Tuesday marked the first day of March and if the old legend holds true, the month is due to be windy until the final day when March is due to go out like a lamb. Certainly, the third month of the year roared in like a lion with a stiff breeze combing the community all day long.

RAYMOND LOUDER is indeed a lucky person. He was over in Big Spring attending the opening of a big parking lot and managed to draw a ticket good for $25 in trade. RAY'S gift was the top premium.

The Stanton Bisons failed to win against Gruber in Lubbock last Saturday morning, losing by a single point. The team won a far greater trophy. They won a place in the hearts of the local fans who will long remember the gallant fight they made in the big Lubbock gym right down to the final second of play. We are proud of you fellows—and don't forget it. You have brought honor, good sportsmanship, and distinction to your school and your community.

MARK BENTLEY was by the office this week to extend the editor a personal invitation to visit the ROCK SHOW to be held March 5-6 at Cap Rock Auditorium. This show was a blazing success last year and we are sure an interesting exhibition is being planned again this year. GARY REID is show chairman. The boys hope to have GUY BROWN home for the show too. He is a student in NMMI and was the sparkplug of last year's display of rocks, artifacts, et cetera. MARK has also been a moving force for making the show a fine event and we appreciated his invitation and plan to be on hand.

Coach Doyle Edmiston Thanks Fans

Coach Edmiston said: "I deeply appreciate the backing the fans offered the players and those here in Stanton who so generously and unselfishly gave of their support will always be appreciated by the

Russell Maguire Completes Extender In Northwest Martin

Russell Maguire of Dallas has completed a 1/2-mile south extension in Northeast Martin County to the Ackery (Dean sand) pool at No. 1 Bonnie Shephard, 32 miles north of Stanton.

On the 24-hour potential test it yielded 197 barrels of 38-gravity oil flowing on a 12-65-inch choke with gas-oil ratio of 186-1, from perforations between 8,425 and 8,672 feet. Surface pressure was 450 pounds. Amount of stimulation of the pay was not reported.

Stanton Youngsters Move Into Underground Structure

ENTRANCE TO THE CAVERNS—Stanton's new underground school, referred to by older students as the "Cavern", was put into operation Friday when first and second grade classes moved in. The building on the right is an entrance hall. Structure at left is a maintenance room. Eight classrooms lie under the two structures.

OUT WITH THE OLD—Stanton students played the part of movers Friday morning and shuffled furniture from the old school building to the new underground structure. The moving process continued until noon Friday when first and second graders settled down in their new rooms. Beryl Clinton right, superintendent of schools, directed the moving process.

By CLINT KELLEY
More than 200 first and second grade youngsters bade farewell to "conventional" schooling here Friday afternoon and made the big move into Stanton's new "space-age" building — an eight-classroom structure built completely underground.

The school, one of a few of its kind in the United States, was started in early August 1965 and carries a price tag of slightly more than $100,000.

Included in what the older students already refer to as the "Cavern", are the classrooms, a library, music room, maintenance room and rest-rooms. A section above ground houses an entrance hall and another maintenance room. The new building is located west of the old school structure.

School Superintendent Beryl Clinton said finishing touches would be added to the building during the next few weeks.

The mass exodus began Friday morning when children in the upper elementary and junior high school grades moved furniture from the old classes into the "Cavern." The move continued through the noon hour and most of the first and second graders were comfortably housed in their new rooms by 1 p.m.

There was an almost carnival-like atmosphere among the young students and most seemed excited about the prospect of attending classes underground.

Formal opening and first public showing of the facilities will come March 13 when the doors will be thrown open as a climax to Texas Public School Week. Hours for the open house will be from 1 to 5 p.m. and all persons interested have been invited to attend.

The old building will now be used for grades three through eight.

County Schools To Mark Public School Week In State March 7-11

Martin County schools will join other schools over the state in observing Public School Week March 7-11.

At a recent meeting of the Stanton Independent School District Board of Trustees it was voted to invite the public to visit the schools in the city sometime during the week proclaimed. Gradyand Flower Grove boards have also extended the invitation.

The Stanton board, in a recent regular session, also voted a three-year contract renewal to J. M. Yater, principal of the elementary school and tendered Bill Milam a year's contract as high school principal. Salaries of both men are on the state level plus the bonus given by the Stanton school district.

Custodial helpers also received raises of ten dollars a month. Five individuals benefited from this pay boost.

Stanton Lions Hear Tarzan Minister

The Stanton Lions Club met in regular weekly session Tuesday at noon.

Don Bailey, minister of the Tarzan Church of Christ brought a revealing message on the efforts being made by some factions of our modern world, to foster, aid and spread atheism in the human race.

Mr. Bailey aptly pointed out that Atheism is rather in the life of man than in the heart of man. He said that the reward of Atheistic belief will always end with the death of hope and suicide of the soul.

Mrs. Ray Bobbitt Elected Treasurer Volunteer Group

Mr. and Mrs. Ray F. Bobbitt have been instrumental in many capacities in helping get the new $3 million Shriner Hospital for Crippled Children, Burns Institute, Galveston Unit, constructed.

The Bobbitts are well known in Stanton. She is the former Mary Price, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Price. They now reside at La Marque, near Galveston.

Bobbitt, a Shriner, has been interested in the project, the first of its kind in America, since the planning stage.

Mrs. Bobbitt was recently elected treasurer of a group of volunteers, a group organized last fall, and still without a name, who will deal in service for the families of patients at the institute.

The volunteer group will help out-of-town patients and relatives to solve the transportation problem to and from the bus stations or the air-

Boyd Tapped To Coach SHS Football Team

The Stanton Reporter was advised Tuesday of the naming of Bryan Boyd as head football coach for the Stanton Bisons for the coming season.

Boyd's selection to the top job was announced following a board meeting.

Former head mentor Bill Milam will continue to coach the girls' basketball team. He will be assisted by Janie Boyd.

Doyle Edmiston was named head basketball coach for boys for another year. Coach Edmiston's charges won the district title, bi-district crown and lacked victory by only

Mrs. Reid Gives 4-H Program

Rock Show Set For March 5-6 At Cap Rock

The Martin County Gem and Mineral Society will present the second annual Rock Show at Cap Rock Auditorium on March 5-6.

Gary Reid is serving this year as show chairman. He is assisted by all members of the society.

A fine display of rocks, fossils, and artifacts has been secured for the exhibition and the show this year should be as interesting and informative as it was in the initial one last year.

The show last year was acclaimed throughout the area as a sparkling success.

Official Memorandum

By JOHN CONNALLY
Governor of Texas

AUSTIN, TEXAS

GREETINGS:

Special observance of increased emphasis on our education system has been marked annually for fifteen years by a Public Schools Week in Texas.

During this period, parents are encouraged to visit the public schools, and all citizens are urged through special programs to recognize the tremendous importance of our system of education. Our goal is to make Texas public schools the finest in the Nation, and to achieve this our citizens are urged to take an active interest in the school systems and to cooperate with their school boards, superintendents, principals and teachers.

Never before in our history has there been a greater need for educated leadership. As we rush to train young people in science and technology to keep pace with world events, it is also important to remember that our public schools will furnish our tomorrow's leaders with the basic human, moral and spiritual foundations necessary for more advanced training and knowledge.

THEREFORE, I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate the period of March 5-11, 1966, as PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK

in Texas.

In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 9th day of Sept., 1965.

Home Demonstration Club Activities

Valley View Home Demonstration Club met in regular session Feb. 10, at the club house, Lenorah, with Mrs. Charles Blake, president, presiding. After a short business session was held, a letter from the Big Spring State Hospital was read. It expressed deep appreciation and thanks to all those who baked and donated cookies. We take great pride in the fact that Valley View members responded so generously to this need.

An illustrated demonstration on "Foods For You and Your Family," was given by Mildred Eiland, home demonstration agent. Her program, as always, was well planned, interesting and informative. She discussed three basic nutrition highlights. (1) Foods to build and repair. (2) Foods to regulate and aid in the use of other materials to enable the entire body to function properly. (3) Food supplying fuel and energy.

Members participated in a self analysis, with the help of nutrition charts, on foods consumed for one day. The resulting information could be used as a valuable guideline to individual menu planning. Mrs. Eiland also demonstrated a flaming fruit desert.

Refreshments were served by co-hotesses, Mrs. Lewis Carlile and Mrs. J. T. Mims, to 14 members, and four guests, Mrs. Garth Odom, Zel-la Odom, Mrs. Martin Springer, Mrs. Wiley Williams. The "It" gift was won by Mrs. L. C. Morris.

The second meeting of the month was called to order at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 24. Council report was given by Mrs. M. T. Hursh. She announced the chosen delegates to attend the THDA district meeting. They are: Mrs. Lewis Carlile, Mrs. Horace Tubb, and Mrs. Stanley Barnes, with Mrs. Albert Pitman as alternate.

Five Valley View H. D. members attended the film concerning cancer shown recently at the Willie Wirehand Room.

The club voted to donate five dollars from the treasury to the cancer fund. This practice has been followed for a number of years.

Mrs. O. D. Green presented a program on birth defects. She stressed the fact that a mother - to - be should never take any kind of drug without consulting her doctor. Pep pills, sleeping pills, and the tranquilizers are especially dangerous.

Seven regular members and one visitor, Mrs. Ray Kempfer of Big Spring, attended the meeting.

Mrs. L. C. Morris was refreshment hostess.

The next regular meeting will be March 10, at the club house in Lenorah.

Librarian

Library hours: Monday, 1 - 8 p.m.; Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, 1 - 5 p.m.;

A new book just received that all parents and young girls who will be leaving home soon or in the next few years should read is "Career Girl, Watch Your Step," by Max Wylie.

Few people can forget the horrible and senseless crime that lies behind this book, the recent murder of two young career girls in their newly occupied New York City apartment. One was Janice Wylie, the daughter of the author of this book. From what he has learned during this harrowing experience, Max Wylie has felt he could pass on to others advice that might prevent similar or related situations.

Any girl, young and pretty, who ventures forth from home to live in a big city, is bound to encounter new and unforeseeable circumstances. Mr. Wylie believes that there are many precautions that can be taken, some of them practical, like changing locks on doors; others less easily defined, such as attitudes and warning signals.

An experienced professional writer, Max Wylie, has studied this whole situation in its broadest aspects with great care. Every parent and every young venturer will find this book filled with sensible, balanced advice derived not only from the author's direct experience but also from careful research of police files and other professional sources.

Even young girls going away to college can profit by this book.

Beta Sigma Phi Activities

N. Woody, Jr.

Methodist Church Activities

Many folks in Stanton will be pleased to know that Rev. Edmund W. Robb, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Church, Midland, will bring the program for the entire membership, sponsored by the Methodist Men's Organization.

Rev. Robb held our revival last spring. Since that time he spent several weeks in the South American country of Chile, preaching in an Evangelistic Crusade. While there he made slides of Chile and other countries en route. He will show his slides and speak after the covered dish meal at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 8.

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Bristow visited their daughter and son - in - law, Mr. and Mrs. Hughlyn Todd, in Slaton, and attended the ball game in Lubbock last weekend.

Modern Science Winning Fight To Control Weather

The day may be coming—and coming soon—when man will have greater control over the weather. He already has achieved some control, although he doesn't use it very often.

The National Academy of Sciences and the National Science Foundation recently urged a far greater expenditure of federal money for weather research. They said this might make it possible.

—To modify or steer hurricanes away from populated regions.

—To suppress hurricanes before they develop.

—To change the course and violence of cyclones.

—To break up or prevent tornadoes.

—To abolish persistent regional smogs.

Man already can control the weather to some extent. He can increase rainfall from certain kinds of clouds by at least 10 percent. He can suppress crop-damaging hailstorms to a certain degree.

And he can reduce the number and danger of lightning bolts in thunderstorms.

Cloud seeding is the most common method of weather control in use today.

An airplane may drop dry ice, salt particles, water spray, or other substances into a cloud in order to "seed" it, or silver iodide seeds may be released from the ground and carried into the cloud by the wind.

If the conditions are favorable, tiny droplets of water from the cloud collect around each "seed" and fall to the earth as rain or snow.

Cloud seeding methods have also been used to get rid of fog and to prevent fruit trees and other crops from being damaged by wind and hail.

By seeding the clouds before they reach an area with valuable crops, experts can sometimes reduce the strength of a storm and save crops from harm.

Although the seeding process has been known for more than a decade, it is not often used. For instance, no seeding was attempted during New York's critical water shortage last summer.

Scientists hope to see greater use of the weather-control techniques we already have.

They also hope that more money spent on research will lead to other and more effective ways of controlling weather.

Mark Twain said, "Everybody talks about the weather, but nobody does anything about it."

Modern science already is doing something about it—and hopes to do more.

Research financed by Easter Seals sponsors medical and scientific studies to help the nation's 2 million stroke victims overcome crippling after-effects of strokes.

Freezing mornings in camp, you'll have an easier shave if you remember to soak your shaving cream in wash water heating. Lathers better hot.

Fish Tips Very Hard To Locate

People simply are smarter these days, even fisheries scientists!

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department aquatic biologists at five different Texas locations were spot checked as to tips to Texas fresh water fishermen now that the sun's warming things up, and the big uns are beginning to hit.

Are these trained technicians going to place their reputations literally on the line and have some cane pole old pro challenge them?

They are not!

One of the five, Jim Wilcox, was guardedly moved to undertake a modified suggestion.

Wilcox, headquartered at La Porte offices of the department, used the four-bit expression "optional with the fishermen" in referring to particular baits.

But he did suggest that anglers work the mouths of streams, say where they empty into lakes or rivers, since the fish are attracted by the food being washed into the larger bodies of water. That would mean mainly catfish and black bass.

Of course, noted Wilcox, the popular white bass now would be at the other end of the line, so to speak, since they are working their way upstream to spawn.

And are being caught in substantial quantities in some places.

Wilcox said persons working lakes or back water may

What Will 1969 Bring To Lad, 14?

Remember, Dad, when you were 14 and you, too, Grandpa! Maybe you can piece things together that far back, when the world was yours to conquer; when you constantly dreamed of great things, as incongruous as some of them were.

Then you will understand the mighty mental maneuvering of a 14-year-old East Texas boy who had read in a national magazine about the free public hunts on the Kerr Wildlife Management Area, and then probed the prospects for sharing in the annual fall event.

The young fellow, writing with ink on ordinary school composition paper, used a firm hand to identify himself and to look ahead to the time when not only himself but other family members might be on a full-scale deer hunt.

"If there is an annual deer hunt would you please send me instructions on how to enter in it," wrote the youngster.

"If you have to come with a party, my dad and uncle would like it too."

effectively use minnows and pigs around inundated brush piles or tree stumps.

In his own general area, Wilcox said crapple were reported biting well at Turtle Bayou near Anahaus in Chamber County as well as Lake Houston.

RodTransport

Try this trick if you have any long poles to carry. Instead of trying to stick them through one of the car windows, wrap two rags around the poles. Put ends of the rag through the top of the window, then roll window up tight to hold ends securely. Position rags at the front and rear windows to get the longest purchase. If ends of poles stick out past the car, wrap with red flag.

Outdoor Bath Tub

Take along a rubber sheet, piece of plastic or regular tarpaulin. Make a camp bathtub. Just dig a hole to fit your (err . . .), to fit yourself and fill with warm water. Bail out with a bucket.

Courteous to the last, he closed:

"Thank you for your time and consideration."

The letter was relayed by the Kerrville Chamber of Commerce to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department which regretfully replied that the lad would have to wait until he reached the minimum age limit of 17 before he could qualify for the public hunts.

The youngster was informed that if his father and uncle would like to have their names placed in the drawing for the Kerr area public hunt, they would be sent an application next October.

Disillusions, in a way imaginary, come thick and fast at 14, but this junior Texan at least learned about procedures and should not lack in perseverance and anticipation should fate smile his way in 1969.

MARTIN-HOWARD-MIDLAND SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT

J. D. Crawford.

Secretary of Agriculture Freeman said the Nation's soil and water conservation districts have an exciting and challenging role in rebuilding the gates of rural America so they open in as well as out.

Secretary Freeman, in a talk prepared for the 20th annual meeting of the National Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts at New Orleans, said the greatest contribution that rural leadership can make today is to enable more people to live rich and rewarding lives where the space is . . . in the countryside.

Freeman emphasized the countryside must be equipped with adequate educational health services, water sanitation system, facilities for job training, social services and cultural activities. It also must provide more industries, businesses and service institutions, since the people who live there must be able to work there.

Soil conservation district leaders who today apply their skills in conservation planning and practices to the broad range of natural resource uses essential to community development have a vital role to play in this undertaking, he said.

Of the new tools in rural development, Freeman cited President Johnson's proposed Community Development District concept as one of the most promising for the advancement of the soil conservation district principles.

Through these new proposed districts, he said soil conservation district leaders can help achieve the conditions necessary for economic and social advancement in rural areas and provide greater opportunity for more people.

When wise use of natural resources is combined with the programs of health and education to improve human resources, we see more clearly that conservation is concerned not with nature alone but with the total relation between man and the world around him, Freeman said. "The objective is to raise

Editorial . . . AFL-CIO On Warpath

The AFL-CIO, meeting in Miami Beach, Fla., doesn't appear to be very happy with anything or anybody. The organization is on the warpath, with the Johnson administration, Congress and others being in the line of fire.

A "major war" is threatened by labor leaders unless the President backs labor's minimum wage demands in Congress.

The big trouble stems from the fact President Johnson reportedly will not go along with labor in its "way out" minimum wage demands.

The Council of Economic Advisers has proposed that the present $1.25 minimum wage be increased to no more than $1.40 this year and $1.60 in 1970. It is said the President will go along with the council proposal.

But the 13-million member labor federation, which long has advocated a $2 minimum wage, is determined to settle for no less than $1.40 now, $1.60 next year, and $1.75 in 1968.

So, this is where the difference of opinion comes, and labor leaders, of course, become bombastic when the President of the United States or anyone else doesn't agree with them.

The AFL-CIO was a potent factor in the Johnson and other Democratic victories in 1964, and the organization is not bashful about demanding "pay-offs" for that support.

President Johnson went along with organized labor in its unsuccessful effort to repeal Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act, but this wasn't enough to settle the political debt.

"We can do it without the Democrats and without the Prebublicans," George Meany, AFL-CIO president, and in discussing labor's demands for minimum wage and other legislation in Congress.

Surely the President of the United States and Congress will stand firm in the face of such threats from Meany and other labor leaders.

The federations Economic Council reportedly is of the opinion the nation's economy can afford both the guns of its war needs in Viet Nam and the butter of Johnson's Great Society.

It appears a political blowup is in the making between the Johnson administration and organized labor.

Meany went even beyond this in saying the potentially serious political repercussions could lead to the possibility of setting up a U.S. labor party.

Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz has been in Miami Beach, attempting to smooth out the problems, but indication are he hasn't met with much success.

The possibility exists that all the threats and the antagonisms stirred up by AFL-CIO leader will jeopardize labor's goals in Congress. It is possible organized labor has overplayed its hand in this particular instance.

Further developments will be observed with interest.

An exceptionally bright and courageous little fellow today assumed very important official duties under the admiring eyes of Governor John Connally.

Kees Jan Velzeboer, 5-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Velzeboer of Houston, launched the 1966 East Seal Campaign as the Texas Easter Seal Child in ceremonies at the Governor's mansion by presenting the first sheet of the 1966 Easter Seals to the Governor. He accepted a proclamation which designates March 1 through Easter Sunday, April 10, as the 1966 Texas Easter Seal Appeal on behalf of the Texas Society for Crippled Children and Adults and 80 local affiliates throughout the state.

Citing the 36-year history of the Texas Society, Governor Connally stated that the Texas Easter Seal Society fights crippling by providing services which are responsive to community needs and resources and in created increased public awareness of the needs, aspirations and abilities of the physically handicapped.

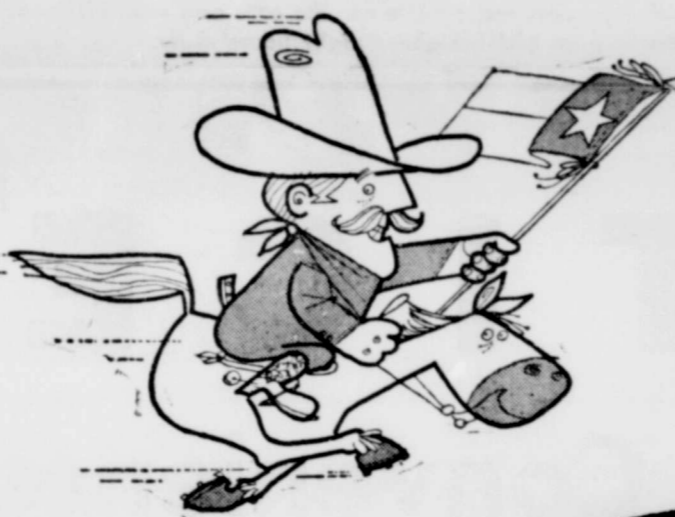

Kees Jan appears on the 1966 Easter Seal Appeal letters which have been mailed to a million Texas families. He represents the 14,395 disabled Texas children and adults who received direct care from the Texas Society in 1965, and the estimate 1,500,000 other Texans who suffer from all types of physical disabilities. For more than two of his five years he has participated in the Harris County Easter Seal Society program.

LET us hope that the war in Viet Nam will be over before August 6, when LUCI JOHNSON marries PAT NUGENT in a wedding ceremony described by the bride-to-be's mother, LADY BIRD, as a "Dream Wedding." We are sure LUCI is a fine, sweet girl and PAT appears to be a really nice American boy, but there are other girls who have dreamed dreams about orange blossoms with family friends present in the churches of their choice whose prospective grooms are now fighting and dying in Viet Nam. Personally, I think it is only natural for any mother to want her child's marriage to be successful. I really hope that PAT won't have to fight in Viet Nam but undoubtedly he knows that as the in-law of the President that he must not falter in creating the patriotic example for other young men of his age. Let us all pray for peace.

LABAMA politics are due to take on a kind of Texas flavor in the heyday of "FERGUSONISM." GOV. GEORGE WALLACE can't run for a second term. His talented and attractive wife, LURLINE, 39, is a candidate. We either remember to have read about the time MIRIAM A. (MA) FERGUSON made the race and was elected when her husband, "FARMER JIM", couldn't run because of his impeachment. We may have a MA WALLACE in the statehouse in Montgomery before the year is out. Ain't it a good thing no governor named BARKER had a wife to make the race. She would have to be called MA BARKER and we have also heard about the highly publicized outlaw career of MA BARKER and her boys. The old BARKER gang terrorized the countryside for months much in the same fashion as CLYDE BARROW and BONNIE PARKER. The law finally caught with MA BARKER and she went to the jailhouse instead of the statehouse.

THE sander striking Stanton Sunday sure showed up the sand. The duster had all the earmarks of a wild one and motorists using the highways at the peak of the storm experienced difficulty in steering their cars. Visibility dropped and lighted vehicles looked a lot like lightning bugs swirling around in the air. Fortunately, officers patrolling the highways reported no accidents.

JENKINS lost his job with the administration following the filing of moral charges against him in Washington, D. C. I hope someone had the thoughtfulness to tape up the key holes to the powder rooms in El Morocco before SIR WALTER of the LBJ court appeared.

Fisher Notes SS Disability Clause Change

An important change has taken place in the disability provisions under social security, according to Erven Fisher, district manager of Social Security in Big Spring. This change occurred in last year's amendments to the law.

A person no longer needs to have a permanent or long lasting disability to qualify for monthly social security disability payments. Under the new law a person may be eligible if his disability is expected to last for as little as 12 months.

Fisher pointed out that the other requirements that a person need to meet for monthly payments are still the same. The disability must be so severe that it keeps the person from working. Also, the disabled person must have worked about five years out of the last ten before he became disabled. If these basic requirements are not met, then no payments can be made regardless of how severely disabled the individual may be.

Also, Fisher said, the six months waiting period is still in the law. Payments can start only after a person has been disabled for six full calendar months.

As a result of the change in the law, many more persons have become eligible for afternoon and evening of March 5 at the I.O.O.F. Hall. Serving will start at 5 p.m. and continue until all orders are filled. Tickets, printed by THE STANTON REPORTER, are now on sale at $1 for adults and fifty cents for children. Tickets may be obtained by contacting any member of the lodge.

IT has been announced that Stanton has been approved for a loan for the purposes of constructing an airport. Just as soon as the location for the project can be established we should be able to follow up on the planning stage.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK opens March 5. Open house will be held in most schools from March 7-11. We suggest you visit some of the schools in your area and observe something of what your children are learning and the conditions under which they are being taught. Meet their teachers and you will have a better understanding of and more appreciation for the individuals responsible for the care and supervision of your boy or girl for about eight hours daily.

TSCRA President Named West Texan For February

Fred Wulff of Brady, president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, has been named West Texan for the month for February by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The announcement of Wulff's selection appeared in the February issue of West Texas Today, official publication of the WTCC.

The influential Brady rancher, who has a hand in operating nearly 80,000 acres of ranch land in McCulloch, San Saba, Menard and Concho counties, will complete his second one-year term as president of the TSCRA in March. He is the 33rd president of the 80-year-old association and has been closely connected with it since 1948.

Wulff is actually an attorney by profession, having received his law degree from the University of Texas in 1938. He has continued to practice some law during the years but has been primarily a rancher since returning from service in World War II. He served in the Pacific in World War II as a Marine, saw service in the Solomon Islands, Peleliu and Okinawa, was awarded the Bronze Star Medal and emerged as a first lieutenant.

Wulff operates 13,000 acres of his own land on which he runs Angus cattle, sheep and goats. He also is executor and manager of two other estates, the 22,000-acre W. T. White Estate and the 44,000-acre G. R. (Rollie) White Estate. He runs Hereford cattle, sheep and goats on the White estates.

Wulff has played an active role as a member and an officer in the TSCRA's programs to help with screwworm eradication, limit the import of beef, in combatting hoof and mouth disease in the 1950's, in eliminating OFA price controls at the end of World War II, and in the continuing effort to prevent cattle thefts. These programs have been carried on by TSCRA and other organizations with similar interests.

Wulff sees a bright future for the cattle business in West Texas—and also changes in its methods of operation. "We're going to have to keep abreast of the times in our methods of production, our modes of operation, and in our marketing procedures. Good management is more essential than it ever has been," Wulff said in a recent interview with West Texas Today.

He said the cattle feeding business holds great potential for West Texas and added that a sizeable segment of the cattle raising effort in years to come may be channeled toward the feedlots.

Wulff has been interested in water conservation for years and says the TSCRA has a special interest in water. "I feel that one of the big areas of work for the association is the protection of individual rights in matters concerning the use of water," he said. He says the individual rancher or farmer could easily be ignored amid the conflict between the states and federal government regarding water.

He said West Texas must learn to re-use its water and combat pollution from all sources if it is to conserve its water supplies. Wulff sees a bright future for Texas. He said we haven't even tapped the surface yet on utilizing the products grown right here in the state. "We have a long way to go yet, but Texas is the spot. We've got manpower, a fair price structure, water, and other ingredients," he said. He said West Texas has vast potential in the business of processing basic products such as mohair, wool, oil, agricultural products, and others.

Wulff served on the Governor's Water Committee during Gov. Price Daniel's administration and presently is a member of the Texas Agricultural Water Committee and

Editorial - - - Public Schools Week

The need for the public school never changes, but times and conditions may change or require to be changed methods and practices of public education. This is inherent with anything that grows, for growth is the result of change.

Our Texas public schools were created 112 years ago. In 1854 the first law was passed establishing the public school.

It is a healthy thing in our democratic way of life to have intelligent understanding of the important functions of our basic institutions. This is especially true of the schools. The initiative and resourcefulness and the wisdom and leadership that our schools are inculcating in the youth of today are the answer of the problems of citizenship in the years ahead.

Yes, "bring me men to match my mountains." That is the need of our times and must come from the public schools—schools that are strong in virtues required for building strong men and women.

We can be assured of this and do our part in understanding and helping the public schools to fulfill their great obligation to our times by being a participant in the annual Public Schools Week, March 7 through March 11, 1966. Schools will hold open house; accept their hospitality, and you will enjoy the experience of going back to school—if but for a day.

Exotics May Hike Bag Take

Joe Davidson of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department staff theorizes future hunters may be able to harvest a bag limit of native game birds, then take a turn around a nearby field for exotics.

This, he explains, will depend on the ability of one or all of several exotic birds now being investigated by the department to adapt themselves to habitat conditions in Texas.

This work is strictly experimental says Davidson, but it's an important part of the department's plan for the future of good hunting in the state.
