It was nice of CECIL BRIDGES to invite us, along with MAURYNE VARNADORE, to attend the director's meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce held in Lubbock last week. It afforded us the opportunity of visiting with BILL COLLYNS, editor of The Reporter-Telegram, Midland; John Ben Shepperd, Odessa attorney, formerly of East Texas; and BEEMAN FISHER, president of the Chamber and of Texas Electric Service Company.

Your editor has served for the past two years as ATTY. GENERAL WAGGONER CARR'S representative in Martin County for the Youth Conference held in Austin annually. This year we discovered two very fine delegates in DAVID HICKS and TIM BRISTOW, and both lads reported having a splendid and worthwhile time the past week in Austin. Through the co-sponsorship of CECIL BRIDGES and your writer, the trip to Austin was made possible. We might add that the student's parents, MR. and MRS. P. M. BRISTOW, and MR. and MRS. BILL HICKS backed us up all the way. The boys will speak to the Lions Club next Tuesday and any other organization wishing to hear an account of their trip to the Attorney General's Youth Conference.

Young WAYNE WOODY, now on a trip to the National Boy Scout Jamboree, has written some good press dispatches for the paper. We appreciate his interest in sending a fine account of his journey to Valley Forge, Pennsylvania Jamboree back to us for publication. WAYNE made us a little sentimental when he mentioned the boys spending one night in Ann Arbor at the University of Michigan and having breakfast there one morning. Michigan U. is our old alma mater. We spent three years there, lived in the Law Club, ate their Yankee food, found some long-time friends enrolled, and have a lot of good ex-classmates in those parts now. As one of the four southerners in the entire law school at the time we were there, we can attest to good, sometimes almost special treatment at Michigan. We found no prejudice against us there despite our known reputation as an unrepentant Confederate grandson. We carry a card today in our billfold which reads: "This is to certify that Neal Estes is an alumnus in good standing at Michigan University" How about that?

An individual interested in my brother mailed me a news story, put on the AP out of Longview stating that CARL had been named Aide to the Potentate of Sharon Shrine Temple in East Texas. We appreciated the clipping and wish to thank you ever sent it to us. The Colonel has long been active in Masonic and Shrine circles and we are very proud of him. The Potentate happens to be R. E. (PEPPY) BLOUNT, now county judge of Gregg County and formerly of Big Spring. PEPPY was a great football player at Texas University a few years ago.

Congratulations go this week to VIRGINIA, J. D., REGGIE and RANCE HOUSE on the arrival of a daughter and sister. The new member of the family has been named RAJEANIE DECHELLE. All of the HOUSE children's first names start with the letter R and their middle names start with a D. VIRGINIA, the daughter of DOC and MRS. BRYANT, used to be our society gal Friday and like all of the ones we have had

OLD SETTLERS — John Peters formerly of Stanton, now living in Midland, poses with three other old settlers during the 31st annual Martin County Old Settlers Reunion held here this week. The ladies, from left, are Mrs. M. H. Nance of Medina, who moved to Martin County in 1911; Mrs. Joe Stewart of Stanton, who was born in Martin County in 1902, and Mrs. Hattie Estes of Stanton, who was born in Martin County in 1894. Peters was born in Martin County in 1891.

The Republican National Convention has indeed been an interesting one since opening Monday morning. Pre-convention activity was also above par. Possibly the biggest story breaking Monday concerned the nasty letter William Scranton wrote to Senator Goldwater and sent it by personal messenger Sunday night. Scranton's letter was sent back immediately. In diplomatic matters the fact that the letter was returned meant total rejection. Howell Appling, Jr., delegate from the state of Oregon and a Scranton backer, shifted his vote after the Pennsylvania governors show of intemperance.

concerned as much about the contents of the letter for himself as he was for his party.

Senator Goldwater appeared Friday of last week before the platform committee and won a complete Goldwater platform. The handsome Arizona handled himself beautifully before an irate and uncomplimentary negro delegate from the District of Columbia. Despite an insult hurled by the obviously prejudiced negro, Senator Goldwater patiently answered his questions with personal dignity and this was to his credit. It made him votes.

For the first time in history a group of colored demonstrators showed up outside of a national convention site.

Jackie Robinson, once known as a good baseball player and a Rockefeller supporter, helped lead the march. Robinson stated that Senator Goldwater was a "nut." His opinion of Goldwater mattered little as nearly all negroes in America have long since joined the Democratic Party, according to Republican leaders such as Senator Morton of Kentucky. Senator Morton said in an interview that the percentage of colored delegates to the Republican Party convention this year was smaller because more negroes had joined Democratic ranks, and the source of colored delegates

My Friend, John Ben

(An Editorial)

I guess the time comes in every editor's life that he just wants to author a tribute to a true friend. This is new with us, this idea of saluting an individual just because he is a good American, father, husband, and the kind of fellow most of us would like to be. My friend is not a candidate and not running for anything and he isn't running from anything either. He is an old East Texas boy. He can be described as a sort of protege of my beloved brother, Carl, but he now operates out of his own individually earned and created base in Odessa, and he flies good colors. I chanced to brush into him the other day in Lubbock at a West Texas Chamber Director's meeting. He pulled a chair up right behind mine and in an appropriate moment said something I appreciated a lot. Beeman Fisher, president of Texas Electric, who was presiding, called on my friend for a report. I'll conclude this tribute and accolade by saying that I was more than proud to sit there in front of the chairman of the oil and gas committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and attentively listen to his talk. The man whose voice I heard is well known to thousands of Texans, a millionaire who expressed concern about our mutual West Texas problems, and former attorney general of this great state, and a protege of my brother and my personal friend for more than twenty years, was John Ben Shepperd.

Stanton Youths Return From Austin Conference

Tim Bristow and David Hicks returned Sunday from the second annual Attorney General's Youth Conference which was held last week in Austin.

Approximately 1,800 youths from every county in Texas attended the three day conference.

Attorney General Waggoner Carr officially opened the session with a challenge for youth to help youth. "What can we do to eliminate juvenile crime and dropouts? We have called you as the expert witnesses in this case to tell you," he said.

Carr expressed hope that two things would result from the conference: (1) That by learning more about youth problems adults may better bring the devices of government to bear, and (2) that after frank discussions the young people would return to their homes with the idea of assisting in their own communities. He called the operation a "boot strap Peace Corps."

New Orleans Exchange Dies

placated by a system of government control which is contrary to the American way of life," he said. About 40 to 50 persons, most of them newsmen, were present at the end. In former days, hundreds of traders thronged the exchange when it was among the world's major centers dealing with cotton futures.

A few of the oldtimers quietly, wiped tears from our eyes.

More than a score of commodity exchanges across the nation suspended operations for one minute to mark the passing.

The close had been set for 1:30 p.m., but was delayed a few minutes pending the close of the New York Cotton Exchange, the only futures cotton market in the nation

Chairman John Ben Shepperd Announces Plan For "Ramps"

A dynamic five-year program of historical Recordation, Appreciation, Marking, Preservation and Surveys was put into action by the Texas State Historical Survey Committee in its summer quarterly meeting.

"RAMPS," as the plan is called, is designed to bring about an awareness of the unique history of Texas by visitors and by Texans themselves through state and local efforts.

"The 21-point program has grown out of the tremendous county approval of and response to the new Historical Preservation Laws passed by the last Legislature and Governor John Connally's plans to make tourism one of the great industries of Texas," said Committee President John Ben Shepperd of Odessa.

Workshops in 31 Texas centers will be set for members of County Historical Survey Committees, Commissioners Courts, City Councils and Chambers of Commerce, and tourist officials to put the RAMPS program into action.

A major goal of the RAMPS program is the erection of 5,000 Official Texas Historical Markers and Texas Historical Building Medallions within the next five years — in addition to the some 1,200 historical markers previously erected by the state and the 1,500 markers erected in the past two years. These new markers, 1,000 each year, will be erected in a joint state, county and privately-financed program. Seventy-five percent will be located for tourist consumption with 25 percent marking actual sites.

These markers will cover Texas history from the archeological finds, old Spanish and French explorer routes and Indian culture, through the days of the Texas Ranger, the cattle drives and the railroad movement to the history of industries, educational institutions and famous Texans.

Included are markers giving the name, founding and history of each town and stream in the state with special emphasis on those with unusual names. Ghost or oddly-named and promotional towns that never materialized will be marked.

The Texas State Historical Survey Committee serves as the clearing house for historical information which will be used in more than 1,000 Texas Historical Tours (each county will be included in at least one tour), in a statewide historical road map, Calendars of Historical Events and in the compilation of directories and guides of Texas Historical Events and in the compilation of directories and guides of Texas Historical Museums and their collections, Official Texas Historical Building Medallions and all official markers in the state.

It contemplates the cooperation of tourist-related businesses as hotels, restaurants, service stations, etc., to use Texas history subjects in pictures in hotel rooms or informative placemats in restaurants.

With the acceptance of the RAMPS program by the Historical Survey Committees in every county in Texas, history will be preserved and made available. Plans are to furnish technical assistance and guidance in the establishment of permanent, safe archives in every county, to have a history of every county written and published. Every county that so requests can secure consultants for advice and assistance in the fields of restoration of houses and buildings, museums, archives and papers, and tourism.

Yearly surveys conducted in every county will determine the location and condition of historical markers and the extent of the county archives and books on Texas history in county libraries. This information is then turned over to the State Archives and made available to researchers and visitors.

"The RAMPS program is designed to benefit the counties as well as the state, with information and resources flowing up and down, to accomplish the ultimate goal of preserving and displaying the unique history of Texas," said Mr. Shepperd.

Population Count at N. Y. World's Fair—A 24-hour-a-day counter with illuminated figures six feet tall clicks off U.S. population at the Equitable Life Pavilion. At current pace the population will exceed 193 million by the year's end.

A night view of the Unisphere, the official symbol of the Fair.

Better Use Of Time By Menu Planning

You can have colorful, appetizing meals in minimum time and with less energy if you plan and manage them properly. Did you know that the average homemaker spends about a third of her time in planning, preparing and serving meals? Of course, some homemakers spend more time on food preparation than others. The size of the family, elaborateness of meals and the convenience and use of kitchen equipment influence the time spent on meals.

Health and well-being of your family are of utmost importance in meal preparation. A homemaker cannot afford to cut corners so far that she sacrifices well-prepared, balanced meals and a happy atmosphere around the family table. Planning and management are the keys to easy, good meals.

Set aside a time and place for menu planning. Have the tools handy that are needed—paper, pencil, recipes! Use copies of menus that you have found to be timesavers as well as family favorites.

Think through menus. Some possible timesavers are as follows: Serve fewer and well-prepared foods in generous amounts. Use foods that can be cooked together, such as pot roasts with vegetables. Use foods that require few cooking utensils, serving dishes and last-minute preparation. Use foods that can be cooked and served in the same container, such as casseroles. Use foods that take little preparation, such as unpeeled carrots and eggplant. Use foods that cook in time-saving equipment, such as pressure saucepans and automatic appliances.

Plan meals that fit into other tasks, such as easier meals on club meeting days. Serve simple desserts. Plan menus to use only one cooking area of the range, such as broiler meals.

Plan dishes which require few ingredients.

Plan menus for several days or a week at a time. Decide what foods have to be bought ahead of time, keeping in mind what foods are on hand.

Make a shopping list to save time, steps, and money. Foods listed in the order that are found on the grocery shelves speeds shopping.

Brownsville To Be Scene Bureau Meet

Some 300 county leaders are expected to attend the 16th annual Texas Farm Bureau Institute here July 21-24, according to TFB President C. H. DeVaney of Waco.

The institute is conducted to provide training for volunteer leaders who have positions of responsibility in their county Farm Bureaus. Regular courses will include instructions in specific areas of Farm Bureau activity as well as agricultural economics.

Two general sessions will carry out the institute's theme: "Our American Heritage." Speakers include Dr. George S. Benson, president of Harding College, Searcy, Ark., noted authority on Americanism and communism; and John Noble, Wheaton, Ill., author-lecturer who spent 9½ years in a Russian slave labor camp.

J. D. Hays of Montgomery, Ala., president of the Alabama Farm Bureau, will be speaker at the luncheon concluding the four-day school.

Guest instructors include: Dr. Jarrell Gray, Commerce head of department of agricultural education at East Texas State College; Prof. Glyn Turner, Huntsville, history instructor, Sam Houston State College; O. R. Long, Chicago, field services director for the American Farm Bureau Federation; and Warren Newberry, Vernon, field services director for the AFBF's southern region.

General sessions will be held at the Fort Brown Memorial Center with classes in adjacent Texas Southmost College.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Johnson attended a reunion of the Bill Lloyd family in Brownwood recently.

Senator Strom Thurmond opposes the proposed federal pay increase bill which has passed the House. "... this legislation goes far beyond providing a cost-of-living increase for the higher-level jobs. Members of Congress would, for instance, receive an increase of 33½ per cent or even more if the Senate pushed the Congressional boosts from $22,500 to $32,500. It is my conviction that individuals offering for elective office should not be looking for financial gain."

White Named Outboard Jet Dealer Here

Outboard Jet, Inc., Indianapolis, Indiana, manufacturers of the revolutionary new jet propulsion outboard motor, announces today the appointment of B. F. White, White Motor Co., 201 East St. Anna St., Stanton, as the Outboard Jet dealer in this area.

The mechanical construction of the Outboard Jet is simple. A high velocity, high-volume of water is jetted into the air from the rear of the motor, creating a jetstream which pushes the boat forward.

Efficiency and economy are at a premium, since extra power is not watered through prop slippage and in pulling down the rear of the boat and raising the front out of the water.

Rugged tests in the Everglades have proved that the Outboard Jet operates in muddy and sandy waters as well as in the deep blue, and that underwater logs, sandbars, and rocks have no effect on the operation. This means the fisherman can get back into shallow, or hard-to-get fishing holes that are inaccessible with propeller driven boats. Nothing protrudes below the boat itself... operation in weeds does not hamper the Outboard Jet... submerged obstacles present no problem... and the boat is steered by turning the jet in the direction of the desired turn. With the Outboard Jet, the boat can easily be turned within the actual length of the boat itself, or quickly swung to reverse position for backing the boat.
