Farm & Ranch Review

Still Time For A Flower Garden — abundant soil moisture and the late arrival of warm weather can work to the home flower gardener's advantage, says E. E. Janne, extension landscape horticulturist. He suggests using started plants and planting them as soon as the soil is dry enough. By using started plants, he says, attractive flower borders can be established before hot summer weather arrives.

Kenaf — It may be possible to grow a cheaper supply of pulp for making paper and paper products and give Texas farmers another cash crop, says Dr. Eli Whiteley of Texas A&M University's Department of Soil and Crop Sciences. Kenaf is the crop. It is an annual which grows as tall as 15 feet and will provide paper manufactures with a high quality pulp. It is cheaper to produce and harvest than pulpwood from cultivated forests, he says. It will grow just about anywhere that cotton is grown, either dryland or under irrigation. Transportation to paper mills is listed by the specialist as a major current problem.

On Making Quality Hay — The two secrets for making good quality hay are fertilizing for rapid growth and harvesting before the plants reach maturity. Neal Pratt, extension agronomist, says a soil test should be the starting point. Because of the adequate soil moisture, he says, opportunities for efficiently using fertilizer are very good.

Philosopher Says World Ought To Put A Stop To Questions About What Money Is

(Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw takes a firm stand on the world monetary system this week. We won't be responsible for what effect it has on the price of gold.)

Dear editor:

I guess the worst mistake mankind can ever make is to bring up the subject of money and what it is. It's the one thing that should never be discussed.

I came to this conclusion after reading about the gold crisis in eight different newspapers during the past two weeks.

Here the world was, financially speaking, rocking along as usual, trying to make ends meet, keeping up with the installment payments one way or another, writing checks and trying to get a deposit to the bank before they cleared, and suddenly the headlines announced we were facing a world-wide monetary crisis. Speculators were driving the price of gold up and confidence in the stuff was being undermined while the price was soaring.

Then the economic experts came on explaining once again what nobody has ever been able to explain — that the monetary system is based on gold despite the fact gold itself is pretty useless, outside of hollow teeth and jewelry. I can't think of anything more useless than a stack of gold bars sitting in an underground vault.

Everybody knows this, and therefore nobody should ever mention it again. I shouldn't be doing it now. Just say currency is backed by gold, and anybody who asks any more questions will be considered un-American, un-British, un-French, un-Russian, un-Italian, un-Chinese, un-Vietnamese, un-Ethiopian, etc. The entire world ought to get together on this no later than this week-end and never allow the subject to be brought up again. It's the one eternal truth everybody ought to agree on.

Every child clear around the world from now on should have it drilled into his head: Money Is Based On Gold, And Now Shut Up.

Incidentally, the economists are now saying we need a tax increase to "shore up confidence in the dollar."

There they go again. I've got plenty of confidence in the dollar. Just give me a few more and I'll prove it.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Quality Hay Crops Should Be Planned

Livestock owners should start planning now to make high-quality hay this year, says Neal Pratt, extension agronomist at Texas A&M University.

With adequate soil moisture in most areas of the state, opportunities for efficiently using fertilizer are extremely good, he says.

Fertilizer helps improve hay quality and at the same time it increases production. More important in some areas of the state, however, is the improved water efficiency of adequately fertilized hay crops, says the agronomist.

Start with a soil test to determine fertilizer and limestone needs, suggests Pratt. Then apply fertilizer early in the spring when pasture grasses start to grow. This is approximately the last frost-free date in the area. Then plan to harvest hay at an immature stage. Crops like Coastal bermudagrass should be harvested when approximately 3 1/2 to 4 weeks old, on when 12 to 14 inches high. Early growth may be 4 1/2 to 5 weeks old and still be at a satisfactory level, depending on temperature and other growing conditions. Topdressing immediately after harvest is another way to improve hay quality and yield, advises Pratt.

Harvesting before the plant matures is one of the most important factors in making good-quality hay, reminds the specialist. Rainfall is less harmful to forage which has been cut at an early stage than forage which is over-mature. Small stems and leaves can withstand rainfall easier and will dry faster than large stems and coarse leaves.

Veterans Need Not Report Some Benefits

Veterans' benefits are generally exempt from taxation and need not be reported as income on income tax returns, the Veterans Administration announced today.

The only reportable item is the interest earned on GI insurance dividends left on deposit with the VA, officials in Washington pointed out. This is not considered a veteran's benefit and must be reported as earned income.

GI insurance dividends are not taxable, nor are proceeds from GI insurance policies.

Other major tax exempt benefits include compensation and pension payments, educational assistance allowances, subsistence payments to vocational rehabilitation trainees, and grants for "wheelchair" homes and automobile equipment for the severely disabled.

Likewise, all benefits to surviving dependents of deceased veterans and compensation allowances authorized for dependents of certain disabled veterans are tax exempt.

WhITTENBURG UNDERSTANDS... ELECT HIM GOVERNOR

Bible Comment—

Christ's Death Was The Remedy For Man's Sins

There are two occasions when the Lord asked "Why?" which stand out from all the rest.

Once it was to God He cried and once to Saul of Tarsus. Once to the Holy One and once to the chief of sinners. Once He cried out from the shameful cross and once from His glory in heaven. In each case the name was repeated.

In Matt. 27:46 we find the first anguished "Why?" as He cried: "My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?" The other is found in Acts 9:4, where He calls from His exile in heaven: "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou Me?"

These two questions represent the greatest riddles of history and yet strangely, one of them is the simple solution to the other! Why did God forsake His Son? You will find the answer when you ask why mankind, represented by Saul, forsook and even persecuted God's Son.

God's action, in giving Christ up to die, was the antidote to man's Christ's death was the remedy for man's sin. It was because of the utter unreasonableness of man's sin that God, to save him, had to be more than reasonable.

Saul had led his nation and the world in rebellion against Christ, but this is just why, in infinite love God chose him to become the great apostle of grace, telling the world that "Christ died for our sins."

Hear him tell how he had been "a blasphemer, and a persecutor, and a injurious but how "the grace of our Lord was exceeding abundant" (I Tim. 1:13,14). Hear him say:

"Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, of whom I am chief. Howbeit for this cause I obtained mercy, that in me first Jesus Christ might show forth all long-suffering, for a pattern to them which should hereafter believe on Him to life everlasting" (versus 15, 16).

Since the "chief of sinners" is now in heaven, there is hope for us all if we but trust in the Christ who died for us.

Official Memorandum

By JOHN CONNALLY
Governor of Texas

AUSTIN, TEXAS

GREETINGS:

By resolution of the Legislature, the week of April 1-7, is observed each year as Texas Industrial Week.

Texas manufacturing industries created more than 20,000 new jobs in 1967. These new jobs were the result of 296 new plants locating in Texas and the expansion of 370 existing firms.

It is estimated that to provide one job, industry spends $35,000 in capital outlay per employee. Using this nationwide average of $350,000 per employee for tools and facilities to provide the 20,000 new jobs, the free enterprise system invested a staggering $700,000,000 in our State's industrial growth during 1967.

With this amount invested in our present and future industrial expansion, it is essential that every Texan work for a favorable atmosphere in which new and established industry may invest in the economic well-being of our industrious citizens.

Industrial Week gives us the opportunity to show appreciation to Texas industry through the promotion, display and purchase of products manufactured in this State.

THEREFORE, I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate the period of April 1-7, 1968, as in this State, and urge all citizens to give due recognition to this vital segment of our economy.

In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 14th day of March, 1968.

For older people and other beneficiaries who continue to work, the recent changes in social security will enable them to make more money and still draw some or all of their social security benefits.

The amount of money a person can earn in a year and still draw all the social security benefits has been raised. Beginning with 1968, a person who makes as much as $1,680 can still collect all of his social security benefits. Even if he earns considerably more than that, he may still draw some benefits. The old law had set that limit at $1,500 though 1967.

Here's how it now works. If you are working regularly and do not earn more than $1,680 a year in wages, you will receive all of your social security benefits each month.

If you are working regularly and make more than $1,680 a year, $1 will be withheld from your benefits for each $2 you make over $1,680, and up to $2,880. If you make more than $2,880, $1 will be deducted from your benefits for each $1 you make above that amount.

However, regardless of your total earnings for the year, you will receive your social security check for any month in which you do not earn more than $140 in wages and are not active in self-employment. This means that you could make any amount over $1,680 a year, and still receive your checks for any month that you do not work, but with deductions against the months you do work. Remember, these new provisions apply to earnings in 1968. The old law applies to earnings and benefits in 1967. As in the old law, there are no deductions taken from your social security benefits for any month after you reach 72, regardless of how much you earn in the year.

The provisions of the retirement test apply also to dependents of people who are receiving disability benefits, but not to the disabled worker himself. Special rules, including medical considerations, apply to people who are receiving benefits because of disability.

About 760,000 people across the country are expected to receive some $176 million in additional benefits during 1968, as a result of this change.

Notes On The Governor Hopefuls

The Texas race for governor seems to have been mixed up somewhat with the Johnson-Kennedy candidacies. Eugene Locke, a Johnson man, a Connally man, and a man whose campaign is being directed by Merrill Connally, a brother of

Dolph Briscoe

John, raised the Kennedy-Johnson question. Locke was Lyndon's deputy ambassador to South Vietnam. He resigned to come back to Dallas to announce for governor. Locke is undoubtedly familiar with the back-market charges and charges of unlimited stealing going on in the South Vietnam administration. LBJ admitted "some stealing" is going on in South Vietnam, but in a recent speech in Beaumont he said: "We can't fall out with our allies on disputed situations and to be plain about it—some stealing is probably going on right here in Beaumont, Texas, at this time." Senator Kennedy has since made mention of this statement attributed to Johnson in his campaign to unseat LBJ.

Former attorney general Waggoner Carr called Senator Kennedy "one of the most dangerous" men in national politics. He pledged his support to Johnson. Men prominent in Carr's race for U. S. Senator from Texas against John Tower, recall that Johnson failed to come to Texas to aid Carr in that campaign. While attorney general, Carr talked Treasurer, Roth Holcombe, assassination of the late President Kennedy in Dallas, but is was called off and never held. Many of Carr's loyal workers never understood why a investigation on the Texas level was never held. It cost Carr votes in the senatorial race, in the estimations of a lot of grass root workers and county campaign managers for him in that race. Some Carr county managers feel like LBJ actually hoped for the election of Senator Carr. Carr's current loyalty to Johnson is a puzzle to backers of the genial man from Lubbock.

Don Yarborough appeared to shun the question proposed by Locke on the Kennedy-Johnson situation. He kept talking about "Texas needs to spend more to take advantage of matching federal funds available in Washington." The general public appears to frown on any more of this silly, bankrupt - bound, pie-in-the-sky stuff out of Washington. Most Texans realize the money available in Washington came out of taxpayer's pockets, a lot of them living in Texas.

Dolph Briscoe ignored the Kennedy - Johnson issue and stressed more aid for education. Don't forget, Briscoe announced his candidacy from the steps of John Garner's house in Uvalde. He is not likely to be very enthusiastic about any brand of liberalism.

Lt. Gov. Preston Smith continued to point his years of experience. Smith explained that he was not running on the demerits of others. He has announced that he would support the nominee of the Democratic Party and that appears to be a safe course now that the Kennedy - Johnson political storm is on the scene and beginning to increase in tempo. Preston Smith is considered to be top man in the running at the present time. When he served Martin County as a state senator he sailed under a conservative flag and few of his old constituents are going to desert him now. They continued to heavily support his candidacy for the

Lt. Governorship after he left the state senate.

Whittenburg, a Republican, will support the nominee of the GOP. He could care less about the Kennedy - Johnson fight.

He will compete in both events at the regional meet

INDEPENDENCE TRAIL

A 585-mile Travel Trail tracing Texas' fight for independence from the first battle at Gonzales to the final victory at San Jacinto, has been mapped as part of the Texas Travel Trails system.

The Independence Trail route was announced in Austin by Gov. John Connally January 17 at the third annual Governor's Tourist Development Conference.

With the exception of the Alamo and Refugio (Battle of Refugio) all other historic sites and battlegrounds that played roles in Texas' march for independence are on the trail. Eighteen counties are covered including Austin, Bastrop, Brazoria, Caldwell, Calhoun, Fayette, Fort Bend, Galveston, Goliad, Gonzales, Guadalupe, Harris, Jackson, Karnes, Matagorda, Washington, Wilson and Victoria.

At Gonzales this first shot was fired. And only Gonzales answered the call from the besieged Alamo, sending 32 men to die within its walls. Historical markers and monuments are numerous throughout the town. The revolution began here when a Mexican force attempted to seize a cannon from Texans forces. Flying a flag that boasted, "Come And Take It," the Texans repelled the effort.

From Gonzales, the trail winds through Luling, Fentress and into Bastrop, first settled by Stephen F. Austin's colonists. Bastrop State Park is situated among tall pines, often referred to as "Lost Pines" because of their distance from the East Texas Forest Country.

State Highway 71 through Smithville and La Grange brings the trail rider to another hallowed state park—Monument Hill. High on a bluff overlooking the Colorado River Valley is the final resting place of the men who drew the ill-fated black beans after the Mier Expedition against Mexico. Also buried there are 41 of Captain Nicholas Dawson's troops who were killed in the battle of Salado Creek in 1842. From La Grange the trail travels northward again through Round Top, past restored Winedale Inn and onward to Navasota and Washington - the Brazos State Park. The 71-acre park contains a replica of the building where the Texas Declaration of Independence was signed in 1835. The first capitol of the Republic of Texas was located here.

Angling southward the trail follows State Highway 36 through Bellville and Sealy, then turns on Farm Road 1093 into Houston. No attempt will be made to list all attractions in the South's largest city. As all Travel Trails, the Independence Trail guides the traveler to the outskirts of major cities but does not attempt to designate routes within the city limits. Visitors should contact local chamber of commerce for city information.

The trail emerges on the eastern edge of Houston and leads 22 miles to the San Jacinto Battleground on State Highway 134. It was here on that April day in 1836 that Sam Houston's army needed only 18 minutes to defeat Santa Anna to win independence for Texas. Take State Highway 146 from the battleground to Galveston, once pirate's cove but now a sunny vacationland featuring modern hotels and 32 miles of beaches.

The trail moves down the coastline by causeway to Freeport and north again on State Highway 36 to West Columbia and site of the spacious Varner-Hogg Plantation. It is now a state park where colonial life is preserved in an 1836 landmark. From West Columbia the trail hugs the coastline moving through Bay City, Wadsworth, Palacios, Port Lavaca and Victoria, another of Texas' earliest settlements. Victoria was one of the first three towns incorporated by the Republic of Texas and remains today a leading center of surrounding cattle ranches and modern industrial plants.

Next stop is Goliad and restored Presidio La Bahia where Col. James Fannin and his men were massacred by Santa Anna on Palm Sunday in March of 1836. The graves of Fannin and his men are marked by a monument two miles south of Goliad off State Highway 183. Goliad State Park, the birthplace of Mexican military hero General Ignacio Zaragoza and the Mission Espiritu Santo are three additional attractions.

Moving northward again, the Independence Trail visits Panna Maria. Thought to be the oldest Polish settlement in America, Panna Maria (meaning Virgin Mary) is located on State Highway 123 north of Karnes City. It is also said to have been site of the first Polish school in America. Continuing north, the trail leads to Floresville, passing Gov. John Connally's ranch, and into Seguin, home of Texas Lutheran College. Lake McQueeney, four miles northwest of Seguin, has become a popular boating, swimming and lakeside resort.

Returning to Gonzales via Farm Road 456 completes a hurried trip through Texas history along the Independence Trail.

Consumers Pay Up To 216 Percent Installment Interest

Consumers are paying from 18.5 as much as 216 per cent interest on various kinds of loans and credit plans, federal official E. S. Thomas, Jr., said today.

Thomas, Credit Union National Association director from Washington, stressed the importance of the passage of S-5, now in committees of the U. S. House and Senate.

Thomas said that borrowing money has become a national habit, particularly popular with men in the armed forces. "Some servicemen in the Pacific Islands are being charged as much as 216 per cent by American owned loan companies," Thomas said.

Back in the states, a homeowner sometimes pays "18 per cent interest on household appliances without ever taking into consideration anything except" the fact that "he wants that television," Thomas said.

The biggest problem, both here and in the service, is the idea that "a person can get anything he wants on 'easy monthly payments' that are 'friendly.' As it turns out the total payments are not either friendly or easy at all," Thomas said.

Revolving credit plans, popular across the country, "say they only charge one and one-half per cent interest," he pointed out.

"But, after the service charges, carrying charges and other 'things' are added, no matter how you slice it the interest is 18.5 per cent for 12 months. The consumer has the right to know he is paying that kind of interest."

Passage of S-5 is expected to come by May of this year. With passage would come interest limits, guidelines regarding garnishment of pay checks, truth in advertising, make a requirement of loan companies that they explain, in detail, just how much a person is paying in interest, and other points to reduce the excessive interest rates now being paid.

Proteins To Lead Plentiful April Foods

Protein foods moved into the spotlight of foods in abundance during April. That's the report of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Such items as turkey, pork, North Pacific halibut steaks, and peanuts and peanut products all are available in large quantities to spark spring-time menus. Potatoes, milk, and all dairy products also are plentiful, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

With turkey featured for the month, what could be a better idea for Easter dinner? Succulent roast turkey is a treat the entire family will enjoy.

To be sure to please everyone, you might want to add ham to the menu. Prospects are for a slightly higher rate of production than last year's high level. So all pork cuts will be plentiful, says USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service.

Tasty halibut offers a real eating treat. With warm days ahead, plan to cook halibut steaks on the outdoor grill.

April output of milk and dairy products should show a sharp increase as production nears its seasonal peak. What a good time to take advantage of the abundance of milk and all dairy foods.

Storage stocks of potatoes on Feb. 1 reached a record-high level of 12.7 million hundredweight — 9 percent larger than a year earlier. With new-crop supplies coming from Florida and Texas, you're assured of a large supply of this popular vegetable.

Last year's peanut crop is expected to be even greater than the 1966 record production. So place peanuts and peanut products on your list of favorite eating.

Former Marine Commandant Says Viet Victory Not Possible

David M. Shoup, former Marine Corps commandant, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee a military victory in South Vietnam is impossible and he submitted his own peace plan.

He suggested that: —The U.S. and South Vietnamese presidents ask North Vietnam to set a time and place for negotiations, with the North to fix the degree of participation by the National Liberation Front.

—“When the gavel strikes to begin negotiations, we — the United States and South Vietnam — will cease all offensive operations,” reserving the right to continue observation activities.

—While an end to North Vietnamese offensive operations would not be a condition for negotiations, refusal to halt them would mean the enemy was not interested in a peaceful settlement.

—If the other side did halt their offensives, the talks could proceed with the goal of withdrawing outside combat forces from South Vietnam.

Shoup said he had submitted his proposals last June to Robert S. McNamara, then secretary of defense, who replied they would be turned over to the White House. He has heard nothing further, Shoup told newsmen at the hearing.

Shoup said previous administration attempts to obtain negotiations carried “a built-in failure” — requirements for enemy agreements before U.S.

bombing was halted, for example.

His plan, Shoup said, would allow North Vietnam's President Ho Chi Minh to order a military pause and end the bombing without the appearance Ho was yielding to U.S. pressure.

“This makes him a big man with his people,” the general added. “We give him credit for what he is, the head of a sovereign state, easily insulted.”

Even if his plan did not work, Shoup said, it would go a long way toward showing this country had done all it could to bring about a peaceful settlement.

He told the committee a real military victory in South Vietnam “cannot come to pass.”

“If we want to win—that is, defeat the North Vietnamese forces — we can't do it in South Vietnam because they don't have to send the bulk of their forces down there,” Shoup said.

Asked about future prospects, he replied: “We can pour more and more troops into South Vietnam and keep fighting and destroying with the hope that, if we are going to continue these murderous methods, North Vietnam will finally have had enough of it.”

But, he said: “I do not think the gains, no matter how greatly they may be embellished, will ever equal one-tenth of the cost.”

Bobby Says LBJ, Not Dissenters Divide Nation

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy charged Thursday night that President Johnson — not his dissenters — is “truly dividing the country.”

“It is not those who call for change,” the New York contender for the Democratic presidential nomination said. “It is those who bear the responsibility for our present course, who have removed themselves from the American tradition, from the enduring and generous impulses that are the soil of this nation.”

Kennedy's newest attack on Johnson came in an address prepared for a Vanderbilt University audience. It came at the end of a day in which he took his campaign to the scene of one of the nation's historic civil rights confrontations during his career as attorney general — the University of Alabama.

Past Quarrels

There, where he was received warmly and without incident by some 8,000 students, Kennedy urged Southerners to put past quarrels behind them and join him “in the task of national reconciliation.”

The quarrels of past years, Kennedy said, “are behind us now — dwarfed by the far more serious issues facing us as Americans.”

For his youthful audience at Vanderbilt — all of his camaign addresses to date have been before college crowds — Kennedy vigorously defended the right to dissent.

“Now,” he said, “we hear from men in the highest places of government that ‘the time for debate is over’ that ‘the time has come to unite, to support our leaders, our government; we are asked, ‘which side are you on.’”

Much To Dissent

“There is much to dissent from,” Kennedy insisted.

“The policies which are isolating us from our oldest allies and all the world — these are something to dissent from,” he said.

“The President tells us we can look forward to summer after summer of riot and repression. I dissent from that and I know you do, too,” he said.

“And there are other divisions, equally serious, tearing at the fabric of our national unity,” Kennedy said.

“Demonstrators shout down government officials, and the Selective Service silences protesters. Young people — the best education in our history — turn from the Peace Corps and public commitment of a few years ago to lives of disengagement and despair, turning off with drugs, and turning off America. And that is something to dissent from.”

Dictatorship

“Every dictatorship,” Kennedy said, “has ultimately strangled in the web of repression it wove for its people, making mistakes which could not be corrected because criticism was prohibited . . .”

“So when we are told to forego all dissent and division, we must ask: who is it that is really dividing the country?”

The contest of 1962, he said, is “not for the rule of America, but for the heart of America.”

I know the educational allowance for a veteran with one dependent is $155 a month for full time enrollment, $115 for three-quarter time, and $75 for half time in college. But how many semester hours are required in these classifications?

A — Fulltime college training mens 14 or more semester hours or the equivalent; three-quarter time training consists of 10 to 13 semester hours; and half-time is 7 to 9 semester hours of college courses or the equivalent.

Red's Corner

By RED GIBSON

As a card-carrying hypocrite and a spoofer by trade, it's hard for me to be completely serious throughout a discourse on the merits of liquor by the drink.

So I won't try.

But I will indeed take the time to examine the situation, and most other voters should do likewise. For, as most people know, this business of liquor by the drink will be on the ballot in the May Democratic and Republican primaries.

I'm not against drinking, necessarily. I've got a bottle of wine in the refrigerator and there's a bottle of the hard stuff in the cabinet over the sink. It has a few cobwebs on it, and the spiders may have drunk it all up, but the bottle is there.

Anyway, I'm against liquor by the drink because the state's problems will increase when liquor is easier to get. Saloon morality never improved any civilization, and it won't help this one. Bars serve no useful function that I have been able to observe, and I have done research in a number of them.

Now then, maybe we had better back off and see what kind of snake it is that we are falling here. All that is on the ballot is a straw vote asking us to express our sentiments about whether we want our legislators to change the liquor law. The proposed change would not turn every drug store into a saloon. Hardly. All it would do would be to permit a precinct to hold an election on whether it wanted liquor by the drink.

When we were having lunch together earlier this month Gov. John Connally told me that one of the advantages would be that liquor would be served in better surroundings. Instead of having to go to bars or clubs where drinking was the main activity, we civilized people could get our sauce at the local cafe.

(You're wondering about me and the governor? OK, I'll admit that it wasn't quite as cozy a gathering as the foregoing paragraph might indicate. We were at a luncheon for a couple of hundred North and East Texas newspaper people in Waxahachie, and the governor said all that stuff in his speech.

(Still, to be truthful, he told that to me as much as to anyone else in the crowd. I sort of enjoyed visiting with the governor. He's the second genuine issue in the TV. The other one was Gabby Hayes.)

Anyway, the governor thinks drinking would be all right in places that serve food. He says the main problem is enforcement of the law.

He's right, there. But it seems to me that this is the wrong time to be putting your chips on enforcement, since the Liquor Control Board has been in such a stink lately.

I might be talked into supporting liquor by the drink if I believed that enforcement would get better instead of worse after we changed over.

I might be talked into supporting liquor by the drink if I believed that it would be served mainly in good restaurants and that the number of cheap bars wouldn't multiply.

I might be talked into supporting liquor by the drink if I believed that the highway death rate wouldn't go up.

And then again I might not.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Cause And Effect

Was Mrs. O'Leary, whose cow kicked over the lantern, legally liable for burning down the whole city of Chicago? After all, if she had not left that lantern in the barn, the fire never would have gotten started in the first place.

Obviously, in following the chain of cause and effect, it is only fair to cut off responsibility at some point. Even if you do something wrong, the law won't blame you for every single consequence, from here to eternity.

But just where is the cut-off point? That is a crucial issue in a great many of the personal injury suits so common in our courtrooms today.

To begin with, you are not liable at all if no causal connection can be shown. Suppose you are driving with an expired driver's license, and a pedestrian steps in front of your car — too suddenly for you to stop.

True, you did wrong by driving with an expired license. But that would not make you liable for hitting the pedestrian, since there was no causal connection between the two events.

Even assuming a causal connection, you are still not liable if your action was not the “proximate” cause of the final harm.

What is a proximate cause? Of course, no two cases are identical. But what the law looks for most often is foreseeability. That is, you are usually not held liable if harm was not reasonably foreseeable as a result of your action.

On the other hand, if harm was indeed foreseeable, you may be responsible even if the exact form of the harm was not. Pulling away someone's chair, making a minor bump likely, could lead to liability for a major injury as well.

What if there is an “intervening” cause—some misconduct by a third party, following your own misconduct, and leading to the accident? Does that intervening cause let you pass?”

“If we want to win—that is, defeat the North Vietnamese forces — we can't do it in South Vietnam because they don't have to send the bulk of their forces down there,” Shoup said.

Asked about future prospects, he replied: “We can pour more and more troops into South Vietnam and keep fighting and destroying with the hope that, if we are going to continue these murderous methods, North Vietnam will finally have had enough of it.”

But, he said: “I do not think the gains, no matter how greatly they may be embellished, will ever equal one-tenth of the cost.”

Often it does. Yet you might still be liable if that intervening cause was something you could fairly have expected.

For example: a hardware dealer left a rake, standing upright, in a busy aisle. A small boy, running by, stepped on the teeth of the rake, snapping the handle against a woman's head.

When she sued the hardware man for damages, he argued that his original error was nullified by the boy's late misconduct in running through the aisle. However, the court held him liable in spite of this intervening cause.

Reason: he should have foreseen, when he left the rake there, that boys — especially small ones — will be boys.

Fast Penetration Of U.S. By Import Car

The Toyota Motor Company, Japan's No. 1 automobile manufacturer, has made the quickest and most dramatic penetration of the U.S. import passenger car market since the famed Volkswagen impact of the late 1950's.

Now ranked as the third largest selling import car in the United States, the company has increased its 1968 import quota for this country to 130,000 units and is looking for its sixth consecutive year of more than doubling its sales in the U.S. this year.

In 1967, Toyota retailed 36,203 units here, of which 36,013 were passenger cars, to rank third among foreign car sales in this country, according to a report published in Automotive News.

Volkswagen, with 443,396 retail sales, and Volvo with 51,593, ranked as the top two largest selling foreign cars in the United States last year.

Rounding out the top ten in import sales here last year behind VW, Opel and Toyota are Datsun, 33,275; Volvo, 33,012; Mercedes-Benz, 20,542; Renault, 20,218; English Ford, 16,536; Fiat, 16,002; and Triumph, 14,525.

Toyota, in selling 36,203 units here last year, enjoyed its fifth consecutive year of more than doubling its previous year's sales in this country. In 1966, according to Automotive News, the firm retailed 17,423 units

The Launching Pad

By NEAL ESTES

Quick death claimed two men well known in the Stanton area last week. LLOYD ODOM died in Mesa, Arizona, while on a business trip and JACK ARRINGTON expired suddenly in Eastland. ARRINGTON formerly lived in Martin County and LLOYD ODOM was in the trucking business here for 40 years. The sympathy of the community is extended to their surviving loved ones. Death is always unwelcome and most of the time we are unprepared for it. But the sudden shock of death seems to stun us all more deeply. That's the way news of the passing of these two apparently healthy individuals struck Stanton.

The late JACK ARRINGTON was the first man in Stanton to roll out the welcome mat for your editor when I arrived in Stanton several years ago. I lived across the street from JACK and EULA and both of them were extremely cordial and friendly. JACK was responsible for the rekindling of my golfing activity. He introduced me to membership in Stanton Rotary, and he became an early booster of the paper. In adversity and in sunshine, I always felt like JACK and EULA understood. I moved from the neighborhood and the ARRINGTONS moved to Eastland. I read with a great deal of interest how JACK, their children, JACKIE and LANA LEE, were so warmly accepted in Eastland when they purchased the funeral establishment there. I have followed their progress since. JACK had been elected president of the Lane Cedar Country Club the night before his death. He had served Eastland as president of their Chamber of Commerce. He was a Mason and member of the American Legion in Eastland. He was a Methodist. JACK was a member of the National, State and West Texas funeral association. EULA kept pace in community activities with her husband. She marched by JACK'S side and their children were their delights. I would say here that JACK loved, labored and lived more with his family, friends, and community in 44 years than most men do in a longer span of time. And now in death as it was in life—so note note it be for JACK ARRINGTON.

Mrs. Chalmer Wren has returned from Temple, where she visited with her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Wren and children.

Mrs. Verbin Graves and Mrs. Travis Clay were in Eastland Sunday, to attend the funeral of Jack Arrington.

Nancy and Becky Graves of Midland, visited in Stanton over the week-end.
