FEED BAG CLOTHES, AND CHANTICLEER CROWS

There's more than one way to dress a fowl! Feed sack fashions have put the chic in chickens, and Virginia Kirchdorfer of Memphis has given a real cock-o'-the-walk strut to her rooster by making him a tux complete with top hat. Virginia, too, is clad in a sack outfit. It all started, the National Cotton Council says, in a feedbag-sewing contest dreamed up by the Poultry and Egg National Board to find the ten "best-dressed" fowls in the nation. Winners will be selected in the ten "best-dressed" fowls in the nation as the grand prize. Any Kansas City in February with an automobile as the grand prize. Any poultry fancier may enter his chick, duck, or turkey by writing for an entry blank to the Fowl Fashion Show, Poultry and Egg National Board, 308 W. Washington St., Chicago 6, Illinois.

Calvary Baptist Revival Begins Sunday, Oct. 30

And now you will have the opportunity again to hear the outstanding Bible teacher and prophetic student of the Scriptures, Dr. B. F. Dearmore, in a protracted meeting at Calvary Baptist Church. Dr. Dearmore was here in such a meeting once before in 1944. Calvary Baptist Church has a large auditorium, but the house was filled every night to hear this man of God. The church had the largest attendance reported in Sunday School during that campaign.

Dr. Dearmore was teacher and principal in public schools for many years. He also was Dean and Instructor in the Bible Baptist Seminary in Fort Worth several years, and at present is the President of Worth Bible College in Fort Worth. He has helped many young preachers get started in the work of the Lord.

However, we feel that the outstanding recommendation of Bro. Dearmore's, is his success as a Pastor and a real teacher of the Word of God. Those who have heard him will bear record to his ability to teach the Bible in an interesting and heart-gripping way. He is especially capable in the expounding of prophecy. He is not a wild guesser, but sticks strictly to a thus saith the Lord. Regardless of your Church affiliation, we want you to hear this man of God, and we guarantee you will be helped much, and a better informed person.

Following is a list of subjects which are samples of ones to be used: "How to Be Saved and Know It"; "Three Great Clouds"; "There Was a Man"; "Beware of Men"; "Modern Day Sins"; "Sons of Satan"; "Excuses"; "Five World Kingdoms," etc. The revival begins Sunday, Dr. Dearmore will be here Monday night. The grey bus will run every night. Ride it if you need it.

Let's Have Fun Hallowe'en

Hallowe'en comes 'round again, the time of make-believe. It arrives during a beautiful season when the twanginess of fall air gives zest to building bonfires and making pumpkin faces. To release surplus energy, some children use Hallowe'en as an excuse for turning the occasion into a holiday of destruction. Fun is fun, but vandalism is mean. There is nothing funny in malicious or thoughtless destruction of property. It should be curbed and parents can help to put a stop to senseless and often expensive destructiveness by the youngsters.

Hallowe'en is the time for reviving the customs that have been practiced through the years, of masquerade, parties, apple-bobbing, fortune telling, jack o'lanterns, tick-tacks, Beggar's night, and all the rest of the innocent diversions for normal children. Hallowe'en should be for fun—not fuss-making.

Bad News For Communists

A survey of the situation shows that Communists have lost their battle in trying to build up their poisonous influence in the American labor movement and that this dangerous influence has been virtually destroyed in four years.

Communism is a rotten idea and it is on the wane in every community where it has existed in our own country—even as recently as a year ago.

Van Johnson sings again. After several seasons of drama and straight comedy, Johnson now warbles a duet with Judy Garland in their co-starring Technicolor musical, "In The Good Old Summertime," coming Sunday-Monday to the Palace screen this week.

Their song is the old-time hit, "Put Your Arm Around Me, Honey," sung by the pair in a music shop sequence. It marks the first time Van has sung on the screen since his turn in the all star musical, "Till the Clouds Roll By."

CHICK CHATS

Lice, Mites Are Serious Problem

Few poultry flocks are free of lice and mites; many are infested heavily with the tiny creatures.

It behooves every poultryman to examine the birds in his flock regularly and to take steps to get rid of external parasites when they are detected. For these pests can cause considerable economic loss among poultry flocks.

Species of Lice

There are many species of lice, but those that cause the most trouble are the common body louse, shaft louse, head louse, and wing louse. All of these lice live continuously on the chicken's skin or feathers and use the fowl's body as a source of food.

When examining a bird for lice, part the feathers on the back of the fowl's head, along the back, under the wings, and around the vent. These are the regions in which lice infestations usually are heaviest. If you see small brownish or grayish insects or grayish-white nits, you should treat the birds immediately with a reliable de-lousing preparation.

Mites Are Hard to Find

Unlike lice, poultry mites live in cracks and crevices in the poultry house and crawl onto the chickens' bodies only when it is their time to feed. Generally, they spend the day in their hiding-place and then emerge at night to feed on the birds' bodies while the flock is on the roosts. Mites are difficult to find. Unless gorged with blood, which gives them a reddish appearance, they are of grey color and often even a thorough examination of the house will not reveal their presence to one who is unfamiliar with their appearance. Mites are small — only 1-32nd of an inch in length. Apparently, one of the easiest and most effective means for controlling mites is through the use of commercial mite killer surface paints. Preparations of this kind are painted onto surfaces within a poultry house, and mites die when they contact the residue.

FARM FACTS
WORTH KNOWING

What is the best age to wean calves for Bang's disease? They should be vaccinated between the ages of four and eight months, although six months is the ideal age. If calves are weaned at this age, they will be free from the tests within a few days and when they reach one year of age will usually stop

What age do you recommend for castrating, and when?

Do not pile too much on little pigs at one time. Weanings should be spaced two to three weeks apart, and we recommend weaning your pigs by four weeks and vaccinating them at six weeks and weaning at nine weeks.

How much space is needed in a brooder house for baby chicks? The Purina Company's Farm Facts recommends not more than two chicks per square foot during the first six weeks. After 20 weeks should have 3 1/2 square feet per bird, while 3 1/2 square feet is recommended for growing chicks.

Have questions about livestock or problems to FARM FACTS, 1118 Eighth Street, St. Louis 2, Mo. Questions will be answered free, either by mail or in this service of this newspaper.

Never one to be satisfied with its present equipment, the Bell Telephone Co. is making final tests on a new headset that is 25% lighter than the latest model. Easier to speak and hear through and easier to dial, too. Sounds like longer and more frequent calls. Doesn't it?

A little left over cabbage tonight makes a delicious lunch tomorrow. Just make a cup of medium white sauce. Stir in cabbage, 1/2 cup real mayonnaise and 1/2 cup sharp cheese. Serve on baking powder biscuits with a little ham, corn beef or bacon added to the dough.

Don't forget to see that Junior's school shoes get a frequent shine with the ol' shinola. Polishing helps prevent scuffing. Means longer wear, too.

Special to those who live in a dry climate: When making cake or bread add a little more liquid than is called for in the regular recipe. Two extra tablespoons of liquid to each cup of cake flour and even more for all-purpose flour gives a much better texture. It's all because the dry atmosphere affects the flour.

Get out your scissors. Those "new look" skirts of not long ago with yards and yards of material that swept the ankles are out. Now skirts have a slight fullness. And hems are inching up to 13 and 13 1/2 inches from the ground.

FARM FACTS WORTH KNOWING

1. What do buyers look for in top market broilers? The broilers that bring top market prices are those with good fleshing quality, good feathering, low shipping and dressing shrinkage, and absence of breast blisters and deformities.
2. What is a rex rabbit, and is it true that any breed of rabbits can be rexed? Rex rabbits are any breed of rabbits that have under fur but no guard fur. A breeder who has one individual rex rabbit can, by proper matings, produce a rex breed in three generations, if a sufficient number of rabbits are produced. When the offspring of a normal-haired rabbit and a rex-appearing animal are bred together, 25% of the litter will be pure rex.
3. Should special attention be given to feeding and handling the herd boar? Yes. Records at the Ralston Purina Company's Research Farm indicate that any improper feeding, mishandling, or neglect of the most important single individual in the hog herd, the herd boar will be reflected in smaller litters, lowered production, and less profit.

Picks Cotton to Pay Back Debts

Faith in all humanity was restored against last week when attention was called to the fact that someone was picking cotton to help pay debts that had piled up while that someone was ill several months. Perhaps the amount of cotton picked each day is not much, compared to what a big robust picker gets, but whatever the amount, at the end of the week with the good price paid for pickers, it is a sizeable sum. That hard-earned money is being applied to clear up debts, that in some cases had been forgotten. That is a true example of a willingness to help.

Old Faithful

By Mrs. Roy L. Beezley

Before 1920 Burkburnett had become a busy, seething oil town. I cannot set the date because before that date, as far as I was concerned, Burkburnett did not exist.

In the early days of June, 1925, I made my first visit to Burkburnett. In October of 1922 I married a man whose mother and father lived in Burkburnett. At this particular time we were called to Burkburnett to be with my husband's father who had been hit by a drunken driver and a few days later died in a hospital in Wichita Falls.

I have said all this in order that I might pay a tribute to: first "Old Faithful," the faithful old oil well that pumps day after day. I often wonder where the gasoline from this well takes the people in their cars. I have been passing this oil well for more than twenty years and only one time have I failed to see this oil well pumping.

Then the second I wish to pay tribute to the finest and most noble woman I have ever known. She is kind, courageous, loving, thoughtful and very dependable. There have been many fevered brows cooled by her loving hands. Many babies came into this world to look first on her kind face. Many poor souls have entered their heavenly home with her kind and sympathetic

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Now They're Sitting Pretty

Squint Miller, who's working as a telephone lineman, was telling me about some birds that got into a fight with his company.

Seems a couple of woodpeckers set up housekeeping in a telephone pole. Nobody minded them living there, but they kept pecking at the wires - causing one short circuit after another.

Finally, the telephone people - who had nothing personal against the birds - just stopped up the hole where they lived. But they kept coming back. At last, the company donated that pole to the woodpeckers and set up a brand-new one for their own use!

From where I sit, we'd all be better off if we were as tolerant with our own kind as that telephone outfit was with the woodpeckers. Let's consider the other fellow's point of view - whether it's his right to live where he wants, or to enjoy a friendly glass of temperate beer or ale when and if he pleases.

SERVING the Gulf South

... by building for the FUTURE

Every business man who hopes to stay in business knows that he must plan for the future. More customers and greater demands for his products or services make it continually necessary for him to expand and improve his facilities. That's why United Gas, in an effort to meet a constantly increasing demand for natural gas service, is investing 30 million dollars this year in construction and development of its facilities. More than half of this money is being invested in Texas. A large part of the money spent for expansion moves immediately into the channels of trade in the Gulf South, which is another example of the way the American Business System works to bring better living to your community.

FARM FACTS WORTH KNOWING

1. At what age should roosts be provided for growing chicks?
Tests indicate that best results are obtained by providing roosts when chicks are about three weeks of age. Early roosting reduces crowding, promotes better feathers, and results in more rapid growth. Early roosting is not associated with crooked breast bones.

2. How can I get my cows to drink enough water during the cold winter months?
In winter, the water tank should be kept as close to the barn as possible, and it should be well protected so that the cows will not get too cold and refuse to drink. In cold climates, a tank warmer is almost an essential. Failure of cows to drink enough during severe cold snaps often results in constipation and sharp drops in milk flow.

3. At what age should pigs be wormed?
The Research Farm of the Ralston Purina Company recommends that pigs be wormed at about 12 weeks of age, or when they weigh between 45 and 65 pounds. After the pigs are wormed, the pen should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected to help prevent recontamination.

THE WAY THAT IS SAFE

Let us briefly review a few things we have learned since we started discussion of this subject. We have learned that it is safe and wise to accept the Bible as the revelation of God to man in all things that pertain to the eternal welfare of his soul. We have learned that it is safe upon believing the Bible to obey the commands found therein. That one makes his eternal salvation safe by so doing. We have learned that it is definitely safe to be baptized for the remission of sins as directed in the revelation of God and that it is certainly safe to be sure that we are baptized by immersion as were those in the beginning days of the church.

In conclusion let us consider the safe course is regard to CREEDS. Regretfully, I must admit that this problem is not confined to two contentions but many. There are those who stand ready to defend their particular creed. What is safe to believe? There is ground of unity on this question as on all others. It is the Word of God and it alone (Ps. 19:7; II Tim. 3:16, 17). The majority of religious people accept the Bible. Why then, does the religious world adopt creeds? It is on these that people are divided, not the Bible. All creeds of men are based upon two assumptions: (1) that the Bible is a failure and insufficient to guide us, and (2) that this failure can be remedied by erring man. He who accepts the Bible and it alone is safe, and by following it insures to himself a place of eternal happiness with God.

We have not attempted to answer the many perplexing arguments to justify the counterfeit. Why not pursue the course which is infallibly safe to follow. If a person should offer you one of two dollar bills and one of them you know to be genuine but the other you are doubtful, you know which you would accept. You would take one that you know to be genuine. You would not attempt to present a series of arguments to justify the counterfeit. Why not pursue the same course which involves the destiny of your soul, accepting by faith what you believe to be safe? If your position safe? Jesus says, "Enter ye in at the narrow gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many are they that enter in thereby. For narrow is the gate, and straitened the way, that leadeth unto life, and few are they that find it." (Matt. 7:13, 14).

SPOTLIGHT ON SPORTS by TRUETT MAJORS
MONROE PRINZING

The turn out of Burk fans at the Archer City game was an inspiration to the Bulldogs. Keep giving them support and we'll win district!

New Jersey Fisherman

In New Jersey there's a group of fishing cronies that never miss an opening day of trout season, come hell or high water. This group includes one John Abell, who claims to be able to tell if the fish are biting by the feel of his bones. Now, on this particular opening day of trout season, the wind was up, the barometer was falling, there was a snow flurry, three inches of snow was on the ground, and the temperature was below freezing. Yes, only crazy men would go looking for rainbow trout on a day like this.

Each man admitted that he was crazy, and this little group braved the weather in their hunting clothes to take advantage of John's feeling. In less than three hours, each had his limit, some having thrown fish back in order to catch larger ones... on a day like this! John Abell offered this explanation: "The fish are there, and we're here; we put a live worm on a hook, the fish says O.K., I'll bite, and... now enough, we catch fish!"

This week the Bulldogs take a rest, but next Friday night they go to Crowell. Follow them up there and watch them win.

AUSTIN Highlights

By Senator "Cotton" George Moffett

It has become more clear as the Nov. 8th election approaches that the Legislature made a mistake in submitting the ten amendments to the constitution to be voted upon at the same time. Four, five or six would have been much better, and less confusing. I did not vote for all of the ten proposals that the Legislature submitted for the reasons stated above, and also because I doubted the soundness of some of those submitted. In order to clear up the confusion as much as possible I will briefly discuss both sides of the various amendments.

Amendment No. 3 authorizes the establishment of hospital districts. A county or a city can now build a hospital, but in some parts of Texas it is said that a part of a county may want to vote for a separate hospital, or parts to two counties may want to join up and construct a hospital. Those who oppose this amendment say the present system of building hospitals is working well and that a change is not needed. They also point out that there is no limitation upon the amount of tax authorized in the new amendment, and that it is not wise to adopt any amendment to the constitution where the sky is the limit as to taxation. Some close observers have pointed out that eight of the ten amendments submitted at the election next month call for spending tax money and therefore the voters ought to look them over carefully.

Amendment No. 4 provides for the repeal of poll tax as a prerequisite for voting in Texas. This requirement was placed in the constitution by a vote of the people in 1902. One dollar of this tax goes to the schools and they will be short if the poll tax is repealed. Those who favor the repeal of the poll tax say that a person should not be required to pay a tax to vote. Those who oppose the repeal of the poll tax say that we all live in a country which has the best government in the world and that a citizen who is not willing to pay a small tax toward the support of that government and its public free school system is not entitled to vote. Some even point out that lodges, veterans organizations, clubs and civic and patriotic organizations require members to pay dues before they can vote, so why not require citizens to do the same, if they are under sixty years of age. On the other hand those who favor repeal of the poll tax say that the Federal Government is going to repeal the poll tax if we do not and that it is better for us to repeal the tax and keep the Federal Government from interfering with something which is rightfully a state matter. So the Legislature has, I think wisely, put this matter before the people for a popular decision on Nov. 8th.

Other amendments will be discussed next week.

FARM FACTS
WORTH KNOWING

1. When do steers make the greatest percentage of their total seasonal gain?
Steers on southwestern ranges make nearly 90% of their total seasonal gain by the end of August. Stockmen should take advantage of this fact by topping their herd in late August and selling the fattest steers at that time when the price is usually higher than later on.

2. How can I tell which hens are laying?
Laying hens have a bright red comb, moist vent, wide-spread pelvic bone and beak, and soft, pliable abdomen. Birds with dry shrunken combs, bare of feathers, and with shrunken vent are not laying.

3. How many pigs must be marketed from each litter to pay for the production costs of the litter?
Long-term records from the Research Farm of the Ralston Purina Company indicate that when farrowing two litters per year the returns from five pigs per litter are required for payment of production costs of the entire litter.
