

Hightower's role limited by House

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas House today gave its final OK to a bill that would continue the Texas Department of Agriculture but water down Commissioner Jim Hightower's power to regulate pesticide use.

The non-record vote today followed an acrimonious debate on Wednesday, when House members added an amendment to establish up a six-member pesticide regulatory board headed by the elected commissioner.

"This is an amendment that hurts farmers. It helps chemical companies. It weakens the pesticide protections of the people of the state of Texas," Hightower said.

Hightower, a Democrat, has been criticized by some farm and See HIGHTOWER, page 11

Panama's elections nullified

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — Troops took to the streets today after the government nullified the elections and opposition candidates, beaten by supporters of Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega, apparently went in hiding.

Opposition presidential candidate Guillermo Endara and his two running mates had been beaten by bat- and pipe-wielding civilian thugs. U.S. officials said one of their bodyguards was killed.

Soldiers, who did not interfere as the candidates were beaten Wednesday afternoon, had halted an opposition motorcade protesting what international observers have called the government's theft of Sunday's elections.

The demonstration had sought to rally international opinion against Noriega and prevent the proclamation of his candidate, Carlos Duque, as president.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur Davis condemned the attack and called the nullification, announced late in the day, as a "cowardly act" of contempt for the choice made by the Panamanian people.

Davis said dependents of the 12,000 military and diplomatic personnel in Panama who live off-base would be moved today to military bases to ensure their safety. U.S. personnel were told to stay out of public places unless on official business, and then to appear only in civilian clothes.

Washington has been trying for more than a year to oust Noriega, the country's de facto leader since 1983 and Defense Forces chief.

The opposition said Wednesday's attack showed Noriega, who has not been seen in public since the weekend, is getting desperate.

"They now know they cannot carry out the electoral fraud they planned. It is already a scandal throughout the world," said first vice-presidential candidate Ricardo Arias Calderon, who also was beaten.

Damages denied in revival injury

A 132nd District Court jury denied Wednesday a Snyder woman's claims that a revival preacher was legally liable for "uneven flooring," specifically a carpet laid across bare ground, which caused her to fall and break her ankle at a meeting here on Oct. 15, 1985.

Estela DeLeon had sued the Rev. Ignacio Macias of San Antonio, seeking $50,000 in damages to cover both medical bills and "pain and suffering."

The incident occurred during a tent revival held at the Church of the Living Word located on the Lamesa Hwy.

The local jury deliberated approximately 1 1/2 hours Wednesday before returning its verdict around 5:15 p.m.

In its finding, the jury said it felt Macias, as the defendant, was not specifically negligent because of the unevenness of the tent floor.

In addition, it found that plaintiff DeLeon was a "contributing cause" in the fall since she had failed to "keep a proper lookout" for possible hazards.

There was testimony introduced also which indicated a small child was "tugging" on DeLeon about the time of the fall.

The plaintiff claimed the carpet floor in the tent was covering a hole which she stepped in, thus causing her to fall.

District Judge Gene Dulaney presided at the trial, which began with jury selection Monday.

Representing Rev. Macias was Ernie Armstrong of Snyder. The plaintiff's counsel was Lance Hall of Sweetwater.

New trustees due ISD oath of office

Snyder school trustees winning two at-large seats Saturday will be sworn-in Thursday during the regular May meeting of the board.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. and will be preceded with an executive session to discuss pending litigation.

To receive their oath of office will be incumbent Luann Burleson, returning for her second term after first being elected in April of 1987; and Sam Robertson, a newly named trustee.

Outgoing board member Ken Branam is scheduled to be recognized during the session. Branam announced he would not be a candidate for re-election.

In addition Thursday, the board will reorganize its officers. Billy Bob McMullan currently serves as president.

Other agenda items before the board include:

—Renewal of the food service contract with American Food Management to provide cafeteria meals.

—Consideration of bids to construct a greenhouse for use at the Humble-Smith campus.

—A request to advertise for bids for copy paper.

—A request to advertise for bids for janitorial supplies.

—Monthly budget amendments.

—A request to use the high school gymnasiums this summer as part of a basketball camp.

Morning showers repeat

From Local, Wire Reports

For the second day in a row, Snyder received an early-morning shower Thursday which added a small amount of moisture to the year's total.

The Thursday morning rain fell around 9 a.m. and produced .15 of-an-inch, according to staffers at the city's water treatment plant, where the official record is kept.

Rains here Wednesday around 8:30 a.m. left .20 of-an-inch of moisture.

The Snyder area has a forecast calling for a 30 percent chance of thunderstorms Thursday, some with locally heavy rainfall this evening.

At noon, cloudy skies were noted in the city.

Scattered thunderstorms are expected through Thursday night across the western half of Texas.

The rest of the state will have partly cloudy skies and pleasant temperatures through Thursday night. There is a slight chance of thunderstorms over eastern portions of the state Friday.

WTC graduation on campus Friday

Western Texas College will hold commencement exercises for its 1989 graduating class at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the central courtyard on campus.

May Day profits exceed 1988 total

Profits from last Saturday's May Day, the major fund raiser for the Senior Citizens Center here, were reported Wednesday by director Jerry Baird.

Baird informed the center's advisory council that a profit was generated of more than $21,000, which bested last year's income figure by more than $2,000.

The auction of quilts and other donated items brought $18,675, he said, and the sale of barbecue tickets added another $3,990.

The sale of arts and crafts earned an additional $940; baked foods sold in the Country Store added $741; and the sales from the Sweet Tooth Booth earned $361.

The total receipts from Saturday's activities were $24,668 with a net profit of $21,575. Last year's May Day activities netted the center $19,143.

Baird noted some money is still coming in from the sale of barbecue tickets and, as a result, he expects the total to rise slightly.

In addition to his report, he extended thanks to all center members who worked year-round for the event and to those individuals who supported this year's May Day activities.

May Day is held the first Saturday in May. Quilts sold at the auction are worked on year-round with 30 completed this year.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A diet gives you something to talk about during lunch."

The Gold Coat organization, the goodwill ambassadors of the chamber of commerce, have monthly luncheon meetings. Part of their tradition is to work hard and to eat heartily.

Cobbler Bill Dryden is the president of that elite organization, but until now has allowed chamber manager Bill Moss to make luncheon arrangements.

Last week, the meal was planned for the Snyder Country Club and it was Moss who selected a "lite" menu. At first, members suspected that the country club staff might have been confused that some ladies' organization had arrived for a salad luncheon.

Mike Banta, president of American State Bank, is one Gold Coater who certainly doesn't need to diet. In fact, he can eat more than most full-size Gold Coaters.

Banta said the dainty plate included a dip of tuna salad surrounded by various, but colorful fresh fruit. It was what the majority needed, but not necessarily what they wanted.

But before the luncheon was over, Moss was back in the good graces of the membership. After the diet plate, dessert included chocolate pie with a two-inch layer of whipped cream.

Everybody remembers that Babe Ruth hit 714 homeruns. But it is also important to remember that not everything was great about Babe's baseball career. He also struck out 1,330 times. Have a good season...

Elevator resists efforts to destroy it

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A movie crew is taking advantage of the destruction of a grain elevator in Fort Worth to film a horror flick.

It is about some sort of entity trapped in an aging elevator as it is being destroyed. Some around Fort Worth say the planned movie, to be called "Incantations," will be art imitating life.

They say the reason the 87-year-old elevator has been so tough to knock down is because it carries a curse and stands on a patch of Trinity River land called "Satan's Lot."

In its last days, the elevator has become a movie star, of sorts, on its own. A Chicago demolition firm has set off more than 500 charges over 39 days, yet more than half of the elevator still stands. It is battered and bruised, but not broken. It may be the most celebrated last stand in Texas since the Alamo.

As high noon passes, a reporter from the Orleans Times-Picayune arrives just as a reporter from a Dallas television station leaves. Above, a helicopter swirls in tiny circles, with someone taking aerial shots for another station. Amateur photographers, some with video cameras, dot a bridge that overlooks the elevator just west of downtown.

"It's beautiful," said the New Orleans reporter, shaking his head slowly. "It's the most famous grain elevator in the south."

But in Fort Worth, among those who knew the huge structure intimately, it is infamous.

There are tales of horrible deaths here, but Fort Worth police can confirm only one — the brutal stabbing of a Japanese tourist near the elevator last year.

"I grew up in Fort Worth and I never heard about anything satanic about that place," Swan said. "But of course, I never heard about marijuana until I was 21, either, and that doesn't mean it wasn't there."

James Ferrar, 33, who has climbed the tower secretly a number of times, said he believes it is haunted and said he heard chilling screams on several occasions.

And one of his friends, making a nighttime climb by lantern light in the late 1970s, fell and broke both arms, an incident that Cruson and others also have heard about.

The unidentified man told others that he was climbing the circular staircase in the main building, reached its top, but then the staircase seemed to extend itself. As he kept climbing, someone from above reached out and pushed him, Ferrar said.

Charles Shields, 25, who works for a nearby tool company and is watching the demolition work on his lunch hour, said dead dogs and cats keep popping up by the elevator.

Tony Cruson, a 37-year-old workman for the demolition company, said he grew up in Fort Worth and had long heard it was haunted.

"That's Satan's lot," he said, pointing at the thick black soil, contaminated with coal dust.

Cruson said it was a spot where adventurous couples would sometimes come for some smooching and suspense.

"Around Halloween, the big deal for boys was to bring girls out here and try to get in good with them by protecting them," he said.

Developer James Toal, who hopes to make the site an office and residential complex along with a major hotel, said he had never heard of the elevator being haunted.

"There's people killed all over the place," he said. "Why my wife was even shot at our house, during a robbery, but she's OK now. Just because accidents occur here, you don't think you should call it Satan's place."

Toal adds that there are plenty of rumors, but he doesn't believe there is anything amiss.

Neither does Jerry Vann of Blasting Specialist Inc., which brings down old buildings worldwide.

"I don't believe in curses," he said. "All I know is it's costing me money."

Vann took the job for a flat fee, expecting to knock the grain elevator down in eight or nine days. It was a costly mistake. So far, he is $9,000 in the hole, and he figures he will be staying at least through Saturday, at the cost of $1,000 or so a day.

But he figures he can knock the elevator down. He says he is as stubborn as the silos, although he has never seen anything like them. He says he will be glad to push the down button on more elevators.

"Yeah, in fact, that's my next job," Vann said. "I'm going to another elevator — in central Illinois."

Miller named to honor roll

DALLAS—Kirsten R. Miller, a first year student at Southern Methodist University and a 1988 graduate of Snyder High School, is included on the recently released undergraduate honor roll for the fall semester.

To be listed on the SMU honor roll, students must achieve a 3.5 or higher cumulative grade point average, which places them in the top 11 percent of all SMU graduates.

Miller is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harold Miller of San Angelo, formerly of Snyder.

Local's husband receives award

Air Force Senior Airman Eric L. Whitmore, whose wife, Jean, is the daughter of Larry V. and Elsie Anderson of Snyder, has received the worldwide airman of the year award for the Air Force Service Information and News Center.

Whitmore is a radio and television broadcasting specialist with the 3rd Air Force European Broadcasting Squadron in Portugal.

The selection was based on the individual's exemplary duty performance, job knowledge, leadership qualities, significant self-improvement and other accomplishments.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I suffer from peri-rectal abscesses. Following a dose of antibiotics, everything returns to normal, but my doctor indicates there is a 50 percent chance the problem will occur again. Is this your experience?

DEAR READER: Like abscesses elsewhere in the body, infections near the rectum (peri-rectal) tend to recur. They are helped by antibiotics; however, once the drugs have been withdrawn, the infections start up all over again. In my experience, peri-rectal abscesses often require surgical drainage: the collections of infection have to be opened so that pus can drain out — and be kept open to prevent re-infection.

Ask your doctor to refer you to a surgeon for advice regarding an operation to solve your problem. Once recurring abscesses are drained, they seldom cause continuing difficulty.

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "An Informed Approach to Surgery." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I suffered from constant cold sores until I tried L-lysine tablets. Since these can be purchased without prescription, why aren't doctors telling their patients about them?

DEAR READER: Cold sores are recurring infections around and in the mouth, probably caused by herpes viruses and often triggered by stress or minor injury, such as sunburn of the lips.

L-lysine is an essential amino acid, one of the substances needed by the body to build protein. In some patients, supplemental doses have been shown to help prevent or heal cold sores. The reasons for this are unknown. However, L-lysine frequently works and can be tried by cold-sore sufferers because it is safe and inexpensive. Many doctors do recommend this therapy. However, they usually prescribe acyclovir, a prescription anti-viral drug, which has shown promise in the treatment of patients with wide-spread, frequent bouts of cold sores.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I took a home pregnancy test recently and it was positive. Then I went to three different doctors for blood tests that were negative. What should I rely on for correct results?

DEAR READER: The doctors' tests. Home pregnancy test kits are easy to use but are not as accurate as the more sophisticated chemical analyses performed by hospital (or commercial) laboratories. The home tests will, in most instances, give accurate readings; however, they are best used for screening purposes, rather than definitive diagnosis.

As you have discovered, do-it-yourself pregnancy testing may give false positive results. The longer a woman is pregnant, the more accurate the home test becomes because the tests measure small amounts of hormone that increase with time. Blood pregnancy tests performed by trained laboratory professionals are highly predictive of pregnancy, can diagnose pregnancy within a few days of conception and are not likely to be affected by interfering drugs and chemicals.

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Contraception: An Update." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

During 1964-80, Latin America had an uninterrupted economic expansion that saw the region's gross domestic product (GDP) grow each year by at least 4 percent, according to the Inter-American Development Bank. The bank said that because of the slowdown in the '80s in nearly all the countries of the region, the 1987 per capita GDP was lower than in 1980.

Declarer played the queen of diamonds from dummy and ducked when East played the king. He played low on the return of the 10, but West overtook with the jack and cleared the suit. South then banked the success of the contract on the favorable location of the king of clubs and a normal club split. He cashed A-Q of spades and two more spades, then led dummy's 10 of clubs and passed it. Next he played a club back to his jack. Alas, West showed out, and declarer was left with only eight tricks. Was there any remedy for this sad state of affairs?

A competent defender is accustomed to giving correct count when partner may need to know when to take a key card in a side-suit. Suppose declarer were to attack the play of today's hand by leading the queen of spades from his hand after he had won the ace of diamonds. West would follow with the four, and declarer could well assume that this lowest card would be showing an odd number of cards in the suit. (It is standard to start an echo or high-low with an even number of cards.) Since it is quite unlikely that West holds one spade or five spades, declarer could assume three and overtake the queen with dummy's king. He now plays clubs as before, but after winning the second club he plays ace and a spade to the jack, cashes the last spade and takes another club finesse for nine tricks.

Sure, a defender could cross South up by not giving true count, but that is not likely to happen.

27-Year-Old Male Virgin Is Striking Out in Dating Game

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Are the women in this country nuts, or am I? We are constantly being told that all the good men are either married or gay — as though single men are at the bottom of the barrel, or else why would they be single?

I can't answer for all single men — only for myself. I'm 27 years old, considered fairly good-looking, average height and weight, in good physical condition, my hair is thinning a little — I wear glasses, and yes, I am shy with a capital "S." Surprise — I am still a virgin! So what?

I graduated from college at 22 and have worked as a bartender for the last few years. I've saved my money and have been accepted by a good law school this fall.

During the last few years, I've been involved with four women. I guess I screwed up with the first three by revealing my virgin status. Two thought I was lying and dumped me. The third classified me as a "geek."

I kept silent with the fourth. Unfortunately, once we reached a more intimate stage, my nervousness ruined everything. I suppose this would have been OK at 16, but at my age, she thought something was "wrong" with me.

Hey, ladies, I'm an intelligent, sincere, sensitive man — a gentleman. How about a survey, Abby? Is an inexperienced, decent single guy disqualified in the search for a mate?

DEAR STRIKING OUT: I don't need a survey to tell me that decent women want decent men. I also know that virtue and virginity don't necessarily go hand in hand. There are virginal cads and experienced people with hearts of gold.

Since by your own admission you are shy with a capital "S," get some counseling to overcome your shyness, and the rest will fall into place. There are singles groups, square dancing, cooking classes, workout gyms. Get going. The longest march in the world starts with one step.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to express my sympathy for "Old-Time Salesgirl," who deplores the lack of consideration shown by prospective customers who mistreat garments they try on, then reject.

A similar attitude toward all things, even including their own possessions, has become the hallmark of a much too large proportion of young adults, and sadly, many of their parents.

This "hurray for me and to heck with everyone else" attitude disgusts and infuriates this Victorian respecter of others' rights and property, but my only recourse is to attempt to compensate for those boors. Yes, I'm the chump who picks up the box of cereal or the toy from the store aisle and tries to find its rightful place on the shelf, who reorganizes the scrambled greeting cards in the rack, and who straightens the twisted garments on their hangers while shopping.

I do these things by natural compulsion, for the sheer satisfaction of knowing that I may have lightened another's daily burdens. So, cheer up, "Old-Time Salesgirl," there are still a few considerate old squares on your side. My bride of 43 years is another of this same archaic breed.

FRED LEE MONTGOMERY,
GLENDALE, ARIZ.

DEAR MR. MONTGOMERY: How refreshing to learn that amidst the cactus in Arizona, an orchid blooms — make that two, and greet your good wife for me.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for encouraging the members of a high school reunion planning committee to send flowers to the parents of the classmates who had passed away.

We lost a dear daughter 37 years ago, and would have cherished even a brief note — signed by her classmates — acknowledging that she was remembered and missed.

DALE AND LEONA PERRY

DEAR DALE AND LEONA: Please accept my belated and heartfelt sympathy at the loss of your beloved daughter. I think that sending a letter to the parents of a deceased classmate, signed by all the surviving classmates, is a splendid idea. I hope it catches on.

Three cult members charged

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Three members of a cult blamed for the ritual deaths of 15 people on the U.S. border have been charged in the weekend killing of their leader and his right-hand man, Mexican authorities said.

But Sara Aldrete Villarreal, Omar Francisco Orea and Alvaro de Leon Valdez have not been charged in the ritual slayings of at least 15 that occurred on a highway near Matamoros, said a spokesman for the Mexico City attorney general's office.

Marco Antonio Diaz de Leon, director of judicial proceedings for the attorney general's office on Wednesday said his office can only file charges for crimes that occurred within its jurisdiction.

It was unclear whether homicide and other charges arising out of the Matamoros case were currently being prepared separately by federal officials in Matamoros or if such charges would have to wait for adjudication of the Mexico City case.

Aldrete, 24, known as the "godmother" or "witch" of the cult; Orea, 23, a journalism student at the National University in Mexico City, and Alvaro de Leon Valdez, 29, were charged Wednesday in the Saturday killings of cult "godfather" Adolfo de Jesus Constanzo, 26, and right-hand man Martin Quintana Rodriguez, 23, in a Mexico City apartment.

De Leon Valdez earlier this week publicly confessed to reporters that he shot the two men to death upon Constanzo's orders as police moved in.

The three also were charged with criminal association, resisting arrest, shooting a firearm against authorities and injuries in the Saturday shooting that was followed by a gunbattle with police.

Those three, along with two other Mexico City women arrested Saturday, still have not been arraigned, Diaz de Leon said. An arraignment date was not announced, but officials said it could be held today.

Diaz de Leon said the other two women, Dr. Maria de Lourdes Guero Lopez, 29, a physician, and Maria del Rocio Cuevas Guerra, 43, were charged with coverup in the Matamoros case, a federal crime. He said they were to be turned over to federal officials.

The two women apparently were friends and were arrested in a Mexico City suburb later on Saturday, he said.

Although they didn't pull the trigger that killed Constanzo and Quintana, Aldrete and Orea were charged in their deaths "because they had agreed and made a pact before the deaths (of Constanzo and Quintana) in case they were going to be arrested," Diaz de Leon said. "This death pact was carried out."

The three charged in the Saturday killings, the two dead men and "who knows how many others" were part of the pact, he said.

In addition to the alleged death pact, the homicide charge against Aldrete is based upon witness reports she told de Leon Valdez to "do it" to Constanzo as police neared, he said.

Octavio Campos, city attorney general's office spokesman, on Wednesday said police found the gang after spotting de Leon Valdez Saturday walking to a market.

Based on other past residences Constanzo and other group members had kept, police had mapped out a circular area in which to look for them, Campos said.

Police on Saturday followed de Leon Valdez from the market to an apartment building. Then, as police looked inside a car parked outside the building the shooting inside the apartment began.

Also on Wednesday, Orea, suspected cult members Salvador Antonio Gutierrez Juarez, who was arrested in the capital on Tuesday and Juan Carlos Fragozo, who was arrested Wednesday, were charged in the killing of Ramon Baez.

Landlord fights ruling

MARSHALL, Minn. (AP) — A man who rented a house to an unmarried couple and then changed his mind because he believed they were not showing respect for Christian values is getting support from across the country.

"I just couldn't allow that type of activity to go on in our house," said carpenter Layle French, 33, who reneged on an agreement that would have allowed Sue Jensen and her fiance to move into a house he was trying to sell.

A Minnesota administrative law judge ruled in March that French violated a law that prohibits discrimination based on marital status. He said the only unsettled issue is how much French should pay in damages.

French, a member of the Marshall Evangelical Free Church, contends the law should take a back seat to his Christian values. Aside from that, he maintains that couples who live together violate the state's fornication law.

"We go back to a very scary time if we say landlords get to pick the religion of tenants," said state Human Rights Commissioner Steven Cooper.

Although there is some support for the 27-year-old Ms. Jensen, most of this politically conservative town of 10,000 residents seem to back French.

"If people want to live together that's their business, but then they should rent from someone who doesn't care," said Bob Cool, who owns an office supply store.

"I look at the case as a morality case," said Lionel Bolden, another businessman in this town 150 miles west of Minneapolis.

Snyder girl will graduate

BEAUMONT—Kristi Ann Masters of Snyder will be among 762 graduates at Lamar University-Beaumont's spring commencement exercise set for Saturday.

A 1982 graduate of Snyder High School, Masters is receiving a master's degree in speech pathology. She completed her undergraduate work at Hardin-Simmons University with Magna Cum Laude honors.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Masters of 3608 Jacksboro in Snyder.

Study links painkiller with kidney disease

BOSTON (AP) — Some doctors are warning that long-term, daily use of a common aspirin substitute may triple the usual risk of kidney damage, but the maker of Tylenol disputed the finding.

"I don't want people to panic and say, 'My kids shouldn't have Tylenol,'" said Dr. Saulo Klahr, president of the National Kidney Foundation. "But at the same time, it's important for people not to take this drug daily."

Klahr said acetaminophen, the main ingredient in Tylenol, Anacin-3, Datriil and other brands, may accumulate in the kidneys and cause chemical damage. A related painkiller, called phenacetin, was taken off the market six years ago because of concern about kidney damage and bladder cancer.

Some experts also have worried that prolonged daily use of ibuprofen, another common painkiller, may harm the kidneys. The drug was released for non-prescription sales in 1985 and was not included in the study of acetaminophen.

The study, published in today's New England Journal of Medicine, found no sign that aspirin is bad for the kidneys. However, it can cause stomach irritation and bleeding and perhaps a rare childhood disorder called Reye's syndrome.

The new research found that acetaminophen is safe when used occasionally. And while it raises the possibility that overuse harms the kidneys, it does not prove this.

"Acetaminophen is not necessarily risk free," said Dr. Dale P. Sandler, who directed the National Institute of Environmental Health Science study.

"This study does not demonstrate any effect for acetaminophen when taken as directed, which is when needed for symptoms, but when symptoms persist, you should seek medical advice."

In a Journal editorial, Drs. William M. Bennett of Oregon Health Sciences University and Marc E. DeBroe of the University of Antwerp in Belgium cautioned that "this finding should be considered tentative until it is confirmed by other studies."

Dr. Vardamen M. Buckalew Jr. of Bowman Gray School of Medicine, a co-author of the study, commented: "I would be swayed toward believing there is a cause and effect relationship between heavy acetaminophen ingestion and renal (kidney) disease. But I would agree with anyone who says we need to do more work."

Judge will consider if track standout can compete at state

AUSTIN (AP) - A Travis County judge today will consider whether a Dallas Carter student should be allowed to participate in a weekend state track meet since the school failed to notify him midway through the grading period that he was flunking English.

Dallas Carter junior Doyle

Jones, who posted the nation's fastest 100- and 200-meter times this season, had qualified to compete in the state Class 5A track meet this weekend in Austin. Jones is also a member of the Cowboys' relay team.

But school officials disqualified Jones after an anonymous letter prompted a review of his grades. Officials learned Jones had failed

English during the latest grading period, essentially making him ineligible to participate in any extracurricular activities.

Jones' attorney, Frank P. Hernandez, contends the student should be allowed to compete since school officials did not notify Jones' mother, Sheila Holman, that the boy was failing midway through the period.

Hernandez filed for an injunction Wednesday against the Dallas Independent School District and the University Interscholastic League to permit Jones to race this weekend. A hearing on that injunction is set for 4 p.m. today.

The 18-page complaint alleges Jones was failing three classes midway through the grading period, but received notices for only two of those: Algebra I and Home Economics.

Tennis player goes to court

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - A high school tennis player with low grades is heading to the courtroom so he can compete on the court for the state championship.

Attorneys for Brad Simpson, an 18-year-old senior at Alamo Heights High School, have filed a lawsuit against the tennis coach and administrators. A court hearing is scheduled this morning in state district court.

The suit charges that the student's grades are not too low by state standards, but too low by the standards set by tennis coach Larry Oxford.

O'Neil book rips former co-workers

by The Associated Press
CBS Sports commentators Pat Summerall and Tom Brookshier drank alcohol in the broadcast booth during NFL telecasts, according to a new book by Terry O'Neil, the new executive producer of NBC Sports.

O'Neil, the former CBS Sports executive producer hired Tuesday by NBC, calls Brent Musburger "marginally abrasive" and an "anchor-monster." He wrote Brookshier spoke "gibberish" and didn't prepare for games, and accused former CBS Sports president Peter Lund as being ineffectual and lacking leadership.

He also wrote that an NFL coach told him that his team had wiretapped the room of a player and caught the player with $30,000 that was intended for drug purchases. O'Neil does not name the coach, the player or the team.

The book, "The Game Behind the Game," is due for publication next Wednesday. It covers O'Neil's early career at ABC and focuses on 1981-1986, his years at CBS.

O'Neil decries CBS Sports as "several hundred light-years" behind the other networks when he arrived.

"Alcohol was the lifeblood of the old CBS Sports," he wrote. "Summerall and Brookshier regularly drank their way through the 4 p.m. football telecasts. After all, it was cocktail hour."

He writes that CBS would be best off not having Musburger anchor the 1992 Winter Olympics.

"Somebody at CBS should be responsible and courageous enough to insist on a 'likability' study of the top anchors in sports. This audience survey would probably reveal that CBS should pursue ABC's Al Michaels or NBC's Dick Enberg, not Musburger, as its lead Olympic personality. After 20 years of taking its Games from Jim McKay - kindly, soothing, even grandfatherly in his later years - America is not prepared to invite someone marginally abrasive into its living rooms four hours per night for 16 nights."

Mueller awarded champion trophy

LUBBOCK - Shanna Mueller was awarded the Ladies Grand Champion Trophy at the Lubbock Karate AKBBA Tournament, held recently.

Members of the Western Texas College karate class and the United Academies of Self-Defense class in Snyder were among the participants.

Gene Groce is instructor for both classes.

Students participating were Steve Manning, Barney Stansel, George Wall, Jim Cerdatorres, Mary Cardenis, Gerry Portis, Hilda Molina, David Yanez, Elizabeth Lopez, Joe Guerrero, Beckey Sullivan, Gina Groce, Tony Quinton, Rickey Southern, Pedro Gonzalez and Mueller.

Of the 12 competing, only five had been in prior competitions.

Rose report to commissioner

CINCINNATI (AP) - The special investigator who prepared a report on the gambling activities of Pete Rose acknowledges that his investigation took a long time, but said it was necessary for baseball and for Rose.

The report by John Dowd is now being reviewed by baseball Commissioner A. Bartlett Giamatti. At the same time, a federal grand jury in Cincinnati is also conducting a probe.

Rich Levin, a spokesman for Giamatti, when asked if Rose would get a hearing before the commissioner makes his decision, said the commissioner "will read the report before deciding on the procedure." "In terms of the time, effort and care we invested in the inquiry, I was very satisfied," Dowd told The Cincinnati Enquirer in a story in today's editions.

But Dowd, whose investigation lasted 10 weeks, would not comment on details of the report.

"I don't think it would be appropriate," Dowd said. "I want to wait and see what Bart does with it ... In whatever I have done, there is an awful lot of trust; I'm speaking of trust that baseball has placed in me and the trust the people I have interviewed have placed in me. To say anything, at this point, would be a violation of that trust."

"This thing has been going on for some time and I know that bothered a lot of people," Dowd said. "I know it has been difficult for Pete Rose. But you can't put enough effort and care into something like this."

"In fairness to baseball, in fairness to Pete Rose, it is the only thing you can do. You have to be very careful, very careful ... It is not something you rush."

Meanwhile, Michael Fry, among those who have linked Rose to alleged gambling, told the Cincinnati Post he has personal knowledge that Rose was behind in payments to his alleged bookmaker, Ronald Peters.

Peters, according to Robert C. Bricler, an assistant U.S. attorney in Cleveland, has told investigators that he "took bets over a period of two years from Mr. Rose that could very well amount to in excess of a million dollars."

Rose has said he never gambled on baseball or placed bets through bookies.

If Rose is found to have bet on baseball, he would be suspended for one year.

Winner will advance to playoffs...

Tigers face Andrews tonight

LUBBOCK — Snyder High School is trying to get back in the Class 4A state baseball playoffs after a two-year layoff. To do it, the Tigers will have to get past Andrews here tonight.

"We're real relaxed. We're just happy to have the opportunity to play," said Coach Albert Lewis, whose Tigers face the Mustangs at 7 p.m. at Lubbock Christian University. "We feel we've got as good a chance as Andrews does."

The winner will advance to the state playoffs, but must stop first to battle Fort Stockton on Saturday. Snyder, Andrews and Fort Stockton all finished District 4-4A play tied with 10-4 records. Fort Stockton won a coin flip Wednesday as district officials met to settle the three-way tie. The Panthers will meet the Snyder-Andrews victor at 2 p.m. Saturday in Midland.

Saturday's game will settle 1-2 status going into the playoffs. The winner will go on to meet Lubbock Estacado while the loser draws Hereford.

Tonight's ballgame will be the third meeting between Snyder and Andrews, the preseason district favorite. Snyder won the first game against the then ninth-ranked Mustangs, 3-2 at Moffett Field on March 31. The second meeting was won by Andrews, 4-2, on April 21. The Mustangs were 4-4 going into the contest and have rallied to win six straight ballgames now.

"They've been hot lately but we had two good games with them," said Coach Lewis. "We've left a lot of people on base. Hopefully we can do something about getting them in this time. I think we can be right there with them if we play well."

Lewis will start the Tigers' hottest pitcher of late, right hander Bert Otto. The senior is 5-0 for the season, 3-0 in district play with a 1.75 ERA.

"He's the sharpest of our three main pitchers right now. He's had good location and he throws strikes. He deserves the start," said Lewis, who added, "We'll use all three pitchers if we need to, and maybe one more."

Snyder's other pitchers are Lee Fletcher and Kevin Dollins. The "one more" would likely be Bart Morton, who has pitched in several games over the season.

Otto is the Tigers' starting short stop when Fletcher or Dollins is on the mound. Taking over those duties tonight will be Lee Hamilton.

Third baseman Randy Morris will lead off for Snyder. He'll be followed by second baseman Jason West - who has had the hot bat for the Tigers lately. Next will be catcher Tracy Odom, followed by designated hitter John Wright, first baseman Toby Goodwin, left fielder Mark Kuss, Otto, and right fielder Bert Merritt. Wright will be batting for Hamilton.

Snyder is 18-8 for the season while Andrews is 17-7.

D-Tigers rally to win over Angels in ninth

by The Associated Press
California manager Doug Rader did what Detroit could not do. He got Kirk McCaskill out of the game and gave the Tigers a chance.

The Tigers, shut out for eight innings by McCaskill, rallied for three runs in the ninth against Bryan Harvey and beat California 3-2 Wednesday night, ending the Angels' six-game winning streak.

"That's going to happen," Rader said. "(Harvey) is one of the league's best in relief."

McCaskill leads the American League with an 0.87 earned run average. Despite losing his chance at a victory, he wasn't upset.

"I had no qualms about being taken out," McCaskill said. "He could have taken me out in the fifth inning. I wasn't sharp tonight."

Matt Nokes' two-run double with one out tied the game and Keith Moreland followed with an RBI single that won it.

In other games, Toronto also rallied for three runs in the ninth inning and beat Seattle 3-2, Chicago routed Milwaukee 12-2 and Kansas City defeated Cleveland 3-2. The Texas at New York, Oakland at Baltimore and Minnesota at Boston games were rained out.

Blue Jays 3, Mariners 2
Mark Langston held Toronto hitless for eight innings before the Blue Jays rallied for three runs to beat Seattle.

Tom Lawless opened the ninth inning with a pinch-single, the third time this season Toronto has spoiled a no-hit bid in the ninth inning. Bob Brenly's RBI double and Junior Felix's tying single finished Langston, 4-4, and George Bell singled home the winner against Mike Schooler.

Jimmy Key, 3-2, gave up nine hits in a complete game.

Royals 3, Indians 2
Willie Wilson and Kurt Stillwell got out of slumps with consecutive singles that hit

4-4A medalist signs with Western Texas

Western Texas College golf coach Dave Foster has signed District 4-4A medalist Tony Lara to a scholarship.

Lara, from Sweetwater, was a four-time all-district player for the Mustangs. He was runner-up district as a sophomore and placed fifth in the region. As a senior this past season, Lara was 4-4A medalist, all-district, all-region and Most Valuable Player of his team. He helped lead Sweetwater to the district crown.

"We're real pleased to have Tony," said Coach Foster. "This district (4-4A) has been good to our team. We've always had the top player from this district and Tony is no exception. I think he is one of the better 4A players in the state."

Western has signed a number of 4-4A players in the past. Most recently have been Mark Burgen, Lance Jones and Jeff Beal of Andrews and Wade Hatter of Snyder. Burgen and Jones were all-Western Junior College Athletic Conference performers last season for WTC.

"Not only will Tony help our team but he is an excellent student. We're really looking forward to having him here," added Foster.

Lara is an honors student who has been selected to Who's Who among high school students.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Lara, Sr., of Sweetwater.

Tech QB situation appears promising

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Jamie Gill and Jason Rattan left Fort Worth-area high schools two years ago as two of the hotter quarterback prospects in the state.

Gill led Hurst Bell to the Class 5A state semifinals his senior year. Rattan led Eastland to a 32-6 record during three seasons as a starter.

Both have emerged as possible successors to Billy Joe Tolliver as the starting quarterback at Texas Tech.

At the close of spring drills, Gill ranked No. 1 on the Red Raiders' depth chart. Rattan was No. 2. Coach Spike Dykes said the team should be in good hands regardless of how the quarterback situation unfolds.

"Heading into the fall, Jamie Gill will be our quarterback," Dykes said. "He won't be field-tested until we have our first game, so we'll know more after that. We felt like he had a good spring and did the things we wanted him to do."

"Jason Rattan made good improvement, too. So the book is not closed."

Of the two, Gill is the only one to take a snap in a game. He completed 4 of 10 passes last year for 48 yards as Tolliver's backup. Rattan did not set foot on the field. Both were redshirted in 1987.

Rattan admits Gill's experience from last season, plus his familiarity with the passing game, give his teammate the edge.

"We ran the option at Eastland, so I hardly threw the ball," Rattan said of his high school days. "Adjusting to the passing game has been a big change for me. It's kept me behind. I've been playing catch up since I've been here."

Rattan has progressed, Dykes said. But not at the same rate as Gill, who ran a pro-style offense in high school and threw for 1,752 yards and 13 touchdowns as a senior.

At this point, coaches give Gill the edge in passing ability and reading defenses. Rattan is considered the better runner, although Dykes said he would not be afraid to run the option with Gill. Tech added more option plays to its attack this spring.

"I think I fit into this offense pretty good," Gill said of the Raiders' wide-open attack. "I don't have as strong an arm as Billy Joe. But I've got better mobility and a pretty good arm."

"The biggest thing for me is the mental part. In high school, you play on raw talent. In college, you have to develop every phase of your game to a higher level. I think I'm better at every phase of the game than I was in high school."

Detroit wears down Bucks; Lakers crunch SuperSonics

by The Associated Press

The Detroit Pistons, like a champion prize fighter, softened you up with round after round of body blows and then punch your lights out.

That's how the Pistons swept Boston in the first round of the NBA playoffs and that's how they beat the Milwaukee Bucks 85-80 in the first game of their second-round series Wednesday night.

The knockout punch has come in the fourth quarter of their last three playoff games, in which the Pistons have outscored their opponents 71-36.

The Bucks, who beat the Pistons four out of six games during the regular season, led much of the game and had Detroit down by as many as 13 points.

"We had them on the ropes and they responded with tough rebounds," Bucks coach Del Harris said. "This is a good defensive team and shots are at a premium."

The Pistons, feeling the effects of an eight-day layoff, were sluggish in the first half, trailing 49-38 at halftime.

"The banging, the banging, the banging. In practice, that would have been suicidal," Pistons forward John Salley said. "We were kind of missing it."

Bill Laimbeer scored six of his 19 points in the final minute and the Pistons held Milwaukee to 11 points in the fourth period.

Ricky Pierce, who came off the bench to lead the Bucks with 25 points, missed two free throws with 42 seconds remaining and Detroit leading 81-80, forcing Milwaukee to foul.

It was the first playoff matchup between the teams since 1976, when Detroit eliminated Milwaukee 2-1 in the opening round. This year, the Bucks finished 14 games behind the Pistons in the Central Division.

Game 2 is set for Friday night at The Palace.

In the other NBA playoff game Wednesday, the Los Angeles Lakers beat the Seattle SuperSonics 130-108 to lead the series 2-0. In games tonight, Chicago is at New York and Phoenix plays at Golden State. Chicago won the first game of its series, while Golden State and Phoenix are tied at one game apiece.

Lakers coach Pat Riley believes there's a simple explanation for his team's inspired play thus far in the playoffs.

"When you watch the Lakers right now, what you see is that they still want to win," he said.

"They want to win and move on." The Lakers, thought by some critics to be on the decline after winning two consecutive NBA titles, suddenly look rejuvenated and hungry.

The series now switches to Seattle for games Friday and Sunday.

Witnesses say thousands exploited, forced into underground existence

WASHINGTON (AP) — Immigration reforms have created a "vulnerable underclass living in the shadows of our communities," immigration rights activists told a House committee.

Unqualified for amnesty under the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, thousands of undocumented aliens are "being forced into a fearful underground and impoverished existence," testified Muriel Heiberger, executive director of the Massachusetts Immigrant and Refugee Advocacy Coalition.

In testimony Wednesday before a House subcommittee, other witnesses said the Immigration and Naturalization Service has attempted to deport undocumented family members of aliens who have been granted temporary residency, a charge the agency vigorously denied.

In Massachusetts alone, Ms. Heiberger said, thousands of undocumented aliens from, El Salvador, Guatemala, Haiti and Ireland did not apply for amnesty. And because of sanctions in the 1986 act prohibiting employers from hiring undocumented workers, "members of these communities are being forced into a fearful underground and impoverished existence."

"As the undocumented are forced further underground, the immigration law is creating everything it was supposed to eliminate — a vulnerable underclass, living in the shadows of our communities, facing increased poverty and exploitation," Ms. Heiberger told the House Judiciary Committee's subcommittee on immigration, refugees and international law. She said unscrupulous employers who defy the law "often exploit undocumented workers fearful of reporting subminimum wages, sexual harassment and unsafe working conditions."

Muzaffar A. Chishti, director of the Immigration Project for the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, testified employers in the "sweatshop sector" are "finding it easier to exploit these workers and further depress wages and working conditions."

The employer sanctions have also increased the number of people in the apparel industry who sew at home, Chishti said.

"These drastically underpaid homeworkers illustrate how the market economy has channeled the undocumented into largely segregated job pools where they are at the mercy of their employers," Chishti said.

INS spokesman Verne Jervis counters that those who don't qualify for amnesty do not have to remain in the United States.

Jervis said Congress did not intend to "benefit the most recent arrivals." The law allowed aliens living in the United States prior to 1982 to apply for amnesty. "The law is doing what it intended to do" by keeping undocumented aliens out of the workforce, he said.

Chishti also claimed his union has learned of "numerous incidents" in which family members of legalized aliens, after encouragement from the INS to apply for what is known as indefinite voluntary departure (IVD), have instead found themselves in deportation proceedings.

IVD allows aliens to remain in the country indefinitely and to seek work authorization.

Chishti said the deportation actions "do violence to the spirit and purpose of the legalization program."

Cecilia Munoz of the National Council of La Raza testified that spouses and children of legalized family members have had deportation proceedings initiated against them in Chicago, Dallas, Oklahoma City, Albuquerque, San Antonio and elsewhere.

"What has been publicized as a 'benefit' and 'remedy' to the family unity situation has actually led to the fulfillment of IRCA families' worst fears," said Ms. Munoz, senior immigration policy analyst for La Raza.

"That's ridiculous," Jervis said. "I don't think it's going on any place and I defy her to provide any specifics. I certainly think somebody should press her on that because it's just patently untrue."

Jervis said Ms. Munoz was taking "trumped up information to a congressional committee and other gullible people that we're initiating deportation proceedings against these people and it's patently baloney."

If it is indeed happening, Jervis said, "Why did they wait so long to make it public?"

La Raza has documentation of dozens of orders initiating deportation against family members, Ms. Munoz said, adding that she has been raising the issue with Congress and in the media for at least a year.

Ways and Means Committee rejects President Bush's S&L bailout proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats are rejecting President Bush's savings and loan bailout bill in a move that the administration contends may force him to abandon his pledge of no new taxes.

In the biggest challenge yet to Bush's campaign promise to reduce the federal deficit without new taxes, the House Ways and Means Committee voted 25-11 Wednesday to dump the $50 billion S&L bailout costs on the government's budgets for fiscal 1989, 1990 and 1991. The amounts would not count against the Gramm-Rudman deficit limits, according to the plan.

An angry Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady called the vote a "mistake" and said it could lead to "months of stalemate."

"If adopted, this action could force us to go back to square one on both the budget and the savings and loan plan," he said. "This is not the way either to lower interest rates or solve the savings and loan crisis."

Two Republicans — Reps. Willis Gradison of Ohio and Raymond McGrath of New York — joined all 26 Democrats in rejecting Bush's off-budget financing scheme.

The Ways and Means alternative would swell this year's budget deficit by $9 billion or $10 billion and next year's by between $22 billion and $25 billion.

All the money would go toward closing or merging some 350 insolvent thrift institutions that have lost an estimated $100 billion in federally insured deposits through poor and often fraudulent lending practices.

"This is the first step in ending the period of Ronald Reagan's blue smoke and mirrors," said the committee's chairman, Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill.

Prior to Wednesday's vote, Brady met for an hour with committee members behind closed doors, repeating a threat to recommend that Bush veto any S&L plan that — without a tax increase or spending cuts elsewhere — would raise the deficit.

Senate Democrats bowed to a similar threat last month, rejecting an alternative proposed by its banking committee chairman, Sen. Donald Riegle, D-Mich., to put the entire bailout's cost on this year's budget.

The Ways and Means Committee meets again on May 18 to affirm its vote formally before the bill goes to the full House on the following week. But Rostenkowski said he hopes his panel will not reopen the issue.

Rep. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y., an early proponent of including the S&L bailout's costs in the budget, said the committee's action Wednesday has breathed new life into a once-abandoned effort to force Bush's hand.

"The Democratic caucus is pretty much on board now that Ways and Means has said it wants this on the budget," Schumer said. "I think the odds are 70 percent to 80 percent that we'll win on the House floor."

Both the administration's plan and the alternative separate the cost of cleaning up the S&L mess from the Gramm-Rudman law, which requires a reduction in the federal deficit to less than $100 billion for the next fiscal year beginning in October.

Bush's proposal gets around the requirement by borrowing the $50 billion through a new off-budget government corporation and including only the $3.5 billion in interest costs as part of federal budget for the next three years.

The Ways and Means measure allows the budget deficit to swell a total of $50 billion over that time, but exempts it from the official Gramm-Rudman target deficits of $136 billion this year, $100 billion in 1990 and $64 billion in 1991.

"Everybody knows that it's already breached," said Rep. Ed Jenkins, D-Ga., referring to the $163 billion deficit anticipated this year and assumptions that interest rates will fall to 5.5 percent so that the 1990 target can be met.

While Bush's plan prevented the cost of solving the S&L crisis from showing up on the budget, it also swelled the overall costs to taxpayers because higher interest rates would have to be paid on the borrowed $50 billion.

The Congressional Budget Office estimates the savings in lower interest rates from what the Ways and Means Committee did at $671 million over the first five years, $1.5 billion by the year 2000 and $4.5 billion over 30 years.

Judge orders television reporter to reveal source

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — State District Judge James Barlow has ordered a television reporter to surrender his notes that name a confidential source that led him to an interview with a man accused of killing a policeman.

Barlow gave KMOL-TV reporter Brian Karem until noon today to hand over his notes or risk a contempt of court citation.

Karem said following a brief hearing Wednesday that he will risk going to jail rather than surrender his notes and violate the confidence of a news source.

"I hope it doesn't come down to that, but they can't have my notes," Karem told the San Antonio Express-News.

Karem reported on a March 28 newscast that he had spoken by telephone with Henry David Hernandez, and that Hernandez had confessed to him that he had shot San Antonio police officer Gary Lee Williams to death a day earlier. Hernandez was in custody at the time of the telephone call.

Hernandez, 25, and his brother, Julian, 28, were arrested March 28.

The reporter said he received a telephone call from a person identifying himself as Henry David Hernandez after the brothers had been taken into custody.

Pentagon: U.S. military following Panama treaties

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. armed forces are quietly forging ahead with plans to phase out their bases along the Panama Canal, despite threats in Washington of American military intervention following this week's allegedly fraudulent election.

"In all this hubbub we are doing our job," Maj. Kathy Wood, a Pentagon spokeswoman, said Wednesday.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur Davis said dependents of the 12,000 military and diplomatic personnel in Panama who live off-base would be moved today to military bases to ensure their safety. U.S. personnel were told to stay out of public places unless on official business, and then to appear only in civilian clothes.

The American personnel are based at 10 military installations along the 50-mile long Panama Canal, which cuts a swath through the isthmus to join the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. Their mission mandated by the 1977 Panama Canal Treaties is twofold: to protect the waterway but to prepare to turn that job over to the Panamanians on Dec. 31, 1999. A so-called neutrality treaty, however, provides an open-ended American military presence to guarantee the "permanent neutrality and operation" of the canal.

Alleged election fraud by Panama's de facto ruler, Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega, sparked new waves of internal discontent and renewed speculation at home the United States would send in military reinforcements. Some in Congress have suggested outright intervention to topple Noriega's regime, although Bush administration sources have described that as unlikely.

Wood, asked about possible plans to send added American troops, said: "I can't speak with regard to future military activities." But a military source, who spoke on the condition of anonymity, said: "As I understand it, that is not being given serious consideration."

The United States has not recognized Noriega's government since last year, shortly after he was indicted on federal drug trafficking charges.

American military personnel in Panama for the past year have been the targets of harassment, reportedly by Noriega's Defense Forces troops. On Wednesday, for example, five U.S. military personnel were detained.

Noriega frequently accuses the United States of attempting to renege on turning over the canal and on getting the troops out.

The Pentagon, however, is making plans to move the U.S. Southern Command, which manages American military operations south of Mexico to the tip of South America. The tropical, white-washed buildings will be transferred to the Panamanians no later than the end of the century.

Seven sites for the Southern Command have been announced and a decision could come by the end of July, the spokeswoman said. Under consideration are MacDill Air Force Base near Tampa, Fla.; Patrick Air Force Base near Cocoa Beach, Fla.; Fort Polk near Leesville, La.; England Air Force Base near Baton Rouge, La.; the Naval Air Station in New Orleans; Brooks Air Force Base and Fort Sam Houston, both in San Antonio, Texas.

American troops have been based in Panama since shortly after the nation's independence from Colombia in 1903, peaking during World War II when some 67,000 military personnel were there.

When the Panama Canal treaties went into effect on Oct. 1, 1979, the American military began turning over its territory and property.

The remaining U.S. presence in Panama includes the Jungle Operations Training Center at Fort Sherman along the Atlantic Coast, a Special Forces battalion, a military intelligence battalion, an infantry brigade, Howard Air Base and Naval operations.

House tentatively passes life term without parole

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill that would restrict the amount hotels and motels could charge guests for telephone calls was tentatively approved by the House.

The House also gave preliminary approval Wednesday to bills that would prohibit parole for inmates sentenced to life in prison for capital murder and exempt real estate agents from liability for not disclosing the resident of a home had AIDS.

The bill on phone calls made from hotels would limit the cost to that of a local call from a public pay telephone, if hotel operator assistance is not required. Examples would be local, credit-card and collect calls.

Backers of the bill by Rep. Eddie Cavazos, D-Corpus Christi, said some charges for calls made from a hotel room have become exorbitant. For example, according to a House Research Organization analysis, some people have made what they thought were $10 calls only to find they cost $50.

The capital offender bill by Rep. Larry Warner, D-Port Isabel, would require those convicted of certain murders to serve out a life term, if so sentenced.

Capital murders include those committed during a kidnapping, burglary, robbery, aggravated sexual assault or arson; murder of a peace officer or fire fighter performing official duties; murder for hire; murder during a prison escape or of a prison employee; and multiple or serial murders.

Under the real estate bill, agents would be exempt from criminal prosecution or civil liability for failure to ask about or disclose whether the occupant of a residence had acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

College plans commencement

Robert Hargrove, member of the board of trustees, will welcome visitors and Dr. Harry Krenk, college president, will offer closing remarks.

Dr. Wylie (Buff) Hearn, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, will give the invocation. The benediction will be given by Dr. Darold Baldwin, coordinator of the college Baptist Student Union.

Members of the Psi Zeta chapter of Phi Theta Kappa will serve as ushers.

College officials note that in the event of bad weather, the program will be relocated to Worsham Auditorium at Snyder High School.

President Theodore Roosevelt used the term "muckrake" in a 1906 speech to the Gridiron Club in Washington.

Baker rejects call for missile talks

MOSCOW (AP) — President Mikhail S. Gorbachev proposed today that the Soviet Union and United States negotiate differences over NATO plans to improve short-range nuclear missiles in Europe, but Secretary of State James A. Baker III rejected the offer.

At a news conference capping his first visit to the Soviet Union, Baker also said U.S.-Soviet talks on long-range nuclear weapons and a nuclear test ban would resume next month.

But he reported sharp differences over NATO plans to replace its short-range Lance missiles in Europe with modern battlefield nuclear weapons. He said Gorbachev had suggested the two sides try to resolve the dispute through consultations.

Baker told reporters at the Foreign Ministry press center that Washington would not accept negotiations because it believes the weapons have served as an effective deterrent.

"We had a rather extensive and in-depth discussion. We agreed that we would continue to disagree agreeably on this," Baker said before flying to Brussels, Belgium, to tell the North Atlantic Treaty Organization about his two days of Moscow talks.

The official news agency Tass said Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze had complained that the missiles could be used to deliver a first strike and that their modernization would destabilize Europe.

The Soviet Union did not want to discuss the short-range missiles as part of negotiations on reducing conventional arms in Europe, Shevardnadze said.

NATO itself is embroiled in a dispute over the missiles. Despite strong resistance from the United States and Britain, West Germany is insisting on East-West talks that would reduce the weapons. Most of NATO's 88 Lance missiles are based in West Germany.

On a more upbeat note, Baker announced that negotiations on strategic nuclear weapons, recessed last year, would resume between June 12 and 19. He also said talks with the Soviets on a nuclear test ban would start June 26.

Baker appeared to rule out the possibility that Gorbachev and President Bush would hold their first summit soon.

"We agreed that we would further discuss that issue at the next ministerial (meeting) minister Shevardnadze and I have, probably in September," Baker said.

American secretaries of state and Soviet foreign ministers traditionally meet in New York each fall at the start of U.N. General Assembly sessions.

Baker met with Gorbachev in the Kremlin for about 3½ hours, 90 minutes longer than scheduled, U.S. officials said.

Baker said he gave Gorbachev a letter from Bush expressing "the Bush administration's broad view on how they want Soviet-U.S. relations to develop." The letter also referred to the Kremlin chief's wide-ranging overhaul of Soviet society domestic policy. According to Baker, it "emphasized in the strongest terms our wish to see perestroika succeed."

On other issues, Baker said the Soviets gave U.S. officials a list of people who will be allowed to emigrate. The secretary had met Wednesday with a group of dissidents and Jewish refuseniks, people not allowed to emigrate, telling them Washington would "keep up the pressure to resolve individual cases."

The Middle East also figured prominently in Baker's two day of talks.

"We think there may be a fair amount of common ground to our approaches to the Middle East," Baker told reporters. "We talked about the idea of giving elections a chance."

Hightower bill could save job chemical groups for enforcement of pesticide regulations and for advocating the sale of hormone-free beef to European countries that want it.

The Texas Farm Bureau has urged abolition of the elected commissioner post, replacing it with an appointed panel.

Hightower said the amendment was the only "hickey" for his department. The bill, which already has won Senate approval, requires another vote before returning to the Senate for its action on House amendments.

The amendment by Rep. Rick Perry, D-Haskell, says other board members would be the state chemist appointed by the director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station; agriculture school dean of Texas Tech University; dean of the University of Texas School of Public Health in Houston; environmental epidemiology program director of the Texas Department of Health; and chief of the groundwater conservation section of the Texas Water Commission.

The board would give the commissioner "the intellectual expertise, the scientific expertise" to make pesticide decisions, Perry said. He said board members would not "let politics or philosophy get involved" in pesticide regulation.

"Stop the emotionalism and the politicism," he said in urging House members to approve the amendment. They did so with an 88-54 vote.

Hightower said the amendment is proof of his assertion that chemical company interests led an attack on his office. He said a board would not provide the access and quick response to farmers that a single elected official does.

Responding to the assertion that it was a chemical lobby victory, Gov. Bill Clements said, "That's absolute nonsense, just like a hundred percent of the other things that this man says. To the contrary, it gives us better control and will assure us of a better environmental situation."

Clements, a Republican, has declined to say whether he would veto the sunset bill.

"This issue all the way through here has not been the commissioner. The issue has been, really, the pesticides and what's right for the state," he said.

Rep. Lena Guerrero, D-Austin, said lawmakers could give their constituents good news and bad news about the amendment. She fought adding it to the sunset bill, which she sponsored.

"You get to say ... 'The good news is, you get to elect the ag commissioner. The bad news is, he doesn't have any power,'" she said.

That was a reference to Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir's proposal for elections in the Israeli-occupied territories. The Soviet Union has called the plan an attempt by Shamir to gain time to crush the 18-month-old Palestinian uprising in the Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Farmers, livestock groups pressing for drought aid

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — The Drought of '89 is now the Drought of '89 in parts of the Central Plains, and farmers and stockmen are worried as dry conditions worsen and Congress fails to provide help this year.

"I guess they haven't decided yet we have a disaster," said central Kansas wheat farmer Darwin McCall.

Drought conditions have led experts to predict the Kansas winter wheat crop will only make around 200 million bushels, 123 million bushels fewer than last year, despite a 22 percent increase in acres seeded. The projected harvest is about half what the crop should have yielded based on the 12.4 million acres planted in the fall.

Analysts say that translates into a $500 million to $800 million loss to the Kansas economy. Reduced harvests also are expected in Nebraska, eastern Colorado, Oklahoma and Texas.

The first official Agriculture Department estimate of the 1989 winter wheat crop was to be released this afternoon.

The Kansas Livestock Association, the Kansas Association of Wheat Growers, the Kansas Farm Bureau and the Kansas Farmers Union have written repeatedly to Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter seeking help.

The groups are asking for several breaks for cattlemen.

"It would be hard to overstate the severity of the current situation and the need for an extremely rapid decision on these requests," said Warren Weibert, president of the livestock association.

Because there isn't enough pasture or hay, Kansas cattlemen are selling off cows they use to produce calves for beef slaughter. Many stockmen have spent years building the genetics in their herds.

Many producers and Kansas farm groups favor extending the provisions of the $3.9 billion 1988 drought relief bill to cover 1989 losses.

Yeutter was asked to take that step by administrative action. He refused, saying it was up to Congress to act. Several House measures have been introduced, and a subcommittee of the House Agriculture Committee has scheduled hearings in Texas and Kansas May 19 and 20.

"The '89 drought is simply an extension of the '88 drought. We feel farmers in the Midwest should receive the same consideration for disaster payments in 1989 that corn farmers in the western Corn Belt received in 1988," said Ivan Wyatt, president of the Kansas Farmers Union.

Doyle Rahjes, president of the Kansas Farm Bureau, the state's largest farm group, said the $250 million to $350 million that drought assistance might cost could be covered by the anticipated decrease in federal wheat subsidy payments because of the poor crop.

"It could be done without affecting the budget hardly at all because of the deficiency payment reduction," Rahjes said. "We feel it isn't something that would be a burden to taxpayers."

Farmers enrolled in federal grain programs get deficiency payments to make up the difference between market prices and target prices set by the Agriculture Department. Since the wheat crop is poor and market prices are up, the subsidy payments are expected to cost far less than expected.

Window breakage prompts arrests

Two boys Wednesday afternoon were arrested for criminal trespass after they had reportedly been breaking windows in a storage building in the 300 Block of 36th St.

Police received a report at 5:12 p.m. of the window breakage, and the boys, 12 and 14 years old, were found inside the building by a city policeman at 5:27 p.m.

The building is behind a house at 306 36th, police said.
