Burkburnett Families Vacation Together

A group of friends, all members of the Thrift Memorial Baptist Church, returned last week from a ten day vacation trip which they all spent together, camping and fishing on the Illinois river near Tahlequah, Okla.

Four big tents were set up and everyone enjoyed swimming and fishing each day.

The report is that about 500 fish were caught including the prize catch, an 8 lb. catfish. Several fish fries were enjoyed at camp and each family brought lots of fish home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Cordray, former resident of Burk who now resides near Tahlequah, very graciously stored the fish in their deep freeze until time to return home. They came up to camp each night and enjoyed supper and games of "42" with all the bunch.

One day the gang all went on a sight seeing tour into Arkansas.

Everyone reported a wonderful time and especially liked the weather which was cool enough to sleep under a quilt at night.

Those enjoying the trip were: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hodges and Peggy, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Blackwell and Jimmy, Mr. and Mrs. George Hodges and family, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Loveless and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dureward Redman and family and Mr. and Mrs. Arlis Youngblood and Linda.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn., Daily Journal: "With the summer recreation season here we should all try to keep our roads and beaches clean. One solution is for every motorist to carry a litterbag in the car and use it as he would a wastebasket at home. Don't be a litterbug."

TOWN JOURNAL MAGAZINE: "The home town paper is about the best friend a town ever had. Year in and year out its columns report the achievements, the good times, the gains and the tragedies of the home folks. Each issue does something to cement individuals into a community."

GREAT FALLS, Montana, Leader: "For nearly 40 years, Sweden has had a rationing system for liquor, the theory being that rationing would check excessive use. Recently the Riksdag voted to abolish the system as of next Oct. 1, the Finance Minister (who incidentally is a teetotaler) saying that the benefits of the systems were not sufficient to justify the red tape involved. Sweden would have to rely, he said, on education and enlightenment to combat the abuse of alcohol. Since Sweden is one of the countries with a semi-Socialist government which tends to believe in regulating everything, the change may be significant."

WEYMOUTH, Mass., Gazette & Transcript: "—the trend in America toward socialistic reliance on Big Government will destroy the fundamentals of the individual enterprise system which has given us so much in the past."

THERE'S ALWAYS A CHANGE

An old story tells of a salesman who attempted to sell a farmer a set of books on how to farm successfully. The farmer turned him down, saying, "I ain't farming half as well now as I know how."

Be that as it may, farmers and ranchers are operating farms more efficiently and successfully than they used to—due both to work of their own, and to assistance and knowledge provided by organizations which have to do with the production and sale of farm products in one way or another.

An official of the Department of Agriculture has described improvements that have taken a place in beef cattle production. Seventy years ago it took four and often five years for a longhorn to reach a weight of 1,000 pounds—now it happens in less than half that time. In 1953 fewer than 1,000 carcasses were condemned during inspection because of tuberculosis—25 or 30 years ago the number of condemnations ran from 50,000 to 70,000 animals.

Believe it or not, the atom may even affect the meat business of the future. "Pasteurization" of meat thru exposure of gamma rays has been accomplished on a laboratory scale at the American Meat Institute Foundation. The studies, which were supported in part by AEC, have shown that shelf life of pre-packaged meats may be extended five-fold by radiation doses with little, if any, production of off flavors, odors, or discolorations. This process is not ready for practical use and many difficult scientific problems must be ironed out. But it may be an indication of things to come.

In agriculture, as in any enterprise, change is always going on, to the benefit of all.

THE HARDEST WORKING RIVER

The Wisconsin River has been called "the hardest working river in the nation."

That is the result of the Wisconsin plan—a plan which has succeeded in, the words of Grover C. Neff, spokesman for the Wisconsin Utilities Association, "because the state laws and business climate have allowed private enterprise to develop and flourish under fair rules and adequate local regulation."

The plan is now nearly 50 years old—the first state charter under it was granted in 1907 for river improvement. To quote Mr. Neff again, "Our river basins have been successfully developed and controlled—river flow is regulated, power dams are constructed, trees are planted in reforestation program, and recreational facilities are developed. All this has been financed thru investments of the savings of its people and not by governmental subsidies collected by taxes."

It is Mr. Neff's opinion, and he so told a Hoover Commission Task Force, that the Wisconsin plan of river development and flood control can be used as a pattern for the nation. It is proof that cooperative action between local government and private enterprise can bring about every desirable goal of river development—and can do it without the blight of "creeping socialism." And of major importance, if this plan was used generally thruout the country, it would result in greatly reduced federal spending on the one hand—and materially increased tax income to all governmental bodies on the other.

Cotton Is Good Despite Drought

The cotton is looking good at present time in spite of the dry weather. There are approximately 6500 acres of cotton planted in the county. Most of the farmers have fair stands of cotton after planting four or five times. The cotton is now fruiting, with some of it in bloom.

The insect count has been exceptionally light this year. The most common insect found in the cotton fields now is the flea-hopper. The flea-hopper count has run from a four to six percent infestation, which is not enough to warrant spraying. The bollworm egg count has also been very light.

Insect counts are made by the county agent each Friday in the Friberg, Burkburnett and Valley Farms area.

- NOTICE - TO NEW STUDENTS

All students who were not regularly enrolled in the Burkburnett Public Schools during the 53-54 school term will be required to meet with the principals in their respective grades in order to receive room assignments. Mr. Evans, Principal, Hardin Grade School, Mr. Richardson, Principal Jr. High School, Mr. Douglas, Principal High School, will be in their offices starting Monday, August 16, from 9:00 until 4:00 o'clock and will be glad to have conference with any parent in regard to enrollment of students. We are urging parents to take advantage of this opportunity so that the day of the regular enrollment they will not have to wait in line to secure grade assignment. (This does not apply to first grade students taken on the census roll January of 54, but it will apply to any 6 year old having moved into this district since that time. All beginning first grade students are required to have birth certificates.)

Mrs. J. H. Rigby Hostess to Circle 1 Of WSCS Aug. 9th

Circle No. 1 of the WSCS of the First Methodist Church met August 9th at 2 p. m. in the home of Mrs. Hettie Gilbert with Mrs. J. H. Rigby as hostess.

Song "Savior like a Sheppard lead us" opened the meeting. The devotional subject "Jesus love for rural folk" was given by Mrs. Rigby with each member taking a part. Mrs. C. L. Schoch led in prayer.

Instead of the lesson for the day, the time was given to Mrs. O. E. Melton, Dist. Secretary of promotion, who had recently attended a school at Denton and studied one subject in particular "Jesus teachings concerning women." She stressed the teachings daily of the Rev. Gordon Cosad, pastor of Asbury Methodist Church. He talked on the prophets stressing the need of adapting them when they were asked this question many times "How are you training our youth" as they are the leaders of tomorrow.

After a short business session we were dismissed with our usual benediction after which ice cold melon was served to the following: two visitors, Mrs. Pearl Hunt and Mrs. L. B. Mitchell and the following members: Mesdames S. S. Reger, F. L. Pilkenton, W. T. Bradford, J. S. Gore, Geo. Scruggs, O. E. Melton, R. A. Neal, J. P. Lawler, R. L. Gragg, S. M. Butts, C. L. Schoch and W. H. Holt. As we were enjoying our watermelon, Mr. Gilbert came in with a favor for each one. They were fly swatters with "Mrs. Gilbert's Flowers" advertising on the handle.

The next meeting is scheduled for September 13th in the home of Mrs. O. E. Melton.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Redman and Mrs. Chester Todd, Rusty and Kathy, visited relatives in Tishmingo and Commanche, Okla., last week-end.

Association Under Honored

...ant little 1908 Texas health officer who founded the Texas Tuberculosis Association on a train, today was honored by that organization.

W. M. Brumby, retired health officer, was presented a bronze medal commemorating the 50th anniversary of the National Tuberculosis Association and his role in the Texas affiliate and the train enroute to St. Augustine in September 1908.

Delegation of 100 Texans by the peppery health officer and bound for the International Congress Against Tuberculosis when they reached the city and the first such to be held in the United States at St. Augustine.

Dr. Brumby recalls that at one time he brought down the wrath of the entire nation on his head by threatening to quarantine Texas against the invasion of "pauper consumptives" from other states seeking a cure in the Southwest.

"Newspapers from Maine to California," he says, "headlined the Texas Quarantine against Consumptives and censured me severely for my 'inhumanity to man.'"

But, Dr. Brumby adds that once his position on the responsibility of every community to care for own "paupers" was made clear, understanding of his purpose followed.

Many of the nation's largest newspapers which at first had criticized him severely finally "saw the light," he says, "and advocated local responsibility for the care and prevention of tuberculosis and urged generous appropriations by their legislatures for this purpose."

Dr. Brumby was appointed state health officer in January, 1907. When he began digging into his new job he was appalled by what he found.

At that time the Vital Statistics Bureau at Washington reported the national death rate from tuberculosis was 173 persons for each 100,000 population. In San Antonio Dr. Brumby found it to be 623.9 per 100,000.

In El Paso 54 percent of the dead had resided there less than a year, 5 percent less than a day, and 3 percent died in the trains and railroad yards without medical attention.

Obviously Texas needed a public health champion, and found him in Dr. Brumby.

In one instance, finding tuberculosis bacilli in a Pullman car cuspidor, he brought suit against the car cleaner and made the road superintendent a party to the suit.

He adds: "I also arrested and prosecuted a drummer from Boston for washing his teeth and expectorating a wash basin on a train in violation of the state's sanitary code. Press dispatches headlined both stories."

Mrs. Ross W. Tillinghast, Jr., of Lubbock, one of the youngest members of the Texas TB Association to focus on an enlightened horizon; in gratitude for the great humanitarian conscience that rejected every obstacle in galvanizing human effort to ease human despair; in deep appreciation for his inspiration, his guidance, his lifelong example of unlimited courage and unlimited devotion to his fellowman, the Texas Tuberculosis Association offers this symbol of its esteem.

"May this medallion commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the voluntary movement for tuberculosis control serve to remind him that he is forever enshrined in the heart of every Texan who has seen the carnage of Tuberculosis, every Texan who has sought to curb its destructiveness."

The Birds Who Forgot How

We wonder if there isn't something of a moral for the American people in the story of what is happening to the sea gulls up in St. Augustine.

It seems the sea gulls up that way have forgotten how to catch fish for themselves. For many years they have been depending for their food on the scraps and waste thrown overboard was a sort of supper welfare state for the birds, and the free dinners made it unnecessary for the gulls to depend on their own talents to secure food.

But suddenly the shrimp fleet went away. New and more productive fishing grounds were located and the shrimp boats deserted St. Augustine.

The sea gulls haven't been able to adjust themselves to the new situation. According to an INS report, the reefs and the shores around St. Augustine are lined with long silent rows of gulls with their dark eyes turned prayerfully out to sea—waiting for the shrimp fleet and the free meals that won't return. Nature has played the sea gulls a dirty trick. As generation after generation of gulls learn to depend on the shrimp fleet instead of their own resources to obtain food, parent gulls apparently forgot to teach their little ones their age old methods of catching fish. So, today the gulls are starving. They are no different in physical makeup from the sea gulls of Fort Lauderdale. But, where as our gulls can exist through their own efforts, the gulls of St. Augustine are starving by the hundreds because their welfare state suddenly disappeared and with it went their ability to fend for themselves.

It's strange paradox that Nature thus gives us. Here we have some of the most independent creatures of the universe, who were given marvelous talents to take care of themselves, victimized because they succumbed for "something for nothing" sure.

We wonder how many Americans have swallowed the idea of the welfare state to the point where they think it is no longer necessary to teach their offspring that the day of government handouts and security for all may sometime draw to a close. And we wonder then how many Americans may be left like the gulls, puzzled and bewildered because their sustentances has disappeared and they have no resources of their own to fall back on.

There is the moral in this story of the sea gulls of St. Augustine. As a nation, we here in America have been singularly blessed with a tremendous capacity for using our skills and our ingenuities to ever improve our way of living.

We will keep those talents by continuing to use them. The minute we cast them aside as no longer necessary we will forfeit them as surely as the sea gulls of St. Augustine forfeited their talent to provide themselves with food.

Let's not be that foolish. Let's remember what happened to the gulls whenever we are tempted by the bureaucratic "shrimpers" to leave our own board and dine at the government scrap table of false security.

Billy J. Reasoner To Take Part In Seafair Festivities

Fifty-five ship task force 12 will give the residents of the Puget Sound area an impressive and spectacular view of U. S. Naval might upon their arrival in the Pacific Northwest Saturday, July 31st to take part in the annual Seattle "Seafair" and visits to Seattle, Tacoma, Everett and Bellingham, Wash. Taking part in the "Seafair" festivities and a visit to Tacoma Wash., aboard the escort aircraft carrier USS Badoeng Strait is Billy J. Reasoner, seaman, USN, husband of Mrs. Helen M. Reasoner of 148 Magnolia st. Burkburnett, Tex.

They will all eat. Several of the dairymen are busy at the present time in the county putting up silage. The crops being used mainly for silage are alfalfa, sorghums and corn. Brucellosis: Dairymen should start immediately to rid their herds of this disease. Official calfhood vaccination will probably be the most suitable program for most dairymen. Nuptial Vows Read For Patricia Gee, Wayne Ellis, July 31

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Ellis are on a wedding trip through Colorado and the Northwest following their wedding which took place Saturday evening July 31 at 6 o'clock in the home of the brides parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Gee in Burkburnett. The double ring ceremony was read by Rev. Hal Dean Mabry of this city, a boyhood friend and school mate of the groom. Miss Peggy Rinefeldt of Burkburnett and Mr. Ralph Bird of Odessa, were the only attendants.

White embroidered swiss Or-gandy over taffeta formed the brides gown, which was styled with fitted waist, low neck-line, short sleeves and a full skirt. Patricia graduated from Burkburnett High School and attended Midwestern University and North Texas State Teachers College at Denton. Wayne is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Ellis of Electra, Tex. He graduated from Electra High School and attended John Tarleton and Texas University before entering the Navy. He has just returned from Japan having served six months overseas. The beautiful traditional wedding cake was cut and served at the reception following the wedding ceremony at the Gee home. The young couple will make their home at Whidbey Island, Oak Harbor, Wash. where the groom is stationed. Those attending from out of town were, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Ellis of Electra, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bird of Odessa, Mrs. B. L. Myers and Christi of Lawton, Okla., Mrs. Elna Gamble, Electra, and Mr. Connie Gillum of Electra, Tex.

Raymond Schuette Receives Degree

Raymond L. Schuette of Burkburnett was among 600 university of Oklahoma students granted degrees Sunday during the University's summer commencement ceremonies. Baccalaureate services in Norman churches opened the one day graduation exercises, and special convocations were staged during the afternoon for Army, Navy and Air Force ROTC students receiving commissions. Schuette received the Master of Industrial Education degree. Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Taylor of Ft. Worth, are the proud parents of a new baby boy born August 4th at 6:20 a. m. The youngster weighed 9 lbs and has been named Edward Allen. Mrs. Taylor is the former Annie Boydston of this city.

The Dust Bowl

BY R. D. Laney

At Mesa Verde, in the state of Colorado, several centuries ago, the rains failed, the ingenious catch basins dried up, and family by family, clan by clan, many thousands of industrious farming people abandoned their homes and household goods and trekked on foot to where the rains fell and the streams flowed more abundantly. Again the rains failed, and the snow. And the winds came, darkening the sun and blanketing vast stretches of earth with tawny dust. Climaxing six years of drought as far east as the Mississippi river, a stroller thru the woods skuffed ankle deep in cracking leaves fallen from thirsty trees before August was done. And ranchers in Oklahoma's Cimarron and South Dakota's Rosebud counties piled their scant belongings on whatever vehicles were available and set out for lands less seared and parched. This was 20 years ago. Now for a period, the rains and snow have failed again. Winds of hurricane force have been blowing the soil from thousands of acres in the southern Great Plains. The ranchers are generally well fortified financially as compared to the 1930's so no mass exodus has yet begun. But climatic and soil conditions are severe, more severe say experienced observers, than those of the last big drought. So the situation is serious and the forecasts more so. The past in the new Dust Bowl is, of course clearer than the future. But the future, at least, is a bit more visible than it was. In the past years 1939 to the present have repeated roughly the years 1917 through the great drought of 1930-36. A great war, a great demand for grains high market prices, a wet cycle which encouraged speculative planting, followed by a dry cycle, which caught many ranchers "all spread out" and vast areas of dry country sod broken for the winds. The recent sequence contains two factors not present in the quarter century ago, the encouragement to speculative expansion implicit in 90 percent crop supports and the black blizzard" of February 19, 1954—a snowless blizzard of 70 miles an hour winds following an acutely dry winter which, it is estimated, in 24 hours did as much damage as two years of drought of the 1930's. What to do about water is a problem of a very difficult nature. But what to do about the people in this 1954 dust bowl is a more difficult one. The immediate consequences of the nation as a whole are blunted to a great extent by the fact that our land is one of plenty. Neither Americans nor others who look to American grainaries will want for food by reason of this drought and blowing soil because the rest of the land is so productive and because the vast surpluses of storage which hang over the governments efforts to keep farm prices from plummeting. But, if it were not for the people of the dust bowl and two other considerations, it might be wise to forget the semiarid plains and turn them back to the buffalo. One of these is the wind erosions, which can spread unchecked like peeling wall paper. The other is the nation's, and the world's growing population. The former has reached in 1954 the expert prediction of seven years ago for 1975. There will come a time when these acres are needed. Are these droughts a phenomenon of nature or is it man made? Probably both. It is the former in that both great and lesser cycles of drought have seemed to follow each other since long before the dawn of human history and they occasionally intensify through coincidence. It is also the latter in that during and after two great wars have broken the protective sod first to feed armies, and then for their own profit. And twice in a quarter of a century the drought years are taking their toll. That is history. Men today have means to repair their own damage and to adjust to what they cannot control in nature, means unknown to the Mesa Verde farmers of the 12th century, means and policies vastly improved by experiences of the 1930's. But these means and measures must be used promptly, intelligently, and with an eye to tomorrow as well as today. Mrs. Mamie Long is reported to be very ill at the present time and has been transferred to the home of her mother, 3rd door west of her home. I am sure her friends will appreciate knowing that she has been transferred there.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

"Nothing to Sneeze At"

This year our town decided to do something about its hay-fever sufferers. Hap Thomas is our health officer, so he was made rag-weed "inspector."

"Can't see why anybody should be bothered by a few weeds," he snorted. "I say it's all in their minds." But Hap went on out to do his job.

Then, yesterday, I met Hap—looking kind of sheepish. His eyes were red and as he took out a big handkerchief, he sneezed. "Know somebody who isn't allergic, who'd like a job?" asks Hap.

From where I sit, I can sympathize with Hap. It's no joke. But as Hap admitted later, he was dead wrong in scoffing at the idea of hay fever. Making light of other people's ideas and opinions is a familiar trouble with a lot of folks. Whether it's hay fever, football or a choice of, say, buttermilk or beer as a thirst-quencher, I'm just naturally "allergic" to anybody who "knows-it-all!"
