GRASS ROOTS OPINION

WASHINGTON, Iowa, Evening Journal: "When it becomes harder to sell than to buy, look for a price sag. When it's harder to buy than to sell, look for prices to climb. This seems to apply to every type of merchandise sold, and the only way to change it is to turn everything we have over to the government and let the experts handle all supplies and all demands. Most of us, we hope, still prefer to face the occasional uncertainties of the market than to put all our trust in politicians and economists."

PERRIS, CALIF., Progress: "Certainly the highway problem is a pressing and complicated one. Whether it can be solved by the old formula of 'let the federal government do it' is a question a good many people are pondering very seriously."

CALGARY, Canada, Herald: "No one wants to impede civil defense. At the same time handing sweeping powers to the government, any government, is dangerous and totally unnecessary. Parliament must be the arbiter of what is right, not some official who was granted the powers and won't have to answer for them because he was given them by an act which was not necessary."

ABILENE, KANS., Reflector-Chronicle: "A recession is a period when you tighten your belt. In a depression you have no belt to tighten. When you have no pants to hold up it's a panic."

THE FUTURE OF NATURAL GAS

Back in 1938, the natural gas pipelines, which are in interstate commerce, were brought under federal regulation. The gas distributing companies are regulated by state commissions, as are the electric and other facilities.

But the independent producers of gas in the field were not regulated until 1954 when, as a result of a Supreme Court Decision, they were brought within the jurisdiction of the Federal Power Commission.

These producers have no protected markets. They are not selling retail to consumers as a public utility. They must take long risks and constantly meet intense competition. Therefore, Congressional action is proposed, and strongly backed, to free them of federal regulation. The Portland Oregonian succinctly summed up the principal arguments against regulations in these words: "—that incentive of producers to seek new supplies of natural gas is destroyed under federal price fixing, that costs to consumers will increase rather than decrease under regulation that diminishes the supply; that the producers when free to compete have done a good job for consumers, that federal control of one fuel could lead to controlled production and price fixing for all fuels, perhaps for other commodities."

Both the FPC and the President's Advisory Committee on Energy Supplies and Resources Policy have stated that the independent gas producers should be relieved of regulation. The future of the great and growing natural gas industry is at stake.

CUTTING COSTS ON THE FARM

A midwestern advertising executive, who was raised on a farm and has been in close touch with the world of agriculture all his life, recently said that there is one thing the American farmer has learned: "Efficient production is essential. That means he must be a man not only of the soil, but a man of machine shop, a businessman, and a student of weather, insect pests, seed, world trade, labor and politics."

He then related this to mechanized farming. In industry, an expensive machine will be thrown out because a new one can save a few cents on each unit produced. A similar process takes place in modern farming. As he put it, "American farmers have learned and other world farmers are learning, a new farm tractor or machine that cuts cost more than a previous model is a necessary and wise investment."

American agriculture produced record crops last year and did it with less human and animal labor than in any other year. Mechanization, the ever increasing use of more and better farm equipment of many kinds, was the reason.

The Farm Equipment Institute recently reported: Farmers are putting into use new machines and methods for increasing farm production at a fascinating rate. Farmers have sizable backlogs of purchasing power, their credit is good, and they are continuing to mechanize to gain efficiency and cut costs. We hear much about current and temporary agricultural setbacks. We should hear more of the great long range gains that agriculture is making, gains that over the years will be tremendous service to the consumer as well as the producers of our food and fiber.

From where I sit... by Joe Martin

New Future For Your Present

How many ties did you get for Christmas? For once I didn't come up with any—could have used a couple this year, too. Instead I got three wool mufflers. Never wear a muffler.

Some people are determined to do something about the Useless Gift Problem—they're holding a "White Elephant Party" Saturday at the Community Hall.

Handy Peterson's the chairman. "Bring any presents you'd rather give than receive," he says. "Chances are you'll swap them off for something even worse—but it ought to be fun."

From where I sit, it's sometimes pretty hard to give a man exactly the present he wants. Other people so often have tastes and preferences that differ from their own—for example, think of the people you know who like coffee's the beverage, and all the others (like me) who'd rather have a glass of beer. Being able to make your own choice is the greatest "gift" of all.

Appointed By Lone Star Gas Co.

Appointment of Kenneth N. Watkins as manager of the dealer assistance section in the general sales and promotion department of Lone Star Gas Company's General Division of Distribution has been announced by Carl L. Trevitt of Dallas, manager of the sales and promotion department. Watkins will have headquarters in Dallas and his territory includes Burkburnett and more than 350 other Texas and Oklahoma cities and towns comprising Lone Star's General Division of Distribution.

Trevitt said the position of manager of the dealer assistance section is being re-established due to increased promotional activity in the dealer, architect-builder and liquefied petroleum gas fields.

Watkins began his career with Lone Star in 1947 as salesman at Wichita Falls and was assigned to special sales work in the Wichita Falls area on January 1, 1949. In May, 1951, he was appointed sales supervisor for the gas company's West Texas distribution territory and stationed at Abilene.

Physicians to Meet For Cancer Study In Wichita Falls

Physicians from Texas and Southern Oklahoma will meet in Wichita Falls in early April to hear three outstanding experts in cancer research during the fifth annual state Tumor conference.

The annual event is sponsored by the Wichita County Society, the Texas Division of the American Cancer Society and the Cancer Control Division of the Texas State Department of Health.

Seaman, associate professor of radiology at Washington University School of Medicine, St. Louis Mo.; and Dr. Champ Lyons professor of surgery at the Medical College of Alabama. They will speak during the morning session, which begins at 9 a. m. and the afternoon session starting at 2 p. m.

Registration is scheduled for 8:30 a. m. in the Kemp Hotel Terrace Room. Dr. Collins will preside during the morning program which will be opened with an invocation by the Rev. L. M. Kennedy, pastor of Poin Memorial Presbyterian church in Wichita Falls. The welcoming address will be given by Dr. William L. Powers, president of the Wichita County Medical Society. We've heard so many jokes about saving rubber and scrap iron that we wish the comedians would start saving a little corn.

Raymond Hewell of Houston, and Jim Hewell of Corsicana, visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Hewell over the weekend. Mr. Hewell underwent surgery Tuesday at the Wichita General Hospital. He was returned home Saturday and is reported to be doing nicely.

Titled "Freedom of the American Road," the 120 page book contains actual case studies of what many local cities and states have accomplished in solving traffic problems and the stories of the responsible.

The book is a result of research by Ford Motor Company assisted by members of leading highway and safety groups.

More than 200,000 copies being distributed free to interested individuals and organizations.

Some of America's top engineers, photographers and planners were assigned to find out how successful communities were helping to improve the highway network, reduce traffic injuries and eliminate urban traffic tiebacks.

Their reports were first a "town hall" format in which the experiences of a community many served as an example of what can be done in other areas.

The book is divided into sections, titled "The Highway," "The Traffic," and "The City." It contains color illustrations and more than 50 articles.

Concrete or cement floors that are above the grade line and remain dry do not present a painting problem. A good grade of porch and floor enamel is recommended. In addition to improving appearance by adding color, painting such areas eliminates the annoyance of the constant dusting of the concrete surface.

Floors below grade and known to be damp simply should not be painted. If there is any question place a piece of linoleum on the floor. If after a few days there is no sign of moisture underneath, alkali-resistant enamel made especially for use on concrete floors probably will give satisfactory service.

From Your County Agent

Texas Poultrymen will start 8 to 10 percent of the 1956 replacement of chicks during this month, and careful attention should be given to the cleaning and repairing of the brooder house in preparation for growing the chicks, says B. T. Haws, county agent.

The brooder houses should be cleaned and put into good repair by making sure that all windows, doors and ventilator sections are well fitted and working smoothly. The roof should be checked for leaks.

Thermostat apparatus on brooder stoves should be carefully checked and stoves cleaned to assure a dependable source of heat when it is needed, says Haws.

Adequate feeder and watering space is recognized by poultrymen as important to uniform growth of all birds. Up to three weeks of age, birds should be provided with one inch of feeder space per bird. It should be increased to two inches, from three to four weeks of age, and during six to seven weeks, it should be increased to three inches per bird.

These needs can be met by one four foot trough for each 100 chicks at the start. At six to seven weeks of age they will need three troughs four feet long by four inches deep per 100 bird.

Haws recommends five one gallon waterers by each brooder having a capacity of 500 chicks. From two to three weeks of age, two waterers with a three gallon capacity should be provided for each 100 birds. If a water system is available, a four foot automatic water trough should be provided for each 250 chicks.

Where chicks have access to range, Haws recommends one square foot of floor space for every two birds. Since green feed is often not available on the range, there is a trend towards growing pullet replacement chick in confinement, he adds. Under these conditions each bird should be provided with one square foot of floor space, until they are eight or nine weeks of age.

On this basis a 30 foot by 40 foot house would be required to raise replacements for a thousand hen laying flock. Haws adds that it will probably be to the poultryman's advantage to double this space, 30 by 80 ft. and keep the pullets confined to the house until maturity.

One sound method that is now being employed by some poultrymen is to leave the chicks in one house for the six months growing period and for the first year of egg production.

Making sure the brooder house and equipment is adequate and in good repair will pay good dividends in the production of a high percentage of good quality uniform pullets for next year's laying flock, says Haws.

Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Ludington have been returned to their home here from a Wichita Falls hospital. They were both injured in a car accident at Beaumont, Texas, Nov. 24th and had been hospitalized since that time. Mrs. Ludington will have to remain in bed for at least two more months.

Concrete or cement floors that are above the grade line and remain dry do not present a painting problem. A good grade of porch and floor enamel is recommended. In addition to improving appearance by adding color, painting such areas eliminates the annoyance of the constant dusting of the concrete surface.

Floors below grade and known to be damp simply should not be painted. If there is any question place a piece of linoleum on the floor. TEXAS PRESS NEWS
DEATH TOLL MOUNTS ON TEXAS HIGHWAYS

TEXANS ARE KILLING MORE TEXANS

It's INSANE to be Unsafe!

Notes from County Ag. Agent and HD Agent

There are still lots of cattle in county infested with lice and according to B. T. Haws, county agent.

There are several insecticides that may be used to control lice. They are 0.5 percent DDT, or 0.5 percent toxaphene, or 0.5 percent Methoxychlor or 0.5 percent or 0.3 percent gamma BHC or 0.06 percent rotenone as a spray or Two applications at 2-week intervals of the spray or dip as recommended for cattle grub control lice.

Good fence, using threaded and durable wire, should last 25 to 30 years, and is an excellent investment.

Losses from farm accidents are appalling and the benefit of a safety program so great that everyone should be interested in the permanent well-being and progress of agriculture. Push ahead for greater safety and the Texas Farm and Home Safety Committee. Work together to make Safety Work.

Brooder house should be repaired and put in good repair several days prior to the arrival of chicks. Operate the brooding equipment also, to be sure it is in proper operating condition. The first few days of the chick's life are very important. Give the start they need.

Trend for more expensive highly processed foods indicated by higher food budgets, according to Thelma Wirges, home demonstration agent. Homemakers who want to cut food costs need to plan and shop carefully and perhaps do more preparation to save pennies.

Some pointers given by agent for stretching food: plan meals and make out marketing list before shopping. Texas Food standard is a recommended guide for planning.

Check the newspaper for week specials. Check for unadvertised "specials" in the store. Generally takes the largest part of the food dollars. Seasonal cuts and cookery to prevent shrinkage. Use flaked or grated tuna, penny saver, and the flavor is the same. Packaged, quick fish fillets are a thrifty choice. They are boneless, hence no waste.

Evaporated or nonfat dry solids for drinking and cooking. One pound of nonfat milk solids make 5 quarts approximately 40 cents. The advantage of vegetables in three forms, fresh, frozen and canned.

waste in canned and frozen vegetables.

Save money and food value by refrigerating perishable fruits and vegetables properly.

Select the canned fruit or vegetable to fit the dish. The choicest ingredients are not always necessary.

Buy staples in large, economical sizes if storage space is available.

Commercial mixes for breads and cakes are often expensive than home made mixes.

Prepared foods (ready cooked) are more expensive than unprepared foods.

Consider cheaper versus more expensive foods of similar food value and composition. For example, canned English peas are cheaper than frozen peas; dried peaches than a good grade of canned peaches; peanuts than pecans or almonds, etc.

It pays to plan, if you want to eat well for less.

Mrs. Curtis Holcomb from the South Electra Home Demonstration club and Mrs. C. L. Jenkins from the Hardin club made plans this past week to work as family economics demonstrators for the year. Mrs. Holcomb plans to make a study of mortgages, notes, deeds and methods of transferring.

Mrs. Jenkins plans to make such a study. However she also plans to make an expense record book and keep a record of all expenses. This is the only way to have a true picture of income and expenses. It is only when a family has a true picture of income and expenses that they have a basis for making a family spending plan (budget). Mrs. Jenkins plans to organize all their family business papers into a family file. That is good business for any family.

By Howard E. Kershner, L.H.D.

The number of coal miners in the anthracite belt of northeastern Pennsylvania has dropped from 80,000 in 1948 to 33,700 and in the soft coal region of southwestern Pennsylvania from 110,000 in 1948 to 46,500. When pressure groups demand and obtain abnormally high wages resulting in abnormally high prices, they stimulate the growth of substitute industries (in this case oil, gas and electricity), lose their own markets and the jobs of their workers. Big boss Lewis used to dictate wages and prices in the coal industry, now consumers are doing a little dictating of their own. In the long run, the consumer is boss and he who tries to serve any other interest, whether it be wages or profits, will eventually lose. That which best serves the consumer will win in the long run.

Camp Stove Lets Backyard Chef Expand His Menu

The charcoal grill's fine for steak but what about coffee? Many backyard chefs are solving that problem by setting up a Coleman camp stove beside the grill. The stove burns white (unleaded) gasoline, giving a flame that can be regulated as easily as the flame of a kitchen range.

Used in conjunction with a grill, the camp stove serves for making coffee, boiling corn, or for cooking any food that the grill isn't suited for. The stove makes it unnecessary to run to and from the kitchen.

HOME OWNERS' QUESTION BOX

Q.—How can I thaw out a frozen pipe?

A.—First be sure the freezing has not ruptured the pipe. If it has, the water should be shut off to prevent flooding. Use an electric iron. Start at the faucet end of the frozen pipe. As the thawing progresses, move the iron away from the faucet.

Q.—I'm planning to insulate an attic room. Does it matter much whether nails or staples are used to fasten the insulation?

A.—Both fastenings are satisfactory. Generally, stapling is faster and easier. Many insulation dealers have stapling guns for rent. If nails are to be used, select a nail with a fairly large head. This will hold the flange of the mineral wool batt or blanket more securely. Whether nails or staples are used, fasten the insulation to the studs every 6 inches. This assures a tight fit. Be sure they are driven flush to the wood.

Q.—I'm planning to do my own decorating. I know I'll need advice, but are there ways to get help without actually hiring someone?

A.—Many department stores maintain a consulting service on home decorating for prospective customers. Some magazines will answer specific decorating questions. A book on the general subject, however, may be the best bet. Two authoritative books are "Decoratively Speaking," by Gladys Miller, and "The Complete Book of Home Decorating," by James E. Mayabb.

News From The Congress

By FRANK IKARD

The number of farms in the United States has decreased 1950 to 1954 by 600,000 according to figures recently released by the Department of Commerce. There has been a decrease in every state except Florida, and an over all decline of 11.1 percent of the farms in the Nation. There are fewer farms today than at any time since 1890. The figures further show that the size of the farms is definitely getting larger, and that the big decrease has been in the small one family farms from ten to one hundred acres. The farmers farming from ten to one hundred acres declined 49,000 or 17.8 percent between 1950 and 1954. There were a few more than 63,000 farms of more than 1,000 acres in the United States in 1925. By 1954 this number had increased to over 130,000 and farms consisting of 500 acres or more have increased 55 percent during the last thirty years.

The total area of all land farmed in the country is about the same as it was in 1950 and represents roughly 3-5 of our total land area. This report of the Department of Commerce shows in very drastic figures the way that our population is shifting from the land to the great metropolitan centers. Although there are 12,000,000 acres less land producing crops now than there were in 1949, the land under irrigation has increased three and three-fourths million acres during this same period making a total acreage now irrigated of over 29,000,000 acres out of approximately 333,000,000 acres of farm land in cultivation.

In Texas there was a decrease of 43,000 in the number of farms between ten and two hundred and sixty acres, and a decrease of farm tenants in Texas of about 23,000.

The census report shows among other things, that there are 110,000 farms in Texas having telephone service, 269,000 with electricity, 90,000 with television sets, 199,000 with running water and 117,000 that have ponds, reservoirs or earthen tanks on them.

These figures would seem to indicate that even though many of the modern conveniences have come to the people living on the farms, that people are still inclined to move to the cities. This migration unquestionably has been greatly contributed to by the declining farm income.

Visitors from home this week were Mr. J. S. Bridwell, Mr. Henry Anderson and Mr. Steve Latham of Wichita Falls; and Mr. B. H. Vickrey, formerly of Wichita Falls, but now of Tulsa Oklahoma.

During Peak of Winter

A leaky roof can cause costly water damage in winter. There is no reason why it has to be pampered till spring. A new roof can be laid in any season.

Roofing specialists point out that the key to good winter application is the selection of a reliable contractor who understands and will comply with necessary precautions.

Asphalt is what engineers call a "thermoplastic" material. This simply means that it tends to become soft and pliable when warm, and hard when cold. In cold weather, obviously, care must be used during installation.

Some roofing operations, such as covering the hip and ridge areas of the roof, require that the shingles be warmed before being bent or shaped for the roof. It is suggested that these shingles be placed in a warm room for 36 to 48 hours before they are used. They should be shaped while warm, then carried outdoors.

Winter roof application brings no inconvenience to the homeowner. In the great majority of cases, the old roof deck is in good condition and the new roofing can be laid right over the old.

Give Your Chicks a Super Start

Your chicks should grow up to 5.6% faster on 7.4% less feed per pound of gain than ever before on Purina Super Chick Starterna

Purina scientists have done it again! They have improved even last year's wonderful formula so much that you can see the difference.

SUPER GROWTH. Several thousand chicks in many different tests have averaged 5.6% bigger than ever before on Starterna. And they took 7.4% less feed per pound of gain.

SUPER SAFE. You can order Starterna with a built-in coccidiosis control. It's the best control ever tested by Purina Laboratories to help you protect chicks from the worst killer of all chick diseases.

SUPER VIGOR. You can see brighter yellow shanks, perkier red combs and fast smooth feathering.

SUPER ECONOMY. It takes only 2 lbs. of Super Starterna per light-breed chick, 3 lbs. per heavy. This is a real saving, because most feeds recommend 3 to 4 lbs. of starter—or more—before the chicks are ready for growing ration.
