To The Point

By BUDDY NORVILLE

Coach Alvis Jackson was sick a few days last week, and found it necessary to see a doctor. The good doctor asked Alvis what his trouble was. Alvis replied, "Doc, I think I have VEE." "Why do you think you have VEE Alvis?" the MD asked. "Because I'm sick as a horse," Alvis said.

Last Wednesday was one of those days around our place. Wednesday always is a busy day, we are always hurrying to get the paper out on time. The trouble is, we haven't set one particular time to get the paper out. Our publishing date is Thursday, so legally we could wait until Thursday to mail the paper out. But we like to get it to you as early as possible. Anyway, last Wednesday we were late getting off to church. And you know how things will happen when you get in a hurry. First, Brenda dropped a jug of ice water in front of the refrigerator. After mopping that up, we sat down to a hot meal (first one in days), which we didn't have time to eat. Then Scotty, who by this time was as nervous and excited as we were, spilled his milk. Trying not to say anything to upset him anymore I said, "Scotty, this just isn't our day is it?" Scotty didn't say anything for a long second, then he replied, "Whose day is it daddy?" I couldn't help but laugh at what he had said. This was the medicine that I needed to sooth my hurried nerves. I was glad that I hadn't 'yelled' at him for spilling his milk.

Bell System Contributes $718 Million To Economy

In spite of a generally dull performance of the economy during 1970, four Bell System companies posted a record $718 million contribution to the economy of Texas. Leading contributor among the four companies operating in the state, was Southwestern Bell Telephone Company with expenditure of more than $491 million. The company serves about 80 per cent of the state's telephones. Other associated companies operating in Texas are Western Electric, manufacturing and supply unit of the Bell System; Mountain Bell Telephone Company, providing telephone service in four El Paso exchanges; and AT&T Long Lines Department, which maintains much of the system's long distance network. Payroll for the four companies accounted for the largest single expenditure — nearly $323 million of the $718 million total, according to H. D. Schodde, vice president of Southwestern Bell's Texas operations. The four companies employ more than 40,700 Texans.

Commenting on the increasing amount of construction being undertaken by the Bell System, Schodde said that construction expenditures in Texas for buildings and outside plant hit a record $157 million. He pointed out that this represented six per cent of the total non-residential construction in the state. Schodde also noted that the Bell System's Texas payroll and construction program, when coupled with a state and local tax bill of more than $75 million, had substantial impact on nearly every community served by the System. This local impact was typified by Western Electric which alone made purchases from 1,740 suppliers in 112 towns and cities throughout the state amounting to more than $103 million.

At year's end, Bell System telephones in Texas totaled more than 5,243,000.

Dove Hunters, Look Again

Those dove hunters busily unplugging their shotguns for the dove season had better take another look at the law, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials.

Migratory birds, and these include both mourning and white-winged doves, can be legally hunted with shotguns only if the shotguns are permanently plugged to hold three shells. Other migratory birds in Texas are ducks, geese, brant, coots, rails, gallinules, jacksnipe, woodcock, and sandhill cranes.

"We've had some reports that dove hunters are happily anticipating the coming dove season because they can do more shooting with unplugged guns," said James U. Cross, executive director of the department.

Deputy G. B. Therwhanger Arrests "Busy Burglar"

Loos with an estimated value exceeding $10,000 was recovered Thursday, following the arrest of Leroy Ellis in Midland. Martin County Deputy Sheriff, G. B. Therwhanger, arrested Ellis, who has served three terms in the state penitentiary.

Ellis was identified by people who had seen him in various places over Martin County. Charges filed against him in Martin County were: three counts of burglary, and one felony theft. He is suspected of having committed 13 burglaries in five counties.

Following the arrest, Ellis admitted he had burglarized the Martin County residences. He gave Deputy Therwhanger a list of seven different places in Midland where he had stashed the loot. Recovered in the seizure were color television sets, black and white sets, stereos, tap recorders, guitars,

The new field house dedicated last Tuesday at the Meet The Buffalo Barbeque. The building was built largely through the donations of interested Buffalo supporters. Most of the work was voluntary, a large part of it by the coaching staff.

New Field House Dedicated At Booster Club Barbecue

Tuesday night was 'meet the Buffalo night' in Stanton. Over 400 people turned out to eat barbecue, and tour the new field house.

The newly constructed field house is being used this fall for the first time. Tuesday night's ceremony was the official dedication of the impressive facility.

Delbert Dickenson, president of the Booster Club served as master of ceremonies, for the dedication service. He said, "There was a lot of work that went into this building, and many people contributed. But the end result is a lot of smiles and happy hearts."

Superintendent Russell McMeans defined pride as, "What one is, what one has, or what one has done. Without pride, this field house wouldn't have been built." He said he had visited in every school in the area, and before this fall, Stanton had the worst dressing room facilities of any of them. "Now we have the best," he concluded. Mr. McMeans drew attention to the flagpole with the Buffalo atop. "The Buffalo's eyes will light up. We've installed red lights—to be lit up when we win a ball game. And they will stay lit until we are defeated. I intend for it to stay lit, so I've bought a huge supply of light bulbs."

Jackie Swanson, a senior boy, said, "We are really glad to have this field house. It's great to go to your locker and not bump into three other guys. We're really proud of our new field house."

Jimmy Stallings, treasurer of the Booster Club, gave the financial report. He said the preliminary estimate of cost was $13,500. A revised estimate brought the figure up to $15,000. The final cost of the field house was $21,675.27. The building has been appraised at being worth around $45,000.

The school board allotted $7,500 to get the program started. The Booster Club was able to match that amount in one year. A year ago the club was overdrawn $85.27 at the bank.

"The thing became a community project," Supt. McMeans said, "everybody chipped in, with time, money, materials." Numerous people donated materials and labor. Thirty-one people gave over a $100 to the cause.

"The field house is something that all of Stanton can be proud of," remarked coach Bill Young.

Stop, And Remain New Law Says

A new state law effective August 30, will no longer permit Texas motorists to stop and then pass a school bus which is loading or unloading children.

Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said the new law, passed by the 62nd Legislature, applies in both cities and rural areas, and requires motorists moving both directions on the same highway with a school bus to stop and remain stopped as long as the flashing lights on the bus are in operation.

Under current law which applies only on rural areas, drivers must stop for a stopped school bus, but may then proceed around it at a speed of not more than 10 miles per hour if safe to do so.

The new law will not require those vehicles on another roadway of a divided highway to stop, and stops are not required if the bus has stopped in a loading zone of a controlled access highway where pedestrians are not permitted to cross.

Two Teachers Hired For Fall

Two extra teachers have been called on to teach the first and the fourth grades. According to Supt. Russell McMeans, there are too many students in these classes for two teachers.

Mrs. Don Tollison will teach the first grade, and Mrs. Mona Elmore will teach fourth grade. The fourth grade class will meet across the street in the next block in a little church building, due to the shortage of space in the elementary building.

Mr. McMeans explained that the state will only allow so many students to a classroom. It was absolutely necessary in this situation to hire two more teachers, and still meet state requirements.

Time To Renew Licenses, Hunting And Fishing

Time to polish up the old smoothbore, dig out the hunting vest, and . . . oh yes, buy a new hunting license.

Texas hunting licenses expire each year on Aug. 31, so hunters should make the purchase of a license part of their regular preparations.

Anglers also need to pick up new fishing licenses — which expire at the same time — before heading for the lake on an autumn bass campaign.

A heavy rush is expected at the state's outlets for license sales as the annual dove season approaches. Each year, more than 800,000 hunting licenses and 1,500,000 fishing licenses are purchased in the state.

A resident hunting license costs $3.25, while the non-resident charge of $25. Fishing licenses are $2.15. Exempting hunting licenses, for those under 17 years of age or over 65, are 25 cents.

A resident of this state may hunt any species of wildlife during any open season, except deer and turkey, in the county where he resides, without a hunting license.

One new requirement makes the purchase of a special $5 white-winged dove stamp mandatory for hunting that species.

Licenses are available from authorized license deputies throughout the state — at sporting good stores, and other retail outlets, as well as department offices.

Hunting licenses include a mule deer back tag, two deer tags, and a bonus antlerless deer tag for use in counties where doe harvest is authorized.

If you plan to hunt waterfowl, and you are 16 years of age or older, a federal waterfowl stamp is needed.

Philosopher Says Airlines Losing Money On Big Politicians Need To Catch On

(Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw, sounds about half-way serious this week).

Dear editor:

Every time somebody gets taken advantage of, somebody wants to pass a law to stop it, and it was with amazement I read an article in a newspaper last night that Congress is considering a law to keep airlines and telephone companies from losing money by prohibiting them from extending unsecured credit to political candidates.

The reason is that the airlines are stuck with more than two million dollars in unpaid debts by political candidates and their campaign organizations, and the telephone companies have nearly $400,000 in similar unpaid bills.

The article pointed out that the debts cross both political party lines, and in addition to the Democrat and Republican National Committees, debtors include Richard Nixon, Hubert Humphrey, and the late Robert Kennedy, and Eugene McCarthy, the unpaid debts running into the thousands of dollars.

So, Congress is considering passing a law protecting the airlines and telephone companies by prohibiting them from extending credit to candidates.

We've got so many laws now I don't guess one more will hurt anything, but it's too bad the airlines and telephone companies aren't smart enough to catch on like newspapers did years ago.

It didn't take newspapers more than one political campaign 50 years ago to find out the most uncollectable debt on earth is one owed by a defeated candidate.

They sized up the situation, and instead of rushing to Congress to get a law passed preventing them from giving credit to political candidates, each newspaper just set up a simple rule: All Political Advertising Is Cash In Advance.

Of course, this eliminated a lot of jobs by bureaucrats combing the country to make sure no newspaper was risking losing money by letting candidates charge their advertising bills, but anybody with any confidence in Washington knows they probably got jobs with some other bureau.

In time, the big airlines and telephone companies may get as smart about human nature and bad debts as The Stanton Reporter, and The Midland Reporter-Telegram.

Your faithfully,
J. A.

Rags to Recipes

By BRENDA NORVILLE

School has begun, and everyone is comparing their new fall wardrobes. From looking at the styles for fall it seems everyone is in style. I read somewhere that every well dressed woman should have all the lengths included in her wardrobe—long mini, and midi. You may not have all of them in your wardrobe, but at least what you have is sure to be in style.

Vests are "in" this year again. The classic vest is still here, but there are also vests in all lengths — from floor length to the little bolero type, and everywhere in between.

Everyone knows how popular pants have become. The pant suits are really great, and can be worn to almost any function. Pants do have a new look this fall though. It seems everything comes in all lengths this year, and pants are no different. There are hot pants, gauchos, knickers, and of course, long pants.

And, have you seen the dog collar necklines. Last year we had dog collars in jewelry, and this year they are attached to the garments. I really like them, and have one on the sewing table now.

Another look I like is the peasant look, and patchwork, floor length skirts.

The fashions this year are really versatile and that's wonderful. If you can't afford many new clothes the old ones are still stylish, and if you can you have many to choose from, and can select what really becomes you.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF

HD Agents Column

It's an open and shut case for sandwiches in August, reports Mrs. Mildred Eiland, County Home Demonstration Agent.

Whether you choose to munch an open-face or closed-face sandwich, you'll find them the answer for meals that are quick, hearty, and nutritious, Mrs. Eiland explains.

Every sandwich, of course, starts with bread. A basic food for centuries, bread is one of the least expensive sources of energy, with about 65 calories per average slice. Besides energy, enriched or whole wheat bread contributes other nutrients. Check labels for a listing of ingredients.

Perk sandwiches up with one of the many varieties of bread, buns, or rolls available, Mrs. Eiland suggests. Choose rye, pumpernickel, French, cheese, garlic, onion, or standard whole wheat and enriched white bread. Also, there are seeded rolls, weiner buns, English muffins, bagels, and biscuits.

For extra convenience, the agent reminds that sandwiches can be frozen. But, use fillings that freeze well, such as canned chicken, fish or turkey; cooked or canned meats and dried beef. On the other hand, remember that hard-cooked egg whites will become tough; raw vegetables will lose their crispness; and mayonnaise or salad dressing will separate and soak into the bread. And for chopped fillings, add binders that freeze well and add new flavor interest, such as lemon, orange or pineapple juice, applesauce or dairy sour cream.

When freezing, wrap sandwiches in vapor-proof material, one in each package. Then label the sandwich with the date and type.

Frozen sandwiches will thaw in about two hours, and they should be eaten soon after.

As a final note, Mrs. Eiland says it's best not to keep sandwiches frozen longer than two weeks.

'71 Buffaloes Strong In Spirit, Desire

By BUDDY NORVILLE
Desire tells the story of the 1971 edition of the Stanton Buffaloes. "They want to play football," coach Bill Young says. This year's team will be weak in depth, but strong in spirit and desire.

The Buffaloes looked good Thursday night against Wink, a class A team. Wink had a larger team, but Stanton moved faster and mixed it up more than Wink. The Stanton defense held Wink to 8½ yards rushing in the first 20 plays they ran the ball. Chipper Coggin did an excellent job on defense. Frankie Barnhill, David Dillard, Michael Adams, and Charles Atchison all looked good on defense.

The Buffalo offense looked especially sharp against the slower Wink defense. Armando Rios ripped and ran for 45 yards in four carries, and one touchdown. Frankie Barnhill turned in an excellent job. The downfield blocking of the backs was superb, breaking the runner loose for long gains several times. The blocking in the line was good. The line is inexperienced, except for one player, all other linemen were either "B" team performers last year, or have been moved from some other position.

The Buffaloes will travel to Roscoe Friday night to take one of the Plowboys in a scrimmage contest. The time is set at 6 p.m.

Probable starter against the Plowboys are: David Chandler, and David Dillard. Chandler

Guards, Bubba Standefer, Steve Douglas, or Charles Atchison. Steve and Charles are converted backs, both aggressive players. Bubba Standefer is a good pulling guard, he can get out front quick. Center, Curt Howard, back from last year. Curt is steady and dependable. Quarterback, Rick Wilson handles the ball like a veteran field general. As good a mechanical QB as there is around, good at calling plays, mixing up the defenses. We will not be weak

FOR NON-LICENSE HOLDERS

New ID Card Available

Colonel Wilson E. Spier, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said today that effective September 1, Texans will be able to obtain a special personal identification card.

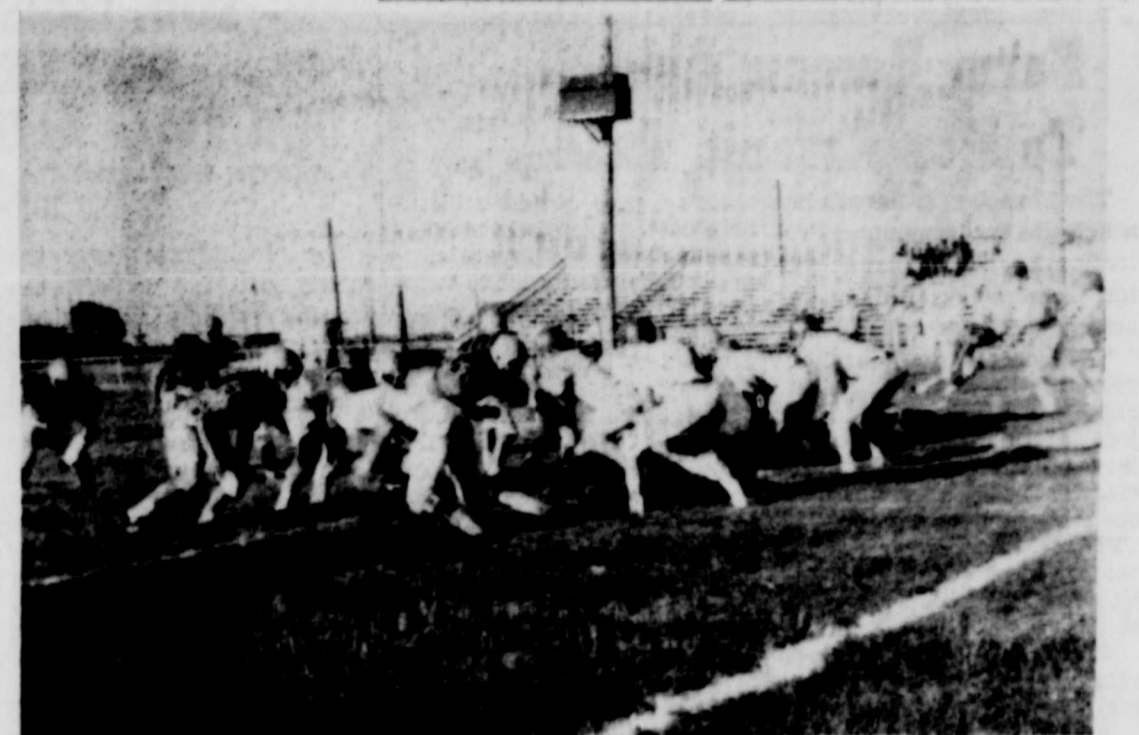

The card, which was authorized by the 62nd Texas Legislature, is laminated and contains a color photograph of the holder. It is the same size as a Texas drivers license.

Information appearing on the card will include the holder's date of birth, height, sex, and eye color. Each card will have a special identification number issued by the DPS.

Spier said the cards should be of value to those persons who do not hold a Texas drivers license, but who need some sort of official card to help establish their identity.

In order to obtain a personal identification card, the applicant must appear at a DPS drivers license field office on or after September 1, execute a special application form, present a birth certificate or other documentary evidence of identity, and date of birth, be fingerprinted, and pay a statutory fee of $5.00. The special cards, which will be mailed from DPS Headquarters in Austin, will be dated to expire four years from in this position. Halfbacks, Dwayne McMeans, and Jackie Swanson. Dwayne looked good leading interference for Armando against Wink. Jackie will back up Ricky at QB. Jackie scored against Wink. Fullback, Chipper Coggin, or Frankie Barnhill, these are two boys that have to be on the field somewhere, at the same time. Both are valuable assets to the team, offense or defense. I wouldn't want to have to choose between them. Don't pay any attention to the pre-season predictions. They're usually about as accurate as the weather man. The Buffaloes may be weak in depth, but it only takes eleven men to make a team.

Buffalo defense lines up to stop Wink. Wink was held to less than ten yards rushing in twenty offensive plays.

Safety Group Praises New States Adopting Tire Safety Requirements

The Tire Industry Safety Council today praised seven new states for furthering the campaign for greater highway safety by outlawing the use of bald tires on vehicles traveling their highways. The seven states adopting requirements this year are: Colorado, Florida, Iowa, Maryland, Texas, Utah, and Washington.

"We still have a long way to go in the campaign to get cars with bald or worn out tires off the road," said Ross R. Ormsby, chairman of the Council. "At present, there are 12 states which have no requirements of any type against unsafe or bald tires even though there are nearly 13 million registered vehicles in those states."

Ormsby said there 29 states which have now set a specific minimum tread depth requirement. In addition to the seven states previously cited, motorists are required to remove tires from their vehicles when the tread is worn to 1/16 inch in the states of Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Indiana, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont, Virginia, Wisconsin, and Wyoming. California and South Carolina require 1/32 inch as a minimum allowable tread depth.

The Council also said there are nine states which require tires to be in a "safe operating condition," but fail to specify a minimum allowable tread depth. These states are: Arkansas, Hawaii, Idaho, Louisiana, Maine, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, and West Virginia. The District of Columbia has a similar requirement.

"Surveys shows that while one percent of all highway accidents, in more than half these cases the tires were bald or worn to the cord," said Ormsby. "Any tire with a tread depth of 1/16 inch or less in two or more adjacent grooves should be removed immediately."

Government tire safety officials agree with the Council. Writing a Department of Commerce consumer publication entitled "Tires — Their Selection and Care," government experts said:

"When your tires are worn down to a tread of 1/16 inch, it is time to replace them. Bald tire endanger not only your and your family, but every motorist you pass on the road."

The Tire Industry Safety Council cited the following states as failing to have any tire safety requirements. Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, Illinois, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, and Tennessee.

Farm Bureau Asks To Use Arsenic Acid

The Texas Farm Bureau has asked the Environmental Protection Agency to permit cotton farmers to continue using arsenic acid as a desiccant.

"We simply do not have available to us any substitute chemical which will do the job of desiccating cotton leaves prior to harvest as efficiently, effectively, or as economically as arsenic acid," TFB President J. T. Woodson said in a letter to EPA Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus.

The state's largest farm organization made the comments in response to an EPA announcement in the Federal Register of July 3, pertaining to continued use of arsenic acid as a desiccant.

Woodson, a cotton, grain, and cattle farmer himself for Fannin County, said that more than 75 percent of the state's present 4.9-million-acre cotton crop is in stripper-type cottons which are normally desiccated prior to stripper harvest.

"Without arsenic acid to use as a desiccant, cotton producers in the foreseeable future would be without a reliable desiccant," Woodson said. "Defoliants used on picker-type cottons do not work satisfactorily for stripper harvest because it is almost impossible to kill and drop all of the leaves of cotton plant with defoliants now in use."

"Other materials are either not available, or might possibly be available at an increased cost which would materially add to total production costs," the TFB president said.

Desiccants kill plants and cause them to dry up. Defoliants cause leaves (or most of them) to fall off.

- SOIL CONSERVATION - DISTRICT NEWS OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH MARTIN-HOWARD-MIDLAND SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT

The recent rains over the county will not benefit the growing crops and grasses, but will aid in establishing cover crops this fall. Several area farmers are preparing land for cover crops to protect the land from wind and water erosion, as well as add organic matter to the soil. Small grains to be used in stripcropping should be drilled by Oct. 1, in order to have adequate growth during the critical erosion period.

Small grains used as cover can provide adequate protection around roads, fence rows and farmsteads. Cover crops such as oats, wheat, rye, and barley can provide protection around stock tanks, drainage areas, and waterways to reduce silt pollution, and control erosion.

Now is a good time to fertilize lawns, with a balanced fertilizer. Bermuda grass that is fertilized in the fall should make adequate growth to provide a good turf before frost. Proper fertilization of Bermuda grass will help the plant develop a deep root system that is needed to carry the plants through the winter months.

Applications are still being received for the Great Plains Conservation Program to carry out a complete conservation program on a farm or ranch. The Soil Conservation Service will cost-share certain practices up to 80 per cent of the actual cost of the item. These practices include such things as range seeding, brush control, parallel terraces, waterways critical area plantings, and others. Anyone interested in the program should contact the Soil Conservation Service.

News Of Insects

By BOBBY GRAVES

The boll weevil may not be a cause of major concern this year. As yet no boll weevils have been observed in Martin County, and according to Mr. Kenneth Parker, entomologist for the Texas Department of Agriculture, no adult weevils were found in St. Lawrence this week.

The bollworms have built up to some extent since the rains, but not in the numbers that were expected. This does not mean we should relax because the bollworm damages are ranging from less than one percent to 12 percent in some fields. Most of the higher damages appeared in the north and east parts of the county. There were a few eggs, and a few millers observed this week but there may be a large number of eggs laid in the next two weeks.

COTTON TALKS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

In this space a couple of weeks ago were printed remarks made by Deonell Echols of Lamesa, president of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., to the effect that farm income from cotton production, and therefore cotton production itself, is facing perilous times. Reference was to that portion of producer income that since 1966 has been in the form of direct Government price support payments which compensate for the difference between cotton's price and the farmer's cost of production, including a meager return to capital, labor, and management.

It was noted that the danger lies in strong and growing opposition to cotton program payments in Congress, and of course producers are dependent on Congress for both legislation and for annual appropriations.

"There is now no doubt that a majority of both the House and the Senate is opposed to farm program payments to producers in proportion to their volume of production," Echols said, "and this situation make it imperative that we begin now to search for another type of farm program that will be acceptable to Congress, or for an alternative source of income."

House Appropriations Committee Chairman George Mahon, who is in an excellent position to assess the mood of Congress, has since expressed his concurrence in Echols' belief. The Congressman said he sees no chance for continuing a direct payments type farm program without a limitation on payments at the $20,000 level — or below.

When Congress stipulates how much a farmer may receive, without considering how much he produces, they are placing farm payments in the category with welfare payments, "and payments on that basis cannot be expected to sustain the cotton industry," Echols states. So the poser becomes "What are the alternatives?"

This question was asked recently at a meeting of the Texas Association of Cotton Producer Organizations (TAC-PO). Discussion did not reveal a pat answer, but some conclusions were reached.

It was agreed that Government aid for the cotton industry in the future, if aid is to be had, and if it is to bear any degree of permanency, will have to be in the form of a "hidden subsidy," such as the subsidies enjoyed by industries getting tax-write-offs and other forms of preferential treatment. The nearest thing to a hidden subsidy, seen in the cotton industry was the pre-1966 high loan program which provided a floor under the market price for cotton at a level reasonably adequate to cover production costs.

But there are severe problems with this approach. A market price for cotton at the higher level, without a subsidy on cotton for export such as was in effect under similar programs of the past, would virtually exclude U. S. cotton from foreign markets. And an export subsidy would take the industry back to "two-price control," which is something to which U. S. mills are violently opposed. Most producer groups, too, and others in the industry would be reluctant to give up the one-price system established under the first direct payments program, the Agriculture Act of 1965.

So for the moment at least, no one appears ready to propose a return to the old high loan approach to cotton's problems. Nor has anyone to date come up with another type farm program which meets the criteria of long-term acceptability to Congress, and to the industry.

Which leaves higher prices to producers in the marketplace as the only other door to continuing cotton production as a commercial enterprise. And there are problems here, too.

Without prices being held up by a high-loan government program, and without creating and maintaining a perpetual short supply situation which would inevitably drive our customers to man-made fibers, keeping the market price of cotton at a level high enough to make production profitable will not be easy. It could be done only if producers had (1) the mechanism for stringent production controls, (2) a means to prevent the price depressing effects of an adequate annual carryover, and (3) tools sharp enough to carve and hold for cotton a significant share of the fiber market against stiff competition from competing fibers and foreign growths.

These are big orders. Orders nothing yet on the horizon can fill. But with the threat that hangs over the head of cotton production in Congress, they are well worth pondering.

Farm Vehicle Driver's Regulations Extended To Jan. 1

Agricultural producers are asking the question: what are the federal farm vehicle driver regulations in effect at the present time? The exemptions were announced on January 7, 1971, and scheduled to expire on July 1, 1971. These exemptions scheduled to expire on July 1, 1971, were extended to January 1, 1972. These exemptions are the ones under which farmers and ranchers are now regulated, and they are as follows:

1. A "farm vehicle driver" is defined as follows:
 - a. At least eighteen years old and driving a vehicle that
 - (1) is controlled and operated by a farmer;
 - (2) is being used to transport the products of that farmer's farm from the farm or is being used to transport supplies to that farmer's farm for use at the farm;

(3) has a gross weight including its load of 10,000 lbs. or less, and

(4) is not being used in the operation of a for-hire carrier.

2. Farm vehicles who meet the standards outlined in point 1 above are exempt from the following portions of the regulations:

- (1) Section 391.11 (b) (1) requiring a driver to be at least 21 years of age.
- (2) All of Subpart C which relates to the disclosure of investigation into and injuries about the background character, and driving record of the driver.

Be Careful, Come Back Alive

By LINDA PERINE
The staff of The Stanton Reporter wish to take this opportunity to wish each and everyone a safe and enjoyable holiday.

The first Monday in September is observed as a legal holiday throughout the United States known as Labor Day. This day is set aside to honor all the millions of working people that they may have a period of rest and recreation.

And of course, Labor Day weekend also means the end of summer. I know you may feel like I do, "I just have to make that trip I've intended on making all summer." If this is the situation, then be careful.

Before you start on your trip think about what the future holds for you and your family! Then, I know you will be careful. Don't do what I do, stop for a coke when you see a cafe or truckstop, or you'll never get there. But, at least don't try to make your trip in half the normal time it takes to get to your destination. "Stop occasionally for a rest." You and your family will enjoy the trip a lot better.

We want you back in your place next Tuesday with no more problems than Bills, Kids, and The FREEZE!
