

Cliburn Receives Baptist Churchman Of Year Award

Internationally - acclaimed pianist Van Cliburn has received the Churchman of the Year award from the lay associates of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky.

"I do believe in Christ and I believe very strongly in Christian principles," Cliburn told the 200 persons at the dinner.

He called the Christian philosophy "the ultimate simplicity of love and projection of peace."

Cliburn's father, an oil executive and Baptist deacon, and his mother were present for the award. Cliburn grew up in Shreveport, La., and moved to Kilgore, Texas when he was in high school.

The pianist was introduced by the Rev. James Middleton of Shreveport.

The minister said that when Cliburn won the international Tchaikovsky competition in Moscow six years ago, he gave part of his award to the Baptist Church in Moscow, the largest monetary gift the church ever received.

Middleton said there were other examples of Cliburn's "Christian witness," including a concert that netted $22,000 for a church in Shreveport and musical scholarships he endowed at Baylor University.

The award last year went to astronaut John Glenn.

Mrs. Jim Webb, Mrs. Viola McClane and Vestal McClane visited last week in Bagns, Texas, with Mrs. Webb's aunt, Alice Spear.

Visiting last week with Mrs. Ralph Kelly, Rex and Ima, were Mr. and Mrs. Buford Terry of Midland, Felix O. Kelly of Lubbock, Mrs. Cora Moss of Big Spring, and Preston Kelly of Odessa.

Hoss Governor Hopeful? Never, Says College Pal

Somehow, after Dan Blocker took time off from his "Hoss Cartwright" role on the Bonanza television series to help Democrats campaign in Texas, the rumor got started that he would like to be Texas governor.

Not so, said State Rep. Gene Hendryx of Alpine, a long-time friend of the Texas farm boy-turned television star.

Blocker made two trips to Texas in October to campaign for President Johnson and made 16 speeches.

Now the rumor is spreading around Washington and Austin that one of these days Blocker might want to come back to Texas and seek the gubernatorial chair after Gov. John Connally steps out of office.

The reports most of the time seem tracable to John G. White, state agriculture commissioner, who talks freely about the prospect.

"I am tremendously impressed with him," declared White, who traveled with Blocker on his campaign swings through smaller cities. "He might do all right in Texas politics." White claimed Blocker is "very interested."

"John White and all those guys are just jumping on the bandwagon," said Hendryx, who was a Blocker friend during college days at Sul Ross State College and has been in close contact with him since.

"I tried to encourage him—not to run for governor—to come on home and become involved in politics," Hendryx said. "He said no."

Both Hendryx and White said Blocker has much admiration for Connally.

White quoted an anonymous long-time Texas politician as saying, "Maybe this state is ready for another W. Les O'Daniel, and, if it is, Blocker's the man."

O'Daniel, a radio entertainer in the big days of radio, was elected governor twice and U. S. senator twice, starting with no previous political experience.

The agriculture commissioner said one former high-ranking state Democratic official — also anonymous — has said he would head a committee to raise money for Blocker should he decide to run for governor.

"He is very intelligent, is well-informed on political issues and makes a whale of a good speech," White said.

Hendryx won't contest that statement, but he said, "All Dan is interested in is helping the Democratic party . . . a lot of people think Dan has political ambitions, and this is not true."

FARM REVIEW AND FORECAST

Frost can be expected soon in most areas of the state, and this could mean trouble for Texas stockmen. Johnsongrass and sorghums often develop a high prussic acid content after a frost and, if grazed by livestock, can cause a lot of trouble, warn A. M. Meekma, extension dairy specialist, Texas A&M University.

Certain chemical changes occur in frost-wilted plants that are responsible for the prussic acid development, Meekma explains. The poison acts quickly and can kill an animal within a short time after the damaged plant is eaten. Whether or not a poisoned animal can be saved generally depends upon how quickly a veterinarian can be consulted.

Frosted Johnsongrass or sorghums should not be grazed until they are completely dry, warns Meekma. However, those ready to cut for hay at the time of frost damage may be clipped the first day after frost if complete curing precedes baling.

Frost-wilted plants may also be used for silage, Meekma points out. Generally enough prussic acid is lost during the ensiling process to make it safe for livestock.

However, animals should not be allowed to self-feed from a silo filled with frost-wilted forages. If there is any doubt about the silage, it should be tested by the local veterinarian or by feeding such silage to one or two inferior animals.

For more details on grazing, harvesting and storing of frost-wilted plants, Meekma suggests a visit with the county agent or local veterinarian.

A Texas A&M University plant scientist says use of "non-deteriorated seed" is essential in getting a cotton crop off to a good start.

Dr. L. S. Bird, associate professor and speaker at the Texas Insect and Plant Disease Control Conference here Nov. 19-21, said high quality seed is necessary to achieve "seedling disease escape."

Seedling disease escape, he explained, is selecting for inherent seed and seedling traits which help avoid and resist soil-borne ailments. Disease escape involves evaluating material and selecting for seed deterioration resistance, rapid seedling emergence and rapid seedling emergence and low post-emergence damping-off.

"The main point we want to bring out is the importance of seed deterioration and its relationship to low temperature germination and seedling growth," Bird said. "We want to emphasize its importance in getting a good uniform stand of healthy cotton plants."

Cottonseed deteriorate when exposed to high moisture levels, especially when combined with high temperatures, he said. The condition can occur in the field between boll maturity and harvest, in trailers as they stand in the gin yard, and in storage if moisture is not reasonably controlled.

Family health depends largely upon the nutritional status of the members, says Mrs. Gwen Clayatt, Extension Service consumer marketing specialist.

Here are marketing ideas which may help homemakers cut costs and at the same time plan well-balanced menus, the specialist says.

At retail meat counters, look for best beef values on short ribs, stew meat, round steaks and roasts, and arm and blade pot roasts and steaks. Pork values include bacon, ham portions, fresh backbone, picnics and shoulder roasts.

Fryers remain a bargain in most retail meat departments, and frozen turkeys are available at reasonable prices.

Grade A large eggs are the economy, quality egg value.

Fresh fruit in best supply at reasonable prices includes bananas, apples, cranberries, pears and grapes. The red variety of grapefruit is becoming more plentiful, and prices this week are moderate to high. Additional fruit choices include persimmons and pomegranates.

Good quality cooking greens include collards, mustard and turnip greens. Eggplant, cauliflower, sweet potatoes and squash are worthy of consideration for menu variety.

Pecans and peanuts also are becoming more plentiful.

McNamara Ready For Decision On Fate Of 11 Navy Shipyards

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara was reported Saturday ready to decide within a few weeks whether any of the Navy's 11 big shipyards will be closed in an economy cutback. Reductions are certain at some of them. Although McNamara has given himself until Jan. 1 to reach a decision, the plan now is to announce the cutback either immediately before or immediately after Thanksgiving.

giving informed sources said. It is expected that one of the four yards on the West Coast and either one or two on the East Coast will be closed. All employ between 5,000 and more than 10,000 persons and contribute $150 million or more a year to the economy of their areas.

McNamara was said to have been impressed by arguments that morale in the shipyards has been impaired by the long uncertainty over whether jobs will continue, and that a decision should be reached as soon as possible.

Last December, it was widely reported that the yards at Boston, Philadelphia, and Hunters Point in the San Francisco area would be closed. At the last minute, however, further study was ordered.

Harvest Rest On Planning

Game wardens and biologists of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department are always interested in assisting the landowner to produce as much game as his range will carry.

For this reason Joe B. Davidson, quail biologist for the department, says that often the secret of game production lies in planning ahead.

He made the observation as a bountiful fall wildlife harvest moved toward its climax.

The magazine Petroleum Today points out that the oil industry plays a big role in the nation's $130 billion a year "agri-business" — the growing, processing and marketing of farm products. Farmers use more oil products than any other segment of the nation's economy. In addition to fueling tractors and trucks, oil provides the raw materials for such farm essentials as fertilizers and weed killers.

Game food must be planted, and planned for, by disturbance of the soil in the spring if ample winter food supplies are desired to carry wildlife through the winter.

Winter is the time to study the land to decide on what to do to aid wildlife; spring should be earmarked for plowing small strips near brushy cover to encourage the production of annual plants that will supply food. Briers and shrubs should be protected to supply cover.

In summer the pasture mowing should be slanted toward leaving patches of croton, ragweed and seed producing foods. Also bend or cut tops to furnish cover.

Estes Given Court Order For Nov. 23

Billie Sol Estes has been ordered to appear in Dallas Nov. 23 for a hearing on a motion to revoke his $10,000 federal bond and send him to jail.

The hearing, scheduled for 10 a.m. Nov. 23 by U. S. Dist. Judge Sarah T. Hughes, was called after an exchange of sharply worded letters by Estes' attorney and U. S. Atty. Barefoot Sanders of Dallas.

Sanders had warned Estes that further travel outside the Northern District of Texas without permission might result in bond revocation.

Sanders' request for a hearing stated that Estes was in Denver, Colo., twice last month.

Estes was released on bond after charges alleged that he made false statements to a federal agency. Judge Hughes will hear the case early next year.

Estes was first warned by letter Sept. 25. On Sept. 30 a letter to John D. Cofer, Estes' attorney, repeated the warning.

It added, "If Estes violates this condition, this office will immediately move to forfeit the bond... and I will now add, to have Estes remanded to the custody of the marshal and we would oppose the granting of further bail."

Cofer wrote back to complain of Sanders writing directly to Estes, and not the attorney. Cofer said he told his client "to ask and follow our advice and not the advice or demands of the counsel on the opposite side."

He also said that the limitations established for the bond were "wholly unreasonable."

Cofer said that "he has pro-seutions in both (Northern and Western) district," and has state prosecution pending against him in the Eastern District of Texas.

He added that Estes has a case pending in the U. S. Court of Appeals in New Orleans and two cases in the Supreme Court in Washington.

As further excuse for travel, he said, Estes has businesses in all four federal districts of Texas and "has friends and acquaintances throughout the United States who believe in his innocence and who are contributing to the expenses of the litigation which both the state and federal governments have been carrying against him."

Cofer also complained of the "rather wide circulation" of the letter to Estes. The letter was sent to various attorneys, courts, sureties and law enforcement officials.
