HUMAN JUDGMENT STILL BEST WEAPON

In years to come there will be less excuse than ever for uncurbed fire waste in this country. Effective new ways of fighting fire have been developed during the war and were widely used in saving such famous naval vessels as the carriers Franklin, Bunker Hill, Saratoga, and Ticonderoga.

One of the many unique fog and foam methods developed by the Navy for wartime use was the perfection of a liquid foam, particularly effective against oil fires. Made from soybeans, fish scales and iron salts, it is nicknamed, "Navy bean soup."

Fire prevention authorities are the first to welcome innovations in fire fighting. However, regardless of the new devices that may be invented, they can never take the place of preventing a fire, and only human judgment can do that. Only human judgment can remove combustible materials to safe places; only human judgment can use caution in the use of matches, and in the construction details of homes, factories and schools; only human judgment can actually prevent fire-and that is the objective of the professional

So, while there is no excuse for a soaring annual fire bill and thousands of deaths by fire annually, these evils will be with us as long as the element of human carelessness exists. Don't think that buying a fancy new fire extinguisher eliminates the danger of fire on your property. The best course to follow is to eliminate the fire hazards and buy the fire extinguisher too!

Many are eating better than before the war, storing the family larder with food aplenty and left over. While much of Europe starves. We ask that question about being our brother's keeper and add that we certainly did our duty over there by sending them food during war. Let them feed themselves while we get back to our steaks and chops. Well, thank Heavens for the sake of humanity, this attitude is only of the few. Winter comes soon and millions in liberated Europe, if not imported food, will face hunger and starvation. Millions of tons of food estimated at 10 to 20 will be needed there this winter. The diet they now have is so low in health proteins, in spite of summer harvests and present imports. Feeding a people is also a matter of combating an economic and political problem, which effects the destinies of other people.

Kathleen Norris Says:

Mind Your Own Business

Bell Syndicate.-WNU Features,

"She is running around with one of the town boys, and whatever she feels, he is deeply in love."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

THESE are good days in which to mind your own business. For one reason, because everyone's business is going to be complicated and hard under postwar conditions. And for another, because interfering in other persons' affairs is a harmful, wasteful and often useless employment.

Here is a letter from a woman who feels that she very decidedly ought to be minding other persons' business, even while she gives me a distinct impression that her own isn't being too well managed.

"My position is a very painful one," writes Carolyn Miller, from a Texas town, "I live with my husband's mother, who is a dear. She is only 52, active and capable, and we manage the house easily between us. I have a baby six months

"The trouble is my twin sistersin-law, whom I will call Joan and Jean. They are 20, Joan married to a captain of marines, and Jean engaged to his brother, who is in the air corps. This marriage and this engagement took place before I moved in here. My husband, Bert, has been away for almost a year.

'Not His Baby.' "Joan, the married one, had a baby 10 months after her husband's departure for the south seas. She did not notify him of this baby's arrival until it was five weeks old. then a joyous cable was sent, 'fine little girl, both well.' His answer to this was so pathetically eager and happy that it made me sick, for in the family we all know that it is not his baby. Joan admits herself to a time of indiscretion, immediately after his departure, with one of his friends, since killed in the Pacific.

"The whole family expects me to be a party to this outrageous deception, of which I never would have heard, if I had not unexpectedly arrived here at the old home. My own instinct is to try to persuade Joan to write the truth to Art, and if she will not and her mother will not, to write him myself.

"Jean's case is, of course, less serious, but she is running around with one of the town boys, and whatever she feels, he is deeply in love. This seems to me terribly unfair to her absent flance, but her mother will do nothing but look worried and say that time will settle all these problems. Personally I don't believe in leaving such matters to time; human beings have responsibilities, and our duties to our absent soldiers are surely the most sacred among them.

"My husband is now returning, honorably discharged, and we will move back to our own home, in a town some miles away.

My dear Carolyn, my advice heads this article. Mind your own business. Button up your lip about Joan's affairs and Jean's affairs, and concentrate upon managing your home-fortunately in another town, and keeping your husband and baby happy.

Let Joan Tell Husband. You don't know-and you have no business to know - what the relationship is between Joan and Art. Perhaps she has written him the full truth already. Perhaps she is waiting until he is home again, and at work normally again, and in love

SILENCE IS BEST

It is often difficult to keep quiet when you happen to know some scandalous information. Many people persuade themselves that it is their duty to tell, because somebody is being deceived. They seldom stop to think that they may be making a bad situation worse.

The case discussed in today's article concerns two young wives whose husbands are still in service and out of the country. The girls are twins, young and pretty. Joan has given birth to a daughter -obviously out of wedlock. The other girl, Jean, is going around with one of the local men who is plainly in love with her. Carolyn, their sisterin-law, sees all this and feels she ought to write to the husbands and reveal the ugly

Miss Norris admonishes Carolyn to keep out of these people's affairs. There is no good purpose to be served, she says, by telling the soldierhusbands now. Perhaps they will never need to know. In any case, it is the wives who should do the telling, and under more favorable circumstances than now exist.

with the little girl baby, to say to ness. him; 'Art, I don't know what weakness or craziness came over me-I never loved Tom as I did you. I was lonesome, and he was going away-to his death, as it happened -and we were carried away. Can you forgive me, and love her for Tom's sake, too, because he gave everything that he had, gave life itself, to keep her world safe for lusioned, Art's heart need never be for the next generation. broken; perhaps there will be other children, and the little oldest girl not | 22, 25). the least dear.

hand into this affair can only ruin tails of daily life in the home. everything, and do you no good. ! mistake will remain hidden, and in it! Her life will be blessed! Joan's daughter will have her honor touched. In a word, Carolyn, mind your own business.

LESSON TEXT—Deuteronomy 6:4-9; Luke 2:51, 52: Ephesians 5:22, 25; 6:1-4. GOLDEN TEXT—Be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one an-other, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you.-Ephesians 4:32.

"Juvenile delinquency" is an expression often heard in our day. It speaks of the awful way in which our boys and girls have gone astray spiritually and morally in recent years. Fortunately, we are beginning to realize that most of the blame falls on the parents. It is parental delinquency in the matter of proper rearing of the children which needs our earnest attention. The home is the right place for the fostering of Christian principles of living, but all too often even Christian people have put that whole load on the Sunday school and church. They can help, but they cannot do the job which should be done in the home. Home should be a place where:

I. God's Word Is Accepted (Deut.

6:4-9). The Bible teaches us the truth about God and that is information of the highest value and usefulness in the home. He is our God, and He is one God. There is no other God, and at the same time this infinite and eternal One is very close to us-our God. How precious! The acceptance of the truth concerning God draws forth our love toward Him. He is not like the heathen gods who cause only cringing fear. He loves us and we love Him, with all our might (v. 5).

This Word of God and the truth concerning Him should be the normal and natural subject of conversation in the home. Any time, night or day, and anywhere, in the house or on the street it should be as easy for a boy to talk to his father about God as to discuss his school work, or sports, or any other thing. Let's make it a natural, normal, accepted thing that God and His Word are talked about in the home. II. Growth Is Expected (Luke 2: 51, 52). In the well-ordered home the child finds his place as Jesus did, as an obedient, well-mannered, co-operative member. There, too, is the natural place for normal, well-balanced development. There must first be growth in wisdom. The mind and will must be in control, lest the physical get out of hand. They mus even as the body grows. Thus the growth of the body becomes not just an animal development, but one amenable to proper restraints, cultivated and poised for full useful-

But the home fails if it does not at the same time give the child a chance to grow "in favor with God and man." The boy Jesus continued to grow in gracious personality, with both God and man as the interested recipients of the fruits of His spiritual development.

Every home should be a Christian home and every Christian home should be a center of normal growth Perhaps, if something like that for children. This should give us happens, Art never need be disil- cultured Christian men and women

MRS. J. T. GREEN HAS BETTER SUCCESS WITH LESS EFFORT

HARRINGTON, DELAWARE .-Mrs. James T. Green is a Texan who moved to Delaware. While in the East she used some other brands of laundry starch, and then wrote this letter:

"When I was in Texas I became acquainted with Faultless Starch and liked it very much. I never used any starch like it. I have used many other brands, but I can have better success with less effort with Faultless Starch. I have my son's little suits to wash often and it is a great help to know that I can just dip them in cold starch and they will iron so nice and smooth.'

Faultless Starch has been especially made for women who want to do beautiful starching and ironing-with as little work as possible. That's why Faultless Starch satisfies women like Mrs. James T. Green. It is truly a special kird of starch, made a special way.

PERFECT HOT OR COLD

Whether you want hot starch or cold starch, you can make perfect starch-WITHOUT COOKING. For cold starch you simply add cold water to the starch while you stir. For hot starch you simply cream the starch with a little cool water and add boiling water while stirring. Either hot or cold, it takes barely a minute to make perfect

MAKES IRONING EASY

Another special feature about Faultless Starch is this-Faultless Starch contains ironing-aids that keep the iron from sticking. Your iron just slides along. No more fighting a "sticky" iron. You'll enjoy ironing over Faultless Starch, for beautiful ironing becomes a joy -not a job.

You might just as well enjoy Faultless Starch—just like so many thousands of other women do. Just ask your grocer for Faultless Starch today. Use it the very next time you wash. Save the work of cooking starch. Save the work of fighting a "sticky" iron. Do beautiful starching and ironing. Simply change to Faultless Starch .- Adv

Here is welcome relief from the distress and discomfort caused by excess stomach acid.

Just introduced to the druggists of this state is a remarkable formula called Neutracid. Its name tells the story of excess irritating stomach acids being robbed of their power to cause upsetting distress.

There's nothing quite like Neutracid. Its fast action means quick relief and this alone should merit a test. So why not get a package today. Put one teaspoonful of Neutracid in half a glass of hot water and drink right after meals when distressed. Adams Drug Store and all good druggists have this new and remarkable formula for excess stomach acid.

What Is Peace?

PEACE is more than the absence of war. PEACE is a friendly handclasp, small talk on a front porch, friends in for dinner.

PEACE is people helping instead of hurting one another, trusting instead of suspecting, tolerating instead of hating.

PEACE is meeting on equal terms. It's honoring a man for what he is instead of defaming him for what he isn't.

This is peace. And until we have all this, we won't have real peace -the feeling in our hearts that all is right once more.

Right now, we can make a good start towards this goal. For, right now, in our Community War Chest campaign, we have the chance to help our neighbor. To help him regardless of who he is or how he worships. To act together in mutual trust and confidence.

And this is democracy in its finest expresssion. This is part of all we are fighting for. This is what you help to bring about when you contribute to the local War Chest,
