Shelter Pet Spotlight

• K32 (0749) "Lil' Bullet"

Hi! My name is Lil' Bullet and I am in K32 (0749) at the Big Spring Animal Shelter! I am a medium sized, 2-year-old Bully mix that weighs 45 lbs. I have been at the shelter since February 14th! I came in with my dad and brother. I am here because my owner passed away suddenly & I had nowhere else to go. I am a sweet & loving girl who wants nothing more than to give you kisses & lay in your lap. I am pretty short & chubby, but I still love to play! Children are my favorite people! I just don't like other animals very much so I may need to be your only pet. I am currently vaccinated & spayed. My brother has already gone to his new family, & I am still hopeful for mine! I am looking for my fur-ever loving home that will snuggle me & give me lots of belly rubs.

• C5 (0718) "Nugget"

I am "C5 (0718)" at the Big Spring Animal Shelter. The girls in the office named me Nugget! It's a little silly, I know, but I like it. I've never had a name before, so I'll take it. I am a 1-to 2-year-old, male Tabby cat who got curious & went into a cat trap. I have never had a home before and have been here since June 28th. I was very scared at first but with lots of love, I have now become such a sweet boy. I love to be held, enjoy pets & like playing with my cat toys. I am looking to find a loving home. I am timid at first & may take some time to warm up but, once I get use to things, I will be the purr-fect addition to your family. I am not vaccinated, chipped or neutered yet so that will need to be done by my new family.

The Big Spring Animal Shelter, 3605 E. 11th Place, is open from 1 to 4 p.m. To adopt an animal, new pet parents will need to travel to the Big Spring Police Department, show a valid driver's license, and pay any fees associated with adoption. For more information contact the shelter at 432-264-2372.

Defense rests at R. Kelly trial on trial-fixing charges

By MICHAEL TARM

AP Legal Affairs Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — The defense for R. Kelly and two co-defendants rested Friday at the R&B singer's trial on charges of trial-fixing, child pornography and enticing minors for sex, with closing arguments and the start of jury deliberations scheduled for early next week.

Minutes before resting, Kelly co-defendant and ex-business manager Derrell McDavid ended three days on the stand. He testified for nearly two days that he had believed Kelly when he denied abusing minors — then said he started have doubts about Kelly's believability during the trial that started last month.

Kelly and McDavid are charged with fixing Kelly's 2008 state child pornography trial — at which Kelly was acquitted — by threatening witnesses and concealing video evidence. Both also face child pornography charges. A third co-defendant, Kelly associate Milton Brown, is accused of receiving child pornography.

Prosecutors normally get a chance to call witnesses in a rebuttal of the defense case. But when they told Judge Harry Leinenweber on Friday that they needed some time to prepare, he said there would be no rebuttal and the case would go straight to closing arguments Monday morning.

McDavid was the only one of the three defendants to testify in his own behalf.

Kelly, 55, already was sentenced to 30 years in prison in June after a separate federal trial in New York.

Known for his smash hit "I Believe I Can Fly" and for sex-infused songs such as "Bump n' Grind," Kelly sold millions of albums even after allegations of sexual misconduct began circulating in the 1990s. Widespread outrage emerged after the #MeToo reckoning and the 2019 docuseries "Surviving R. Kelly."

During her cross-examination of McDavid, prosecutor Jeannice Appenteng sought to cast doubt on his testimony that, all through the 2000s, he was unaware that the sexual abuse allegations might have some credence.

During Kelly's monthlong trial in 2008, which McDavid attended, state prosecutors played a 30-minute, sexually explicit video dozens of times on large screens throughout the courtroom. Prosecutors said it showed Kelly abusing a 14-year-old girl, "Jane."

McDavid initially said he looked away every time the video was played but later conceded that he "glanced back and forth" at it, though not long enough to fully assess the content.

Appenteng also questioned McDavid about his claim that he wasn't at a 2001 hotel room meeting with Jane and her parents, where government witnesses said Kelly admitted having sex with Jane, who regarded Kelly as her godfather.

McDavid testified that he drove to the hotel but remained outside in his car. "It was delicate," he added.

"It was delicate," the prosecutor shot back, "because Kelly admits (at the meeting) ... he is having sex with his goddaughter."

On Thursday, McDavid also denied intimidating anyone leading up to the 2008 trial. His lawyer asked if he ever threatened to kill Kelly's ex-girlfriend Lisa Van Allen for having stolen a sex video from Kelly and for not being forthcoming about it, as she testified earlier.

"I'm an accountant. No," he said.

May we always find strength and courage, even when we are in pain. Amen.

Coffee And Cigars In Hico

When you enter Roy Ward's cigar store in Hico, the bell rings.

"The name of the store is THE WOODEN INDIAN CIGAR SHOP," says Roy. "We started out just selling premium hand made, hand rolled cigars from Central America. That was four years ago."

TUMBLEWEED SMITH

"I have two or three customers who have chuck wagons. They've learned that many of the chuck wagon cooks carried Arbuckle coffee. It's well known in the western community. The Arbuckle brothers started shipping coffee by the hundred pound bags to ranches in Texas. Out on the trail, the chuck wagon cooks couldn't get the cowboys to help grind the beans. So the Arbuckles came up with this ingenious idea of putting peppermint throughout the bag. So when the cooks would need help, they'd holler out 'who wants the sweet?' The cowboys would line up to help grind the beans so they could have peppermint. Arbuckle still puts a peppermint stick in each bag of coffee."

In addition to cigars and coffee, Roy sells other items like Man Cave Candles.

"I found these in a cigar magazine. They are candles primarily made for men to use in their shops, their barns, their cigar rooms and they are scented with craft beers, some with bourbon and some with coffee."

But mostly he sells cigars.

"They are all tobacco, no additives, no filters or anything like that. We have some Cohibas that are rolled in Honduras. We have Montecristo, Oliva, Macanudo, and Padilla. Those are some of the bigger brands that we carry. Then we have four Texas brands: Micallef, Bobalu, Southern Draw and San Jacinto. Those cigars are rolled in Nicaragua and neighboring countries. Our price range is from five dollars up to thirty. About sixty percent of our business is local. The other forty percent is from the metroplex, Austin, San Antonio and the petroplex. I've got a customer coming tomorrow from Brownwood. He likes a particular cigar that he can only find here."

Rou started smoking cigars in college.

"I thought that's such a neat looking thing. A cousin of mine and I first started smoking cigars during our college days. Cigar smokers don't inhale. If you inhale, you're going to be lying on the floor."

Before opening his cigar store Roy was a financial advisor and regional head of a life insurance company. In the late 80s he lived in Lubbock and was a Rotary District Governor. He says selling cigars is extremely enjoyable and he gets to meet lots of interesting people. Many of his customers are doctors.

Readers' Favorite

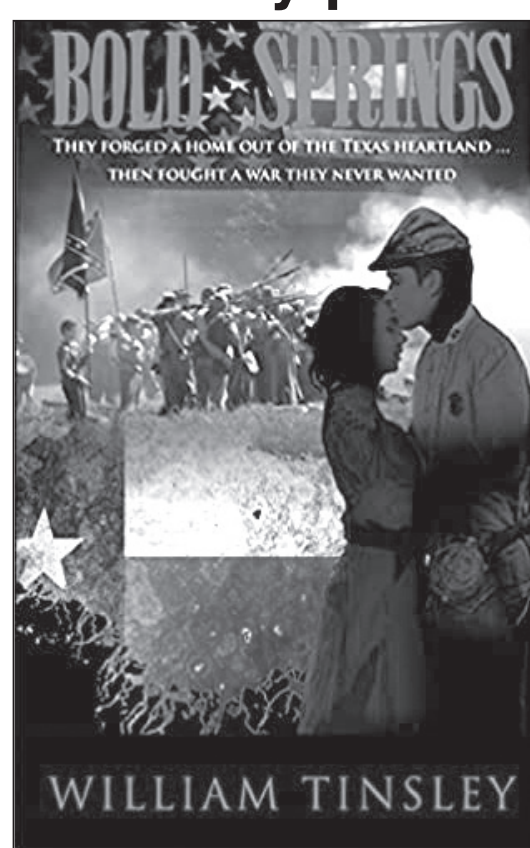

Bold Springs by William Tinsley is a work of historical fiction with a Christian theme. Set during the Civil War, it's an epic tale that spans the secession of Texas to the battlefields of Virginia and crescendos at Gettysburg. It is centered around two men: store-keep William James and the Rev. John Browder, neither of whom is either pro-slavery or pro-secession, one a man of uncertain faith and the other of deep belief, one a veteran of the Battle of San Jacinto and Texas independence and the other a more recent northern immigrant. It follows the lives of a company of Texas Confederate Army volunteers and some of their family members as they experience the drama, trauma, and social upheaval of the war that once divided the country.

In Bold Springs, William Tinsley gives us an engaging, dramatic, and ultimately uplifting story that satisfies on many levels. Whether you're a fan of Civil War fiction or anything about Texas, you won't be disappointed.

The characters of William James and Reverend Browder are carefully and believably drawn. These are men who have imperfections but who attempt to do what is right even in the face of threats to their lives from their own neighbors. William's friendship with Sam Houston and John's with Abraham Lincoln, along with references to military leaders and combatants on both sides, provide historical insight. Most of all, a golden thread runs throughout: an edifying call for brotherhood, unity, and peace. Highly recommended."

The Idle American

A Welcome Gone Bad...

Residents in the East Texas thicket where my Uncle Mort hangs out almost never leave, so welcoming a new family is quite a topic of conversation.

Larger communities have welcome wagons delivering goodies to newbies, but it's not every day that the guy bearing gifts drives up on a golf cart, carefully balancing one of Aunt Maude's red velvet chocolate cakes that often takes top honors at the county fair.

DON NEWBURY

Two days after the moving truck had departed, my ancient uncle attempted to deliver the mouth-watering gift, but before "howdies" were exchanged and hands shaken, a large guard dog broke his chain, and in an eye-twinkle, things went decidedly south....

Mort claims he saw the 100+ pound canine, marveled at his sparkling teeth, heard his menacing growl and then wished ever so much for a tree to climb or even a flagpole to scale when the dog broke the chain, speeding straightway toward him.

My uncle shoved the cake straight into the dog's face, knowing that it wouldn't take the animal long to consume it, and fearing that the dog's next objective would be a generous portion of protein. "I thanked my lucky stars that I had just come from a crawdad pond, and still had my waders on," Mort said. "I figured he'd have a hard time gnawing through my rubber boots if he tried to bite me on the leg."

Luckily, the new neighbor heard the scuffle, appeared through the front door, grabbed his dog by the collar and offered apologies that were over the top....

"I was afraid something like this might happen," the new neighbor whined. "My dog is not used to anyone coming to our house. Before moving here, we lived so far down in the swamp, no one ever passed our house going to town. I was so afraid something bad might happen, I had him neutered."

"You had him neutered?" Mort asked in bewilderment. His neighbor nodded.

"Well, when he broke that chain and made his flying toward me, I could tell he didn't have romance on his mind. You should have had his teeth pulled..."

After a few minutes passed and pulse rates lowered, Mort assured his new neighbor that Maude would bake him another cake, but it might take another week to get all the necessary ingredients.

"Why don't you and the wife come over for dinner tomorrow night?" Mort asked, assuring that he'd found crawfish aplenty for a good boil.

Mort said they'd build a campfire, enjoy good food, cut a watermelon and tell big fish tales....

My uncle was likewise excited when he told me that his grandkids had presented him with a cell phone for his birthday.

"It's one of them 'smart aleck phones," he joked. He's always said that his only reason to own a cell phone is to place and receive calls, nothing more. Siri, "that woman who knows everything and never sleeps," has broadened Mort's horizons by a heap....

"She is simply amazing," he told me. "I've yet to ask her a question she can't answer. Fact is, she may know too much."

I asked him to cite an example. "Well, I asked her directions to a funeral home, thinking she'd give me specific information about driving there. Well, she did, then added a startling statement. "The funeral home gets two stars; do you still want to go?"..."

He said he asked Siri about old-time religionists who took a hard line against dancing.

Siri was ready for him. "In pioneer days, many strict church-goers regulated much grief—now and later—for persons regularly frequenting dance floors." Mort said he was satisfied that she'd provide "chapter and verse" if so requested.

One old preacher was quoted regularly by parishioners whom he'd convinced that dancing should remain a "square deal." He said that a bended knee and a dancing foot are hardly ever found on the same leg....

BSJH seventh grade football teams split with Monahans

Special to the Herald

The Big Spring 7th grade football teams hosted the Monahans Loboes Thursday afternoon at Blankenship field. The seventh grade A Team went out and dominated on offense.

The A team won with a final score of 38-14.

Offensive Players of the Game were DJ Wrighter with 138 receiving yards for 2 touchdowns, Javon Jackson went 3 for 10 on passing, finishing with 130 yards and 2 touchdowns. Jackson also had 70 yards rushing for 2 touchdowns.

Colin Mikels also received offensive player of the game as he rushed for 63 yards and 1 touchdown.

A lot of credit goes to the offensive line which provided great protection up front.

Defensive Players of the game were Lucas Gonzales with seven tackles, Michael Morris with four tackles with two for a loss of yards and Marcus White with two tackles.

The seventh grade B Team played a hard fought game, battling back and forth with the Loboes.

The B team kept the game tied at 0-0 up until the last minute of the game, but in the end the B team lost to the Loboes with a final score of 8-0.

Jaylen Cooper led the B Team offensively rushing for 80 yards. Also Jason Gonzales had great offensive game he led the offense down the field several times, with several runs.

Defensive Player of the Game was Jason Gonzales leading the defense with several tackles.

Both seventh grade teams will play the Loboes again towards the end of the season.

COAHOMA ASSISTANT BESTS MENTOR

When Coahoma beat Sonora 31-27 last week it was a bit of a reunion for a Coahoma assistant football coach Mike Martinez. Coaching on the other side was Eddie Favila.

Favila has been coaching at Sonora for 27 years; he coached Martinez in high school. Both Martinez and his wife Maria are from Sonora. Therefore, there were a lot of family attending the game. Mrs. Martinez played it safe. She spent the first half on the Coahoma side and the second half on the Sonora side.

When I asked the soft spoken Martinez if he got a chance to visit with his old coach before the game?, he replied - "No, I was too busy working."

On another note, I saw the Bulldogs execute the perfect one minute offense. After a Sonora punt Coahoma got the ball on their own 43-yard line with 1:06 remaining in the half.

The Bulldogs calmly moved the ball down the field with their short passing game. With no timeouts and 11 seconds remaining in the half, Coahoma quarterback Boyd Cox and wide receiver Austin Perkins executed two sideline completions gaining 15 yards with Perkins getting out of bounds each time.

It was good enough for Reagan Chapman to on and kick at 35-yard field goal as time ran out. It was excellent clock management.

STEERS FIND RUNNING GAME

In their impressive win over Lubbock High the Big Spring Steers showed they are more than a one-dimensional team. In their season opening loss to Pampa, Big Spring showed it could pass the ball but their running game only picked up less than 50 yards.

Against Lubbock High, the Steers displayed a strong rushing game to go along with that passing attack, racking up over 200 yards on the ground to complement its passing game. Junior running back Kavien Ford, who rushed for 179 yards, ripped the LHS defense for several long runs in addition to catching a couple of screen passes that turned into big gainers.

Quarterback Gavin Padron and wide out Donavyn Hilario hooked up on several big pass plays. Padron had a Tom Brady-ish game, completing 27 of 30 passes for 359 yards and three touchdowns.

Kudos to the O-line with the likes of Josh Gonzales, Jeremiah Presas, Nicholas Garcia, Anthony Gonzales and Jayden Overton who controlled things up front.

Next stop is a homecoming date with old nemesis Monahans. The Lobos have lost to two good teams, Shallowater, 47-27 and Andrews 59-29. Andrews, ranked No. 15 in the state in class 4A-Division I, is picked to win Big Spring's district. Shallowater is No. 17 in 3A-I. Just because of the familiarity of the two teams, Big Spring will be in for a tough one.

WESTBROOK PASSES TOUGH TEST

Defending state champs Westbrook Wildcats got a stern test on the road last week against No. 4 state ranked Jonesboro. The Wildcats prevailed 30-14 against a team whose only loss last year was to defending state runner-up May. (Westbrook defeated May in the state championship game) Against Jonesboro, Westbrook led 8-6 at the half but scored 22 third quarter points to put the game away. The Westbrook defense limited Jonesboro to 169 yards total offense, no easy feat in six-man football.

The Westbrook rushing tandem of Cedric Ware and Grayson Jeffery combined for 228 yards on the ground. It doesn't get any easier for the Wildcats. They host No. 6 Rankin next.

ACT OF KINDNESS

A true definition of an act of kindness. Two weeks ago, a couple from Clyde, while riding a motorcycle, were killed in a traffic accident in Abilene.

They left two children who go to school in Clyde. Soon after the accident Greenwood played in Clyde in a non-district volleyball match in Clyde.

The Greenwood volleyball team reached out to Clyde and the Rangerettes raised funds to contribute to a go fund me to help out the family of the deceased.

Greenwood raised $1,400 and gave the check to the Clyde family before the volleyball match.

There was no big production or anything. Greenwood simply told Clyde they had something for them when they arrived in Clyde. Greenwood wanted to do it discreetly.

The one who started this campaign was Greenwood assistant volleyball coach Katie Voss, a former member of the Big Spring coaching staff. Hats off to coach Voss and the Greenwood volleyball squad.

I NEVER KNEW THAT

In the Colorado City Wolves season opening loss to Roscoe I got to witness a bizarre play.

The Colorado City Wolves punter was set to receive the punt but the snap goes over his head. He was able to retrieve the ball and gets off a punt that goes straight up in the air.

Roscoe's receiving team leaves the ball alone but a Colorado City player picks it up and runs 88 yards into the endzone.

I thought to myself no way the kicking team can't locate the ball unless a member of the receiving team fumbles it away.

Wrong!

The referees ruled it a touchdown because the punt never made it past the line of scrimmage.

Talk about things that make you go huh!!!

New coach Monty Leaf's Wolves are off to a rough start. They lost to Roscoe and New Home and this week they'll face Christoval.

All three of those teams are defending district champions. In addition, Colorado City's district (4-2A, Div. I) has two of the state's top teams Hawley (No. 3) and Cisco (No. 4).

"We're slowing getting our system in," said Leaf, who was hired just before school ended. "I know everybody wants immediate results but that's just not the way it happens. We've got nine new kids on defense and right now we're giving up too many big plays." Against New Home, the Wolves got a fine performance from running back Aedan Briseno who gained 215 yards on 32 carries.

Leading the way is 6-foot-4, 300-pound junior center Christian Ashby who already has 20 pancake blocks.

Holmes return for Baylor has some Bears 'at loss for words'

By STEPHEN HAWKINS

AP Sports Writer

When Gavin Holmes weaved through the defense past would-be tacklers and broke free for the end zone on a punt return in the season opener, his Baylor teammates couldn't contain their excitement.

More than the 72-yard touchdown return, this celebration was about the sixth-year player who scored it. Holmes missed all of the Bears' Big 12 championship season last year because of a broken right foot, and that was after being limited to one game and missing their other conference title game during a two-season span when he twice tore the ACL in his left knee.

"He scored, and I was like, 'Yes!' I was at a loss for words because I knew how much it meant to him, I know how much it meant to the team and I knew how much it meant to his parents," fifth-year Baylor cornerback Mark Milton said this week. "It was a blessing. A lot of people would have given up, but he didn't."

Not after five surgeries on his left knee, and all of the rehab that came with those. Not after the broken foot with ligament issues in the spring following the pandemic-shortened 2020 season, when he had 33 catches while playing in all nine games.

"I've always said I wanted to play until I physically can't anymore, because I love this game. It's all I've been doing my whole life," Holmes said. "I've learned so much about myself in this process. And I know that I can still follow my dreams, chase my dreams and do what I want to do. So that really pushed me to keep going."

In the first quarter of ninth-ranked Baylor's season-opening 69-10 win over FCS team Albany last Saturday, Holmes fielded a punt, escaped the grasp of an initial defender and then eluded several others. The final sprint was along the same sideline as the Baylor bench.

"So cool," coach Dave Aranda said, aptly describing that entire sequence.

"I would hope that my son and my daughters kind of have the heart that he has, and just the awareness and the compassion that he has," Aranda said. "So you root hard for guys like that. And for him to have an opportunity, man, that's so cool. It could not happen to a better dude."

Holmes, whose whole family was at the game, said the love and embrace he got from his teammates and coaches after the score was a feeling that he will never forget.

As for what Aranda said about him, Holmes said it was cool to hear.

"Just my journey, my testimony and all that ... I want to be an influence to people, who especially are going through things like that I have been through," Holmes said. "To hear coach Aranda say that about me, especially in reference to his own children, that's amazing. I'm really appreciative and thankful that God has put me in this position to influence people like that."

After being part of former coach Matt Rhule's first signing class in February 2017, Holmes started four of the nine games he played in later that fall as a true freshman before his first torn ACL late that season. He has played in only 11 games since, including those nine in 2020.

Holmes already has his undergraduate degree in health, kinesiology and leisure studies. But he wasn't ready to be done playing for the Bears, who are at No. 21 BYU on Saturday night.

"I just want to contribute to the team in the best way that I can," he said. "I'm surrounded by great guys and selfishly, it was fun being a part of that Big 12 championship last year, but I want to win one where I'm on the field."

There are many opportunities throughout life to learn something new and make the world a little better.

The Big Spring High School Building Trades class will get such an opportunity thanks to a generous donation from a local housing development company.

Crossroads Housing Development Corporation Big Spring Works has given a project house to BSHS to complete this school year and will be sold to a Disabled American Veteran.

The newly renovated house will be wheelchair accessible.

“The kids will get a great hands-on experience on a project that will be for a disabled veteran,” said BSISD Superintendent Jay McWilliams. “I am most happy about that it is the second year kids who will get to work on the project. They are basically flipping a house.”

The students will be working with General Contractor Jeff Bowers, and the structure located south of the high school, was donated by Crossroads.

“Crossroads was founded to clean up neighborhoods,” said Project Coordinator Anna Scott who said she is also grateful for the support from Big Spring High School.

Building trades teacher Joseph Saiz is

“The kids will get a great hands-on experience on a project that will teach them new skills,”

BSISD Superintendent Jay McWilliams

excited for the opportunity his students will be afforded to learn new skills that may lead to a trade or a career as well as teaching them new skills.

“It’s a great opportunity for the students to learn general skills and get a look at all trades,” said Saiz and added that the students will be assigned tasks that are conducive to their skills and talents.

Although the students, 14 in all, will not be able to work on electrical wiring or plumbing, they will be able to observe those tasks when the time comes.

Until then, the students will be working on building and installing new framework, cabinets and new ramps and rails.

Look for updates in the Herald as the project progresses.

The house is expected to be completed by the end of the school year.

Feral Hog Control Workshops offered around Texas

Special to the Herald

A group of state agencies is working together to host multiple workshops around the state to help landowners address the issues that feral swine pose to agriculture, ecosystems and the health of humans and animals.

The Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board, TSSWCB, is partnering with the Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service; the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Natural Resources Conservation Service, NRCS, and the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, APHIS; the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Districts, SWCD; the Texas A&M Natural Resources Institute, NRI; and the Texas Wildlife Services to offer resources through the Feral Swine Control Pilot Program.

More than just a nuisance

Feral swine are a threat to waterways and ecosystems as their numbers rapidly increase daily across the state. Texas is a private-land state, with 83% of its land mass in family owned farms, ranches and forests, making education and awareness of wild pig damage a priority for maintaining healthy ecosystems.

Providing learning opportunities to landowners about effective management strategies remains crucial to the success of abating damages associated with these feral swine.

The Feral Swine Control Pilot Program consists of a "smart trap" loan program, educational and outreach activities, and direct-control activities by APHIS. Landowners in participating counties may be eligible to use a feral swine smart trap on their property through the SWCD trap loan program or receive direct control through APHIS.

The Texas Feral Swine Eradication and Control Pilot Program activities are funded through a USDA-NRCS grant and administered by the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board.

Workshop times and locations

Stocks end broadly higher, breaking a 3-week losing streak

By DAMIAN J. TROISE and ALEX VEIGA

AP Business Writers

Stocks closed broadly higher on Wall Street, breaking a three-week losing streak. The benchmark S&P 500 index rose 1.5% on Friday, but is still well below where it was in mid-August. Big gains for technology companies pushed the Nasdaq composite even higher. The Dow Jones Industrial Average also climbed, as did small-company stocks. All 11 industry sectors of the S&P 500 rose, including energy stocks, which caught a break from recent declines thanks to an upturn in oil prices. DocuSign rose sharply after the electronic signature company reported strong second-quarter sales and raised its subscription forecast.

THIS IS A BREAKING NEWS UPDATE. AP's earlier story follows below.

Stocks are broadly higher on Wall Street in afternoon trading Friday, keeping the market on track to break a three-week losing streak.

The S&P 500 rose 1.7% as of 3:32 p.m. Eastern and is up 3.8% for the week, on pace for its biggest gain in seven weeks. The Dow Jones Industrial Average rose 422 points, or 1.3%, to 32,194 and the Nasdaq rose 2.2%. Each index is on track for its first weekly gain in four weeks.

Technology stocks and retailers had some of the biggest gains. Microsoft rose 2.3% and Amazon rose 2.6%.

DocuSign jumped 10.7% after the electronic signature company reported strong second-quarter sales and raised its subscription forecast.

All 11 industry sectors in the benchmark S&P 500 rose, though makers of household goods and utilities, which are typically considered less risky investments, lagged the market. U.S. crude oil prices rose 3.9%, helping push up energy sector stocks.

Exxon Mobil rose 2.1%.

Smaller company stocks also notches solid gains, pushing the Russell 2000 index 2% higher.

Bond yields were mixed. The yield on the 10-year Treasury, which influences interest rates on mortgages and other loans, held steady at 3.33%. The two-year Treasury yield, which tends to track expectations for actions by the Federal Reserve, rose to 3.57% from 3.51%.

The Fed has been the main focus for investors as they try to figure out whether the central bank's plan to cool the hottest inflation in four decades will work or possibly trip an already slowing economy into a recession. Stocks spent July and part of August gaining ground on hopes that the Fed would ease up on its interest rate hikes, but slumped over the last few weeks as it became clear the central bank remained resolute in raising rates.

The central bank has already raised rates four times this year and markets expect it to deliver another jumbo-sized increase of three-quarters of a percentage point at its next meeting in two weeks. Fed officials, including Chair Jerome Powell, have all reaffirmed the central bank's determination in raising rates until inflation is under control.

That has left investors closely watching economic data for any sign that inflation might be cooling. The calendar for such updates will be busy next week.

The Labor Department will release its report on consumer prices for August on Tuesday and a report on wholesale prices on Wednesday. On Thursday, Wall Street will get an update on retail sales for August.

Dble
Opening lead — king of diamonds.

This well-played hand was sent by a reader. South got to four spades doubled after West had opened one no-trump, showing 12 to 14 high-card points in their partnership methods.

West led the king of diamonds and shifted to the deuce of hearts. Declarer followed low from dummy, East winning with the king. East returned the jack of diamonds to West's ace, and a diamond continuation was ruffed by South.

Declarer had lost the first three tricks and had to make the rest. This he proceeded to do, even though it seemed he would have to lose a club trick and go down one.

South made his first good play when he led the jack of trump at trick five and took a first-round finesse. He did not play the ace first because, for his plan to work, it was necessary to be in the closed hand following the third round of trump. After drawing West's trumps with the king and ace, declarer cashed one more trump to produce this position:

♣ J 9 6

South next played the six of spades, and West — who could not spare a heart because it would allow declarer to establish a heart trick in dummy — discarded a club. Dummy also discarded a club, placing East in a position where he, too, could not spare a heart and had to discard a club. South then finessed the queen of clubs, cashed the ace and scored the last two tricks with the three of spades and eight of clubs to bring in his doubled game.

The best pumpkins for pie (and other desserts) Beginning in early fall, pumpkins begin to arrive at farmer's markets, supermarkets, nurseries, and fall harvest festivals. Pumpkins are versatile in that they make colorful fall home decorations, but also can be utilized in all sorts of recipes. In fact, pumpkins are a type of winter squash. While some people may be quick to think that the larger the pumpkin the better it is for baking up delicious treats, that's actually not the case. According to the gardening resource Gardener's Path, although most pumpkin cultivars are edible, the big pumpkins carved into jack-o-lanterns for Halloween tend to be pretty bland, watery and stringy. They've been hybridized to produce a large Halloween-friendly shape, not for flavor. Those traits are not ideal for a delicious pumpkin pie or pumpkin chocolate chip oatmeal cookies.

The best pumpkins for purees used in recipes are those that were specially cultivated for cooking. When shopping for pumpkins for your next recipe (if you're opting for fresh, rather than canned puree), select one of the following:

- Cinderella
- Baby Bear
- Early Sweet Sugar Pie
- Dickinson
- Jarrahdale
- Galeux d'Elsines
- Orange Smoothie
- Small Sugar, among others

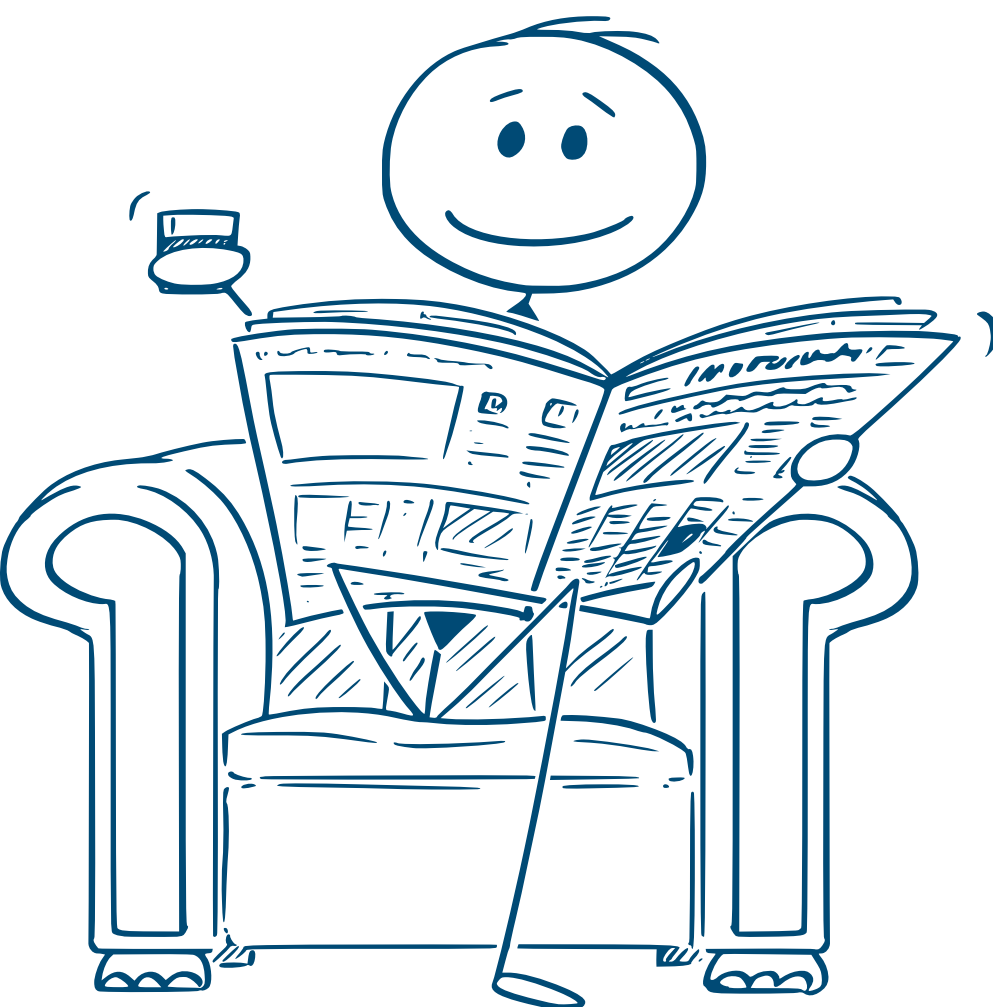

Once you've selected your perfect cooking pumpkins, it's time to whip up a pumpkin pie. Enjoy this recipe, courtesy of McCormick, which can be served anytime from Halloween through Christmas.

Classic Pumpkin Pie
Serves 8

- Pastry for 9-inch pie crust
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 2 teaspoons Mc-

- Cormick® Pumpkin Pie Spice
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 can (15 ounces) pumpkin (or equivalent in fresh puree)
- 1 teaspoon McCormick® All Natural Pure Vanilla Extract
- 1 can (12 ounces) evaporated milk

Preheat oven to 425 F. Line 9-inch pie plate with pie crust. Mix eggs, brown sugar, pumpkin pie spice, flour, and salt in medium bowl until smooth. Stir in pumpkin and vanilla. Gradually add evaporated milk, mixing well. Pour into pie crust. Bake 15 minutes. Reduce oven temperature to 350 F. Bake 40 minutes longer or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Serve warm or cold. Garnish with whipped cream and sprinkle with additional pumpkin pie spice, if desired. Store covered in refrigerator.

The Flight 93 National Memorial (475 words, US, UK, CAN)

At 10:03 a.m. on September 11, 2001, the last of four planes that were hijacked earlier that morning crashed into a field near the town of Shanksville, Pennsylvania. The people behind the 9/11 attacks later claimed the hijackers who commandeered the plane intended to crash it into the U.S. Capitol Building in Washington, D.C., but passengers and crew stormed the cockpit, prompting the hijackers to crash the plane into the field, which is less than 20 minutes' flying time to Washington, D.C. The efforts of passengers and crew onboard Flight 93 were nothing short of heroic. Though everyone aboard the flight perished in the crash, the attack on the U.S. Capitol was thwarted, saving untold number of lives. All passengers and crew on board Flight 93 were awarded a Congressional Gold Medal on September 11, 2014. The Flight 93 National Memorial is located in Stonycreek Township in Somerset County, Pennsylvania, roughly two miles north of Shanksville. The me-memorial was opened to family members of the victims on September 10, 2015, and is now open to the public seven days a week, 365 days a year from sunrise to sunset, though visitors are urged to contact the Memorial in advance due to potential restrictions or closures related to the COVID-19 pandemic. In September 2005, the Flight 93 Advisory Commission, which included family members of the victims as well as design and art professionals and national leaders, chose a design proposal submitted by Paul Murdoch Architects and Nelson Byrd Woltz Architects from among 1,100 entries. The Flight 93 National Memorial includes the Tower of Voices, a 93-foot-tall musical instrument that holds 40 wind chimes, one to represent each of the 40 passengers and crew members who perished in the crash. The tower is located on an oval concrete plaza that includes two curved concrete benches facing the opening of the tower. The tower is surrounded by concentric rings of white pines and deciduous plantings. A live webcam of the Tower of Voices can be viewed at <https://www.flight93friends.org/plan-your-visit/webcams>. Visitors to the Flight 93 National Memorial also can visit the Memorial Plaza. The Memorial Plaza features the Wall of Names, which is made up of 40 white polished marble stones inscribed with the names of the passengers and crew who were aboard Flight 93 on 9/11. The Memorial Plaza extends one-quarter mile alongside the area where Flight 93 crashed. Visitors can walk along the Memorial Plaza and view the impact site, including a grove of eastern hemlock trees that were damaged by the crash. A gap in the tree line is still visible and serves as a lasting "scar" of the crash. More information about the Flight 93 National Memorial is available at <https://www.nps.gov/flni/planyourvisit/index.htm>. TF219263
