Ask Us

Q—Is it true that the water and sewer lines are not working correctly at the prison, and is the TDC extension the reason for having to raise the water tower in town?

A—No. City Manager John Gayle said final inspection was made Thursday by the Texas Water Commission and that everything is in proper working order. Also, the need to raise an overhead water tank in town is to improve low water pressure that has existed for several years. This project has been in the city's five-year plan, Gayle added, and is in no way tied to the prison project.

In Brief

Prison gangs

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A three-page document outlining the rules of a powerful gang operating from within the Texas prison system was used to help convict a gang member of killing another inmate.

David Weeks, a special Texas Department of Corrections prosecutor, said he based his case against Gilbert Urbano on Urbano's membership in the Texas Syndicate and demonstrated how he killed fellow inmate Ramon Gomez Jr. to advance himself in the syndicate.

Without evidence of remuneration, Urbano would not have qualified for and received the death penalty last week.

Child abuse

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Some child abuse victims and their families are forced to wait up to a month before receiving evaluation and counseling in a pilot treatment program because of the backlog of cases, program officials said.

Known as Children and Adolescent Sexual Abuse Intervention Services, or CASIS, the program was designed to provide medical care and counseling to children and their families a week to two weeks after abuse is revealed.

Phone strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Striking telephone workers in California and Nevada returned to work today following a tentative three-year contract agreement offering modest pay increases and health-care cost controls.

Abilene man dies in wreck

A 21-year-old Abilene man was killed in a 1:45 p.m. Saturday collision involving a rental truck and a parked tractor-trailer rig eight miles northwest of Snyder on U.S. 84.

The Department of Public Safety said Timothy Glenn Gilchrest was a passenger in a 1987 GMC Ryder rental truck driven by Stephen Mack Panther and was killed when the northbound truck drifted onto the shoulder and ran into the back of a parked 1975 Kenworth rig. Snyder firemen were called to the scene to employ the Jaws of Life hydraulic device.

Gilchrest was pronounced dead at the scene by Scurry County Justice of the Peace Dan Callaway.

Panther, who is from Kennewick, Wash., was treated at Cogdell Memorial Hospital and transferred to Scenic Mountain Medical Center in Big Spring, where he underwent surgery for an injury to his arm. He had been discharged Monday.

A DPS trooper said the driver of the tractor-trailer rig, 47-year-old Larry K. Perry of Lubbock, was on top of the trailer checking his load of firewood when the accident happened.

Perry was uninjured. The trooper said the Ryder truck, which had been rented in Lubbock, veered into the tractor-trailer rig, when Panther went to sleep at the wheel.

The rig was owned by Boldes Trucking of Lubbock.

Services for Gilchrest will be at 3:30 p.m. Monday at the Southern Hills Church of Christ Chapel in Abilene.

Gilchrest, a native of Abilene, was a 1985 graduate of Cooper High School. He attended Southwest Texas State University and was a student at Abilene Christian University at the time of his death. He and Panther were members of the Continental Singers gospel group. They were apparently en route to Lubbock where the group was to perform.

Hunter's course required for some but new law could be unenforceable

Texas has a new law requiring a hunter's safety education course for most 16-to-18 year-olds, but it may be largely unenforceable.

The law, which goes into effect Sept. 1, is set up to be phased in over a five-year period. Effective Sept. 1, hunters whose date of birth is during the period of Sept. 2, 1971 through Aug. 31, 1973 must have successfully completed the course to hunt in Texas.

The problem comes under the list of exemptions, which states that hunters under 17 years of age whose date of birth is on or after Sept. 2, 1971, do not have to have had the course if they are accompanied by a licensed

County to save some $5,000...

Election precincts combined

County commissioners voted Monday to honor County Clerk Frances Billingsley's request to combine election precincts for the Nov. 7 general election.

Billingsley said the county will save approximately $3,000 with the combination. Some $2,500 in salaries will be abolished with the move, along with about $500 in voting materials.

Billingsley stressed that citizens over the age of 65 can apply for a mail-in ballot. An application can be obtained by calling the courthouse. Also, anyone unable to make it to their assigned balloting place Nov. 7 may vote absentee Oct. 18 through Nov. 3 at the courthouse.

Election precincts 14, 15 and 16 were combined and moved to the Snyder-Scurry County Health Unit at 911 26th St. These boxes include Lloyd Mountain, northeast Snyder and north central Snyder.

Boxes 5 from Fluvanna, 6 from Union, 17 from northwest Snyder and 18 from west Snyder will be moved to the Scurry County Library.

In combined Precinct 3, boxes 7 from Knapp, 8 from southwest central Snyder, 9 from Ira and 19 from southwest Snyder will be moved to Towle Park Barn.

Combined Precinct 4 will include boxes 10 from Dunn, 11 from southeast central Snyder, 12 from southeast Snyder and 13 from Hermleigh which will be moved to the Senior Citizens Center at 2600 Ave. M.

In other business, the court approved minutes from the Aug. 14 regular meeting and the Aug. 18 special budget session.

Commissioner Ted Billingsley and County Auditor Linda Franklin were absent.

Chamber sets Monday meet

Snyder Chamber of Commerce will hold its monthly board meeting at 4 p.m. Monday in the chamber office.

The board will discuss several items, including a 6:45 a.m. breakfast on Aug. 29 to honor the high school staff and a reception at 5 p.m. on the same date to honor the staff at Western Texas College.

Search continues for wreck victims

LONDON (AP) — Salvage crews searched the River Thames and a sunken vessel today for more bodies from a late-night collision between a barge and a party boat that was a fraction of its size. Police said at least 27 people were killed.

Eighty-four people survived the accident early Sunday under Southwark Bridge in the heart of London but authorities remain uncertain exactly how many were aboard the privately chartered Marchioness, setting for the 26th birthday party for businessman Antonio Vasconcellos. He is among the missing.

Police detained the captain and second mate of the Bowbelle sand-and-gravel dredger, and were examining tape-recorded radio messages to river navigators for clues into the cause of the accident.

The Independent, a London daily, reported an apparent disagreement between the captains of the 90-ton Marchioness and the 1,475-ton Bowbelle over which vessel should pass first under the bridge's central span.

The paper also quoted a veteran crewman as saying the Bowbelle rammed another Thames passenger boat five years ago and nearly sank it. The Thames is one of the world's busiest commercial rivers, used by more than 32,000 vessels each year.

Twenty-four hours after the accident, police still were unsure how many people were on board when it was struck in the rear and run over by the Bowbelle while on a five-hour overnight cruise.

But today, police backed off any specific number, saying it was not known how many people were on board.

Abortion clinic shuts down

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — The expense of flying in doctors from out of town forced the closing of Wichita Falls's only abortion clinic, the clinic's administrator said.

Reproductive Services couldn't afford to bring in doctors from Dallas and other cities and it closed two weeks ago, leaving a gap in services that will affect poor and young women in the area, former clinic administrator Tamara Johnson said.

The clinic, which opened in 1980, had performed as many as 100 abortions per month, she said.

The closing "will push a lot of women into parenthood when they're not ready, they're not prepared, or financially can't afford another child," Ms. Johnson said.

Marilyn Chrisman, president of Nova Health Systems, which operated the abortion clinic for nine years, said she hated "to abandon the people in the area."

"We were never able to break even in Wichita Falls," Ms. Chrisman said. "It was expensive to get doctors."

Ms. Johnson told the Wichita Falls Times Record News that local doctors refused to work at the clinic because they feared community backlash.

But, one Wichita Falls doctor who asked not to be named told the newspaper that the clinic's closing should not be viewed as a victory for anti-abortion groups.

The doctor said local doctors are too busy.

Swaggert Ministries...

Detective agency files lawsuit

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — A local detective agency has sued Jimmy Swaggart Ministries for non-payment of a $47,519 bill for an unspecified investigation. A ministries spokesman, however, disavowed the debt.

Carroll Security Consultants' recent suit in state district court claimed the ministries authorized the agency to do investigative work and send its bills to a Texas man. Owner William Carroll said he was later told the ministries was not paying "because they didn't have the money."

However, ministries spokesman Emile Weber said the agency was working for the Texas man and not for the television evangelist. Weber also is Swaggart's attorney in the matter.

But Carroll Security's attorney, Larry Anderson, said he has a copy of a letter in which the ministries' attorney — Stone, Pigman of New Orleans — authorizing them to perform investigative work for Swaggart, his wife Frances and the ministries.

The letter is dated Dec. 29, 1988, and Anderson said the first work was actually done by Carroll on Dec. 19, 1988.

Though the nature of Carroll's investigation was not disclosed in the suit, Carroll said his agency had worked on behalf of Swaggart Ministries for several years, doing polygraphs, background and screening of new employees, and other security work.

Carroll also said he had been hired by a North Texas benefactor, who he did not identify, to find out how Swaggart wound up being photographed with admitted prostitute Debra Murphree outside a suburban New Orleans motel.

The scandal that followed the motel incident resulted in the loss of Swaggart's Assemblies of God affiliation, dwindling television viewership, a loss of students at Swaggart Bible College, and financial hard times for the once-thriving ministries.

Carroll said the work that is the subject of the unpaid invoices was a new investigation and not the same job paid for by the Texas benefactor. Most of this work was done in the last week of January through early March 1989, he said.

Records filed with the suit show the first billing was in January, soon after a New Orleans-area telegram service employee, Catherine Kampen, alleged in Penthouse that she performed bizarre sex acts as Swaggart watched.

Swaggart denounced the article as a lie and vowed to sue Penthouse. No suit was filed, but legal action is still being considered, said ministries attorney Bill Treeby.

Carroll said he and detective Joe Oster "received specific instructions from (Swaggart's co-pastor Jim) Rentz" to begin the unpaid job and to first bill Stone, Pigman and then the Texas-law firm of Dennis S. Brewer Sr.

Brewer, from Irving, Texas, is a member of the board of directors of Swaggart Ministries.

Anderson said he has check stubs that prove the ministries was paying for the work. Ministries' checks would go through the attorneys and then on to Carroll, he said.

"Every check we received was drawn from the ministries. Some were hand-delivered. Some I went out and picked up from (Swaggart's secretary) Linda Westbrook," Carroll said.

Road-map pre-empt

By James Jacoby

How would you play J-8-4 in your hand, facing A-K-9-6-5 in dummy, for no losers? That was declarer's problem in today's deal. One approach would be to play West, who had pre-empted with three hearts, for both the queen and the 10 of diamonds. Ordinarily the chances of success are 25 percent, but West's pre-empt reduces those chances. A second approach would be to play for a 3-2 diamond split, with the queen doubleton. Playing out the A-K of diamonds brings down the queen a little over 27 percent of the time. Needless to say, if declarer had to give up a diamond, the defenders would quickly cash out two spade winners. Declarer saw yet another path to success, less likely than the other plays, but perhaps justified by declarer's knowledge of West's tendencies.

West was a player who loudly proclaimed to one and all that his high cards were only in his long suit whenever he made a weak jump bid. If he was telling the truth, he could not hold a high spade or the diamond queen. So declarer played ace of hearts, cashed A-K of clubs, ruffed the heart jack and cashed the diamond ace to see if anyone held a singleton queen. He then ran off his remaining trumps. Coming down to four cards, East had to discard from A-K-J of spades and Q-7 of diamonds. When he threw the jack of spades away, declarer led a spade. East could take two spade tricks but had to lead away from the queen of diamonds. South put up the jack to make his contract.

Voyager 2 nears Neptune for the last planetary flyby

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — After a 12-year, 4.4 billion-mile space odyssey, Voyager 2 converges this week on mysterious Neptune, the most distant and last unexplored planet due for a visit by a spacecraft from Earth.

"It's almost like being on a ship of discovery like Marco Polo, Magellan and Columbus," says Jurrie van der Woude, a spokesman at the NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

hours and six minutes later — the time it takes for Voyager's signals to reach Earth, even at the 186,000-mile-per-second speed of light.

Cable television stations will be carrying live NASA broadcasts of photographs from the planet.

On its approach to the solar system's fourth-largest planet, the picture-snapping space probe already has discovered four moons in addition to Triton and Nereid, which had been discovered from Earth, as well as two partial rings of debris orbiting Neptune.

Voyager also discovered Neptune has a magnetic field; hurricane-like storms dubbed "scooters" with 400-mph winds; 2,700-mile-wide bands vaguely like Earth's jet streams; and a 8,100-by-4,100-mile Great Dark Spot, probably a huge storm like Jupiter's Great Red Spot.

NASA listed Voyager's position today as 2.743 billion miles from Earth and 3.211 million miles from Neptune, approaching the planet at 42,310 mph. Since it was launched in 1977, Voyager 2 has traveled a curving path totaling 4.4 billion miles.

With no one planning a mission to Pluto, Neptune is the last unexplored planet that will be visited by a spacecraft from Earth in the foreseeable future.

Neptune, usually the eighth planet from the sun, currently is the ninth and most distant. Pluto follows an elongated elliptical orbit and is closer now.

Slain candidate buried...

10,000 arrested in drug raid

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Military and police forces raided estates of top cocaine chieftains and detained 10,000 people nationwide as they tried to put the squeeze on Colombia's powerful drug underworld, authorities said.

There were no reports, however, of any drug cartel bosses arrested in the emergency crackdown, which follows the assassinations of a leading presidential candidate, a national police colonel and a magistrate.

Sen. Luis Carlos Galan, the 46-year-old Liberal Party candidate, was buried Sunday after hundreds of thousands of people took to the streets in a public display of grief.

Meanwhile, thousands of judges and magistrates who walked off the job last week to protest inadequate security from hitmen hired by drug traffickers have called off the strike to join the fight, a spokesman for the jurists said.

In 298 raids across the country since Galan was slain Friday night, police and soldiers detained 9,896 people, seized 330 weapons and 1,023 vehicles and confiscated four tons of cocaine paste, the Defense Ministry said in a communique Sunday night.

Among the sites raided were buildings and ranches in and around the city of Medellin that are owned by Pablo Escobar, reputed to be one of the world's biggest cocaine traffickers.

According to the ministry, at one ranch owned by Escobar, military forces detained 52 people and seized 2,000 head of cattle, 100 pigs, 3,000 gallons of gasoline and several cars and trucks.

Properties owned by the family of Jorge Ochoa and by Gonzalo Rodriguez Gacha, two other top reputed cocaine dealers, also were raided, the ministry said.

Galan was gunned down at a political rally in Soacha, a town 20 miles south of Bogota. His killing capped a wave of drug-related assassinations that also included a national police colonel in Medellin and a Bogota magistrate. Later Friday, President Virgilio Barco declared a state of siege and announced emergency decrees empowering the government to summarily extradite drug traffickers, several of whom are sought by the United States on smuggling charges.

He also gave police extraordinary powers to arrest and seize the property of suspected dealers, stiffened penalties and established special protection for the country's judges.

Speaking at Galan's funeral in a packed central cathedral, Barco declared: "We pray to God to give each of us, each Colombian, all the courage and all the foritude that we need to face the challenge of terrorism.

"Once again, this time moved by sadness, I call for international solidarity to fight this international organization," he said. He called the cocaine underworld "a gigantic and powerful organization such has never existed in the world" and described Colombia as "its biggest victim."

Galan had survived previous attempts on his life. Police said drug traffickers offered $500,000 for his death.

About 400,000 people lined the three-mile route from the cathedral to the central cemetery, where Galan was buried.

About 20 groups question wisdom of beer bash

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A beer company's widely promoted, multi-million dollar beer bash, planned Sept. 3 in six Texas cities, is an irresponsible move that sends a confusing message to teenagers about alcohol, opponents say.

About 20 groups have formed a coalition to express their reservations about the message being sent to young people from Randy Quaid's big Texas party in two weeks.

The coalition, led by Texans' War on Drugs, is growing increasingly apprehensive that the parties could get out of hand, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported.

"There is a growing concern that what Miller is doing with this campaign is sending a very confusing message to young people about alcohol," said Bobby Heard, youth coordinator for Texans' War on Drugs. "What they're doing is irresponsible."

The groups, which met in Austin last week, said they just want to ensure it is a safe and responsible gathering.

Heard said the coalition won't try to cancel the event. The Dallas party is Sept. 3 and includes concerts by the Who, Stevie Ray Vaughan, and the Fabulous Thunderbirds.

The Miller Lite party also will be staged in Corpus Christi, Houston, San Antonio, Midland-Odessa and Mercedes, culminating an unusual single-state, multimillion-dollar, 16-month marketing campaign featuring humorous commercials starring Quaid. The parties are being billed as a benefit for Texas Special Olympics, which is guaranteed $1 million.

Nutrition program slated Wednesday

Loraine Hall will present a program on nutrition from 10-11:30 a.m. Wednesday at the Senior Citizens Center. She will discuss the two kinds of cholesterol as well as take participants on a make believe tour through a grocery store.

Woodstock gathering concludes

Man's stabbing mars occasion

BETHEL, N.Y. (AP) — Woodstock anniversary celebrants packed up and left a muddy field here, a final reminder of the rock 'n' roll festival 20 years ago that for many defined a generation.

By Sunday, only about 3,500 people remained of the more than 20,000 that showed up over the last three days. The sloping alfalfa field 110 miles northwest of New York City was soaked by rain, much as it was in August 1969 when 400,000 attended the Woodstock Music and Art Festival.

Police expect most of the revelers to be gone by today.

"This is it," said Sullivan County Sheriff Joseph Wasser, pronouncing an end to a celebration that had no official backing from county or town authorities. Once people began arriving in large numbers, however, the town of Bethel supplied portable toilets and water.

The gathering was marred when a man was stabbed in the abdomen during a fight Saturday night.

Joseph Basto, 39, of Newburgh, remained in critical condition today at Harris Community General Hospital, officials said. Sullivan County Sheriff Joseph Wasser said no arrest was made and police were interviewing witnesses on Sunday.

Despite that incident and a few drug-related arrests, the anniversary like its predecessor was mostly peaceful. The first people arrived weeks ago at the site 110 miles northwest of New York City, which some consider hallowed ground.

Tribe suspected in death of noted conservationist

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Conservationist George Adamson was found dead at his home in a game reserve where he taught lions born in captivity to survive in the bush. Reports today said he was shot by animal poachers.

Adamson and his late wife, author Joy Adamson, helped popularize wildlife conservation. Joy, who wrote the celebrated book chronicling their work, "Born Free," was killed in 1980 in the Shaba Game Reserve by a young servant in a wage dispute.

Eric Callaghan of the British High Commission confirmed the 83-year-old Adamson, a Briton, was found dead at his camp in the Kora National Reserve on Sunday.

Members of Kenya's wildlife community and associates of Adamson, speaking on condition of anonymity, said they understood Adamson had been shot to death by Shifta, roaming bands of Somali tribesmen who are believed responsible for most of the animal poaching in Kenya.

Neither police nor Adamson's lawyer would comment on those reports. Police Commissioner Philip Kilonzo and Wildlife Director Richard Leakey flew to Adamson's camp in the northeastern reserve to investigate.

It was due largely to activism by Adamson, who moved to Kora and leased the area from a county council in 1971, that the government made it a game reserve three years later.

As a result of encroachment by nomadic Somali tribesmen and their herds, Adamson pressured Kenya into calling in paramilitary anti-poaching troops to drive out the Somalis.

Adamson was game warden of Kenya's northern Frontier District in 1944 when he married Joy, an Austrian-born artist whose books would thrust him into fame.

She had moved to the game reserve in the late 1960s to work with leopards.

In 1956, her husband brought home three motherless lion cubs. One, which they named Elsa, became the central character of "Born Free." Adamson served as technical director for a film adaptation.

That book and its sequels, "Living Free" and "Forever Free," described the Adamsons' unique and controversial practice of taking lions born in captivity and teaching them to survive on their own before freeing them.

The government stopped the practice in 1980 after a mauling incident in Kora in 1980.

Houston office buildings selling at record pace

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston office buildings are selling at a record-setting pace, with a six-month total nearly as high as all of 1987, according to a new real estate study.

The Coldwell, Banker & Co. realty firm says the 43 office building sales in Houston during the first half of 1989 compare with 12-month totals of 64 last year and 45 in 1987.

"The final total for this year is likely to be the highest on record," said David Alsmeyer, a real estate researcher for Coldwell Banker.

"There weren't that many building sales back in the boom days of the early 1980s," he said. "People were mainly building instead of buying back then."

Three large deals now in the works could easily make this a record year for major office building transactions in Houston, industry experts agree.

The Interfin Corp. hopes for action within 30 days in the sale of four Oaks Place, a $275 million, four-building, 1.75 million-square-foot office complex finished in 1983 on a 20-acre site.

Pair survives 2 months at sea

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP) — A husband and wife said they survived 66 days at sea on raw fish and purified water after whales rammed and sank their pleasure boat off the Central American coast.

William Butler, 60, and his 52-year-old wife Simone were taken to a hospital in Golfito, Costa Rica, after being rescued by a Costa Rican Coast Guard crew Saturday afternoon, about 30 miles off that city's Pacific coast, said U.S. Coast Guard spokesman Egbert Vallecillo.

"They are weak but they are expected to recover," said Vallecillo, who said he spoke to Butler by phone from the U.S. Coast Guard's Pacific Command headquarters in Alameda, 10 miles east of San Francisco.

Butler told Coast Guard officials their 40-foot pleasure boat, the "Siboney," was attacked and sunk by "several" whales on June 15, about 1,200 miles southwest of Costa Rica. "They were large, according to Mr. Butler; but he didn't know how many whales," Vallecillo said.

William Butler told Coast Guard officials he is an experienced sailor.

Vallecillo said he has heard of boats running into marine mammals when there is poor visibility, but wasn't sure if there have been any recorded cases of whale aggression.

Dear Abby

Daughter Objects to 'Disgrace' Of Parents' Plan for Divorce

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1989 Universal Press Syndicate

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Abby is off on a two-week vacation, but she left behind some of her favorite letters taken from her best-selling book, "The Best of Dear Abby.")

DEAR ABBY: I am absolutely beside myself with the news my parents gave me this morning. They drove over here and calmly announced that after 44 years of marriage they are getting a divorce! I honestly believe they have taken leave of their senses.

They have had their differences like all married couples, but they have never separated — not even for one day. I can't imagine what has come over them.

Dad says that since he is 70, if the good Lord gives him another five years he wants to live them in peace. Mother, who is 69, says she feels the same way.

I suggested a larger apartment with two bedrooms, frequent separate vacations, a trial separation — anything but divorce. But they insist they have thought it over and this is what they both want. Abby, they have children and grandchildren who love and respect them. How can parents disgrace their families that way?

THEIR DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Your parents have a right to make their own decisions, for their own reasons, without loss of love or respect from their children and grandchildren. And if they terminate their marriage after 44 years, where is the "disgrace"? Perhaps they stayed together as long as they did out of consideration for you. They need compassion, not criticism.

DEAR ABBY: My friend and I have a difference of opinion. He says Damon and Pythias were homosexuals. I say they were straight. Can you check this out and let us know?

C AND B

DEAR C AND B: I wrote to 12 leading universities. Their responses included yeses, noes and maybes.

I think the chairman of the English Department at the University of Chicago summed it up very well:

"Dear Abby: You asked if Damon and Pythias were gay. In dealing with characters of such remote antiquity, who exist more in the realm of legend, it is sometimes difficult to find much evidence on the most intimate details of their private lives.

"Damon and Pythias were famous for their devotion to each other, and they were Greeks. Beyond that, I think whatever they did was pretty much their own business, and even if I knew, I wouldn't say.

"One less-than-eminant authority said to me, 'I think Damon was OK, but I'm not so sure about Pythias.' Sincerely, Stuart M. Tave"

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a fine man and an excellent provider, but he has some odd ideas. For example, when we go out for an evening, he orders a vodka martini with eight olives. Then one by one he puts the olives in his nose and sniffs out the juice. (He claims it clears his sinuses.)

I don't mind when he does this at home, but when he does it in public, I want to crawl into a hole. Do you think he should see a psychiatrist?

RADIOLOGIST'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Yes, but he should find one who drinks martinis with a twist of lemon so they won't fight over the olives.

The facts about drugs, AIDS, how to prevent unwanted pregnancy are all in Abby's new expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send your name and address, plus check or money order for $3.50 ($4 in Canada) to: Dear Abby's Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Funds advocated for environmental improvement plan

CLEVELAND (AP) — The NASA Lewis Research Center plans to spend $13 million by 1990 to clean up hazardous materials at its Cleveland-area and Sandusky facilities.

In an April 18 memorandum, NASA environmentalist Daniel C. Watson said the agency was violating federal regulations by mishandling toxic mercury and polychlorinated biphenyls, or PCBs, and improperly storing hazardous materials.

NASA officials told The (Cleveland) Plain Dealer in a report published Sunday that the $13 million that has been committed for environmental compliance. Most of it will be used for PCB and asbestos removal and to check for the possibility of leaks in underground jet- and diesel-fuel storage tanks.

John M. Klineberg, director of NASA Lewis Research Center, said that the environmental problems were a concern but that they did not threaten either workers or the environment.

The center has had two accidents that posed a safety hazard, but in both cases, no one was injured.

On May 26, a steam line ruptured in the basement of the NASA library, spewing asbestos that had covered the pipes, Klineberg said. David Pofert, NASA's director of technical services, said it would cost more than $750,000 to repair the site.

"It took about $200,000 to clean up the damage done to the building when a steam line exploded," he said, another $500,000 to repair or replace the steam line and about $60,000 to replace computers, books and microfilm.

In February 1985, a four-story cooling tower collapsed after an ice build-up overloaded the structure. The building, a complete loss, cost $3 million to replace.

The FBI is investigating, at NASA's request, an illegal dumping that occurred in April. At that time, NASA officials notified the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the FBI that they had discovered that sludge containing methylene chloride, a chemical used in paint strippers, had recently been dumped at an old, on-site landfill. All of the contaminated material, including about 700,000 pounds of sludge and dirt, has been cleaned up and is being prepared for disposal.

The union representing about 600 blue-collar workers at NASA has been monitoring the environmental problems.

"Our biggest problem over the years has been asbestos," said Howard Cobb, a research lab mechanic and chief steward for Local 2182 of the American Federation of Government Employees. "We've been prodding them to remove all asbestos from NASA Lewis Research Center."

Between 1984 and 1990, the agency will have spent $6.2 million on asbestos removal. Asbestos, widely used for years as insulation, is dangerous when it is airborne because its tiny particles can cause serious lung diseases.

NASA Lewis officials also plan to move wastes stored too closely in a chemical and barrel storage structure known as Building 415. A day-care center is located 1,200 feet from the storage building, but that there is no safety risk, NASA officials said. The current storage building is in a flood plain, which violates U.S. EPA regulations.

The new building will have additional fire protection, new drains and protective dikes, NASA officials said, and flammable and corrosive wastes will be separated.
