cool and evenings illuminated by the glow of a full-blown Texas moon resembling a huge gold disc suspended by invisible strings above the spacious West Texas ranchlands and heavily laden cotton fields. The harvest-time season is in evidence in Martin County and the braceros are making the cash registers ring. This is the time of year when many communities are sponsoring County Fairs. Wonder why we don't have a fair in Martin County? Down in East Texas nearly every Chamber of Commerce in the country sponsors a county exposition in the fall of the year. The Yamboree held annually in Gilmer is one of the finest events of the year in that section. But East Texas don't have a monopoly in the field of fairs—some of the best in the nation are held out here in West Texas.

THIS crisp, cool weather is supposed to keep the rattlesnakes from stirring but another rattler was killed in the yard of a local resident one evening last week. Watch out for the reptiles. We have had many reports of the presence of rattlers in the city limits this year—more than usual. The snake killed last week was coiled in the yard of JIMMIE HENSON.

THE AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION and the U. S. FOOD & DRUG ASSOCIATION will sponsor the first annual NATIONAL CONFERENCE ON MEDICAL QUACKERY in Washington, D. C. this week. The conference will be held on October 6-7. The government is joining the doctors in an all-out war on medical quacks and charlatans. These unsavory characters bilk the gullible of hundreds of millions of dollars a year through the sale of useless gadgets, phony nostrums, fake reducing pills and the many other gimmicks of the medicine show trade. Panels of distinguished speakers will be heard at the Washington meeting. Many state and county medical societies will send representatives, and these will report at home on the plans for cooperation with enforcement agencies and a step-up of public education for an accelerated drive against the quacks.

HAVE you noticed how many mail order catalogs and other pieces of promotional pamphlets are hitting the mails these days? It's the season of the year to advertise. If local merchants don't do it—in some way—either through the paper or through another medium—they cannot expect to do the business they could if they did. Of course, we are prejudiced, we sincerely think that NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING IN THIS COUNTY is the best way to get a message through to the people. You don't turn the OLE RELIABLE on and off—you know when it's coming to your house, and from the telephone calls we get when you don't get your copy—you are aware that EVERYBODY who has a dollar to spend reads this paper every week. We might add that we sincerely regret the absence of DOLLAR DAY ads in the paper last week. Just because the laborers are here is no reason to run the regular business off to nearby cities. We notice those towns—all three of them stressed DOLLAR DAY ADVERTISING WITH SPECIAL VALUES for their REGULAR customers.

THE WORLD SERIES opened Wednesday. The first games were scheduled for Yankee stadium in New York. The New Yorkers are pitted against the Cincinnati Redlegs. Your correspondent is going along with the Yanks this series. We are partial to the bombers because we have always admired MICKEY MANTLE. MICKEY is a native of Commerce, Oklahoma and now lives in Dallas. We like the name of the slugger's hometown—ours was Commerce, Texas, and for the past several years the flag has been flying on top of a residence out in University Park a few blocks from SMU known as the ESTES family domicile in Dallas. So we will stay with New York and the Texan MANTLE. We predict the Yanks will take the series in four out of five starts.

WHILE we are predicting scores or games, we would also like to predict that the BAYLOR BEARS will win the Southwest Conference championship in football. Personally, we are TEXAS UNIVERSITY, but it would do the SW Conference lots of good for BAYLOR to cap the flag, because the BRUIANS haven't won in so long. But before the Waco delegation gets too chesty about that 16-13 triumph over PITT, it might do them well to study the fine 7-7 tie TEXAS CHRISTIAN played against highly ranked OHIO STATE. And too, TCU has the best reputation in the league as champion spoilers. The RICE OWLS, an early season favorite, apparently lost their tail feathers down in Georgia the other evening when the GEORGIA TECH crew won by 24-0 over the Houstonians.

WHILE we are writing about BAYLOR we would like to mention PAIGE EILAND. PAIGE, it is said by brother Baptist, is early for church when the BEARS win but drags in a little late when the players from his old school lose. Well, as predicted, BAYLOR will win the flag
