MEMORIAL DAY

Memorial Day may be observed by some with poor spirit, afraid to face today's issues squarely, fearing that international dispute is a step closer to open warfare, that even a casual glance, not a complete, careful study, is needed to provide fresh proof of disorder and hot-heads, that .simple, human problems are in the minority, that all has been for nought with our present safety endangered. In memory we relive the past wars, merbunds and later, waistcoats, then tartan jackets and the armistices, reparations, death rolls. There are hearts finally tartan slacks, we heard the sound of bagpipes that still ache over lost ones who served for a cause that today looks like a lost cause. What a waste, you say.

Six unidentified bodies of the jesting. from five overseas theatres and the Alaskan Service Command, will be brought to the U.S. All branches of the Armed Services will be represented. The idea of interring an unknown soldier originated at the end of the First World War. England had its "Unknown Warrior", France its "soldat inconnu", buried beneath the Arc de Triomphe. The tomb is guarded by a perpetual flame which was not even extinguished during the German occupation. Other European capitals have these reminders of a war that was to end all wars. We too must not extinguish the flames that guard these unknown dead, in every land. We do not want to place a third unknown soldier, though in honored glory, beside the other two, in Arlington. This is our Memorial Day prayer.

Catching Up With The Fourth

One man's opinion is that the cheers for the Fourth of July will almost be downed by those for yellow margarine as it is liberated from Federal taxation on July 1. Then, for the first time in 64 years American homemakers will have the opportunity to buy tax-free yellow margarine-a product which doctors and nutritionists have long since declared to be on a health-giving par with butter

Although Federal taxation will end on July 1 and yellow margarine will be available in 32 states, 16 states continue to prohibit its sale by means of individually imposed taxes. Surely consumers in those 16 states will not hesitate to go to bat for the removal of those bans. It is not human nature to sit back and relax while your neighbor enjoys privileges you yourself do not have, and that is just the situation in those 16 states.

YOU SHOULD WORRY

We have a debt that is almost $2,000 for every man, woman and child in the country. Our debt is almost double the COMBINED national debts of England, France, Italy and all nations to whom we give aid. We have loaned $260 billion to countries who have a less per capita debt that we have here. They owe less than we but borrow from us to produce goods at lower cost than we can, then sell those goods to us. They provide, with $2.00 the profits, a lower living standard than ours. We loan $2.50 Canada $300 million and then Canada refused to buy anything from us that she could buy in England. It isn't that we won't lend, but we often wonder where it all ends. And, could we borrow money from any of ver Feed Store and Hatchery these countries, it another wonder.

HOOT, MON

Hop, Scotch, and look to your tartans, for the American male is invading your territory. Some of our folk are taking to your plaid kilt and cummerbund. CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

Our forefathers labored throughout our land They fought and preached against Sin They toiled and sacrificed to build The Churches we worship in.

They fought the Indians, braved the storms With a gospel that saves from sin The house they built still stands today Inviting you my friend.

Come let us reason together, dear friend The word that said forsake not

To assemble and worship the one true God Now please don't say I will not.

Remember friend, the vows you made When our boys were over there

You wept and worried and confessed Spent most of the time in prayer.

God in His mercy intervened The boys are home again So get up now come on to Church

Join in the glad refrain.

Let's sing and pray and worship Him From whom all blessings flow If you don't feel you should do this Then you do not know.

We like to preach and sing of Him His message is always sweet

But there's no pleasure in this my friend Preaching to empty seats.

In Him we live and move, 'tis true All that you have, He gave He loved so much, His Son He gave Jew and Gentile to Save.

We do not understand some folk They say I just love to go But when folk ask if you were there Sure we regret to say no.

God is keeping books on you my friend He remembers every vow

So if you want to come, well then God will make a way somehow.

Harvest Festival At Wichita Falls May 26- June 3

Wheat will rank as the Number One star among a host of celebrities congregating in Wichita Falls May 26th through June 3 to observe the opening of another harvest season.

This one commodity annually spotlights North Texas and Western Oklahoma as first depositors in the Nation's Breadbasket. Wichita Falls citizens have planned entertainment galore during the National Wheat Harvest Festival, the first organized recognition of wheat's eminence.

Stars who are to attend the festival and participate in the events are: Dennis O'Keefe, Constance Moore, Gene Autry, Jack Dempsey, Carlos Molina and his orchastra.

The Coronation Show Friday night will be a high point of entertainment when the queen will be announced, and the lucky lady crowned by O'Keefe. The Royal Court, princesses and escorts, will be introduced during the show. Carlos Molina and his company of entertainers are to be featured at the Coronation Show and will play later at Midwestern University's gymnasium for the formal Coronation Ball honoring the queen. Miss Patsy Lundberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lundberg, is Burkburnett's entry for the honor of Queen.

Square Dance contest and a street dance are planned for Saturday night in roped off streets.

A week of activities which have large audience appeal begin Monday night when the Wichita Falls' Spudders play Austin. The players will get in the spirit of harvest by dressing up their playing togs with genuine harvest apparel.

Texas Electric Service Company's spring show is scheduled at the Wichita Falls High school

Spring pigs, as do fall pigs, need dry comfortable sleeping quarters, free from draft, filth and dust. Move the sows and litters to clean pasture as soon as the weather will permit after the pigs are two weeks old. The importance of good pasture cannot be overemphasized as a factor in a profitable hog pro-gram. In addition to saving feed, pasture induces pigs to remain in the sunshine to be supplied with Vitamin D and permits the use of parasite-free, sanitary ground.

Not more than three or four sows and litters should be placed in one lot. It is desirable that all pigs in one group be about the same age, and there should be ample shelter to avoid crowding.

Self-feeders with grain and a balanced supplement in separate compartments should be placed close to shade and fresh clean water. This type of feeding reduces labor costs, gives more rapid growth and development and permits early fall marketing, which is an important factor in producing a good profit with the spring pig crop.
