Vacation Bible School at Trinity Lutheran Church in Clara Community

Trinity Lutheran Church at Clara will conduct a Vacation Bible School beginning with next week, and the entire community is cordially invited to enroll their children. The school will be in session for 2 weeks, from August 6th to August 17. Classes will meet each day, Monday through Friday, between the hours of 9:00 and 11:30 A. M.

A worship period every morning will be followed by Bible study and a program of activities that will help children take God into their lives—work sheets, songs, handwork, games and the like.

All children will be under the supervision of trained teachers who received their education at St. John's College, Winfield, Kansas.

God expects all parents to provide for the Christian training of their children, so that they may come to know Jesus, the Son of God, as their Savior. He says: "Suffer the little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of God." The Vacation Bible School at Clara will help you bring your children close to Jesus and into His way of life.

All boys and girls throughout the community from kindergarten age through the eighth grade are welcome. Registration period will be Monday morning, August 6th, from 8:00 to 9:00 A. M. Enrollment, however, might be made at any time. If you cannot come the first week, perhaps you can come the second.

We will count it a privilege to serve you.

Open-Air Revival Assembly of God

The evening services will begin at 8 P. M. with the pastor, G. W. Eastes, doing the preaching. Special singing and music have been planned. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Mr. Kadane stressed the fact that all his predictions seem to me that good citizens and by that I mean business and professional men, every household and every worker in Burkburnett need no instruction from outsiders. . . . During the years I have spent in this community, I have never seen a time when there has been justification for some authority to step in and tell us how to conduct our civic and business affairs. We want it that way and we insist that it be that way in the years to come.

In conclusion, Mr. Kadane paid special tribute to the Railroad Commission, particularly to Col. Ernest O. Thompson for his 20 years' service.

"Great Caruso" Music You Love Not An Opera . . .

With what is undoubtedly the greatest array of singing talent ever brought to the screen, "The Great Caruso" emerges as a triumphant drama of the life and career of the immortal tenor, Enrico Caruso—a story replete with touches of humor, romance and the dramatic fireworks that are part and parcel of the backstage operatic world. Metro's young singing star, Mario Lanza, who has won a firm place in the hearts of film fans after only two previous pictures, is ideally cast in the Caruso role, both from the point of view of his magnificent voice and his ability as an actor. Ann Blyth enacts the young society beauty who became Mrs. Caruso, while the wide array of musical interludes in the new production, showing at the Palace Theatre Wednesday - Thursday, enlists the services of such renowned Metropolitan Opera Company stars as Dorothy Kirsten, Jaromila Novotna and Blanche Thebom, with such additional artists as Teresa Celi, Nicola Mostacci as Teresa Celi, Nicola Mostacci as Teresa Celi, Nicola Mostacci as Teresa Celi.

Burk Friday-Saturday 'King Wild Horses' Burk Fri. - Sat.

"King of the Wild Horses," outdoor adventure opening at the Burk Theatre Friday-Saturday, signals the return to the screen not only of Rex, the wonder horse, but of one of the most important motion pictures ever made.

Filed in its entirety on an Indian reservation in northern Arizona, "King of the Wild Horses," not only includes numerous spectacular sequences of those speedy, beautiful animals, but it also tells the glowing love story of an Indian brave and an Indian maiden.

In capturing the vivid realism of the scene, sound cameras also were focused—for the first time, in screen history—on the tribal ceremonies, chants and tom-tom rhythms of the Navajos. Approximately 1,000 Indians are in the picture.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Beasley have returned from a few days' visit in Glen Rose, Texas, where they were both raised. Mrs. Beasley's mother and three of his sisters are still living there. They also visited relatives in Cleburne and Fort Worth.

New Equipment For Pumping Delayed

City Manager Leon Carver informs us the water situation is at its most critical stage for the summer. Pumping equipment which was supposed to be shipped July 19th has not arrived. In fact, a call on the 20th revealed that it had not been shipped and a definite shipping date could not be given.

It appears that we must get along, for the time being at least, with what we have. The absolute maximum amount of water that can be pumped to town now is 600,000 gallons per day. That full amount is being, and has been pumped now for several days. It is all being used, yet no one feels that they are using water excessively.

Co-operative Plan

Mr. Carver feels that a co-operative plan on a voluntary basis will help solve our problem. This plan has been used satisfactorily at other places faced with a water shortage. The plan is very simple, yet no one should lose any of their shrubs or yards if each one will adhere to the plan conscientiously. Here it is: Those living on the North side of town water their yards on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays only. In the Southern part of town customers will do their watering on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays only. By following this plan religiously, no shrub will suffer by missing water one day. Theoretically, those using water on their specified days will have twice as much pressure and can get the job done in half the time.

Hope to Avoid Drastic Action

If the voluntary conservation plan works as it should, no drastic measures will be necessary. However, if full co-operation is not secured, some very drastic measures will be forced upon us. It is more than an inconvenience to have water in the hydrants at only certain hours during the day. Those who have had experience along this line will certainly do everything in their power to see that it is not necessary here. Share and share alike with what we have, please.

FARMS GOING ELECTRIC

This country is entering upon a new era of fuller employment of farm electrification in which greater mechanization will bring efficiency and labor savings undreamed of today.

This is the faith of F. W. Duffee, who operates the University of Wisconsin Electric Research Farm, which makes studies on how to apply electric power to every phase of farm life.

Prof. Duffee is no visionary. He makes practical application of the electrical tools on the Wisconsin farm. He told of his work to members of the electric light and power industry at the Edison Electric Institute convention in Denver.

"In my opinion farmstead mechanization through farm electrification is today comparable to that high-wheeled auto my neighbor bought in 1908," said Prof. Duffee. He cited the fact that the average Wisconsin farmer today uses 4,000 kilowatt hours a year to help do the work. But the experimental farm uses ten times that much—44,000 kilowatt hours.

Prof. Duffee said he did not expect farmers to reach this figure in a couple of years. "But I do believe that we can look forward to a very substantial increase in the next ten years . . . The tide is running strong for the second phase of farm electrification. Let's ride it in the interest of more profitable farming, a better farm life."

What Will We Whittle On?

A squirt of plastic into a mold, the whoosh of a big steam press, and there it is . . . a new dining room table, or a case for a grand piano, or a bedstead, or maybe a whole set of chairs. Furniture that won't warp, or split, with no varnish to check or paint to peel or veneer to loosen. But this new plastic furniture, soon to be in production in somewhat smaller items, will never bring joy to the antique hunter. No "patina" of age, not even any wormholes . . . nor marks of craftsmanship, either.

A new plastic-molding press about the size of a locomotive, now about ready for production work in Decatur, Ill., plant of General Electric, will be the first to turn out completely molded furniture. This 135 ton probably a smallish hint of others to come, can turn out end-tables and kitchen cabinets weighing up to 13 pounds. No doubt this is progress, but we wonder what the home craftsman and the Mr. Fixit will do with their long winter week ends?

Burk Burnett . . . History

Revealed By Star Files 10 Years Ago...

Clifford Dodson of the Dodson Dry Goods Store, has purchased the stock and fixtures of the Famous, owned by H. S. Grace and Leonard Mattingly.

John H. Rigby, Jr., left Wednesday for Yukon, Oklahoma, 13 miles from Oklahoma City, where he has accepted a position at Cimarron Field.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Felty and family have returned to Burk Burnett after an absence of several months.

The home of Mrs. Jude Willingham was the scene of a morning coffee given in honor of Mrs. Alex Herrington of Rodessa, La., Tuesday, July 29.

The first local dance of the summer season will be held this Friday night at Town Hall under the sponsorship of the Burk Burnett Mothers Club.

Henry Carroll, popular mail carrier for Route 3 and 4 out of Randlett, Oklahoma, for a number of years, has been transferred to Vinson, Oklahoma, where he will carry a route.

SUPPOSE THIS HAPPENED

It is commonly believed that the whole responsibility for getting rid of unnecessary government expenditures falls upon Congress and the Administration. But a third power must bear its full share of that responsibility too—and that power is the American people who, incidentally, pay all the bills.

Suppose, for instance, that chambers of commerce, civic groups, business associations, labor unions and other such institutions in every part of the Country came out for real economy—and said, frankly and flatly, that they wanted their states and their communities to willingly accept their part of the cuts that would follow. And suppose, finally, that when the cuts were made, these organizations would praise Congress for making them instead of crying to high heaven for more Federal tax money to be spent locally. The result would be to enormously encourage those men in government who honestly want to pinch the people's pennies and, at the same time, it would bring many new converts into the fold.

For good or evil, the men who run the government keep their ears to the ground. They listen to "the folks back home." Once they become convinced that their constituents want the government to banish the luxuries and the waste, they'll do just that. They'll never do it so long as they believe that everyone wants economy to be confined to the other fellow's pasture.

Charla Thompson Honoree At Lovely Party

A most unique shower theme, "The Farmer in the Dell," was planned, honoring Miss Charla Thompson, bride-elect of Mr. Virgil Klinkerman, Thursday evening, July 26 in the First Baptist Church.

The beautiful church parlor was gaily decorated to provide a rustic setting for the evening. Lanterns illuminated the room and a white trellis, intertwined with field grass and golden Zennias symbolic of harvest, formed a beautiful background behind the honoree.

Deputized hostesses of the young set wore sunbonnets of various pastels, the honoree's selected colors.

Miss Pat Lundberg, official door hostess, graciously welcomed each guest and directed them to the register.

Mrs. Wanda Keen assumed charge of the bride's book.

Miss Lundberg presented Charla, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Klinkerman with nosegay corsages.

The refreshment table was cleverly arrayed in its checked table cloth, centerpiece with a bonnet and straw hat overflowing with field flowers.

Miss Joyce Stewart served punch from an old fashioned bucket. Miss Carol Campbell presided at the cake tray and even the saucy roosters on the napkins crowded their delight in serving.

Miss Pat Morgan assumed her duties as musician for the entire evening.

Mrs. Shirlene Hatcher, attired as the farmer, proved herself a clever little M. C. as she presented her program in verse and music. Shirlene sang "The Farmer in the Dell" and when the farmer chose a wife she presented Charla a bride's bonnet of heavenly blue.

Miss Nathalie Foster sang a lovely dedication, "They Say We're Too Young To Fall In Love."

The Plowhands, Bill Love, Pude Fewin, Arnold Oliver and Thomas May sang "Sweet Violets". The Milkmaids, Juanita Henry, Sue Douglas, Judy Willingham, and Nathalie Foster harmonized "Those Wedding Bells". One by one the Plowhands broke up the gang by winning the girl of his choice, leaving only a stack of school books forlorn and discarded behind.

The girls' quartet provided a musical background, Harvest Moon, as the farmer presented a bountiful harvest of gifts to the honoree, each wrapped in paper of love and tied with ribbons of good wishes.

Worthy Patron Is Honored

A. A. McKinnis, Worthy Patron O.E.S. Chapter No. 655, was pleasantly surprised with a birthday party at the close of the regular meeting of the Chapter, Tuesday evening, July 24th.

Mrs. Fred Fewin read "Mama's at Convention." Miss Shirley Fink, appropriately played "It's the Most Beautiful Night in the Year." Donald McKinnis gave a "Birthday Toast to My Dad."

A varied assortment of lovely gifts from the Chapter officers, members and friends, were presented to the honor guest, after which the group retired to the dining hall and were served the traditional birthday cake and the gold punch.

Local Soldier, M-Sgt. Woodrow Elrod Has Two War Records to His Credit

From a Palestine, Texas, Paper:

Dressed neatly in civilian clothes, it was hard to tell this week that Master Sergeant Woodrow W. Elrod was less than a month removed from his second war in a decade.

A 15 year Army career man, the Palestine native and his family are visiting relatives here before he has to report to Fort Sill, Okla., on July 22 for reassignment. Elrod was one of 1,450 men who returned from Korea June 18 on the USS Joseph P. Martinas on rotation plan.

The first few days of his leave were spent at Burkburnett a Red River town just adjacent to Oklahoma, where his wife and two boys lived while he was at war.

After spending three years in the Pacific during the war with Japan—on New Caledonia, New Guinea and the Philippines—Elrod, named Woodrow Wilson after the late president, returned home on the point system. After a 90 days furlough, however, to finish his 20 years of service before retirement.

Two years ago he was sent to Japan for a hitch of occupation duty with the First Cavalry Division and soon had his family shipped over to live with him. Last June, when the United States intervened in Korea, Elrod knew that soon he would be back on the front again and prepared to send his wife and two sons, Woodrow, Jr., 9, and Steve Victor, 4, back to the States. Shortly after the First Cavalry sailed for Korea in July they returned to the States.

The unit to which Elrod was attached, the 99th Field Artillery Battalion, first saw action on July 19, 1950, below Taejon on the Kum river. By September 2 the unit had pulled back behind Taegu in the Pusan Perimeter. They stayed there until General MacArthur spearheaded inland from Seoul above them. At that time the North Korean Army around the perimeter practically dissolved as the troops attempted to escape dressed as civilians. The First Cavalry then began a race northward to join the amphibious forces which had landed.

Elrod's Battalion was occupying Unsan at the time the Chinese Reds came into the fight. The Chinese then came in blowing bugles and riding horses, he said. They withstood the attack for four days before beginning to retreat. The Chinese carried a tremendous amount of fire power with them, he said, since most of their weapons were automatic. They didn't have much plane and artillery support but practically all of them carried automatic weapons.

Since their guns used a lot of ammunition, many of the Chinese troops were used exclusively as ammunition carriers. Whenever a gunner was dropped, however, one of the carriers retrieved his weapon and carried on the fighting, Elrod said. "They never would lose a piece if they could keep from it."

The casualties in Elrod's battalion was fairly high, he said, although they came in direct contact with the Reds only a few times. Most of the casualties were caused by mines or booby traps, a type of warfare at which the Chinese are quite adept. Most of the anti-personnel mines are of the pressure type which goes off when stepped on, he said. Most of that kind are set off the main trails and roads which are mined for heavy weapons. A few times, the Cavalry Battalion had to turn their artillery on the Reds at point blank range after they had broken through the infantry lines, Elrod said.

There were 18 artillery pieces in the battalion, all 105 millimeters in size, and usually they were placed from one to four miles behind the infantry lines. The unit lost three of its weapons in the Unsan fight.

The battalion had approximately 55 50 caliber machine guns and approximately 150 bazookas. All the personnel carried 45 caliber pistols or M-1 rifles.

Elrod was the battalion motor sergeant. He received three battle stars in his eleven months of fighting. The first was awarded for the Pusan Perimeter stand, the second was made for the drive north from the perimeter, and the third was made for the fighting against the Chinese.

Elrod received two battle stars and a bronze star for his service in World War II. They were given for the New Guinea Battle and the liberation of the Philippines.

He began his Army career in 1936 at Fort Sam Houston and stayed there with the 23rd Infantry Regiment of the Second Division until 1939. Later he was sent to New Orleans for duty after being married in 1940. He sailed for the Pacific in June, 1943.

His wife and children have always lived at army posts except on the occasions when he was at the Pacific.

Mrs. Elrod is the daughter of Fred Fewin, Jr., who is home on a thirty day leave. Fred just completed a Fire Control Tech. School in San Diego, Calif. He reports back to the USS Tucker, DDR, 873.

"Ace In The Hole" which opens Sunday-Monday at the Palace Theatre, is a sometimes shocking, frequently surprising and always exciting film drama that carries more impact, power and sheer entertainment than has sparked a picture in a long long time.

Conceived, directed and produced by Billy Wilder, here is a highly charged combination of drama and realism that is imaginatively staged, flawlessly performed and certain to take a firm grasp on the eyes and emotions of every movie goer.
