room of the Howard County Courthouse. The regular session of the Commissioner's Court will be called to order at 3:30 p.m. in the third-floor court room at the Courthouse.

Leading the meeting will be citizens' input. Those wishing to address the commissioners should plan to arrive early to fill out a brief form.

After the public comments, County Judge Kathryn Wiseman will introduce IT specialist Odis Franklin, who will discuss cyber security enrollment for the county.

County Treasurer Sharon Adams will next present personnel considerations and continuing hours certificates.

County Auditor Jackie Olson will present invoices, purchase requests, and budget amendments.

Commissioners will begin their meeting day with a workshop Monday at 1:30 p.m. The workshop will be held in the second-floor conference room at the Courthouse. See COUNTY, Page 3

War, pandemic, major factors in gasoline price increase

Local residents sound off about fuel pump sticker shock

By LACHELLE COBB
Herald Staff Writer

For more than a week, gas prices across Howard and surrounding counties have seen a noticeable increase.

There are numerous factors that contribute to the rise in gasoline prices. Currently, the war between Ukraine and Russia is one of the biggest factors. The disruption of the pandemic, the problems with Russia, sanctions being imposed on Russia, and the invasion of Ukraine, seem like the makings of a perfect disaster. This combination brings West Texas – as well as other areas – record high oil and gasoline prices.

Door Dasher Sam White said "It's less of a profit than I would normally make if gas prices were $1.89, so yes it's setting me back a little. I hope that it doesn't keep going up, because I would have to find a secondary income or go work in the oil field."

Gas prices are on the rise and show no signs of lowering again any time soon. While the price increases do hurt people's wallets, it's helping regional economies in Texas and New Mexico.

"Higher oil and gas prices also correspond to higher tax revenues," said former oil and gas employee from Big Spring David Shauna. "When oil and gas prices are high, it usually means more of a demand for workers in the oil and gas industry. It also means more revenue coming into the state. Money coming into the state the more funding for beneficial programs for our community. The more oil that we produce here in the area eventually will stabilize our gas prices...it's just going to be rough in the beginning until production hits a certain point."

Since President Joe Biden put a ban on Russian oil exports, it's just going to be rough in the beginning until production hits a certain point.

National Groundwater Awareness Week

Special to the Herald

This past week has been National Groundwater Awareness Week, and the Permian Basin Underground Water Conservation District says the annual event serves as a reminder for water well owners to test, tend, and treat their private water systems.

Water is one of the world's most precious resources, and groundwater is an essential resource in Texas that needs to be protected and preserved. People use water every day for many activities, such as drinking, bathing, recreation, agriculture, cooling, manufacturing, and medical uses.

Although water plays an essential role in everyday life, many people don't realize that much of their water comes from the ground. 95 percent of Texans depend on public drinking water supplies, and 17 percent of that supply – 991 million gallons per day – is from groundwater, serving over 4,965,160 Texans.

Also, 1,320,000 Texans rely on groundwater from their own wells for their drinking water, and use 137 million gallons per day.

Only 2.5 percent of the water on the earth is fresh. Of this small amount, 68.9 percent is locked in glaciers, 30.8 percent is groundwater, and lakes and rivers make up only 0.3%.

For more information, visit <https://tgpc.texas.gov> or visit the Permian Basin UWCD office in Stanton, Texas.

GAS

on Russian oil imports, Republicans, including Gov. Greg Abbot, have suggested an increase in the production in Texas that could help bring the gas prices down and help the United States become energy independent. Abbot tweeted, "Instead of begging other countries for oil, Biden can stop hindering the U.S. Energy sector. Texas can easily produce enough oil to reduce gas prices if his Administration would let us do it."

Sean Biggs, an oil and gas worker from Halliburton, thinks that the American government is trying to force the country to go electric, which he sees as a frightening prospect for job security.

"As of now it hasn't directly hurt me, but I do think this can either go positively and create more jobs and more oil production in the states, or it could go negative and cause job loss and a much less oil production," he said. "It's too early to tell. We just need to prepare for the worst and hope for the best...and save as much money as we can."

An employee of Completion Rental who asked that their name not be used said smaller companies may be directly affected by the high gas prices.

"While it already cost up to $15,000 dollars to fuel the equipment used and the trucks employees drive before the spike in prices, can you imagine what the cost per month for a small company is now with this spike?" the employee asked. "We just need to be patient and do everything we can to save money in other areas of the company. I don't think this is going to be a forever thing. It will get better, but it's going to be rough for awhile. Before the pandemic production was going good and gas prices were forecast to hit record highs, the pandemic caused a lot of job loss, increased prices on food and other necessities, but the gas prices went down. So its hard to say what's going to happen. Things change every day."

A gas delivery driver at Walmart in Big Spring said that he has been busier than normal as far as how many deliveries he does daily, but he said people seem to be in more of a panic to get the gas now before the price goes up or supplies run out altogether.

"People need to just calm down and let things happen," he said. "It's beyond our control, so either way we have to deal with it."

An employee of a local oil equipment rental company stated "From the company perspective, the higher the better. The higher the oil prices, the more jobs available for the economy."

"The gas prices going up is great for the oilfield companies. I have always been told the higher they go, the better off they will be," Big Spring Resident Jennie Lopez said. "As for a me, it could increase business at my job, but it doesn't increase my wage. I just have to spend more out of pocket for gas and I would need to save elsewhere. Unless Texas wages increase also, it could cause a lot of problems for low income families."

The world has a lot of unknowns and one major thing that we are seeing happen is inflation. Inflation occurs when there's not enough goods and services to meet the demand for them. Prices for those goods and services increase.

Wages also affect the cost of production and are typically the biggest expense for a business. When the economy is performing well, and the unemployment rate is low, shortages in labor or workers can occur. Companies will then increase wages to bring in qualified candidates, causing production costs to rise for the company. If the company raises prices due to the rise in employee wages, cost-plus inflation occurs. Business owners can deliberately withhold supplies from the market, allowing prices to rise to a favorable level. Companies are at risk if they're unable to pass on the higher costs to consumers through higher prices.

MUSIC AT THE BREWERY

TUMBLEWEED SMITH

By Tumbleweed Smith

Special to the Herald

“When the weather is warm, our musicians perform on our John Deere Stage. We converted an old John Deere cotton trailer into a stage,” says KD Hill, who along with her husband started Barrow Brewing in Salado six years ago. “Barrow is an old family name on my husband’s side. We had 4 beers at first and now we have 12 beers on tap all the time. We’re the first microbrewery in Bell County. We also get to serve some local wines and ciders that our friends make. It’s just such a joy to be able to serve people and get to be a part of Salado’s local flavor.”

Before moving to Salado 20 years ago, KD was an Arabic linguist for the US Government. “Getting to study the Arab culture really taught me a lot about hospitality and welcoming people, treating everyone like they’re your best friend.”

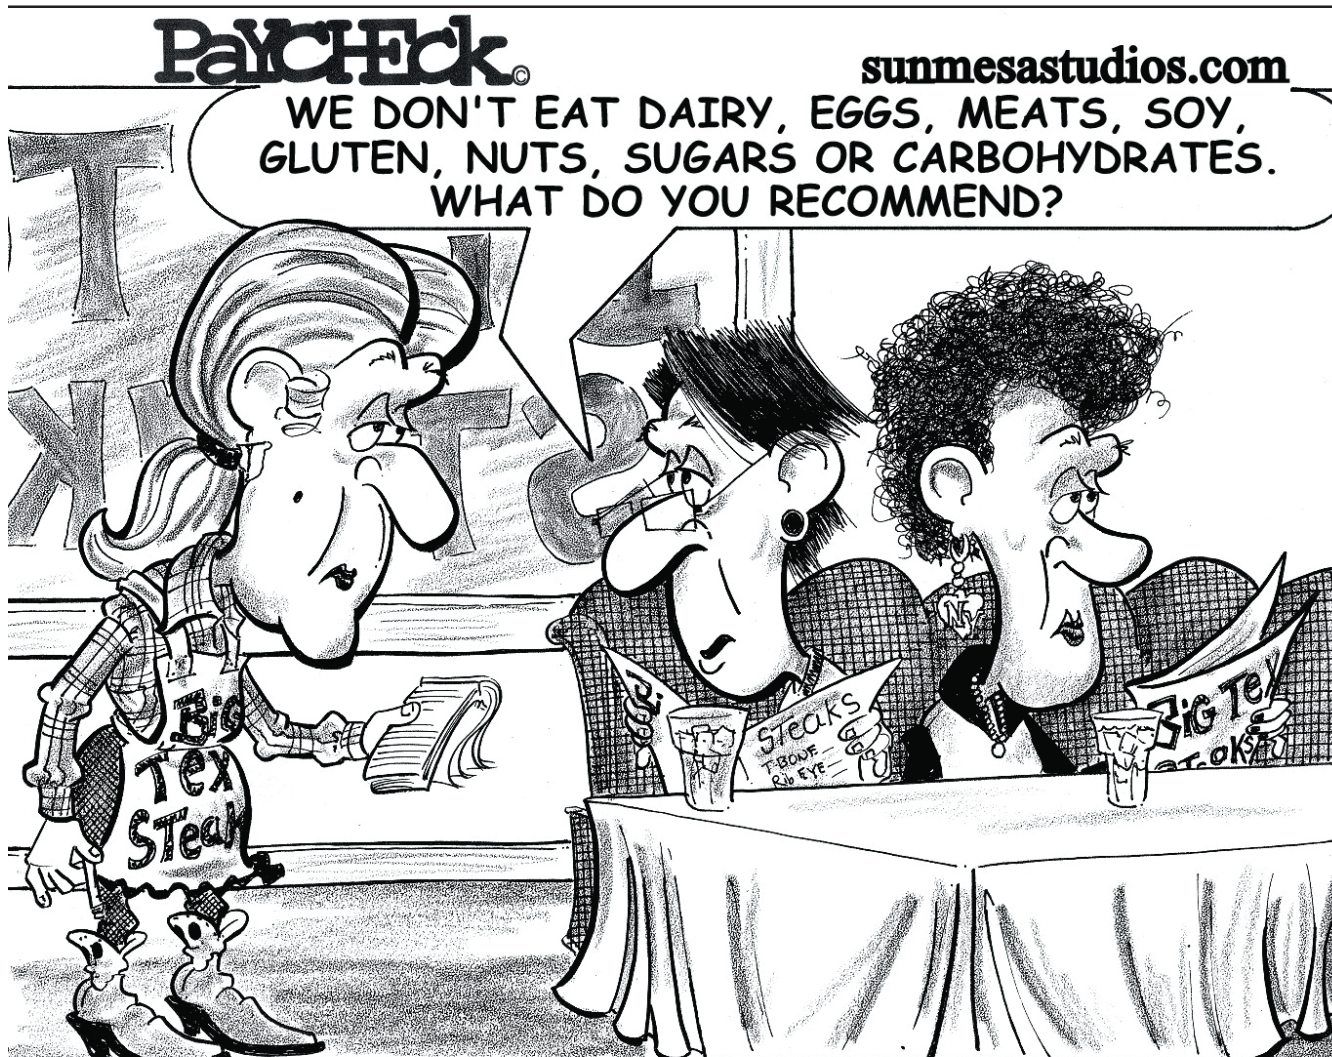

Her husband was an airline pilot. “He was a home brewer and read everything he could get his hands on and did an internship with a brewer in Colorado. That attention to detail that pilots must have comes into play with recipes and keeping everything pristine and perfect. You have to be very precise in your measurements and temperatures and controls.”

The brewery is on two acres along Salado Creek. It has a beer garden and a taproom. The brewery started a music festival in 2017 and just about the time it started drawing big crowds, Covid hit and the event took a two-year hiatus. But it’s back this year.

“It’s March 11 thru the 13th,” says KD. “March 11th is a free night and features Josh Labove and Lilly and The Implements. On Saturday it goes from noon to 10 PM with Mad Stone, Shimmer Island, The Naggins, Nik Parr and the Selfless Lovers, Denver Williams and Jay Wood. Sunday is from 1 PM to 8 PM when Caftan, LadyFang, RiSi and The Living Hour are on stage.”

The festival is titled NORTHBOUND AND DOWN and features musicians from Texas and Canada. The festival is a fundraiser for the Montessori School in Salado. “Tickets are very affordable, like 7 to 10 dollars per person and the music is pretty eclectic with lots of different genres represented, something that Central Texans don’t get to experience every day. It’s definitely a unique event and the Temple newspaper recently named our festival the best musical venue in Bell County. During the event we’ll have food trucks vendors and a farmers market”

KD says she and her husband are active in the community and are concerned more with being good neighbors than serving great craft beer. “One of our goals is to support local musicians and we do that by providing a wholesome family-style and dog friendly place where friends can visit and feel comfortable. Our taproom can seat 100 people with plenty of room between them and it’s so much fun to see it full of happy people having a good time. We have belly dancing, movie nights, live music on weekends, all kinds of different events at our brewery.”

A Song Remembered

by Dr. Don Newbury

Special to the Herald

It’s a reach, of course, to recall a melody popular with the free world in 1942. Somehow, I do, and “Googling” the title revealed lyrics tucked away in a five-year-old’s memory rekindled 80 years later.

World War II was in its early years. Adults were understandably concerned that atrocities might reach our shores. Bravery, courage and sacrifice came quickly into play, and military leaders knew that the heartbreak and sheer terror of war would not end soon.

It was a song of hope, its message seized as welcome light to penetrate the darkness of the times. A few readers--grayest of hair and longest of tooth--may recall Vaughn Monroe’s rendition of the song, “When the Lights Go On Again All Over the World.”...

Freedom prevailed following the world conflict that raged until 1945. Thankfully, the atomic bomb tilted the outcome our way.

There was literal darkness during the war. In England--as well as several other countries--lights were extinguished to hinder nighttime aerial raids. Millions hunkered down, hopeful that their prayers, sacrifices and bravery would somehow prevail.

It would be a good thing to revisit the words of this song, the message of which is sorely needed by the world today. At the forefront of our prayers are the brave people of Ukraine who are doggedly resisting the onslaught orchestrated by Russian President Vladimir Putin to smite them from their homeland....

The Ukrainians are paying a great price, spilling much blood to maintain the democracy they have come to greatly value.

Surely, they are worthy of our support, and surely their resolve and fortitude will cause most countries of the world to condemn war crimes that are inhumane by any measure.

We are stirred from our complacency, wondering if we in America would be willing to dig in and defend our homeland. The Ukrainians are rallying behind President Volodymyr Zelenskyy, whose bravery inspires not only his people, but also freedom-lovers around the globe....

Zelenskyy’s resolve brings to mind Dr. Guy D. Newman, who was my college president in the 1950s. In stirring chapel addresses, he warned of communism becoming the greatest threat to democracy.

Few days pass but that I think of the short poem he quoted during a 1957 chapel address. (I quoted it in this space recently, but again, the anonymous piece seems to fit.)

“No one escapes when freedom fails. The best folks rot in filthy jails. And those who scream ‘appease, appease,’ are hanged by those they tried to please.”....

Again, I’ve taken a side trail. Digression may be attributed to senility, but likely can be traced to conditions dating back to our youth.

My original intent was to identify an old song that might be helpful to Ukrainians today. Assuming it unlikely that very many folks will take the time to Google the song, please allow me to revisit the lyrics:

Second Time Around

By STEVE BELVIN
 Special to the Herald

The girls' state basketball tournament was great. You have metropolitan teams dominating the big school divisions - Desoto and Grand Prairie from the DFW area, Cark out of San Antonio, and Humble from the Houston area. Lots of raw, athletic talent to choose from.

The young ladies in this part of Texas are of a different breed - down to earth, hardworking - not much to do in these parts but go to school, church, FFA, basketball, and play basketball. But, boys, do they play it well. Sands Lady Mustangs and Gruver Lady Greyhounds are prime examples. (I love that mascot). I was a Greyhound back in the day; That's another story.

But getting back to Sands and Gruver, small communities, tightly knit. They don't need the glam and fabulously metro girls have. Country girls want to play ball. They like it so much that they work hard, and the proof comes out in the pudding.

Although it wasn't perfect per se, they went 37-3. The Sands girls had a perfect season, showing they were the best in Class 1A ball, from start to finish. They played the best, beating the best, whether it was Class 6A Frenship or Class 4A Greenwood. The Lady Mustangs welcomed all comers. They steamrolled through the playoffs outscoring their opponents by a 54-27 margin.

Landry Morrow was the headliner on this Sands squad. She has the adequate height to play on the perimeter high basketball IQ; best of all, she loves playing defense. I'm just saying she needs to be playing at the next level next season. Be nice to see her in a Howard College uniform.

Sands showed one of the best defenses I've seen in my years at the Crossroads Country area. But, of course, you have to love basketball to play defense that hard. Junior guard Elysa Martinez symbolizes that gaudy Sands defense. In the championship game against Robert Lee, she scored a game-high 22 points and pulled off an unusual double-double with her ten steals. Rightly so, she was named tournament MVP.

Lady Mustangs, enjoy the championship. Get some rest. Then you've got a state track title to defend.

Gruver in the Panhandle did have a perfect season, 33-0, in winning the Class 2A title. It was so dominant. Like Sands, the Lady Greyhounds took on all comers, beating them all. Gruver chopped up defending class 3A champion Brownfield, No. 4 4A Canyon, and No. 1 ranked 3A Canadian.

Bailey Maupin, a 5-foot-11 guard, was Gruver's headliner. She'll be playing basketball for Texas Tech next season.

According to MaxPreps, Gruver is the 31st ranked team in Texas, and Sands is ranked No. 51. Put in perspective, there are 1,359 UIL teams in Texas. Pretty impressive, huh?

STEERS TWO-FOR-TWO

The Big Spring Steers track team won their second team title in as many tries as they scored 166 points to win the Canyon Reef Relays in Snyder. Lubbock High was second with 110 points. The Lady Steers scored 145 points to finish second behind Lubbock High's 160.

Roman Prez led the Steers by winning the 3200 and 1600 meter events. Teammate Issaac Gonzales was second in the 3200 and third in the 1600.

Isaiah in the long jump. The Steers swept the long jump as Sa'Quan Fizer, another basketballer, and Quetavian Lewis placed first and second, respectively.

Braxton Pearson finished second in the shot put and third in the discus.

The most impressive performance came from Adrian Solis, who ran a 1:58.83 in the 800.

Naomi Wines led the Lady Steers by winning the 200, long jump, and high jump. Elizabeth Jones finished second in the 800 and third in the 1600. Jha, Niah Johnson threw a career-best 118-3 to win the discus.

BIG DAY FOR TENNIS

This past weekend, the Big Spring tennis team fared well at their tournament.

Natalina Lopez defeated teammate Emily Kocak to win the girl's singles. Hayden Bell and Hannah Bell won the girl's doubles play. In mixed doubles play, Ananya Limaye and Kaden Roberts won the championship.

Winning the boy's double competition was Juaquin Arguello and Ethan Urias.

COAHOMA'S MS. VERSATILITY

Coahoma Bulldogettes Christian Everett has got to be one of the best all-around athletes in the Crossroads Country. She recently qualified for the state powerlifting meet by winning the regional 97-pound division last week. Everett and her teammates finished third in the regional team standings. Everett will be joined in state by freshman Nevaeh.

Kerby finished second in the 97-pound weight class. Everett totaled 595 pounds on her three lifts, 80 pounds more than Kerby.

Last year Everett just missed going to the state track meet in the 100 meters, finishing fourth at regional. This year she's going to state in powerlifting, and she's also a member of an excellent Coahoma softball team where she plays second base and bats second in the lineup.

The girl's state powerlifting meet will be March 17-19 in Corpus Christi. A great site. I'll take it over to the boy's state meet in Abilene the week after that. I'm looking forward to seeing what the Spring holds for Everett.

LADY STEER LIFERS SECOND AT REGIONAL

Last week, the Big Spring Lady Steers finished second at the regional powerlifting meet in Monahans. As a result, Big Spring qualified five to the state meet in Corpus Christi. Gissele Holguin (132 weight class) and Adali Hernandez (165) won their weight divisions. April Caldwell (165), Jha'Niah Johnson (220), and Quasett Woodruff (259) finished second. Woodruff set the regional record in deadlift with a 370-pound lift.

COAHOMA — The Bulldogettes swept past Borden County (11-3) and Tahoka (13-2) in the first day of the Coahoma High School round robin softball tournament on Thursday.

Hannah Wells led the charge for the Bulldogettes at the plate going 6-for-7 with six runs, seven RBI, a double, and three home runs for the day. The Coahoma High School freshman also led the Bulldogettes to victory against Tahoka in the pitcher's circle. She allowed two runs on three hits, walked one, and struck out nine.

Avery Rodriguez went 5-for-8 at bat with one run scored, five RBI, and two doubles for the two games. Shae Lang was 3-for-6 with four runs scored, one RBI, a steal, a double, a triple. She also blasted a dinger in the Borden County game. Karleigh Burt had four hits from eight at bats, with five runs scored, two RBI, a double, and a steal. Madison Rodgers was 2-for-8 with three runs scored, and a steal.

Makayla Calvio led the Bulldogettes to victory in their first game of the day against Borden County. The second year varsity pitcher sacrificed three runs from five hits, walked one, and struck out six over six innings.

Next: Coahoma (9-4) plays Colorado City at 1:30 p.m. and Lamesa at 7 p.m. in Coahoma on Saturday to wrap up the tournament. The JV Bulldogettes play the Snyder JV team at 11:45 a.m. on Saturday.

Craig Sessions, MD
ORTHOPAEDIC SURGEON

Dr. Craig Sessions was born in Midland, Texas and grew up in east Texas. After graduating from Nacogdoches High School and attending Stephen F. Austin State University, he moved to Lubbock, where he attended Texas Tech University for his medical education and Orthopaedic training. This is where he met his wife, Loretta. They have four children, Briley, Jordan, Dylan, and Alexandra.

Dr. Sessions began practice in a small, east Texas town, Henderson, Texas. Later, he returned to Amarillo to be closer to family and children who were planning to attend Texas Tech. Dr. Sessions and his family enjoy living in a smaller community and have now moved to Snyder to return to the small town values they cherish.

When not working, Dr. Sessions enjoys family time, church activities, hunting, and fishing.

Dr. Sessions has spent the last 23 years devoted to orthopaedic care of patients in Texas. He looks forward to the opportunity to provide care for patients in the Snyder area and he is excited about developing lasting relationships within the community.

The Sands Lady Mustangs are the best in Texas for 1A. They have won the state title by knocking off the Robert Lee Steers last weekend by a score of 60 to 33. It was a dream season for these ladies as they finished the year not only with a State title but with an astonishing 37-3 overall record. Sands spent most of the season as the number one ranked team in District 1A, and they proved why game in and game out. Congratulations to these girls on a fantastic accomplishment.

Travelling Farm to Market

By Judy Tereletsky
HSWCD District Clerk

March and April have several annual events that are dear to people's hearts. Sports people are wearing their fan gear and glued to their TVs for March madness games. Sweetwater residents are ankle deep in their Rattlesnake Roundup. Easter eggs and church celebrations are heralding in Springtime. And, of course, there is the ritual dear to the hearts of a great many students called "Spring Break". Some may ask what spring break has to do with agriculture, but it brought to my mind the fact that so many "hit the road" to travel to various points of destination and much of that time is spent driving Farm to Market roads.

The first Farm to Market road in Texas was completed in 1937 during the Great Depression. It connected Mount Enterprise and the former community of Shiloh in Rusk County. This route was 5.8 mile long and is now part of Texas State Highway 315, but it was obvious even at that earlier time the necessity of good ground transportation paths for farmers and ranchers to get their products to the buyers. The first officially designated highway, FM 1 (Farm to Market abbreviated to FM), was authorized in San Augustine county in 1941 to connect US96 near Pineland to a sawmill belonging to the Temple Lumber Company at Magasco. The idea for having paved roads in the rural areas to help transport the agricultural products was enough to begin a campaign in Texas with the slogan "Get the farmer out of the mud". In 1949, the Colson-Briscoe Act (sponsored by Senator E. N. Colson and State Representative Dolph Briscoe, who became governor in 1972), established funding for the creation of an extensive system of secondary roads to provide access to the rural areas of the state and to allow farmers and ranchers to bring their goods to market. It reserved $15 million per year (now well over $200 million) plus 1 cent per gallon of gasoline sold in the state for the highway construction. The system now accounts for over half the mileage in the Texas Department of Transportation system and is the largest secondary highway system in the United States.

Farm to Market roads are paved, usually two-lane roads (one lane in each direction), maintained by the state, and have varying speed limits. Signs designating a Farm to Market (FM) or a Ranch to Market (RM) are a black square background with the white shape of Texas. The words "FARM ROAD" or "RANCH ROAD" appear in white text on the background with the route number in black within the shape of Texas. No two FMs or RMs are the same with a total of 3,550 routes designated. The cities of Texas now host many of these FMs (like our own FM 700 in Big Spring), with FM1093 in front of the Galleria in the Westheimer area of Houston as the busiest.

Though the Texas system of Farm to Markets is unique to the state, several other states employ a similar system. For example, Louisiana designates their FMs as C routes, Iowa has county governments in charge of FM maintenance, and state of Kansas has a sunflower motive on their road signage. Differences aside concerning our farm to market roads, our fifty states are linked with a paved "yellow brick road" leading us home called the interstate.

Just as the necessity of getting our agricultural goods to market helped to create the farm to market roads, President Dwight D. Eisenhower saw the need of a national highway system to provide for the needs of an ever increasing modern and mobile nation. On June 29, 1956, the Federal-Aid Highway Act was passed. Funded with an initial $26 billion dollars it also derived money from a gasoline tax. The new interstate highway was designed as a "controlled-access expressway with no at grade crossings-that is, they had overpasses and underpasses instead of intersections. They were to be at least four lanes wide and designed for high-speed driving. They were intended to serve several purposes: eliminate traffic congestion, replace poorly kept roads to improved highway safety, make coast to coast transportation more efficient and make it easy to get out of big cities in case of an atomic attack". Fortunately for our nation, we have never had to make use of the evacuation routes for a nuclear attack, but the interstate has helped to save countless lives during natural disasters such as hurricanes, wildfires, and tsunamis. Although the interstate was built for civilian use the thought of defense needs did play a part in the initial design of the project. The Department of Defense had indicated that a 14-foot clearance on overpasses would be sufficient for most military vehicles however, they realized after the Sputnik launch in 1957, a 17-foot clearance would be needed for some larger equipment. There was a compromise in 1960 to a 16-foot clearance in rural areas. With the continuing hits to our overpasses on I-20, most of us would like to see a 20-foot clearance! The numbering system of the Interstate (those ending in 0 are trans-continental and Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico have A, H and PR designations) is different from the Texas Farm to Market but Texas had an influence on the Interstate signage. The design submitted by Texas for the Interstate marker was chosen over all the others. No matter what signs we follow on our travels, be it on the Interstate that is celebrating just over 65 years in the making or the essential Farm to Market roads, every citizen has been touched with the paved roads set before us. Please take care of yourselves on these roads and remember to respect the ag producers who travel with us.

Stocks drift amid Russia-Ukraine hopes, oil prices rise

By STAN CHOE

AP Business Writer

NEW YORK — Stocks are drifting between gains and losses on Wall Street Friday, as uncertainty about the war in Ukraine and persistently high inflation continue to knock markets around.

The S&P 500 was 0.1% higher in morning trading, a day after closing out its fifth loss in the last six days. European stocks were up more, while crude oil prices were tentatively adding more gains after surging in recent weeks.

European stocks and U.S. stock futures made abrupt moves upward early Friday, before Wall Street trading opened, and some analysts pointed to comments from Russian President Vladimir Putin seen as surprisingly optimistic. Putin cited "certain positive developments" in negotiations with Ukraine, though he didn't offer any details.

The S&P 500 opened with a 0.7% gain but quickly erased it and dipped modestly after a report on sentiment among U.S. consumers sank more than economists expected. They're just the latest swings for Wall Street, which has been rocked by much bigger hour-to-hour reversals in prior weeks.

Investors are struggling to handicap how high Russia's war in Ukraine will push prices for oil, wheat and other commodities where the region is a major producer. That's raising the threat the economy may be heading for a toxic combination of persistently high inflation and stagnating growth.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average was up 115 points, or 0.3%, at 33,289, as of 10:15 a.m. Eastern time, and the Nasdaq composite was 0.4% lower after erasing an early gain. They all remain down for the week, even though the S&P 500 surged in the middle of it to its best day since the summer of 2020.

Despite Putin's comments, plenty of uncertainty still hangs over markets, and sharp swings are likely only to continue. President Joe Biden will announce Friday that the U.S. will move to revoke "most favored nation" trade status for Russia. Other major economies are expected to do the same, which would allow for tariffs on Russian imports.

Amid all the uncertainty, U.S. stocks remain about 10% below their peak from earlier this year, while crude oil prices remain more than 40% higher for 2022 so far.

A barrel of U.S. crude oil rose 1.8% to $107.93 Friday after bouncing between gains and losses earlier in the morning. It briefly topped $130 earlier this week. Prices have sloshed around as worries about disrupted supplies joust with hopes for peace and the possibility that countries outside Russia could boost their production.

Brent crude, the international standard, rose 2% to $111.47 per barrel.

European stocks rallied more than the rest of the world, with the German Dax returning 2% and the French CAC 40 up 1.1%. Asian markets earlier in the day were mixed, with Japan's Nikkei 225 falling 2.1% and stocks in Shanghai adding 0.4%.

Markets were already on edge before Russia's invasion, as central banks around the world move to raise interest rates and remove support for the economy put in place after the pandemic. The Federal Reserve and other central banks hope to stamp out the highest inflation in generations, though they also risk causing a recession if they raise rates too high or too quickly.

Inflation has surged high enough that politicians around the world know they may be in trouble because of it.

Brazil's state-run oil company Petrobras on Friday increased prices of fuels sold to its distributors by as much as 25%, citing the war between Russia and Ukraine, as official data showed inflation accelerated in February.

The company said in a statement announcing the increase the prior day that for weeks it refrained from passing on costs, but consistently high oil prices forced the adjustment to ensure supply to the Brazilian market.

Prices rose 1% in February, the most for the month since 2015 and driving 12-month inflation to 10.5%, according to data the national statistics institute released on Friday.

In a radio interview earlier this week, Brazil's president said it is wrong for Petrobras to set prices in accordance with international levels and that his administration was seeking a solution. He also said ordinary people wouldn't be able to cope with a massive increase to match international pricing. President Jair Bolsonaro is planning to run for re-election in October despite slumping approval ratings.

In the U.S., a report on Thursday showed prices at the consumer level leaped 7.9% last month from the prior year, the hottest inflation rate since 1982. It's likely to get worse in the near term due to oil's surge following the war and all the financial penalties the U.S. and allies imposed on Russia.

Biden has said he wants to limit the economic pain for U.S. households but acknowledged that "defending freedom" incurs costs.

Dish up a classic comfort food this St. Patrick's Day

Everyone has "corned beef and cabbage" on the brain come St. Patrick's Day. But another flavorful dish might appeal to a greater number of people with Irish roots.

Shepherd's Pie is a savory dish made of minced lamb that originated in England but also made the jump to Ireland, where it became a popular comfort food. While Shepherd's Pie can be made with freshly cooked ground meat, it also is a fine way to use leftovers from a previous meal. Shepherd's Pie is commonly mistaken for Cottage Pie, which is very similar, yet tends to use beef as the meat of choice.

Many families have their own ancestral recipes for Shepherd's Pie, but for those looking to cook the dish for the first time, try "Shepherd's Pie," courtesy of Alton Brown, which appeared in Season 12 of his hit show "Good Eats."

Shepherd's Pie
Yield: 8 servings

- 1 1/2 pounds russet potatoes
- 2 tablespoons canola oil
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 2 carrots, peeled and finely diced
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 1/2 pounds ground lamb
- 1 3/4 teaspoons kosher salt
- 3/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
- 2 teaspoons tomato paste

- 2 teaspoons chopped fresh rosemary
- 1 teaspoon chopped fresh thyme
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/4 cup half-and-half
- 4 tablespoons unsalted butter
- 1 large egg yolk
- 1/2 cup corn kernels, fresh or frozen
- 1/2 cup English peas, fresh or frozen

1. Heat oven to 400 F.

2. Peel the potatoes and cut them into 1/2-inch dice. Put them in a medium saucepan and cover with cold water. Set said pan over high heat, cover and bring to a boil. Uncover, drop the heat to maintain a simmer, and cook until tender, 10 to 15 minutes.

3. Heat the oil in an 11-inch saute pan over medium-high heat until shimmering. Add the onion and carrots and saute just until they begin to take on color, 3 to 4 minutes. Add the garlic and stir to combine. Add the meat, salt and pepper, and cook until browned and cooked through, approximately 3 minutes.

4. Sprinkle the meat with the flour, toss to coat, and continue to cook for another minute. Add the tomato paste, broth, Worcestershire sauce, rosemary, and thyme and stir to combine. Bring to a boil, then decrease the heat to low, cover, and simmer slowly until the sauce is thickened slightly, 10 to 12 minutes.

5. Meanwhile, combine the half-and-half and butter in a microwave-safe container and nuke until warmed through, about 35 seconds.

6. Drain the potatoes and return them to the saucepan. Mash the potatoes (a masher is an excellent tool for this, though a hand mixer will do), then add the hot half-and-half mixture, as well as the salt and pepper. Mash to smoothness, then stir in the egg yolk.

7. Add the corn and peas to the meat mixture and spread evenly in a 7-by-11-inch glass baking dish. Top with the mashed potatoes, starting around the edges to create a seal to prevent the mixture from bubbling over, and smooth the top with a rubber spatula. Place on a half sheet pan lined with parchment paper on the middle rack of the oven and bake for 25 minutes, or just until the potatoes begin to brown. Remove to a cooking rack and let rest for at least 15 minutes before serving.

Opening lead — ace of clubs.

with normal play declarer is headed for down one. Unless he can see through the backs of the cards, he will cash the queen of hearts and lead a heart to the ace as East follows with the deuce and seven. When the trumps divide 4-1, South has to lose a trump trick, and that's that.

But a funny thing happened on the way to down one. When declarer led the eight of hearts from dummy after cashing the queen, East covered with the ten! Perhaps East thought he was guaranteeing himself a trump trick with this play, but it proved to be just the opening South needed.

After winning the ten with the king and seeing West show out, declarer realized that the only way a trump loser could be avoided was by means of a coup. This necessitated reducing his trump length to that of East. Accordingly, he next led a diamond to the ace and ruffed a diamond with the six, leaving him with the A-9 of trumps.

Dummy was entered with a spade, and the king of diamonds was cashed, declarer discarding the queen of spades. Spades were then run, and East's "sure" trump trick went up in smoke. Whether he trumped a spade at some point or discarded instead, his J-7 of trump were sure to succumb to South's A-9, and the slam was home.

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Weekly + HOROSCOPES

ARIES –
Mar 21/Apr 20
This week you will have an opportunity to see things how they are and not necessarily as you imagine them to be, Aries. This clarity could require some restructuring.

GEMINI –
May 22/June 21
Communication difficulties arise this week, Gemini. Someone can coach you into getting your point across with sufficient finesse. Seek a communication mentor.

LEO –
July 23/Aug 23
Leo, you need to be flexible, especially over the next few days. People may put you to the test with a perceived unwillingness to compromise, but cooperate when possible.

TAURUS –
Apr 21/May 21
Long-term goals are nearing completion, Taurus. You have gained so much from your pursuits and you have made plenty of friends along the way. Take time to appreciate that.

CANCER –
June 22/July 22
Cancer, there may be some passionate discussions coming up this week with family members. Everyone wants his or her point of view to be heard.

VIRGO –
Aug 24/Sept 22
Virgo, in order to reach a destination you have in mind, you may have to rethink the route you're taking. A direct course just may not be the way to go in this instance.

LIBRA –
Sept 23/Oct 23
Always be honest with yourself and others, Libra. That means being true to you and never putting on masks just to hide others from how you are truly feeling.

SCORPIO –
Oct 24/Nov 22
Scorpio, you want to do things for others out of the goodness of your heart, and you will not need anything in return. Good deeds are their own reward.

SAGITTARIUS –
Nov 23/Dec 21
Sagittarius, dining out too many days in a row may leave you feeling sluggish. Reassess your eating habits and commit to making more meals at home for a bit.

CAPRICORN –
Dec 22/Jan 20
Capricorn, recognize that not everyone has your best interests at heart. Others' intentions may not be sinister, but your own interest and the interest of others may not align.

AQUARIUS –
Jan 21/ Feb 18
Sometimes you are a bit proud and do not like asking for or accepting others' help, Aquarius. You deserve the breaks that others are willing to offer you, though.

PISCES –
Feb 19/Mar 20
This is a good time of the month to nurture loved ones, Pisces. Play with your kids or sit and chat with an elderly relative who needs you.

Today in History

Today is Sunday, March 13, the 72nd day of 2022. There are 293 days left in the year. Daylight saving time returns Sunday at 2 a.m. local time.

Today's Highlight in History:

In 1925, the Tennessee General Assembly approved a bill prohibiting the teaching of the theory of evolution. (Gov. Austin Peay (pee) signed the measure on March 21; Tennessee repealed the law in 1967.)

On this date:

In 1781, the seventh planet of the solar system, Uranus, was discovered by Sir William Herschel.

In 1862, President Abraham Lincoln signed a measure prohibiting Union military officers from returning fugitive slaves to their owners.

In 1933, banks in the U.S. began to reopen after a "holiday" declared by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In 1938, famed attorney Clarence S. Darrow died in Chicago.

In 1943, financier and philanthropist J.P. Morgan Jr., 75, died in Boca Grande, Florida.

In 1946, U.S. Army Pfc. Sadao Munemori was posthumously awarded the Medal of Honor for sacrificing himself to save fellow soldiers from a grenade explosion in Seravezza, Italy; he was the only Japanese-American service member so recognized in the immediate aftermath of World War II.

In 1954, the Battle of Dien Bien Phu began during the First Indochina War as Viet Minh forces attacked French troops, who were defeated nearly two months later.

In 1995, two Americans working for U.S. defense contractors in Kuwait, David Daliberti and William Barloon, were seized by Iraq after they strayed across the border; sentenced to eight years in prison, both were freed later the same year.

In 1996, a gunman burst into an elementary school in Dunblane, Scotland, and opened fire, killing 16 children and one teacher before killing himself.

In 2011, the estimated death toll from Japan's earthquake and tsunami climbed past 10,000 as authorities raced to combat the threat of multiple nuclear reactor meltdowns while hundreds of thousands of people struggled to find food and water.

In 2013, Jorge Bergoglio (HOHR'-hay behr-GOHG'-lee-oh) of Argentina was elected pope, choosing the name Francis; he was the first pontiff from the Americas and the first from outside Europe in more than a millennium.

In 2020, Breonna Taylor, a 26-year-old Black woman, was fatally shot in her apartment in Louisville, Kentucky, during a botched raid by plainclothes narcotics detectives; no drugs were found, and the warrant used to enter by force was later found to be flawed. (A grand jury brought no charges against officers in her death, and prosecutors said two officers who fired at her were justified because her boyfriend shot at them; one officer was found not guilty of endangering Taylor's neighbors by firing into the side of her apartment during the raid.)

Ten years ago: A resurgent Rick Santorum swept to victory in Republican presidential primaries in Alabama and Mississippi. Twenty-two young people returning from a ski holiday and six adults died when their bus crashed inside a tunnel in southern Switzerland. A ferry carrying more than 200 people collided with a cargo boat and sank just short of Dhaka, Bangladesh; most on board died. Encyclopaedia Britannica Inc. said it would stop publishing print editions of its flagship encyclopedia.

Five years ago: Once the world's most-wanted fugitive, Ilich Ramirez Sanchez, the man known as "Carlos the Jackal," appeared in a French court for a deadly 1974 attack on a Paris shopping arcade that killed two people. (He was convicted and sentenced to life in prison for the third time.)

One year ago: Marvelous Marvin Hagler, the middleweight boxing great whose title reign and career ended with a split-decision loss to "Sugar" Ray Leonard in 1987, died at age 66 at his New Hampshire home.

Today's Birthdays: Jazz musician Roy Haynes is 97. Songwriter Mike Stoller (STOH'-ler) is 89. Singer-songwriter Neil Sedaka is 83. R&B/gospel singer Candi Staton is 82. Opera singer Julia Migenes is 73. Actor William H. Macy is 72. Comedian Robin Duke is 68. Actor Dana Delany is 66. Sen. John Hoeven, R-N.D., is 65. Rock musician Adam Clayton (U2) is 62. Jazz musician Terence Blanchard is 60. Actor Christopher Collet is 54. Rock musician Matt McDonough (Mudvayne) is 53. Actor Annabeth Gish is 51. Actor Tracy Wells is 51. Rapper-actor Common is 50. Rapper Khujo (Goodie Mob, The Lumberjacks) is 50. Singer Glenn Lewis is 47. Actor Danny Masterson is 46. Actor Noel Fisher is 38. Singers Natalie and Nicole Albino (Nina Sky) are 38. Actor Emile Hirsch is 37. U.S. Olympic gold medal skier Mikaela Shiffrin is 27. Tennis star Coco Gauff is 18.

Jussie Smollett sentenced to 150 days in jail in fake attack

By DON BARWIN and KATHLEEN FOODY

Associated Press

CHICAGO — A judge sentenced Jussie Smollett to 150 days in jail, branding the Black and gay actor a narcissistic charlatan for staging a hate crime against himself to grab the limelight while the nation struggled with wrenching issues of racial injustice. Smollett responded by defiantly maintaining his innocence and suggesting he could be killed in jail.

The sentence and Smollett's post-hearing outburst capped an hourslong hearing Thursday and more than three years of legal drama following Smollett's claim that he had been the target of a racist and homophobic attack.

Smollett didn't make a statement when offered the opportunity before the judge announced the sentence, saying he was listening to his attorneys' advice. But after Cook County Judge James Linn issued his decision, Smollett removed the face mask he wore throughout the hearing to proclaim himself innocent.

"If I did this, then it means that I stuck my fist in the fears of Black Americans in this country for over 400 years and the fears of the LGBT community," Smollett said, standing up at the defense table as his lawyers and sheriff's deputies surrounded him. "Your Honor, I respect you and I respect the jury but I did not do this. And I am not suicidal. And if anything happens to me when I go in there, I did not do it to myself. And you must all know that."

As deputies led him from the courtroom, Smollett shouted out again.

"I am innocent," he yelled, raising his fist. "I could have said I am guilty a long time ago."

The judge sentenced Smollett to 30 months of felony probation, with 150 days served in Cook County Jail, and ordered that he pay $120,106 in restitution to the city of Chicago and a $25,000 fine.

Special prosecutor Dan Webb asked Linn to include "an appropriate amount of prison time" when sentencing the actor for his conviction on five counts of disorderly conduct.

"His conduct denigrated hate crimes," Webb said after the hearing. "His conduct will discourage others who are victims of hate crimes from coming forward and reporting those crimes to law enforcement."

Smollett's attorneys wanted the judge to limit the sentence to community service, arguing that he had already been punished by the criminal justice system and damage to his career.

Family members echoed those comments.

"I ask you, judge, not to send him to prison," his grandmother, 92-year-old Molly Smollett, told the court. She later added, "If you do, send me along with him, OK?"

Smollett's attorneys also read aloud letters from other supporters, including the president of the NAACP, the Rainbow PUSH Coalition and actors LaTanya and Samuel L. Jackson that asked Linn to consider the case's effect on Smollett's life and career.

Several supporters spoke about worries that Smollett would be at risk in prison, specifically mentioning his race, sexual orientation and his family's Jewish heritage.

Linn said he did consider those requests for mercy, along with Smollett's prior work for and financial support of social justice organizations. But Linn also excoriated Smollett as a narcissist and pronounced himself astounded by his actions given the actor's multiracial family background and ties to social justice work.

"The damage you've done to yourself is way beyond anything else than can happen to you from me," Linn said. "You are now a permanently convicted felon."

Smollett's attorney Neny Uche said he will ask the jail to keep Smollett in protective custody and plans to appeal both the verdict and the judge's sentence.

Uche said he didn't expect Linn to include jail time but Smollett did.

"He said: 'Because I'm a Black guy, no matter how successful I've gotten, I'm Black,'" Uche told reporters after the hearing.

A spokesman for the Cook County Sheriff's Office said Smollett will have a comprehensive medical, mental health and security assessment, a routine process.

Before the sentencing portion of the hearing began, Linn rejected a motion from the defense to overturn the jury's verdict on legal grounds. Judges rarely grant such motions.

Smollett faced up to three years in prison for each of the five felony counts of disorderly conduct — the charge filed for lying to police — of which he was convicted. He was acquitted on a sixth count.

But because Smollett does not have an extensive criminal history and the conviction is for a low-level nonviolent crime, experts did not expect him to be sent to prison.

Chicago Mayor Lori Lightfoot praised the sentence, saying it sends a message that "false claims and allegations" would not be tolerated.

"The city feels vindicated in today's ruling that he is being held accountable and that we will appropriately receive restitution for his actions," she said in a statement.

Thursday's sentencing, which is subject to appeal, is the latest chapter in a criminal case that made international headlines when Smollett reported to police that two men wearing ski masks beat him, and hurled racial and homophobic slurs at him on a dark Chicago street and ran off.

Cook County State's Attorney Kim Foxx had come under fire for her office's decision to drop its initial charges against Smollett. On Thursday, Foxx blasted a "relentless, organized and effective" push to pursue Smollett while other serious crimes went unsolved or unresolved.

"Just because we do not like the outcome should not mean we bully prosecutors and circumvent the judicial process to get it changed," Foxx wrote in a column published by the Chicago Sun-Times. "Smollett was indicted, tried and convicted by a kangaroo prosecution in a matter of months."

Judicially appointed special prosecutors led the second case and Smollett was convicted in December. Witnesses at his trial included two brothers who told jurors Smollett paid them to carry out the attack, gave them money for the ski masks and rope, instructed them to fashion the rope into a noose. Prosecutors said he told them what racist and homophobic slurs to shout, and to yell that Smollett was in "MAGA Country," a reference to the campaign slogan of Donald Trump's presidential campaign.

Smollett, who knew the men from his work on the television show "Empire" that filmed in Chicago, testified that he did not recognize them and did not know they were the men attacking him.

Unlike the trial, Linn agreed to let photographers and a television camera inside court for the hearing — meaning the public got to see and hear Smollett speak in court for the first time.

This tale wags the dog: 'Rescued by Ruby' tells K-9's story

By WILLIAM J. KOLE

Associated Press

NORTH KINGSTOWN, R.I. — This is the story of a mischievous mutt who turned out to be a very good girl. Such a good girl, in fact, that she saved a life.

Ruby, an Australian shepherd and border collie mix, ended up in a Rhode Island animal shelter as a pup because of persistent behavioral problems. Five families adopted her in turn, only for each to return her because she was too rambunctious.

"She was a total knucklehead," said shelter volunteer and dog trainer Patricia Inman, who repeatedly intervened to keep Ruby from being euthanized. "She jumped and bit her leash. She wouldn't sit or lie down. She just never stopped moving. She was special, and she needed a special person."

Enter state police Cpl. Daniel O'Neil, who needed a search-and-rescue dog. In 2011, he was taken by an eight-month-old Ruby's irrepressible energy and intelligence, and after Inman vouched for her, she was trained as a police K-9.

Fast-forward to October 2017, when this tale takes an incredible twist: A teenage boy got lost for 36 hours while hiking, and Ruby succeeded where a human search party failed — she found the boy, who was unconscious and in grave medical condition. He turned out to be Inman's son.

"Rescued by Ruby," premiering March 17 on Netflix, tells the story of a problematic pooch who just needed another shot.

"Ruby was given a chance at life and ended up saving a life," the American Humane Hero Dog organization said in a 2018 citation naming her the nation's "Search and Rescue Dog of the Year."

In yet another twist, Ruby is played by a canine actor, Bear, another former shelter dog who was saved by the movie's dog trainers from being put down.

"It's a true underdog story," O'Neil, 41, said in an interview at his office at the Rhode Island State Police, where he now oversees an 18-dog K-9 unit.

"It's like divine intervention. She was given a chance and she's been doing everything she can to pay it back," he said. "You have this dog that was given up on, and she's changed so many people's lives."

O'Neil knew adopting a shelter dog written off as unmanageable was a gamble. Police dogs typically are bred for their work and trained from birth. Most state police K-9s cost $7,500 and come from Europe.

But O'Neil recalls being impressed by Ruby's determination and focus, and she graduated at the top of her class. And as someone with dyslexia and hyperactivity, he identified with Ruby.

"We both kind of know where each other's coming from," he said.

On the afternoon of the boy's rescue, Ruby led O'Neil straight to the teen, who had tumbled into a ravine. O'Neil's radio and GPS were out of range, but Ruby's repeated barking drew authorities to the scene. The youth, who has since recovered, declined to be interviewed.

When O'Neil knocked on the door of the boy's home to deliver the good news, he found himself face to face with Inman: "I said, 'Pat, this was her thank you for saving her life — she saved your boy's life.' And we both started to cry."

Later, as it all sank in, Inman found herself wondering: What if?

What if O'Neil hadn't taken a chance? What if Ruby had been put down?

"I was so grateful. I was beside myself and overwhelmed," she said. "So many things had to fall into place for this to happen the way it did. The universe works in mysterious ways."

O'Neil, who's played in the Netflix film by "The Flash" actor Grant Gustin, said he hopes people will consider adopting a shelter dog.

"If you show them love and compassion and you give them a certain type of stability, they'll show their true colors," he said.

Partners for 11 years, O'Neil and Ruby have teamed up on numerous successful rescues and helped convict two murderers based on evidence Ruby sniffed out. They've also shared some rough days: In 2020, a drunk driver slammed into their cruiser. Ruby escaped unscathed; O'Neil broke five ribs.

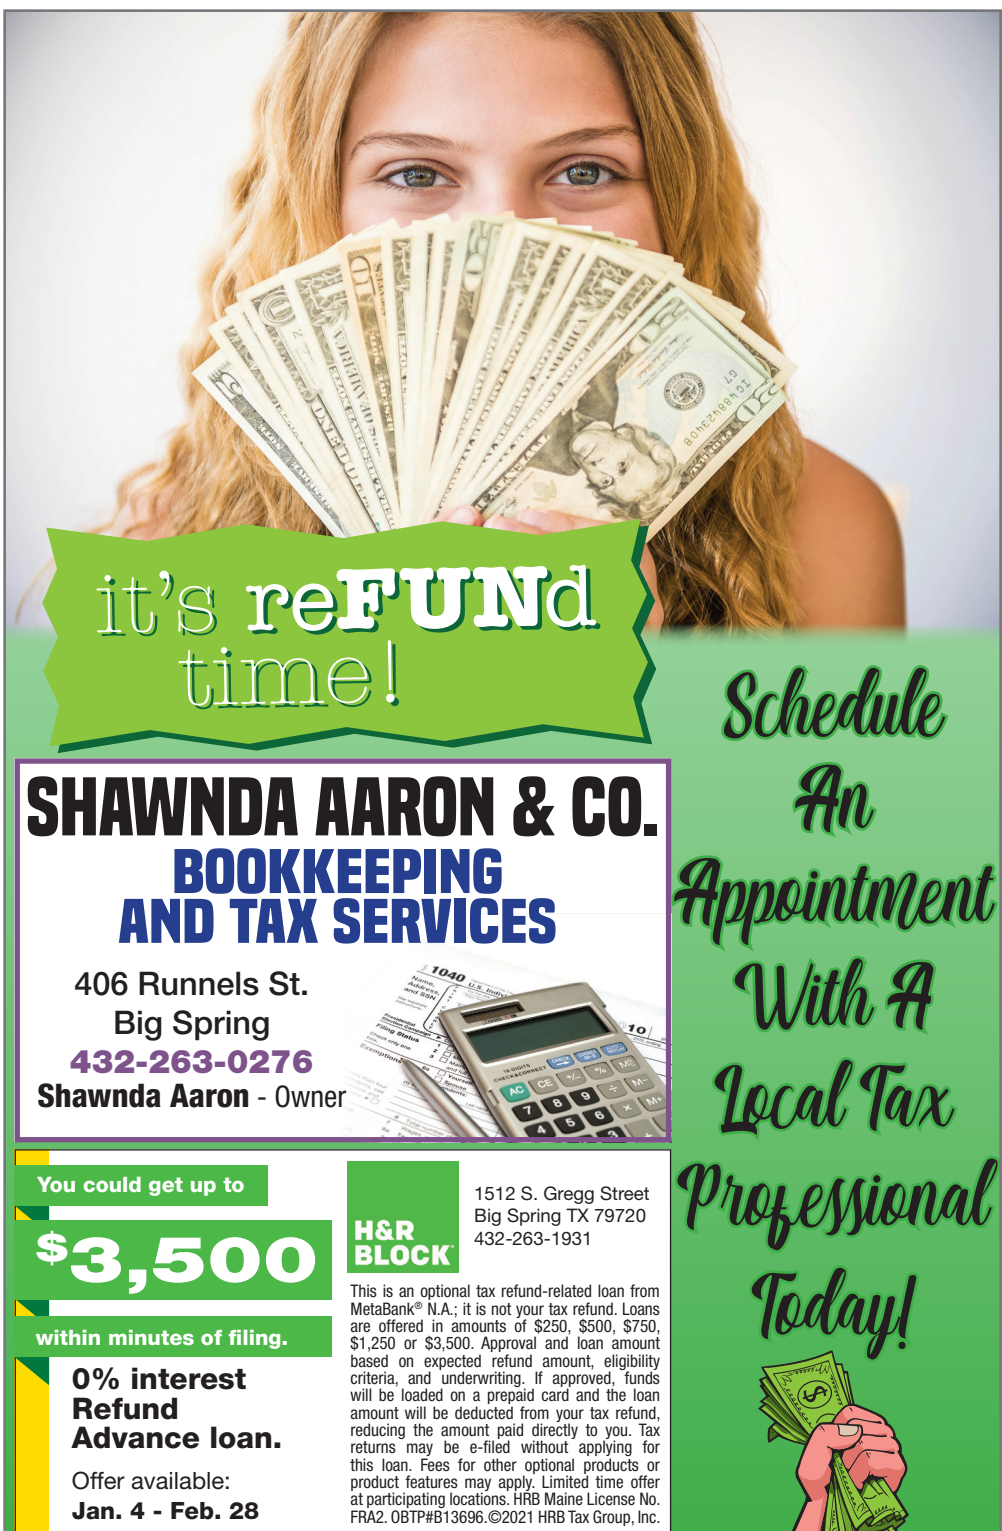

Underscoring the dangers of the work, Massachusetts last month enacted a new law to let first responders treat police dogs injured in the line of duty.

"Nero's Law" was named for the K-9 partner of Yarmouth police Sgt. Sean Gannon, fatally shot in 2018 while serving an arrest warrant. Nero also was shot but state law didn't allow EMTs to treat him. He recovered and now lives with Gannon's widow.

Meanwhile, Ruby being Ruby, there's still the occasional misadventure.

Three years ago, she bolted near a state park, prompting a 19-hour search before turning up safe and sound. More recently, after O'Neil let her out to relieve herself, she returned with a live skunk writhing — and spraying — in her jaws.

"We should've known. Ruby's a down-home girl, not a Hollywood celeb," wrote Rhode Island Monthly, which featured Ruby and O'Neil in a cover story for its "Rhode Islanders of the Year" edition. "She represents something true and beautiful: We can achieve great things, no matter where we started out in life."

“Bridgerton: Season 2” (Netflix — season premiere, March 25)

The sophomore round of this original period drama from Shondaland and creator Chris Van Dusen continues the adventures of Daphne Bridgerton (Phoebe Dynevor), the eldest daughter of the powerful Bridgerton family, as she makes her debut onto Regency London’s competitive marriage market. Golda Rosheuvel, Jonathan Bailey, Luke Newton, Claudia Jessie and Nicola Coughlan also star.

“Moon Knight: Season 1” (Disney+ — series premiere, March 30)

From Marvel Studios comes this original live-action series that stars Oscar Isaac (“Inside Llewyn Davis”) as a former U.S. Marine with dissociative identity disorder who is drawn into a deadly mystery involving Egyptian gods by his multiple identities. Ethan Hawke (“The Good Lord Bird”) and May Calamawy (“Ramy”) are also in the cast.

“Rat in the Kitchen” (TBS — series premiere, March 31)

Culinary chaos is given free rein in this new cooking competition series hosted by comic Natasha Leggero and celebrity chef Ludo Lefebvre. The high-stakes kitchen game employs a cat-and-mouse format that invites viewers at home to play detective. Over the course of the 10-week season, a combination of professional chefs compete in a series of cooking challenges to earn cash by impressing Chef Ludo with their dishes. There’s a rat in the kitchen, though: One of them is a mole trying to sabotage their efforts.

Amy Schumer examines 'Life & Beth' on Hulu

Amy Schumer and Michael Cera star in "Life & Beth," which begins streaming Friday on Hulu.

Welcome to the big month of Amy Schumer. Apart from being set to share Oscar-hosting duties with Wanda Sykes and Regina King when ABC broadcasts the movie industry's top event March 27, the former star of the Primetime Emmy and Peabody Award-winning "Inside Amy Schumer" gets back in the series game as Hulu debuts "Life & Beth" Friday, March 18.

Also the writer and/or director of most of the 10 episodes, the comedian-actress plays the title character, a personally and professionally successful wine distributor prompted by several major shocks to try to reconcile with her past ... shown in frequent flashbacks to her teen years. Co-stars include Michael Cera, Susannah Flood, Violet Young, Kevin Kane and Laura Benanti.

"I think that Beth's definitely based on a side of me," Schumer says, "and I think one of the things that surprises people is that I actually am an introvert. And I think so many of us have these conflicting sides of ourselves. I, as myself, feel supremely confident ... and also, I do consider myself as someone with really low self-esteem. I just think we're all hopefully evolving and trying to become the best versions of ourselves, so I wanted to show that dynamic."

Along with her own character, Schumer notes, "We wanted to also show a sort of more sensitive man. The toxic masculinity that we're all raised with hurts everybody, so I thought it was a really great opportunity to introduce sort of a gentler character."

"Life & Beth" co-star Cera maintains he was all for that, reasoning that "I don't think that the show being driven by a woman has any real effect for me on the approach to a scene or anything. Amy's talent is inspiring and invigorating, and it makes you want to meet her at her level, which is a good thing. As soon as you meet Amy, being invited to work with her kind of eliminates any intimidation. You just feel included and excited."

Schumer explains "Life & Beth" came in large part from a desire to expose her "most vulnerable, darkest" self. "I always want to share that stuff because it also helps alleviate my pain about it, and it is sort of therapeutic. I'm careful about what I share about other people and always make sure that they greenlight it; whatever I'm writing, whatever I'm sharing, I make sure that it's OK with them."

Amanda Seyfried

OF 'THE DROPOUT' ON HULU

Your chemistry with your co-star Naveen Andrews seemed to be there from the outset. Did that come immediately for you?

It was pretty immediate that we got along. We had some space in rehearsal to get to know each other. We're both ourselves almost to a fault, but it really works for us I think. We don't hide anything, and I think our passion for the project, and our desperate need to understand our characters really – I mean, I don't mean to speak for ... Naveen, but I feel like we were both just 100 percent present and really thrilled that we were getting to board this ship.

Can you talk about how you nailed Elizabeth Holmes' deeper speaking voice?

I'll say that the most important thing to me just as an actor in general is to create a version of somebody, I mean, if they really are a real person. I've only done it a few times in my life, but to create my own version, to marry myself and what I know and my experiences with that person it's not 50/50 but they're still part of me and so I need to use what I have, right? The shape of my mouth isn't the same as hers but I can make sounds somewhat or pretty close to what she did. And that's my job as an actor, mimicking and stuff like that.

But in terms of the depth of it, I had to work really hard to get there because I speak at such a higher level than she does naturally. So even though she was deepening her voice more and more to what we all understand is for power's sake, to make an impact, I still couldn't get all the way there. There were some different breathing tricks, but I don't think I nailed it 100 percent but I think I did what I needed to do for the audience to come with us, and that was really my only concern.

How Dylan McDermott became 'Most Wanted' for 'FBI' spinoff

Q: How was the decision made to bring Dylan McDermott in as the new star of "FBI: Most Wanted"? – Jessica Connor, via email

A: Apart from his being a known commodity for his acting, it actually was quite convenient for executive producer Dick Wolf and his associates when they suddenly had to find a new lead for the CBS series (though Julian McMahon reportedly had been in talks about leaving the show for a while). McDermott already was "in the house" in a sense, given the work he had done recently for Wolf's company on NBC's "Law & Order: Organized Crime," so it likely was an easy outreach to the performer.

Q: I enjoy Erielle Reshef of ABC News. Where did she get her start? – Donna Longwell, Buffalo, N.Y.

A: Emmy winner Reshef came to the network in 2017 after having been an anchor-reporter at its affiliate in her hometown, Oklahoma City (KOCO-TV). Before that, she was based in Israel with IBA News, an English-language network distributed nationally in that country and also internationally.

A graduate of Indiana University in political science and Jewish studies, her married name is Frankenstein ... really. Daniel Frankenstein is an investment banker, and the couple has two sons together.

OF 'LAW & ORDER' ON NBC

Were you surprised when executive producer Dick Wolf decided to revive the original "Law & Order"?

He was talking about it five years ago, too, and I don't think he's ever stopped talking about it. One of the reasons that we're back is because of his persistence and determination, and his complete conviction that it was a terrible mistake to stop in the first place.

The other reason that we're coming back, I think, is because we stopped making the shows but the audience never stopped watching them. So, thanks to them.

When you first joined "Law & Order" as Jack McCoy at the start of Season 5, did you foresee it enduring this long?

Well, I had no idea, of course. I don't know who knew that it was going to morph into so many different iterations. But from the beginning, I wanted the Tony Awards to give Dick Wolf a Tony for what he had done for stage actors in New York City (by casting so many of them in guest roles). So far, I haven't succeeded, but I think it's a great idea and I think they ought to do it.

After "Law & Order" supposedly ended, it seemed like you never stopped working, including in the series "Grace and Frankie" and "The Newsroom." Was that always your plan?

Ever since I saw this on a crosstown bus on (New York's) 57th Street, (I've remembered) a quotation from Satchel Paige that said, "Keep on running and don't look back, because somebody may be gaining on you" ... and that's kind of been my motto about show business ever since.

While I was doing "Law & Order" (the first time), I was scrambling to do other things at the same time. When "Law & Order" was paused, as it was, I was scrambling to do things all the time. It's just what I do.

Cable and streaming offer a feast of Italian food knowledge

BY GEORGE DICKIE

As winter drags on, getting away to a gastronomic paradise like Italy has a lot of appeal. And for those who want to and can't, a number of upcoming and current offerings can show what it's all about.

Few do this better than "Stanley Tucci: Searching for Italy." Launching its second season Sunday, March 13, on CNN, the series follows the Emmy-winning, Oscar-nominated actor as he embarks on his personal quest across across the "Bel Paese" to understand the country's history and culture through food and meet the people and listen to the stories behind the world's most popular cuisine.

In Sunday's opener, he heads to the "Floating City" of Venice to meet the locals and learn how they have embraced the delights and challenges posed by its unique geographic location. The aquatic surroundings have spawned world-class produce, and those who live and visit there enjoy a fascinating food culture that has centuries-old influences from around the world.

At this writing, few other details were available on the new season, other than it will air in two parts, the second being in the fall, and that one stop will be in Umbria, home of the country's more traditional fare.

But that's merely an appetizer for the volume of Italian food knowledge that can be had on streaming. So consider the following the main course, dessert and after-dinner aperitif.

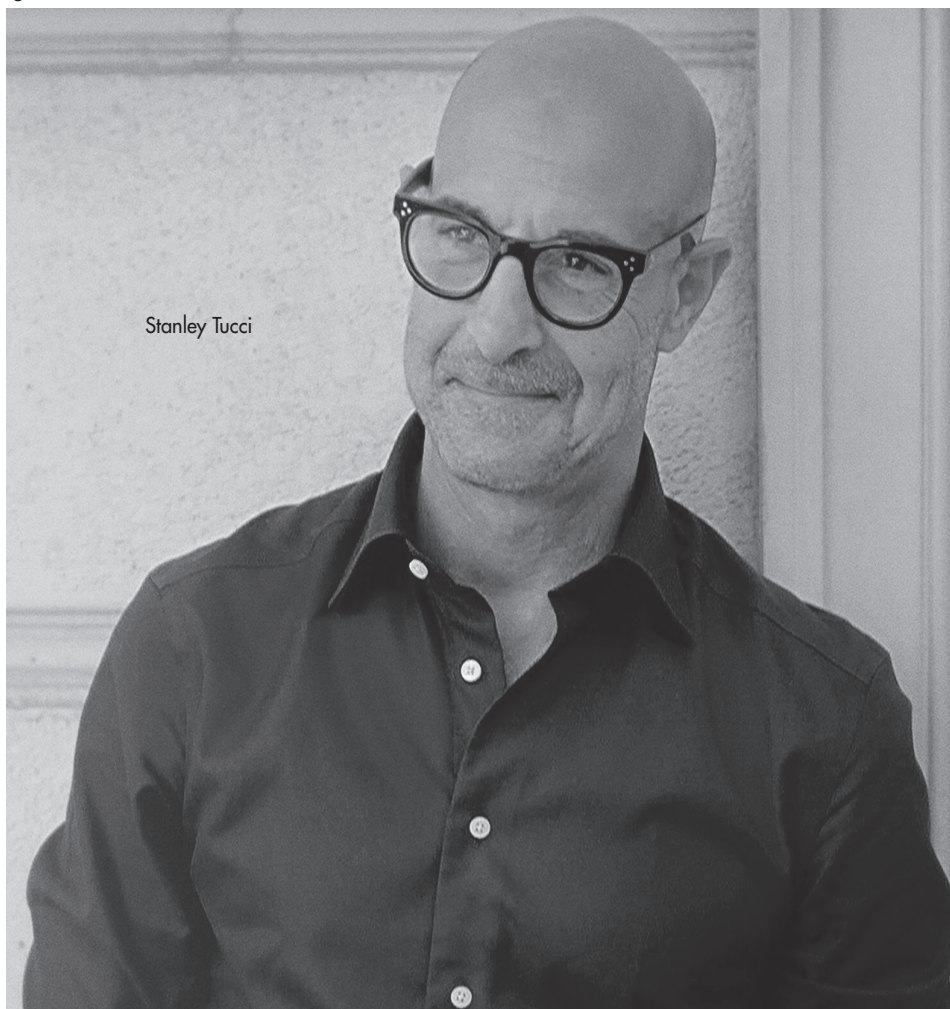

"Giada in Italy" (discovery+): Rome-born Giada De Laurentiis brings her family on the vacation of a lifetime in Florence, where she prepares authentic recipes in an outdoor kitchen overlooking the city. It also serves as a base from which to embark on culinary adventures in places such as Sorrento, Milan, Positano and the island of Capri.

"Gino's Italian Escape" (Tubi): Italian chef and TV personality Gino D'Acampo ("Gordon, Gino & Fred's Road Trip") is your host for this culinary odyssey through his home country, in which he discovers the secrets of Italian cuisine in places ranging from coastal villages to major cities like Rome and Naples.

"A Taste of Italy" (Acorn TV, Spectrum): British chef Nisha Katona takes viewers to locations throughout the country to discover the culinary gems hidden there. Among the locales she visits are Orvieto, the Umbrian village where she tries her hand at drunk chicken; Livorno, the Tuscan port town where she makes fish stew with white wine and fennel; and Catania, where she samples tuna sausage and swordfish parmigiana.

"Finding Little Italy" (Pluto): Similarly, this British series eschews the big cities like Rome and Venice for what it calls "the real Italy," the little towns and villages that have a long history of culinary mastery. So climb aboard host Luke Darracott's Vespa for a trek to places like Liguria, Toscana, Lazio, Umbria and Emilia.

OF 'ANGELA BLACK' ON SPECTRUM ORIGINALS

How have doors opened for you since you did "Downton Abbey"? For "Angela Black," did you audition or did they just call you and say they wanted you?

Well, Jack and Harry (Williams, the series' writers and creators) very kindly offered me the role of Angela Black but that's more to do with the fact I'd worked with them before on "Liar." I think, as opposed to "Downton." But, yeah, of course, I mean "Downton" certainly didn't do me any harm. It's a lovely thing to be attached to. It's a lovely thing to have as such a big part of my life and as well as a big part of my career. So something I'll be forever grateful for.

Can you give a little thumbnail sketch of the character of Angela?

Well, I found Angela a fascinating role to play because when we meet her, she's placing her life where outwardly, she seems to have it all. She has this beautiful home. She's got a beautiful husband, two beautiful children. But when you scratch the surface, the reality is very, very different. And when we meet her, she's really in a place where she's lost herself and she's lost her voice, and she's lost confidence in her own sense of self really and her own mind in some ways.

So we go on such a journey with her that sort of breaks her down even further, and then builds her back up again to be able to overcome, in some ways, the situation we find her in at the beginning. So it was just such a roller coaster journey for her, and as an actor, they're the most interesting roles to play that you can really, hopefully, bring the most nuance and really get to grips with the psychology of how she's feeling and why she's behaving in the ways that she is.

The eighth season of “MasterChef Junior” not only serves as the first for Daphne Oz as a judge but also as something of a time capsule for the 36-year-old mother of four.

That’s because the new round of episodes, which begin airing Thursday, March 17, were taped pre-pandemic during the summer of 2019, when the chef and cookbook author was eight months pregnant with daughter Giovanna, who was born in August of that year.

“I am extremely pregnant in this season as you’ll see,” Oz says with a laugh, “and the baby that I grew on the set of ‘MasterChef Junior’ is now two-and-a-half and ready to give her opinion live while I watch with her, which I’m very excited about. It’ll be a lot of fun.”

The new season brings in a fresh batch of 8- to 13-year-olds to showcase their talents and creativity through a series of challenges, which this time around includes cooking for diners at a Renaissance fair and welcoming back Gordon Ramsay’s daughter Tilly for a donut challenge.

As a parent, Oz jumped at the opportunity to join Ramsay and Sanchez, both of whom have children of their own, in shepherding these youngsters through the process. And watching them grow over the course of weeks has been rewarding for the host of the recently premiered syndicated food show “The Good Dish.”

“They come in with big personalities, they come in with things that they’re married to, things that they have ideas about,” Oz says. “And to watch them shed some of what they came in (with) that’s not serving them and come out and just grow ... and the pride that they feel when something that threw them for a loop in the beginning they confronted again, and all of a sudden now they have the skill sets to deal with it – like what an incredible confidence boost, what a life skill to take away from the show. It’s pretty powerful stuff.”

Full name: Daphne Nur Oz

Birth date: Feb. 17, 1986

Birthplace: Philadelphia

Family ties: Is the eldest of four children of Dr. Mehmet and author Lisa Oz; has three daughters and a son with John Jovanovic, CEO and founder of the investment fund Nova Fleet

TV credits include: “Guilty Pleasures,” “The View,” “Cooks vs. Cons,” “Daily Pop,” “The Chew,” “Bakers vs. Fakers,” “Fox and Friends,” “The Kitchen,” “Worst Cooks in America,” “Beat Bobby Flay,” “The Dr. Oz Show,” “The Good Dish”

Books: “The Dorm Room Diet,” “The Happy Cook: 125 Recipes for Eating Every Day Like It’s the Weekend,” “Eat Your Heart Out” (forthcoming)

‘The Sting’ is still sharp

It would have been notable enough for its reteaming of the “Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid” brigade of Paul Newman, Robert Redford and director George Roy Hill ... but thanks to an immensely clever David S. Ward script and its general appeal, “The Sting” amounts to much more. The best-picture winner of 1973, it’s part of Turner Classic Movies’ “31 Days of Oscar” month Friday, March 18.

The two stars play Depression-era con men bent on getting even with a mobster (a vicious Robert Shaw) who had one of their associates killed. They decide to beat him at his own game by staging a swindle – or “sting” – that involves the elaborate staging of a fake horse race. The film also is a feast of terrific character actors including Charles Durning, Eileen Brennan, Ray Walston and Harold Gould, and Marvin Hamlisch’s adaptation of Scott Joplin’s ragtime music is irresistible.

more retro rewinds

“The Matrix” (Freeform, Monday, March 14): Forget anything you knew about linear or even rational plotting. Here comes the writing-directing Wachowskis’ absolutely wild, enormously successful 1999 fantasy that makes its own rules as Keanu Reeves plays a computer hacker drawn into an alternate world and a battle between the human race and cyberspace. Laurence Fishburne and Carrie-Anne Moss also star.

“The Rockford Files” (getTV, Monday, March 14): It’s always nice to see a supporting player get the spotlight, and in “The Becker Connection,” that happened for series co-star Joe Santos. His police character Dennis Becker is framed for an evidence theft, and he appeals to Rockford and Angel (James Garner, Stuart Margolin) to find the culprit. Additionally nice here is Garner’s reunion with his former “Maverick” co-star Jack Kelly; also among guests are comedian Jack Carter and later “Hill Street Blues” co-star James B. Sikking.

“Flatliners” (EPIX, Tuesday, March 15): A cast of then-rising stars gave added immediacy to this 1990 melodrama about medical students subjecting themselves to near-death experiences – and going too far. Julia Roberts, Kiefer Sutherland (who also appeared in the 2017 remake), Kevin Bacon and William Baldwin star ... as does Oliver Platt, who ultimately would remain in the medical profession on screen as a star of television’s “Chicago Med.”

BY JAY BOBBIN

'Wonder Woman' is a relative wonder in her own movie

After the sometimes overblown brawn of movies built around DC Comics characters, it was time for the guys to step aside: It eventually became a woman's work. And, more specifically, "Wonder Woman."

If you know those comics and/or the name Lynda Carter, you're already versed in the background of the Amazonian with the golden lasso. That gives the 2017 film – which TNT shows Sunday, March 13 – much to go up against, since it has to approach the story of the character's roots with a fresh eye.

For that, much credit goes to director Patty Jenkins and title star Gal Gadot, who first appeared in the role in the previous year's "Batman v Superman: Dawn of Justice." You might not think the filmmaker who guided Charlize Theron to an Oscar for "Monster" would be comfortable in superheroine territory, but in many ways, she's just the unexpected choice this saga needs.

And as the true wonder of a woman also known to the outside world as Diana Prince, Gadot scores by being both strong and vulnerable when each trait is needed. And both are required by dashing World War I pilot Steve Trevor, played by Chris Pine, who introduces our heroine to society beyond the island where she's raised by her peaceable mother (Connie Nielsen) and warrior aunt (Robin Wright, smartly redeploying her "House of Cards" image in a different way).

Gal Gadot stars in "Wonder Woman"

Bringing that female legend into the real world – at least the one envisioned by the movie – is where "Wonder Woman" is particularly successful. Whether by design or not, her playful relationship with Trevor strongly recalls the simple magic that director Richard Donner generated with Christopher Reeve and Margot Kidder's Superman and Lois Lane, and it moved the DC franchise past its heavy and foreboding "Dark Knight" era. And it was time for that, especially after the pummeling nature of "Dawn of Justice."

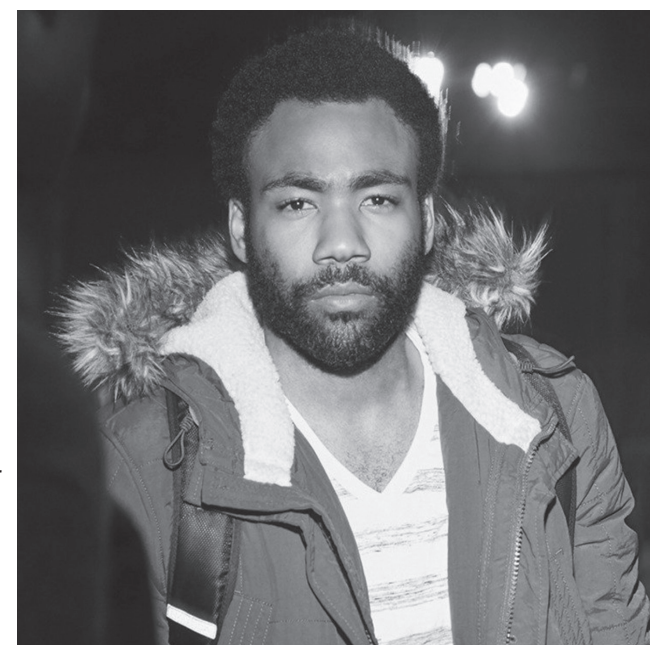

That being said, Gadot fulfills the promise she exhibited in that film. Just as James Bond has gone through various iterations with different performers, she makes a fine Wonder Woman for this day and age, though predecessor Carter's fans still can maintain rightful fondness for that 1970s television depiction.

As trim and fit as the character is, though, "Wonder Woman" suffers from superhero-movie bloat ... stretching almost a half-hour longer than it needs to. Still, its pleasures outweigh its demerits, as also was the case with the 2020 sequel "Wonder Woman 1984" – and while it may not be completely wonderful, "Wonder Woman" is still pretty good.

InFocus

"Atlanta" (FX — season premiere, March 24)

Nearly four years after the Season 2 finale, this Emmy-winning comedy series finally returns for its third season, which originally was planned to premiere in 2019. Set and filmed almost entirely in Europe, these new episodes follow Earn (series creator and star Donald Glover) and Paper Boi (Brian Tyree Henry), along with Darius and Van (LaKeith Stanfield, Zazie Beetz), on a European tour that is going better than they might have dreamed. Of course, they still have to navigate some new surroundings and process their unexpected success.

all about...

BY JAY BOBBIN

LILY TOMLIN

Mary Jean "Lily" Tomlin was born Sept. 1, 1939, in Detroit. While studying biology at Wayne State University, she auditioned for a play, and the result prompted her to switch her major to theater. While taking acting lessons, she started her career by performing in nightclubs in Detroit and New York.

One of Tomlin's first television jobs was as a regular cast member on Garry Moore's comedy-variety series, then she briefly hosted "Music Scene." Her next stop was "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In," on which she became a star by playing such characters as telephone operator Ernestine, youngster Edith Ann and housewife and mother Judith Beasley. Tomlin parlayed her "Laugh-In" popularity into several successful comedy albums.

In the mid-1970s, Tomlin moved into movies with an acclaimed performance in the Robert Altman-directed "Nashville." Afterward, she appeared in "The Late Show" and "Moment by Moment," but she scored one of her biggest hits by teaming with Jane Fonda and Dolly Parton in the comedy "9 to 5." Also among Tomlin's films are "The Incredible Shrinking Woman," "All of Me," "Big Business," "Short Cuts," "Flirting With Disaster," "I Heart Huckabees" and "Grandma."

On stage, Tomlin scored a career milestone on Broadway with the one-woman show "The Search for Signs of Intelligent Life in the Universe," which she wrote with her then-future spouse Jane Wagner.

Tomlin later went on a national tour with it.

Tomlin was the voice of Mrs. Frizzle on the series "The Magic School Bus," and after appearing on "Murphy Brown," "Homicide: Life on the Street" and "The X-Files," she had recurring roles on "The West Wing," "Will & Grace" and "Desperate Housewives." She also played parts on "Damages," "Eastbound and Down" and "Malibu Country," and her Netflix series "Grace and Frankie" is slated to debut its final episodes later this year.

Tomlin will receive a Career Achievement Award from the Movies for Grownups Awards, an event involving AARP The Magazine and marking its 20th anniversary with a "Great Performances" telecast Friday, March 18 (check local listings). She'll add that to her other accolades including eight Emmys, two Tonys and a Grammy.

ID's 'Crime Scene Confidential' takes a fresh look at notorious murder cases

True crime fans will want to check out at a new series that uses forensic evidence to take a fresh look at some of the country's most controversial murder cases.

On "Crime Scene Confidential," airing Tuesdays on ID (and streaming on discovery+), Alina Burroughs, former crime scene investigator for Orange County, Fla., revisits shocking homicide cases from recent history, re-examining the forensic evidence, navigating the tactics used by prosecutors and speaking with central figures in the cases in the hopes of bringing clarity to these complex crimes and closure for loved ones left behind.

For Burroughs, who during her career was involved in the discovery of the body of Florida toddler Caylee Anthony in 2008 and part of the investigative team of the 2016 massacre at Orlando's Pulse nightclub, keeping emotions in check is key to any investigation, which she wants to make clear in the series.

"When we let our emotions kind of take over, it can lead us to follow a dangerous path," she explains. "It can lead us to fall prey to listening to narratives that have been created for us by sides - by the defense, by the prosecution, by the media. And then this particular case, we want to follow the evidence. We want to look at the evidence and what it's telling us."

In addition to the Anthony case (which was the focus of last week's premiere episode), Burroughs also looks into the 2006 shooting of a Mississippi family man in his own living room and the 1992 falling death of a Pennsylvania newlywed, which is the subject of this week's episode.

"Crime Scene" is my passion because I am just one of those individuals that's crazy enough to think that I could make a difference and change

Beware of Kevin Harvick in the desert

A regular on Victory Lane in his two-plus decades in the NASCAR Cup Series, Kevin Harvick had the alien experience of going winless in 2021, something that hadn't happened in 12 years.

But on Sunday, March 13, the driver of the No. 4 Ford Mustang for Stewart-Haas Racing heads to the track where he's had his greatest successes when he vies at Phoenix Raceway in the Ruoff Mortgage 500.

His stats on the 1-mile low-banked tri-oval are impressive and eye-popping. In 38 races there dating back to 2001, the 46-year-old native of Bakersfield, Calif., has a record nine wins to go along with 18 top-fives, 27 top-10s, 34 top-20s, two poles and 1,663 laps led. He also won four Phoenix races in a row from November 2013 to March 2015 and six of eight from November '12 to March '16.

Though the 2014 Cup Series champion hasn't won in the desert in four years, his most recent race there amounted to a triumph of sorts. His eighth place finish in the season finale in November helped secure him fifth place in the final Cup standings, the highest finish of the non-championship four drivers, as well as an impressive comeback from the bottom of the 16-driver playoff field. Fox will have the coverage on Sunday as Harvick goes for victory No. 10 at Phoenix against the likes of defending series champ Kyle Larson, Joey Logano, Denny Hamlin, Brad Keselowski, Kyle Busch, Chase Elliott and Martin Truex Jr.

FULL NAME: Kevin Michael Harvick	NO.: 4	winner (2007); Cup Series Rookie of the Year (2001); Busch (now Xfinity) Series Rookie of the Year (2000); Busch Series champion (2001, 2006); Busch Series Most Popular Driver (2001)
BIRTH DATE: Dec. 8, 1975	TEAM: Stewart-Haas Racing
BIRTHPLACE: Bakersfield, Calif.	MAKE: Ford Mustang
HEIGHT/WEIGHT: 5 feet 10 inches/175 pounds	HONORS AND ACHIEVEMENTS: Cup Series champion (2014); Daytona 500

The STREAM Scene

Where all the top choices can be found in one place!

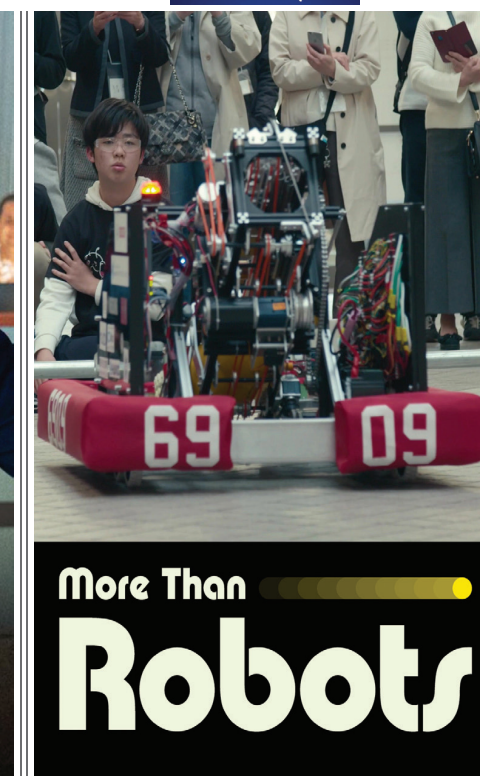

“Movie: The Peanut Butter Falcon”
This feel-good indie dramedy from co-writers and directors Tyler Nilson and Michael Schwartz stars Zack Gottsagen as a young man with Down syndrome who escapes from an assisted living facility to pursue his dream of becoming a professional wrestler. He quickly forms a tight bond with Tyler (Shia LaBeouf), a wayward fisherman on the run. Dakota Johnson, John Hawkes, Bruce Dern and Jon Bernthal co-star.

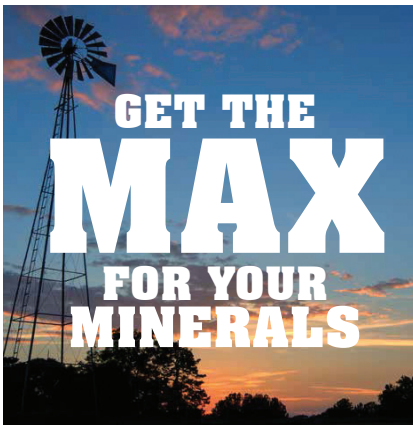

“Movie: Fresh”
Daisy Edgar-Jones (“Normal People”) and Sebastian Stan (“Avengers: Endgame”) both take sharp turns from previous projects to star in this dark thriller about a young woman (Jones) who is determined to survive her new boyfriend’s (Stan) unusual appetites. Jojo Gibbs, Charlotte Le Bon and Andrea Bang also star for Mimi Cave in her feature film directorial debut. (ORIGINAL)

“Space Force”
The second season of this comedy co-created by “The Office” collaborators Greg Daniels and Steve Carell catches up with Gen. Naird (Carell) and his team as they deal with interpersonal challenges while having to prove themselves to a new administration. John Malkovich, Ben Schwartz, Tawny Newsome and Diana Silvers are also among cast returnees. (ORIGINAL)

“More Than Robots” (March 18)
Best known as an actress in sitcoms such as “Community” and “Love,” Gillian Jacobs stepped behind the camera to direct this feature-length documentary that follows four teams of teenagers from around the world as they prepare for the 2020 First Robotics Competition amid a global pandemic and with limited resources.
