Senate oks $500 million for education

AUSTIN (AP) — Lawmakers and education officials said more money is needed to equalize funding between rich and poor school districts, but the $500 million increase in public education funding is all the state can afford.

"I think it's as much as can be done under the circumstances," said Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby on Tuesday after the Senate sent the funding bill to the House on a 319 vote.

State Board of Education Chairman Monte Hasie of Lubbock said, "We understand the state's economic difficulties, but we believe that this is a great step forward in an effort to improve adequacy and equity in the school finance system."

But representatives of poor school districts said the $500 million over the next two years was only a Band-Aid.

"It's like you're dying of hunger and you get another meal, so you're going to live another day," said Craig Foster, executive director of the Equity Center, an association comprised of poor schools.

Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, said his funding bill represented the first outlay of a $2 billion state commitment over the next five years to try to erase the disparity between schools in poor and rich areas of the state.

"The longest journey begins with the first step. This puts us on the road to equity," said Parker, who is chairman of the Senate Education Committee.

In addition to the school funding increase, the Senate passed measures that would provide state support for the construction of school buildings and reward school districts that improve student academic performance.

Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, said, "Obviously, we need to do more."

Absentee ballot is record for school

A record absentee voter turnout was counted by Snyder ISD Tuesday on the last day to legally cast ballots prior to this Saturday's regular school board election.

The total of 236 votes for the school closely mirrored the absentee count of 223 for the upcoming city council election. This was not a record for the city, however, which had an absentee total last year of 314.

Clerks for both polling locations reported hectic days both Monday and Tuesday. The absentee levels were around 100 votes at both locations Friday, indicating the final two days produced more than twice this number.

The absentee ballot began here April 17.

Candidate withdrawal vote scenario offered

The withdrawal of school board incumbent trustee Ken Branam from this Saturday's election does not erase the possibility that he might be elected to the post.

If this occurred, however, who would ultimately fill the position would be decided by an appointment of school board members.

These facts were learned Wednesday by Snyder school officials, who were in contact with the Texas Secretary of State's office.

The deadline to officially withdraw as a candidate has passed for this Saturday's election.

Since ballots of the election have already been printed, Branam's name will still be listed among four candidates for two seats on the board.

Candidates still seeking the posts are incumbent Luann Burleson, Sam Robertson and Mark Zeck, whose answers to SDN-posed questions related to their candidacy are included in this issue.

Assuming Branam is not among the top two vote-getters Saturday, the question of his can-

District to offer 911 aid

Ray Peveler, chief appraiser, gave a brief review concerning the progress of 911 emergency service to the community at Tuesday's regular monthly meeting of the Scurry County Appraisal District board of directors.

The city and county have requested that appraisal staff prepare numerical addresses for each house in the county, he noted.

The board agreed to help in the effort as long as appraisal funds were not used in the project. Peveler estimated it would take two extra people some six months to a year to finish assigning addresses to the whole county with costs to be absorbed by city and county funds.

During Tuesday's session, the board reviewed also an audit report prepared by Davis.

Mobile home lost in Tuesday blaze

A mobile home was almost completely consumed by flames in a 4:10 p.m. Tuesday fire at Ave. M and Lear Ave. in northern Snyder.

Firemen in five trucks fought the blaze until 6 p.m. but were hampered by the structure's being "fully involved" with flames by the time they arrived, a department spokesman said.

A half-dozen firefighters and 22 volunteers responded to the call and were able to save one room in the home, which was occupied by the Michael Lindsey family.

Mrs. Lindsey, three months pregnant, had inhaled smoke and was examined in the Cogdell Memorial Hospital emergency room, where she was treated and released.

The spokesman said the blaze was believed to have been started by a child playing with a cigarette lighter.

Other Tuesday fire calls included a grass fire started by lightning at 4:50 p.m. on property owned by Joe Lemley 26 miles southwest of Snyder in Borden County, where Pct. 3 and Borden County roadgraders were employed.

Handicapped by heavy tree growth, city firemen stayed at the scene until 9:30 p.m. and said Borden County firemen were there until around midnight.

A 12:52 p.m. Tuesday trash fire off the 300 Block of the Old Lubbock Hwy. on property owned by Weldon Schwan occupied firemen for about an hour, with a department spokesman reporting that a man using a cutting torch had started the blaze.

Former resident faces charges for 'pyramid'

A pyramid scheme involving imaginary airplane flights, which hit the Garden City, Kan. area two years ago, has resulted in charges against a former Snyder man this week, the Associated Press reported today.

Glenn Polk, 43, of Ransom Canyon near Lubbock, was charged Monday with four felonies — two counts of selling unregistered securities, one of engaging in business as a broker-dealer or agent without having been registered, and unlawful acts in connection with the offering for sale of securities.

Polk, who faces a preliminary hearing June 20 in Finney County District Court, is free on $5,000 bond.

Kansas Securities Commissioner M. Douglas Mays, Topeka, launched an investigation into the Airplanes game in late summer of 1987, calling it a pyramid scheme that violated state securities law.

Authorities said the game involved recruiting eight "passengers" who paid $1,500 to the "pilot" to board an imaginary flight. Then, the flight split into two flights, with the passengers advancing to crew member status and with more passengers recruited for the game.

The object is to progress to pilot status and collect $12,000 from passengers on an original investment of $1,500. The game depends on recruiting more and more people to play.

The criminal complaint against Polk alleges he misled people by not telling them about risk factors or the past history of Airplanes, including that legal action had been taken against the game in several states. It also said he misled them by not telling them he was not registered with the state securities office.

Mays has said Polk is the only person who will face criminal charges for Airplanes, but he had notified 104 people, many of them Finney Countians, of his office's

Heat-air business now open

A new heating and air-conditioning business has opened in Snyder, owned and operated by Mark Lyle and located at 405 North Lubbock Highway.

A grand opening for the operation is now scheduled next Monday.

Lyle has earned certification in repairs at both Houston Community College and TSTI in Sweetwater. He recently received his state license for air conditioning and refrigeration work.

Lyle Heating and Air-Conditioning is also bonded and insured.

The equipment line offered through the firm will be the Rheem brand of heating and air-

The feller on Deep Creek says, "People who never make mistakes make poor companions."

At a recent gathering of newspaper folks in Texas, the majority were moaning the impact of the soft Texas economy on their revenues.

There was one session on how to diversify the newspaper operation to make up for lost business. Some were realistic and others were more pie-in-the-sky, such as the suggestion to breed bugs to clean up the environment.

It was a few days later that a new idea came across our desk. An article told about a newspaper publisher in California who is trying to cash in on what newspapers get the most of — criticism.

You might know it would have its beginning in California. A reader got mad at her hometown newspaper and fired off a letter to the editor. The newspaper printed it and then promptly sued her for libel and slander.

Now that's innovative. Libel experts say they've never heard of a newspaper suing a reader for statements the newspaper itself printed.

It started when the woman decided to do battle with a 2,000-circulation weekly after it published a badly garbled article profiling a candidate she supported in a local election. Always a handy excuse, the newspaper blamed the errors on "computer problems."

The woman said profiles of two opposing candidates ran without errors. She chastised the newspaper, "You must feel all of your readers are bunch of imbeciles not to figure out what is going on." She demanded that her letter not be edited, so she asked that it be run as a paid ad. They did, for $560, and then sued her for unspecified damages.

A judge has dismissed the libel part of the suit, but the slander question remains. The woman claims she can't afford further legal action, but so far has resisted the price the newspaper wants for dropping the suit: a written statement recanting her charge that it had intentionally wrong her candidate.

Whatever the economy, we'd rather take our tongue-lashings than ever have to go to court.

DECA entries return

Snyder High School seniors Bobbie Earnest and Andrea Casas are back from representing the SHS chapter of the Distributive Education Clubs of America at the national DECA contest in Orlando, Fla.

Faculty sponsor Jim Rosson said 14 finalists were chosen from among the 83 statewide winners from around the nation and no Texas chapters were national finalists.

Snyder's DECA chapter was chosen a statewide winner for its "Free Enterprise...It's Essential!" entry in judging in Houston last month.

The contest was held last Wednesday through Saturday in

Q. — Reference the city charter amendment election, will we vote once for the entire package or will we vote for each individual proposal?

A. — Voters must decide each individual proposal, and there are 31. The vote is by paper ballot and it, to include the city council positions, is 37 pages long.

In Brief

Bell layoffs

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Military contractors threaten to shut down their troubled tilt-rotor aircraft program Friday and begin layoffs of up to 2,000 employees Monday unless federal funding keeps the project alive, a published report says today.

Quoting Pentagon sources and citing documents, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram says cost overruns during the early stages of developing the V-22 Osprey and unanticipated government financing requirements prompts the move.

Bell Helicopter Textron Inc. and its V-22 partner, Boeing Helicopter Co. of Philadelphia, said in a letter to the Navy they will not have enough money to continue the program past Friday.

Space concert

HOUSTON (AP) — Singer Kenny Rogers boosted the spirits of 15,000 NASA employees, their families and friends and introduced a pair of new songs in a free, open-air concert at the Johnson Space Center.

Rogers, the product of a Houston housing project, was joined Tuesday evening by country singers Dolly Parton and Willie Nelson on the stage erected beside the space center's rocket park.

The concert was taped and will be shown as a one-hour special May 20 on NBC.

The special will include the premiere of Rogers' new song and video, "Planet Texas," a tale of a Texas cowboy who encounters three horsemen from outer space.

Rogers described "Planet Texas" as a "high-tech Western" that includes a fantasy about time travel.

Local

Bands due

Stage bands for both the Snyder Junior High School and Snyder High School will offer a concert Thursday at 7 p.m. in Worsham Auditorium.

The musical event is expected to last approximately one hour.

Annual spring concerts for both bands are also scheduled this month.

The junior high and beginner's band will play in concert May 18; and the high school band will perform May 23.

Airline likes favorable verdict

FORT LAUDERDALE (AP) — Delta Air Lines, which is trying to force taxpayers to pay for damages in the deadly 1985 crash of Flight 191 in Texas, praised the first verdict clearing the carrier of liability in the accident.

A federal jury decided Tuesday that the carrier wasn't responsible for the crash that killed 137 people at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport because the plane's crew didn't know about deadly wind-shear conditions before landing.

"This confirms our belief that neither Delta nor its pilots caused the accident and shows that the pilots were not aware of the dangerous storm they were flying into," the Atlanta-based airline said in a statement.

Other juries around the nation have ordered damage awards to Flight 191's survivors and families of some of the 137 people who died in the crash, but only the value of lives, not the question of liability, was at issue.

The suit that led to Tuesday's judgment was brought by the family of Sidney Bernstein, 40, of Fort Lauderdale, who was killed when the Lockheed L-1011 jet, en route from Fort Lauderdale-Hollywood International Airport to Los Angeles, crashed during a violent thunderstorm on Aug. 2, 1985.

For Delta, which has maintained its innocence, the verdict was a vindication and strengthened its hopes in other cases pending nationwide that are trying to establish that Delta was at fault.

Tuesday's verdict also could affect a lawsuit brought by Delta in Fort Worth against the federal government.

Delta has claimed in its suit that meteorologists and air-traffic controllers failed to inform the crew of the worsening weather and wants the government to pay all or part of the claims facing the airline. The crash reportedly resulted from wind shear that threw the jet to the ground.

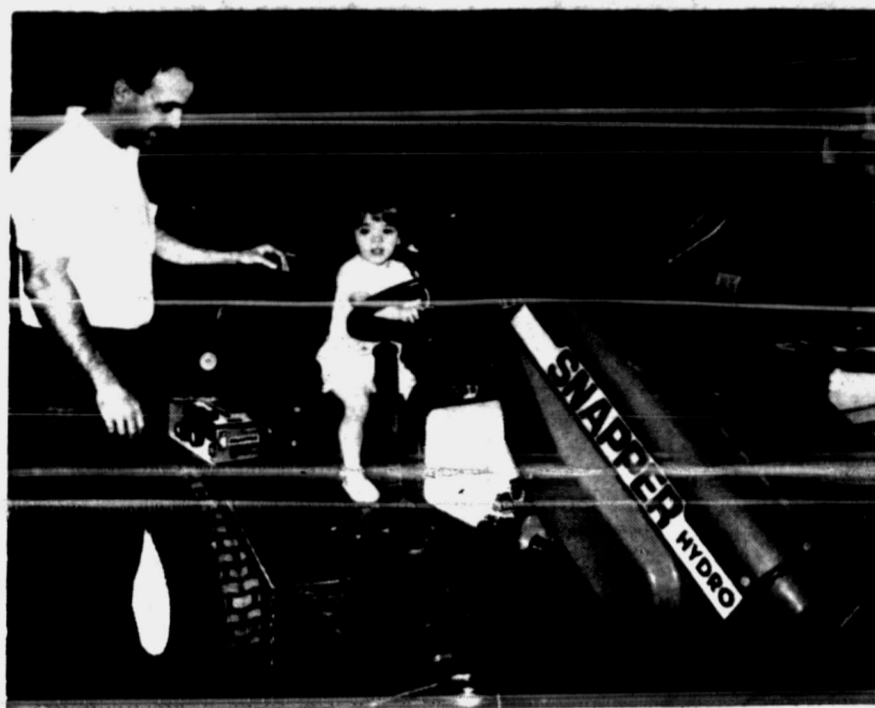

That non-jury trial, the longest major aviation trial in U.S. history, ended last week. U.S. District Judge David Belew has said he may not rule for months on who was to blame for the crash.

Delta and its insurance companies already have paid more than $66 million in death, injury and damage claims from the Flight 191 crash, and the total is expected to exceed $100 million. In those cases, survivors who brought lawsuits against Delta and its insurance companies have waived the question of liability before stepping into courtrooms.

Bernstein's family wanted Delta to admit responsibility for the crash and to pay damages to the family for lost wages he would have provided had he lived. The jury's verdict resulted in no damages being awarded.

The family's attorney, Stephen Walker, argued during the trial that the plane's pilot "willfully and intentionally" flew into the thunderstorm that caused the crash.

But Delta attorney Howard Barwick said key evidence in the trial came from a private pilot who landed at the Dallas-Fort Worth airport seconds before the Delta jet crashed.

DR. GOTT PETER GOTT, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I am 83 years old. When I begin eating a meal, my nose immediately starts running and I begin to sneeze. This is very irritating to me. Can you give me an idea what might be causing this problem?

DEAR READER: You might have an allergy or a condition called vasomotor rhinitis, an annoying nasal drainage triggered by various stimuli, including odors and changes in environmental temperature. I suggest you see an allergist for two reasons: You need a diagnosis and, if you do have an allergy, the specialist can help you. Vasomotor rhinitis has no known cause and treatment is often unsatisfactory; however, other forms of runny nose are treatable.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Over the past 25 years I've gotten a cold after the first chill in September and it lasts through winter and spring. I've tried everything. On a hunch I tried vitamin E and it works. What does medical science know about vitamin E in the treatment of colds?

DEAR READER: No reputable scientific study has shown supplemental vitamin E to be of any health benefit in normal adults.

The vitamin is widely distributed in foods (especially vegetable oils); deficiencies in normal people are rare enough to be medical curiosities. An occasional patient with peripheral vascular disease (blocked arteries) may experience improvement in circulation, but the usefulness of vitamin E in aiding circulation, preventing heart disease, improving sexual performance, treating the common cold and lowering blood pressure is unproved.

I'm not suggesting that you imagined your improvement; I am saying that, as a general rule, such a result would be unusual. Ask your doctor about this.

For more information, I am sending you copies of my Health Reports "Fads I — Vitamins and Minerals" and "Vitamin E." Other readers who would like copies should send $1.25 for each report with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have a fungus infection under my big toe nail. Once you gave the name of a tea to soak it in and I forgot the name. Will you please repeat the information?

DEAR READER: LaPacha tea, also known as Pau d'Arco in health-food stores, is said to cure chronic fungus infection of the toenails.

One nurse wrote to me, indicating that she "used one teaspoon per cup of water, heated it very hot, then soaked the feet once a day until the solution became cold. Within three days, the pain was gone. In two weeks, so was the infection."

If you choose to use LaPacha tea, let me know if it is effective.

Disguise gets pop superstar in trouble

SIMI VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Pop superstar Michael Jackson donned a disguise to do a little shopping and all it managed to do was attract attention.

Police were called to a jewelry store after employees reported a suspicious person was casing the joint. The suspicious person turned out to be the Grammy Award-winning singer wearing a wig, fake mustache, false teeth and eyelashes.

Jackson and an unidentified 12-year-old boy had gone into the store Monday to look at rings.

"I asked him 'Why are you wearing a false mustache?'" said H.N. Edwards, a security guard for the Sycamore Plaza shopping center. "He said 'I have to — I'm in disguise — I'm Michael Jackson.' When he told me this, my first thought was this guy had gotten off the elevator between floors."

Police Sgt. Ken Tacke and Officer Gordon Weeks said they questioned Jackson, and asked him to remove his disguise and show his identification.

"He told the police he has to wear a disguise when he goes shopping or he would be mobbed by the crowds," Edwards said.

Whole town goes fishing in annual celebration

SEYMOUR, Texas (AP) — The bank was closed but it wasn't a government holiday. So were dozens of other businesses along Main Street, where the town square was also deserted. Everybody went fishing. Practically the entire West Texas town of 3,657 took the day off Monday. Fish Day each year is dedicated to the pursuit of striped bass at Lake Kemp, eight miles north of town.

NOTICE TO THE VOTERS AND TAXPAYERS OF SCURRY COUNTY

In 1988 our present city council submitted three possible road projects to the Texas State Highway Department for funding, giving 37th St. its highest priority. The state approved the 37th St. project because the money needed for the 37th St. project happened to be the amount the state had to spend. The city council then unanimously voted to accept the state's plan to widen 37th St. from College to Crockett. The only traffic count made to date was one from College to Ave. V. At that time, the count did not justify re-installing the traffic light at Ave. V, but this was done anyway.

When the council first announced the 37th St. plan, it was to cost $661,000. After checking with state highway officials Friday, May 28, the cost is now estimated to be $805,200. The increase is supposed to cover redesigning the property from Crockett to El Paso, mostly on the north side.

These funds do not include purchasing the right of way from Austin to College or the moving of any utilities. City taxpayers will have to bear these expenses. Businessmen along 37th St. must also bear the expected losses their businesses will suffer during construction. When it is difficult to enter a business due to road construction, many customers go elsewhere and some never return.

At a time when property values have dropped drastically, and there are so many for sale signs in front of homes all over Snyder, is it really wise to lower the property value of an entire residential street still further? Saturday, May 6, we vote for city council. We urge you to make changes for better representation.

Some years ago another city council gave permission to close the west end of 36th St. where it enters El Paso Street. The council said it was not needed. What will be next?

If you as a voter and taxpayer think this is too much money to be spent on a residential street, or think the needed funds would be better spent elsewhere in Snyder, or not spent at all, then please join the property owners of 37th Street and other interested citizens in attending a public meeting to be announced in this newspaper in the near future. The state's final decision will be made 10 days after that meeting. If you want to support property owner's rights, low taxes and the business community in Snyder, clip the accompanying notice, sign it and mail it to:

As a voter & taxpayer of the city of Snyder I oppose the city council and Texas State Highway Department project of widening & redesigning 37th St. from College to El Paso.

Explosion prompts caution

HOUSTON (AP) — The explosion that killed 167 workers aboard the Piper Alpha oil platform in the turbulent North Sea last year already has affected the way other companies conduct offshore exploration, despite the absence of a final report on the accident, industry executives said.

"I think what is very clear is that all of the operators in the UK immediately following that did go back in and take a very close look at their operations," Keith H. Taylor, managing director of Esso Exploration and Production U.K. Ltd., said during a Tuesday panel discussion at the annual Offshore Technology Conference. "And based on the discussions that I've had, I believe different people have found different areas that they felt needed to be tightened up."

The British government's Department of Energy said in a preliminary technical report last year that the cause of the explosion and fire was a buildup of gas following a leak in the platform's gas compression module.

A full-scale, government-ordered inquiry, headed by a senior judge, Lord Douglas Cullen, opened in the east coast Scottish oil port city of Aberdeen last January. Although the investigation is not complete, executives from oil companies involved in offshore exploration say the initial report already has prompted changes.

William K. Dietrich, executive vice president of international exploration and production for Conoco Inc., said the findings have affected operations beyond the stormy North Sea.

"Those of us with worldwide operations began acting on this as soon as we got the interim report out of the Department of Energy with regard to the sequence of events, even though we won't know precisely what happened until we get the Cullen recommendations," Dietrich said.

"One of the early reports of the Department of Energy was that a lot of the problems with the Piper Alpha dealt with smoke and the inability to get to survival suits," he said. "So right now on our new UK facilities, smoke hoods and survival suits are in each bedroom in the (living) quarters."

Conoco has also revised the position of certain pump units aboard their offshore units, and an official for the French oil company, Elf Aquitaine, said they also revised several safety procedures after the Piper Alpha blast.

Yves Lesage, executive vice president of exploration and production for Elf Aquitaine, said the company has improved the transfer of information from one work shift to another, altered safety plans for the formation of work areas and simplified emergency response systems.

Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor of the telephone, tolerated no telephone in his study.

LITTLE LEAGUE Cubs 20, White Sox 10

Brock Gard scattered three singles and Damian Medrano punched a double and a single as the Cubs drilled the White Sox on Tuesday. Also hitting for the Cubs, 2-0 now, were David Smith and Tommy Torres, a double each, and Patrick Jordan and winning pitcher Page Patterson, one single apiece.

For the White Sox, 1-1, Nathan Zalman rapped a home run and a single; Curt Rinehart powered a double and a single; Ramsey Costillo hit a double; and Bubba Hildebrand, Ronnie Myers and Chris Riggins added one single apiece. Matt Parker took the loss.

Athletics 12, Indians 4

Lionel Aviles slammed two home runs and a double to lead the Athletics to victory over the Indians in this game.

The Indians, 0-2, were not credited with a hit in the game, which saw Lee Idom walk away with WP honors.

Others hitting for the A's, 2-0, were Jason Jack, Kyle Lewis and Orlando Martinez, one double apiece; and Jason York and Reagan Key, one single each.

FARM LEAGUE Athletics 13, Indians 11

Garbiel Rios punched a triple and a single and Chris Guzman added a triple to help the A's outlast the Indians on Tuesday.

Also hitting for the winners were Eric Tovar, a double; and Jamie Juarez, Jim Hill, Johathan Tovar and Jessie Guzman, one single apiece.

Shannon McNeil slapped a triple and a double for the Indians. Hitting one single apiece were Michael Burton, Gabriel Vasquez and Casey Fitzgerald.

White Sox 17, Cubs 5

Juan Robledo slugged a trio of singles as the White Sox dominated the Cubs in Farm League action this week.

Chris Mackey hit a triple for the winners while John Border launched a double and Harley Burnett added two singles. Jimmy Murphy, Bryan Billings and David Hicks popped one single apiece.

Hitting for the Cubs were Chad Keith, John Purcell and Clark Church, a triple apiece; Paul O'Connor and Heath Porter, a double and a single each; and Cory Chester and James Tatum, one double each.

8-9 YEAR OLD LEAGUE Athletics 16, Braves 11

Eric Lang drilled a triple, two doubles and a single and Max Hochwalt added two doubles to lift the Athletics past the Braves.

Also getting hits for the A's were James Allen Shields, three singles; Adrian Vanderpool, a triple and a single; Donny Ray, a double; Cory McDorman and Alex Pena, two singles each; and Jeffrey Cervantez, Lucas Wood, Michael Hensley and Jacob Medrano, one single apiece.

Hitting for the Braves were Chris Halbert, two triples and a single; Johnny Pena, a triple and a double; Zack Briseno, a double and two singles; Brandon Rollins, a double and a single; Jacob Hodges, two singles; and Clegg Knight, Gainey Johnson and Marissa Huffman, one single apiece.

Pirates 18, Yankees 13

There were 46 hits listed in this contest, played Tuesday night. Tyrell Sterling slammed a home run and two doubles for the Pirates while teammate Cory Trujillo added a homer and two singles. Also hitting for the Pirates were Cory Mandrell, two triples, a double and a single; Clay Berryman, a triple and two singles; Jim Chisum, a triple and a single; Russell Havner, a double and a single; Cory Trujillo and Jack Hedges, two singles each; and Steven Burton, Joe Havner, Tim Gentry, Ben Brown and Jacob Rodriguez, one single apiece.

Getting hits for the Yankees were Chris Jones, a home run, a double and a single; Chad Chaney, a home run and a single; John McHenry, three doubles; A.J. Jones, a double and a single; Brandon Slaughter, Christopher Bailey and Josh Treat, one double apiece; Steven Pownell, two singles; and Joe Mac Chaney, Jason Eckert and Banks Alexander, one single apiece.

Brandt is last to go; not even a handshake

IRVING, Texas (AP) - For days, Gil Brandt dreaded to hear the telephone ring.

He knew owner Jerry Jones and coach Jimmy Johnson were debating the fate of his Dallas Cowboys' scouting department.

"It's kind of like being staked out on an ant hill while somebody gave you Chinese water torture," said Brandt, 57. "Then in one call I went from being in the mansion to being in a pup tent."

The "turk" did call and the purge was complete of the men who built the Cowboys from an expansion team in the 1960s to Super Bowl champions.

Brandt was the last member of the original foursome who built the Cowboys from scratch.

"He told me finances was the reason, that he's losing $29,000 a day," Brandt said. "He'll probably fire four or five scouts including Bob Griffin."

"I told him I know I did as good a job as possible. I feel good about the 29 years I had with the Cowboys. But it's a bad way for it to end. He didn't even shake my hand. These guys are over their heads."

Jones said the Cowboys' 10-year drought in landing top talent wasn't the reason Brandt was let go.

"We just felt the way we wanted to go in the scouting department was without Gil," Jones said.

The three-way management team of Tex Schramm, Landry and Brandt took the Cowboys to 20 consecutive winning seasons (1966-85), including five Super Bowl appearances and two victories. Jones also has fired public relations director Doug Todd, a member of the front office staff since 1971, Don Wilson, club treasurer for 18 years, Ann Lloyd, assistant ticket manager, and Bob Friedman, director of photographic services, who had been with the club 28 years.

Joe Bailey, Schramm's assistant since 1977, fled the purge to join Schramm in the IFL as did Suzanne Mitchell, director of the Cowboys' cheerleaders.

On March 2, Brandt said Jones told the front office people in a meeting: "Let me put your minds at ease. You don't have a lifetime contract but if you do your jobs that's good enough for me."

Schramm said he hated to see all the people he hired "cast aside in a needless manner. It also hurts to see them described as 'fat.' They worked many long hours to make the Cowboys into what they are today. The manner in which this has happened has surprised me."

Brandt said Jones asked him: "Can I call on you from time to time to help us?"

Brandt said "I told him: No thanks."

Takes over District 4-4A lead...

Snyder ropes Mustangs, 9-5

Coach Albert Lewis got all he asked for and more here Tuesday.

For starters, his Snyder High School Tigers chalked their third straight win, a 9-5 outing over the Sweetwater Mustangs. And, they did it with a good effort from Bert Otto, thereby saving their number one and two pitchers for upcoming road games Friday and next Tuesday.

If that wasn't enough to ask for, Lewis also saw the Tigers take over sole possession of first place in District 4-4A. Snyder had gone into Tuesday night action tied with Fort Stockton, but the deadlock was broken when Monahans outlasted the Panthers 11-7.

Snyder, now 17-7 overall and 9-3 in the 4-4A, goes head-to-head with the Panthers this Friday, meeting in Fort Stockton for a 7 p.m. ballgame. The Tigers complete regular-season play next Tuesday in Big Spring. Game time is 4 p.m.

In other 4-4A outings last evening, Big Spring defeated Lake View 15-6 while Andrews blanked Pecos 4-0. Those wins, coupled with the Panthers' loss, left Fort Stockton, Big Spring and Andrews knotted for second place in the standings with 8-4 records. Pecos dropped to 7-5.

In addition to the Tigers' key game with Fort Stockton on Friday, Big Spring is at Monahans and Andrews plays Lake View in San Angelo. On Saturday, Sweetwater, now 5-15, 1-11, visits Pecos.

Tuesday's Games: Snyder 9, Sweetwater 5; Monahans 11, Fort Stockton 7; Andrews 4, Pecos 0; Big Spring 15, Lake View 6.

Friday's Games: Snyder at Fort Stockton, Big Spring at Monahans, Andrews at SA Lake View.

Saturday's Game: Sweetwater at Pecos.

Tuesday's ballgame here started out as a slugfest and ended as a pitcher's duel. Mustang relief pitcher Tim Holsey, in fact sat down the final 10 batters he faced. But the damage had been done.

It was a shaky beginning for Otto, the Tigers' regular short stop who was making only his fourth start of the season on the hill. Joe Sanchez greeted the out five times. Both teams committed three errors.

Terry Stephens rapped a home run for Snyder. Others getting hits were Richard Morris, Joe Martinez and Blair Williams, two each; and Espinosa, John Conter, Jason Taylor and Ronnie Pruitt, one apiece.

Snyder ended the season with a 7-11 record.

senior right hander with a one-out home run in the first inning. Next-up Ken Norman singled and scored on a triple from Roland Petty. Otto then got Alex Gonzales out on a fielder's choice and fanned Renee Mendoza.

If Sweetwater ruffled Otto temporarily, Snyder batsmen treated Mustang starter Leroy Kilgore down-right rude. Leadoff batter Isrrael Hinojos walked and scored on a double from Randy Morris. Tommy Lane followed with a walk. Designated hitter John Wright then punched Kilgore for a single that brought Morris home and tied the game at 2-2. The lead became Snyder's moments later when Tracy Odom singled to send Lane dashing home.

Snyder put the game away in the second inning. Morris got the Tigers started with a one-out single. Lane, Wright and Odom all followed suit. Wright's single brought in Morris and Lane for a 5-2 lead. After Odom also slapped a basehit, Kilgore was replaced with Holsey.

Holsey, a left hander, struggled early also. He issued walks to Otto and Mark Kuss to load the bases, then gave a free pass to Toby Goodwin to push courtesy runner Jamey Morton home with another run. Jason West followed with a two-run single, 9-2, before Holsey could get out of the inning.

Holsey, who was a pick-up player from Sweetwater on the Tigers' senior summer league baseball team last season, kept Snyder in control after the second inning. He gave up just one more hit - an Otto double in the third.

Meanwhile, Otto kept the Mustangs under control. Sweetwater scored three more runs, all of which were unearned. In the fifth, Sanchez reached on an error and scored on an error. In the sixth, Holsey hit a shot into the gap and managed to get all the way home when the ball got past the Tiger outfield. Later in the inning, Pete Cantu walked and scored on a Roland Petty infield single to give the game its final 9-5 score.

Otto, now 4-0, gave up nine hits, struck out nine and walked two, unofficially. Sweetwater pitching allowed nine hits, walked nine and struck out four.

Morris went two-for-three for Snyder while Wright and Odom were both two-for-four.

Three teams complete sweep in first-round NBA playoffs

by The Associated Press
The networks aren't the only ones having a sweeps month in May.

Detroit, New York, Golden State and Phoenix completed 3-0 sweeps in their first-round, best-of-5 NBA playoffs Tuesday night, and two more series could end that way tonight.

The biggest shocker was Golden State, which finished eight games behind Utah in the Western Conference standings. The Warriors won 120-106 at home Tuesday night after winning twice at Salt Lake City over the favored Jazz.

In other games Tuesday, the Pistons ended Boston's shortest playoff season in 33 years with a 100-85 victory; the Knicks won their third straight close game over Philadelphia with a 116-115 decision in overtime; Phoenix overcame a 23-point second-half deficit to sweep Denver 130-121; and Milwaukee took a 2-1 lead over Atlanta by winning 117-113 in overtime.

In tonight's games, it's Cleveland at Chicago, Seattle at Houston and the Los Angeles Lakers at Portland. The Lakers and Sonics lead 2-0 and the Cavaliers and Bulls are tied 1-1.

Chris Mullin scored 35 points, including nine during a game-breaking 25-5 run midway through the second half for the Warriors, who were 20-62 last season.

Rookie of the Year Mitch Richmond added 26 points and 11 rebounds for the Warriors, who play Phoenix in the Western Conference semifinals. Terry Teagle had 24 points and Rod Higgins grabbed 14 rebounds for Golden State.

John Stockton had a career playoff-high 34 points and 16 assists and Karl Malone had 33 points and 14 rebounds for Utah.

Woman's injuries are linked to purse theft

A suspect has been identified in an incident last week in which an 81-year-old woman was pulled down by a car, with police saying the incident will be dealt with as an aggravated robbery.

A city detective said a 28-year-old Spanish male is a suspect in the case and that two more individuals might have been involved.

Thelma Ross of 2902 Ave. Z was walking in the 2900 Block of O last Thursday night when someone in a gray car reportedly grabbed her purse and pulled her down as the car drove away, the detective said. She was held for 23-hour observation and treated for scalp and arm contusions at Cogdell Memorial Hospital before being released the next afternoon.

She was found lying in the street at 10:33 p.m., and police said their investigation was aided by witnesses who saw the incident.

Ross initially told police that she did not know what had happened and that her purse might have gotten caught in the side mirrors of the car.

intent to issue cease and desist orders to them.

Those people had the option to file affidavits asking for a review of the matter. Mays has said several people have done so and he expects some will successfully argue that they were not directly involved in Airplanes. Cease and desist orders will not be issued in such cases, he said.

The orders warn people they could face felony charges if they participate in Airplanes again or violate any securities laws.

Mays said it's impossible to know just how much money changed hands in Airplanes, but estimated it could be $1 million. Authorities believe the game was spreading to counties east of Finney County when the securities office investigation put a halt to it.

Parked truck said damaged

Police investigated two minor traffic accidents Tuesday in which parked vehicles were damaged, the first at 4:40 p.m. in the 200 Block of 34th St., where a parked 1985 Ford utility truck owned by the city was struck by a 1985 Chevrolet driven by Ray Summers of 2605 Ave. V.

In an incident discovered at 4:55 p.m. in the 3400 Block of Jacksboro Ave., an unknown vehicle and driver struck a parked 1987 Ford pickup owned by Reef Chemical Co.

Exxon products boycott unfair

By The Associated Press

The one-day boycott of Exxon products around the country is the start of a "war of words and actions" against the nation's largest oil company over its huge Alaskan spill, environmentalists and politicians say.

The campaign Tuesday met with mixed results in scattered cities and dissents from independent service stations who say they're victims of the spill, too.

"I just think the end result is not going to be to hurt the people who are responsible," said Evan Jaeger, who manages an Exxon station in Elmwood Park, N.J. "It's going to hurt the little guy trying to make a living."

Exxon issued a statement calling the boycott unjust, and a company executive defended the cleanup of the spill.

"We cannot undo what happened," said Exxon U.S.A. President William D. Stevens in Houston. "However, we can, and we are, taking every possible action to limit the damage, clean up the mess, and otherwise mitigate the impacts."

But consumer activist Ralph Nader said Exxon "should not be allowed to forget" the nation's worst oil spill and that a boycott was the way to send a message to the oil giant.

Nader joined representatives from several environmental and consumer groups in accusing Exxon of failing to be prepared for the spill and not rapidly responding to the accident that has fouled hundreds of miles of Alaska's coast.

Exxon spokeswoman Sarah Johnson said 10,000 credit cards out of 7 million have been returned to the company since the March 24th spill.

Exxon said it had received no reports from dealers of a loss in volume of gasoline sold as a result of the credit-card return or from boycotts.

Only about 5 percent, or 620, of the 12,400 Exxon brand stations in the United States are owned and operated by the company. The rest are independent.

J. Edward Surette Jr., executive director of the Bay State Gasoline Retailers Association in Billerica, Mass., said his group did a statewide survey of dealers Tuesday but it was too early to assess the impact of the boycott.

"The Exxon dealer had no more to do with that oil spill than the barber who last cut your hair," said Surette, saying it was unfair for consumers to vent their anger at dealers.

Rallies supporting the boycott were held in Portland, Ore., Boston and Anchorage, where about 400 chanting and sign-waving protesters rallied in front of Exxon's Alaska headquarters.

"We are beginning the war of words and actions against any oil company that doesn't understand its responsibility to protect the environment," declared state Sen. Carol Amick, lead organizer of the boycott movement in Massachusetts.

In Portland, more than 100 people rallied in the shadow of Alaskan oil tankers being repaired at the shipyard where the ruptured Exxon Valdez is scheduled to be inspected next month.

In Eugene, Ore., three dozen protesters picketed an Exxon gasoline station, chanting such things as "Cut the card, save the Earth."

"We need to show Exxon that massive environmental destruction is more than just bad public relations: It is bad business," Marc Osten, of the State Public Interest Research Group, said in Portland. "We must boycott them until the Gulf of Alaska is clean, until innocent victims are compensated and until we are assured that this will never happen again."

The Alaskan spill and an explosion at a North Sea oil rig have heightened concerns over gasoline supplies for the summer's peak driving season. Crude oil prices have risen more than $7 a barrel since January.

Dear Abby

Mom Wants to Pull the Plug On Son's High Electric Bills

By Abigail Van Buren

© Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am a divorced woman living on a very low disability income. My grown son lives with me. I try to conserve on everything I can, but he uses water and gas to heat the water for the 20-minute shower he takes every morning. He works 40 hours a week, goes to the YMCA to work out, and he's with his girlfriend the rest of the time. He eats all his meals out, but he comes home to sleep. The minute he gets home, he turns the TV on, and leaves it on while he sleeps! He often falls asleep with the lights on.

He runs up my electric bill with his radio, electric hair blower and his electric shaver. And he can't take a drink of water without letting the water run for five minutes. He's too lazy to look up telephone numbers, so he calls information, which is charged to my bill. (Can't he add?)

He gives me a lousy $20 a week out of the $160 take-home pay he gets, and he complains yet. I think he's getting a good deal. If you agree with me, please print this so I can show it to my son.

FED UP

DEAR FED UP: Here's your letter. Clip it and pin it on your son's pillow. Or tape it to his shower curtain, his hair blower, his television set, his light switch or his telephone. Your son should not complain. You should. I think you're entitled to more.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have a disagreement that perhaps you can resolve.

Our disagreement comes about because when we are watching TV, I regularly use the mute button to tune out the commercials. My wife says this is wrong — that if I watch the programs, I ought to listen to the sponsor's commercials.

My attitude is that the companies that control television programming abuse the airwaves by using an inordinate number of commercials, most of which are inherently deceptive, and that I am under no obligation to listen to this trash.

Which one of us is right?

THE CLICKER IN PALM SPRINGS

DEAR CLICKER: Whether or not one chooses to listen to the TV commercials is a personal decision. You are entitled to your opinion and your wife is entitled to hers. And if this is the most serious disagreement you ever have, count yourselves lucky.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I agreed to chip in with a group of friends to buy a 50th wedding anniversary gift for a couple we have known for many years. The group giving this gift consists of eight married couples and one widow.

One member of our group — not the widow — adamantly insists that the cost of the gift should be divided by 17. We think it should be divided by nine.

What do you think?

IN DOUBT IN ARIZONA

DEAR IN DOUBT: Is the widow's deceased husband going to be at the anniversary party? Of course not. Therefore the cost of the gift should be divided by 17 — each couple paying two shares, leaving the widow with one.

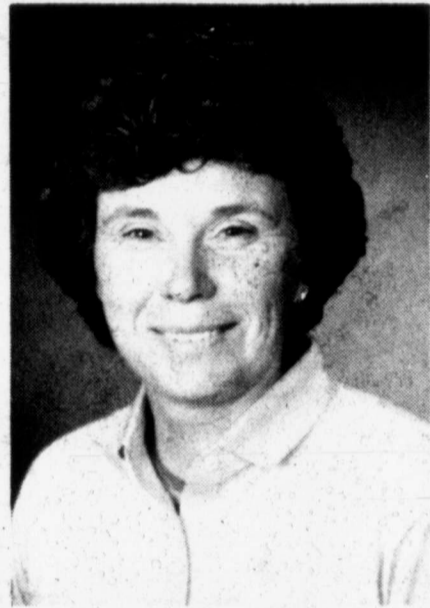

DEAR ABBY: I was the "pen pal czar" for Operation Dear Abby while I was command chaplain for USS Coral Sea, and I shall always remember with fondness the excitement created by the thousands of letters we received daily after you launched your letter-writing campaign in 1987. What a terrific morale booster that was!

Numerous servicemen (and women) developed romances through those letters that ended in marriage. May 6 will mark nearly one and a half years since John Frakes answered a letter from Kathy McQuiston of New Castle, Pa. And by the time you read this, they will be married. Keep up the good work, Abby!

MICHAEL D. HALLEY, COMMAND CHAPLAIN

Don't put off writing thank-you notes, letters of sympathy, etc. because you don't know what to say. Get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send a check or money order for $2.89 ($3.39 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

School candidates (two at-large posts)

Luann Burleson

Biographical data: Luann Burleson, 38, was first elected to the Snyder school board in April of 1987. She has lived in Snyder 7½ years. Locally, she is a member of First Presbyterian Church.

Q. — State any specific goals you would like to see accomplished.

A. — The district has already begun a plan to upgrade our curriculum at the junior high and high school levels. It would certainly be my goal to continue with this plan to allow every student to achieve their own highest level by being offered a more varied and challenging curriculum.

Q. — What do you consider the most pressing problem facing the school board today?

A. — As everyone knows, the biggest problems we face deal with financial concerns of the school district. While striving to give each student the highest quality education, we must face tough decisions on budgetary constraints and budget cuts in areas that may be classified as expendable.

Q. — Outline the solution to this need.

A. — Budgetary constraints will not be easy for anyone to accept, but everyone knows that as a district we must immediately accept the fact that Snyder is no longer a "rich" school district. By the same token, taxpayers must realize "school will go on" and we must be diligent in our endeavor to maintain the quality we already have in the schools and upgrade our weaker programs to insure that every student is receiving the educational skills needed to make them a contributor to society.

Q. — Define briefly the role of a school trustee.

A. — The school board actually has only two duties, to hire and evaluate a superintendent and to establish school policy.

Sam Robertson

Biographical data: Sam Robertson, 47, is the district manager for Franklin Life Insurance Company here and a former band director for Snyder High School. He has lived 12 years in Snyder. He is the president for Snyder Neighbors Sharing and a member of Rotary Club, the Goldcoaters, First United Methodist Church and the National Association of Life Underwriters. This is his first time to run for public office.

Q. — State any specific goals you would like to see accomplished.

A. — I would like to see ways implemented to improve the morale of the staff and students.

Q. — What do you consider the most pressing problem facing the school board today?

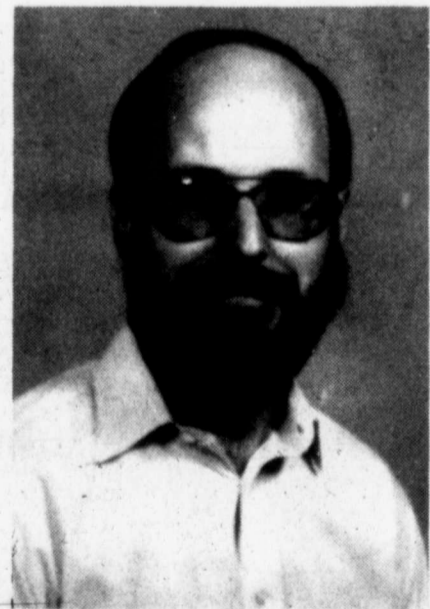

A. — The rising cost of education versus declining values is the most pressing problem facing our schools today.

Q. — Outline the solution to this need.

A. — There seems to be no easy answer. All areas of budgeting must be looked at as well as all areas of possible revenue.

Q. — Define briefly the role of a school trustee.

A. — The role of a school trustee is to represent the community and express their wishes in regard to school matters. This would include the setting of goals and establishing policy for the system.

Mark Zeck

Biographical data: Mark Zeck, 35, is a native of Snyder and the vice president for Y-Z Industries here. He is a member of various professional organizations and Trinity Methodist Church. This is his first time to seek public office.

Q. — State any specific goals you would like to see accomplished.

A. — The development of a game plan to meet the state requirements for teacher evaluations without hindering the teacher's creativity. They seem to be under a constant awareness of the evaluation process. My goal is to have the process change to a beneficial one. The evaluators should be the finest teachers available with a goal of assisting the teachers. The evaluations should be a byproduct and be based upon a thorough knowledge of the teacher's ability gained from this assistance.

Q. — What do you consider the most pressing problem facing the school board today?

A. — How do we handle the changing economic environment? It is no secret that the tax base for Snyder is decreasing dramatically. The indicators show this trend continuing for a while. This very simply translates to less money. We can artificially support the system by creating taxes. This has its limits.

Q. — Outline the solution to this need.

A. — Something has to give. (1.) Evaluate the cost: carefully and graphically analyze every expenditure. (2.) Rate the expenditure: essential, beneficial, desirable, expendable, redundant or waste. (3.) Immediately cut the items classified as redundant or waste. (4.) Keep things balanced and in proper perspective: a new project should be classified. If it is essential and money is not available, something has to give. The cutting starts at the expendable and works its way up to the classification of the project. We can not simply cross our arms and say, "Sorry, no money." Our children are too important. The option of irresponsible spending, on the other hand, is too damaging to our community.

Q. — Define briefly the role of a school trustee.

A. — The school trustee's responsibility centers around goals and policies. This involves a close working relationship with the superintendent. The school trustee does not need to view himself as an instant professional educator. The administration and teachers have spent a lifetime at their trade. Most are motivated by a true desire to teach. Our role is to assist them in doing their job.

EPA is putting new limits on cancer-causes in water supply

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of public water systems across the country will have to improve their purification equipment to reduce chemical contamination and comply with new Environmental Protection Agency standards.

The EPA on Tuesday proposed federally required ceilings on the maximum amounts of 38 types of cancer-causing chemicals and other pollutants allowed in drinking water.

Michael Cook, director of the EPA office which deals with drinking water contaminants, said most public water systems already meet the proposed requirements, but additional purification equipment will probably be needed in about 2,500 public systems, serving about 2 million people, mostly in rural areas.

In some cases households will be paying higher water bills — anywhere from $10 to $460 more a year — as a result, officials said, although the new requirements in many cases are unlikely to go into effect until 1991.

EPA said the size of consumer cost increases will depend on the size of the water system and the contaminant and treatment technology involved.

Affected systems account for about 3 percent of all the public water systems in the country, according to the EPA. Private well water is not covered by the regulations.

In addition, officials operating about 80,000 water systems likely will have to increase monitoring activities to comply with the new rules.

The new regulations require that local water officials regularly monitor the level of pollutants and make public whenever the levels exceed the federal standard.

The proposed regulations will not go into effect until a routine comment period, likely about 90 days, and then the EPA will give local water officials another 18 months before the tighter requirements take effect.

The federal standards on the 38 chemicals, including many widely used pesticides and other highly toxic carcinogens, would bring the number of chemicals on which federal standards have either been proposed or are in effect to 55.

Three years ago Congress directed EPA to set maximum allowable levels on 83 chemicals and other toxic pollutants.

Activists ordered to pay damages

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A jury's order that nine anti-abortion activists pay a doctor $810,000 in damages for mental harassment will be appealed, attorneys say.

After a jury ordered the damage payment, State District Judge Jack Hunter Tuesday issued a permanent injunction to keep the activists at least 400 feet from the home of Dr. Eduardo Aquino.

Jurors ruled Monday that the peaceful protests caused mental anguish to Aquino, his wife, Mercedes, and their four children.

Abortion opponent Cliff Zarsky, one of two attorneys who represented the defendants without a fee, said he will ask for a new trial and if that fails, he will appeal the verdict.

"These people were demonstrating with the American flag and with the Bible and you cannot wrap yourself around the American flag or hide your face in the pages of the Bible and in the process abuse the rights of citizens, no matter how rich or poor, how strong or weak they are," Aquino's attorney, Tony Bonilla, said Tuesday.

Aquino said he has been performing abortions since 1978 and anti-abortionists had picketed his office since 1982. They began picketing at his home in March 1988, the same month the suit was filed.

"I feel my family will be left alone now," Aquino said, adding that he was "not really interested in the money."

The damages included $140,000 in past and future suffering of the couple, $170,000 in past and future suffering of the children and $500,000 in punitive damages for gross negligence in picketing the family home.

"The jury here has set a standard for people across this country and in the process has sent a very clear message that a right of privacy of families in their homes should not be violated and that it is an abuse of freedom of speech to go to the privacy of the home to try to impose your views on the innocent wife and children who are inside those quarters," Bonilla said.

The trial ended at a time when the U.S. Supreme Court is considering a Missouri case that might cause the court to reconsider its 1973 ruling, Roe vs. Wade. In that ruling, justices ruled that women have a constitutional right to end their pregnancies.

Zarsky, who said the demonstrators' actions were protected by the Constitution, argued that the pickets were peaceful, broke no laws and felt it was their "duty to protect unborn children."

Onassis book tries to unravel her character

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy Onassis is not the frail, whisper-voiced woman the American people saw standing by the side of President Kennedy, says the author of an unauthorized biography of the former first lady.

The real Jackie, says writer C. David Heymann, is a strong-willed woman who was probably a principal designer of the Kennedy administration's Camelot image.

"The image of this good Catholic husband with two beautiful children and a beautiful wife posing on the White House lawn was not the case," he said.

In his book, "A Woman Named Jackie," which went on sale Tuesday, Heymann attempted to unravel the life and character of one of the world's most admired, photographed and written-about yet enigmatic women.

"Although there have been so many things written about her, nothing I read really did the woman justice," he said in a telephone interview. "Everything was based on gossip and innuendo. I felt something along definite lines should be written."

His 631-page book is based on interviews with 825 people, including friends, employees and family members, but none of the Kennedys.

The author, by appealing to the director of Presidential Libraries in Washington D.C., gained access to the former first lady's White House social files. Through the Freedom of Information Act, he obtained thousands of pages of previously undisclosed FBI, CIA and Secret Service files.

Heymann's purpose was not to document the public successes and failures of the Kennedys' years in the White House, but to scrutinize their successes and failures as individuals — as husband and wife.

Indeed, a good portion of the book is devoted to the slain president's many alleged liaisons with women.

Many angles

By James Jacoby

There are two interesting aspects to this deal. The first is the play in five clubs after West has opened with a weak two-spade bid. Today's declarer won the ace of spades, shedding a heart from dummy, and then played A-K of clubs. He then played four rounds of diamonds, shedding heart losers. That would have been fine if East had ruffed in, but East simply discarded on the fourth diamond. Then, when a heart was led, East took the ace and cashed the queen of clubs, shortening declarer's trumps that were needed for ruffing dummy's losing hearts. Best of course is for declarer to simply cash the club ace and then play on diamonds, since South can afford to allow the defense to make a trick with the queen of clubs, but cannot afford to let a defender draw a third round of his trumps with that club queen.

The second interesting aspect is that any chance for South to make a game in clubs would disappear if East-West had a partnership agreement that I heartily recommend. If East could have bid three hearts as an artificial lead-directing bid, the defenders would take the first three heart tricks against a club contract. This agreement only applies when the opponents double your partner's weak two-bid for takeout. If you adopt this method, it is also sensible to agree that two no-trump over an opposing take-out double announces that you wish to play in your own long suit. Partner bids three clubs by agreement, and you pass with long clubs or bid your actual long suit.

Few turn out to vote Monday

NEWTOWN, Conn. (AP) — Elections for borough offices never draw long lines at the voting booth, but this year's contests set a new standard for apathy.

Candidates outnumbered voters in Monday's election, when only 21 people voted for the 22 candidates. Nearly all the voters were either running for office or were relatives of the candidates.

Every two years, the borough, which administers the center of the southwestern Connecticut town, stages elections that generate little opposition or interest. No political affiliations are noted on the ballot. The positions include board of tax review, zoning commission, fire inspector, tax assessor and tax collector.

Jean St. Jean, a candidate for burgess, a borough council, said a persistent drizzle may have kept the throngs home this week. The winners? Everyone.
