School Children: Put Social Security Card In Safe Place

It's time for school again. Now that you are returning to classes after your summer vacation you probably won't be carrying on the job you've had this summer. So you probably won't need your social security account number card again until the Christmas holidays or, maybe until next spring.

Well, what should you do with your social security card in the meantime? You should take care of it and put it in a safe place at home so you will have it the next time you need it.

Take care of your card. Don't lose it. If you do lose it, apply for a duplicate at any social security office or obtain an application blank for a duplicate at your local post office.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

NORTHPORT, N. Y., Observer: "In Italy — a state-imposed guaranteed annual wage has caused mass unemployment. Employers hesitate to take on the responsibilities of hiring new workers. The largest power company stretches out a five year building program to 10 or 15 years to avoid the liability of hiring new crews. The manufacturer of Italy's fast selling new motor scooters prefers to pay overtime wages at double and triple rates—to hiring new workers who would come under the GAW. The same thing could happen here."

SHELDON, Iowa, Mail: "The elements in our country that for one reason or another wish to weaken private enterprise—have succeeded in many cases in forming the idea in the public mind that private enterprise has become a deterrent. They do not mention what they would substitute for private enterprise, but about the only thing that can be substituted for it is extreme control by the government, which is state socialism."

OIL PROGRESS WEEK

This year Oil Progress Week will be observed during the October 9-15 period. It will give the oilmen another concentrated opportunity to tell the story of their industry. And it's some story.

In this country oil is a free enterprise. It's also one of the most intensely competitive of enterprises — all the way from risky wildcatting operations in search of new oil supplies to the corner service station. We, the American people, enjoy the fruits of that competition. Since 1925, as everyone knows, the cost of living in general has soared. Yet the cost of gasoline, aside from the special taxes the industry can't do anything about, has risen only about seven percent—and it's far better gasoline, that does far more work.

The average American, believe it not, uses 739 gallons where the oil business is an arm of the government and there is no competition—uses a mere 76 gallons. Every American community has excellent service stations providing all manner of services in addition to selling its wares. But in Moscow, one of the world's biggest cities, there are only five service stations. And at these the customer, when he buys inferior rationed gas, does the chores himself. All the attendant does is watch the meter and collect the rubles.

Oil Progress and our national progress have gone hand in hand. That is the kernel of the story that will be told during the Week.

WE FETED THE WRONG PEOPLE

With the return of that delegation of American farmers from their Russian tour, perhaps we may receive a more realistic view of the accomplishment of the "exchange."

Through the weeks that Acting Soviet Agriculture Minister Vladimir M. Matskevitch and his eleven compatriots were visiting American farm, the fiction persisted that these men are "farmers," instead of politicians and slave-drivers.

Mr. Matskevitch has reported to the American people and to his country in a special Voice of America broadcast. He told us we are more efficient in the use of labor, and indicated something would be done about it. He refused to admit that the incentives of freedom might increase production. He urged trade expansion, especially to include blooded cattle and tractor attachments.

In an interview with The New York Times, Mr. Matskevitch took a dim view of the future of our family sized farms compared with the Russian collectives, and said he looked forward to applying the production techniques of the Ford factory to Soviet farms. He was just as strong for the Soviet farm system now, he said, as when he first arrived.

All in all, it seems doubtful that the visit of Matskevitch and company will bring any comfort to the great mass of enslaved Russian farmers. Rather, it appears, we have merely provided the Soviet Simon Legrees with new whips, with which to drive their charges on to new production goals.

Government Won't Support The People

In 1887, Congress passed a bill appropriating $10,000 to buy seed and distribute it to drought-hit farmers. President Grover Cleveland acknowledged that the motives behind this were benevolent. Yet he vetoed the measure, in a message which contained this statement: "Though the people support the government that government should not support the people." The country sorely needs adherence to that principle today.

Midwestern Univ. Evening College Offers 25 Courses

The Midwestern University Evening College will offer twenty-five courses, representing 12 departments this fall. All classes will be held on the campus.

Louis H. Dobbs, director of the Evening College, stated that courses will be offered in art, business administration, education English, engineering drawing, foreign languages, geology, history, political science, physical education, mathematics and music.

"The fall schedule of courses, time and places of meeting, as well as other pertinent information may be obtained by writing or calling this office, or the office of the registrar," Dobbs continued.

Courses offered in the twelve departments of the college, instructed by members of the regular faculty, carry full college credit toward degrees at Midwestern University and other schools. Students must meet the same entrance requirements as those enrolled in day school and should have a transcript of high school and college work on file in the registrar's office at the time of registration.

Evening College registration this fall will be held in the Administration Building Friday evening, September 16th, from 7:00 to 9:30 P. M. The offices of the registrar and the comptroller, as well as the University Book Store will be open to take care of the needs of the people who enroll that night.

"Extensive plans are being made to increase the offerings of the Evening College," Dobbs stated. "Various surveys are being conducted in order that the Evening College might ascertain the needs of the people of Wichita Falls and surrounding communities in relation to academic work. This survey will be continued throughout the fall in order that a wide range of courses may be offered in the future," Dobbs continued. The Evening College offerings fall into three categories. First, courses are offered in order that the regular students, who have schedule conflicts in the regular day program, may utilize the night classes to fill out their schedule. The second purpose of the Evening College is to offer courses in order that people of Wichita Falls and surrounding communities, who work during the day, might have the opportunity to take courses leading to a college degree at night. The third purpose is to offer courses to meet the cultural needs of the people. Some might take these courses for their aesthetic value, and others may want to take such subjects in order to keep abreast of the times. "It is our desire," Dobbs concluded, "to determine what classes are wanted by the people of Wichita Falls and surrounding communities, and if possible, to offer those courses in the near future. We recognize that we have, as a university, a large responsibility to the people who make this university possible. Midwestern University intends to meet that responsibility by offering courses desired by these people."

SHE KEPT A DIARY OF TELEPHONE CALLS

Mrs. Martha Chance -- homemaker, church worker, bowler, and keeper of a telephone diary that revealed an important fact.

Mrs. Chance finds the telephone a young homemaker's best friend

What one service helps the homemaker through busy days more different ways than any other?

Mrs. Martha Chance is sure she knows the answer. Her telephone. Mrs. Chance recently kept a week-long diary of telephone calls made and received in her home. The results surprised her.

Mrs. Chance listed 95 calls during the week. Not only did her calls save time and energy in managing her home, but many were actually the start of a pleasant afternoon or evening out.

In Mrs. Chance's own words, "It's so easy to take your telephone for granted. You just don't realize how much it means to you until you stop and think about it as I have."

tee members, it is true, have allowed themselves to be drawn into somewhat less than objective interchanges with balking witnesses.

Even allowing for this, one is driven to the conclusion that the witnesses with little exception have presented an unlovely pattern running from noncooperation to obstruction. Shouting down committee questions and charging that any witness who cooperates "curries favor" and "tries to get jobs, money," can hardly be excused under any clause in the Bill of Rights. The purpose of the committee's open hearings, we reduce, is not to discover new evidence but to bring a situation into light. Thanks in no small part to the behavior of the witnesses themselves, the hearings are certainly doing that.

But the committee felt they had struck pay dirt when TV actor George Hall told all and not only identified six fellow former Communists but gave one of the most deeply moving tales of recantation it has heard since the beginning of the inquiry. After a dull ordeal with a dozen recalcitrant witnesses, the Broadway inquiry has suddenly bur-geoned into an event that Chairman Francis E. Walter of Pennsylvania says he may equal in worth to a "division of infantry" to the defense of the United States.

It is clear enough to most people that the purpose of the Fifth Amendment is to protect a man from the prosecution that might follow if he testified against himself. What is less understood is that the purpose is not protection against loss of employment or of prestige. Those who deplore the economic or social consequences of an individual sometimes suffers after using the Fifth Amendment fail to make this distinction. Those who, on the other hand, seek to weaken the Fifth Amendment because it has become special province of suspected Communists are also dealing in irrelevances. Its misuse or misuse by a generally unpopular group does not diminish its validity as a legal safeguard for all.

The Congressional right to investigate is also a legal right, in the sense that it derives from the Congressional law making function. The question immediately arises, What has Communism in the theatre or in unions, or in education got to do with the making of laws. The answer is not that Congress will likely pass a law dealing specifically with Communism in the theatre as a result of a committee inquiry. It is rather, that for the Congress to be able to pass sensible laws regarding the Communist conspiracy in this country, it is well for Congress to take, as far as possible, the measure of that conspiracy in all its manifestations.

The connection between investigation and legislation evokes little protest in other matters of federal interest. There are few outcries that Congress is overstepping its bounds when it looks into business mergers or farm prices or for that matter, organized crime. It is granted that the Government has a right to protect itself from subversion, then the right of Congress to investigate Communism cannot logically be limited.

This is not to say that all such investigations are especially significant, the present one seems minor league so far. It is not to say that they are always undertaken for disinterested reasons or always conducted as they should be. But it is to say that these complaints are immaterial to the Congressional right to investigate Communism, just as a disagreeable employment of the Fifth Amendment is no argument against the Fifth Amendment.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Duke have returned home from a two weeks vacation. They toured a lead mine in Oklahoma, visited the zoo in St. Louis, Mo., visited Niagra Falls and points of interest in the northern states and Canada.

Safety Devices For Automobile Doors

Development of a new type of safety interlocking device to prevent automobile doors from being forced open in the event of collision was announced today by Fisher Body Division of General Motors.

James E. Goodman, general manager of Fisher Body and vice president of General Motors, revealed that the new interlock is currently being installed in all General Motors passenger cars.

The first installation began last May, Mr. Goodman said. Production and installation of the device followed a long period of development work and exhaustive testing.

The new interlock device consists of a flange on the door portion of the locking mechanism which overlaps another flange on the striker mounted on the body pillar. This overlapping or interlocking prevents disengagement of the door lock from the striker, thereby preventing doors from opening even under severe driving impacts.

Mr. Goodman stated that exhaustive tests indicate that the new interlock will prove to be a significant advance in automobile safety, and that its introduction is the result of a continuing program devoted to intensive safety engineering.

In one of the severe impact tests conducted by Fisher Body at the General Motors Proving ground a car was driven into the side of another car equipped with the safety interlock. Although the standing car was badly damaged, the new device prevented the doors from being forced open.

Body distortion tests were also used which exerted even greater stresses on the body structure around the door openings than would be encountered in the average accident. Here, too, the new interlock kept the door lock and striker fully engaged.

The importance and dignity of the American worker were first recognized officially in our land with the establishment, in 1903, of the U. S. Department of Commerce and Labor. The role of the worker received even greater significance in 1913, when the Secretary of Labor was made an independent office, with cabinet rank.

You'll know you look your best...

You can be sure about the little—but important—details of good grooming when you have good bedroom lighting. At the vanity or dresser, for example, twin lamps with 100-watt bulbs to light both sides of your face evenly will help with makeup. And elsewhere in the room, good lighting not only helps with personal grooming, but also makes your bedroom cheerier, more livable... and easier on the eyes.

A double swing-arm lamp equipped with a 50-100-150 watt bulb gives you the right light for manicuring your nails and for sewing and mending.

Take The "Fall" Out Of Fall Cleaning

American homemakers can save themselves about 100,000 broken bones this month—just by taking the "fall" out of Fall housecleaning. That's the estimate of the Sal Soda Institute, which says studies prove women are never so reckless of life and limb as when pursuing their old arch-enemy—dirt.

Sal soda concentrated, the washing soda cleaning compound, has been a housecleaning standby since before Grandma's day—which explains the Institute's interest in housecleaning safety practices.

Here, based on the Institute's statistics, is an ambulance driver's eye-view of the housecleaning carnage in the United States during an average year:

Thirty-two thousand are killed, 130,000 are permanently injured and 4,750,000 are sufficiently injured to require a doctor's attention.

Falls, alone, kill 16,000. Homemade, or bootleg cleaning compounds kill about 6,000 more through poisoning, explosions and fire.

These national death and injury statistics are culled from police reports and other public records. The figures have remained roughly the same for the past five years.

Here are some of the Institute's recommendations to homemakers for a safe Fall housecleaning:

Keep ladders at a safe angle to the wall and directly in front of the area in which you are working. Never stand on the top rung. Never lift more than your common sense tells you is a safe weight. Don't carry objects so bulky they block your vision. Keep little children from under your feet during rush work periods. Use games and toys to keep them amused. Put mops, brushes and other equipment away when not in use. Don't leave them where they can be tripped over. Read all warning labels on cans and bottles. If you are warned to keep cleaning fluid away from fire—do it.

Run no risks with homemade cleaning compounds which might burn or poison. Two many safe and inexpensive compounds (such as sal soda concentrated) are available for the homemaker to take any unnecessary chances.

JACKIE GLEASON HONORED: For his "generous services in behalf of polio victims," Jackie Gleason, above right, was presented with an acknowledgment award of the national Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation, Minneapolis, Minnesota, by Marvin L. Kline, executive director. In a TV appeal for public contributions to the 1955 annual Kenny fund, Gleason points to the Kenny Treatment for polio victims as their best chance for return to normal living. Kline, in thanking Gleason for his help, declared that Kenny facilities across the country continue to provide treatment to victims of polio and to rehabilitate persons crippled by the disease in the past.

Kenny Therapist Role Important In Treatment of Polio Patients

Minneapolis, Minn.—The training of highly-specialized Kenny Therapists to carry out the physical treatment of all phases of polio continues as one of the major activities of the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation.

Kenny Therapists are registered nurses or physical therapists, male or female, who have received additional post-graduate training under scholarships provided by the Kenny Foundation. The course is of 18 months' duration, with nurses required to take an additional 12 months of physical therapy training at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minnesota.

The acutely-ill polio patient, shortly after admission to a Kenny center, is placed under care of a Kenny Therapist who works with him daily, under medical supervision, up to the time of discharge, administering the technique as taught by the late Sister Kenny. Treatment administered by the Kenny Therapist is aimed at re-educating muscles and teaching patients to use in the most-effective manner possible their remaining muscle strength.

The Kenny Therapist instructs the nurse in correct body position for the patient and range of motion for the affected areas. For some types of cases, exercises for strengthening the uninvolved parts are started at this time also.

Kenny polio patients receive constant attention from a group of pediatricians who are responsible for the over-all direction of the treatment program. Quite commonly, special medical problems arise, requiring the transplanting of a muscle by the orthopedist, the provision of a special airway by an Ear, Nose and Throat specialist or, as has happened, the delivery of a baby by an obstetrician while the mother is confined to an iron lung. Perhaps a patient may need the aid of a psychiatrist or a urologist.

The Kenny Therapist is aware that she must have her patient's confidence to achieve maximum results from the knowledge and skill which she possesses. Patients are treated as individuals and given constant encouragement but are not permitted to build up hopes beyond a practical and reasonable goal.

There is no charge for the Kenny treatment. Admission to Kenny hospitals or treatment centers is through referral by a doctor.

Josephine Vernon Honored Sept. 1st At Wedding Shower

Thursday night, Sept. 1st, the Mary Martha class room of the First Baptist church was the scene of a beautifully planned wedding shower honoring Miss Josephine Vernon, bride-elect of Mr. Glen Burk.

Mrs. Mary Joy Hagstrom rendered several musical selections at the piano while the guests were arriving and were registered in the guest book by Evelyn Schuman.

Miss Vernon and her mother, Mrs. E. R. Vernon, were presented corsages of blue and white carnations by the hostesses.

The program for the evening included a reading Advice to the Bride by Joyce Slayton and song Blue Heaven by Connie Stegall and Venita Jernigan accompanied at the piano by Betty Burk.

Connie Stegall made a presentation speech as little Carol Jean Cotton pulled an attractively decorated wagon filled with gifts and presented them to the honoree.

Refreshments of punch and cup cakes were served to approximately 25 guests. A color scheme of blue and white was used throughout the party room and a centerpiece of blue and white carnations was the focal point of interest on the refreshment table.

For the benefit of uranium prospects, little, big and in between, American manufacturers have come up with a variety of Geiger counters, ranging in price from $21.95 to $999.95.

Sunday School at Ten A. M. The Bible lesson is the 19th chapter of Matthew. In studying the book of Matthew, as is in all the scriptures, we find that nothing short of perfection is accepted of God for righteousness and by this standard all are condemned, for all have sinned and come short of the glory of God. For this cause, the scriptures provides such a righteousness and does so in the person of His own Son, the Lord Jesus Christ. One must come to the end of his own ability and trust Him, to be partaker of His righteousness and accepted of God. Romans 3:19-29; Romans 4:1-5; Romans 19:1-4; II Corinthians 6:21; Ephesians 1:3-7. Morning Preaching services at eleven. The pastor's subject will be "Suffer Little Children to Come unto me, and Forbid them not."

Night Services at eight. The Bible message subject will be "The Lord Is Not Short Conceiving His Promise."

You have a standing welcome neighbors to all of the services at this friendly Bible Church.

A Famous American Ship

The DORCHESTER, one of five sisterships built by the Merchants and Miners Transportation Co. in the 1920's, earned more fame by her death than by 17 years of swift, reliable passenger service on the Atlantic coast. Since the January morning in 1943 when, as a heavily-loaded transport, she met a German torpedo off Newfoundland, her name has been inseparably linked with those of the almost legendary "Four Chaplains." As she rapidly settled, these four—two Protestants, a Catholic, and a Jew, gave up their lifebelts to soldiers who had none, and went down with the ship.

The DORCHESTER has never been replaced. Her prewar owners, with the great majority of our coastwise merchant marine, have been forced out of business by war losses, inflated costs, and public and governmental apathy. According to the American Merchant Marine Institute, our passenger fleet today has dwindled to one-third its 1939 size.

ASTONISHING PERFORMANCE!

And that's only half the Chevrolet story

Great Features back up Chevrolet Performance: Anti-Dive Braking—Ball-Race Steering—Outrigger Rear Springs—Body by Fisher—12-Volt Electrical System—Nine Engine-Drive Choices in all models—and, finally, the great scientific, technical and engineering resources of General Motors.

A lightning-quick power punch that makes your driving safer! That's one of the reasons for Chevrolet's winning stock car record—but it's not the only one. Not by a long shot!

Astonishing performance—the sizzling acceleration of Chevrolet's new "Turbo-Fire V8"—it takes that to win stock car races.
But it takes a lot more besides. Cornering and handling qualities really count on the NASCAR* Short Track circuit where Chevrolet's king—just as they count for safer and more pleasant highway driving. And even the high-priced cars don't slice through a tight turn as neatly—or handle as sweetly—as this beauty. The record proves it!
Come on in and sample all the things that give Chevrolet its winning ways. We're keeping a key ready for you!

HOME OWNERS' QUESTION BOX

Q—I'm confused by the terms, wainscot, dado, and chair rail. How do they differ?

A—Wainscot describes a completely paneled wall treatment. A dado is a low wainscot paneling on lower part of a wall, smooth above. The chair rail is the dividing line between a dado and smooth wall above it. Average height of a chair rail is 33 inches, a bit above normal table height.

Q—Are dark colors going out?

A—No, because hardly any color ever "goes out." If you like dark colors, use them. There are trends in color styling, naturally, and the current one is toward light, cheerful colors. Pastel shades of asphalt shingles are a growing trend in roofing preferences, for example, but the deeper tones—red, green, blue and gray—still remain popular choices.

Q—May I use contrasting woodwork in my rooms?

A—Contrasting color draws attention to wood trim. If you have a large room with beautifully detailed woodwork, you will get a fine effect with contrasting or white woodwork opposed to colored or wallpapered walls. If your rooms are small, we suggest painting woodwork the wall color or background color of the paper.
