brims with growing expertise. No gentleman farmer, he is an astute man of the soil. 1968 was a banner year for Froberg. He escalated tomato production from 150 bushels to 500 bushels per acre. Peaches bore double the previous year's yield. Bean production rose from 100 to 175 bushels per acre. Potato production came in as a bumpper acre, up from 150 previously. Other crops showed similar dramatic yields. Actually, Froberg's experience is not an untold mystery. No at all. The secret is as old tional man-developed methods of duplicating nature's supply of quality organic compost have been crude, too slow, and costly. But again, modern technology has come to the rescue! Fused with nature's age-oid composting technique, a newly patented refuse conver-sion process bids to furnish society with a peat-like, super-ior-grade organic compost. In adequate quantity. And at low cost. The product, marketed as moss, has been in demand by gardeners. Peat adds several depleted soils and vastly imilities. Being granular, peat adds physical structure to fine soils, loosens compacted soils, and contributes importantly to soil aeration. With its humuslike quality, peat aids in mak-

But for all its nobility as a soil amendment, peat adds lit-tle food value to the earth since it is derived from the de-cayed remains of plants that are ages old. Moreover, peat often contributes an acid-forming factor. It should be under-stood that our planet's dirt is mostly a mass of sterile rock particles worn to microscopic fragments. In its normal nu-tritionless state, it is not capable of supporting healthy plant growth. Dirt never becomes fertile soil until LIFE has been added to it. Where there is no life, there is no soil they are inseparable! Organic compost is a double material. It is a superb match for peat's desirable hu-mus qualities. Moreover, it aids in neutralizing overly acid soil situations. In reality, com-post is a living product, bursting with indispensably bene-ficial and very much alive soil industrious beings, essential for adding grow-power to any soil, are there by the billions per tablespoonful. They act as a life-giving catalyst, "unlock ing" minerals inherent in most form. And importantly, organ-ic compost is itself a storehouse of trace minerals adding a primary source of plant nu-trition. Thus, compost pro-vides the gardener with both a

The secret of Alford Froberg's dramatic crop yield was his use of a generous supply of Alive. He was fortunate to be located near Houston, Texas. There the compost was provided to him as one of many tests being conducted by an ingenious young firm operating an Alive composting facility in that city. The product is pro-duced through an accelerated composting process using mun-icipal refuse as raw material. It is converted in a modern plant processing 360 tons of solid waste daily. After mechanical extraction of non-compostables from incoming trash the residue, mostly pulre scibles, is refined, ground, pro-cessed and completely sanitized. After six days' detention in huge digesting tanks the length of a football field, the product emerges as a dark brown, to bacco-like compost substance

Also, it is furnished in bulk to large users such as land reclamationists, hydro mulching firms, golf courses, and highway land-scapers. In addition to the Houston plant, a 150-ton dem-onstration plant is now in operation at Gainesville, Florida under sponsorship of the U. S. Department of Public Health. SIX FLAGS TO OPEN '69 SEASON APRIL 12

SIX FLAGS Over Texas hostess Jill Tipps caused a slight work stoppage by some members of the construction crew building the Park's newest attraction, the 300-foot Oil Derrick.

Scheduled to be in operation when SIX FLAGS opens the 1969 season on April 12, the Oil Derrick will afford visitors a spectacular view of the 145-acre park from observation platforms near the top of the rig. At the 50-foot level (where workmen are waving), a giant 180-foot-long, 12-lane slide angled down 35 degrees will be built for visitors wishing to make a rapid and rather daring highspeed trip to ground level.

The 19-million-dollar historical-theme park is located between Dallas and Fort Worth.

Monday, March 17, is ST. PATRICK'S DAY. Surely, the day is a great one for the Irish. It is also traditional in this country for all elements of the population to join our sons and daughters of Erin in the celebration of this great day. Make plans now to mark the occcasion with a party or by just having friends in for the evening. I always enjoy the playing of the splendid Irish melodies on St. Pat's Day. There is something about the music that sends the soul tingling and the jiggy-time beat is good to have around once a year if for no other reason to chase the mod stuff off the air for 24 hours. I have a recording of the best Irish songs done by BING CROSBY and to me it is priceless. I might add that I put this platter on my stereo more than just once a year too. Like they say-Irish music is a bromide for the blues.

salute is in order to the GIRL SCOUTS on their A salute is in order to the 57th anniversary this week. Their fine organization of girls has contributed greatly to the standards of this nation. It is also gratifying to know that so many fine adult leaders in the GS movement are willing to share time to service the organization with sage advice and qualities of good leadership. MRS. J. D. POE is a long time leader in the Girl Scout movement in West Texas. Friends of ELEANOR join me in sending her a special pat on the back.

SENATOR PASTORE of Rhode Island, a liberal, says it is getting so he can't stand to stomach the stuff coming off constantly on television. He shouts that something must be done to clean up the networks and cease the display of violence and crime scenes. He is so right. PASTORE has demanded action in Congress to curb the powers of the persons who control the airlanes. The finger-shaking senator has warned the tv moguls that they must put their own house in order or serious steps will be taken to control the networks. In Great Britian, the government runs the tv business. It could come here. In addition to the crime shows being aired in the U.S. other shows are taking on propoganda lines and trying to create and then dramatize unreal situations. The Today Show is an example. It is now supervised by HUGH DOWNS, who is mumbling so badly these days one can barely understand his mutterings. BARBARA WALTERS is simply not capable of using the plain vanilla language of America. She talks like an Asiatic country native. To set MISS WALTERS - (of course that is not her real name) up as a typical American woman is stupid. She is a silly pity. Poor JOE GARIGOLIA — I won't attempt to spell it -- who used to refer to himself as being brought up on "Dago Hill" in St. Louis, is the best of the trio. But JOE is the first to admit that he has as much business as a cat on a hot tin roof occupying his ty role. But the announcers are just the props for this propoganda show. The daily two-hour program is a pulpit for punks, pinkos, and would-be parasites. The listening pub-Jic is switching the dial or cutting the clown box completely off these days when DOWNS and his company of fellow travelers come on the air. Yes, SENATOR PASTORE, television is badly in need of a program cleaning. May the people back you in your desire to run the rats out of the woodwork.

Deadlines for filing on the various county school boards and for places on the Stanton city council are now behind. Absentee voting in the city race starts Monday and continues throught April 1. Elections are scheduled for April 5. Candidates draw no pay for their service on these public boards. I personally appreciate the fact that men and women want to serve in these honored places and I like to know the noble reasons for some individuals desire to serve in high posts of public trust. Along with other citizens of the municipality and of the school districts, I feel like answers to public questions that might come up for future consideration need to be aired in personal views before election time. It is entirely possible that some high controversial issues will arise positively effecting the community before another year. passes. The taxpayers are certainly entitled to know the personal views of any candidate on any public issue as well as the personal qualifications. It has been my policy in past elections to support the man or woman for public office with convictions about public questions. I regretfully scratched the name of one of the best men in this community in a recent election because of his stand on a public issue I could not support. The candidates in all school board and in the city election are invited to use the columns of the OLE Reliable to tell us all what they propose to do if elected and what they think about such questions and problems now pending in the community.

MRS. EMMA WHEELER, secretary of the Martin Chamber of Commerce, sent out a list of committee appointees to the chamber members Monday of this week. I trust that all committeemen will serve our chamber. There is a definite need for the Chamber of Commerce in Martin County and many of our leading citizens in the many sections of community life are cordigly invited to take out a membership in the local civic Congratulations are in order this week for BOB CAIN and Company on their seventh anniversary as members of the Martin County business circle. An Open House is scheduled for Tuesday, March 18, at the company's place of business, corner of St. Anna and St. Joseph. BOB CAIN is well known in West Texas business areas and his CAIN TRACTOR & SUPPLY has contributed something to the betterment and advancement of the community he serves as well as receiving the cooperation and support from the people.
