GRASS ROOTS OPINION

BRIDGEHAMPTON, N. Y., News: "It is senseless to bewail the actions of misguided youths, per se. Vandalism lack of morals, irresponsibility, are the effects of causes over which the youngsters have no control, and of which they don't even have a knowledge. In our judgment the basic cause of young delinquency is a breakdown in home training. The moral lesson that this involves is serious. Values that were held in high respect before are now swept aside."

VIRGINIA, Minn., Mesabi Daily News: "Given a favorable political climate, the private enterprise system will meet every challenge."

COALINGA, Calif., Record: "...some people may have a confused notion that our country, because of its constitutional separation of church and state, is officially divorced from religion. This is not so! The Bill of Rights provision that 'Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion' simply means that no creed—Presbyterian, Catholic, Baptist, Episcopalian nor any other—shall be recognized and favored as a national creed. That is the essence of the religious freedom all Americans enjoy."

LONG ISLAND, N. Y., Sun: "The Fifth Amendment was never meant to be protection for those who would overthrow our government by force."

NO ALTERNATIVE

Ask the average citizen of an inland state what direct interest he has in the American merchant marine, and the chances are he'll say little or none. But he'd be wrong, and here's why.

About one out of 20 of the 19,000,000 people who live in Ohio, Indiana and Michigan depends upon steel for his livelihood. To operate the steel plants, 15 vital raw materials must be brought in from the world's five continents. To take one example, at least 85 percent of the manganese we need moves by ship—and without manganese there'd be no steel and no jobs for steelworkers.

In those three inland states, which are part of the industrial heart of America, 500,000 people work in the automobile industry. In a recent year, exports of that industry came to nearly $1,000,000,000, much of which wound up in the form of wages and salaries. Cut off those exports—and the payrolls would shrink at once.

A similar situation exists in all the states, no matter how far from the seaboard they may be. A merchant fleet is a doubled-barreled force, it brings our factories needed raw materials, and then makes it possible for those factories to ship finished goods all over the civilized world. Sen. Potter of Michigan put the story in a sentence when he said, "There is no alternative to an American-owned and operated merchant marine."

MENTAL MEAT - au jus!

"Since the beginning of Time, the most conspicuous member of society have been the ones engaged in struggles for power, riches, loot and land. At the same time the inconspicuous ones have been writing the only continuous story in history, the story of technology."

This is the thesis of two of America's outstanding engineers, Vice Admiral Harold G. Bowen, USN (Ret) and automotive wizard Charles F. Kettering — which gives collaborated in a slim volume called A Short History of Technology" which gives you more meat for a dollar than you can find in any butcher shop.

Published by Thomas Alva Edison Foundation, of West Orange N. J., the book is designed for high school reading, with the expectation that it will influence promising youngsters to embark on careers in science and engineering. But it will fascinate anyone who has any curiosity about our present-day industrial economy, or how America got to the top of the economic heap.

Here is an engineers' eye-view (in 120 pages) of how this cock-eyed world got the way it is. It is the amazing story of man's conquest of material and environment, not the stuffy account of wars, conquest and dynasties.

Even the references to that "dismal science," economics, are novel and refreshing. For instance: "The vulnerable point in our national economy is the effective distribution of the profits due to technological progress. Gross or long-continued cupidity on the part of management, labor, or the consumer (that's most of us), or confiscatory taxation can send our economy, our people, and our Western civilization into such a tailspin that we will lose everything we possess—even Liberty."

And again: "War will continue until mankind is convinced that war has become absolutely unprofitable for all participants."

It was their purpose, the authors say, to make learning painless. But they have done even better. They have made it a pleasure. Get the book, and see for yourself.

EQUAL PARTNERS

In past times, it has been the practice to assay the health of the economy with the thermometer of production—the volume of goods and foods which flow from farm and factory.

This still is and will remain vitally important. However, more and more economists are stressing another sort of index, which once was given relatively little attention—consumption, as represented by the volume of retail business.

In other words, the degree of success attained by retailing in its selling efforts has the strongest possible bearing on whether times are good or not in this country. High production can be maintained only if the goods move off the store shelves and into American homes.

Mass-distribution is mass-production's equal partner.

WHO NEEDS ANOTHER STAR?

Three hundred scientists, meeting at the third annual symposium on space travel at New York's Planetarium were told that Russia can now put a "red star" in the sky a one ton satellite that would pass over us every few hours at a height of 200 miles. But, if we hurry, we might beat them to it, and shoot a 100 pound job up there by 1957 at a cost of a mere billion dollars.

But, looking around us, it would seem that we still have a few chores to do down here on the ground first.

ONLY CURE

"We could both cure the budget deficit and many of the pains of taxes without lessening our effectiveness in defense or in the needed functions of government if we could now have a period of self-denial and patience."

That observation has come from a real authority, Herbert Hoover, in a talk made before the American Society of Newspaper Editors. The American people never were given sounder or more timely advice. If we are to lay the ghost of inflation and honestly eliminate the danger of eventual national bankruptcy, we must welcome and encourage every effort to cut government costs, including those which hit us directly in our own pocketbook.

Chigger Season Is Here Again

This is chigger season and many Texans are in for a lot of misery before it's over.

Although it might not be economical to control the pests all season, B. T. Haws, county agent says 50 to 75 cents worth of chlordane or toxaphene will kill the redbugs on the average home lawn for about seven days.

Such a plan is suggested to anyone planning an occasional summer picnic, party or other outdoor gathering. Or these insecticides may be applied to a smaller area where the family lounges or plays in the yard.

One pound of five percent toxophene of chlordane dust applied to 1,000 square feet is recommended by the Texas Agriculture Extension Service. These dusts are available from feed, drug and most grocery stores.

Sulphur dust has long been a popular chigger killer, but these treatments are more effective, the county agent adds.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mathis and family have returned from a very enjoyable fishing trip to Colorado.

June Brides Urged To Have Their S. S. Cards Changed

Each year in the month of June, nearly one million American women take one of the most important steps in their lives when they say "I will." After the honeymoon is over, many of these brides assume the responsibilities of a housewife while others resume their places in the business world.

Their important papers and records, such as bank account, driver's license, voters registration, credit accounts, insurance policies, social security records and others, require a change to show the world that she is now a Mrs. The smart bride will not forget that her social security card is one of her most valuable documents and she will promptly get in touch with her nearest social security office and exchange her old card for one showing her same account number with her new name. In Wichita Falls the office is located in the Post Office building, Room 425.

Ramsey who has made insurance law revision one of the main points of re-election program, is shown writing state officials and insurance executives to submit facts, records and such recommendations they may have to help clean out parasite insurance concerns. Bellevue Hi School Home-Coming Set For Sun., June 27th

The Annual Home-Coming for Ex-Students and Teachers of the Bellevue High School has been planned for Sunday, June 27, to be held in the High School Building.

You and members of your family-exclusive of cats and dogs!—are cordially invited and urged to be among those present. Mark your calendar, right now, with a red circle around the 27, and lets make it a truly Red Letter Day for Bellevue.

Bring a Basket Lunch, just full of choice edibles, and we will spread them all together and eat as long as appetites and capacities will allow.

We suggest that you begin as-sembling around 10:00 o'clock that morning in order that you may meet, mix and mingle with your former classmates, teach-ers, and friends; and have plenty of time for visiting and remin-iscing. We know you will be re-minded of, and have lots of fun talking over the many happy hours and events of your child-hood school days in Bellevue. And who is it that wouldn't enjoy seeing once again their childhood "sweetheart"?

So make your plans to come, from all corners of the land, and participate in making this an outstanding and long to be re-membered occasion.

If you know of some ex-student that we may not reach, please contact them yourself.

and urge that they attend get-together.

From where I sit... by Joe Marlin

Wise Stepmother

Have you heard about young Skeeter Roberts' unusual pet, the tame owl "Blinky"? He's had her about three years.

I say "her" because up to a couple of weeks ago nobody was quite sure. But now "Blinky's" a mother—of two chicks!

Seems "Blinky" had been acting kind of strange—so on a hunch, Skeeter put a couple of hen's eggs in her nest. Darn if "Blinky" didn't set on them for 5 days! Last Friday they hatched, and now "Blinky's" as proud as a mother hen! (So's Skeeter.)

From where I sit, there's no son for all of us. Guess you'd call it "tolerance." Birds and animals often seem to do better in the respect than humans. If I like a glass of temperate beer with copper and you'd rather have clean-it should be okay with both of us. Neither of us should give a "hoot" what the other fellow likes, says, or does, as long as he follows the law of the land. Right?

New Editor For Baptist Standard

Dr. E. S. James resigned the pastorate of the First Baptist church of Vernon Sunday morning to accept the editorship of the Baptist Standard, the denominational paper of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Dr. James will succeed Dr.
David M. Gardner of Dallas, who will retire in November.
Since becoming editor in 1944
Dr. Gardner has led Texas Baptists in building the largest circulation of any Baptist weekly in the world. The paper now has 280,000 subscribers in 1944 there were 110,000.

The appointment of Dr. James as editor was made by the paper's board of directors, headed by the Rev. Charles Cockrell of Garland. Dr. J. Ralph Grant of Lubbock was chairman of the committee making the selection.

Dr. James Sunday told his congregation at Vernon, "No minister has ever been happier than I have been during the 17 years as your pastor. The only reason I accepted this new position is that it affords Mrs.
James and myself an opportunity to expand our Christian service.

During 32 years in the ministry I have ridden on the wings of prayer, and I accepted this position only after much prayer for divine direction in this matter. Both Mrs. James and myself believe that this is in the will of God."

House version of the Agriculture appropriations bill to increase the Rural Electrification

ity by $35,000,000.

Senator Johnson, Democratic

The amendment would boost

FATHER'S DAY

IT TAKES A MOTHER TO MAKE A HAPPY FATHER'S DAY. If father is to have a good day on Sunday, June 20th, his day, he will have his good wife to thank for it . . . and so we direct our message to the wife and mother who will do the celebration planning. Naturally there will be plenty of good eating, because, as they say, "the way to a man's heart is through his stomach". By now you know his favorite foods. We'll try and have them for you, and of good quality. This day calls for the best.

The real joys of life are so often those we think of the least as we enjoy them. We do not stop to appraise friends, home love, children who behave themselves because mother handles and trains them so well . . . and real satisfying joy does not come from the big occasional celebration, but from day-to-day kindness to those around us—to those who depend on us . . . like a husband depends upon a wife. Yes, it takes a MOTHER to make a happy FATHER'S DAY.

Declaration of Independence

R. D. LANEY

These truths to be held self-evident, that all men are created equal—Young men realized some would scoff that no two alike—some are crippled—some are stupid—some are straight, some are crooked. He knew we are not, but we should be in the sight of God, because, in our rights of citizenship, that from equality derive Rights inalienable, and among these are life, and liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Fourteen years ago Americans at Lexington and Bunker's Hill fought for certain inalienable rights which could and should be maintained within the reach of the bells in Philadelphia that day in the hours that day in the gospel of this nation Thomas Jefferson wrote the first draft of the Declaration of Independence in 1776. He never claimed its original with him; it was to express the wishes of all Americans.

At the time had come for independence had been by Tom Paine's "Common Sense," a pamphlet published six months ago, but now hand to hand in the denunciation of the Third's misrule, which each other in the Declaration like a hail of bullets, taken almost word for word from the preamble to the Constitution, written weeks ago by Jefferson himself. And on June 7, only four days before Jefferson set to work on the Declaration, fiery Richard Henry Lee of Virginia had moved in Congress: "Resolved, that the United Colonies are, and of a right ought to be, free and independent states, that they are absolved all allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connections between them and the State of Britain, is and ought to be, totally dissolved."

"The second day of July 1776 wrote John Adams, 'Will be the most memorable—in the history of America. I believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary Festival. It ought to be commemorated with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations from one end of this Continent to the other from this time forward forever. I am well aware of the toil and blood and treasure that it will cost us to maintain this Declaration, and support and defend these States, yet through all the gloom I can see the rays of ravishing light and Glory.'

Four times this immortal document has fled for its life, first when the British threatened Philadelphia in December, 1776; next when Congress evacuated Philadelphia after the defeats at Brandywine and Germantown in Sept. 1777; again when in 1814 the British captured and burned Washington. In 1941, when Japan and Germany declared war, the Declaration was buried in the vaults at Ft. Knox Ky. The ink has faded. The grievances enumerated against George Third have faded out no less. But the great body of human rights announced in the preamble are needed today more than in 1776. For in other parts of the world tyranny is even stronger now than it was then. Freedom is ours, but the Declaration reminds us that it should belong to all men. To forward it, we must see to it that in our own country, in each of our states, in our home town in our street, in our very hearts we fulfill toward our neighbors the spirit and the letter of that deathless document.

Good Ranges Make Good Turkeys

Proper use of ranges and succulent feeds offers turkey raisers the best chance to cut costs, increase profits and grow better birds.

A range for turkeys offers more than sunshine and exercise says B. T. Haws, county agent. It furnishes plenty of green grazing and should be large enough to permit the poult to be moved ever two or three weeks. An ideal range is well drained, tree bordered and completely isolated from other poultry on the farm. Poults go to range at the age of eight to 12 weeks.

If natural shade is unavailable, range shelters or a similar type arbor should be built. Lack of shade causes the birds to over crowd and some may be injured or even killed.

Plenty of fresh, cool drinking water is a hot weather "must" on the range. It usually pays to pipe water to the ranges, but a barrel makes a good substitute when kept full and clean, Haws says. Under no circumstances should the birds be allowed to drink from muddy and possibly contaminated streams or ponds.

Portable feeders should be designed to protect the feed from rain, wind, direct sunlight and from drippings. When forage in the feeding area shows signs of being over grazed a move to another location is in order.

Predator animals pose a problem in some areas and Haws advises enclosing the roosting area with net wire fencing. Lanterns, flares or electric lights burning near the roost will also help turn away night time invaders.

June Is Drink More Milk Month

"How about another glass of milk, Mom. June is Dairy Month."

Ten thousand dairy herds furnish Grade A milk for Texans both young and old, and dairying adds $200,000,000 annually to the state's farm income.

Dairy month coincides with the period of highest milk production and surpluses are causing problems for producers. If consumers would step up their purchase of milk and other dairy products, these surpluses would soon disappear, says B. T. Haws county agent.

The extra milk is being made into ice cream, cheese butter and evaporated, condensed and powdered milk. Dairy products are hailed as nature's most perfect food.

Haws says milk production is several billion pounds above the national average, but consumption per capita is down about 17 percent. From a dairyman's standpoint, this accentuates the importance of efficient marketing.

This month everyone is urged to "have an extra glass" and to eat more ice cream, cheese and other wholesome products from the dairy farm.

Dairy products help build stronger Texans!

"Don't Gamble With Speed" . . .

"Don't gamble with speed—speeders always lose!"
 This was the advice given by Col. E. B. Tilley of Houston, President of the Texas Safety Association, and Services Advisor for the Gulf Oil Corp. to Texas motorists today. The speed control program is being sponsored by the Texas Safety Association and the Texas Department of Public Safety in cooperation with the National Safety Council.

"When motorists drive at excessive speeds they lose out in many ways," he said.
 According to Col. Tilley, speeders make a poor impression on friends and neighbors. "Anyone can jam his foot on the accelerator and roar down the street," he said, "but it requires good judgement to decide what is safe speed under existing conditions. The driver who drives according to conditions earns the respect of his community. The speeder usually loses respect."

"Then there's the matter of economy," Col. Tilley said. "The car that burns up the road at a fast pace also burns up gas and oil at a much faster rate than the car that travels at a moderate speed, and it wears out its tires, brakes, etc. before their time. Speeders lose money."

"Very often," he said, "speeders even fail in their immediate objective, to get there fast. Traveling at a greater rate of speed than the traffic around them, cutting in and out, racing for stop lights, speeders gain little or no time over the driver who keeps a steady pace with the traffic stream."

"But he warned," the speeder's greatest loss is in safety. As his speed increases, the driver's control of his car decreases. His chances of having an accident are greater, and an accident occurring at a high speed is far more likely to cause a fatal injury than one occurring at a low speed."

"Remember," Col. Tilley said, "speeders lose out—often to the extent of losing their lives. It's a good policy to travel at a safe speed always, and the only safe speed is one that's determined by conditions of weather, road, traffic, mechanical fitness of your car and your own mental and physical state."

Texas State Dept. of Health

Dr. Henry A. Holle, M. D.

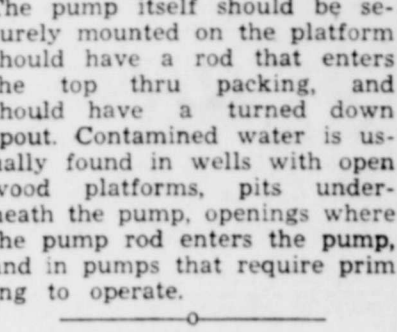

One of the most important factors contributing to the well-being of summer vacationists is a safe and healthful water supply. Contaminated water is the annual cause of much sickness and many fatalities. Water from sources not known to be safe should never be used to supply vacation needs.

Dr. Henry A. Holle, State Health Officer, stated this week that most municipal water supplies in Texas are periodically inspected and samples submitted to the State or local public health laboratories for examination. He advised that it is always best, when in doubt, to endeavor to secure water from a municipal supply.

"Families away from home on picnics, excursions, or vacation trips," Dr. Holle said, "should either ascertain that their water supply is safe or they should make it safe for human consumption. Water can be rendered safe by boiling for 15 minutes or by the addition of chlorine. A few drops of ordinary chlorine laundry bleach can be added to a gallon of clear water and if the water is allowed to stand for 15 minutes it may be used for drinking."

If drinking water is obtained from a private well, Dr. Holle advised vacationists to look for these protective features: a well site protected from flooding with good drainage, and a concrete platform surrounding the pump. The pump itself should be securely mounted on the platform should have a rod that enters the top thru packing, and should have a turned down spout. Contaminated water is usually found in wells with open wood platforms, pits underneath the pump, openings where the pump rod enters the pump, and in pumps that require priming to operate.

Much Sun, No Fun

Swimmers are advised by the Red Cross to approach this summer's sun with care. Expose yourself for only a few minutes the first day, then increase the time gradually.

CHICKEN FEED CHIC

This chic costume was literally "for the birds" at one time. The smart outfit is made from cotton feed bags which originally contained feed for chickens! The skirt and waist are made from three plain cotton osenbury bags, while one plain bag in a light brown and white design was used to make the blouse.
