The election is over and 45 seats in Congress will be occupied by Republicans. Three new governors wearing the GOP banner were chosen and six important U. S. Senators were rolled into office. JOHN TOWER of Texas won over popular WAGGONER CARR. The recently adjourned Congress can call a halt to the Great Society honeymoon. There has been weeping, wailing and gnashing of teeth in the back rooms and in the boondoggling planning chambers of the free-loaders. The architects of the Great Society have retired under the nearest rock. The Congress convening in Washington in January will be more balanced, moderate in thinking, and the members go there to the high legislative council rooms of the nation with a fresh mandate from an aroused American public who are sick and tired of the big giveaways. Some Congressmen who were returned to office are now going to think a couple of times before keeping their roles as political pussycats yielding to the pressure of the administration too. If the lucky group of Congressmen returned to office don't take note the sweeping political upheaval they have just witnessed by a weary nation, they won't be around more than two more years. 1968 now looms largely as a question mark year. There is some doubt as to whether PRESIDENT JOHNSON will seek another term. He has already served more than two years of KENNEDY's first elective term for himself. He might get out after serving six years now that his health is failing and his politician fortunes are fading.

The post election wags were quick to come up with slick sayings Wednesday morning in Stanton. One fellow but-tohned us to explain that LYNDON had postponed his scheduled operation. We bit and asked why? The response was: "They cut him all to pieces at the polls Tuesday."

We heard this one Wednesday downtown. It reflects a more sober attitude and was voiced by a man who has lost kin in the bloody fighting in Viet Nam. He said and we quote: "If all the fears the JOHNSON administration has caused to be shed over casualties in Viet Nam could be gathered into one great reservoir there would be enough water to float the biggest aircraft carrier in the fleet."

A morning circulated daily newspaper had a bait of crowding headlines on page one Wednesday to their everlasting credit. This morning daily appears most of the time in conservative form and we have never understood how they editorially endorse candidates with the liberal or brass collar band. The majority of the inhabitants in the territory they serve don't understand their editorial policy either. We sometimes wonder if they have a consistent policy or do they play to the imagined popularity of some glamor candidate? Anyway, the paper proclaimed in black and white Wednesday morning the news that ROMNEY, REAGAN, PERCY and ROCKEFELLER had won in a nationwide sweep.

Men like POP BARRETT come along once in a lifetime. POP was not a candidate in Tuesday's election. He is a subscriber to the local paper and lives away from Martin County at the present time. For years, POP was associated with the theatre here when owned by BOB WHITAKER. He was in town this week visiting friends and left a comment up in GLENN BROWN'S (Continued on class. ad page)

Judge McCoy Wins 4-Year Office Term

Martin County Judge Jim McCoy survived a write-in quicke campaign designed to send Paul Briggs to the judge's office here in Tuesday balloting. McCoy took seven boxes but lost two to the backers of Briggs. McCoy polled 577 votes to the youthful banker's apparently unsolicited 155. Briggs claimed surprise at the write-in campaign when queried by the press. He definitely stated to the editor of The Stanton Reporter that he was not particularly interested in accepting the office and certainly had no idea who started the write-in ball rolling in his direction.

Briggs wound up taking Tarzan by 36 to 31 and he annexed Lenora 38-33 via write-in style.

Judge McCoy picked up good vote margins in the other seven boxes in the county. He also got 17 absentee votes but Briggs gathered up four of the absentee votes before the scheduled election day rolled around. This indicated that the Briggs - for - Judge movement got off the ground several days before Tuesday, November 8.

Coggin Nails Down County Court Seat

Mason Coggin, incumbent Martin County Commissioner representing precinct two, won election in Tuesday balloting by 166 to 55 for a write-in opponent.

Coggin will be serving a second four-year term. He won the normal Democratic nomination in a run-off election against C. E. (Clarence) Althart. Althart received the 55 votes in the general election voting held Tuesday.

Coggin rolled up an even 100 vote margin over the write-in candidate in Box 2, Stanton. He polled 123 votes there and lost 23. Coggin also captured box 5 by 39 to 30. Only two boxes are listed in precinct two, Stanton and Lenora.

Cap Rock Elects Fryar To Board

Neil Fryar, 37-year-old Howard county farmer and community leader is the newest director of Cap Rock Electric Co-Op. Elected at the annual membership meeting, Fryar will represent District I on the Cap Rock board. He replaces Miss Arah Phillips who has served on the board since the Co-Op organized in 1939. Fryar has lived in Martin and Howard counties all his life. He attended school at Knott and Big Spring, graduating from Big Spring High School in 1946.

He was married in 1948 to the former Betty Blissard. The Fryars, sons Danny, 17, and Stevie, 13, make their home in the Lomax Community. He farms over a thousand acres, principally cotton and maize, and raises some cattle.

Tower Takes Martin Boxes

United States Senator John Tower captured Martin County in the Tuesday general election.

The incumbent Republican official won here by a brief majority of 374 to 339. Nevertheless, Senator Tower made history in this former traditional Democratic stronghold by walloping the very popular Carr.

Tower's victory was impressive in that he defeated a nearby neighbor from Lubbock County. Tower also carried the majority of area West Texas counties.

Senator Tower won the absentee votes by getting an even dozen while Carr picked up 11.

Tower carried every box in Martin County but the Methodist Church box. There the vote stood 79 for Carr and 58 for Tower. Local political experts were speculating as to any reason why the Tower victory pattern was broken in Box 2, the lone box salvaged by Carr. Trends in a closely knit area ordinarily continue in a pattern, some of the voters residing in the precinct said. Others expressed the fact that the color of the community life might have entered into the reason for Tower's losing this lone box.

Mayor Claims City Water Supply Low

Mayor S. W. Wheeler has advised the press that he is deeply concerned about the city's current potential water supply.

Saturday morning, the mayor brought the following information to the attention of the editor of The Stanton Reporter. It appears below.

The following city water wells are now reported to be in low production. Some of the citizens of Stanton never knew the exact location or the designation of the water wells until now. Here they are: The Baptist Church well pumped 124 gallons per minute in April of 1966. It now pumps and sells to the city 114.4 gallons per minute. The Library well produced 92.6 gallons per minute in April, 1966 and now increases to 107 gallons per minute.

In the Humble Oil addition, the southwest well cleared 50 gallons per minute in April and has been cut down to 48.5 on the production board. The submergible well out there is down from 70 to 12.5 and the northwest well has dropped from 70 to 37.5.

Southwest well at park station has run 44.5 per gallons each minute in August. Northwest park well has gauged 104 gallons per minute in August. East well in the park area runs 14.8 gallons per minute. That was the August reading. The combined output of the three park wells tested 420 gallons per minute.

The well tested on the Carl Clardy property showed 200 gallons per minute. This well formerly produced 400 gallons per minute according to Mayor Wheeler.

The City of Stanton buys water or own wells from which water comes on all of the above water wells.

The city commission is in the process of conducting negotiations with a nearby water selling corporation to furnish water to the city in the future. It will be necessary to give the water corporation (Continued on class. ad page)

Prospective Voters Must Register
Individuals residing in Martin County must visit the office of the tax collector-assessor and register or sign up in order to qualify as next year's voters.

Pol payments are a thing of the past. No fee is being required to gain a license to vote. But, persons need to come by and sign up.

Too, it is no longer required of a person to state his race or his party affiliation. You don't register anymore as a Democrat or as a Republican. You simply come to the courthouse and visit the office of the receipt issuing official and you can vote in any election — any primary — any place and at anytime.

In fact, you register as an independent. No election judge can question your right to vote as long as you are properly registered. If you want to cast a ballot in an election and an election official asks you about your party affiliation, all you have to do is report his conduct and he will probably be found in violation of your civil rights. Bufs Lose To Mustangs

The Stanton Buffaloes found the going a bit rough Friday night and suffered a 42-0 defeat at the hands of the Denver City Mustangs in a District 4-AA football contest.

The Buffs were unable to penetrate the Mustangs' 20 during the entire game. Phillip Payne, Allen Springer and freshman Johnny McMeans, however, played outstanding defensive ball for the visiting Buffaloes.

Larry White connected with 11 out of 25 passes for 136 yards. The Buffs were hit with a minus 13 yards rushing while Denver City netted 366.

Ricky Carbel intercepted a Denver City pass on his own two-yard line to stop one of the Mustangs' many drives. Gary Hatfield rushed 167 yards for Denver City to lead in the rushing category.

PHYSICIANS HOSPITAL AND CLINIC
Stanton, Texas 79782
November 4, 1966

Mr. Neal Estes
Stanton, Texas
Dear Mr. Estes:
Our hospital is in the midst of a campaign to clean and redecorate our building and grounds, and I can no longer resist saying some of the things I have been thinking for such a long time.

We are endowed with one of the most wonderful groups of people I have ever known for employees. I consider it a privilege indeed to be associated with such loyal, courageous, and hard working people.

This campaign really began with the donation of two gallons of paint by a couple from Midland who use our hospital regularly. Mr. and Mrs. Hill-ton Womble. It gained momentum when Drs. Norman and V. Mae Leopold wanted to completely redecorate a room. So, with their spirited good humor, the nurses went to work. Donning scrub dresses and work shoes they began washing down and painting.

Baptists Told Of Numbers Being Down

Texas Baptists are on the decline, a Wichita Falls minister told a session of the Baptist Convention of Texas meeting in Memorial Auditorium last week.

Dr. Landrum P. Leavell, a member of the Convention's Christian Education Commission, said 1965 baptisms were down 6,705 over 1961, and training union enrollment has dropped from 478,832 in 1961 to 433,573 in 1965.

"Our Sunday School has fluctuated up and down, with the trend generally downward," he said, noting that Sunday School enrollment was down 2,594 in 1965.

Dr. Leavell declared, "For the last several years we have taken our eyes off the primary purpose of New Testament churches, and for this reason our competition is trying to take over."

He said "simple indifference" is the greatest reason for the decline.

"We want enough religion to be respectable, but not enough to make and difference in our daily lives," Dr. Leavell charged.

Dr. Leavell, pastor of Wichita Falls First Baptist Church, said "In this day of unprecedented population explosions, Christians must win 110,000 to Christ daily just to keep up with the increase in world population."

Health And Safety Tips

From The American Medical Association

Varicose veins are a common health problem for millions of Americans. Sometimes they are merely unsightly. But often they can cause health problems.

Varicose veins are dilated, tortuous, venous blood vessels lying just under the skin. They occur most frequently on the inner side and back of the calf and on the inner side of the thigh.

The veins have lost their elasticity and their function of maintaining return flow of blood is impaired. This leads to impaired circulation and consequent decreased nutrition of tissues.

Varicose veins often are a hereditary characteristic, says Today's Health, the magazine of the American Medical Association. Pregnancy and prolonged standing contribute to the condition in predisposed individuals.

If varicose veins "run in the family," you probably will develop them despite any preventive measures. However, there are simple measures which can delay their occurrence and make them less bothersome.

If possible, choose an occupation that doesn't involve long hours of standing. Avoid clothing that might constrict the veins at the groin and knee and interfere with blood flow.

When sitting, minimize venous pressure in the legs by elevating them on a stool or chair. When you must stand for long periods, elastic stockings or elastic bandages may be worn, but only on the recommendation of a physician, since complications can develop in persons with additional circulatory conditions.

Mexicans extract juice from the Maguey plant and use this to make an intoxicating drink called pulque.

Varicose veins not only are a hindrance to health, they also are undesirable for cosmetic reasons. Early treatment may prevent complications such as dermatitis or ulcers of the leg. A physician will determine the most appropriate treatment, after considering the size and locations of the veins and the age and general health of the patient.

Bible Comment—

The Last Supper Of Jesus Accents Fellowship Among All The Faiths

The Last Supper of Jesus with His disciples stressed the communion as the symbol of fellowship in the Christian church.

This is marked to such an extent that denominations or sects, are called "communions," even in the very separateness which denies the unity that ought to be in Christ.

For that, of course, there are historic reasons, which to a large degree are being overcome by many who in mind, soul and heart, accept as fellow Christians all who love the Lord, regardless of barriers of organization and formal creed.

But there ought to be even deeper implications of fellowship as we contemplate that Last Supper in the upper room.

The Last Supper was the celebration by Jesus and His disciples of the Passover, the most sacred rite in the Jewish religion, which was their heritage as Jews and which Jesus said He had come not to destroy, but to fulfill.

The fact ought to give the Last Supper a significance that it has never had, neither for Jews nor Christians, and a meeting place in fellowship that they have never found.

Surely the supreme task of all who believe in the Christ and the fellowship of the upper room is to bring to reality and fullness in the world the spirit and the practice of brotherhood.

We know that there was one present in that room with Jesus who renounced that spirit, who betrayed his master. What we do not realize is that everyone who professes to share in the communion, but who does not live in its spirit of brotherhood, is more akin to Judas than to those who loved their master.

To partake of holy communion "in remembrance of Jesus," is not merely an act of conformity, an expression of outward faith. Its reality is found only in a renewed commitment of the soul to the Christian way — the way of brotherhood.

Philosopher Ponders Plan To Finance Campaigns With Taxes, But Reaches No Conclusion

(Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw takes a look at a new piece of legislation.)

Dear editor: Now that the elections are over I can get around to a piece of news I read in a newspaper a few weeks ago.

According to it, Congress has passed a bill allowing tax payer to indicate on their income tax form that they want one dollar of their money to go to financing the next presidential campaign.

It's figured that if 60 million people do this, the number who file income tax reports, that'll give 30 million apiece to the Democrats and the Republicans, so they can finance their campaigns without becoming beholden to private contributors.

I have thought about this and, in the same way I handle most big problems, have come to no conclusions.

At the same time, however, I can detect a possible trend. If the people are going to be taxed, and that's what it amounts to, to finance the Presidential campaigns what's going to keep Senators, then Congressmen, then Governors, then State Representatives, then Sheriffs, then Constables and Justices of the Peace, from thinking up the idea of getting in on the same deal? And if the people are taxed to finance all campaigns, wouldn't this mean politicians could start raising your taxes even before they got in office? Some people would say this would be giving them an unfair headstart.

On the other hand, everybody knows the oddities of the present system, where a man will spend 50 times as much to get elected as the office pays. Outside of farming, I guess politics is the only profession where you can spend more than the job pays and still stay in business. I can tell you how it can be swung in politics.

I don't have any answers to these problems, but the fact remains it costs more and more to get a man elected, and sometimes a lot more than that to allow him to stay there.

Yours faithfully,
 J. A.

Information On Laundering Press Fabrics

It is important to know the proper laundering methods for durable press garments, says Mrs. Doris Myers, extension home management specialist at Texas A&M University.

The durable press "cure" and its subsequent care are compatible processes which work together to assure memory-retaining shape, flat seams, and smooth appearance even after repeated washings. Because high temperatures are required to set the shape of durable press garments, cool wash and dry temperatures are necessary to retain it.

Automatic washers and dryers with special cycles, or wash-wear settings, offer the best answers to durable press laundering needs. They provide correct, controlled, cool temperatures; slow speeds, and tumble-drying to insure wrinkle-free clothes.

Durable press garments should be washed frequently to avoid stain-setting. Stains should be pre-treated with a concentrated soap or detergent solution or by rubbing with thick suds. Turn pleated or creased garments inside out to reduce abrasion. Keep loads smaller than normal, because crowding can cause unnecessary wrinkles.

Check the directions on garments' hangtags before using chlorine bleach. Wash water should be cooled down gradually before any spinning action, and rinse water should be cold. Slow spinning action minimizes wrinkles, and adding a fabric softener helps to remove the "cling" from synthetics.

Tumble-action dryers, with automatic time and temperature controls, are best for durable press fabrics. It is urgent to remove them just as soon as dry because they develop wrinkles if left wadded in the dryer.

Midland Museum Adds New Exhibit

"French Impressionism," is the title of the new exhibit which opened Thursday at the Museum of the Southwest in Midland.

The exhibit features the work of such famous artists as Cezanne, Renoir, Utrillo, and Gauguin. The paintings and etchings have been loaned to the exhibit from museums and private collections, and some have never before been shown to the public.

"French artists broke away from classical art traditions in the 1860's," said John R. Vincent, director of the Museum. "Using short strokes of color, they tried to capture the immediate aspect of the scene — the impression. From their influence, came the art of the 20th century."

This is the first exhibit to be held at the Museum's new location, 26 Village Circle, in the Village Shopping Center, in Midland, at the intersection of Andrews Highway and Wall Street. Special groups visiting the Museum of the Southwest may arrange guided tours by calling the Museum, MU 3-2882.

"French Impressionism" may be seen through Sunday, November 27. Hours are 10-5, Tuesday - Saturday; 2-5 Sunday. The Museum is closed Mondays.

In quickly looking over the complete unofficial election returns from Martin County, I have noted the following: DORIS STEPHENSON polled 748 votes for an unopposed candidate for District Clerk. ELMO REED also polled 748 votes. The treasurer had no opposition. ROY CRIM picked up 722 votes for county surveyor. RALPH CATON won 730 votes in the voting Tuesday. JUDGE CATON was running unopposed. (Editor's Note: The editor frowns on any candidate opposing his old Rotary pal RALPH.) DOC BLANCHARD got 725 votes here. He was unopposed. (Editor's Note: We are going to send DOC another bill for his announcement fee.) RANDY PENDELTON paid his announcement fee and only got two more votes down here than BLANCHARD. RANDY will be our state representative. GEO. MAHON wound up with 724 votes for Congress. One of the votes was cast by your editor. I hope the opportunity presents itself for me to have a personal talk with GEORGE before he hurries back to the Congressional session in January. I realize we have only a handful of votes here in Martin County and I understand why candidates must spend their time in big cities like Lubbock before elections. But if the tiny town of Brownfield can be recognized — then why not let's have a little dialogue about Stanton? I'm looking forward to seeing one of the nation's great statesmen — GEORGE MAHON.

Two very worthwhile books that have just been added to the shelves are worthy your attention and reading. How would you like to go to your own wedding and have as observers and witnesses at the ceremony 18 children who are already yours? Frank and Helen Beardsley did just that, and since then have gone on to have two more children. Their story is told in a delightful style in "Who Gets the Drumstick?" by Helen Beardsley. If you can catch this book on the shelf you will be fortunate!

Who is Bill Sands? As a youngster, he was a violent, law breaking, convention-defying young thug. He would probably have committed murder had he not been stopped. Bill Sands admits this fact. And the police, the judges, the prison guards, and Clinton Duffy, former warden of San Quentin, who know Sands, verify it. Today, Sands is a different man. What happened to convince this man to a lead a worthwhile, purposeful life makes for fascinating reading in the pages of "My Shadow Ran Fast." This should be required reading for every parent and young person in Martin County.

Word got around and commitments began to come in from people to do their share toward helping in any way possible. Many of those who first furnished the rooms are asking for the privilege to redecorate those same rooms.

It is a heart-warming thing to know that these people who are now wielding paint brushes to beautify the place in which they work, would just as willingly work around the clock to help save a life, any life, with no questions asked.

How can one commend highly enough a team like this? I personally do not have the words at my command to do so. I feel that this community is not as aware of their value as they should be, and with pride and humility, I take this few moments to doff my hat to them, the employees of this hospital, for efforts far above and beyond the call of duty.

Sour cream has fewer calories than mayonnaise, so if weigh - watching is on your mind, it's a good idea to mix the two for a salad.

Some shooters seem to think when they go to the skeet range they are throwing money away. But that isn't exactly so.

Time and money spent on the skeet range can result in a considerable saving in the field. There is nothing like a little clay-bird practice to sharpen the eye and coordinate movement. Both are needed in the field.

While there is a wide difference between shooting at clay birds and the live birds arising from a fast flush, the same principle is there. You've got to get the gun to the shoulder and be sure of your lead. This ability can be developed on the skeet range.

Presently a great deal of attention is being turned on what is known as "crazy quail." This type of shooting isn't exactly new, but it seems that more shooters are talking about it now than ever before. The "game" got started around Dallas and has spread to other spots in the state.

For instance, there is a crazy quail pit on that famous Y. O. Ranch near Mountain Home. Charles Schreiner III put it in last year when the Texas Outdoor Writers Association held a fall meeting there. Since then many have shot over the trap and it is a great place to sharpen the shooting eye.

In this sport only one trap is used. It is in a concrete lined pit about six feet in the ground. Something like an underground cistern. Operator of the trap sits comfortably in the pit and awaits your call for "pull". And that's the last control you have over the bird.

The trap is on a revolving stand. Of course this means that the clay bird is likely to leave in any direction. It can be going away from you, to the right, or to the left, straight away, or coming back directly over your head.

Yes, it's crazy, but it's lots of fun. Some very fine field shooters have confidently stepped up to their position, called "pull" and fired their shot without even touching the clay saucer. Each shooter gets his chance at 10 birds. Then it's the next man's turn.

Most shooters nowadays use single barrel guns, in the repeater, auto class. They go out with full chokes. This is fine when the bird is going away, but not so fine when the bird is coming directly back over the shooter's head. That's when he wishes for a modified or even an improved cylinder.

Some of the better shooters say they like them adified best for all-around shooting at the crazy quail pit. It shoots just as far as the full, but it's pattern spreads wider. This accounts for more hits, resulting in more birds down.

As a rule one shot will at least chip the target, thus counting for a dead bird. With the full pattern of the tight choke more shot will either hit the bird or miss it entirely.

Gun clubs now are a part of nearly every city's planning. Driving along the highways you frequently see signs pointing to the local gun club's shooting range. Some of these are nicely located and are used late in the afternoons or on the weekend. Most of them also have ranges, in connection, where shooters can sight in their hunting rifles, too.

But if you really want to improve your aim, use up a box of shotgun shells every week or two, especially a few weeks ahead of the hunting season.

You may never break a possible (25x25), but you'll at least get in a lot of good practice. This will pay off during the hunting season... especially the first few trips out.

Then, too, there is something to the smell of powder that makes you feel better. This is especially true after you've done some 'Dead-Eye Dick' shooting... whether at clay pigeons or live birds.

Telephone Numbers To Change In City In July

All telephone numbers in Stanton will have a new look in July, 1967. SK 6 will become 756.

This new telephone numbering plan is known as All Number Calling (ANC).

Harry Sawyer, manager for Southwestern Bell, said about three-fourths of the telephones in the United States have already been converted to All Number Calling. The change to a new numbering system is necessary because of the tremendous growth in the number of telephones. Telephone companies would eventually run out of suitable numbers if they did not convert to All Number Calling, he said.

Sawyer explained that for all Stanton customers the prefix is the only part of their telephone number that will change. The last five digits of all numbers will remain the same. He noted, too, that dialing 756 is the same as dialing SK so that telephone users will continue dialing exactly as they do now.

Telephone directories listing the new numbers will be distributed when the changeover is made in July, 1967.

Giving an example of the new all-numeral numbers, Sawyer said that if a customer's telephone number were SK 6-3301, it would change to 756-3301.

Persons who plan to order stationery and other printed material on which telephone numbers are carried should keep in mind that their number will change in July, 1967.

The changeover to all-numeral numbers in Stanton is part of a Southwestern Bell program to convert all telephones in the states served by the company to All Number Calling gradually over the next few years.

"With All Number Calling, telephone numbers in Stanton will be of the same type as most phone numbers throughout the country," Sawyer said. "This standardization makes it more convenient for the telephone user when he travels on business, makes vacation trips or moves to another city."

"Without All-Number Calling, Southwestern Bell and other telephone companies would eventually run out of telephone number prefixes," Sawyer explained.

"Within a few years the number of dial combinations using two letters and five digits, such as present local numbers, will have been exhausted in many parts of the nation. Although this is not likely to be true in this immediate area, it is nevertheless a factor because now two telephone numbers can be alike in the same numbering plan area (example: area code 915) now that Direct Distance Dialing is in widespread use," he said.

He said All Number Calling is the best solution to this problem. "All number telephone numbers allow us to expand the possible combinations of dial pulls by about 50 percent in each numbering plan area," he said.

Sawyer noted that all-numeral numbers will eliminate dialing errors caused by confusion of the numeral '1' with the letter 'I' and of the letter 'O' with "zero."

All number calling is also a step toward worldwide dialing where the language problem does not permit the use of letters, he pointed out.

He said, too, that the trend in telephone instrument design is toward compactness. A dial with only numbers can be smaller, yet actually more readable and easier to use than a dial with both letters and numbers.

Cotton Forum To Be Nov. 15

Cotton producers in this section of Texas have a special invitation to attend an educational meeting dealing with the 1966 Cotton Research and Promotion Act.

County Agricultural Agent Reagar said the meeting would be held on November 15, beginning at 2:00 p.m., in the Plains Cotton Cooperative Oil Mill board room, 2109 Ave. A, Lubbock.

Reagar added that a team of specialists from the headquarters staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, would be on hand to explain in detail and answer questions on all phases of the legislation. He emphasized the meeting would be strictly educational and both pros and cons, as established from four regional hearings and the legislation itself, would be discussed.

Because of the importance of the legislation and the possible effects upon cotton production, Reagar said he was hopeful that cotton growers would attend the meeting in large numbers. Mary your calendar now and be present for this important session, he advised.

Mr. Bell liked to make things better...

After Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone in 1876, he did not rest on his laurels. He helped form the National Geographic Society, developed the basic method of making phonograph records on wax discs and pioneered a method of locating icebergs by detecting echoes from them. He made suggestions and contributions that helped give us air conditioning and the iron lung. For 46 years after inventing the telephone, he lived a vigorous and creative life.

Southwestern Bell likes to make things better, too . . .

Six short years ago, we did not offer the Princess® telephone, Home Interphone, Wide Area Telephone Service, Centrex service, Data-Phone data communications service or Panel Phone. There was no electronic artificial larynx, no automatic dialer and no Speakerphone. Today, these new items help us provide the best telephone service in the world. But we want to make it better. That's our legacy from Mr. Bell.

Post Office Hiring 150,000 To Speed Up Christmas Mail

The Post Office Department is recruiting an army of 150,000 temporary employees for its battle against the annual avalanche of Christmas mail.

The objective, in the words of Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien, is to try to insure "that our fighting men in Vietnam and all of our people at home will receive all of their Christmas mail of all kinds on time."

Recruiting of the temporary employees has already begun, he said, in hopes that many of them can join the department's regular 700,000-man work force early in November.

Shop, Mail Early
The earlier-than-usual hiring fits in with the department's campaign for Americans to "shop early, mail early, and use zip codes" on their Christmas cards and packages.

O'Brien's announcement came one day after the department finished sorting out a massive mail pileup that engulfed the Chicago Post Office, causing delays of up to 10 days in some deliveries.

"I want to make absolutely certain that we do not incur a backlog of mail in any post office in the nation such as the one we just dug out of in Chicago," O'Brien said.

Postal officials blame recent mail delays on personnel problems—mainly the inability to hire enough employees. They say absenteeism played a role in the Chicago pileup.

O'Brien said that in cases where delays could become serious, he is authorizing whatever overtime pay is necessary to clear up the jam. He also disclosed the department is creating 10,000 new regular jobs by converting temporary substitute positions.

Yarborough Says USDA Discriminates

Senator Ralph Yarborough has charged the United States Department of Agriculture with "rank discrimination against Texas" in its projected per acre cotton yields for 1967.

Yarborough made the accusation in a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman.

Only Oklahoma and Texas were given projected yields substantially lower than their 1966 indicated yields and lower than their 1965 production, Yarborough said.

Texas' per acre yield projection for 1967 is 396 pounds, compared with 1966 indicated output of 430 pounds and last year's production of 402 pounds per acre.

Fewer Felons Now Punished By Execution

Death rows of state prisons hold 366 men sentenced to be executed for major crimes, but many of them may never meet legally imposed death.

Only one criminal this year has been executed in the 37 states which still prescribe capital punishment for crimes such as murder and kidnapping.

The reasons, a survey disclosed, are recent supreme court rulings throwing out confessions of suspects who were not advised of their rights to legal counsel and to remain silent under questioning and an apparently growing distaste across the nation for the taking of human life by law.

Number Decreasing
The number of legal executions has been diminishing over the last several decades. In 1965, only 7 persons were put to death by American states; in 1964, the total was 15.

These figures compare with 199 executions in 1939, when the Federal Bureau of Investigation began compiling figures on capital punishment.

Many of those now awaiting execution will escape death through appeals, others will receive commutation of their sentences, and some will benefit by moratoriums in effect in some states pending action on laws to abolish capital

On The Square

By RED GIBSON

I have forgotten whether cowardice is something you are born with or whether you can acquire it as you go along. I suspect it's half and half.

Anyway, I wish I had been born with less or had acquired less, because life gets kind of rough at times. The worst part is that the time when you realize you are no tower of courage usually hits the hardest when a fear fails to materialize.

Let's say you have made a gross mistake of some sort and are fearful that when the boss comes back from vacation in a couple of weeks he will fry your hide. Or fire you. So for a fortnight you sweat. The more you think about your coming date with disaster the worse it seems to be.

Then the boss comes back, shrugs his shoulders upon hearing about your error, and says, "You can't win 'em all."

And that's it. No firing. No big, profane scene. Not even a reprimand.

This sort of thing is un-American. If you are going to spend two weeks worrying about something, the least the boss can do is yell and tear his hair.

In my job I supervise a bunch of college students putting out a semiweekly newspaper. We, or rather they, step on toes, or rather they, step on a lot of toes. And all of those toes belong to people higher on the academic ladder than I. Some of them belong to people who decide how much money to put into my paycheck next year.

This makes for a touchy situation.

Somehow or other I talked myself into believing that the students should be allowed fair comment on just about any subject, as long as they have done enough research to know what they are saying. I can't give up that position without losing face. So students can jump on the dean, but first they must, go ask the dean why he performed some dastardly deed.

We have a strong-willed dean of women here at North Texas State. She has been pleasant in all the dealings I have ever had with her, but she is nevertheless a strong woman.

About a week ago we ran some news stories and editorials that left her in a less-than-favorable light.

All our stories and editorials were factual, so there was little choice about running them. I was ready to explain my policy. I practiced my speech:

"Yes, Dean Dickey, but our policy . . ."

"I agree, although you must

Editorial . . . Dr. E. S. James

When Dr. E. S. James was principal of the little school at Butler, Okla., probably not even he could foresee the day when he would become the editorial voice for thousands of Baptists.

Even after he moved from Western Oklahoma to West Texas, would it have been logical to suppose that one day he would move from the pulpits at Cisco and Vernon to the powerful editorial typewriter of the Baptist Standard?

But the Lord moves in strange ways. After running three small Oklahoma school districts as superintendent and after pastoring churches in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, he was named editor of the prestigious Standard.

In 12 years, he has written 2,000 editorials. Those of us who pursue the same calling know that they are of the highest quality, because they come from one who has dedication to his faith and to those journalistic principles that command respect. In brief, editor James is not only a great writer—he's a great man. He dodged very few issues. When he felt his Baptists were out of line—in politics, racial relations or religious theory—he told them with vigor and clarity.

Baptists honored him with an appreciation dinner upon his retirement. The high esteem in which they hold him is well earned.

PROPOSAL LOSES 793-536

Baptist Convention Defeats Motion On Federal Loans

The Baptist General Convention of Texas defeated a recommendation to accept federal loans to help the denomination's educational institutions.

The controversial proposal was the only one of 10 concerning church-state relationships that did not gain approval.

The proposal was defeated 793-536.

The chairman of the special committee which recommended the proposals, Dr. W. Morris Ford of Longview, led those in favor of the measure.

Dr. James Sample, a pastor from Paris, Texas, headed the majority that opposed the federal loan recommendation.

Baylor president Abner V. McCall said that he was not disappointed with the decision of the convention to continue its present policy in regard to federal loans for educational institutions. "Today they took a different attitude than they've had in the past—that's progress. At least they looked at the facts today," McCall said in an interview after the session.

He said the arguments were not completely emotion and historical, and "they faced up to some of the facts."

"There'll probably be some argument later on about research grants," he said.

Dr. J. Carroll Chadwick, BGCT president, said he was surprised at the outcome.

"I thought it would be a much closer vote. I had not heard much to the contrary that it would not be accepted until just today," Chadwick said.

When Money Won't Do

By winning his lodge's annual golf tournament, Roger became entitled to the traditional silver loving cup. But to his chagrin, the previous winner refused to part with it. When Roger filed suit, the other man told the court:

"This cup can be duplicated for about $95. If I am wrong in keeping it, suppose I just pay him the $95 and we will call it square."

But the court ordered him to hand over not $95 but the cup itself. The judge said the trophy had, over and above its cash value, an unique sentimental value. Hence, mere money could not be a satisfactory substitute.

Whenever money damages would not be "just as good," the law may insist upon what it calls "specific performance"—that is, performance of the actual obligation rather than just damages for non-performance.

Specific performance is decreed most often in cases involving real estate. Suppose you make a contract to buy the lot on the southeast corner of Maple and Spring, and the seller backs out.

You could probably get a court order commanding him to transfer that specific property to you. For there is no other piece of land in the entire world exactly like the one you bought. Money damages would not make you come out even.

Will a court always order specific performance, whenever money damages would be inadequate? No, because sometimes it is simply not practical. For example:

When an opera star broke his contract, the management asked a court to force him to sing. True enough, money damages were no substitute for an actual performance.

Yet, the court refused a decree. The judge said he would have no way of telling whether the star, if forced to sing, was singing as well as the management had a right to expect.

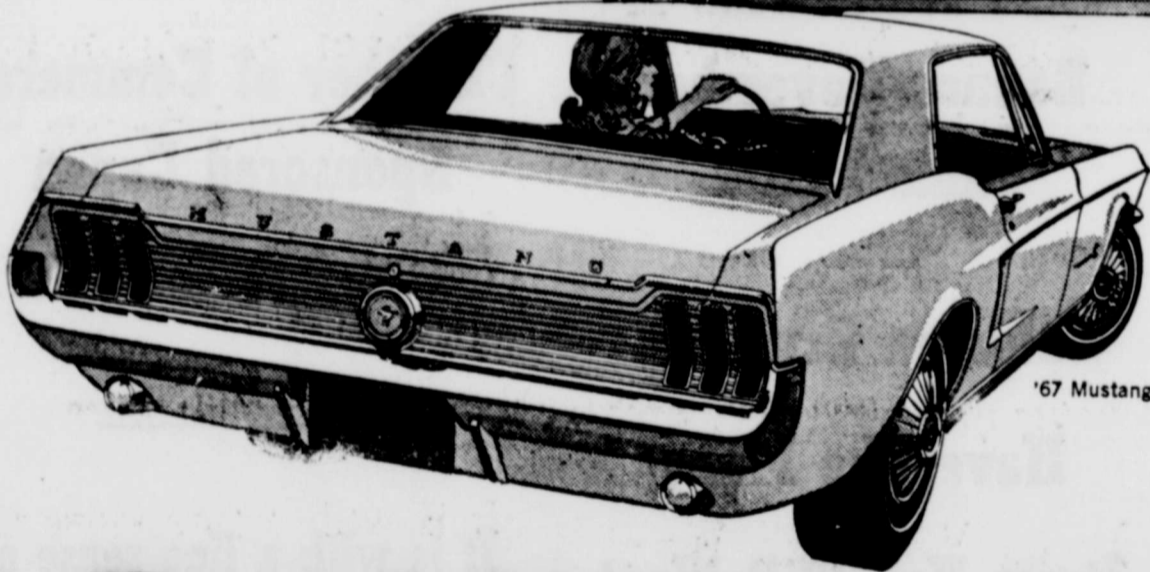

Say a girl's fiance breaks their engagement. Money damages, even if available to her, would not be the equivalent of a husband. But no court would literally make the man get married. As one judge explained:

"It is abhorrent to public policy to force a man or woman, under penalty of contempt of court, to enter into a marriage that is objectionable."

The Launching Pad

WE wonder what's coming next? A group of politicians in Mexico has asked that PANCHO VILLA'S name be inscribed in letters of gold on the walls of the Congressional Chambers. First, we give away Chamizal and now we are supposed to join hands with our neighbors across the Rio Grande to honor the memory of the revolutionist of 1910 who spent his last days engaging in banditry. The next thing we hear of will be the movement to hang BOBBY BAKER'S pictures in the Senate chamber in Washington.

I read with a great deal of pride and interest where DR. J. CARROLL CHADWICK had been re-elected president of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. His election was unanimous to the 1.8 million member group. When I was owner of the newspaper in Carthage, Texas, at the age of 22 years, BILL CHADWICK was a hometown boy and played halfback on the Carthage High School team. In those days, football teams couldn't afford trainers, et al. BILL CHADWICK suffered a sprained ankle in one of the games and I took him out to my house, along with LON WYATT McANALLY, the team's quarterback, and wrapped his ankle like they used to tape my ankles up before a game in my schoolboy playing days at Commerce. CARROLL, or BILL CHADWICK, has always been a fine individual. He went into the ministry and has been preaching at the First Baptist Church in Center, Texas for years. As a matter-of-fact, DR. CHADWICK never served another congregation. The people of Center just won't give him up. When I go back during the holidays to visit friends in East Texas, particularly in the Longview-Carthage-Center area, I want to go by and see BILL CHADWICK. He is solid gold and a lost of Baptist know now what I knew a long, long time ago, when I edited a newspaper in Panola County.

THE well liked and admired pastor of the FIRST METHODIST CHURCH, the REV. RICHARD PAYNE, knows now where to find part of his flock on election nights. He turned up at the courthouse Tuesday evening to witness the bringing into the temple of justice the results from nine voting boxes in Martin County. PAYNE found members of his congregation either helping tabulate the returns or congratulating each other on being elected to office. Some of PAYNE'S faithful worshippers present included: COUNTY JUDGE and MRS. JIM McCOY, COMMISSIONER and MRS. MASON COGGIN, SHERIFF DAN SAUNDERS, MORGAN HALL, MRS. BOB COX, COUNTY ATTORNEY ROY PICKETT, and JUSTICE MARTIN GIBSON. Perhaps there were other members of his church there but we just mentioned those in the mainstream of the congregation's activities here. OF course the very intelligent and friendly DORIS STEPHENSON was present in her role as district clerk, along with G. B. THERWANGER, deputy sheriff. In aside now to REV. BILL UHLMAN, we want to report that DORIS and G. B. saw that the Baptist were well represented. JOE MABEE, the genial Republican chairman for Martin County was in attendance, along with your writer. I have never thought to ask JOE what denomination he was depending on for soul saving so can't report on that phase of his life here.

FOR many years JO JON HALL COX has been present at the courthouse when the election returns were reported. She was on hand to help again Tuesday evening. JO JON is the daughter of COUNTY DEMOCRATIC CHAIRMAN and MRS. MORGAN HALL. She is the wife of BOB COX, rancher and farmer, civic leader and son of SAM COX, a county commissioner. JO JON loves political activity. It's only natural because her dad has been interested in government for many years. Her brother, JERRY, is a political writer in Austin these days and a close friend of GOV. JOHN CONNALLY. Her mother was a HOUSTON and we all know the HOUSTON family helped put Texas together.

I get daily inquiries about the health of my recently stricken brother, CARL, now a patient in MAYO CLINIC in Rochester, Minnesota. For appreciation and consideration of friends here, I am happy to report that my bother is doing as nicely as possible. He will have to remain in Rochester for sometime but may be in a few weeks he will be able to come home to Longview in East Texas.

TUESDAY'S balloting by Texans turned out to be the ending of a cherished dream of WAGGONER CARR, it ushered in the start of the end for a fourth term for JOHN CONNALLY, who strongly backed CARR, and it put the hand-writing on the political wall for LYNDON JOHNSON two years from now. The biggest poll of all—the election—told the story. The people have a way of rebelling when things are not going smoothly. The war in Viet Nam, the political revolution, the riots, marches, and illegal assaults on the American way of life here at home in such areas as Watts, the pork barrel spending, the free lunches and handouts, inflation, sky high prices, and the poverty program in general, has been just too much for the taxpayers. Presumably bought with the blood of brave men who daily die in Viet Nam as a result of the political blunders and mistakes of our Washington leaders, is not worth the price.

NEAL'S NUGGET: "The NBC boys were chanting a lot about the white backlash after the election Tuesday. The stinging defeat handed the liberal element of the Democratic Party was more like an old-fashioned horse whipping than a mere backlash."

The hours were struck resoundingly by bells on primitive clocks of the 13th century. They had neither hands nor faces.

Addition of kindergartens to the public schools will be a major school proposal in the 1967 session of the Legislature. State Board of Education has recommended it. Texas State Teachers Association feels it is vital to public education, and will support the board's position.

Expanding the public school system to 13 grades is advocated by educators on the ground that children learn more quickly at age 5, and simple because more education is needed for this complicated world. It would, of course, increase the cost of public schools by one-twelfth, at both state and local levels.

School teachers will press for a pay raise to lift Texas salary levels to the national average, but will let the Board of Education carry the ball on the kindergarten proposal.

School Cost Record — Last year's price of $647,516,534 for the minimum operation of Texas public schools set a record, but State Education Commissioner J. W. Edgar says the "minimum foundation fund" will be even greater this year — $667,857,000.

Fund, which is distributed according to the needs of the school district and its average daily attendance, draws its resources from two state sources; the available school fund, including a fourth of all occupation taxes by the state, and other state revenues.

Of last year's total, $123,439,886 was furnished by the school districts themselves, and the rest by the state. Figures do not include federal aid.

East Texas Oil — Railroad Commission has been given proposals by five oil companies for changing the method of allocating oil allowable in the East Texas field to eliminate what the companies said was discrimination.

Atlantic Richfield, Mobil, Sun, Cities Service and Superior oil companies all put forth widely different plans to eliminate both inequities within the field between marginal and portable wells and inequities between the East Texas Field and other fields in the state.

City of Kilgore, Kilgore Chamber of Commerce and other local governmental bodies oppose all changes.

Highway Beautification — "Texas faces the prospect of losing about $20,000,000 a year in federal highway funds," Lt. Gov. Preston Smith said, if it does not conform fully with the federal Highway Beautification Act of 1965.

Smith pointed out that, in writing the Act, the federal government included a 10 per cent penalty in federal aids to states that do not cooperate fully with the provisions of the new law.

State must fulfill its part by seeing that billboards and other outdoor advertising are moved back 660 feet from interstate and federal - state highways. Garbage dumps and junkpiles can be no closer than 1,000 feet. This would involve approximately 17,500 miles of Texas highways.

Tourist Development Talks — "Imagination: Dare to Use It" will be the theme of the second annual Governor's Tourist Development Conference November 22 in Austin. Gov. John Connally will head the participants.

Experts in various fields of tourist development and tourist promotion will meet with delegates to the conference, along with administrators of Six Flags Over Texas and San Antonio's HemisFair '68.

Screwworm Decline — Screwworm epidemic in Texas appears headed for an end. Only 97 cases were confirmed to the Animal Health Commission during the week of October 22 - 28, compared to 197 three weeks before, at the height of the infestation.

Dr. S. B. Walker, executive director of the commission, said the geographic area of the epidemic seems to be narrowing, too. Most serious areas are in Dimmitt, Val Verde and Maverick Counties. At the crest of the infestation, the southwest one-third of the state was involved.

Building Permits Decrease — Estimated value of building permits issued in Texas during September showed a sizable decrease from August's, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reports.

Declines both in residential and non - residential permits accounted for the fall of a seasonally adjusted 23 per cent from Austin and 11 per cent from September 1965, the bureau said.

Of Texas' six largest cities, Fort Worth showed the most total, non-farm construction during September, $17,060,277, but Houston was right behind at $16,978,031. Dallas' figure was $15,151,973. Austin, El Paso and San Antonio were far behind.

Equal Values Asked — State Board of Education will urge the Legislature to take action toward equalizing land values among all 254 Texas counties for property tax purposes.

Values now vary from five to 100 per cent of what the property actually sells for, according to Board member Paul Greenwood of Harlingen. Greenwood had unsuccessfully sought to substitute assessed valuations for the complex "economic index" used to figure local fund assignments of minimum foundation school program costs.

In separate action with implications for many districts, the board held that the Rio Hondo school cannot withhold report cards and transcripts from students who do not pay special fees.

Board ordered Texas Education Agency to make a study to find out just what fees districts are charging students for such things as locker services, towels and soap in physical training classes.

Short Shorts — Texas will receive $724,557 in federal funds to assist in the improvement of Stephen F. Austin State Park in Austin County, Bastrop State Park in Bastrop County and Palo Duro State Park near Amarillo in Randall County.

State Bar of Texas has produced a bill for the 60th Legislature which will clarify and expand the rights of married women. Revisions are part of a project to change and codify all the family laws of Texas into an organized Family Code.

Salute To Freedom Set Veterans Day

Veterans Day, Nov. 11, in Texas will be a part of a nationwide salute to those who have championed the cause of freedom and an honorable world peace. Department Commander Jack W. Flynt of The American Legion announced today.

Through their participation in this year's observance, citizens of Texas will be adding their collective voice of support of the national purpose in defending the cause of freedom wherever it may be threatened by acts of aggression, Commander Flynt stated.

Governor John Connally signed a proclamation calling on all citizens to participate in observance of Veterans Day, November 11.

Commander Flynt urges that every effort be made to turn Veterans Day 1966 in Texas into a dynamic demonstration of patriotism. Each household and business establishment is urged to display the flag of the United States in honor of the occasion.

"Veterans Day, Nov. 11," Flynt declared, "affords each of us an opportunity to express appreciation and honor to those who have worn the uniform of our country to preserve our rich heritage."

"Today, gallant Americans are once more committed to the field of combat, demonstrating their willingness to make the supreme sacrifice in the defense of freedom. Let us show, by our participation in this patriotic observance, our full measure of support of their endeavors."

Drinking Difficulty
Weightlessness, such as prevails in a space capsule in orbit, renders it difficult for astronauts to pour or drink liquids from an open vessel, so they must be squeezed out of tubes. Otherwise, they would form globules and float around the space capsule.
