Bible Comment—

Scripture Teaches Importance Of Home

The history of America's way of life is full of the records of men who were reared in Christian homes. From humble homes all over the land have come sons and daughters nationally known for their greatness of character and achievement.

All too often, we have not always given proper credit to the home as a prime influence in moulding these, the great women and men of our times.

Among many other lessons to be found in Scripture are the ones which exemplify the importance of good homes and Christian family life.

Two instances of this emphasis are to be found in the 16th chapter of Acts.

Lydia, the devout seller of purple, was baptised with her whole household; and when the jailer, about to kill himself because he supposed his prisoners had escaped, asked Paul what he must do to be saved, Paul answered: "Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved and thy house."

And the prime example of all is the life of Jesus with Mary and Joseph, as he grew to manhood in the archtype of all humble Christian homes.

The influences exerted by truly Christian home is the same today as it was then, and we can only hope, and pray, that more and more homes return to a truly Christian concept of living.

County Philosopher Not Afraid Of Machines Enslaving Man, Says Man Can Do It Alone

(Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw is not afraid of machines, his letter this week claims.)

Dear editor:

I never have been worried over the chances of machines replacing man, as some people seem to fear as the machines get more and more complicated, especially the big, block-long electronic brain machines. In the first place, any time a machine can take over any job of work I'm doing, it's welcome to it. Nothing about that prospect that scares me.

But I was interested in the reasons a scientist gave the other day on why machines will not replace man.

According to this scientist, machines can't really think, they have to depend on man to put them into operation and to tell them what to add or subtract or multiply. And therefore he said, to clinch his point, "machines will never outstrip and enslave man, they lack reason and cannot do what man endowed with reason can do, namely, screen sense from nonsense and make decisions from inadequate or even incorrect data."

As I understand this scientist's argument, if you feed a machine the wrong information, it'll come up with the wrong answer, it's only when you feed it the right information that it can come up with a correct answer, whereas if you feed man with the wrong information, he'll reason his way out and still come up with the correct answer.

Now I'll tell you. This scientist may know a whole lot about machines, but I'm afraid he doesn't know a whole lot about people.

Two-thirds of the world today is being fed the wrong information and so far the people have reasoned their way through it no better than what you'd expect out of a hand-cranked adding machine.

Invariably, I suppose, when you feed the wrong information to a machine, bells ring and lights flash "tilt" and it comes up with the wrong answer, but feed the wrong information to people and you never know whether they're going to blow a fuse or throw their hats in the air and vote for you. There's many an office-holder today who owes his success to the fact people aren't as apt as machines when it comes to analyzing data.

People are more like my tractor engine. Regardless of what kind of gasoline you pour into it, it won't always plow.

It may be true that machines will never enslave man, but we really don't need a machine for that anyway. Man is managing to do that by himself.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

On November 13, she is instructed to send eight inductees on their way and 21 for examination. The remainder of both lots depart on November 14.

Game Permits Necessary For Nutria Raising

Issuance of permits for raising and selling of nutria will be delayed by the Game and Fish Commission until plans can be worked out for their better supervision. This is the statement of E. A. Walker, assistant director of program planning.

A bill was passed by the 57th session of the Legislature, which places nutria control under the jurisdiction of the Game Commission.

The nutria described as an imported South American rat, was brought into Texas several years ago as a vegetation control medium on lakes and streams. It spread rapidly and was the cause of much more damage than it did good.

It is proposed to limit traffic in nutria in the future only to persons who will raise them in captivity for resale as breeders, or for their furs. These regulations will be issued shortly. Until then, the Commission warns against the importation and spread of nutria in the state.

Fifteen Years Ago

Stanton High School Buffaloes were honored by the Stanton Lions Club at the regular Lions' meeting Monday night. Twenty-five members of the football team were present. B. F. White spoke briefly to the squad. Also giving talks were Coach Travis Green, Jess Burns, Poe Woodard, and two Buffaloes, Leroy Gregg and J. White.

Stanton played Fort Stockton Friday night and lost 12-7. Statistics of the game revealed that Fort Stockton made eight first downs to Stanton's five. The Panthers threw two passes for no completions, and Stanton heaved seven for four completions, one resulting in the Buffs' seven points. A game will not be played on October 25, but on November 1 Stanton will play the Pecos Eagles.

The home demonstration agent met with nine 4-H Girls' clubs this month and 130 girls made head bands at an average cost of 16 cents each. These head bands could not have been purchased for less than 50 cents and 75 cents. The girls were very happy to make something they could wear and at a saving of about 45 cents, the home demonstration agent said.

Services are to be held Saturday and Sunday at the Primitive Baptist Church.

The Courtney Eagles and the Knott Hillbilles will stage their six-man football game on Buffalo field here Friday night. The contest will start at 8 p.m. To most of Stanton fans this will be the first six-man football game they have seen. It is said the game produces very fast and furious action.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

MARTIN-HOWARD-MIDLAND SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT
Jack Buchanan, Bob Cox, Bernard Houston, Larry Shaw, J. D. Crawford.

Interest is growing in the state on parallel terraces. A parallel terrace system consists of one or more key terraces located in a field with one or more terraces parallel to each key terrace. A parallel terrace system properly planned and integrated with the general farm plan becomes a valuable improvement.

Not all terraces within a field should be expected to fit the parallel pattern. Terraces with irregular intervals will have to be used when excessive grades or other objectionable features make it necessary. Irregular interval terraces may be used to suit the owner. He may:

1. Plant the entire interval to a close-growing crop; 2. Lay out as many long rows as the space will permit and plant the remainder of the interval to a close-growing crop; 3. Lay out a row system which would result in short rows in the middle or rows draining into the lower terrace channel.

Soil Conservation Service technicians will assist you in planning and laying out your terrace system.

Many farmers have winter cover crops planted and up to a good stand. It is still time for you to plant your cover crop. Small grain is valuable to you in many ways. You can use it for winter grazing, it adds organic matter to your soil and most of all it prevents wind erosion during the critical wind erosion period.

Soil conservation increases crop yields 20 percent or more on the average.

Apples Hold Spotlight In Bargains

This is the peak of the apple season. Wholesale prices, even lower than last week, are in keeping with the huge harvest. Volume shipments prevail. Watch for apples, advised the USDA Agricultural Marketing Service.

Other best buys among fresh fruits include grapes and Texas Valencia oranges.

Pumpkins are in liberal supply. Honeydew melons are ample. Coconuts are priced some higher.

Shipments of cranberries are increasing. Cantaloupe supplies are tapering. Look especially for good buys on cabbage, carrots, celery, greens, green onions, lettuce peppers, round red potatoes, radishes, sweet potatoes and tomatoes.

Celery and dry onions are higher. Cabbage and potatoes are lower. Considerable brussels sprouts arrive regularly. High-protein items in particular abundance include turkey, broilers, fryers, beef and cheese. Pork supplies are increasing as the huge Spring pig crop comes to market.

Mrs. Dewey Anderson was to go to Houston this week to enter a Houston hospital.

Baptists Report Gains For Year

Messengers from Martin County Baptist churches attended the annual convention of District No. 8 Thursday in Lamesa.

During the session gains in membership and baptisms were reported.

Midland Belvue Baptist Church is to host the convention in 1962 and the date was set tentatively for October 11-12. However it is possible the annual meeting will be moved back to February, as it was for many years.

Named to head the district convention as moderator, succeeding Dr. P. D. O'Brien of Big Spring, was Dr. Jimmy Nelson, pastor of Colonial Baptist Church in Snyder. Other officers were Lloyd Lester, Midland, vice president; Harris Barton, Midway Baptist near Lamesa, secretary; and George Thomas, Big Spring, treasurer.

The total of 2,880 baptisms was up from a year ago as was the total of 47,125 members of the 133 churches and their missions in the 10-county district. Average Sunday School attendance of just under 22,000 was down slightly from the previous year. The churches gave $3,350,000 for local causes and local missions, and an additional $703,000 for state and world missions, as well as for the ministry in Christian education and healing.

The convention sermon was brought by the Rev. Jack Strickland, pastor of the East Fourth Baptist Church, and the concluding mission message by Bill Emanuel, a missionary to Japan. Reports from Rev. J. William Arnett, district missionary, highlighted the sessions.

Quail Seasons Early In Many Texas Counties

Quail hunters in Texas will get a break with an early season in a number of additional counties this year for a November 1 opening according to Al Springs, wildlife coordinator of the Game and Fish Commission.

The Commission has approved November 1 to December 31 season in all of the counties of the trans-Pecos area, except Culberson, El Paso, and Hudspeth counties. The season on those counties will be November 1 to December 15 inclusive. The bag limit will be 12 per day or 24 in possession. Crockett County, which is in the Edwards Plateau regulatory area, is included in the trans-Pecos area for quail, with the November 1 opening date. The possession limit in Crockett, however, is 36.

In South-Central Texas, Dimmitt, Zavala, Frio, and Webb counties have been added to the November 1 opening date. The season will close there on January 16. McMullen and LaSalle counties are open November 1 to December 15, under a special law. The bag limit in that area will be 12 per day and 36 in possession.

In the Possum Kingdom area, which also will include Brown, Nolan, and Taylor counties, the season will be November 24 to January 20 inclusive, with a 15 per day, 45 possession limit. In the counties in the Southeast Texas regulatory area, the open season will be November 15 to January 16 inclusive, with the exception of Orange and Jefferson counties, where the season will be December 1 to January 16 inclusive. In Burleson and Colorado counties, the season will be December 1 to January 16 inclusive. Both these areas have a 12 daily, 36 possession limit. All of Northeast Texas regulatory counties will be an open season December 1 to January 16.

According to reports from wardens and biologist, the quail crop is in excellent condition in most of the Texas counties. The quail season is set by general law, except in approximately 125 counties which are under regulatory authority. In these counties, the season and bag

27,765 Bales Of Cotton Ginned In County

Less than a third of the 1961 cotton crop has been ginned in Martin County according to the Texas Employment Commission in Big Spring.

In Martin County 27,765 bales of cotton have been ginned out of an estimated 85,000 bale crop. The fields are estimated to be 60 per cent open.

Howard County has ginned 8,800 bales of its estimated 80,000 bale crop and still has 72 per cent of the staple in fields. The crop was estimated at being about 45 per cent open.

Glasscock County, with 4,100 bales out of 12,000 ginned, has the lead in the percentage of total crop harvested. The fields are 60 per cent open, it was estimated.

Lamesa TEC said that Dawson's crop is now 70 per cent open and that 47 per cent of the huge 180,000 bale crop is now ginned. Ginnings now stand at 81,783 bales.

Sweetwater TEC counties are trailing this area due to heavy areas of late cotton. Only 15 per cent of Nolan's cotton is open and only 682 bales of the 19,000-bale crop have been ginned. Scurry County has ginned 3,187 bales of its 38,000 bales and Mitchell County 2,280 bales of its estimated 39,000 bale crop. Fisher, with an estimated 40,000 bale crop, has only 3.3 per cent of its crop harvested — 2,429 bales. Only 15 per cent of the cotton is ready for picking.

The four counties in the Sweetwater district are picking up speed, however. The ginning reports this week show almost double the totals reported last week.

TEC offices see no reason, they report, to revise earlier crop estimates and believe the counties will yield the production allotted to them.

Quality of the crop is good as is production.

FARM REVIEW and FORECAST

What color hay do you have for your cows? If it's any color but green, you'll be losing money when you feed it. Cows will eat yellow or brown hay, but they won't pay as much in return as they would for green hay, says U. D. Thompson, extension animal husbandman.

Here is how hay color affects the pocketbook of the person feeding it. The greener the hay, the higher the quality. Quality hay contains several essential nutrients, including protein. Protein supplements such as range cubes, cottonseed cake or protein blocks can be quite expensive, but if high quality hay is available much of this expense can be cut out.

There are several things to remember about hay, whether the feeder buys it or produces it, says Thompson. Hay crops that are allowed to grow and produce seed make inferior hay. The best food is found in the leaves, and the more mature they are the less food they contain. A yellow or brown colored hay may have about four percent protein, but the same crop properly harvested, cured and stored might have as much as 20 percent protein—the same amount as many range cubes. It would take only four pounds of 20 percent hay to meet the daily protein requirements of a beef cow, but it would take 20 pounds of the four percent hay.

Tonnage per acre is also very important, but more effort should be made to improve the feeding value of what is produced. In some cases the food value is so low the cow loses rather than gains energy by eating the hay. These cows lose weight unless a supplement is fed. If the necessary food was in the hay in the first place, this additional cost could be avoided, points out the specialist.

Today too many Texas farm families are living in houses that were built to burn, says the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council. The blame can be placed on some of the modern building materials that look smart but burn fast, such as certain fiberboards, acoustical ceiling material and highly combustible plastic tiles. Also at fault are houses with hollow walls or false ceilings that are inadequately fire-stopped, thus presenting an area through which a flash fire can race unimpeded, creating its own draft.

What can be done about this situation? The Council says anyone building or remodeling should insist on fireproof materials. "Your best bet is still an Underwriters' Laboratory label," says the Council.

An interior finish of wallboard made of gypsum, cement, asbestos or plaster offers considerable resistance to fire and will not contribute to flame spread. For the roof, asphalt shingles, slate, asbestos or metal make a good fire-resistant covering. It is also wise to use fire retardant paint when you re-decorate.

Wood floors under stoves and heaters should be protected by metal, brickwork, concrete or ventilated air space, the Council continues. Also desirable are impregnated-wood fire doors in critical locations such as basement stairs, house entrances and the bedrooms. These doors will withstand temperatures of 1,800 degrees for 90 minutes, yet they retain the esthetic qualities of wood.

At least one window in each bedroom should have a low sill. High, small windows are often too small for escape, and no window is adequate unless the smallest dimension is at least 18 inches.

"Also remember that no building is any more fireproof than its contents," the Council says. "Furnishings, trim and decorations can be the real fire threat in the home."

Texas is a leading watermelon state with more than 100,000 acres planted for commercial production each year. These watermelons move to many markets throughout the nation, and many growers profit handsomely. Others, however, make little more than expenses. What is responsible for this difference? Profit from watermelon production is directly related to time of harvest and tonnage produced. Those that harvest a large tonnage early in the season show a nice profit — others don't do so well.

How can a farmer get these early, large yields? The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has recently released a publication that contains an informative discussion of the factors related to these problems. As this publication points out, a good, even stand of healthy plants is essential to early and high yields. Essential to getting a good stand of plants is the use of the best quality seed available.

Choice of the proper variety is also important to the grower. He must choose one that produces hardy, resistant plants and uniform fruit. Once the variety is selected, the grower must then select a good soil to put into production. A deep sandy loam is preferred to light sand because of less moisture stress during dry periods and less leaching of plant nutrients during wet weather.

Proper cultural practices must also be used if the producer is to realize the maximum profits from his crop. He must also have the help of certain insects. The male and female flowers are borne separately on the watermelon plant, and the female flowers must be pollinated for fruit set. Honey bees are the principle insects that pollinate watermelons. Except where watermelon fields are located near wooded areas where the wild honey bee population is high, adding bee hives to the fields at the rate of one hive to every one of three acres of watermelons is profitable.

Does your fruitless mulberry tree turn yellow and lose its leaves? Certain leaf spot type diseases may be causing the trouble, says Harlan Smith, extension plant pathologist.

The leaf diseases first appear in the Spring, and will continue to build up and cause more trouble throughout the season if rainfall is plentiful. These spots may differ in size and color and they lower the aesthetic value and vigor of the tree, Smith explains. Trees damaged by leaf spot are also likely to be damaged more by drought, winter injury and pests than uninfected trees.

If the tree has a high value, Smith suggests a preventive spray program to reduce the damage from leaf spots. He suggests the use of two tablespoons of Zineb or Captan per gallon of water plus a spreader-sticker. A combination of the two may prove more effective and either material may be used with safety during any part of the year. It is more important, he says, to have the trees protected during times of above average rainfall or high humidity.

In the case of bacterial leaf spot it may be necessary to spray with streptomycin or fixed copper. A combination of the two may be more effective. The use of a spreader-sticker and avoidance of making applications during hot weather will tend to lessen the damage from fixed copper spray, Smith says.

Dear Neal:

Just a note to tell you to change my address from 14151 Syvan to 14151 Friar Street.

You see, I've moved — just exactly ONE block back of from where I had been living—same number, but a different street! So—thanks a lot!

WOW, you have surely been having the news back home — that robbery at the bank must have been a terrible experience on Jack; and a very exciting time for all of Stanton. Then — the fire at Higginbotham's — boy, you really DID have a grand stand seat! But I could bet of your covering it — you're "on hand," for all news happenings! Then — that murder deal — on the Lomax road; we heard that they had caught the pair in Midland, on the news items on TV — and all my friends at Butler Brothers, said: "Hey, Stormy, we heard they'd caught a murdering pair in Midland — isn't that your home-town?" SO-O-O, when they hear something of Midland—they spot ME!

Well, give every one my very best! And it was SO nice to be able to visit in Stanton for a short time — just wish it could have been longer; better still, I just wish I could LIVE there again!

Best regards to you and all your staff!

Stormy.

Local Woman Writes Story Of Gardening

By MARIE WILSON

Autumn is the finest time of the year to gather material for dried arrangements; everything is naturally beginning to die, although some material may be gathered the year round.

Where there are trees, the leaves are turning red, yellow and brown. There are also pine cones, sweet-gum balls, etc., and different kinds of bushes that have red and black berries, which dry beautifully.

And from ones own garden may be gathered plants, flowers, or seed pods; from Spring until Fall, larkspurs, coxcombs, baby breath, poppy seed pods, iris seed pods, bachelor button and bells of Ireland.

Poppy and iris seed pods are best gathered when mature but still green in color. Canna seed pods are lovely in color, but stiff in arrangements. Okra seed pods are best when left to dry on the stalk, when fully ripe they crack down the veins showing a lovely white line down the sides.

The grasses are used for fillers and height in dried arrangement. They are gathered when the color is fresh and bright. Maize is pretty in both green and rust-red. Also Johnson and Sudan grasses are good. Pampas grass is hard to arrange unless taken apart. Mimosa seed pods are best gathered when a golden blond color.

Wheat gathered when ripe is used extensively in dried work.

For retaining color in flowers, simply cut and tie together in bundles; hang in a closet with heads down. Be sure it's cool, dark and dry.

Daffodils, larkspurs, daisies and roses may be gathered in full bloom and layered in a box of powdered borax. Four pounds will do for an ordinary shoe box. (I mix my borax with white corn meal, half and half.) First cover bottom of box with mixture, lay flowers in box and gently cover with borax mixture. The borax can be used over and over. There is also a new chemical for drying flowers, but it is not sold commercially yet.

Daisies will dry in three or four days. It takes a little longer for larkspurs and others, but treated in this way they will retain true color all winter. You may examine to see when they are dry enough. Just shake lightly to remove the borax when they are dry.

Miss Mullins Honored With Bridal Shower

Jo Ann Mullins was honored at a bridal shower Tuesday evening, October 10 at the reception hall at the First Baptist Church.

Miss Mullins and Jimmy Waits of Big Spring, were to have been married Wednesday, October 18 in Big Spring. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mullins of Stanton, and he is the son of Mrs. L. C. Waits of Big Spring, and the late Mr. Waits.

Hostesses were Mesdames Billy Avery, Bobby Papapan, H. M. Bevers, E. L. Polson, Joe Holland, Cecil Hedrick, Jack Hankins, Dan Saunders, E. F. Polson, Ed Hall, Verbin Graves and Jim McCoy.

The honoree's chosen colors of gold and white were featured in decorations and refreshments. Lemonade and white cake, decorated in gold were served. The cake was decorated with gold wedding bells, and the wording "Jo Ann and Jimmy."

Cheryl Waits of Big Spring, served refreshments.

About 20 persons were present with out-of-town guests attending from Big Spring.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Broom of Bowie, visited over the weekend with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hankins and family.

On trips to the country you may gather yucca, sumac, oak and maple leaves and bitter-sweet. The natural colors are most beautiful, but they may be sprayed, or one can buy ordinary paint, pour into a pail of water and dip material in it.

Dried material may be stored in boxes and it lasts indefinitely. It is nice for Christmas decorations.

The Launching Pad

By NEAL ESTES

IN New York, JACK FAMOSO, a stage hand, was recently arrested on charges of bookmaking while working on the TV show, "The Price Is Right."

CAMEL driver BASHIR AHMAD from Pakistan, arrived in the USA this week to visit LYNDON JOHNSON. While on the Texas leg of his trip BASHIR visited the State Fair of Texas in Dallas. If we know THAD RICKS, publicity man for the Dallas Fair and formerly associated with the Longview papers, he'll cook up some good story on the camel herder's visit to the state exposition.

TEXAS UNIVERSITY had no trouble in toppling ancient rival OKLAHOMA in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas Saturday. MIKE COTTON, stellar Steer backfield star played only eleven minutes. The second, third and fourth strings participated in most of the game. But the Texans face real trouble up in the Ozarks this Saturday when they meet ARKANSAS. We picked the Longhorns to win the SW Conference flag but they have some tough opponents ahead. The Razorbacks have demolished TCU and BAYLOR on successive Saturdays and badly blunted the title hopes of these schools. We predict Texas will win by a touchdown.

BY-THE-WAY, the rumor mill is saying that colorful BUD WILKINSON, coach at Oklahoma U. will leave the university at the end of the current season to devote his entire time to PRESIDENT KENNEDY'S physical fitness program which BUD heads.

WHILE we are talking in terms of football we would like to acknowledge compliments from members of the QUARTERBACK CLUB. It was the happy privilege of the newspaper's job department to tender to the club, all free, 200 automobile stickers to be used to help boost the morale of the team in their coming engagement here Friday night with Denver City. JIMMY STALLINGS, O. C. TURNER, GLENN BROWN, SID FOSTER, PRENTISS WIGHTOWER, REV. UHLMAN, WOODFORD SALE, and others were appreciative of the backing and team offered by the newspaper. Express pleasure in the banner headline RELIABLE about the QUARTERBACK CLUB, BOY SCOUTS, and other activities.

WE wish to send tardy birthday greetings to PRENTISS WIGHTOWER. The local citizen and father and father-in-law of several individuals who have worked for the OLE RELIABLE at one time or another, observed his natal day on Friday, October 13. We might add that PRENTISS is not superstitious—so he had no misgivings—just lots of giftgivings on his birthday.

ELMO REED, treasurer of Martin County, has prepared the quarterly financial statement for the Martin County people and it appears in this issue of the paper. HARVEY WHITE, city secretary, was in the office this week and said the municipal quarterly financial report would appear either this week or next week. JUDGE GEORGE SHELburne prepares this report and he has always done a very efficient job on it. The people look forward to these reports from their community servants.

IT is the hope of the members of the QUARTERBACK CLUB and of THE STANTON REPORTER that every real football fan in town and in the county be on hand to help urge the BUFFALOES on when they meet DENVER CITY here Friday night.

SOMEbody asked us the other day what we thought of JACK PARR. The majority of our readers are family folk. They live by a regular pattern. They read this newspaper every week, listen to BRUCE FRAZIER'S news, view what is in sight until ten o'clock p.m.—then hear the late news and weather report—go to bed immediately afterwards and wake up in the mornings fresh, intelligent, and ready for another day. So we had better explain who JACK PARR is, or what we think he is. He is a guy who offers a mighty poor excuse to stay up late to see. A great number of the guests on his late show, mostly enjoyed by night owls and drinkers, have difficulty in speaking the English language we have been told. But to be completely honest, we have had some late hours lately down here working on the machinery at the newspaper and we have caught some of JACK'S late no-talent production. In fairness to him we feel like he is due at least one compliment. He has a nice wife, MIRIAM, and a lovely daughter, RANDY.

A little nine-year-old girl, DEBORAH WIEGE, has just been in our office. She brought along a poem—a good poem and we want to pass it along. She wrote these lines:
Yes, I am an American.
Proud, I am free to say what I want.
Happy, I am an American.
Glad, our country is free from communism.
Thankful, for the GOD in heaven.
Yes, I am an American.

NEAL'S NUGGET: THANK GOD FOR THE DEBORAH WIEGES OF THIS NATION AND MAY THEIR PURSUIT OF LIFE, PEACE, PROSPERITY, AND HAPPINESS PREVAIL ALWAYS.
