Should a Loving Wife Sacrifice

Should a loving wife sacrifice her whole life in order to satisfy the ambition of a faithless and cruel husband—even if he is an artist?

This woman, when she gave her love to this man gave him everything, prefers to shipwreck her own body and soul so that the man she loves will sail into a harbor of safety.

Wynne Gibson in the title role of "I Give My Love," by Vicki Baum, is immense. Universal has given this film a sweeping production, a grand cast and two great stars—Miss Gibson and Paul Lukas, who overshadows his fine work in "Little Women" in this picture.

The First Thanksgiving Mrs. J. M. Thomas

The winter cold and long was o'er
The spring had come again
And summer with her golden days
And autumn with her grain.

And, looking back, the Pilgrims said
Let us make a feast
And let every heart be glad
From the great unto the least.

For God has spared our lives that we Might make for us a home
Here in this land across the sea
And peace to us has come.

So let us set aside a day
Of feasting and good cheer
And let us render thanks to God
For the blessing of the year.

He's filled our fields with golden grain
Abundant health is ours
And we may worship as we please
Our God upon these shores.

That was the first Thanksgiving
But still we tribute pay
And thank our Heavenly Father
On glad Thanksgiving Day.

BURK AND CHILLICOTHE TO PLAY LAST GAME OF SEASON THURSDAY

Bulldogs Will Try To Wipe Out Four-Year Defeat By Eagles

On Thanksgiving day there will be fought one of the toughest battles that ever took place on Westerfield. There are several reasons for this big battle.

First, Chillicothe has beaten Burkburnett four straight years with the following scores: 1929, Chillicothe, 20; Burk 0. That game was a real battle. Burkburnett outplayed Chillicothe for three quarters to weaken when two regulars were sent into the game in the last eight minutes of play to score three touchdowns and kick two goals. 1930, Chillicothe defeated Burk 52 to 0. Not much of a game. 1931 the Eagles defeated the Bulldogs 7-6. That was a real battle and if it had not been for Cook's good toe for the Eagles, would have ended in 6 and 6 tie. 1932 when Burk had their great team that held Olney to 2 points met defeat at the hands of the Eagles at a tune of 25 to 0. 1933 the teams did not meet and this year it is going to be on Thanksgiving day and it is going to be a battle that will never be forgotten in this district. Chillicothe has the tradition behind them but the Bulldogs are going to reverse the decision this Turkey Day.

Second, in a recent Chillicothe paper it was stated that the Eagles were preparing for the Crowell game and they were putting full time in on defensive work so as to hold Crowell to a lower or same score that Burk did. The Eagles had rather beat the Bulldogs of this year than win the district. That statement has been made time and again. The captain of the Eagles said that he was going to put a few hooks on his belt and after the ball game he was going to have Sims and Wheeler hanging on those hooks. O. B. Worley, the left tackle for the Eagles, said that he was going to make McNeal look like a lolly-pop before the first quarter is over. The Chillicothe people as well as the team will be here full strength with the determination that the Eagles will come out again victorious as they have done in the past four games. You will see on the field for the Eagles such players as James Wiginton, Capt., playing his last year and is in line for an all district birth. Wiginton is one of the best ends to ever play for the Eagles. Grady Mordecai is a little fellow but is mighty tough and rough. He plays guard and is his first year. Otho Calhoun, center, is a hard fellow to whip, a better offensive center than defensive center. Banney Keys, guard, second year. W. D. Francis, a tackle, playing his first year and is a little light for his position. Bob Holden, quarter-back, weighs 130 lbs. and is a real fighter. He does everything with the ball and is the real leader of the team. Holmes is playing his first year and is the fastest man on the team. He is a faster man than Louis Sims but is not the broken field runner that Sims is. John Simmons, half-back, and his second year, and does most of the punting. Billie Emerson, fullback, playing his second year and does all the passing and line plunging. Chillicothe has 15 reserves. The reason that the Bulldogs are going to do everything in their power to stop the Eagles is because one thing is that most of them are playing their last game for Burkburnett. The following boys are playing their last game: Louis Sims, Othar Wheeler, Eddie Young, Hubert Gragg, Howard Bentley, Ray Lawler, Bill Jeffers, Eldon Andrews, Wilmer McNeil, and Sam Brashear.

Off For Del Rio To Bag Their Limit

With the crisp air and frosty mornings of November the deer hunters feel their fever beginning to register, and the middle of the month something has to be done about it.

Thursday morning Jim Alexander and Troy Miller's fever had reached 140, so they are planning on leaving Saturday for Del Rio where they hope to bag their limit. Incidentally the writer saw Jim with a 30-30 and a rope that looked to be about 60 feet long. It is supposed that he was packing his hunting equipment and that the rope is to be used in lassoing the deer and after they are roped and tied the gun is to shoot 'em with.

Fifty years from now the grandfathers will be telling what a hard time they had getting through college when they never had money enough to buy more than a gallon of gas at a time.

Fire Destroys Store House Wednesday

Fire, of unknown origin, called out the fire department Wednesday night when the store house of U. A. Wheelless was destroyed. The house contained feed and supplies valued at approximately $75.

It is now feared that the drought and AAA shortage of beef, pork and mutton will this winter seriously affect everything except baloney.

Montana reports the hatching of a turkey with two necks. One with four legs would be far more appreciated at this season of the year.

WE ARE THANKFUL

Another day of thanksgiving approaches, and again loyal Americans, those who frankly and honestly count their blessings, have much to be thankful for.

It has been a year of suspense in that almost the whole of the country was compelled to struggle through one of the worst drouth in the nation's history. There was more than ordinary suffering, and more than the usual sacrifice. Torrid suns beat down as prayers for rain went unanswered; man and beast suffered; actual want threatened to make an already serious unemployment situation complete. Then, as has been her way since the dawn of creation, Mother Nature stepped in to supply in abundance all that had been withholding. The rains came, the crops matured, the nation was saved from what everyone freely predicted would be the greatest crop shortage in modern history. For that alone, if there had been no other blessings, we are thankful.

That actual suffering exists, particularly in the larger centers of population, no one will dispute. But organized charity has been generous and generously supported in every section and a great human welfare machine, built through the years of depression, has functioned to the point where this suffering has been kept at a minimum. Those who have do not hesitate to meet the needs of those who have not. Out of it all has sprung a greater understanding of human kindness and a greater desire to practice charity as it was preached and practiced by the lowly Nazarene when He walked the earth more than 1900 years ago.

Shoulder to shoulder, and as good neighbors, citizens of Burkburnett and surrounding territory have in the past few years traveled a road beset by many thorns. And yet they have not lost heart. Their eyes have not failed to see in every mile of the journey something to be thankful for. They know that conditions could have been worse—that they are far worse in practically every other nation on the globe. And now, as each day, each month finds them nearer a return to prosperous, normal conditions they find new cause for thankfulness.

No road is so long but it has its turn. Today there is every good reason to believe that the turn in the road back to better times is well in sight. For this, and the hope and courage to struggle on; for protection from threatened famine; for a more neighborly spirit than has existed since the days of our forefathers—we are thankful.

The experts tell us the world can now produce more of everything than it can use. What about suckers?

This is a rapid age. By the time a Burkburnett girl is eight years old she thinks she is too big to wash the dishes.

An observer says all wars have been won and will continue to be won in the dirt. We've always considered war a dirty business.

You've also doubtless noticed that those Burkburnett citizens who holler loudest and longest usually have the least to holler about.

Of all the sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these: "I'll pay you when—"

The Burkburnett man who has work and enjoys his work and his home and has good health is living in paradise and doesn't know it.

Senior Personalities

Marion McClarney, Marion Wright, Marion Smith

Marion Dot McClarney, Wright, or Smith (any of them will get the job done) Go's own gift to mankind, came wailing into this old world at Eastland, Texas, on June 23, 1918. When four months old Marion's mother died and Marion's very sweet aunt, with whom we are all acquainted took this forlorn bit of humanity and has reared her up into the vivacious creature she now is. Marion began school at Burkburnett, Texas and attended there for two years. Cashion next was her a la mater, then Breckenridge. When she was in the sixth grade, she moved to Thrift and began school at dear old F. H. S. and has attended there ever since.

Marion is a prominent member of the popular Burkburnett "Cowboy Band", sings (bass) in the girls "Choral Club" at Fairview, is historian of the Senior Class, vice-president of the girl's Home Economics Club, and is Director of Mischief of the study hall. Not bad, eh boys and girls, not bad. And, oh yeah, she's one of the peppiest yelling girls in the pep squad.

Now here is the part all you shieks have been looking for: (guaranteed to be made public for the first time) —Marion's Ideal Boy—tall, brown eyes, dark hair (wavy preferable), snarling (you know the "You're in my power" type) white teeth, big feet, sarcastic, conceited, smooth complexion, heavy beard, good dancer, swell crooner, broad chest, athletic, ladies man, sensible close observer, good taste in clothes, lots of "dough", good car, and ever ready to spend that "good dough."

Now if any of you guys think you can qualify, why just step right up and I'm quite sure Marion Dot will Yeah, that's Marion, what part of her you can see for the red. Marion's motto: F. F. F—Find 'em, fool 'em, and forget 'em.

Regrets

The whole high school regrets the absence of Elva Stimpson, who is in the hospital at Gladewater. She is certainly missed by all the members of the Senior class. The opening chorus of each class is "How's Elva?" Here is hoping that Elva will be back in the "little red school house" within a short time and feel-

LUCKY GIRL

Her mother felt that family physicians and child specialists, and the hospitals must be right. A simple test that proves they are.

If anyone in your family is occasionally sluggish or constipated; especially any child, you should know this medical truth:

You cannot get safe relief with any medicine if you cannot regulate the dose. And to regulate dosage, you should have a liquid laxative. With a liquid laxative, you can gradually reduce the dose. And that is the secret of safe relief from a sluggish, constipated condition.

Why Doctors Use Liquid Laxatives

A liquid laxative can be measured. Its action can be thus controlled. If properly made, of natural laxative elements like senna and cascara, it forms no habit—even in the youngest child. And such a laxative will help the bowels to help themselves, not make matters worse. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is approved liquid laxative containing herbs, active senna, and cascara and is the one widely used. You can always obtain it at any drug store. Why not make the "big test" which has attracted so much attention of late? It helps everyone who tries it. It may make you feel better than you have in a long time.

If you will risk sixty cents to cover the natural, comfortable action of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, believe bowel worries will disappear from your household.

Thanksgiving—

We need only know a little history to understand that this country has been signally blessed in its freedom from the more violent and painful aspects of change that have affected so many nations. Only a casual perception of current affairs convinces that compared with those of the world at large, our troubles are small indeed. For this and for an increasing heritage of individual freedom every American can be truly thankful.

COLD WEATHER IS COMING

Are Your Heating Appliances Properly Adjusted?

Right now, before cold weather sets in, it's a good idea to check over your heating equipment. Heaters that are dirty and out of adjustment waste gas and spread germs. To get the maximum of heat from every cubic foot of gas used you must have your stoves properly regulated.

Study Club Plans Bazaar Distribute Baskets Thanksgiving

Plans for sponsoring a food booth at a bazaar to be held by Junior University Study Club, Dec. 8, were outlined Wednesday at a meeting of the University Study Club in the home of Mrs. George Kerr. Club members arranged to fill and distribute a basket at Thanksgiving. Mrs. C. J. Duncan, president, presided at the business session.

The program, with Mrs. I. D. Russell serving as leader, featured Deems Taylor and his opera, "Peter Ibbetson." Mrs. P. G. Williamson gave a sketch of Taylor's life and discussed the opera, presenting the plot in a most sympathetic manner. She pointed out that Taylor was the first American whose opera ever opened a Metropolitan season.

Mrs. R. M. Gilchrist gave a paper on spiritual music, introducing her subject as follows: "Why is music called the divine art? Because for more than any other art, it has been always and everywhere associated with religious service and the expression of devotional feelings."

Lovely refreshments were served the following: Mesdames Duncan, Hill, Utts, Bostic, S. Williams, P. G. Williamson, Pogue, Taylor, Prinzing, Russell, Gilchrist, Tevis, Davis, Kerr, Reagan, D. R. Peevey, Green, Westerfield, and Crisman, and Misses Nedra Campbell, Margaret Griffin and John Roberts.

Burk Boy Married In Memphis, Tenn.

First Baptist Church was a scene of a beautiful and impressive wedding at Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 27, 1934, when Miss Elois Gordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. Gordon, became the bride of Stanley Clinton Henson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Henson, of Burkburnett, Texas.

Rev. R. J. Bateman performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives.

Mr. Henson graduated from the Burkburnett High School in the 1930 class and has been away from Burkburnett for the past three and one-half years. He is manager of warehouse for the Dunlap Tire and Rubber Company in Memphis, Tenn.

The church presented an unusual and beautiful picture in red and white. The altar was banked in palms, ferns and smilax to form a background of a vertible garden scene of white chrysanthemums and red Hollywood roses. Tall wrought iron candelabra held tall white tapers, which was formed another glowing background in front of the greenery.

Wrought iron vases filled with red roses were placed at effective intervals.

A small aisle before the altar formed a place for the bride and groom to stand during the ceremony, and were marked by branching wrought iron candelabra, each holding triple tapers in graduated heights.

Pews for the family and close friends of the couple, including the bride's closest friends, members of the Kappa Lamoda Sorority, were designated by white chrysanthemums.

Wedding Music

During the ceremony, Mrs. Wilson sang "To A Wild Rose," the bride's favorite song, and "I Love You Truly." The bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" was played for the processional, and Mendelssohn's wedding march for the recessional.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, by whom she was given in marriage. She was gowned in a white velvet model, fashioned on classic lines, molded closely and flaring below the knees to form a long train. Her wedding veil caught to a small cap of rare lace, bordered with seed pearls. A small single veil fell to her shoulders and a long double veil extended to the end of the train. She carried a fan bouquet outlined in gardenias, with the spokes outlined in lines of the valley and several large orchids clustered at the handle.

Mr. Henson attended by Aubrey Reeves as best man. Grooms-men were Lake McGehee, Christopher Hammond and Edward Helenboldt.

The couple left after the ceremony for a short wedding trip. Upon their return they will be at home in an apartment at 214 S. Cleveland.

The average Burkburnett husband has more sense than his wife thinks and not as much as he thinks.

Hardin Club Displays Food

The Hardin Home Demonstration club celebrated activities with "Achievement Day" at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson Thursday with an all day meeting, serving a covered dish luncheon at the noon hour.

This club has conserved many quarts of fruits, jellies, preserves, jams, vegetables and meats, even though the worst drouth in many years has made a shortage in crops.

A visit to Mrs. Johnson's cellar disclosed a well filled pantry containing more than 900 jars of food to serve well balanced meals at all times. A table of fresh vegetables was also displayed in the cellar with 9 varieties of fresh vegetables that would be a credit to any home with a supply for a family of five of foods for well balanced meals for one week.

A short business session was held and the officers for the coming year were elected as follows: Mrs. Fred Brookman, president; Mrs. A. A. Evert, vice president; Mrs. W. D. Bent, secretary; Mrs. M. R. Hewell, treasurer; Mrs. Edith Goodlett, reporter. Plans were discussed for the annual Christmas party.

A program was presented during the afternoon and refreshments were served to Mesdames Henry Martin, Jessie Pollard from the Red River Club, S. E. Marchand, V. Davidson and daughter Jeanette, A. W. Keller, H. Lee Clifton, L. L. Knight of Commerce, J. L. Smith and daughter Gladys, H. C. Gilbert, W. M. Goins, F. C. Brookman, J. H. Bentley, J. C. Muller, Edith Goodlett, F. O. Minick, M. R. Hewell, A. A. Evert, A. C. Houser.

Miss Bessie Lee Sikes, county home demonstration agent was present and made some pictures of the pantry, and of some rugs made by members.

Making The Home More Livable

—With Lamps for the Away-from-the-wall Davenport

By Jean Prentice

FIRESIDE happiness depends very much on the kind of lamps provided for those hours of reading, sewing or just plain ease.

In many a spacious living room, and small ones also, the davenport is placed alongside the hearth, as in the accompanying sketch. Where there is no fireplace the lamp appropriate for the away-from-the-wall location is the same.

Just one lamp stands by the davenport in the living room illustrated. But you can bank on that one! It knows all the tricks of good lighting, having been built according to specifications of the Illuminating Engineering Society, a national group of lighting scientists.

You'll note first that the lamp is placed at the back of the davenport. This balanced arrangement is possible because of the height of the lamp and the width of the shade which allow sufficient spread of light for the entire length of the davenport. . . . Johnnie won't be out of range of good light regardless of where he sits on this davenport.

The reasons for the excellent lighting are apparent when the shade is lifted, as illustrated in the smaller sketch.

The glass bowl between the candles throws light up as well as down, thus eliminating glare and providing light as restful to the eyes as an eider down mattress would be to the body. Within the bowl is another bit of magic, an electric lamp, newly developed, which (because of two filaments) gives three different intensities of light at the turn of a switch. For sewing and the reading of fine print for long periods, the lights of the auxiliary candles, holding bulbs of from 40 to 60-watts, are added to that of the central bulb.

"How about using a single lamp at the end of the davenport, rather than at the back?" I hear someone ask. Well, that depends on your davenport. If it is too long the lamp standard would have to be excessively and awkwardly high to shed its light the entire length.

End table lamps can of course be used, but are not always practical for the away-from-the-wall location in a smaller room where space must be conserved.

If the davenport is of the Love Seat type, a lamp similar to the smaller one sketched, and using a 100-watt lamp, may be placed on a table behind it. This is also an approved I. E. S. Study and Reading Lamp, a multitude of lovely designs for which have been made by many manufacturers.

It is higher than table lamps you've been using, no doubt. But that's a new style note!—In the interest of eyesight preservation.

The girls who are taking second year clothing have just finished their tailored dresses. Some of these dresses are made of woolen crepe, some of silk, and others of heavy cotton materials. Most of these dresses have buttons, bound button holes, outside stitching, and the fullness is introduced by pleats. These dresses were made at about 1-3 or one half the cost of ready made dresses of the same quality material.

The undergarments are completed by the girls in the first year clothing class. They have spent many a tiring hour sewing, ripping and sewing on these garments but now that they are finished not a girl is willing to part with hers. Each girl is anxious to begin making her school dress.

Some of the dresses made in both the second and third year clothing classes together with the undergarments made by girls in the first year class will be put on exhibit in the old Chevrolet building December 14-15. This is to be in connection with a general exhibit sponsored by the Vocational Agriculture Department.

History

By Morris S. Strong

History in the broadest sense of the word is, all that we know anything about, everything that man has ever done, or thought, or felt, or hoped. It is the limitless science of past human affairs, present situations and future hopes.

The Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association at its meeting in 1932 adopted a resolution in regard to the objectives of social subjects taught in our public schools. The resolution is given below in part:

"We believe that true patriotism is not served by ignorance and refusal to face facts and problems. Therefore, the history taught in our public schools should include an intelligent effort to arrive at essential facts involved in the significant crises of the past in order to prepare our people to deal more intelligently and justly with such crises in the future. History and other social subjects shall present impartially the chief factors and influences operating in domestic and world affairs and producing problems in peace and war.

"Because we believe that only an enlightened public opinion, based on accurate information arrived at after a free and full discussion of facts and issues, can give our nation real and adequate security."

History in the elementary grades is not to be neglected in the accomplishment of this resolution for it enables the child to understand more fully the community of which he is a member, and to appreciate with increasing clearness his relation to it as he advances.

This subject is a mode of explanation of a law, an institution, a custom or a belief is frequently its history. Nearly every characteristic of the community, whether it be large or small city, state, or nation is a growth or a structure. Each generation has added to the whole for better or worse. The result is incomprehensible without some account, that is a history of the changes, the reasons for them, and the way they are made.

Who would attempt to explain the variety of religious beliefs and practices in the United States without the aid of history? The same is true of industrial facts. What changes have been brought about and the community affected by the building of railroads, the development of water routes, the changes in the methods of industry. All these facts are revealed by a close study of history.

History is used as a source of information, for, the interpretations of treaties, of doctrines, the origin of trusts and labor organizations, causes of wars and many other new situations such as the NRA that are now making history. In some cases a fair knowledge of history would serve as a corrective measure to those who hold prejudiced opinions.

If a boy of today would follow the history of a law,—say prodding for the compensation of workmen injured in accident or for regulating the hours of labor for controlling the employment of women and children,—some law which may affect vitally the members of his family, is likely to acquire a more intelligent sense of his future duties as a citizen in regard to legislation.

The history of a city, rather than its statistics of population, trade, and wealth will tend to awaken the true civic pride and loyalty.

How can a boy or girl remain devoid of love of country when once taught the story of the adventurous spirits who discovered and explored it, of sacrifices made to defend it, and the great men and women whom it has produced?

Using materials made familiar by the child's ordinary associations, of the home, the street, the church and civic life, history builds up pictures and images of many situations, political, social, or religious, giving the child power to realize more what the world is and what it has been. The child's conception of character is enriched by the stories of great men and women. Heroes of peace and industry like Franklin, Whitney, Fulton and Edison should be prominent in the list. The progress of industry, science, and society should hold a place above wars.

The study of history is only partial until the pupil's original interests becomes stimulated so as to reach out and grasp materials and knowledge found in other books, magazines and newspapers of the proper selection. The course of history should be continuous, and its parts carefully correlated. Facts should be organized to perceive of their relative importance and study them in a correct perspective. History prepares the youth to make wiser choices as the practical problems of the community confronts him.

Social Science Dept.

Subjects taught in Burkburnett High School classified as the Social Science include Civics, Economics and History. Courses in History include one year of World History, one term of English History, and one year of United States History. Civics and Economics are one term subjects.

The purpose of the courses offered by this department could well be grouped as one unit. Training for citizenship could well be called the chief objective of this department. A knowledge of the organization and function of government is necessary to the best citizenship. It is in the study of civics that the form, function, and history of the democratic form of government is acquired. Citizenship also requires an understanding of the responsibilities of the individual in group life. The meaning and obligations of group life are studied in relation to the past is forecasting the future.

The study of History opens the gate that leads to literature. An understanding of the living conditions of former stages of Civilization. Practically all literature is based on some important epoch in the history of the human race. It is the interpretation of these epochs in relation to other stages that gives to the student a clearer conception of the background necessary for the fullest appreciation and comprehension.

History offers excellent opportunities for the exercise of the reason by giving actual situations that have arisen. Advantage is taken of such situations to encourage the student to reason in the light of all facts and surrounding influences. Decisions that faced groups in the past are analyzed in the light of the contributing factions of that time and measured in the results that followed.

The modern student of history learns to be a world citizen rather than a citizen of a single state. Again the obligations of the individual to the group are brought as the result of the study of dominant factors of the various races that inhabit this globe. A view into the past of other nations enables us more fully to understand the problems of the citizens of other nations and it is this understanding that brings world peace. A study of past conflicts reveals to the student that war as a means of settlement of national difficulties has been futile and such difficulties can be settled only by an understanding of the problems of each country. History aims to enlighten the individual concerning these problems characteristic to the various races, which are often the causes of international disputes.

In an effort to achieve the aims as outlined the story of the struggle of the human race is presented to the student. The contributions of the various civilizations are studied with a view of their addition to the whole rather than the parts. The story of the progress of mankind is related in its relation to each achievement and each set-back. Importance is placed on the cause and result rather than on the event. The cause and results of the war are more important than the battles; the scientists and inventors share a larger place in history than the war generals; and the statesmen are taking the places of the politicians. Importance is placed on the individuals in history who have contributed to the progress of civilization.

The question is often asked as to the importance of memorizing dates. Dates are important only in their aid in associating events. It is the event and its relation to other events and the part and its relation to the whole that is of most importance in the study of history today.

The importance of the study of Economics can hardly be separated from History. Economics is becoming more important today than any other time. Economic problems are being presented to the people of our country by the government today as never before. This subject is simply a study of the wants of men and his efforts to secure the goods for the satisfaction of his wants.

Economic problems are not new problems, they are old as man himself. The application of science in classifying the facts has brought about a more general understanding of these problems.

P.-T. A. Met Tuesday

The Parent-Teachers Association met on Tuesday, Nov. 21, in the Central Ward School. A prize is given at each meeting to the class having the most present. Miss Morgan and Mr. Culpepper's home rooms tied for the prize at the last meeting for the high school, and Miss Allen's room received the prize given to the grade school.

Mrs. Cropper gave a very able account of the value of good books. Books are impressive on the minds of young people. Good books therefore make good impressions.

Miss McClure gave an interesting talk on the worthy use of leisure. She gave many hints that some schools foster to provide worthy use of leisure for the graduates.

G. A. Reeves, attendance officer for the school, gave an interesting report of welfare work at the meeting. Much of the welfare work for the school children is being financed by the association. Six pairs of shoes and one pair of glasses have been purchased. Three personal donations of clothing, 35 garments, have helped to clothe several children. Much of the P-TA funds are used in this work—Mr. Reeves said one lady was sewing for these underprivileged children and asked for more volunteers to sew.

The meeting adjourned to meet the third Tuesday in December

Vocational Agriculture

Much discussion is now being made toward the progressing of the Poultry, Dairy and Colt Show that will be held on Dec. 14-15. The building where the Barrow-Grace Chevrolet Co. was previously located will be used. This will be managed by the Vocational Agriculture Class.

There will be an exhibition from the Manual training and Home Economics class.

There will be different classes of poultry consisting of young pens, old pens, cocks, cocherels, pullets and hens. There will be ribbons, prizes, etc. to be given away to the most highly credited poultry, cows and colts.

Judges will be taken from surrounding towns so that no partiality may be shown judging.

Mr. Everhart, vocational agriculture teacher has been spending much time on the show in order to make a good exhibition. He needs your help by telling him the exhibition you have to offer.

The girls in the foods classes are making a model kitchen which will be exhibited at the show. Some posters showing balanced meals, and healthful foods will be shown also. Perhaps some of the home projects which the girls have chosen will be exhibited in order to let the public know just what kind of work the girls are doing.

Historical Collection

We have a few collections of the material from the museum of the North Texas State Teachers College, Denton, that were used during the Colonial Period. Mr. Reeves has shown to his history classes, and has also made several interesting remarks about each article. Some of the articles are:

1. Sugar cutter: Used for cutting home-made sugar into cubes similar to the cubes we are familiar with today.

2. Ink well: Used during the Revolutionary War.

3. New England Primer: This of course was their type of text book. This is an original copy.

4. Flint-Lock Blunderbuss gun: Usually the first thing a child thinks about when you mention colonies is this type of gun and a turkey representing Thanksgiving Day. This gun was made in England and was used during colonial days.

5. Bleeding Knife: In the early days little was known about medicine, and when a person became ill it was thought that his blood was bad and if he was freed of this disease he must get rid of this bad blood, so his veins, usually in his wrist were pierced with this knife. This is the cause of the death of George Washington. Incidentally, Mr. Reeves gave a demonstration, using Gayle Preston as his helper.

6. Bed warmer: Coals were put in this container and it was pushed around under the bed clothes immediately before getting.

7. Santa Maria: This is a fairly correct model of Columbus' ship, "Santa Maria."

8. Sword: Used by a Spanish officer in the colonial days.

9. Spinning wheel: Used during the early colonial days.

10. Pot Hanger: This was used on the battlefield of Yorktown and was used in cooking the soldiers' food.

11. Quill Cutter: This was used to cut the ends of the feathers used in writing pens.

12. Tomahawk: Used by the quoniam Indians in the colonial period.

13. 2 pairs of Indian moccasins worn by the early Indians.

14. 2 strings of wampum.

15. Model of canoe used by Indians in the West Indies.

16. Indian Warriors' Paints.

17. Scalping Hatchet: Made of wood from the West Indies.

18. Indian Rockets: Similar to Hockey or Shinney.

19. Calendar of the most early Indians.

20. And last of all we have an early clay image of an Indian.

Mrs. Crissey, a member of the morning section of Spanish classes, has recently returned from a trip to Mexico City talked Wednesday morning to the pupils of all Spanish classes.

She showed examples of hand carving, as well as many dak pictures.

She stressed the idea that Mexicans are extremely courteous to Americans and that Mexico is a country of wealth and beauty.

Volley Ball Game

The volley ball girls met on Wednesday last Thursday afternoon on the Cashion court. Three games were played. In the first game the Cashion team were stronger and won 15-2 with Cashion leading. In the second game Burkburnett evened the score by ending the game at 15-17. Again Cashion won by taking the third game with a score of 15-10. Although the Burkburnett team lost their first game they are not discouraged at all and intend to make up for this loss in the games to come. Miss McClure coaching the girls in the fundamentals and rules of the game and the girls are practicing regularly.

Assembly Program

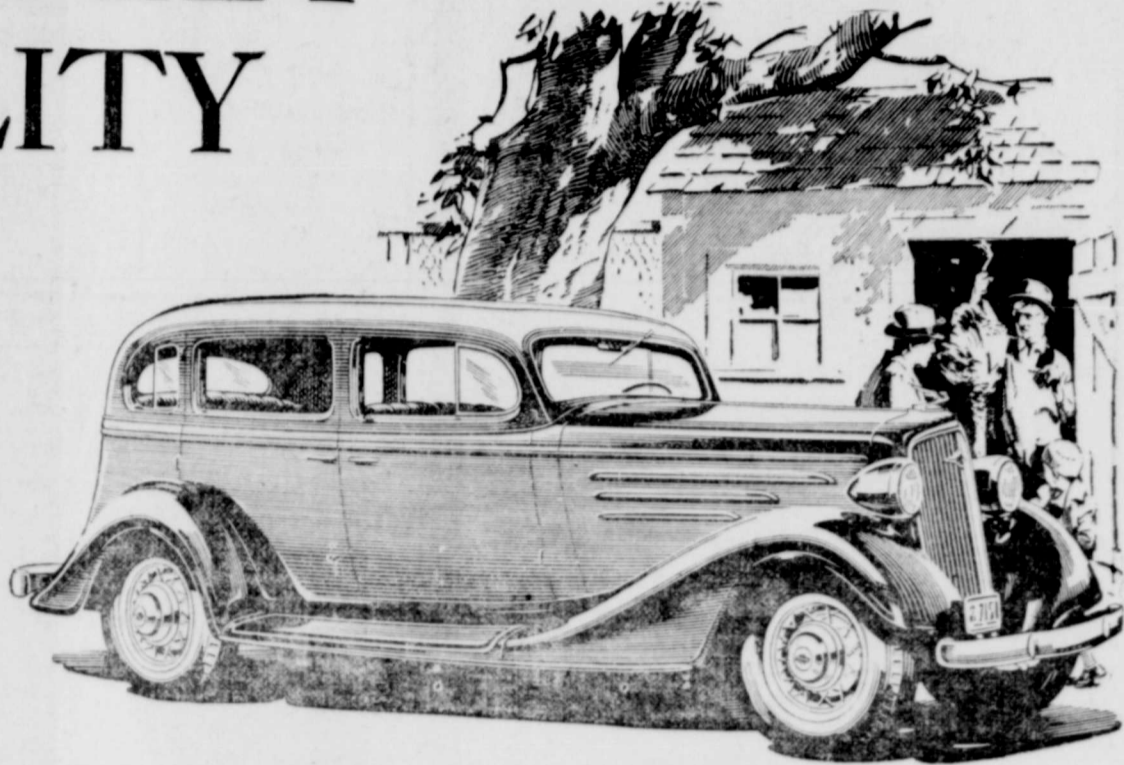

The assembly program was held for the purpose of presenting Ad-Astra awards. Mr. Tom Taylor, president of Howard-Payne College at Brownwood, gave a very interesting talk on Texas. Mr. J. M. Thayer, member of the Rotary Club, presented pens to the students receiving the honor-roll last year. Mr. Westerfield encouraged the boys to make better grades in order that their record would be as good as the record made by the girls. A report comes from the office, through a mistake two students failed to receive Ad Astra pins, the pins have been ordered. Mrs. Brown will receive a second pin and I. V. Thornton will receive a first year pin.

Big Rabbit Creek

Nov. 18, 1934

Mrs. Ed Owens and her husband were transacting business up at the county seat, Walters, Monday forenoon. Mrs. Owens went after cotton tags.

Mr. Tobe Hardin, Mrs. Martha Nails and her son, Charlie, were shopping over in Burkburnett Saturday afternoon.

W. S. Williams motored up to Walters Saturday for his cotton tags. Luther Bridges accompanied W. S. to Walters for his cotton tags.

The slow rain which fell over on this side of the river Wednesday night was a great help to the wheat and oats. It will revive the wheat and oats up for a while. Still we need more rain to insure a crop.

The Owens family would have finished their big undertaking of cutting their 18 acres of hegar by hand if it hadn't rained. Ten acres of this field was planted on the Government land. If it don't rain this coming week they will finish up cutting, tying and shocking. There will be around 8 or 9 thousand bundles. It seems as tho, since Ed and wife and their brother Johnny introduced cutting their feed by hand; that several of the neighbors are following suit. Mr. Charlie Griffith is having his feed cut by hand. Luther Bridges and W. S. Williams say they are going to cut their feed by hand this coming week. $1.50 to $2.00 per acre is just too much money to pay those fellows for cutting it these hard times.

Mr. Garland, the Chief of Police of Burkburnett, many friends over on this side, were very sorry to hear of his serious trouble which happened to him last Sunday morning. It is hoped by his many friends over here, that the man he wounded will get well and that Mr. Garland will come through all right.

The writer wishes that some of you nimrods and sports would get together over in Burkburnett, bring your shooting arms, and help us kill out the crows over here as there are thousands of them. All feed that isn't headed or cut and hauled in and stacked, the crows are simply eating it up.

Mrs. John Ashton and her daughter were shopping in Burkburnett Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Martin and their little daughter, Miss Winnie June, were shopping and transacting business over in Burkburnett Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Tom Smith had J. B. Fletcher hauled 81 head of fine turkeys over to the B. & O. Produce house at Temple, Okla. Saturday. After the birds arrived they were graded and they graded out 25 head that she had to bring back home which left 56 head they sold. They brought her $112. If Mrs. Smith would market her turkeys at the home market, Burkburnett, she wouldn't have had to bring back a single bird.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kinnard's little baby girl was very sick the middle of last week. Dr. Dice of Randlett was called by phone at the Owens family residence.

The cotton is opening up very slow, due to the prevailing mild weather which we are having. If we could just get a big killing frost, all bolls that haven't been punctured by Mr. Sharp Shooter and wasn't soft, would open up right now. Then the farmers could pull it for the last time.

The Indirect Lamp Enlivens the Card Table

By Jan Venable

All week long the play makes a fine addition to the evening. The scene is set in a dining room with a table and chairs.

Most of us enjoy entertaining guests, don't we? We get pleasure from providing attractive scenes of cards, cocktails and tempting nibbles. And then, when every detail seems perfect for the comfort of our guests, we sometimes find ourselves disappointed.

Indirect lighting is a most desirable feature. It provides a soft, comfortable light that is just what we need.

They give a light as soft as that of a candle and are as attractive as a work of art.
