Red Light On Track?

Alabama's Gov. George C. Wallace, militant foe of the infamous civil rights bill, has both Democrats and Republicans of the nation shaking in their political pants and has hung a red light in the middle of the administration's political track.

His stunning showing in the Wisconsin presidential primary proves conclusively that the people in the North as well as in the South, whites as well as negroes condemn the so-called civil rights bill which would not benefit the negro but would create a federal dictatorship in this country.

The youthful Alabama governor, who said he would "shake the eye teeth" of both political parties if he drew 25,000 supporters to his program of opposing the civil rights bill, polled more than 10 times that number.

Latest returns from Wisconsin show that the Democratic governor, John W. Reynolds, who was backed by President Lyndon Johnson and Attorney General Robert Kennedy, polled 508,597 votes, Wallace drew 261,148 and Rep. John W. Byrnes, Republican, polled 294,724.

Wallace and Byrnes together polled 555,872 votes or 45.275 more than the favored Democratic governor. The vote was conclusive in that it proved the people of Wisconsin do not want a dictatorship in America any more than we here in Texas.

Wallace's victory was a slap in the face of administration pressure which was applied in Wisconsin from Washington.

Governor Wallace has said on more than one occasion that he is a Democrat and had supported Johnson but he was irrevocably opposed to the so-called civil rights bill. We, too, supported Johnson but are opposed to the civil rights measure in its present form.

Lausche Alarmed By Story Negroes Form Rifle Club

Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D., Ohio, read to the Senate this week a report of formation of a rifle club in Cleveland, Ohio, to protect civil rights.

Lausche said he was "firmly convinced that proposals of this type are harming the cause of the negro."

"This matter is grave," Lausche declared, "and it cannot be disregarded."

Lausche read from Sunday's Cleveland Plain Dealer a news story quoting Lewis G. Robinson, 35, as saying rifle clubs were being formed to train demonstrators to protect themselves when police fail to offer protection.

Plans are being made to coordinate the Cleveland club with clubs in other cities including one already in existence in Detroit, Mich., Lausche reported Robinson as saying.

"To me," Lausche continued, "this is a matter of gravest character at a time when Congress is trying to evolve a program to provide every citizen his constitutional rights."

Lausche said that as Cleveland mayor and later as governor he had fought for constitutional rights for all groups.

"How should I feel in the face of claims rifle clubs are being organized in Cleveland?" he asked. "It means there are leaders advocating the use of deadly weapons" in solution of a problem which demands "tranquility and reason."

Advocates of such a course do not "understand the character and the psychology" of the American people, Lausche added.

"Does he?" Lausche said of Robinson "think any amount of guns at my head will make me more likely to support his proposals?"

Freeman Reveals Cotton Provisions

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman has announced provisions of a new cotton stabilization program for 1964.

Mrs. J. T. Mims and Mrs. Billy Avery were Lubbock visitors on Monday.

Visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Baum during the past weekend were Mrs. E. R. Crass of Dallas, Mrs. Lu Mahan of Ackerly, Mrs. Beulah Howard of Midland, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Baum of Midkiff, Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Low of Ackerly, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Spier of Big Spring, and Dicky Spier, a student in McMurtry College, Abilene.

as they affect growers and domestic mills.

The provisions were drawn in line with the new wheat-cotton bill which President Johnson signed.

The cotton program will retain the 16 million acre planting allotment established last winter for this year's crop.

Growers will have four choices of operations as follows:

1. They can plant within their effective basic planting allotment — which would include any acreage re-allocated to them for allotments surrendered by other growers. These farmers will be eligible for price supports at 30 cents a pound, about 2.5 cents less than last year.

2. Growers can plant within what is called a domestic allotment designed to help to reduce production at a time when surpluses are large. The domestic allotment will be 33 per cent less than the basic allotment—that is, their share of the nation's 16 million acre allotment. For small farms—those of 15 acres or less—the domestic allotment will be 15 acres or their 1964 basic allotment, whichever is smaller.

3. Farmers can choose to participate in what is called an export acreage allotment. This means, they can plant their full basic allotment plus an additional 5 per cent of that allotment. These farmers would be eligible for the 30 cents support on cotton grown on their basic allotment, but for no support or payments on cotton grown on the extra 5 per cent. The latter cotton could be sold in export only without the benefit of any government export subsidy. Such growers would be required to post surety bonds assuring that this cotton was sold abroad.

4. The farmer can choose to ignore all allotments and plant as much land as he wants. But he would be ineligible for both price supports and payments. In addition he would have to pay a penalty of about 20 cents a pound on the cotton grown on land in excess of his basic allotment.

Heretofore, growers had two choices, compliance with the allotment with consequent eligibility for price supports, or non-compliance with penalties on excess cotton and ineligibility for price supports.

Walter Graves, Billy Avery, Loyd Mims, and J. T. Mims recently made a trip to Laredo, where they spent eight days fishing.

The new program carries a plan for equalizing price domestic mills and foreign buyers pay for U. S. cotton. Foreign buyers have been getting the benefit of a government export subsidy of 8.5 cents a pound. This has put domestic mills at a competitive disadvantage.

It's Time For A Change Vote For And Help Elect

Millard Shivers Your Next Commissioner Of Agriculture.

Lifelong Democrat—Deserving—Dependable

(Pol. Adv.)

It's The Law

THE NINE

The Chief Justice of the United States heads the Supreme Court, but except for presiding and a few ceremonial duties, his work is much like that of the other justices. In fact his vote on a decision counts only as one.

In ceremonies, he leads the justices walk in a procession. As a rule, he gives the oath to the President at his inauguration. Should a President be impeached, he presides at the Senate hearings.

Of the associate justices, only one, Samuel Chase (1796 to 1811) has been impeached. That is, accused of a wrong for which the Senate could remove him. Chase did lack "judicial temperament"; he made political speeches and denounced the President from the bench. But such things are not crimes. His impeachment failed. The Senate would not remove him from office.

How can we be sure that a man will become a just, honest, and able justice of the Supreme Court? What are his legal qualifications?

None: The Constitution sets no formal requirements. He does not have to be a lawyer, though all of them have been. The President may name any one he chooses; and, with U. S. Senate approval, he goes on the bench.

But the informal qualifications of a justice of the Supreme Court are great. For a seat in the U. S. Supreme Court is a lawyer's highest honor.

Before a person goes on that high bench, should anyone doubt of his character or learning the Senate holds hearings and can refuse to confirm this appointment. And this has happened.

And then it is up to the President to name another and another, until the Senate confirms his nominee. The Senate cannot nominate its own candidate; it can only approve or disapprove the President's. Membership of the U. S. Supreme Court changes quite often. Justices take office for life, but a fair number retire from time to time for health reasons. For as a rule such honors come late in life.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

No Tangle Rod Work

Here's another good way to keep bait casting reels free from snarls and tangles when transporting or storing. Cut a figure 8 out of an inner tube. Cut a hole in both ends of the 8. Now slip one end over the rod butt or reel seat; the other over reel handle. Tension holds everything in place.

Students Who Need Summer Jobs Should Apply Now

If the teenager in your town is thinking of a summer job when school lets out a few months from now, it's not too early for him to start looking. Rarely are there enough summer jobs to go around, and the job outlook for summer, 1964, seems brighter than usual.

Here are some tips should prove helpful to Junior—or to you if you're getting in on the tracking down one of the few jobs that will be available:

1. Help-wanted ads in the newspapers. Look carefully, not only under such categories as Clerk and Messenger but also under Summer Jobs, Teen-Age Girl, etc.

2. Help-wanted ads in newspapers. Some papers publish their year plan special sections or summer job openings for boys and girls who are interested in their wants and needs. Take advantage of such opportunities that is offered in your town.

3. Employment agencies. If your town has agencies that specialize in summer jobs, they represent an obvious place to go. The regular agencies may also have summer job listings along with their regular permanent jobs, so it's wise to make the rounds of the agency circuit.

4. Help-wanted signs in the windows. Many shopkeepers put signs in their store windows whenever they have need of help, and this is a common technique for filling summer jobs. Keep your eyes open for such signs as you stroll through the business sections of town.

5. By mail. The U. S. mails can be helpful in locating jobs outside your own town. For example, a pamphlet titled "Summer Employment in the National Park Service" is available from the U. S. Interior Department, Washington, D. C. 20225. The Association of Private Camps, 55 W. 42nd St., New York, N. Y. 100-36, has leads on camp jobs. If you're looking for a resort job away from your own area, you might write to the State Employment Service at the capital cities of states known as vacation spots.

6. Friends and relatives. Make your desire for a summer job known to all the adults with whom you come in contact. You'll be surprised to find how many of them come across summer job openings just in carrying on their every day activities. Coach them to be on the alert so that if they hear a shopkeeper or gas station attendant or restaurant owner complain about the lack of help this time of year, they let you know pronto.

7. Shoe leather. There's nothing to stop you, after school hours, from walking along the business streets of town, going from one shop to another, asking the owner or manager if he needs a bright lad or gal to fill in for someone on vacation or to take care of the summer rush. You may just put the idea into his head that he will need someone.

What good will a summer job do for you? Here are some of the possible answers, depending on your own particular situation.

Money. If you're at college, a summer job may make up the difference between your tuition and your part-time job during the college year. If you're at high school, a summer job will help you save for college. If you're not that farsighted or don't plan to go to college, a summer job will give you spending money — and possibly a new feeling of self-respect.

Clue to Your Life Career. If you're considering several types of work, you may be able to give each a whirl during one summer or over several. If you have a specific company in mind, you may use the summer to test out each other.

Experience. Even if you have no specific vocational goal at the moment, a summer job can give you general working experience. You can learn good working habits, how to get along with others, the meaning of responsibility. And you will come away with business references to help you at a later time.

Vacation. Certain types of jobs, particularly in resort areas, will let you work part

Garrison urged Texans to avoid the inconvenience of waiting in line to get the safety inspection sticker for 1964 by taking immediate action. FORD TOTAL PERFORMANCE WINS ATLANTA "500" FOR 3RD YEAR IN A ROW!

Latest win gives Ford
11 out of last 12
NASCAR 500 milers!

ATLANTA, April 5: In a blazing exhibition of total performance, ace driver Fred Lorenzen piloted his specially modified '64 Ford to a stunning victory in the Atlanta "500" before a cheering crowd of 75,000 spectators. This victory marks the 11th time that Ford has captured a NASCAR stock car event of 500 miles or more, starting in May, 1962.

In the past two years, tough, dependable Ford-built cars have carved out an incredible history of victories in virtually every kind of automotive event possible—from stock car races to economy runs, from rallies to endurance tests.

This is the dramatic way to show that Fords have changed... and the sure way to be certain they keep on changing.

Ford enters special cars in open competition, in addition to its extensive laboratory and test track programs, because competition provides an intensity of testing that no proving ground alone can provide.

The lessons Ford has learned in racing have already led directly to such refinements as a stronger rear axle, streamlined "fastback" styling, better brakes and an improved ignition system.

Because Ford enters open competition, the cars at your Ford Dealer are stronger, better handling, safer and thrifter in the long run. They're built for total performance.

YOU have heard that old saw the Yankees spread after the close of the Civil War in Texas haven't you? The carpetbaggers promised the colored folk 40 acres and a mule. They never delivered because not enough Texans were willing to give up their land and the colored brothers didn't try to take it. So the Yanks went back 'nawth. In Austin the past Saturday exactly 40 persons showed up for a highly advertised rally sponsored by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Most were colored, but no bronze Indians were reported in the crowd. A handful of candidates did put in a personal appearance. The YARBOROUGH didn't attend but they sent speakers to represent them. A Texas candidate, IN THE FLESH, who appeared seeking the votes of the NAACP followers included: JESSE OWENS, candidate for a seat on the railroad commission. Most of my friends like JUDGE JIM LANGDON, present commissioner, married, father of five, decorated war hero, former judge, and all-around good man for reelection to the Railroad Commission.

TEXANS start voting absentee this week on state races. That is, qualified holders of poll tax receipts can vote if they paid the $1.75 fee. Federal poll tax holders can't participate in state, county, or precinct races. We trust that May 2, first Democratic primary date, will find competent, clean, able, efficient election officials in charge. We don't want anymore contested elections. It will take alert, young, mentally active men and women to see that our ballots are accurately counted. This is a young people's age—there is nothing in this world more pitiful than watching some of our retired senior citizens too often willing and ready to become the pawn of crooked politicians, sometimes unknowingly. Men and women who have always been respected by their neighbors and friends in the prime years of their lives lose favor as the sunset descends because of the personal greed of the rats who would bar nothing to be elected. Country editors sure hate to write obituaries for the departed in such cases. We just don't condone fakery, sham, or ballot box chicanery.

A CANDIDATE for public office dropped by my office recently to leave a card. He explained that the cards he was using were printed in our commercial department a few years ago and that he was simply changing the printed primary date so he could run a sort of poor-boy campaign. His story was true. We appreciated his coming by. He is a good man. Both the candidate and your editor belong to an organization supposedly dedicated to "Service Above Self." But we do have a member—yes, a fraternal brother, if you please, who would make a $4-dollar-bill out of the Four-Way Test, if the opportunity developed.

WE wish to remind the public to keep in mind the coming SPRING FESTIVAL. Date has been set for May 4. C. C. committees are functioning and this year's street exposition and titanic bargain day is due to be another smashing success. The feature of the day will include the Pancake Supper and Auction. Many of the local merchants will arrange sidewalk displays and prices will be marked down on merchandise. Watch the paper for weekly comment on the Spring Festival.

WE received a JOHN F. KENNEDY memorial medallion and key ring from a friend in Dallas this week. The front of the medallion carries the image of the late MR. KENNEDY and on the back side this inscription from his inaugural address: "Ask not what your country can do for you—ask what you can do for your country." JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY was born in 1917 and was 46-years of age at the time of his death in Dallas in November of 1963.

BEFORE the Supreme Court rules on that Delaware woman's petition protesting the recitation of the Pledge to the Flag we would like to print it here so our youngsters can cut it out and always remember the Pledge as their parents knew it. Here it is: "We pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands. One Nation under GOD indivisible with liberty and justice for all." The Delaware non-Christian is trying to get the court to knock out the two words "under GOD." If the nine men in Washington rule for her and this part of the Pledge to the Flag is removed, then it's time that we, the descendants of the Pilgrim Fathers, removed the Court by impeachment—not by any other means "UNDER GOD."

A RECENT spate of stories concerning encouraging advances in cancer research has created a good deal of optimism among those who hope for a breakthrough to eliminate the dread disease. But a word of caution is needed. No cure for cancer has been found yet. A cure may come someday and when it does it will be great news for mankind, but until that time, we must all support our crusade.

Car License Sales Are Up Slightly

Martin County economic activity is a little ahead of last year on the basis of motor vehicle registrations.

A report from the office of tax assessor and collector, Dan Saunders, shows that a total of 2,855 license tags have been sold for 1964, as compared to 2,768 for 1963. This is an increase of 87 over last year's figure.
