Mrs. L. H. Batten, former teacher here, now of Fabens, Texas, sent a splendid note along with her subscription renewal. We are glad to have her very much appreciated opinion. She wrote: "Here's my check to assure me of the real treat every Friday morning for a year. Say 'Hello' to my children for me — my former fifth grade students. Best Wishes for the continuation of the best newspaper in the state." It was signed, Sincerely, Mrs. Batten.

2,500 exchange students from abroad mobbed President Kennedy last week on the White House lawn. One student grabbed the chief executive's tie clasp from his tie. The pin snatcher was from Indonesia. The incident reminds us of what happened to the late Mrs. Roosevelt on the White House lawn a few years ago. A group of students, befriended by the then first lady, tossed insults at her while she stood on a balcony. Some of the mob, participating in an Easter egg hunt on the lawn tossed eggs around. Some people don't know when they are well off. Not satisfied with having Sammy Claus constantly sending money, and supplies of food and other products, there are those in this world, apparently, who would visit Sammy's headquarters and try and rough up and embarrass the great gift givers on the Potomac. It is indeed regrettable.

Cecil Bridges talked with Virginia House, our society editor, in the TESCO office last week and asked her a complimentary question. "How on earth do you people down at the paper get all that local news in each issue?" Thanks, Cecil, for realizing that our paper carries more local news than any other publication west of Fort Worth published in a town the size of Stanton. What we actually need is more advertising and balanced news — in the meantime, we really are printing a News paper.

The editor had a note from Norrel Wallace, Information and Education Officer, Region 1, State Game and Fish Commission this week. We are launching a new column from his department in this issue. It is called "Region One News Notes," and deals with what's going on in West Texas in the fish and game field. We will get this column just as often as interesting information is available and we trust our Martin County and other readers in the area enjoy it.

Sherman McKaskle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ezell McKaskle, is attending a mortuary school in Dallas. Last week, Sherman, one of our all-time favorite sons, sent in an SOS from Big D for a subscription to The Ole Reliable. We talked with Ezell, got his address, and this week he will be happy for a few minutes anyway — reading the news about his friends in Martin County. By-the-way, Sherman, if you find a little free time one of these days, drop up to the federal building and introduce yourself to our brother, U. S. Judge Joe Estes. He is the smartest one in my family and I think you will find him congenial. Joe is the quiet type — judicial — a real thinker. If I didn't know he was much different and a lot smarter than your country editor, I wouldn't invite you to visit with him. In our family, it is admitted that Joe got the brains, Carl the money and Neal is still shopping around.

Our newspaper is attracting national attention due to the weekly contents. People are on our mailing list now who never lived in Martin County or ever even visited here. Our personal mail is running heavy and we are aware of the fact that circulation helps local merchants sell advertised merchandise. Without the support and loyalty of the local citizens we would not want to edit a paper. These renewals and new subscribers joined our reader group this week for the next 12 months: Leon Hull, Rt. 1, Stanton; W. A. Douglas, Rt. 1, Stanton; S/Sgt. A. Estrada, Rome, N. Y.; Mrs. J. C. Scott, Stanton; Elwin Bass, Lenorah; S. W. Webster, Rt. 1, Stanton; Sherman McKaskle, Dallas and Mrs. L. H. Batten, Fabens.

Dear Mr. Estes

Just thought we would drop you a few lines and let you know we made it home ok. Me and my husband sure appreciate very much what you did for us. Mr. Murdock sure helped us out a lot. I don't know what we would have done if it were not for him. We are going to do the best we know how from now on.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Donley.

(Editor's Note: The Donleys have a good opportunity to become top American citizens. We give the credit to Police Chief Johnny Murdock for helping this young couple out and are glad he called on us to help get them back home to West Virginia. They have apparently learned the error of their ways and in the future we trust they will refrain from forming friendships with underserving people. The Donleys—Sandra and Don were technically implicated when a couple they were traveling with were apprehended on a forgery charge.)

Congressman Mahon Says Can't Support Rights Bill

U. S. Congressman George H. Mahon said Friday that he opposes and will vote against the major and controversial provisions of the civil rights legislative package President Kennedy has sent to Congress.

"I am opposed," Mahon said, "to the public accommodations provisions of the bill and will not vote for these provisions."

"I am opposed," he continued, "to the provision which would authorize the U. S. attorney general to bring suits in behalf of individual citizens in civil rights cases."

Mahon pointed out he has never voted for a so-called civil rights bill since he has been in Congress. Most recently he was recorded as voting "no" on civil rights roll calls in 1956, 1957, and 1960, the last times such bills have been before the House.

"I believe these problems can best be worked out at the community level," Mahon said. "The best hope for long range progress is through the voluntary action of people and business groups at the local level."

He added that he views recent demonstrations and agitations as "not in the public interest."

E. Johnson Local Church Minister

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, who will live at 809 N. St. Mary Street, this city, are parents of three sons and a daughter. Three of the children have returned to Stanton with their parents. They are: Leta, who will be a junior next year and Timothy, 5, and James, age 6. The eldest Johnson son, Alfred, will continue with his studies at Abilene Christian College.

Election May Be Ordered In August

When 250 citizens turn out on a hot, sultry, July night, to attend a public meeting in a courthouse lacking air-conditioning facilities and remain seated and interested through a three-hour period, then those taxpayers mean business, and by their very presence indicated that they want some action, yes or no, on Urban Renewal in Stanton at the ballot box.

The city commissioners have already stated that there will be an election at a later date. That date was not set Tuesday night. It will possibly be forthcoming at the next regular council meeting held here on August 6.

Along with the call for the election, the resignations of four city councilmen, is also recorded in the official minutes of the last municipal session. One councilman, John Roueche, it has been reported to the newspaper, has recalled his resignation. That leaves the resignations of councilmen Bob Deavenport, Rufus Tom and Jimmy Stallings. Mayor Wheeler did not resign at the time a petition bearing 119 names of qualified citizens was submitted to the council by Mrs. Ray Simpson, representing the petition signers, asking for an election on the second phase, or project two, of Urban Renewal.

Mr. and Mrs. Cosley resided in Jamaica for 11 years, where he was associated with the Kaiser Aluminum Company. He has also had extensive training in the grocery field, having worked for Jack Jones early in his business career.

An announcement concerning the operation of the Dwain Henson store under Bob Cosley's management and some special get-acquainted prices appears elsewhere in the newspaper.

Pan American Installing Pump For Completion Try NW Tarzan

By JAMES C. WATSON

Pan American Petroleum Corporation is preparing to install a pump and try to complete a Devonian discovery at No. 1-F F. D. Breedlove, Northwest Martin County wildcat, 15 miles northwest of Tarzan.

This operation, 1½ miles west of Devonian production in the multiphase Breedlove field, drilled to 12,165 feet and set 5½-inch casing at that point after recovering free oil, oil and gas-cutting mud, and some salt water in a drillstem test.

It is 660 feet from west and 990 feet from south lines of tract 95, league 258, Briscoe County School Land survey. The casing was perforated at 12,118-123 feet and that zone was treated with 500 gallons of acid.

On the last testing reported it swabbed 37 barrels of new oil and 89 barrels of water in 11 hours. Interested observers hope that a pump ultimately can cause oil production to increase and the water to decrease.

John L. Cox of Midland completed No. 1 Harvard, 12 miles northeast of Stanton as a new producer in the East Martin County sector of the Spraberry Trend Area.

On the potential test it pumped 222 barrels of 38-gravity oil, plus five per cent water from perforations between 7,498 and 7,528 feet, after fracturing with 30,000 gallons.

It is 660 feet from south and 990 feet from east lines of section 12, block 35, T-1-N, T&P survey. (Continued on page 5)

Health And Safety Tips

From The American Medical Association

Whether it's the heat or the humidity or both, it's hot in most of the United States in July. In some places it's hotter than others, but it's still hot.

After a month or so of sweating and steaming, it's not uncommon to find the heat is beginning to wear you down.

There's nothing you can do about the outside temperature. Unless you're fortunate enough to have air conditioning in your office or shop, home and auto, there's nothing much you can do about it inside either.

But there are some things you can do to be more comfortable — things that can help you beat the heat.

Stay out of the sun as much as possible, especially during the middle of the day when rays are hottest. Wear light, loose clothing, the less the better. The ladies have an edge over the men in this respect. Drink more liquids than usual, but take extra salt only on your physician's advice, particularly if you have liver or kidney trouble or a heart condition.

Take a shower or a dip in the pool once or twice a day to cool off. Get plenty of rest and sleep. Eat your regular diet and don't go overboard on cold cuts, and salads, unless you like them anyway.

Get up early in the morning to do your heavy work on the lawn or garden. Or work at dusk in the evening, but try to avoid heavy exertion during the hottest hours of the day.

You need exercise in the summer as well as in the winter, but don't overdo it, especially on extra hot days. Don't overdo physical exertion, whether at work or play.

The more relaxed outdoor life of the summer months has many advantages to compensate for the heat. Stay relaxed and use common sense, and you can beat the heat — at least somewhat.

Water Revenue Off Slightly

Revenues and deliveries both dropped for the Colorado River Municipal Water District during June, according to the monthly summary of the district.

Both actually reflect water demands during May, so the decreased deliveries due to abnormally rainy weather in June will not show until next months report. During recent weeks the situation has been changing steadily as hot, dry weather boosted daily deliveries past the 50,000,000-gallon per day mark.

Revenues of $172,250 on the June report were well under the $182,948 for the same month a year ago and the $197,054 shown for May of this year. Included were $126,792 from the member cities ($83,455 Odessa, $34,770 Big Spring, $8,216 Snyder), $39,615 from the oil companies using surplus water for waterflood, and $5,843 from recreational and lease facilities. For the first half of the year revenues have amounted to $1,025,454, or somewhat greater than the $1,013,183 for the first half of 1962.

Operational charges for June were $57,025, making $343,874 for the six-month period, above the $326,723 for the same period last year. Increased power charges accounted for the

Scripture Teaches Importance Of Home

The history of America's way of life is full of the records of men who were reared in Christian homes. From humble homes all over the land have come sons and daughters nationally known for their greatness of character and achievement.

All too often, we have not always given proper credit to the home as a prime influence of moulding these, the great women and men of our times.

Among many other lessons to be found in Scripture are the ones which exemplify the importance of good homes and Christian family life.

Two instances of this emphasis are to be found in the 16th chapter of Acts.

Lydia, the devout seller of purple, was baptised with her whole household; and when the jailer, about to kill himself because he supposed his prisoners had escaped, asked Paul what he must do to be saved. Paul answered: "Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved and thy house."

And the prime example of all is the life of Jesus with Mary and Joseph, as he grew to manhood in the archetype of all humble Christian homes.

The influences exerted by truly Christian homes is the same today as it was then, and we can only hope, and pray, that more and more homes return to a truly Christian concept of living.

Philosopher Wants To Reward The Clerk Who Lost 24 Million Bushels Of Grain

(Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw has an answer to the farm problem this week, however odd.)

Dear editor:
The trouble with some people in Washington is that they don't know a good thing when they see it. They're so bogged down in solving problems they don't recognize a solution when it comes along.

As I understand it, this country recently lost 24 million bushels of surplus grain. We shipped it to Austria and it never did get there, or if it did nobody over there remembers receiving it. It just disappeared.

All right, now what happens? Why a bunch of Senators are trying to appropriate $100,000 to investigate the matter.

Here we've found the perfect system of getting rid of an embarrassing, tax-eating surplus, just put it in ships and let it disappear, eliminating all the storage charges etc., and somebody wants to spend $100,000 to get it back.

I don't understand this. What those Senators ought to be doing is erecting a monument to the Unknown Clerk who lost 24 million bushels of surplus grain. The last thing they want to do is investigate and find out who did it. When you get a situation like that, leave it alone and hope more and more grain will disappear until the warehouses are empty and demand gets within arm's length of supply.

Of all the ideas I've heard of getting rid of the surplus, none equal the brilliant work of the clerk who lost the 24 million bushels. I say leave him alone, turn him loose, give him a map of all the warehouses throughout the nation and open up a hot line between him and whoever it was in Austria he sent the stuff to, and let the Senate recess till the farm problem is solved.

After all, there's a new crop of grain coming in this year and if we don't get those warehouses empty, where're we going to store it?

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Cotton Needs Plenty Hot Weather In Area

Many cotton farmers in the area need plenty of hot weather and are depending on it to help make a good crop.

Disastrous rain and hail in May has resulted in many acres — some estimates run as high as 60 per cent — being planted the first half of June on the South Plains. It was not nearly that bad in Martin County, however.

In this area more than 2,300,000 acres have been planted to cotton. Time table concerning growth and weather works out this way:

From planting time until a stand of cotton is out of the ground it takes a minimum of seven days. From a stand to squaring (fruiting), 30 days is needed. The plants go from squares to blooms in 21 days and a normal blooming period is 21 days. The bloom drop to open boll stage takes 48 days if the average 24-hour temperature is 80 degrees. If it is at the 71 degree level, it takes 68 days.

Plaids and madras patterns are very fashionable in men's wear this year.

Some male gift suggestions include billfolds, pocket secretaries, identification folders, or shave kits, with gay cotton plaid covers. Ties, ascots, belts and watch bands also come in colorful plaids, as do shirts, sport and dress coats.

To make a hit with the man of the house, give him the very latest in dinner jackets, seersucker.

Connally Turns Thumbs Down On Frontier Bill

Gov. John Connally called on all Texans Friday night to join him in "a reasonable voice for progress" on civil rights but vowed he could not accept the New Frontier's public accommodations proposal.

Connally gave his position on the civil rights conflict in a 30-minute pre-recorded television talk over more than 30 stations.

Texas has made great strides in the civil rights matter, he said, but the din of controversy becomes louder without tranquility in view.

Appealing for reason on both sides, Connally said:

"I am convinced that the voice of reason must be raised — clearly, strongly — to reflect the feeling of the vast majority of Texans."

"The reasonable, responsible people of this state must not abdicate in favor of forces of passion — or those who would exploit to selfish gain."

In the Texas way of achieving civil rights, he said: "We have avoided the cold, arbitrary tool of government edict."

Some of the provisions, he warned: "would strike at the very foundation of one of our most cherished freedoms — the right to own and manage private property, a right as dear to a member of any minority group as the any other Texan."

Connally referred specifically to the New Frontier proposed federal law "which would deprive the owners of private business of the right to decide whom they would serve, and the accompanying proposal to give broad powers of enforcement to the attorney general, (Robert Kennedy) of the United States."

Connally said: "I can not accept or support the proposition of violating one person's rights to bestow privilege upon another person, regardless of the color or race of either."

Connally thus differed with the administration and took an opposite view to that held by Lyndon Johnson, who has been speaking for the administration's proposed civil rights legislation in the north.

Farmers Big Spenders On Most Main Streets

On an annual basis, Texas farmers and ranchers pour nearly two billion dollars into the state's economy, a Texas A&M economist has reported. "They are big spenders on main street."

John McHaney, agricultural extension economist, said Texas farmers and ranchmen spend about $1,848,000,000 in their operations.

The expenditures include: $449,000,000 for hired labor and machine hire; $398,000,000 for seed, feed, plant, fertilizer and lime; $310,000,000 for livestock bought and livestock expenses; $310,000,000 for machinery purchased and machinery repairs; $119,000,000 for petroleum products; $67,000,000 for construction materials; $57,000,000 for miscellaneous crops expenses, and $147,000,000 for other expenses including interest and insurance.

McHaney contrasted urban and rural employment. "In 28 counties, more workers are hired on farms and ranches than in manufacturing and in 215 counties, the value of agricultural production exceeds that of manufacturing," he said.

Manufacturing in the state is confined to about six per cent of the counties, the economist concluded.

Mrs. S. M. McIntosh is a patient in the local hospital.

TIME FOR A CHECK-UP

Your Property Insurance program may be in bad shape. For example, it may suffer from serious ailments like . . .

- Underinsurance — Not enough insurance to take care of increased property values and liability exposures.
- Obsolescence — Out of date contracts that don't offer today's "package discounts" and broadened protection.
- Inconvenience — Too many policies, premiums, renewal dates. Lots of red tape. A real nuisance.

To have your protection checked — without cost or obligation — see or call your independent insurance agent . . .

Mr. Hoover Is Right Again

J. Edgar Hoover, Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, is a bachelor. Mr. Hoover, nevertheless, passed along a vital message to parents in a recent article. He served up a tip that a lot of us cut our eye teeth on concerning the rearing of boys and girls. We were happy to find some similarity in the boyhood life of our FBI chief and of your country scribe. The Hoovers, for example, were a close-knit family. His mother and father shared equally the pleasures and the responsibilities of one daughter and two sons. Circumstances, in the Hoover home, were modest; yet none of them ever wanted for any necessity of life. Those necessities were then as now, affection and the security of a balanced home. His parents taught him to enjoy life, but not at the expense of shattering the rights of others. Well disciplined at home, Mr. Hoover, his brother and his sister, honored his parents, because their unflinching example truly merited honor and respect. Children do need an example to follow. A plaque on the Hoover living room wall read: "To command the respect of others, one must merit respect himself." No doubt, this thought on the plaque in the home of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, has caused him to view present happenings in America wisely and well. A man or woman must make their place and station in life by living up to a code—you can't just march up and demand and get the kind of education and other things in life people have worked for an entire life-time in forty or fifty minutes, and you can never, never find happiness, security, and equality in the legislative halls in Washington or Austin. One must earn the right to respect!

The value of Texas' farm and ranch production is exceeded by only one other raw material, oil. The value of the state's total yearly agricultural production exceeds the payroll for manufacturing, or the total of construction awards or the payroll for retail trades, points out John McHaney, extension economist.

Farm and ranch production each year has a total value of just under 2.5 billion dollars, but, explains McHaney, agriculture adds much more to our total economy than just income from the sale of products. Business firms which assemble, process, distribute, transport wholesale and retail the products of Texas' farms and ranches employ about 20 percent of the labor force of the state and add about 3.9 billion dollars to the agribusiness economy. Their primary concern is to get the agricultural products to the final consumer in the desired form and at the right place and time.

Simple addition, says McHaney, shows that the sale of agricultural products plus the cost of processing and distributing them annually adds to the state's economy about $6.3 billion. The economic destiny of most Texas counties, the economist adds, hinges primarily on the agribusiness economy.

And commenting upon the future of the Texas agricultural industry, McHaney emphasizes the future will belong to those people and state which work to keep their agricultural economy competitive with other areas of the nation and world. Agriculture, he adds is no longer a way of life but rather a big competitive business. He's strong for keeping the industry in Texas in a strong competitive position.

(Continued from page 1) The program was outlined as follows: A group of specially trained volunteers from several adjoining towns thoroughly inspect all premises that are made available to them. This is a voluntary invitation of local businessmen, public buildings, schools, and churches. They do not enter any building without an invitation from the owner or manager.

It was pointed out at the meeting that this inspection in no way effects the local key rate; however, it is indirectly of benefit in that it ordinarily helps prevent fires, thereby lowering the key rate.

The city, chamber of commerce, and fire department will jointly sponsor a town inspection, with the formal request for this inspection coming from the city.

There will be no cost to the city or local businessmen.

the High Plains lab second and the Baylor County facility handling the lowest number. Harris County topped the list of those submitting samples with 55, while Henderson County and 42 and Hale County submitted 27 samples.

Bennett reminds that established legume pastures are among the crops that will need fertilization this fall. An increasing number of acres are being seeded to vetch, crimson and white clover and since fertility needs of these crops vary, soil samples should be taken, he says.

One element of special importance to East Texas and Coast Prairie farmers is lime, points out Bennett. He says that three-fourths of the East Texas soils and one-half of the eastern Coast Prairie soils need lime, and it should soon be applied to them for fall plantings.

To protect their $3 million investment in the screwworm eradication program, stockmen are encouraged to prevent further worm infestations by spraying their animals on a regular basis, says L-603, a new leaflet of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Spray and Protect Your Investment" explains that the success of the eradication program in the Southwest depends greatly on the cooperation and assistance of the livestock producers and others who contributed mightily to it. It further says that producers can also help their own cause by avoiding the movement of infested animals and by reporting all suspected infestations immediately.

Sprays recommended by the publication are Co-Ral and Korlan. Wetting the animal thoroughly, with from one to four quarts depending on their size, will prevent the development of screwworm cases. Screwworm flies must have fresh or bloody wounds in which to lay their eggs and untreated scratches or wounds of any types are open invitations to the pests.

The cost of a single application of insecticide is about 10 to 40 cents per animal, depending on size. But the producer gets more than screw-worm protection by the use of these sprays, says the leaflet. They will control horn flies, ticks and lice, and decrease the numbers of stable flies, house flies and other external pests.

A regular spray program will also reduce anaplasmosis and pinkeye problems by eliminating the insects which spread and irritate the conditions. As most producers agree, spraying livestock pays dividends, not to mention the protection it gives their large investment in the screwworm program. For a copy of L-603 see your county agricultural agent or write the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

THE HIGH ROAD
L. W. PRENTISS

The Age of Private Transportation
"Get the farmer out of the mud" was the battle cry of the highway program in the 1920's and 1930's. In the early days of the automobile age, a paved road outside of the limits of a city or incorporated town was rare enough to be a curiosity.

Today, almost 70 percent of the 3,127,225 miles of rural roads in the United States have some kind of surfacing. A substantial amount of the remaining non-surfaced road mileage is so little traveled that paving is not justified; nevertheless, much remains to be done before we can claim a complete all-weather road system in the United States.

Nowadays, however, "getting the farmer out of the mud" is one among many objectives of the national highway program. The automobile and the truck have become such an integral part of American life that good highway transportation is essential to the success of almost every activity. Industries, schools, churches and shopping centers share the farmer's vital concern with the highway program. Commuters get stuck in urban traffic jams more often than farmers get stuck in the mud.

The essentiality of highway transportation to the national economy and the national defense is reflected in the Federal-

(Continued from page 1) from the largest gathering of people, both colored and white, who sat attentively together in the courthouse, ever to assemble for this type of a meeting in Stanton.

These facts were established by the answers of those in power at city hall these days, and by those given by Urban Renewal authorities.

There will be a special referendum called and it will possibly be set for sometime in late August. That fact was established before the meeting was called Tuesday evening. Only the specific date has not been set.

There will be a continued paving program in Stanton for the property included in the second Urban Renewal project.

The paving program will be one of assessment. It will be on the same basis as the one set up under the first phase of the paving project. Everyone owning property in South Stanton will have to pay for their paving. There will be no give-away deals on the paving.

Property will be purchased by appraisal of two men. Each purchase will be made after this method is followed. And property purchased by Urban Renewal must be torn down to ground level and removed from the site.

An expenditure of nearly one-quarter million dollars, $244,000 to be specific, will be used on the South Stanton lake project. This lake will be included in the second phase of the program for the purpose of taking care of the drainage from North Stanton.

If property is improved, in any section of the city, it is the opinion of practically everyone that taxes will be increased. One commissioner pointed out the method of increasing taxes on enhanced property.

Urban Renewal definitely has in mind the removal of three gins in the second phase area. No one present at the meeting appeared to know how much it would cost to tear down and move and relocate three gins. One figure suggested approached $200,000 just for the moving alone.

Local director Floyd Smith, Urban Renewal Authority in Stanton, stated that all property purchased or sold by Urban Renewal would be advertised in The Stanton Reporter. He also pointed out that another called public meeting would be held in the courthouse and that three issues of the paper would carry notice of that assembly.

Lou Wanda Pierce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Pierce, and Danny Carl Faubion, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Eugene Faubion of Talpa, were married July 6, at the First Baptist Church at Tarzan. Rev. Charles Carter of Abilene officiated for the double ring service.

Region One News Notes

Bobwhite and scaled quail populations in Region I are generally 20-30 per cent higher than last year. However, scattered areas experiencing scorching drought conditions and extremely heavy spring rains are not expected to produce bumper quail crops. According to biologists, nesting is still occurring and areas hard hit by bad spring and early summer weather can still produce good quail populations before November.

Aerial antelope counts were completed this week in the Trans-Pecos. Count totals show a 25 per cent reduction in antelope populations, but buck and doe numbers are still sufficient to provide good hunting in 1963. Biologists blame the drop in population on adverse spring fawning conditions.

Ring-necked pheasant in northern Pecos counties are being seen by wardens and biologists with broods of young pheasants. Although population estimates cannot be accurately determined until October, nesting success and frequent sightings of young broods indicate a good pheasant year is forthcoming.

Game wardens and biologists have been accumulating data on mourning dove populations throughout Region I for the last six weeks. Widespread nesting is occurring and all indications show populations will be higher than last year. Since mourning doves nest until September, populations could increase noticeably during August further insuring good hunting this fall.

Natural fish kills in shallow lakes are not uncommon during hot summer months in West Texas because warm water cannot absorb or hold large amounts of oxygen. Frequently fishery biologists are asked to investigate fish kills that have occurred because of natural oxygen depletion, but most frequently fish kills occur because landowners spray near lakes with highly toxic insecticides. If mosquitoes and other insects are a nuisance around streams and lakes, extreme care should be taken not to allow insecticide residues to get into the water.

From A to Izzard

When Capt. Bernard Cratty talks about urban renewal, he is not talking theory. He speaks from first-hand knowledge in his home town of Waterville, Me.

Capt. Cratty is a legal officer at Amarillo Air Force Base. He has been at his post about a year and a half, and expects to serve that much longer.

A trim, crew-cut, permanently gray young man, Capt. Cratty is disturbed over certain trends in government and community life. Unlike many Americans who have misgivings about such things, he is using what little spare time he has doing something about it.

Last Monday he spoke before the Downtown Kiwanis Club on "A Case History of Urban Renewal." He has made the same talk on previous occasions here, including a monthly meeting of the Amarillo Real Estate Board.

Capt. Cratty is a lawyer, a graduate of Colby College and Boston University. He has analyzed his subject carefully, as a good lawyer would. And he is appalled at what he has found.

He makes two things clear at the outset.

• First, he is speaking as an individual and not as an Air Force officer. The Air Force, of course, takes no stand on such matters.

• Second, he is not opposed to urban renewal as a general activity. Many cities need renewal. But he is opposed to the federal government's urban renewal program as presently constituted.

One of the vital questions in the U. S. today, Capt. Cratty told the Kiwanians, Monday, is, "Does a citizen still retain the right to the uninterrupted ownership of private property?"

Urban renewal, he says, threatens the right.

"Even through the program has not come to Amarillo," he warned, "you are losing along with those communities that accept it. John Donnie said, 'If a clod of earth be washed away by the sea,

Europe is the less. So never send to know for whom the bell tolls. It tolls for thee.'

"A bit of property rights is being washed away in Waterville, Me., and the bell tolls for all of us."

The captain reminded his audience that Voltaire once said: "The first criminal in the world was the first man who staked out a piece of land, put a fence around it, and said 'This is mine.'"

And in 1960, S. Tutchenko, a Soviet official said in a speech in Moscow: "Private ownership of land in America is one of the principal obstacles hindering the successful progress of town-building."

"Now let's go to Waterville, Me., my home town, and see what's happening to property rights under urban renewal," said Capt. Cratty.

"Let me pause here and offer a brief explanation of urban renewal as it is presently effected.

"It is an authority set up within a city, composed of local citizens appointed by a mayor or council, which by virtue of federal law, can obtain large sums of money from Washington, which money can be used to buy property, demolish buildings, widen streets, build parking lots, and sell property to preferred purchasers to build new buildings, which buildings must be architecturally and economically in keeping with the opinion of the authority. For this purchase the authority is armed with the power of eminent domain with which private property can be condemned 'for the general good.'"

As for urban renewal in Waterville, Capt. Cratty explained its inception and progress. He said:

"• First, it came in an insidious fashion. There were problems. The streets in the downtown area were too narrow. There was too little parking. The buildings were old and no longer serving the needs of the people.

"• Second, all attempts to correct this situation through self-help and other means were thwarted by those conspirators who were determined ultimately to enforce their own solution.

"• Third, the situation grew worse.

"• Fourth, then came the suggestion an editorial in the local paper. A private group, meeting 'for the benefit of the community,' had contacted an organization called 'Nationwide' lined the procedure to the group. First advice was, 'go slow and let the people get used to the idea of U. R. Have your ultimate plan in mind, but never — I repeat never — tell the people what it is, until you have amassed the strength to see it through;

"• Sixth, the expert is now ready to give talks before groups like Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and so on. The expert makes it all seem so easy, everyone benefits, no one is hurt, and the federal government pays 75 per cent of the bill. Afterwards business is better, there is more parking, new buildings, wider streets. A modern sunny community of happy people has been born.

"• Seventh, invite the city government to form an authority so that free federal funds can be given to the city in order to conduct a formal survey.

"While this is going on there will be some who will awaken to this growing cancer. What about them? The best weapon is to stall. Wait. It probably will never happen, and if it does it will be years from now. Another is ridicule, 'who? That crackpot?' We're experts. He doesn't know."

Remember, never attack a group. Just individuals. Divide and conquer. Never invite opposition.

"If things get to hot, let them die down for awhile and then start up. But always keep to your wards your goal.

"Is this beginning to sound familiar? You bet it is, and you know now who is backing it! But chances are it is too late. Why? Because good people like yourselves have been roped in to carry the ball, and the real perpetrators have dropped into the background. Oh, they are still around to steer the ship, but you don't see them any more. Now it's friend against friend and neighbor against neighbor.

"Because now the local government has voted to establish an urban renewal authority, and whether you know it or not, an alien force has entered your community."

At this point, said Capt. Cratty, it becomes too late to stop it.

"By now some people are wondering if they had been wise," he said, "but the propaganda goes on. 'You want a better community, don't you? This is the way to get it.'"

"But the doubts persist. Surely no one thought when they started out that they would take this part of the town, tear those houses down, move businesses, break leases, make new streets where your church was. Oh! you don't think they would go so far as to bother your church? Let me ask you this: Since when have they been in favor of churches?"

"The various phases have been completed. An organization immune from the citizens has been created and put to the test. It has elected candidates to public office, controlled votes, influenced thought, enlisted the aid of innocent citizens who had no real knowledge of their part in the endeavor. It has destroyed the concept of private property and it has publicly humiliated those who oppose it.

"But I haven't yet told you about the biggest weapon in the arsenal of those who have perpetrated this offense upon you, the means by which they got you aid — why you bought the rope to hang yourselves, why you led yourselves up the steps, put the rope around your necks and sprung the trap. The answer to that is one word — Greed. Human avarice and greed: the thought of getting rich without working for it. Something for nothing.

"To start with, those property owners who were hurting most are approached. They are told, 'We won't touch your property, we only want to tear down the old buildings behind and around your property and give you more parking space, so that your property will increase in value, and your business will profit. You don't have to put up a cent.' So they agree.

Now the property owners are told they will have to help, not with money, just their good influence and support. So the propaganda goes on.

"This group of public spirited citizens goes to the city government and gets a survey committee appointed. After all, the federal government will pay for the survey. It won't cost the city a cent. The funds for the survey will be deposited in the local bank. But to receive the funds the city government must establish an urban renewal board, or authority.

"The committee hires an attorney. Of course he doesn't have to do any work to speak of, but he will be paid with government money. The authority now must hire an 'executive secretary' someone who will push the deal through, someone with friends and influence. He can keep his present job; this won't interfere with that, and let's pay him $15,000 per year.

"The authority members are all the effective property owners and business men. The money for the survey is being spent in the community. Part time workers are hired to conduct a local survey at $25 per day. Greed and the authority blossom and grow.

"Later in the development, another group is formed to purchase some of the land to be taken so they can build new buildings on it after the old owners have been thrown out. It is promised them that the sale price of the land will be low, and best of all they will be able to build new buildings 100 per cent financed by the federal government, with a low interest loan. This last force is one that is not employed until it is necessary to drive home the 'program.' If they can get by without it, they don't use it! But in most instances they can't. The coupe de grace is dealt, and the voices that cry out in vain are laughingly ignored!

"But people have lost their homes and businesses with their own consent. The death knell has been sounded for the concept of private property. A new socialistic monster has been created in our midst that can at any moment turn and destroy us. It can even destroy those who have created it.

"How can this be stopped?" The answer is simple.

"Don't create the authority to accept the 'free' money for the initial survey.

"That is the point of no return."

What's happening in Waterville? It's too early for a full report, says Capt. Cratty. The program is being carried out. Some are for it, some against it.

Doubts persist. A typical one is this statement by Leo Diambr, a fruit store operator as quoted in the Waterville Sentinel:

"I thought urban renewal was for slum clearance. The merchants should buy their own parking lot. I didn't think we'd tear down half of Main Street. The small stores won't relocate. Only the big fellows." —WES IZZARD

FEWER CASES IN 1963—

Effective Vaccines Deal Crippling Blow To Polio

Effective vaccines have dealt a crippling blow to polio. The fight goes on, and 1963 holds promise of fewer cases than ever.

The U. S. Public Health Service's Communicable Disease Center (CDC) chief, Dr. John Witte, says: "We're running less than half of last year's cases through mid-July."

"There have been 113 cases of polio reported. At this time last year there were 252, and 1962 was the first year when we had less than 1,000 cases."

The 1962 total was 901 for the nation, roughly half of the cases reported in 1961.

"Before the Salk vaccine, polio ran in excess of 8,000 cases a year," Witte said.

Credit for the break-through in the polio battle goes to vaccine developed by Dr. Albert Sabin and others.

"Certainly the big, dramatic decrease was in 1955 when the Salk vaccine was first used on a large scale," Witte said.

With the rapid advances, do experts look for complete eradication of the disease? Probably not entirely, at least in the next few years.

"We look for the decrease to continue as more and more people use the vaccine," Witte said. "Unfortunately we cannot vaccinate the whole country."

"It conceivable to say that in the next few years there may be small outbreaks where the immunization status is poor."

Bracero Problem Still Unsolved

One of the problems Congress must resolve is: What to do about the new scheduled termination of the Mexican bracero program at the end of the year?

The House, in May, rejected a bill which would have extended the program by two years. But the issue is not dead.

One proposal, embodied in bills offered in both the House and Senate in June, provides a three-year phase-out of the program.

Texas generally have been strong backers of the bracero program since it went into effect in 1951, ending the old "wetback" movement of laborers who illegally crossed the Rio Grande.

Now, however, probably the most effective opponent is Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D. San Antonio, the first Texan of Mexican descent to serve in Congress.

The presence of the braceros, he says, lowers wages paid domestic migratory farm workers. A big portion of the latter live in or near San Antonio and, like Gonzalez, are of Latin-American background.

Rep. E. C. Gathings, D-Ark., chairman of the House Agriculture subcommittee which handles the bracero legislation, is probably its most ardent advocate.

Gathings, backed by many farm operators who have depended for years on the Mexican laborers, introduced a phase-out bill after the measure to continue the program in its present form was defeated.

His subcommittee had rejected an administration plea that the program be tightened to provide better working conditions and higher wages to the imported workers.

U. S. employers contended these proposals would make bracero labor too costly.

The new bill would provide that not more than the average number of workers of the past three years be admitted during the next three years and that the program end completely December 31, 1966. It also would provide that no more than 150,000 workers be admitted in 1964, 120,000 in 1965 and 90,000 in 1966.

The question as to whether an abrupt ending of the program December 31 will precipitate a return to the wetback movement brings conflicting opinions.

The answers bring out that important changes have occurred in agricultural methods. A Department of Labor official, pointing to a sharp decline in legal admissions of Mexican nationals in recent years, said mechanization in agriculture makes American employers increasingly less dependent on them.

He said the peak influx occurred in 1956, when 445,000 entered the United States. Texas employers used approximately 200,000 of this number. Last year only 194,000 were brought in, and Texas used only 45,000.

The labor official said the number of braceros used in the Lower Rio Grande Valley alone totaled 75,000 in 1954, and that later continued heavy employment for years, dropped to practically none during 1962.

Officials are reluctant to discuss a provision of the McCarran-Walter immigration act, passed in 1952, which possibly might have application regarding imported Mexican

Grimes-Thomas Vows Exchanged In Austin

Dr. and Mrs. Clyde Thomas, Jr., of Big Spring, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Kathleen Thomas, to Captain Jerry S. Grimes, son of S. W. Grimes, Rocky Mount, N. C.

The wedding took place in the chapel at Bergstrom Air Force Base in Austin, July 15. The Methodist chaplain officiated, and the couple was attended by George Oldham and the bride's sister, Miss Cleo Thomas.

Vows were exchanged in the presence of the bride's family.

The couple left afterward on a wedding trip to Nassau. Capt. Grimes' next assignment is Shaw AFB in North Carolina, where they will make their home until they leave for France in December.

Dr. Thomas and his family are well known by the Martin County people.

farm help if the bracero program expires.

The Act provides that aliens may be admitted on a non-immigrant basis to perform temporary work in the United States.

It is expected that if the bracero law is not extended, officials of the Agriculture, Justice, State and Labor Departments will confer as to whether the Act's provision could or should be put into effect. There would be a question whether such action might be contrary to Congressional policy as contained in a refusal to extend the bracero program.

Thirty members of the Texas Great Plains Conservation Program Committee, representing most of the agencies, groups and associations working in the field of soil and water conservation, met in the Pecos area June 26 and 27, reported H. N. Smith, State Conservator of the Soil Conservation Service.

The occasion was the annual field meeting of the committee when results and experiences of the past year are discussed and recommendations for improvement of the program are made.

George Skeete, rancher near Water Valley and a director of the Association of Texas Soil Conservation Districts, explained that the principle of the GPCP, where cost-share assistance is provided in accordance with a complete conservation plan developed for the entire operating unit and scheduled for application on a systematic basis, has proved to be the best demonstration and educational tool for soil and water conservation to date. Skeete explained that management must accompany any treatment applied if it produced the greatest return and was to be maintained over a long period of time.

Jack Stone, supervisor of the Toiyah-Limpia Soil Conservation District, talked to the group and showed pictures of the work done on his ranch with draw-type ground that had been roofplowed and seeded to such grasses as Johnson and blue panicum. Stone stated that he was very proud of the results and invited the group to tour his ranch.

E. L. Thaxton, head of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, located at Pecos, explained the research work being carried on there and conducted a tour of the station for the committee.

James Abbott of the Soil Conservation Service reported on progress and accomplishment of the GPCP. He said that approximately 900 contracts had been signed since July

Colorado Deer, Elk Seasons To Open Soon

Through an arrangement The Stanton Reporter maintains with the Colorado Press Association, we received material concerning the deer and elk season in that state every year.

The first of a series of three articles, prepared in mat form appears in this issue of the newspaper.

Sports Director Bill Brenneman, reports that Colorado's 1963 big game season is shaping up as a dilly.

Record herds of deer and elk are roaming the Rockies, promising happy hunting for Hawkeyes from far and near.

For that reason, the Colorado Game and Fish Commission has set up one of the most liberal hunting seasons in history of the state.

The deadline for special elk licenses, permitting the taking of non-antlered elk, is August 20. Fifteen percent of such licenses are reserved for non-residents.

Colorado, unlike many states, does not require the hunter to employ licensed guides for any type of hunting.

The 1963 hunting season will include 11 special deer seasons, the first to open on August 17 and the last to end December 22; two pre-season trophy hunts; permission to grab up to three deer in some special season areas, and an increase in the number of "hunter's choice" elk permits, which allow the hunter to take animals with or without antlers.

Director Harry Woodward of the Game and Fish Department announced the new season and regulation after revealing that Colorado again led the nation in deer hunting in 1962 with a record bag of 142,798 trophies.

In general, the regular deer season will open in Western Colorado for a two-week run October 19, and in Eastern Colorado October 26. The general elk season will open October 19 for two weeks.

In addition to regular elk permits, for antlered animals only, 9,810 "hunter's choice" elk permits will be issued, with 15 percent going to non-residents of Colorado.

Those attending from Knott were Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Roman, and daughter, Judy; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Roman; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cheatham and family; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown and daughter, Robbie Merle; Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Roman and family; and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Roman.

Activities included boating, swimming and games.

Follow These Hints When Cooking Pork

Every housewife should know the proper and easiest way to cook pork. Here are a few hints that might help you:

The loin, leg (fresh ham), and shoulder (Boston butt) should be roasted. To season, sprinkle the roast with salt and pepper. Place the fat side up on a rack in an open roasting pan. Roast in a slow oven (325 degrees) until meat is well done. The use of a meat thermometer is recommended. Roast until the thermometer registers 185 degrees.

To braise steaks or chops, melt a small amount of fat in a skillet. If desired, dip chops or steaks in seasoned flour or breadcrumb. Brown slowly on all sides, and pour off drippings. Season with salt and pepper, if necessary, and add a small amount of liquid, such as tomato juice or water, if desired. Cover and cook over low heat or in a moderate oven (350 degrees) until chops are tender, 45 minutes to one hour.

Stuffed Baked Pork Chops: Slit a pocket in the bone side of thick pork chops and fill with bread, fruit, or rice stuffing. Brown in small amount of hot fat. Sprinkle chops with salt and pepper and place in baking dish. Add liquid, cover, and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) until chops are tender, 1 to 1½ hours.

First Pre-Season Deer Hunt Opens Aug. 17

Deer hunters in Colorado this season have a wide selection of times and places to hunt, with eight pre and post-season hunts in specified areas of the state ranging the calendar from August 17 to December 22. Harry Woodward, director of the Colorado Game and Fish department, pointed out this week.

Hunters have their choice of either antlered or antlerless deer in all of these hunting areas and seasons, as established May 27.

Hunters not hunting or planning to hunt, or who are unsuccessful in the regular seasons, may take deer in these special hunts. Some of them affording three deer, holders of regular and second deer licenses.

Woodward explained that in two antlered deer areas and three deer areas, any deer taken on the regular or second license or third deer license, are permitted during the regular season count against the total. Special permits are not required for the pre-season, extended-season or post-season hunts, other than the second deer license required for any hunter wishing to take a second deer in any two deer area. The third deer permit is attached to all second deer licenses.

The Launching Pad

By NEAL ESTES

THE headlines out of Washington last Friday morning stunned Texans from Texarkana to El Paso—from Galveston to Sherman. We saw the KENNEDY BROTHERS hand over part of the sacred soil of the Lone Star state for a mess of political porridge. Of course, the patriots who died in this state's independence from Mexico, and their heroic battle in defense of Texas honor at the ALAMO means nothing to a couple of brash Yankee boys from Hyannis Port. We have a request we intend to pass along to the BROTHERS—throw old Lop-mouth LYNDON in with the deal. Send him along to their buddies south of the border as a bonus package from Texas. CHAMIZAL is just as good as gone and so are the KENNEDYS. Why don't they give Boston back to the British?

A smartly designed "extra" announcing the arrival of WILLIAM JOSEPH BUNN, son of MR. and MRS. GLEN D. BUNN, Fort Worth, arrived Wednesday morning. WILLIAM JOSEPH (BILL) BUNN made his appearance in St. Joseph Hospital on July 12. He immediately assumed his "duties" on the staff of the St. Joseph Newsartery, the hospital publication edited by his illustrious dad. We send greetings to BILL and best wishes to his dad and mother. MRS. BUNN is the very attractive daughter of MR. and MRS. J. MONTILLA of Manila. Her dad was Director of the Bureau of Fisheries for the Republic of the Philippines. The paternal grandmother is MRS. RUBY BUNN MILLER of Fort Worth.

POLITICAL opponents of the present people in power through office at this time need do but one thing in all future elections. SEE THAT THE VOTES ARE HONESTLY COUNTED! That's the big thing to be sure about. The voice of the people can sometimes be silenced by blatant theft of their birthright—their vote.

WE have a suggestion to make at this time. How about letting the various Sheriff's Poses in Texas man the polls in all future elections from the precinct level to the White House?

OVER the weekend I figured out a way for the KENNEDY BROTHERS to stay in office as long as one of them lives and breathes. It is a simple plan and just as sane as the one they used to rob Texas and the descendants of the ALAMO by giving away a chunk of Lone Star soil to Mexico. Here is the plan: Give Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Maryland, Tennessee, Kentucky, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Arkansas, South Carolina, North Carolina, and Virginia to FRANCE and the great patriot, GEN. CHARLES DE GAULLE. Then restore Texas to the status of the independence it enjoyed before joining the union. In other words, Texans will recognize the Lone Star flag. KENNEDY couldn't run over or brow-beat DE GAULLE, and with that chunk of former Confederate Territory in France's possession, the French general could make it pretty rugged for the sin-ridden British. After all, it was France that almost helped GENERAL LEE run the Yankess all back to Hyannis Port during the Civil War.

PROPOGANDA writers caused a lot of people to give former President EISENHOWER thunder for playing golf. One area demagogue used to tell jokes about IKE'S golf playing. Listen to this story. PRESIDENT KENNEDY golfed through the eclipse Saturday. After three hours of cruising aboard a White House yacht, he went to the Hyannis Port Club in the late afternoon to play golf. The President was delayed in teeing off because no one at the club could find his golf shoes. A Secret Service agent raced back to his summer home, found the golf shoes and caught up with the President on the second hole. It's alright and fine with us for JACK to play golf. But it was also alright for IKE to play golf too, and without all those jokes he had to hear. And too, GENERAL IKE never forgot his shoes—he kept his feet on the ground and in shoes for eight years—possibly the last glorious eight year "you all" will ever know.

THE other morning, as we crossed a downtown Stanton street, a familiar voice called out: "Hello, NEAL." It was a salutation from ELLMORE JOHNSON, minister of the STANTON CHURCH OF CHRIST, and one of our all-time favorite characters. MR. and MRS. JOHNSON, and three of their splendid children have moved back to Stanton from Abilene, and we, along with their many friends are glad they are home. In the next issue of the newspaper, announcement will be made concerning a coming revival meeting to be held here at STANTON CHURCH OF CHRIST. This week, BROTHER JOHNSON is in Seminole, preparing to do the preaching at a revival opening there next Monday evening. While living in Stanton for 16 years and serving as a minister here, ELLMORE JOHNSON was an ardent and loyal supporter of the late editor JIM KELLY, the local newspaper, and he converted us to a lasting friendship.

MRS. C. MEEK called to tell us that MR. and MRS. FLOYD SMITH were sight-seeing last week in Washington, D. C. and chanced to meet the MEEK'S son, KELSAY, who works on the office staff of REP. HENRY GONZALES of San Antonio. MRS. MEEK stated that KELSAY was glad to see some people from Stanton and that he enjoyed his subscription to THE STANTON REPORTER very much. KELSAY wrote his mother that he would always be glad to see anyone from this part of the country drop in on him when in Washington, D. C.

LET us all remember in these hard, hot, trying days of community problems and community crisis that we must continue to live here as neighbors in the months and years to come. Regardless of the opinions one holds—be charitable enough to recognize the right to differ on issues by your fellowman. DON'T TAKE your business out-of-town just because your local merchant or dealer happens to hold a view opposite from yours. Don't become so petty as to penalize a brother—don't advocate boycott of another and a former friend or neighbor. There is room enough here for us all.
