The Big Spring Symphony Orchestra started off its 2022-23 concert season in fine form Saturday night with a show titled "A Romantic Exposition" and featuring music from the Romantic school of composition.

'I'm privileged to have a very good orchestra, and almost without fault they played just superbly," said Maestro Dr. Keith Graumann, conductor and music director of the orchestra. "The mistakes are so very few with that group that I can't complain at all. It's just a wonderful orchestra and I'm privileged to be the conductor."

As Symphony Board President Mark Watt explained during his opening remarks, "Romantic" music doesn't just mean love music.

'We think, 'romantic,' we think 'love,'" Watt said at the concert's beginning. "'Romantic' was an idea in that period... an idea that evoked passion. Not just romantic-type passion, but all kinds of passion. All kinds of emotion." Romantic music was prevalent during the early part of the 19th Century, and was dramatic and emotional. Often it sought to describe a narrative through the use of music.

During the concert's first half, the orchestra played Johannes Brahms'

Academic Festival Overture, and Bedrich Smetana's Ma Vlast (My Fatherland), both of which evoked emotions of patriotism and national pride; while the second half of the concert focused more on emotions of fear and supernatural awe, with Edward Grieg's Peer Gynt Suite No. 1, including "Morning," "The Death of Ase," "Anitra's Dance," and the well-known "In the Hall of the Mountain

The music continued with Camille Saint-Saens' Danse Macabre, featuring BSSO Concertmaster Dr. Fagner Rocha on solo violin, portraying a devil leading a gang of supernatural haunts in a spooky dance; Richard Wagner's Siefried's Death and Funeral Music from Gotterdammerung; and Modest Mussorgsky's Night on Bald Mountain.

Dr. Graumann said the length of the pieces was part of his selection process for the evening's mu-

"Pieces that average 10 minutes long or something like that are generally just used as overtures or incidental pieces, so rarely do we get to hear a whole concert of that type of pieces, so I decided to do that, and was able to add some pieces that typically might be played only around Halloween, so even though it was early we got some spooky pieces in with that," he said. "They were all what we would consider the Romantic era." Graumann complimented Dr. Rocha for his part in the program. "He's my mainstay. He's jsut a wonderful concertmaster for me. He's been very helpful for several years since I hired him as concertmaster, and he's also a very good soloist. He's just a very gifted guy. He conducts his own orchestra in San Angelo at Angelo State," Graumann said. Dr. Rocha said he had a great time during the con-

"I think it was a great concert. I think, a great display of Romantic music, full orchestra, full orchestration, brass, strings, I think there were a lot of moods and I like that we played some Halloween music," he said. "I think Danse Macabre on the violin was a really cool piece to play with the violin de-tuned. It was a lot of fun. It's a program that anyone can enjoy. It's not classical music just for musicians, but I think those are very popular works and there's a good reason: because they are very nice pieces."

Additionally, a group from Big Spring's Runnels Academy made the night at the Symphony part of their learning process Saturday.

"Tonight we just had a 'Runnels Night at the Symphony,' and we gathered parents, teachers, grandparents and students who wanted to come and they all joined together and we attended and enjoyoed the symphony for the first time, so we hope to make this an annual event," said Runnels music teacher Tammi Biel Warren.

The symphony's next concert will be Dec. 17, 2022, when the BSSO will present its Holiday Spectacular featuring soloists Nadia Kiley and Lawrence Thibeault, and the Howard College Choir directed by Mark Watt.

LONDON (AP) — I couldn't see the lone piper. But it didn't matter. As the sounds of the Scottish lament, "Sleep, Dearie, Sleep," faded into the silence of Westminster Abbey, it finally struck me that Queen Elizabeth II was really gone. The queen loved bagpipes so much that she had a piper play under her window for 15 minutes every morning, so those notes disappearing into the ether had a sense of finality, in a grand, show-stopping way. Monday's state funeral was filled with those kinds of moments as Britain said good-bye to its longest-serving monarch with all the pageantry the nation is known for. The black-clad mourners included the royal family, seven British prime ministers and hundreds of dignitaries from around the world, including U.S. President Joe Biden.

But it was the colors that caught my drop for decorations of all kinds. Military medals gleamed from the chests of old soldiers, and civilians sported ribbons denoting civilian honors bestowed by the queen.

There were Knights of the Garter in blue velvet capes. Trumpeters with long silver instruments festooned with banners. Soldiers in gleaming plumed-helmets and the army veterans known as Chelsea Pensioners, resplendent in their traditional scarlet

"It was like something out of a fairy tale," said Bertram Leon, who was recently awarded a British Empire Medal for service to the St. Lucian community. "You know, it was amazing, beautifully well done — orchestrated, which is what you expected."

I witnessed the spectacle from a seat in the abbey's north transept, my view obstructed by a great stone pillar. That's partly why I couldn't see the piper.

But so what? It didn't matter. It was Watching the world leaders file in, I wished I had a scorecard with little photographs to figure out who was who. There were so many of them who could keep track?

Then came the royals, led by King Charles III in full military uniform, a sword on his hip.

But behind the pomp and circumstance, this was about honoring the late queen and her lifetime of service to Britain and the Commonwealth.

And it was the Archbishop of Canterbury, Justin Welby, who captured that better than any parade or proces-Welby reminded the congregation of the queen's speech during the early days of the COVID-19 pandemic when frightened Britons were stuck in their homes unable to see friends and family.

Elizabeth, a symbol of stability for 70 years, echoed the words of a World War II-era song by Vera Lynn — and assured the nation that "We will meet

Welby's words reminded me of the night I listened to that speech, and wondered what the future would hold. I was frightened too — wasn't

So somehow this immense state funeral service suddenly became very personal. Amid all the pomp and pageantry, we were all invited to think about that night— about what the queen meant to us in that awful, pandemic time.

So whatever it was, the words or the guardsmen or the choristers, I can tell you one thing: At the end of the service, the congregation stood and sang "God Save the King" with such gusto that it almost felt as if the abbey walls were shaking. If nothing else, the nation's long-time leader was leaving center stage.

I can't say for sure, of course. But I think it will take this country some time to remember that the first line of the national anthem is no longer "God Save our gracious Queen."

Howard Co. Area Football Roundup:

Big Spring, Coahoma, and Forsan get huge wins on the road in Week 4

By PATRICK GONZALES

Herald Sports Writer

Its hard to believe that we are already approaching the halfway mark of the season but here we are. Week 4 turned out to be like last week with all three Howard County football teams getting huge wins. This time all three area teams were on the road and were playing in their opponents homecoming game. After a two year hiatus the Big Spring Steers traveled to Sweetwater to take on the Mustangs in the historic Mustang Bowl. After a slow start the Steers came back in the second half to upset the Mustangs at home with a final score of 20-7. Coahoma also traveled east this week where they renewed their rivalry with the Colorado City Wolves. The Bulldogs spoiled the Wolves homecoming festivities en route to a 35-7 win over the Wolves. Forsan traveled Southwest to take on the McCamey Badgers in their homecoming. The Buffaloes had a huge game both offensively and defensively as they they trampled the Badgers coming away with a 33-7 victory.

Opening lead — three of spades.
Sometimes a play favored by the percentages should not be made because declarer has a sure thing if he goes against the odds.

This seeming paradox arose in today's deal where South wound up in three notrump after a pre-emptive two-heart overcall by East. West led the three of spades, and two things were immediately apparent: West obviously had no hearts and also was almost surely leading from a five-card spade suit (assuming he was leading fourth-best, the only card lower than the three was the missing deuce).

the missing deuce).

Declarer won East's ten with the jack and mulled over the situation. The easiest way to gain a ninth trick would be to lead a heart from dummy toward his hand. But this was not feasible, since East would go up with the ace and return a spade through the K-5 to sink the contract.

South therefore decided that his best chance was to score a trick with dummy's ten of clubs. Before broaching that suit, though, he firs cashed four diamond tricks, dis carding a heart from dummy as East discarded two hearts.

The play of the diamonds revealed that West had started with four of them, marking him with four clubs as well (and East with three). The odds thus became 4-to-3 that West held the jack, so a finesse of the ten on the second round seemed in order. But as can be seen, this would not have met with great success.

However, South realized that if he simply cashed the A-K-Q of clubs instead of finessing, he had a sure thing regardless of who had the club jack. Accordingly, he took the three top clubs, dropped East's jack and so made the contract.

And what if West had held the jack? In that case, declarer would next have played the ten of clubs from dummy. West would win with the jack but would then be forced to lead a spade, handing South the king of spades as his ninth trick.

Tomorrow: Indemnifying the contract.

Trine of Surprise

Do you like surprises? For some, the thrill is just the boost of adrenaline needed to keep life interesting, and to others, even the smallest eruption of the unknown is enough to fray the nerves. The auspicious arrangement of the planet of surprises to beautiful Venus astonishments promises that even those with sensi-

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Who needs a safety net? Not only the naive and the newbies but also the professionals and anyone who values what they have. The safety net is what allows for experimentation, daring invention and the mastery of tricky things.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You won't know how you really feel until you discuss the issue. That's when you'll notice where the emotional hot spots are, which might surprise you. This will save you from wasting time trying to fix the wrong things.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). With a little sleuthing you'll gather the evidence you need to draw a conclusion. But is it the correct answer? The key to that staying open-minded, which is much easier when you're not invested in any particular outcome.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). A formerly quiet ambition will not stay that way for much longer. If this is going to happen, you have to start making some noise about it. Start by telling safe, supportive people.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You'll get in sync with nature, especially by taking advantage of any weather you're having. If it's sunny, you'll let the sunshine kiss and heal you. If it's rainy, you'll let it wash your soul clean.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You love people who tell you something you don't know, bring you a new vision of the world and make you curious. Your friends do that, and so will new people coming into your realm -- something to look forward to!

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Sept. 20). You show up to life with vibrance and daring. You'll try new things in the name of being your best self. It's a journey of beau-tiful imperfection, though even the mistakes you make will be tinged in good fortune, tipping you onto paths that are a better fit, more lucrative and storied. An investment will pay off and float your dream. Cancer and Pisces adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 10, 3, 8, 32 and 16.

CELEBRITY PROFILES: Sophia Loren won a beauty pageant at age 14 and remains a radiant model of elegance. The Oscar-winning actress is a Virgo born when Venus and Neptune were in Virgo as well. The emphasis of Virgo energy is on nurturing, including the nurturing of the self. It is often embodied in a joyful, if fastidious, approach to health and fitness. In many ways, Virgo vibes are like a magic elixir of youth.

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes.
