SHELTER AREA for employees of the Rohm & Haas Co. at Bristol, Pa., provides both blast and fallout protection for all of the plant's workers. This is one of the underground shelters built by the chemical and plastics firm at its four plants in Pennsylvania, Texas and Tennessee to accommodate all its workers and assure itself an experienced labor force after a nuclear attack.

Using data on the best available local shelter areas in existing structures provided by the Defense Department's National Fallout Shelter Survey, Pollock has spent about $18,000 so far to improve shelters for 6,600, and will go to $50,000 if necessary to improve shelters shelters for the town's 10,000 inhabitants. 'Insurance' for Survival Industries Take Steps to Meet Nuclear Threa.

American industry continues as the American economy itself, continue after an attack and not beef up its facilities and training programs to be prepared to survive and recover from the worst an enemy could throw at worst an enemy could throw at worst an enemy could throw at this Nation.

Accustomed to insuring against ordinary hazards, the managers of many industrial and commercial enterprises in this country have taken measures to assure that their company and its employees could also survive even a nuclear attack and recover from the disaster. Most unions have enthusiastically supported such emergency preparations.

These measures are as varied

Fire fighting and disaster control to meet peacetime disasters and wartime damage on the fringe of a target area or in a zone affected by fallout.

Shelters from fallout and sometimes blast for employees while at work. Frequently, civil defense survival information for employees' home use is provided.

Secure locations, usually underground or in remote areas, for key personnel and records to assure that the company could counting system.

EMPLOYEE SHELTER built by the Marotta Valve Corp. of Boonton, N. J., under the home (top) of its president is often cited by civil defense authorities as an example of what a smaller firm can do to protect itself and its workers in the nuclear age. The main room Gordon Roberts, president of Roberts Dairy of Omaha, to protect 200 Guernsey cows and three bulls from a nuclear attack. His dairy farm is only about 25 miles from Strategic Air Command headquarters near Omaha. In peacetime, the $35,000 shelter is used as a "loaing shed" for the cows to get out of the sun. Roberts, who has also built shelters for his family and employees, says he built the livestock shelter because "the American dairy so use of the best in the world. TET history mark the record. Only four members of the Texas House of Representatives voted for the civil rights bill. They were: BROOKS of Beaumont; GONZALEZ of San Antonio; THOMAS of Houston, and J. J. (JAKE) PICKLE of Austin.

HARRY HAISLIP, one of the county's better known citizens expired Sunday evening after suffering a heart attack. Our departed fellow citizen was a man of solid and deep convictions. He was loyal to his family, his friends and his principles. We met HARRY HAISLIP the first few months of our residence in Stanton, about ten years ago. We learned to admire and respect him as we learned more about him. HARRY was once our favorite golfing partner. He liked the game, and was an avid backer of the annual golf tournament we used to hold here. It is our feeling that we have lost a friend that a lot of people admired. Our sympathy goes now to his bereaved family.

SEARCH for the three civil rights workers in Mississippi has moved toward the east. How about looking for them in their home neighborhoods or in Cuba? This could be another case to smear Mississippi.

T has been told that SENATOR GOLDWATER is planning on grazing a herd of Arizona cattle on the White House grounds and in the former rose garden there. The beautiful rose garden so carefully cultivated and preserved by the KENNEDYS has become a political corral since KENNEDY'S death and most of the roses it is said, are not there anymore. GOLDWATER wants his cattle to get rid of the JOHNSON grass growing up there on the WH lawn and in the garden before he replants the beautiful roses.

COUTHFUL TOMMY DEAVENPORT, son of DOROTHY and BOB, is powerfully concerned about having to temporarily suspend his Little Leaaue baseball career. TOMMY is a little lame in the leg and doctors have advised him to take a rest. The energetic lad doesn't cotton to the idea of not playing. Think about it this way - TOMMY - big stars like MICKEY MANTLE are the ones that get the whole treatment after an injury. Sometimes MICKEY is "laid up" a month waiting for a muscle to unwind or for a bone to knit.
