Chest X-rays at Drug Store Saturday, Sept. 4

Free chest X-Ray unit to Burkburnett Saturday, September 4th, is something everyone should be proud of. They patronize it when they have their one-day visit here. Chest X-Rays may be had from 9 A. M. to 6:00 P. M. on Saturday, including the noon hour.

Free visit of the X-Ray unit made possible by contributions to the Wichita County Medical Association. In the ongoing fight to discover the cause of TB, the mobile unit is one of the most important of all other measures.

That the mobile unit at Burkburnett this year is due to the efforts of Margaret Hall, Executive Director of the Wichita County Medical Association. Because of the number of Burkburnett who patronized the unit last year, the Executive Board felt that the expense was not justified by the results. However, Miss Hall's cause for Burkburnett has another chance for its return still another year.

Service is free. It takes but three minutes of time. GET YOUR FREE X-RAY AT THE CORNER DRUG STORE, SATURDAY, SEPT. 4th.

LIONS CLUB

Meets at Town Hall, 7:00 P. M. Each Tuesday

Haskell Draper, Water Dept. Supt., was a guest of the club. C. M. Archer and Charles W. Ainsworth were in charge of the program. Archer introduced J. V. Brookshead, president of the First National Bank, who spoke on "Good Public Relations."

In opening his talk, Mr. Brookshead said that probably 98 per cent of the people living in Burkburnett are living here because they want to. "Whether we do anything to make our town a better place, depends entirely upon each individual," Mr. Brookshead stated.

The speaker stated that each citizen of Burkburnett could be an ambassador of good will for the town. A good word here and there, concerning the merits of the town, might well pay desirable dividends later on. Mr. Brookshead listed the total physical assets of Burkburnett which are owned by its citizens, such as Water Dept. equipment, Sewer and Sanitary Depts., and the Municipal Light Plant. The total amounts to well over a million dollars. "We all own those assets," the speaker emphasized. "What we do with them is entirely up to us," he went on. "If we are a mind to, we can be entirely out of debt in a period of ten years. It is very likely that we can. Then the revenue from our utilities would pay all administrative costs and show quite a balance for street improvements, parks, and other things we want. And it would not be necessary to have any real estate tax, no street tax, no city tax at all! Then we could say to prospective home buyers or new home builders and businessmen, 'Come over to Burkburnett, where we have no city taxes, where we have no city taxes to pay of any kind.'"

Next week Newt Anthony and Wylie Browning will bring the program.

Rodeo Proceeds Go to Beautify Burk Cemetery

The Beautification Committee of the Unity Garden Club has completed plans for two nights of rodeo at Morgan Stadium. The Garden Club members have charge of all ticket sales, both advance sales and those at the gate on the nights of the rodeo.

We have planted more than 400 shrubs and Iris on the South side of the Cemetery, and present plans are under way for making a brick gateway at the entrance by the highway.

We want our citizens to be able to show pride in the appearance of our Cemetery. We take pride in our local yards and park; why not make the city of loved ones gone on, a more beautiful place?

Come out and enjoy the rodeo. All proceeds will go toward beautifying the Cemetery.

Grass Roots Opinion

Beaver Falls, Pa., News-Tribune—"The House may . . . vote for depriving convicted subversives of certain citizenship rights. Federal laws already prescribe that a citizen has voluntarily renounced citizenship by certain acts—voting in a foreign election, for instance, or serving in a foreign army. Also, laws in many states prescribe that if a citizen has been convicted of a felony, he may not vote, or hold office, or practice law, or obtain a state contract, etc."

Medford, Mass., Mercury—"The National Labor Relations Board recently ruled that an employer is not compelled to bargain with a union operating a rival business. The role of unions in business has become so extensive, that the committee urgently recommended that Congress should investigate fully the various business arrangements it found. It also recommended for contempt of Congress witnesses who refused to testify to their part in some of these business arrangements and the income it paid them."

Ketchikan, Alaska, Daily News—"To our mind, the most outstanding example possibly, of the Eisenhower administration is in bringing back the concept of honesty in government and fair play and freedom of action between private interests and government agencies."

International Falls, Colo., Plainsman—"The United States now has more than 17 million acres in tree farms, a fact which bespeaks considerable foresight on the part of a generation which has often been depicted as careless in its attitude toward natural resources."

Conservation Is A Local Matter

The President of the American Watershed Council, a national non-profit organization which believes that conservation is primarily a local matter, recently said that students of our water problems are generally agreed on three principles.

First, in the past too much emphasis has been placed on flood control and not enough on flood prevention. Second, generation of hydroelectric power should be incidental to the primary purposes of flood control, reclamation or navigation in the planning of water projects. Third, a broad base of co-operation should be substituted for present dependency on single-purpose government agencies.

Actually, past water policy has, in large measure, been framed by men whose main goal was socialization of the nation's electric power facilities, and the creation of an iron-clad government monopoly in this field. Enormously costly down-stream "flood control" dams were advocated and built which, when the time came, could do little or nothing about the floods, for the reason that they were full of water needed to turn the generators and produce power. The "big dam" craze was primarily the creation of socialist-minded cliques.

The three points made by the Watershed Council's president seem to be squarely in accord with present top-level thinking and the "partnership plan" for resources development. If such a plan is to succeed, the private power companies and local governments must be major factors, and the federal government must participate to the minimum extent. Then, and only then, can we have sound flood control and prevention coupled with efficient hydroelectric development. Last but not least, the saving to the taxpayers will be enormous.

Ideas Make Jobs

Where does a job come from?

A magazine published by one of our great chemical companies answers that in these words: "Unlike potatoes or apples, a job is not found in nature. It results from the marriage of a need and an idea. Its birthplace is the laboratory."

Then it gives an interesting illustration from this particular company's experience. Twenty odd years ago scientists in its employ produced a form of synthetic rubber which had outstanding qualities. Yet many were dubious as to its practical value, largely because it initially sold for a dollar a pound at a time when natural rubber sold for a nickel.

Still, the company had faith in this new product of the laboratory. Millions were spent to develop it and find uses for it. Manufacturing plants were built. The cost was brought down, while that of natural rubber rose. Finally the product caught on, and consumption doubled and tripled year after year.

Today the chemical company employs 2600 men to make and sell this synthetic rubber. Thousands of additional people have good jobs in other companies which convert the product into a long list of articles bought by ultimate customers. All that employment, which today contributes materially to our national income and our living standards, came out of the laboratory.

In short, the way to create more jobs, and still higher living standards, is to keep new ideas germinating—and to encourage men and companies to take the necessary risks and make full use of them.

WARNING!

TEXAS FARMERS-RANCHERS WARNED OF CIO LABOR PLANS

AUSTIN, Tex., Farmers and ranchers of Texas were warned this week that the CIO plans to organize the farm workers of Texas if its candidate wins the Governor's race.

This warning came from Governor Allan Shivers who charged that the backers of his opponents "want to turn the state government over to the same bunch that is trying to wreck Port Arthur." "One of the first things they would do is put one of their red-hot organizers from Port Arthur in as labor commissioner. Then every time a farmer or rancher wanted to hire someone he would have to go through the CIO."

Governor Shivers said there was no doubt in his mind that the aim of the CIO after the job of organizing industry in Port Arthur and along the Gulf Coast is finished is to begin organizing farm labor in all parts of Texas.

"You can imagine what will happen when the CIO starts dictating how many laborers are needed to plow ten acres of land, refusing to allow a man to work more than thirty-five hours a week during the harvesting season and telling how much a farmer can charge for his crop," he said.

The Shivers administration, the Governor said, has worked hard to help preserve and protect the rights of the working man.

"But as long as I am Governor, the professional labor bosses who have been sent to Texas from the East—specifically those in the CIO and its Political Action Committee—are not going to run our State Government," Shivers promised.

Shivers said the average working man in Texas appreciated good government and that they were not going to let CIO bosses and professional organizers from the East do their thinking—and voting—for them.

Legion Notes

Monday, August 30th marks the opening day of the 36th National Convention of The American Legion in Washington, D. C., which will extend through September 2nd. President Eisenhower will address The American Legion on this opening day. Other notables to speak at the Convention include Dr. Konrad Adenauer, Chancellor of the German Federal Republic; Cardinal Spellman of New York, and Henry Cabot Lodge, U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations.

VA Administrator Harvey V. Higley has advised The American Legion that while reductions in funds for regional office activities "does present a serious problem," he does not contemplate closing down any of these offices. In a letter to National Rehabilitation Director T. O. Kraabel of The American Legion, VA Chief Higley said he believed his agency could meet its "budgetary obligations" thru attrition. He declared that thru the "job freeze" and other administrative measures, he hoped to bring VA personnel "into line with available funds without a general reduction in force and without impairing service to veterans."

Tonight is our regular weekly meeting and we would like to have a good number present as we have several items we need to discuss and dispose of.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Chambers And Two Grandsons Have Extended Vacation Trip

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Chambers, with two of their grandsons, Barney Fudge and Joe Bowles, have just returned from a trip of sight seeing through New Mexico, Arizona, Utah and Colorado. It had just rained as they passed through Carlsbad, New Mexico and water was up to running board in the streets! On Highway 66 they were held up 5 hours because of high water. They saw and enjoyed Carlsbad Caverns, the Painted Desert, Petrified Forest, Grand Canyon, Jacobs Lode, crossed Wolf Creek Pass on the million dollar highway, and also the Red River Pass. The boys had a wonderful time.

If poverty is a blessing in disguise, the disgrace is perfect.

DO YOU WISH YOUR FARM WORKERS TO BE ORGANIZED BY CIO & YARBOROUGH?
(The following news item was taken from the Dallas Morning News of Sunday, August 22, 1954.)
San Diego, Texas—George B. Parr, the Duval County political power, said Ralph W. Yarborough would get his vote for Governor.
Parr interrupted a coffee-cup cafe conference with Roy Harrington of Austin, secretary-treasurer of the CIO State Council, to say that he was not particularly for Yarborough.
"It's just that I'm against Allan Shivers," said the political boss.
Parr said that on Wednesday night he went to Falfurrias to hear Yarborough make a campaign speech. Parr said he sat in the bleachers at the school stadium where Yarborough spoke and did not speak personally to the candidate. Some Parr-backed local officials sat on the platform with Yarborough.
"We haven't talked since before he announced," said Parr.

 Get a Job

School bells nearly ready to ring for the fall opening of the public schools, educational officials of the U. S. Department of Labor are concentrating on keeping employment from hampering youthful workers.

"The best, they say, for the youngster to finish his schooling before venturing into the working world on a permanent basis."

labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act generally prohibit the employment of children under 16 years of age in agriculture or other occupation covered by the law during hours when school is in session.

Regional Director William J. Rogers of Dallas, of the U. S. Labor Department's Wage-Hour Division here said such unlawful employment should not cheat youngsters of an education.

"The economic well being of individuals and communities is directly related to their levels of education," he said. "It is to the material interests of both to aid educational upgrading."

Since Congress enacted the law in 1938, he said he hoped it was generally understood to apply equally to local resident children and to migratory children.

It does not exempt a farmer's own children working on the parents' farm. But farmers are responsible under the law, the same as other employers, if they employ under age children during school hours.

Pedestrians May Cause Car Wrecks

"A pedestrian who disregards signs of life often is breaking the law," Col. E. B. Tilley of Houston, President of the Texas Safety Association, and Services Advisor for the Gulf Oil Corporation, emphasized this point today in speaking in connection with the "Signs of Life" traffic safety program being conducted this month by the Texas Safety Association, the Texas Department of Public Safety, and the National Safety Council.

"Pedestrians killed in traffic," he said, "often have been crossing at intersections against the signal, crossing intersections diagonally, or crossing between intersections."

"All these actions are violations of the law," he pointed out, "and usually are covered by signs of life."

"One out of four traffic victims is a pedestrian," he said, "and more than half the people killed in city traffic are pedestrians.

"Certainly many deaths could be avoided if pedestrians crossed streets at the proper places, and obeyed traffic signs of life where they are provided."

It's a mistake to think that signs of life are for motorists only, according to Col. Tilley. Actually, they're intended to guide and protect pedestrians as well.

"Both drivers and pedestrians," he said, "will do well to heed the slogan of the Texas Safety Association, the Texas Department of Public Safety and the National Safety Council, 'Know Your Signs of Life.'"

State Capitol NEWS

By VERN SANFORD
 Texas Press Association

Saturday will tell the tale. That thought is undoubtedly uppermost in the minds of gubernatorial candidates Allan Shivers and Ralph Yarborough—and thousands of Texas voters who have followed the fiery campaign from infancy to its high tempo climax.

As August 28th approached, Governor Shivers and Judge Yarborough stepped up their respective campaigns. Both made special appeals to the thousands of potential balloters who shunned the polls in the first primary.

In rallies and radio broadcasts over the state, the governor told listeners that good, sound state government was the only medium through which Texas could continue its prosperity.

"This is no time to start experimenting. This is no time to throw the state government into complete turmoil," Shivers said as he pictured Texas' present financial and economic picture as bright.

Shivers said that the state is now free of depression, that industry and employment are now "booming".

"Most families are now better set financially with money in the bank, and the state government has a balance of $27 million with which to work improvements," the governor explained.

He underlined the evils of government leaders trying to buy public support with public money as "leading down the road of waste, extravagance, and corruption".

Shivers also lashed out at the claim that he had broken a political pledge given at the 1952 Democratic Convention.

"My opponent has charged that I pledged to support whomever was nominated at the 1952 Democratic Convention," he said.

Shivers read from the convention record that the only pledge he made was to put the Democratic national nominees' names on the Texas ballot. That was done, he said.

In a skirmish over the labor-union vote, the governor accused Yarborough of being "ashamed" that every strong CIO box went for the Austin attorney in the first primary.

Shivers, who has claimed that outside labor organizations are supporting Yarborough, said that Yarborough had now turned his back on his supporters by claiming that the union boxes had gone for Shivers.

Shivers also reported that 59 members of the State House of Representatives had announced their support of him for governor.

White, Porter Spar
 State Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has charged that the Texas drought relief plan for stockmen may prove a failure if "Republican political ambitions" are not separated from the program.

White accused Jack Porter, Republican national committeeman from Texas, and other Republican leaders with blocking the effectiveness of the program.

Porter in turn stated that Mr. White was angry "because New Dealers are being replaced with people who believe in sound principles of government."

White said that in his three years of drought relief work it had never been necessary to clear anything through national committees of either party.

He had earlier stated that the FHA, administering the program, was being made to depend on the Republican committee for its policies in drought relief.

Burk 4-H Club Boy Has Outstanding Garden Producing

By B. T. Haws, County Agent

Here in dry West Texas where vegetable gardens are few and far between and most of those are early spring gardens, it is unusual to find a garden that has been producing vegetables for five months and is still producing in the latter part of August. BOB BATES, one of Wichita County's outstanding 4-H Club boys, has a good demonstration of how hard work and proper care will pay off. Here is Bob's story about his garden.

"First I plan my garden. The plot is 38x100 feet, and as I run the rows lengthwise, usually one or one and one-half rows of each vegetable is enough for our family of four. I select vegetables that my family likes best and that will grow in this hot dry climate. I use the leaflet put out by the Iowa Park Experimental Station which lists the varieties of vegetables recommended for Wichita County, and the best planting dates for each. I have found that I have a much better garden when I use these recommended varieties.

"In the fall I always start preparing the land for my garden the next spring. In the fall of 1952 I applied 10 loads of manure and turned it under. Last year I thought it would help the land more to have a cover crop. I planted alfalfa then in the spring I turned it under. I also applied 500 lbs. of gypsum in the spring and turned it under. This is recommended for our irrigated land to break up the hard pan. Then I harrowed the land and made the rows.

"I bought seed that were already treated. I had my garden soil analyzed and found that it was low in nitrogen and phosphate so at the time of seeding I added 16-20-0. This year there was practically no insects, not enough to use control measures. However, some years the insects are bad, and I keep them under control by spraying with insecticides as recommended by the County Agent. I irrigate when the garden needs it. This year it was irrigated three times. "Most of the produce is used at home, however if there is any surplus I find a ready market among the neighbors. This year in addition to what we used from day to day, my mother has frozen 130 containers of vegetables.

"This year my pride and joy has been my okra patch. This is approximately 1-4 acre which is separate from the garden. So far I have sold $30.00 worth of okra, making a profit of $25.00. I sell it to a large super market at a premium price. The okra is still doing fine and I am cutting it regularly. It looks as if I will be selling okra until frost."

Texas Is One of the Iron Producing States

It may come as a surprise to many that Texas is one of the iron producing states of the nation. This information comes from "Steel Facts", in the August edition.

And Texas is by no means on the bottom of the list in net tons capacity. In fact, Texas is ahead of some thirteen other iron producing states.

Fort Worth has one plant, with a capacity of 36,000 tons per year.

Houston has two plants, Lone Star one, Longview one, and Pampa one. The total capacity for all these plants totals the sum of 1,789,900 net tons.

Burk Fans Honor Baseball Players

Local fans honored members of the Burkburnett Boomers baseball team and their families with a chicken barbecue at the City Light Plant Tuesday night at 7:00 o'clock.

Country Owen, Burkburnett manager, requests his players to bring their baseball uniforms to him so they can be put into storage until next season.

Out of town guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph White this week are Mrs. White's mother, Mrs. Lula Mathews, of San Antonio, Texas, and grandsons David Winkles of Velma, Oklahoma, and Douglas and Jimmy Morris of Abilene, Texas.

Grain Offers for Insects

Grain insects are becoming more numerous than ever before. The grain producers of the enormous loss annually by various insects. It has been estimated that the nation's grain a month. The insects are not clean with grain or due to moisture and high temperatures which are incident up of insect infestations usually are the active insects attack grain. The rice or corn weevil is the most important weevil found in practical grain. The rice or corn weevil is a strong flier and about one-eighth of an inch long. These insects may be found in the field about the time the grain begins to ripen. The weevil is slightly larger than the rice weevil but it consequently, infestation is more limited. Both adults are destructive weevils. They will remove clean grain. Fumigants are several fumigants that are effective for killing stored grain insects. These are formulated as various combinations under different trade names. The dosages also vary some according to the ingredients used in the formulations and directions for use as given on the label should be followed, according to B. T. Haws, Wichita County Agriculture Agent.

Some fumigants commonly used are:

- 1 part carbon tetrachloride plus 3 parts ethylene dichloride.
- 4 parts carbon tetrachloride plus 1 part carbon disulphide.

There are various other combinations of chemicals used as fumigants. Ethylene dibromide, sulphur dioxide, acrylonitrile, methyl bromide, trichlorethylene and benzene are the names of some of the chemicals often used. Manufacturing and formulating companies sell fumigants under trade names, however, the ingredients are given on the label. There also are variations as to the dosages required for different combinations and it is therefore necessary to follow instructions given on the label. Fumigants properly applied will penetrate grain and give good insect control to a depth of 10 to 12 feet.

Grains are often infested before they are harvested. Therefore, in many instances, grain should be fumigated as soon as stored. Frequent inspections (not less than once each two weeks) should be made. Probe samples should be taken at various areas and depths throughout the grain in the bin. The grain samples should be examined thoroughly and the presence of weevils or other stored grain insects indicates need for fumigation.

Herbert Hoover

By R. D. Laney

The little town of West Branch, Iowa, on August 10, honored the son of a village blacksmith and a Quaker school teacher whose name has become known around the world. If anyone could qualify for the description of a citizen of the world, it is Herbert Hoover. Yet he at the same time epitomizes rugged adherence to American traditions and confidence in the American people. He returned to the white clapboard cottage where he was born to receive a round of official honors celebrating his 80th birthday.

That he has proved so vigorous and enduring as to give his native town the opportunity to celebrate his eightieth birthday is a cause for gratification. Among other things, it has given his countrymen a better opportunity to evaluate his enormous contributions to the United States and to express their appreciation for them. He came prepared to deliver a major speech on foreign and domestic policies. The little town of West Branch—population 700—expected some 50,000 persons to converge on the green and manicured lawns that now surround Mr. Hoover's birthplace. The little town bedecked itself with flags and banners, and happily prepared for the engulfing of the many expected to arrive for the celebration.

Texas State Dept. of Health

Dr. Henry A. Holle, M. D.

Dr. Henry A. Holle, State Health Officer in outlining the duties of the Texas State Department of Health, said in a statement today that public health programs are designed to benefit all the people.

"In an effort to prevent diseases," Dr. Holle said, "the Texas State Health Department carries on an educational program informing the public as to how they can secure protection by vaccination against smallpox, typhoid fever, and immunization against diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus; by investigating sources of disease outbreaks; by isolating those ill with communicable diseases; inspection of water supplies; advocating the production and use of safe milk to prevent the occurrence of milk borne diseases and many other services to the public."

Dr. Holle said that in spite of preventive measures, people will become ill and accidents will happen. In general, the cure of sickness in the individual and the repair of accidents fall within the scope of the duties of the private practitioner of medicine and surgery. "Of course," he said, "the private practitioner of medicine is also engaged in prevention of disease when he advises mothers to have their children and family protected against those diseases for which there is a known preventive."

The general practitioner and the State Department of Health both advocate that it is better to remain healthy than it is to recover from an illness, but the State Department of Health is engaged in the prevention and control of disease as it affects the general population of a community or state.

Herbert Hoover

self-reliance, which took an orphan farm boy through a pioneer university to a place of wealth and recognition in the mining world. It then became a symbol for humanitarianism through relief work during and after World War I. His prepared address was largely devoted to the 20 year period between the end of his own administration in 1932 and the election of Dwight D. Eisenhower. Much of it discussed the foreign policies pursued during those years by the United States — especially with respect to the Soviet Union.

Other major sections, however, set forth Mr. Hoover's views on what he called "socialism" and on his contention that the original pattern of American Government—the separation of powers among the three main branches—have suffered dangerous changes. Meanwhile, he said, communism was beginning to take hold in the United States. He declared, however: "The rank and file of our people are immune from this infection. The recruiting grounds for their agents are from our minority of fuzzy minded intellectuals and labor leaders."

Prior to his speech he first visited the three room cottage where he was born. It stands on the corner of Penn and Downey Streets in West Branch, a tiny dwelling, gleaming with whitewash and shaded with ancient trees. It has two rooms, one of which is mainly filled by a large double bed with rope springs. The other contains the yellowing photographs of Mr. Hoover's family, going back to his grandparents, his books, and his baby high chair. A shed, built onto the house, officially constitutes a third room. Mr. Hoover lived here until he was nearly six years old. His father was the village blacksmith, his mother a Quaker school teacher. Both passed away before he was 10, and he then went to live on a near by farm with one of his uncles.

Historians will tell of Mr. Hoover's rise to when it came to mean the President of the United States, but in an era fraught with economic disaster, so that one of the ironies of history linked the humanitarian with world depression. But the injustice of this judgment has become evident as the story of that period is written and especially as the Hoover name again has come to symbolize unselfish service in a host of activities undertaken in private life. The world as well as Iowa is happy to salute a career that symbolizes character and service, such as was rendered by Herbert Hoover.

According to law, a minimum of three people may create a riot.

IT'S UP TO YOU

By Howard E. Kershner, L.H.D.

The founding of America was unique; no other modern nation has a heritage such as ours. Our country was founded by God-fearing men and women, who came to a new world seeking religious freedom and economic opportunity. America was founded on a dream of a better society.

Over 100 years ago, the French philosopher DeToqueville, sought at length for the secret of America's greatness in her resources, schools, Constitution and Congress. Guess where he found it. In the Churches! "Not until I went into the Churches of America and heard her pulpits flame with righteousness did I understand the greatness and genius of America. America is great because America is good. If America ever ceases to be good, America will cease to be great."

Freedom derives from the principles taught in the Bible. Wherever the scriptures have been earnestly studied, ideals of freedom have sprung up. Such ideals had been cherished by many men and women in England, Holland, Switzerland and elsewhere. The boldest of these people became the colonists who founded our country, bringing with them these great ideals of freedom.

The Bible teaches that men are created in the image of God, created to be His children. A king or a dictator is no more important in God's sight than a commoner. All men are equal before Him. Furthermore, the Bible vigorously stands for social justice and righteousness; for the rights of the common man; for brotherhood and for fair competition without coercion.

It is clear that our faith, rooted and grounded in the Bible, has given to us our zeal for freedom. In these days of ideological conflict it is most important that we know what we believe. Religion is the strongest defense our nation can have.

Biblical faith has brought us the blessing of freedom. May we stand on that faith and do our part that America may be a land of brotherhood, and righteousness, a beacon and a hope to other peoples of the earth.

Let us heed DeToqueville's warning and continue to be God-fearing, Bible reading, church-going men and women, that America's greatness may not depart from us.

"Johnny Dark" Dishes Up A Real Romantic Wallop at Palace Theatre

Headlong excitement literally screams from the screen of the Palace Theatre, where the Technicolor production of "Johnny Dark" opens Friday. Equally thrilling is the woo Tony Curtis and Don Taylor pitch at Piper Laurie—and the danger all three live in the world of the super-speedy sports car.

The three stars start out bucking hidebound tradition and wind up breaking all kinds of records and giving audiences all kinds of spine-tingling action. Tony is the designer, Piper the stylist and Don the driver of a radical new sports car model which Tony's conservative employers refuse to back. The two men mix their own joint determination with fervent competition for the red headed stylist's heart to a point where they roar over every obstacle in sight and darn near break all three hearts in the process.

A superb climax is the border to border sports car road race, from Canada to Mexico. Photographed at roadside level, from helicopter and from higher-flying airplane, the race varies with the panorama of the countryside and piles up thrill after thrill until the finish line is crossed in Mexico.
