President Carl Campbell was in charge. Paul Browning gave the invocation.

Manager Tommie Oglethorpe read minutes of the previous meeting, which were approved.

Ross Reagan reported on the Area Development Committee meeting held recently in Ryan, Oklahoma. Another meeting is scheduled in Electra, Wednesday, July 13th, and each one urged to bring a farmer friend as a guest.

Good Insurance Favors Policyholder

Not many people read or understand their insurance policies. When you want to know something about your insurance, consult your insurance man. He is ready, willing and able to help you.

An insurance salesman here brought us a letter from the company he represents. We quote in part:

"For your information Policy No. 318545 was issued January 17, 1934 for $5,000.00. This policy lapsed for nonpayment of the premium due October 17, 1944. At that time there was sufficient equity to the credit of the policy to carry it as Extended Term Insurance in the amount of $5,000.00, to May 17, 1956."

The man the policy was issued to died some time this year before May 17th. His widow believed the policy to be worthless because it had lapsed. But, the insurance company paid her the full $5,000.00.

If you have paid on a policy for a number of years, depending upon the kind of insurance, it may carry itself for several years, even though you make no more premium payments.

Check with your insurance salesman when in doubt.

Visiting in the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Johnson are James, Bill and Joe Johnson of Magnolia, Ark.

Little League Baseball Games

Two groups of Little Leaguers went to Electra last Friday with their supervisor, A. H. Richardson, to play ball.

In the 14-17 age group, Electra won 9 to 6.

The Burk boys, 9-14 years old, won from Electra 10 to 4. The winners were reversed to what they were when Electra came over here a week ago.

Next week a team of Sheppard Junior Jets, ages 11-12, will play a like age group here.

Pictures 50c Each

Pictures of the little ball players, either groups or individuals, may be purchased for 50c each. Turn your orders in to A. H. Richardson.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., News-Tribune: "Gas is vital to the general well-being and we want at all times an assured and ample supply, at a fair price. We want no Federal regulation—that will hamper the development of additional gas supplies and its transmission to our local industrial and household users."

NEW HOLSTEIN, Wis., Reporter: "During the conflict between Joseph Stalin and Leon Trotsky for control of the Communist machine in Russia in 1924, a blueprint of world conquest was drafted by the Stalinites. Stalin wrested control from Trotsky and later had him murdered. This blueprint of conquest, according to Dr. Fred Schwarz the noted Australian scholar on Communism, calls for the conquering of Asia first, then Africa, then Western Europe then to isolate, degenerate and, if necessary, devastate the United States."

ODESSA, Tex., American: "It may be true that unionism protects some persons, but for every person aided by union compulsion, at least one other is injured. A man who is kept on at his job by a union after he has demonstrated his incompetence, is merely keeping some other man who is more competent from having gainful employment. The incompetent is protected, the competent discriminated against. Economically, the result is less production per dollar spent, wherefore higher prices for consumers."

WEST POINT, Miss., Daily Times Leader: "While sound spending and economy are all important, it is well to remember that if people bought only what they need this would be a poor country indeed. Our actual needs, you know are simple. It is for this reason that we encourage folks to wear better clothes, to ride in automobiles, to invest in labor-saving appliances, and to attend the ball games and the movies. Otherwise, business volume would diminish, a lot of folks would be thrown out of employment, and our civilization would be little better than that maintained by the Indians."

BASSETT, Va., Henry County Journal: "Ours is a profit and loss system. Any time the possibility of loss is eliminated you can be as certain that the system has been destroyed as you could be if the opportunity for profit were no longer available."

EASY PREY

It is said that once a lion discovers human-beings are easy prey he will abandon his usual diet and dine strictly on people.

This kind of reasoning is not confined to the king of beasts. Tramps are supposed to leave a secret mark on the doors of homes where they have been received with open-handed hospitality. Swindlers and confidence men exchange "sucker lists" of people who are susceptible to gyp schemes. Shrewd salesmen have a way of picking out a gullible customer on whom the white elephants in the inventory can be unloaded.

Similarly, government—when looking for more tax money, stalks those particular taxpayers it considers easy prey — the groups rated unlikely to put up an effective defense.

Unfortunately for the gasoline consumers of this country, they seem to have a reputation for being the easiest to prey of all. This line of thinking shows up sharply in the proposed national highway program now before the U. S. Congress. The program itself has been advocated on the grounds that it's essential to national and civil defense. This means it's a program designed to benefit every American in every walk of life. But when it comes to providing the money to pay for this program, just one group of citizens is tapped: The motorists and other consumers of gasoline.

That's why Congress, without even the formality of a public hearing, has advanced a proposal to boost the two cents per gallon federal gasoline tax 50 percent for defense roads and pile other new special taxes on motor vehicle owners.

There's no logic behind this proposal, no logic at all. The federal gasoline tax has never been connected with roads—up to now. Furthermore, national defense programs are supposed to be supported by all the people. That's traditional. No one group pays a special tax to build battleships or bombers.

The fact is, the gasoline consumer is the very first name on government's sucker list, and has been for years. Look at the top-heavy state and federal taxes he's already paying on gasoline.

In the lion country, whenever one of these great beasts turns man-hunter, the whole community joins in forces until the lion learns that man is not such easy prey as he had seemed. Not until the 70,000 licensed drivers of this country make a similar vigorous and combined effort in their own self-defense will they rid themselves of the reputation that puts their name first on the menu of predatory tax spenders.

Edwin Draper At Summer Camp

Edwin L. Draper, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Draper of Burkburnett, Tex., was among 1200 blue-helmeted university students participating in the Ft. Hood Army ROTC Summer Camp as they climaxed their second week of intensive field training in a colorful regimental parade.

The parade was the first of three such military ceremonies scheduled to be held during the six weeks encampment, according to Lt. Col. James C. Cross, PMS&T from Texas Christian University, the Camp S-3. All eight ROTC companies each about 150 strong, took part in these ceremonies and will take part in the two ceremonies scheduled for July 15 and 20.

The students, here from 27 colleges and universities in the 4th Army area, are rotated daily in command positions so as to give maximum leadership training. Each of the parades, then will feature different students in positions of regimental and battalion commanders and staff, company commanders and platoon leaders.

Highlights of the first two weeks of training completed by the 4th Army area military science students include inspectional visits to Army units, firing of weapons common to several branches of the Army, tactical problems and other exercises in which they apply university classroom theory to work in the field.

Johnson Grass Licked At Last

Farmers can now get rid of Johnson grass completely without swinging a hoe.

Spot application of diessel and naphtha-type oil sprays is proving a practical answer to row crop control of Johnson grass, according to B. T. Haws, county agent. At college Station, four treatments of such oils killed 99 percent of all Johnson grass in cotton stands in one season. Four trips over a similar field with hand hoes eliminated only 44 percent of the grass.

Homer E. Rhea, agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Experiment station who has been working with various Johnson grass killers, believes that successful spot oiling of Johnson grass is highly significant.

"It does away with intensive hand labor methods which few farmers can afford these days," Rhea said.

Varsol 1, Lightfoot 23, No-weed Oil, Lion 1 and Flit 38 are among commercial preparations to use. An ordinary knapsack sprayer applying a half and half mixture of one of these oils and diesel fuel will do the job, Rhea explained. About one-third of a teaspoon of oil mixture on the stem near the base of each plant is sufficient for results. Best kills are obtained on young grass.

Within hours after the initial treatment Johnson grass usually is shriveled and killed to ground level. To completely eradicate the roots and prevent later re-sprouting repeated oilings at interval of 7 to 10 days may be necessary. This usually means four to six treatments.

Rea has the cost of application figured at $14.10 an acre, counting oil and labor. The cost, of course will vary with the amount of oil used and the intensity of Johnson grass infestation.

Neither Rain Nor Heat ... Nor Broken Boxes

Red Fowler, local R.F.D. mailman, got an English car—with a right-hand drive so he can stuff mailboxes from behind the wheel.

"It's great!" Red reports. "But it would work a lot better if all box holders would follow regulations. A mailbox should be 40 inches high, on the right of the road... within reaching distance from a car window. If one is knocked down, the owner should make repairs pronto."

Come to think of it, Red is pretty good about his obligations—delivering packages, supplying stamps, cashing money and saving us trips to the Post Office. Let's fix up those boxes so he can get his chores done fast.

From where I sit, obligations always work both ways. For instance, I figure that I'm able to respect your right to enjoy your favorite beverage—be it coffee, tea, beer, buttermilk or whatever. Why? Because I expect you to do the same for me. The Golden Rule should be followed "to the letter" by everyone.

Dr. Henry A. Holle, M. D.

The present trend to "do it yourself" results in a lot of happy hobbyists but "do it yourself" in case of illness is foolish and dangerous, declared Dr. Henry A. Holle, Commissioner of Health. Too many of our citizens, when indisposed, jump at conclusions as to what is wrong with them and go to drug store for a bottle of advertised medicine. This ignoring of the existence of physicians and relying upon self-diagnosis is a bad gamble with ill health. For these persons, for all practical purposes, have isolated themselves as far as medical service is concerned. In fact, they persist in this ignorant or careless complacency until they become acutely ill, when at last they call for professional medical service, which frequently is too late. It is indeed too bad that so many persons deliberately raise a barrier between themselves and the family physician. Considering him only as supplementary aid when the situation gets personally out of hand, there are literally thousands who thru delay have made it impossible for medical science to render its best service and thus were penalized by a protracted illness, a chronic disease, or the premature termination of life. It follows that many people, with great profit could surrender this "do it yourself" idea and appreciate the physician for what he really is. When his abilities are more generally given an opportunity to be applied early, when his advice on living habits is sought, and when he is considered as the only person to be relied upon to conserve health and treat illness, then and then only, will the present remarkable service that medical science stands ready to give be afforded its maximum opportunity for good.

Showing water is mainly a matter of thinking about the subject whenever you turn a faucet. Here are some suggestions on ways to save:
Showers usually require 25 gallons of water, baths, 36. Reduce these figures by turning off the shower while soaping and turning it on again to rinse and save 15 gallons. Substitute a partly filled tub for a full one and save 16 gallons.
Washing dishes under running water can use up to 30 gallons per meal. You can save by using a dishpan or sinkstopper.
Letting the water run all the time you are brushing your teeth is wasteful.
Use the basin instead of the shower for a shampoo.
Turn off the hot-water faucet when shaving and save up to 25 gallons of water.
It is usually best to keep your water heater on an even setting. If you want to know whether you are using average amount of water, read your meter at the beginning and end of a representative period and calculate your consumption per person per day. If its 25 to 35 gallons, that's pretty good. Fifty is about average. Anything above that is too high for household use.

Dehorning For Beef Cattle

Horns and choice beef carcasses do not go together. Feeders having horns, says B. T. Haws, county agent, do not feed out so well as dehorned cattle. Badly bruised carcasses are usually found in shipments of horned animals. These bruises detract from the appearance of the carcasses and lower their sale value. Aside from the damage to the meat the hide is frequently damaged as a result of cattle going one another. In general, dehorned cattle usually command better prices in the market than horned cattle of similar quality and condition, says Haws.
Miss Judy Jackson of Archer City visited her aunt, Mrs. M. C. Ring, here last week.

Finer Eggs, Higher Price For The Fall

Production from egg laying flocks is expected to dip five per cent or more this fall below the same period last year commanding at least seasonal and perhaps higher prices for producers. "Farmers have raised 19 percent fewer replacement chicks this year," B. T. Haws, county agent explains. It appears that fall flocks will be six to eight percent smaller than a year ago. While the number of replacement chicks started over the nation closely parallels farmer's February 1 intentions in Texas and other South Central states the cutback has exceeded the expected 15 percent mark. Poultrymen who bought replacement stock during the first four months of 1955 will profit most from the situation because of high egg yields at times when prices are more favorable. The county agent suggests that raisers starting chicks next September still may take advantage of some of the expected favorable prices during the second quarter of 1956.

Robert W. Martin of Ft. Benning, Ga., is spending a ten day furlough with his foster mother, Mrs. M. C. Ring.

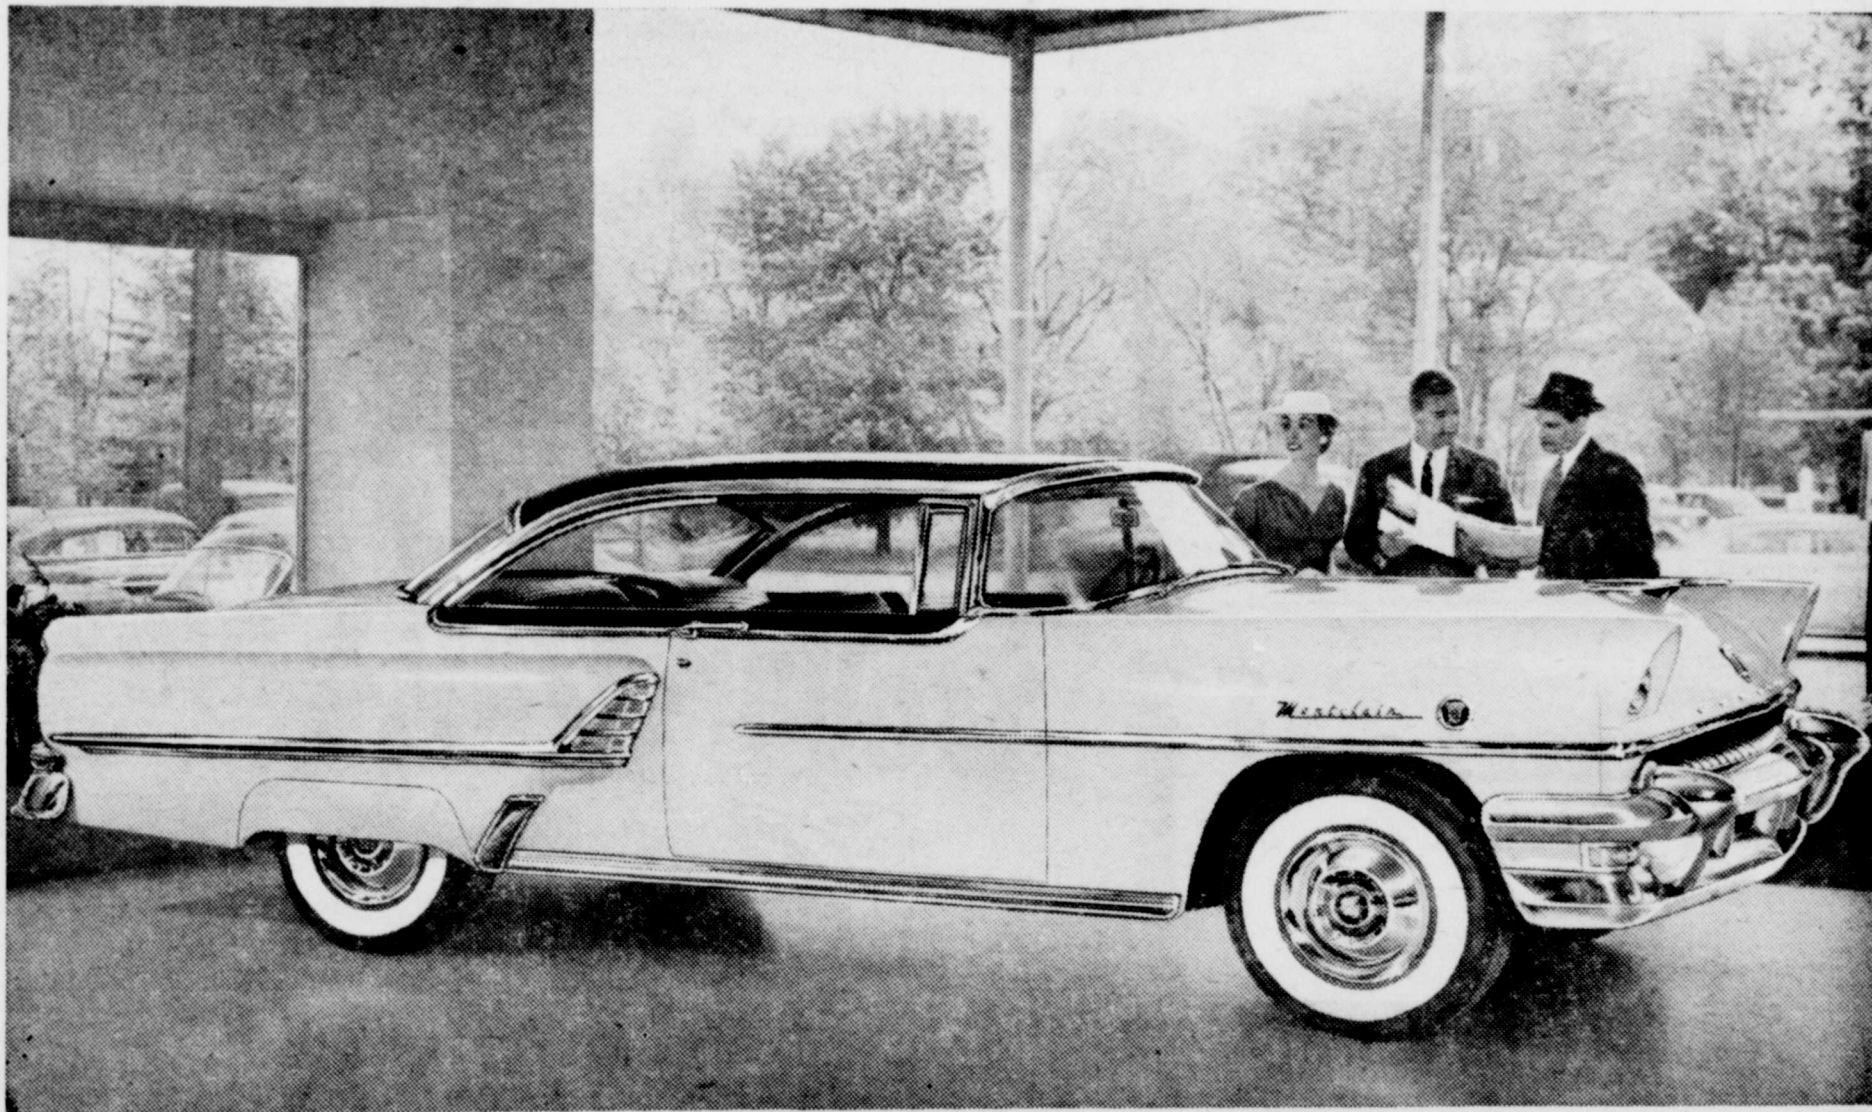

Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Wise have returned from an enjoyable two-weeks tour thru six states and visiting relatives in Portland, Oregon. They report the scenes were very green, beautiful and cool.

fifth annual awards to be made under Continental Oil Company's college scholarship plan, which was created in 1950 in observance of the company's 75th anniversary. The scholarship competition is open to son and daughters of active, retired and deceased employees of Continental who have service spans of at least five years.

All 40 previous winners of Conoco scholarships were eligible to have their scholarships renewed and thus far none has failed to renew. Previous Conoco Scholarships winners from this area include Donna Joan Clugston, Ft. Worth; and Leslie Carnes, Iowa Park.

The Electra student was selected, along with the other nine winners, on the basis of high school record, character, leadership and seriousness of purpose by a committee comprising three nationally known educators and a member of President Eisenhower's cabinet. They are Dr. William V. Houston, president of The Rice Institute, Houston; Dr. George L. Cross, president of the University of Oklahoma, Norman; Dr. John W. Vanderwilt, president of the Colorado School of Mines, Golden; and Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, Houston and Washington, Secretary of Health, education and welfare.

Miss Jones not only stood near the top of her high school class, but was an active member of the high school band, the dramatic club and church youth activities. She plans to attend the University of Texas or Midwestern University to study modern languages.

Baked Plains

By R. D. Laney

was the description of the part of West Texas as part of this great state. It is not too realistic in the fact that things have changed beyond any wild expectations in the past 60 years. Only parts of Texas, but the Colorado were the vast areas comprising a vast arid lands which included the southern foothills of the Rockies and the slopes of the Rockies in Mexico and Arizona. The high desert lands had an enduring race, the Navajo, who were drawn to the west by the lure of the gold and silver. They were drawn to the west by the lure of the gold and silver. They were drawn to the west by the lure of the gold and silver.

sails curled, tugging at its hawsers. In the valleys between these mountains is a welter of pink arroyos, fantastically eroded cliffs and flat topped mesas like yardsticks impudently measuring the illimitable sky. All along the arid hills is flung the polka-dot design of dwarf pinon and juniper trees like yardage spread out for sale on copper toned counters. These same arid lands are the storehouses for all the colors of the world in all variations, combinations and shading, more than the mind can name or eye define.

In July comes the intensities of a relentless sun, scorching winds and long months of drought. Shadows come early in the desert and with the dipping sun flame and purple fan out hurriedly, pointing long fingers which curve across the sky and touch the mountain peaks with color. Down below, the smooth empty foothills turn to russet and fold into a desolate valley.

In the spring you may see the desert bloom like a rose. You may watch the great uplifted arms of Joshua trees framing segments of starstrewn desert sky and know where the ocotillo sways its green-grey limber whips and decorates them every spring with dingle-danies of coral bead flowers. You may see this for hundreds of miles, but not with mantled bloom! Those blooms were the maroon, white, scarlet, yellow, pink roses of desert cacti.

Decades have not swallowed the Corn dancers of the Pueblo people, the Night Chants of the Navajos, and the winging shuttle of weavers in abode villages where Spanish labels still blow along sun-baked plaza like the whisper of a half-remembered song.

News From The Congress

By FRANK IKARD

Hearings are now being held before the House Foreign Affairs Committee on Article 7 of the "Status of Forces Treaty" which makes American troops based in NATO Nations subject to criminal procedures of the courts of the country where the troops are based. We also have a similar treaty with Japan. Under this treaty the troops stationed in foreign countries who are parties to this treaty can be tried for any crime that they might be accused of in the courts and under the laws of that foreign country. There unquestionably should be revisions made in the treaty and this provision modified. Our military personnel serving aboard certainly must not be allowed to avoid punishment of any crime they might commit, but even more important, they are entitled and must be assured the guarantees of the type of justice which this country would provide for them and which we guarantee to all of our citizens. It is absolutely wrong that this Nation should require its youth to go abroad for the purpose of helping maintain freedom in the world and at the same time refuse to guarantee to these American soldiers the very freedom which they seek to preserve. Immediate action needs to be taken here in the Congress to correct this intolerable situation.

It is too early of course, to really evaluate the work done by this session of Congress; however, as the session comes to a close, it is evident that during this session we have seen less partisanship than at any other time in recent years. Generally speaking, most issues have been presented strictly on their merit and without effort generally to bring out what are generally considered to be strictly partisan votes. The result has been that the work of the Congress has been carried on much smoother and with fewer of the pointless personal and partisan issues consuming as much time as they have in the past. There is no question but what the country generally has profited by this attitude.

I have a very limited number of a document containing the Prayers offered by the Rev. Peter Marshall at the opening of the daily sessions of the Senate from 1947-1949. If anyone would like a copy of these Prayers, I would be glad for them to drop me a note and to furnish a copy as long as my supply lasts. Visitors from home this week were Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Ward, and Mrs. Eula Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Staley and son Carr, all of Wichita Falls.

"On Waterfront" With Lee J. Cobb And M. Brando

Not since he created the part of Willie Loman, the salesman whose goal in life was to be liked in the Broadway production of "Death of a Salesman," has Lee J. Cobb had such an "actors" part as Johnny Friendly the racketeer waterfront boss in Columbia Pictures' new Marlon Brando romantic thriller, "On The Waterfront", co-starring Karl Malden at the Palace Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, June 17-19 and the vehicle for the haunting debut of lovely blonde Eva Marie Saint.

As Willie Loman, Cobb played a traveling salesman defeated by life and his dreams. As Johnny Friendly he goes to the opposite extreme. He is a dynamic, ruthless extrovert, who lives by jungle law where the city meets the sea. He is a racketeer union leader whose longshore workers must be either deaf and dumb to his crimes or dead.

Johnny Friendly is a complex character, a contradictory character. Essentially a thief, he climbed to the top in the world of the waterfront. But there is a sentimentality to Johnny Friendly, as portrayed by him. He has a soft spot for Brando, one of his hoodlums, whom he used to the ball games when a kid. He's a soft touch, any rummy on the dock not good for a fin any more put the arm on me. He raised us ten kids on a watchman's pension. He's to be brutal: "Take me local took a little douch pretty tough fellas were way."

Mrs. C. A. Morgan was hostess for a meeting of Unity Garden Club on July 19th at 2:00 P. M.

This work shop meeting study and practice only. Members are requested to bring available material and a container that harmonizes the plant material.

The study: Harmony. —Reporter
