SENATOR RALPH YARBOROUGH, still engaged in a personal political feud with GOV. JOHN CONNALLY, sponsored an amendment last week that brought about the elimination of any gubernatorial veto power the governors of the states have over the anti-poverty program. CONNALLY has used his office in the past to stop some of the more ridiculous projects outlined for Texas. Just a few months ago, YARBOROUGH and JOHNSON left Washington with the late PRESIDENT KENNEDY to come to Texas and attempt to make political peace with GOV. CONNALLY. The three Texans are still battling, and MR. KENNEDY is in his grave in Arlington. KENNEDY would not have been in Texas but for his attempt to make peace on the Texas scene. True Texans are fed up with watching the three-ring political wire pulling going on from Austin to Washington and back to the Ranch.

The federal government will spend more than 3-million on Texas airports this year. The announcement was made from SENATOR JOHN TOWER'S office this week. The biggest chunk of this money will go to Houston and San Antonio. About 20 other smaller cities, including Cleburne and Gilmer will receive the rest. The federal funds must be matched by city-county money.

LBJ has ordered 29 million dollars to be spent in California in the Los Angeles area alone to "eliminate the cause of riots." One of the projects to be bought and paid for by the American taxpayers will include an increase in on-the-job training program. Train the bums for what? Train them so they can keep on getting drunk and yelling "police brutality." For a switch, how about trying to get some of the wines off the jug, get them to bathe, shave, and shine their shoes daily and wear clean uniforms before sending them to Viet Nam.

A staunch backer of "The Great Society" remarked the other day that prosperity roamed the land. Prosperity always comes from high profits off wartime contracts on the home front while men are dying on the battlefield. Don't forget that when you deposit your next crimson-tinted dividend check.

We still have people in this country who think war was meant for the other fellow—the fighting part—that is—while they reap the profits resulting from the carnage.

Amateur actors from Midland will represent the United States in the Third International Amateur Theatre Festival starting this weekend. Midland Community Theatre was chosen by the American Community Theatre Association as the representative of more than 4,000 member theatres in this nation. Housewives, college students and an independent geologist are among the actors in "The American Dream" which the Midland group is presenting under the direction of ART COLE. Sixteen other nations are represented in the festival. THE DALLAS NEWS, editorializing said, "Selection of the West Texas group is gratifying recognition of the cultural achievement of a city better known for its leadership in ranching and petroleum. The choice should remind some Easterners that artistic endeavor is not confined to that area beneath the shadows of the Ivy League."

Martin County Favors Plan To Increase

The amendment SJR 44 to the Texas Constitution failed to win approval of the states voters in a special election held Tuesday but Martin County voters delivered an affirmative answer to the Senate expansion plan. The amendment's passage would have increased the Texas Senate membership from 31 to 39.

Stanton Man Specialist In Thailand

U. S. Forces Thailand (AHT-NC) — Army Specialist Four Lee E. Standerfer, son of Mrs. Lois Standerfer, Stanton, was assigned to the 9th Logistical Command in Thailand, August 16. A communications center specialist in the command's 105th Signal Company, Standerfer entered the Army in February 1964, received basic training at Fort Polk, La., and was last stationed in Korea. The 23-year-old soldier is a 1960 graduate of Stanton High School and was employed by C. A. Grey Plumbing and Heating Company in Midland, before entering the Army.

In this county the vote was 62 for the amendment and 41 opposed. Not a single absentee voter turned a ballot in to District Clerk Doris Stephenson's office. Tarzan franchise holders voted 17 for and 17 against. Incidentally, the Tarzan poll tax holders turned out better percentage-wise than any other community group.

In Box 1, Stanton, voters favored the amendment by 36 to 14. In Box 2, Stanton, the voters approved 16 to 4. The elementary school box and the church box had a total turnout of 70 voters.

The county voting boxes, Ackerly and Courtney, scored shut-outs for the amendment. Courtney voters approved 6-0 and Ackerly voters voted for the amendment to increase the size of the Texas Senate 8-0.

Editorial - - - Other Views

Two views from other newspapers recently attracted our attention as indicative of current action in the realm of income, taxes and public aid.

From the Columbia (South Carolina) State: One future aim of the administration is to find a way to guarantee every American family an annual income of $3,000. Meanwhile, the "average" American family pays about $3,300 per year in taxes. In some societies less sophisticated than ours this would lead to comments about overtaxation.

And this from the Wheeling (West Virginia) Intelligencer: An indication of just how far the federal government has gone in its efforts to take care of American citizens' every need from the cradle to the grave is a newly published book. The book, "Encyclopedia of U. S. Government Benefits" can belong to anyone who has $7.95. Publishers of the tome, in their advertisements, say that the government is ready and willing to help you with "your child's education, your vacation home, your business success" or any other problem. "You name it," they say.

The current volume has over 1,000 pages with benefits listed from A to Z. It might be noted with the present mood (in Washington) that this modest volume may well be expanded to a "five-foot shelf" of government benefit books.

Stanton Loses Opening Game To Roscoe Plowboys By 12-0

The Roscoe Plowboys racked up the Stanton Buffaloes by two touchdowns Friday night in Roscoe to get the Buffs off on the wrong foot in the season's opening game.

The Roscoe defensive play proved to be stronger than had been previously reported or anticipated. The Bisons found only 60 yards on the ground through the Plowboy line. Stanton had better luck with their passes, completing 12 out of a possible 21. They gained good yardage—a total of 115 by air but could not penetrate the Plowboy pay dirt.

Roscoe scored in the first period with a kind of confusing pass pattern—called razzle dazzle when introduced to Texas football a number of years ago by Jerry Mann, known as the Little Red Arrow when he played for Southern Methodist in Dallas. The Plowboys got their counter with less than four minutes to go in the opening period. It went this way. Quarterback Jim Rayborn handed off to halfback Britt Patty who passed to Jackie Smith for 16 yards and the touchdown. Larry Holderman failed in his attempt to make the point after TD.

In the fourth period, Benny Harbor, of the Plowboys recovered a fumble on the Bisons 40 yard marker to set up Roscoe's second counter. Stephen Prescott passed 18 yards to Harbour for the six-point-er. Again the kick for the point collapsed.

Stanton's biggest thrill of the game was the long run back to the Plowboy five-yard line by Buddy Shanks on an intercepted forward pass. Shanks had the crowd on its feet with his fine play. Stanton lost the scoring opportunity after the interception via the fumble route.

Roscoe scored in the first and final quarters. Here is the story of the (Continued on page 8)

Stanton To Meet Big Lake Owls In Friday Encounter

Stanton's Buffaloes will be out looking for a victory over the Big Lake Owls come Friday night.

The Bisons were defeated by 12-0 in the first game of the new season at Roscoe by the Plowboys last Friday night.

Despite the defeat suffered in Roscoe, the Buffaloes had several high points in the game. Twice the Buffs waltzed into territory close to the Plowboy goal line but a fumble and an intercepted pass stopped the drives. The outcome of the contest could have changed had the pass been completed and the fumble recovered.

Coach Bill Milam had a good word for the team concerning their play in the opener last week. He said: "The team was outstanding in that a total of 16 passes out of 31 thrown were completed and our boys outscored Roscoe in first downs by 24-20.

Milam also cited Buddy Shanks as back of the week and named lineman Glenn Lawson for the same honors. Lawson is a sophomore.

Milam continued: "The team did not capitalize on the two opportunities to score. We were inside of the five-yard line in the first quarter and fumbled the ball and again got inside the five-yard line and had a pass intercepted in the fourth (Continued on page 8)

Dr. Fisher Writes Paper About Airport

Dr. Allen Fisher, head of the Martin County Chamber of Commerce, has sent the following communication to the newspaper concerning the proposed building of an airport in the county.

The newspaper carried a story on the latest meeting of the proposed project in the last issue. This is more or less a personal opinion voiced by Dr. Fisher. It appears below.

In our modern, fast-moving world of today we must endeavor to keep up with the modern trends of travel or be forever left behind and remain either static or gradually die and become a ghost town.

The idea was established that we do not need an airport, but if we do not establish one and have it available for use in the near future, there will never be a need for one, for people cannot come to apply for space and the use of an airport that does not exist. At this time we can apply for federal funds and state funds that will cover about 75 per cent of the cost of a new airport. The balance can be either covered by public - approved bonds or by actual work put in by the sponsoring group or by a combination of these two methods.

There seems to be a mistaken and misguided idea among our people that the Martin County Chamber of Commerce is back of all these new moves toward changes that are coming up. To shed some light upon this, allow me to say that any chamber of commerce worthy of the name, should always be for anything that spells progress and prosperity for the people among whom it works. It can, however, do no more than bring (Continued on page 8)

JP Salaries Law Invalid Carr Rules

Attorney General Waggoner Carr has issued an opinion requested by a state official, saying that the Legislature violated the State Constitution by ordering county commissioners to pay salaries to justices of the peace.

The new code of criminal procedure, which goes into effect Jan. 1, includes a section which requires commissioners to set the salary of each justice of the peace in their county.

Carr said this requirement conflicts with Article XVI of the State Constitution and, as a result, is void. The Constitution gives commissioners the choice of paying salaries to justices of the peace or compensating them on a fee basis.

Commissioners in Dallas and other metropolitan areas pay salaries to their justices of peace. But those in some rural areas are compensated through fees they receive for performing various duties.

Carr added that the Constitution requires commissioners to pay constables on a salary basis.

Carr's opinion would not affect other sections of the code.

Most county officials comply with opinions of the attorney general's office pending court decisions on legal points.

Health And Safety Tips

From The American Medical Association

With the opening of another school year at hand, it's time to recall once again the dangers of bicycle riding. Although exact figures are lacking, in recent years from 500 to 700 deaths and 30,000 to 40,000 injuries a year have occurred in collisions between bicycles and motor vehicles, says Today's Health Guide, the American Medical Association's manual of health information and guidance for the American family.

By far the greater number of these deaths and injuries were suffered by children from five to 14 years of age. Parents must assume the major responsibility for the safety of the children. Parents must see that their young riders are taught when and where bicycling is safe; they must get the bicycles in safe condition; they must promote a friendly and cooperative attitude toward law enforcement officers; they must help the child develop an understanding of the purposes of traffic regulations.

It is important to help your child work out safe bike routes to and from school, the park and other areas where he customarily rides. Bike riders using the roads are subject to the same regulations, responsibilities and privileges as motor vehicle drivers.

The Bicycle Institute of America offers some safety rules—

- Observe all traffic regulations — red and green lights, one-way streets, stop signs.
- Keep to the right and ride single file. Keep a safe distance behind all vehicles.
- Have a headlight on front and a danger light on the rear of your bicycle for night riding. Wear white or light-colored clothing at night.
- Have a bell or horn to warn of approach. Always ride at a safe speed.
- Give pedestrians the right of way. Avoid sidewalks, if possible; use extra care when riding on walks.
- Look out for cars pulling out into traffic. Keep a sharp lookout for the sudden opening of car doors.
- Ride in a straight line. Do not weave in or out of traffic or swerve from side to side.
- Always use proper hand signals for turning and stopping. Park your bike

- in a safe place.
- Slow down at all street intersections and look to right and left before crossing.
- Be sure your brakes work properly and keep your bicycle in perfect running condition.
- Never carry other riders — carry no packages that obstruct vision or prevent proper control of your bicycle.
- Never hitch on other vehicles, "stunt" or race in traffic. Never ride two on a bike.

If your child plans to ride to and from school on a bicycle this fall, make certain that there is a parking area at the school, relatively safe from thieves. A short length of chain and a padlock will usually stop the bicycle thief.

Bible Comment—

The Meaning Of Glorifying God Is Clear When We Learn To Honor And Accept Him

What does it mean to glorify God and live in His glory?

One dictionary says glory is "distinguished honor or ornamentation; exalted reputation; praise; splendor of state; the quality of being radiant; luster; the bliss of heaven a halo."

These dictionary definitions seem to be derived from the Bible. In the glorifying of God almost all the dictionary meanings are present, but chief among them is the quality of honor.

To glorify God is to honor Him. And what does honoring God mean? It is quite possible that honor means very much in relation to God what it means in the lesser things of life.

In ordinary matters we speak of "honoring" a check, or a note. This implies full responsibility for it as ours. To honor God is to accept

Him, to take His love and His will into our lives, to become responsible to Him for our character and ways.

Honoring God is something more than reverence or obedience. It is a false notion that represents God as a great potentate, sitting on a throne in gorgeous garments.

It is false to represent God as being ready to wreck His vengeance and authority upon His subjects if they do not fall down and offer their abject devotion.

The likeness of God to earthly sovereigns has been overdone. It is a false and misleading conception.

To glorify God is to accept Him and what He offers, and to become like Him in creative life and acts of love and good will.

"Here is my Father glorified," said Jesus, "that ye bear much fruit, so shall ye be my disciples."

Philosopher Hails New Improvement On Telephones But For A Very Peculiar Reason

(Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw reports on a new telephone invention this week. We didn't even know he had a phone.)

Dear editor: The thing about progress is that you've got to know how to handle it, or it's more trouble than it's worth.

Take the telephone. It's all right if you need to call somebody, but frequently becomes a nuisance when somebody wants to call you. I have observed that when I'm gone and somebody calls and leaves a message to call him, saying it's important, it's generally important to him, not to me.

This is going to be changed soon, although I don't think the telephony company intends it that way.

As I understand it, they've perfected a system where you can transfer your own calls, so in a sense your phone follows you around wherever you are. Say you're expecting a big business deal by telephone and you have to leave your office temporarily. All you do is dial a code number and I'm sure it will, but the phone where you'll be while you're out, and if a call comes in it'll be - pass your office and ring at the other

Unemployment Rate Steady For August

The Labor Department said Thursday that last month's unemployment rate held steady at 4.5 per cent.

Reporting on what it termed a continuing strong overall employment situation, the department said the unemployment total in August was 3.2 million.

This was a decrease of 350,000 from July, but employment also dropped, by 600,000, and the labor force declined by about one million. The total number of Americans at work in August was 74.2 million, compared with a record high of 74.8 million in July.

The over-all unemployment rate in the first eight months of this year averaged 4.7 per cent. The department called this "a sharp reduction from the average of 5.3 per cent in the first eight months of 1964."

It also was the first year since 1957, the report said, that the jobless rate has remained under 5 per cent.

Harold Goldstein, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said the drop in the number of unemployed last month was usual for August, but the employment decline, mostly in agriculture, was a little more than seasonally expected.

The report said the biggest improvement in the statistical picture last month was a drop in unemployment among teen-agers, from 13.2 to 2.4 per cent.

The unemployment rate for married men rose from 2.3 per cent to 2.6 per cent. Goldstein said this case was a significant increase but he added it was too early to tell whether it might indicate a trend.

The jobless rate for negroes and other nonwhites dropped from 9.1 to 7.6 per cent from July to August.

Love Spells Draft As Marriages Soar

Young men are falling all over themselves these days in a big rush to get married. It's love, of course, but in a lot of cases they spell it V-I-E-I-N-A-M.

"Many of the young men bluntly admit they are marrying to avoid the draft," said a clerk in the Allegheny County license bureau in Pittsburgh. "Some say they feel the cause in Viet Nam is not worth fighting for."

The number of marriage applications in Allegheny County, as in many courthouses across the nation has soared since President Johnson made his draft step-up announcement July 28.

"The draft?" asked John Dnyo, a 22-year-old Detroit musician, "that's why I'm getting married."

Grace Kelley, deputy clerk in the Wayne County (Detroit) marriage license bureau, said, "oh yes," many young persons were rushing to get married to escape the draft. She said three fourths of the persons applying for marriage licenses are between 18 and 23, "and they ask for an extra copy of the license to take to their draft boards."

In Philadelphia, Robert W. Costigan, first assistant clerk in charge of the marriage license bureau, said two young women telephoned and volunteered the information that they were changing wedding dates from next winter to this month so their boyfriends can avoid the draft.

In New York City clerk Herman Katz said his office has been asking young persons if they are getting married to avoid the draft.

"At first, some resist the question. But then a host says 'yes, I am,'" Katz said. But then as if to reaffirm his faith in the altruistic aims of romance, he adds: "Surely there are many who are getting married to get deferred, but most are getting married so they can be a husband or a wife."

1000 'Lope Permits To Be Granted

Landowners with surplus antelope in the Panhandle and the Trans - Pecos will receive pronghorn hunting permits from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department later this month.

Trans - Pecos land owners will receive approximately 520 buck antelope hunting permits and Panhandle land owners will receive 435 buck and 50 doe antelope permits.

The number of permits to be issued to the various land owners was based on aerial counts made by department personnel.

Land owners distribute hunting permits among sportsmen at their own discretion.

Field reports from the Panhandle and Trans - Pecos indicate antelope are in good condition.

The 1965 Trans-Pecos antelope season extends from October 2 through October 10. In the Texas Panhandle antelope may be taken from October 2 through October 5. The bag limit is one antelope per season by permit only.

Strict Border Control On Cotton Pests Slated

John White, state agriculture commissioner, said today the Texas border will be closed against free movement of Mexican cotton beginning Sept. 25.

He said the move is necessary because of "recent summer plantings of cotton below the border and the abandonment of mutual cultural practices against the destructive pink bollworm in Mexico."

Planting of late cotton for winter maturity in Mexico violates a 12-year-old international program to suppress cotton pests, White said. Strict border control must now be enforced against the pink bollworm which has destroyed as much as $4 million worth of Rio Grande Valley cotton in one season alone, he added. White said the late Mexican crop is a breeding ground for pests which can wipe out cotton in a few weeks time and carry over into the next season.

"Since Mexico has abandoned those known cultural practices which, by common agreement, are the salvation of the Southern cotton industry, then I must close the border to the free movement of their crop into Texas," said White.

The action will close shipping points for Mexican cotton to East Coast and world markets. Brownsville is one of these major shipping points.

Connally Names Law Study Board

Gov. John Connally appointed Dallas Dist. Atty. Henry Wade, who prosecuted the Jack Ruby murder case, and eight other Texans to the newly created Commission on Law Enforcement Standards and Education.

The 59th Legislature established the commission to direct research in law enforcement, certify law enforcement training and education programs and certify instructors for the programs. It also will recommend curricula for advanced courses and seminars in law enforcement at junior colleges, colleges and universities.

Wade was appointed to a two-year term. Other appointees and their terms are: A. C. Howerton, retired Fort Worth police captain, two years; Glen H. McLaughlin, Austin, Department of Public Safety chief of personnel, training and staff services, two years; Walter Suttie, Vernon police chief, four years; Wallace Beasley, Texas A&M coordinator for enforcement training, four years; Dewey Presley, president of the First National Bank of Dallas, four years; C. V. (Buster) Kern, Harris County sheriff, six years; Dr. George Killinger, Huntsville, director of the Institute of Correctional Studies at Sam Houston State College, six years; Rufe Jordan, Pampa, Gray County sheriff, six years.

News Of Braceros Not To Liking Of Police

The news that the U. S. will admit 8,000 braceros next month will bring groans from police all over Mexico and smiles to the faces of the braceros.

The Mexican government had shut up shop for the day when the news arrived from Washington, and no comment was available. However the official government stand all along has been that the bracero question is a domestic affair for the U. S. to handle.

The only Mexican interest, said foreign relations officials many times, is that proper safeguards be provided to prevent the exploitation or mistreatment of Mexican citizens.

Unofficially, Mexico misses the hundreds of thousands of dollars brought into its economy each year by the returning braceros.

The surplus of braceros at home has also aggravated the rural unemployment problem, some reports said, and even figured in one of Mexico's most disturbing domestic issues - the "parachutists."

That is the name given bands of landless squatters who move onto farm land, sometimes by force, and claim it for their own. They are called "parachutists" because "they just drop from the sky," say land owners. "You wake up in the morning and there they are." Troops must sometimes be used to evict them.

Bozons of such land invasions take place all over Mexico every week. Some observers said the invasions stepped up this summer because the bracero ban in the United

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

Ten High Energy Crops That Feed Mankind

High energy foods usually mean carbohydrate of starchy foods. They usually carry at least a minimum amount of protein, and even some minerals and vitamins.

But most of the starchy foods need supplementation with the so-called protective nutrients - the protein, minerals and vitamins - which are present in meat, fish, milk and eggs, especially when the people of Northern America and Europe.

Cereal crops make up most of the high-energy crops of the world. Which crop heads the list?

It is rice. Rice is said to supply 48% of the so-called caloric intake of all mankind. It feeds nearly two billion people, primarily in the Orient but also other vast areas.

Corn and wheat are other cereals that largely make up the diet of millions of people, corn primarily in Latin America, and wheat generally among the people of Northern America and Europe.

The tortillas of Mexico and Central America, the arepas of Colombia and Venezuela, and the angu of Brazil, which is more or less a mush, are made from corn. In the form of tortillas, corn makes up about 80% of the food of the Guatemalan Indian.

In addition to these three cereal crops, there are three root crops that help feed the world: Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes and cassava which is made from the root of the cassava plant that grows tall like artichokes. At times of famine in Brazil I ate what I thought was mashed potatoes, actually it was manioc, or cassava from which tapioca is made.

Besides these six cereal and root crops there are two sugar crops, beet sugar and cane sugar, and two tree crops, bananas and coconuts, to give us ten important high energy food crops.

These ten crops were selected as foremost by Dr. Paul Mangelsdorf, economic botanist of Harvard University, formerly of Texas A & M University.

If consumed too exclusively, these foods present a serious nutritional problem, as being unbalanced. We here in North America are fortunate in being able to supplement them with animal products and other protective nutrients.

May we always have a strong dairy, poultry, and livestock population for the good of the nation and the prosperity and well-being of our people.

Question: I've noticed there are metering devices for adding salt to hay during baling and pelleting. Is this of practical importance?

Answer: In amounts up to about 20 pounds per ton of hay, salt has made for improved palatability, especially in hay of only fair quality - most hay is only fair.

J. Edgar Hoover Seeking Less Restraint On Press

Crime and corruption flourish in an atmosphere of public ignorance and misinformation, Federal Bureau of Investigation Director J. Edgar Hoover says.

"An integral part of our way of life is the public's right to know," he said in an exclusive interview.

"The more the public can learn about its law enforcement agencies, the greater are the chances of attaining the kind of law enforcement it needs and deserves."

The public needs to have more news about what he termed the "Three Cs" — crime, corruption and communism.

"The public needs to know, so it can do something about it," he said.

When there is corruption in police departments it should be exposed and the strongest sentences should be given to police and public officials who betray the confidence of the public.

"The newspapers can do a fine service by crusading and editorializing against all corruption, and against the other two of the Three Cs," he said. "You can't sweep corruption under the rug."

Although the people's right to know is important, "this is not an unlimited right which should be permitted to infringe on other rights," he said.

He said he strongly opposes "the high-handed suppression or misrepresentation of facts concerning the crime problem" and declared that the only person who benefits is the criminal.

Hoover criticized the trend toward leniency for hardened criminals, "the unrealistic decisions of bleeding-heart, sentimental judges," favoring criminals with decisions based exclusively on technicalities.

He also criticized witnesses to crime who don't want to get involved and citizens who refuse to assist and support their local police.

In discussing the increasing number of court decisions that favor the criminal offenders and which are critical of some law enforcement methods, Hoover said, "The court should take the handcuffs off of law enforcement and put them on the criminals."

Hoover had some words of praise for the U. S. courts: "There are thousands of conscientious, sincere and honest judges in our courts and society can depend on the merit of our legal system. Thousands of men and women, working in the anonymity of their local courts are daily validating free government and making America a better country."

Through the years, Hoover said, the press has overwhelmingly helped — and he emphasized the word — in law enforcement's fight against crime.

In addition to reporting the news, he was asked about the publication of photographs.

"They have been of great aid to law enforcement on countless occasions," he said. "Their publication has an additional importance in enlisting the cooperation of the public, has frequently led to the solution of crimes, and serves as a warning to our good citizens to be alert to the danger that surround them."

He said a number of newspapers have been especially vigilant in digging out information about scandals and corruption in government, and added that the newspapers in the Chicago area had been especially helpful to the FBI in helping to uncover information about the Cosa Nostra crime syndicate, so greatly publicized in the last few years.

Hoover was asked about suppression of information about past records of convicted criminals as advocated by some of the "codes" proposed by bar associations and judicial councils.

"The withholding of names and information concerning previous convictions is 'privileged' treatment, and hoodlums who constitute a menace to society don't deserve it," he said.

He said that some of the dangers in making information "top secret" are that information which the public needs is withheld and that unnecessary classification results in "covering up inefficiency and incompetence."

He feels that there is an over-classification of information in the federal government, he said, and "only the newspapers can dig it out."

The public should have this information so that it can learn what it needs to know to make a strong government, he said.

In cases of leniency for criminals, suspending of sentences, granting of paroles and extension of probation for offenders, he advocated newspaper publication of details, including the names of the judges.

The newspapers should keep reminding the judges and other officials that "crimes by repeaters are on your conscience."

"If law enforcement officials are doing their job properly, they should not avoid the spotlight of newspaper reporting of their activities," Hoover said.

Although he was critical of some cases of what he called undeserved leniency for criminals, he said he is a strong believer in the system of pardons and paroles when the system is properly administered.

Referring to both newspapers and their communities, the FBI director said, "It should be acknowledged that a community does not get better law enforcement than it wants or deserves."

"The more the public knows about the pressures applied to law enforcement officials, to parole officials and to governors for pardons, the better the country becomes," Hoover said.

One of the bad things about leniency by courts and juries, he said, is that often what might have been a long sentence proves not to be at all. A life sentence doesn't mean life; maybe all that it means is a few years, then parole and freedom and a return to a career of crime, he said.

Stronger Capitol Police Force Asked

Rep. Omar Burleson of Anson is pumping for an elite Capitol Hill police force as one attack on the war on crime in Washington.

He feels that patronage should be sacrificed to professionalism in the Hill's police corps.

Burleson has introduced a bill which would set up a joint eight-member Senate-House committee which would oversee the police function on the Capitol grounds.

The Capitol is the top tourist attraction in town, and many lawmakers want to insure that both they and the taxpayers get the most efficient and courteous law enforcement possible.

"Right today, I wouldn't want to walk out on the Capitol grounds at night," Burleson commented.

Robberies, assaults, purse snatchings and other crimes have been committed in the very shadow of the Capitol Dome.

The Hill police force numbers about 140, but only about 20 of the officers are career-men in the District of Columbia police department.

The rest are mainly part-time jobs filled by college boys with little or no police training.

"I don't have anything against them, but they are boys in uniform, with a book under one arm, who wouldn't know what end of a gun to hold," Burleson said.

Burleson, chairman of the House Administration Committee, was asked to come up with a plan by Speaker John McCormack, Majority Leader Carl Albert and other leaders.

Two women members, much concerned with crime and violence in the Capital area — Mrs. Leonor Kretzer Sullivan, D-Mo., and Mrs. Edna F. Kelly, D-N.Y. — attended the planning huddle.

Burleson pointed out that he offered a similar bill in 1954 that passed the House but died in the Senate.

The joint committee, if created, would supervise the Capitol police board, made up of the sergeant-at-arms of the House and Senate and the Capitol architect.

Burleson said the committee would establish the guidelines for creating a fulltime professional force but that candidates would be screened by the FBI, trained in modern police methods, and given wages and fringe benefits in line with metropolitan police departments.

Oil Tank Burned At Midland On Tuesday Night

A fire completely destroyed a Magnolia Oil Company storage tank about 15 miles west of Stanton, and five miles east of Midland Tuesday night. The fire threatened to spread and roar out of control for a time but was extinguished and the blaze confined to one tank.

The blaze, caused when lightning struck the tank about 9 p.m. engulfed the 55,000 barrel tank and caused flames to shoot 300 feet into the air.

While the tank fire was in progress heavy smoke poured over the countryside and a large number of people rushed to the scene to view the spectacle of the burning tank.

2-Bit Piece Minus Silver Now In Mint

The silver quarter began going the way of the Indian-head penny as the Philadelphia mint stamped the first of the nation's new no-silver 25-cent pieces Monday.

The new quarter is a "sandwich" with faces composed of the same copper-nickel alloy now used in the five-cent piece, plus a core of pure copper.

The old quarter was 90 percent silver and had a metallic value of about 24 cents. The new, without silver, has a metallic worth of about one cent, the assistant secretary of the Treasury, Robert A. Wallace, said. He was on hand for the start of production.

But Miss Eva Adams, director of the mint, made it clear — quickly — that the new quarter's monetary value is just the same as the old one: 25 cents, American.

Soon to be minted are a similar sandwich-type dime containing no silver, and a half-dollar with a reduced amount of silver.

Wallace said the introduction of the new coins caps a two-year drive by the Treasury Department.

"Had Congress not authorized the new material," he said, "Treasury stocks of silver would have been exhausted in less than three years."

The new quarter looks about the same. It doesn't have the luster of silver, however, and the copper core is clearly visible as a band around the edge.

The sandwich composition was chosen, Wallace said, to give the new coins the electrical properties they will need to work in the nation's 12 million coin-operated vending machines.

Wallace described the new coins as "attractive, durable, hard, and completely compatible with the old coins."

Janitor Fails, Succeeds, Now Is Teaching

This story is a beauty for the books.

In Akron, Ohio, Clarence Bradshaw, 33, is giving up his job as a school janitor to become a school teacher.

He will take a $350 annual cut in salary.

Bradshaw will begin teaching sixth grade in the Ohio school system in Akron at $5,640 a year. He has been working as janitor for $6,000 a year while attending night school at Akron University. He received his degree in elementary education last June.

Bradshaw worked as a school janitor nine years after flunking out of Akron University in 1956. In 1960 he decided to have another go at a bachelor's degree.

'Coons Raid Mast Traps! Now Read On

Say you're a hustling varmint, out casing the countryside for a square meal. And, Eureka, you come upon a royal feast, all laid out, including the napkin.

Well, it's not going to be such a soft touch around the Kerr Wildlife Management Area hereafter.

It was a case of self-defense for Charles Ramsey, area manager. The varmints were tormenting his wildlife biologists by raiding their acorn-berry traps used to check mast production — a very vital routine in management studies.

The gadgets caught such sumptuous Animal Kingdom items as acorns, pecans, cedar berries and the like. And the varmints did their best to put the lot to good use.

Now, the resourceful Ramsey improvised a rubber cone-shaped catchment to receive the delicacies — he hopes.

The marauders to date have been able to do only a night-long treadmill performance. Knowing raccoons as a sharp lot, Ramsey can only hope that his scheme succeeds.

Inspection Car Stickers Available

"There is a touch of Texas tourism in the 1966 Texas vehicle inspection sticker," said Colonel Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, as he announced the new vehicle inspection period beginning September 1, 1965.

"On that date, all official inspection stations in Stanton began issuing the colorful new sticker, a part of which is a replica of the flag of the Lone Star State," he continued.

In making this announcement, Garrison urged motorists to secure new stickers as soon as possible even though they are not required by law until April 16, 1966.

Garrison noted that this new inspection period marks the beginning of the 16th year of compulsory vehicle inspection in Texas and that during that time, vehicle defects as causative factors in motor vehicle traffic accidents have decreased continually.

During 1965, the reduction brought this rate to an all-

Jim Lindsey To Head A&M Information

Information programs at Texas A&M University are being reorganized with Jim Lindsey, director of University Information, named chief of the state-wide program.

A&M President Earl Rudder, who also became president of the A&M System, announced the changes. He said reorganization would provide "better flow of information about A&M and its activities to the people of Texas" and eliminate duplications.

The System president said Lindsey would supervise informational programs for all A&M agencies and continue his work with the Main University campus in College Station.

Lindsey, a 21-year newspaper veteran, came to A&M in 1962 from Midland where he was managing editor of The Reporter - Telegram for 10 years. He spent a decade on the San Angelo Standard Times after graduation from Texas Tech, holding every editorial position there from reporter to managing editor. He was assistant managing editor for the San Antonio Express-News for two years.

Activities brought under his supervision include the Agricultural Information Office which disseminates releases and publications on agricultural research and educational programs; the sports information program; and Texas Forestry Service activities. The System Information Office, a staff section for the chancellor, will be consolidated with University Information and Publications, Rudder noted.

Rudder called Lindsey "one of Texas' outstanding newsmen."

"Mr. Lindsey is known as a man who gets the job done," Rudder commented. "Under his leadership our University Information program has become one of the nation's best. His leadership will give strength to our overall information effort."

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN
by Vern Sanford

Keeping Matches Dry
"A wet match is an abomination to both smoker and camp cook," so sayeth The Sportman's Bible.

You can keep matches dry by dabbing the heads with clear fingernail polish. This is much easier than dipping them in paraffin.

Fingernail polish waterproofs the matches even under trying conditions — and the polish adds to their combustibility.

Retouching Duck Decoys
When you touch up the worn paint spots on your decoys, be careful what sort of paint you use.

Flat paint is best, as it has no shine to scare away incoming flights. Use turpentine as thinner since linseed oil will tend to add shine.

After the paint dries, give the surface a few licks with fine steel wool to dull the paint even more.

Fisherman's Dilemma
How often have you heard it argued around camp whether, or not, a hook should be fully covered with the bait? Leave the barb bare! A naked hook will no more scare away fish than will the hooks on an artificial lure.

Fact is you will snag more fish when the barbs are sharp and bare.

Stringing The Fly Rod
If you are one of those anglers who threads a fly rod by pushing the leader through the guides—don't!

An easier and quicker method is to double the line above the leader connection and shove this double line through the guides.

This way, the line won't be able to slip back and become unthreaded should you lose your grip on it.

Eating Your Fish Bait
Ever get hungry enough to eat a horse?

Well, should there be no horses handy, you can eat your bait when appetite calls. That is, if you are lucky enough to be fishing with live crawfish.

Just take out half a dozen of the biggest ones (be sure they are alive) for each person to be fed, dump the crawfish in salted boiling water, and cook about 10 minutes.

You'll have the finest meal of pee-wee size lobsters you ever ate.

Don't be alarmed if the crawfish turn red when cooked—they should.

Tie Down Binoculars
Binoculars can make a lot of unnecessary noise bouncing around when you are walking afield.

Cut out this racket by taking an 8-inch strip of thin leather and punching small buttonholes at each end. When walking, button the glasses to your shirt buttons.

Then, just unbutton one end of the strap when binoculars are needed.

Painting Fisheyes

To make your bucktails and flies more lifelike, give them eyes by dipping a small nail head in white glossy enamel. Touch each side of the lure at the spot where the natural eyes should be.

Let the enamel dry, then with the point of the same nail, put a dot of black for the pupil in the middle of each white spot.

Thermometers Aid Fishing

A smart fly fisherman adopts any method that promises to improve his chances for success. One wrinkle is the use of a thermometer to register water temperature.

For instance, in water 55 degrees and warmer, use lightly submerged nymphs and flies.

If the water is 45 and 55 degrees, use weighted nymphs and wets with streamers.

If colder than 45 degrees, go way down deep with four flies, or spoons.

Stifling Flames

The bane of a camp cook's existence is to have his fire burst into flames, when what he wants is hot coals.

Experienced cooks have found a way to instantly douse

Stanton FFA Chapter Elects New Officers

The Stanton FFA chapter met for the first meeting of the school year on Wednesday, September 1, at the FFA building at the high school.

Officers elected for the year were: Bobby Hamm, president; Jackie Hankins, vice-president; Allen Springer, secretary; Danny Fryar, sentinel; Bobby Holland, treasurer, and Gene Wheeler, reporter, and Jimmy Morrison was selected as an honorary member.

These unwanted flames they merely sprinkle a handful of common table salt over the fire and — presto—the flames disappear.

A Handy Gadget

When the old three-ring notebook gets too old for use, don't throw it away.

Use the back (with the three rings) to keep camp cooking tools together.

The rings will hold spoons, large forks, pancake turners, etc., handy and ready for instant use.

Strightening Nylon Leader

There are three good ways of straightening a coiled nylon leader:

1. Soak it in liquid detergent.

2. Dampen and stretch it between the hands (hold for several minutes stretched tight).

3. Pull it through a folded piece of rubber, or rubberized material.

Human Hand As A Ruler

How many times have you been in a situation where a ruler was needed, and none was handy?

Well, you'll never be in that fix again if you'll remember the distance between the tip of your little finger to the tip of your thumb. Span your hand on a ruler, by placing the tip of the little finger on whatever numeral in inches you can reach.

Tip For Amateurs

If you are thinking of mounting a recoil pad on your gun butt, take this precaution against splintering the wood when the stock is sawed. Wrap adhesive tape around stock at the cutting point and use a table saw.

Heavy Drinking Linked To Cancer In One Study

Heavy consumption of alcoholic beverages has been linked to the development of cancer of the mouth and throat in a study conducted at three New York hospitals. The data, collected on 958 cases of these cancers and an equal number of matched "control" cases without cancer, showed that heavy drinking was twice as prevalent among the cancer cases.

The same relationship was found with use of tobacco. Twice as much heavy smoking was found among the cancer cases as among the controls.

Although smoking and drinking tended to be related habits and when practiced together seemed to increase the chances for development of cancer, the two also seemed to act independently of each other.

This is, the study produced evidence that heavy drinking itself was linked to the development of mouth and throat cancer.

These findings came from a study at three Veterans Administration hospitals by Dr. Milton Terris, professor of preventive medicine of the New York Medical College.

He said liver cirrhosis — most of which is related to drinking — was found in 19 per cent of the cancer cases and in only 9 per cent of the control patients.

He also said heavy drinking and heavy smoking were practiced by 43 and 25 per cent, respectively, of the cancer cases and in only 20 and 12 per cent, respectively, of the controls.

Dr. Terris said alcohol, itself, or something in alcoholic beverages possibly can cause cancer in tissues it touches, or alcohol makes tissues more sensitive to the action of tobacco smoke and

The Launching Pad

By NEAL ESTES

There is a lot of talk these days about education. Unless some youngsters we know change their ways — learn to listen — give up their demanding ways — they won't get anywhere in life even if they graduate. Going to school does nothing for a bad disposition — a high temper — and a sorry sense of loyalty. Few people look with favor on any individual—regardless of his education — who doesn't have enough personal courtesy to adhere to the decent rules of society. I am convinced that a bird cut from that cloth will never amount to a dam thing even if clad in an educational robe ten feet long.

I talked with ELLMORE JOHNSON awhile just before he started for his new home in California. ELLMORE, his wife MARIE, and the children left last Wednesday for the coastal state. He served in Stanton as minister of the CHURCH of CHRIST on two tours of duty. While living here the JOHNSONS were also engaged in two business enterprises. First, they owned a Flower Shop and just before his decision to move to California they owned a dress shop. ELLMORE, also served at one time as a member of the school faculty. He is a man of many talents. His wife is just as talented. The JOHNSONS realized that the future belongs to those who find and work for it. They are good thinkers. ELLMORE told me that all they managed to do in the business they owned before their departure for California was just to swap dollars. The JOHNSONS left a good example here in little Stanton for us all. They left us a richer community by their having passed this way. To the JOHNSONS we send our very best.

JOHN CHANCELLOR opined former mouth-piece of the NBC, took over as the "Voice of America" this week. CHANCELLOR said after taking over what kind of an oath the office requires that it would be his intent to have the program "swing a little." That's about right for JOHNNY BOY — may we suggest he put on a stomping, screaming, real hoodlum type of march accompanied with handclapping and jungle-type drum rolling for the guys over there behind the bamboo curtains in the Congo. Nothing would suit the natives out there in the recesses better than to feel that someday they might get to put a paleface in their pot.

PUBLISHERS and editors seem to be dying out pretty frequently in Texas. We lost a fine friend last week when death claimed W. R. (BEAU) BEAUMIER of Lufkin. While editing a newspaper in East Texas we had the good fortune to work with BEAU in several civic undertakings involving the area. Most of our brother publishers seem to be leaving the world with strokes. It is a recognized fact that editors carry their responsibilities to the public strongly. When you add the burden of life's other problems the load does get heavy. But I have always felt that the Good Lord won't put any more on us than we can take. Too, I have labored in a stroke atmosphere for about a decade now and trouble runs off my back like a ducks. Sometimes, I even think that I thrive on the stuff. A good warrior always likes a battle and a good fighter likes a scrap. In the meantime—let the presses roll!

WE heard this story but cannot vouch for it's truth. A prospective car buyer drove over to a neighboring town—ate breakfast and then carried the check to the wrong motor company. A salesman paid the check anyway—and then bought the guy's lunch too. The prospect enjoyed his day in the city but returned home to buy his car.

(Continued from page 1) these ideas to the people and allow them to decide. We will always be satisfied with a majority vote and hope that these new ideas are for the best and will be a benefit to the greatest amount of people. We cannot, on the other hand, guarantee that all of our thoughts for progress will meet the approval of the few people who are satisfied with the status quo and who always have and always will resist anything that spells "change."

It has always been difficult for me to understand an individual who will not take a chance when that chance might bring untold blessing to many people and build up the tax structure to where the commissioners will have some money to work with. A county with several areas of economy is always more sound, financially, than a political sub-structure dependent on only one thing for its existence. Are we so pleased with the things we do not have that we are willing to sacrifice our children's possibilities for the future. Do you really like to travel all over these United States in order to see your children and grandchildren? Or are we going to try to make our area here a place where there is some reasonable opportunity both for work and play so that we can hope to keep our loved ones at home?

Life itself has always been a gamble and none of us really knows what tomorrow holds in store for us. It is consistent with good common sense for us to be conservative with the future when the present holds no guarantee?

(Continued from page 1) swamped the amendment. The Texas Election Bureau reported tabulations from all 254 counties and with many complete, and SJR 44 was behind about three to one.

It will not now be necessary to call a special session of the Texas Legislature to redistrict for the proposed 39-seat Texas Senate.

At least seven present senators will not be returned to Austin after the 1966 elections. This is true because 13 districts were combined into six in the redistricting of the 31-member body.

History Of Standefer Family Told

The in-laws and descendants of the late LeRoy and LuElla Standefer gathered in the Educational Hall of the RLDS Church last Sunday afternoon to listen to an illustrated talk on "300 Years of Standefer genealogy in America," given by Harry Standefer, San Diego, Calif.

A smorgasbord lunch was served at the church, where some 100 persons enjoyed a sumptuous meal and gathered afterward for the talk. Harry Standefer, with his son, Ralph as co-author, has prepared a family chart beginning back in 1669 when the first Standefer immigrant came of America. The chart calls out more than 3,000 significant facts covering 11 generations and naming approximately 600 persons. Among the more important items shown are the birth-dates, marriage dates, birth places, and present address of all the descendants of Samuel J. and Ellen Standefer, who were married just 100 years ago this year.

This occasion, very likely, represents a "first" where so many relatives would gather at one place for the express purpose of learning the history of their ancestors. Among those who came to Stanton expressly for this occasion from a distance were: Hettie Ledbetter from O'Donnel, Texas; Hyrum Standefer and family from Odessa; Jerry Lands and family from Midland; Don Ellis and family from Andrews; Mr. and Mrs. Reggy Church from Independence, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Welch from Dimmitt; Mr. and Mrs. Al Pfannillier of Amarillo, and several families from Midland.

All the children of the late LeRoy and LuElla Standefer, representing the eighth generation, were present. Those were: Harry Standefer of San Diego, Calif.; Edgar Standefer and wife of Lenorah; Mable Hines and family of Midland; Grady Standefer and wife of Stanton; Lois Church and husband, Steve; Reva Koonce of Stanton; Hyrum Standefer of Odessa, and Hazel Hamm and husband, Delmar, of Lenorah.

Those of the ninth generation were: Mrs. Elina Willingham, Denton Hines, Marvin Standefer, Ralph Standefer, Mrs. Carl Leonard, Jr., Mrs. Tommy Hursh, Douglas Church, Fred Church, Reggy Church, Gearl, a nd Roy Koonce, Mrs. Jerry Lands, Mrs. Don Ellis, and Bobby Hamm.

Those of the tenth generation were the children of Mrs. Elina Willingham, Denton Hines, Marvin Standefer, Mrs. Carl Leonard, Jr., Mrs. Tommy Hursh, Douglas Church, Fred Church, Gearl, Koonce, R o y Koonce, Mrs. Jerry Lands, and Mrs. Don Ellis. None of the four children of the eleventh generation were present.

Tower Styles Farm Bill As 'Unbelievable'

Senator John G. Tower assailed the farm bill reported by the Senate Agriculture Committee as "nothing short of unbelievable" this week.

Tower centered his fire on cotton and wheat provisions of the bill, which would have considerable effect in Texas. The senator said that both cotton and wheat farmers would be hurt by the bill.

"The cotton section," he said, "totally rejects the basic wisdom of the section written by the House. If the Senate committee's cotton recommendations are adopted, the rapid plunge of the cotton industry toward financial disaster will be speeded probably beyond all hope of recovery."

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

MARTIN-HOWARD-MIDLAND SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT
Jack Buchanan, Bob Cox, Bernard Houston, Larry Shaw, J. D. Crawford.

Since the "Black Blizzard" of the 1930's, much work has been done to learn how man can break up the force of the wind during sand storms, which occur in the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District.

Many residents remember the mid - 1930's as the time when they vainly stuffed rags in windows to keep out the fine dust, washed the grit from dishes just before serving each meal, and removed the red dust film off their faces after every trip outdoors. Street lights burned, chickens went to roost at midday and zero visibility halted traffic.

From those "Black Blizzard Days" until now, the human discomfort associated with sand storms has plagued district residents. Sand storms and dust laden air is no respecter of persons or houses. Urban residents suffered as well as the farmer and rancher. The application of soil, water and plant conservation programs, by farmers and ranchers, has reduced the severity of the sand storms and the discomfort accompanying them.

The great economic loss from wind erosion sustained by farmers and those people alike, has stimulated action that has done much to determine conditions favoring soil blowing. Aggressive action has been taken to prevent, or at least reduce, the damaging effects of the sand storms.

The climatic conditions of low rainfall, high temperature, and strong winds are partners in severe wind erosion. Short rainfall reduces the production of crop stubble so needed to protect the soil from the force of the wind.

Farmers benefit directly by controlling wind erosion. Everyone shares in the improved economic conditions resulting from erosion control. The value of erosion control, to our non - farm people, is becoming increasingly important because the economic stability of the Martin - Howard Soil Conservation District is agriculture and its allied industries. As the local farmers and ranchers prosper, so does the economy of the people.

Changes in farming and farming practices creates a severe hazard locally for wind erosion conditions. Sorghum stubble, properly managed, has proven to be an effective control from wind erosion. Stubble maintained on the surface of the soil prevents the force of the wind from sweeping the soil. Research has proven wind must get a straight blow against the soil before the static electricity will charge the soil particles until they jump up and are caught and blown by the wind. As the soil particle strikes the ground, other soil particles are charged, thus causing a chain reaction.

To overcome the lack of sorghum stubble, many district cooperators are seeding sorghums in their cotton blanks to produce stubble for soil cover and to reduce the force of the wind. Remember, each acre treated with sorghums this summer will reduce the effects of the wind storm next spring. We all benefit.

Milam stated that he would start the same men who raced out on the field last week in Roscoe.

World War II Vets Swamping VA Offices

World War II veterans are swamping VA offices because of a misleading report that many of them did not collect the first dividend on National Service Life Insurance VA said today.

Actually, 99.8 per cent of the 766,000 Texas veterans who had NSLI at the end of WW II received the dividend Jack Coker, manager of the Waco Veterans Administration Regional Office said.

The rumor about the "GI Insurance Bonanza" apparently started because several industrial publications printed the old law authorizing the payment under a 1965 date line Coker said.

The VA manager estimated there may be about 1000 ex-GI's in Texas who never got paid. Most of these dropped their insurance upon leaving the service and did not give VA a mailing address. They can still collect the VA manager said but he pleaded with the vast majority of veterans to jog their memory before they send VA back to the records to check.

Game Surveyed In 18 Counties

Wildlife workers are burning the midnight oil in West Texas to census game animals in 18 Lower Plains counties just added to the Regulatory Area of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Driving lines 20 - miles in length criss-cross game range in each county and provide information on game numbers preparatory to setting seasons and bag limits.

In addition to many 29-mile lines, a considerable number of 2 - mile deer census lines are being walked by field personnel just before dusk to count deer in Irion and Sterling counties.

Lower Plains counties newly sharing the regulatory authority of the department are Andrews, Crosby, Dawson, Fisher, Gaines, Garza, Glascock, Hockley, Howard, Irion, Jones, Lynn, Lubbock, Martin, Sterling, Stonewall, Terry and Yoakum.

Miss Jackie Leonard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leonard, Jr. of Midland, will leave shortly for Denton, where she will enroll as a junior at North Texas State University. She is majoring in Spanish.

WANTED BY THE FBI

ALSON THOMAS WAHRlich

Wahrlich, one of the FBI's "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives," is wanted for unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for the crime of kidnaping. He allegedly abducted a 6-year-old Arizona girl in Tucson, Arizona, on April 16, 1964, and brutally beat, choked, and sexually molested her before leaving her abandoned in the same city. A Federal warrant was issued at Tucson on April 25, 1964, charging Wahrlich with unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for this offense.

A white American, Wahrlich was born in Renesaele County, New York, on February 4, 1936. He is 5' 2" tall, weighs 135 to 140 pounds, wears glasses, has blue eyes, brown hair, a medium build and a medium complexion. He has a scar on his left shoulder, a vaccination scar on his left arm, a scar on each side of his abdomen, and a tattoo of a heart and the name "Cindy" on his left arm.

Wahrlich has worked as a truck driver, ranch worker, dishwasher, house trailer repairman, hospital orderly, insurance salesman, and ice cream truck vendor. He is very interested in guns and strongly prefers traveling by personally owned car. Wahrlich reportedly has mental blackouts, has been previously imprisoned for aggravated assault, child molesting, and a crime against nature. He reportedly is armed with a pistol and is said to carry a surgical scalpel in his trouser's pocket. Consider him armed and extremely dangerous.

Should you receive any information concerning the whereabouts of Alson Thomas Wahrlich, you are requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be located on the first page of local telephone directories.

Tax Man Sam Sez.

At one time taxpayers vented their wrath at giving up hard earned tax dollars for income taxes by bad-mouthing the Internal Revenue employees as a natural born set of mean folks. Over the years this seems to have changed. Internal Revenue attempts to
