Small Checks May Be Paid by State To The Disabled

Complete and permanent invalids or persons in the community so mentally deranged that they require continuous oversight to keep from harming themselves or others may soon be able to receive small monthly checks from their State Department of Public Welfare thru the new state-federal program of Aid to the Permanently and Totally Disabled. The Constitutional Amendment, which was adopted by the voters in November 1956, limiting the amount of money that can be appropriated for this program to 1.5 million dollars per year, makes aid possible only to those who are helpless and have no relatives able to support them.

Mrs. Mary S. Schneider, Welfare Supervisor for this area, pointed out this is the only welfare program which requires consideration of the ability of relatives to support. This law defines "responsible relatives" as children, parents, step-children, step-parents, brothers and sisters. Mrs. Schneider said that for the first time in nearly 20 years the Department's Field Workers will be required by law to determine the resources of relatives of persons who apply for aid.

The "permanency" and "totality" of the disability will be determined by a State Reviewing physician after study of a complete physical or mental examination by the person's own private physician. Complete helplessness from a medical standpoint, rather than inability to work, is the criteria. The state will pay the private physician for his examination. Funds for assistance payments will not be available until September 1, 1957, but applications will be taken after July 15. While the helpless individual will not be able to leave home, the persons responsible for his care may come to the local welfare office and acquaint the Department with his situation. A Field Worker will then call, as soon as possible, at the home to take the application.

Up To The States

President Eisenhower belongs to that fast-growing group of authorities who believe that one way to bring about tax-reduction is for the states to assume responsibility for some of the costly activities that are now carried on by the federal government.

The President proposes a "task force for action" which would have a three pronged job: "To designate functions which the states are ready and willing to assume and finance, that are now performed or financed wholly or in part by the federal government; to recommend the federal and state revenue adjustments required to enable the states to assume such functions; and to identify functions and responsibilities likely to require state or federal attention in the future and to recommend the level of state effort or federal effort, or both, that will be needed to assure effective action". As specific examples of programs in which there should be greater state participation, the President cited slum clearance and disaster relief.

It is an obvious fact that the federal government can only spend money which it has first taken from the people and the enterprises of the states. It is also a fact that a substantial proportion of that money is absorbed by federal administrative overhead—and that in most instances the states would get more concrete return out of each dollar if they did the work themselves.

Moreover, the money saving, important as it is, would be only a part of the benefits that would result. If the states knew they had to do their own financing, they'd examine spending proposals with much more critical eyes—instead of seeking government aid for all manner of unnecessary projects. Then, best of all, there would be reaffirmation of the largely forgotten principle that local needs should be met so far as possible by local action—a principle which lies at the heart of free, representative government.

"Probability" Not Proof

Back in 1917 and 1918 the DuPont Company bought some $49 million worth of stock in General Motors. Now the U. S. Supreme Court, in reversing a lower court decision, holds that such stock ownership violates Section 7 of the Clayton Anti-Trust Act because of a "reasonable probability" of trade restraints. Never before has Section 7 of the Act been invoked against a "vertical" stock acquisition (in which a company buys into a non-competing firm) and on stock purchased 40 years before. Thus does "probability" take the place of proof based on evidence.

By contrast, labor unions have been exempted from all laws relating to combinations in restraint of trade. They are free to tie the country up from coast to coast in countless ways even though they may endanger the life and health of the nation. It is an actual fact that organized labor combinations have done this, not just a "reasonable probability" that they might do it, and there is no law to curb them.

The most recent example of a labor combination tie-up affecting the people is the express strike preventing shipments to a large area of the country. The fact that there are no laws governing combinations in restraint of trade by labor unions leaves the public to suffer at the hands of unregulated labor monopolies. Such combinations are as dangerous as combinations of capital and industry.

The ability to call a strike of unlimited scope certainly indicates "reasonable probability" of trade restraint, especially when the right to work can be denied other men. Anti-Trust laws should include such combinations.

"Tight" money affects the government as well as business and individuals. According to U. S. News and World Reports, a new Treasury note pays 3 5-8 percent interest—the highest rate since 1933.

NO TRADE, NO AMBASSADOR, NO UN!

Others, John Foster Dulles told his press conference, may accept the idea that Communism is here to stay, but he is convinced the Soviet and Chinese peoples are going to be free some day. Perhaps he was thinking of Britain, who rushed to recognize Red China seven years ago, and more recently has led the trade-parade, but Mr. Dulles said there had been no formal Administration statements on Red China for some time, and he feared silence might be mistaken for a change in attitude.

It is reassuring to hear these things from Mr. Dulles. There has been reason to fear we might be stampeded into first, the Red China trade; second, diplomatic recognition, and third, admission of this unspeakable government into the UN.

In fact, it had been reported that these very steps were planned at Bermuda last March when the President and Mr. Dulles sat down with Britain's new Prime Minister Macmillan . . . at a meeting that had, in fact, been nicknamed "the little Yalta".

So, it's good to know our leaders will cling to their faith in freedom for mainland China, will not trade with the Reds, recognize them or admit them to the UN.

Farmers May Apply For 3 Cent Refund On Gasoline Tax

Farmers are reminded by B. T. Haws, county agent, that they may now apply for a refund on the 3 cent Federal tax on gasoline used for farming.

The amount claimed must be based on the quantity of fuel used for farming purposes or individual farms and ranches during the period from July 1, 1956 to June 30, 1957.

Haws says that all claims must be submitted to the District Director, Internal Revenue Service, and claims for the past year must be in by September 30, 1957. Only one refund claim per farm operator will be permitted and each tax claimant is cautioned to make certain that his refund includes all eligible fuel used.

Each farm or ranch operator who applied for tax refunds in 1956 will be mailed Form 2240 for filing the 1957 claim. An instruction sheet for preparing the application will also be provided, says Haws. For new fuel users, or those who failed to file last year, copies of the filing form may be obtained from the office of the local county agent.

Too, Haws suggests that a copy of Publication 308, Farmers Gas Tax Refund, prepared by the Internal Revenue Service, be obtained from the county agent's office or from the nearest District Internal Revenue Service Office.

The agent advises agricultural producers who used an appreciable amount of gasoline last year in their farming or ranching operations to check into their eligibility for a refund. The legislation which makes possible the refund was passed by Congress in the spring of 1956 and farmers unfamiliar with the procedure should contact their local county agent or Internal Revenue Service for details.

HIGHLIGHTS and SIDELIGHTS STATE CAPITOL News

By VERN STANFORD Texas Press Association

It's quiet around the Statehouse now, especially compared to two months ago when legislative issues came to a tense climax.

Groups of sauntering sightseers have replaced the bustling, businesslike crowds that choked the Capitol corridors. They carry cameras instead of brief cases.

But people who are still on the job, like Comptroller Robert S. Calvert, have plenty to ponder. Calvert gave money worries a jolt by announcing the state is going to have to ante up six million more for the teacher retirement system in the coming two years.

Since the Legislature spent to within $80,000 of the state's expected revenue for the next biennium, this new drain means, according to Calvert, that "the poor old revenue fund will hit the deficit column sooner than expected."

"If I had to make a new estimate of expected revenue right now," he said, "I'd have to say we'd end up almost six million in the hole". But he added that he hoped the outlook would improve before he's called for another official forecast.

Jury Takes Break Travis County's grand jury room is quiet too. Jurors are taking two weeks "breather," but will resume investigation of the ICT collapse and Legislative bribery charges July 23rd.

Spokesmen gave no hint when the jury might give its report and end the general suspense. Another grand jury in Dallas is still at work. It subpoenaed former Insurance Commissioner J. Byron Saunders and Garland Smith and Smith's son-in-law, Max Wayne Rychlik.

Insurance Forms Approved Texas Insurance Commission has granted "temporary approval" to all life, health and accident policy forms filed before August 22nd. It's a stop-gap measure to conform with a new law and yet allow Texas insurance companies to continue business.

A law passed last session requires that all life insurance policy forms receive Commission approval before being offered to the public. Previously, only filing of forms with the Commission was needed.

But thousands and thousands of forms are involved, more than the Commission could possibly get through before the effective date of the bill. Hence: temporary approval for all during the checking period.

ADVISORS NAMED. A committee of four has been named to help small Texas cities that want to participate in the state's new urban redevelopment law.

They are Dr. D. R. Reilly of the Nolan-Scurry County Health Dept., Joe Driskell of Ft. Worth, Marvin R. Springer of Dallas and Jack Shelly of Garland. State Health Commissioner Henry A. Holle announced the group, to be known as the State Urban Renewal Advisory Committee.

Its function will be to help cities under 25,000 population develop city plans to qualify for federal aid in slum-removal programs.

Bigger Crops Seen Texas' 1957 grain harvest is expected to be significantly increased over that of drought-pinched 1956.

But citrus production will be down, according to the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, and cotton is still a question mark.

15 Schools Flunk State Commission on School Accreditation says it will recommend that 15 Texas schools be dropped from accredited status.

Final decision will be made after the commission reports at the Sept. 2nd meeting of the State Board of Education. Commission also suggested that 7 schools seeking accreditation not be approved and that 79 more schools be warned they must improve. Inadequacy of personnel, facilities and curriculum were cited.

Voting Rights Defined Military personnel who are discharged, wait a bit, then re-enlist are entitled to establish voting residence in the Texas county where they re-enlist.

So ruled the attorney general's department. But it doesn't apply, said the opinion, if the discharge and re-enlistment are continuous.

Texas constitution allows military personnel to vote in the county where they resided at the time of entering service.

News From The County Agent

The week of July 21-27 has been proclaimed as Farm Safety Week in the nation, and Gov. Daniel has also asked rural families to join with their friends and neighbors in a continuing campaign aimed at preventing needless farm accidents.

Tourists returning to the U. S. from foreign countries are urged to resist the urge to bring back with them unprocessed foods, plants and seeds. Such materials can harbor insect pests harmful to agriculture, says B. T. Haws, county agent.

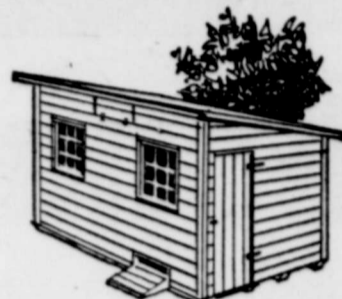

Livestock and poultry will need more attention during the hot months if they are to be kept comfortable. Comfort for them will mean more income for their owners.

By Don Burrowbridge, Director Thor Research Center for Better Farm Living

A small building that can serve several purposes is useful both to the farmer with several hundred acres and the homeowner with a garden plot in the backyard.

One that's easy to build and has the further advantage of being moveable is this house. It can serve the farmer as a brooder house for 200 chicks or storage bin for 500 bushels of grain. The backyard farmer can also use it for storage of things like garden tools, lawn mowers and carts, flower pots and bagged fertilizer.

This is one of the most versatile farm buildings ever designed.

This is a solid weather-tight building, 8 feet high at the front of the shed roof for plenty of head room. Floor dimensions are 8 by 12 feet. The construction is drop siding over building paper with shiplap sheathing. It's mounted on sturdy skids so it can be towed where needed.

Other features include a side door and two front windows. The roof is constructed of wood shingles over shingle lath. The grain filling door is at the top of the front.

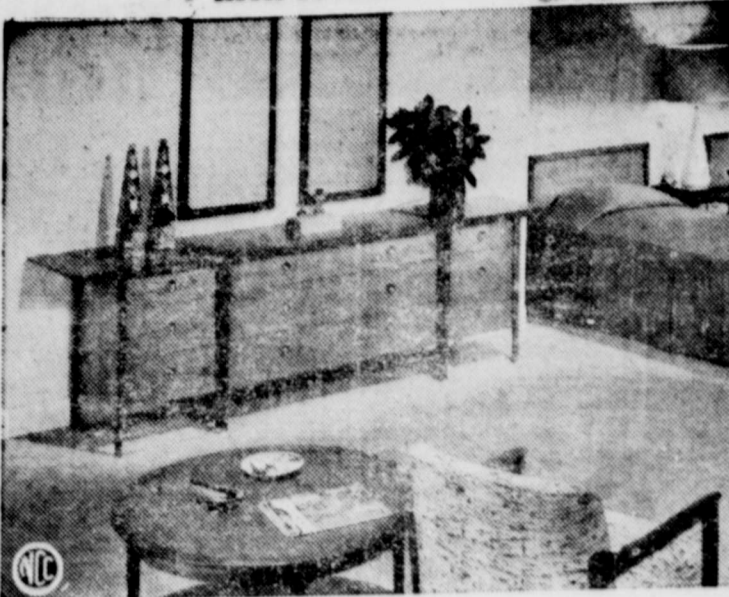

Use of standard lengths and sizes of lumber cuts construction time and saves waste. A portable power saw will help speed on-the-spot work. The building must be rigidly braced to stand the strain of moving. Flooring should be tight to permit regular and efficient cleaning.

Q—"The iron railing on our front porch is rusted in spots. I know I should remove the rust before painting. What's the best way?"

A.—Normal method is to remove the rust with a wire-brush. With an electric drill and wire-brush attachment this job won't take much time or effort. Paint the clean metal with red lead. Wait a few days before final painting with the color of your choice.

HIGH STYLED MODERN

This high styled modern bedroom group by Drexel features a striking contrast in woods. Wild cherry is offset by bands of straight grain mahogany in the tops of the chests and also on the posts of the chests and table. Twin beds, equipped with cotton innerspring mattresses, have the same dark edging around the headboards. Chests are flexible and may be used together as shown or separated into units.

DISTINCTIVE 18TH CENTURY

Custom-made reproductions of early 18th Century furniture are expensive, but they can be used to create distinctive rooms of unusual beauty. This is an 18th Century Bonnet bedroom suite by Erafratque. Note the old-fashioned shaving stand and mirror on the high chest in the corner. Up-to-date furnishing in the room is comfortable cotton innerspring mattress on the bed.

dual spray containing a powerful killing agent such as Dieldrin. This leaves an invisible film which continues to kill for weeks. Spray into cracks of wallpaper, behind pictures and along the molding and baseboards in infested rooms. Spray the trim around doors and windows.

The Silverfish Menace Silverfish will devour anything that is glued starched or pasted. No book or magazine is safe; nor is cotton, linen, rayon, silk or nylon. Silverfish even damage pictures on the wall. This carrot-shaped, silver or gray insect may be found from the attic to the basement.

An infestation of bedbugs in homes and hotels is considered a sign of filth. But bedbugs are sometimes seen on public conveyances, hence anyone might take one home. Persons who do not notice the presence of bedbugs can easily be carriers of them.

Bedbugs are tiny insects which can be found along the seams and in the buttons of mattresses, in the coils of bed-springs, in the crevices of bedsteads, in upholstered furniture and in picture bookings. They can wedge their flat bodies into any tight crevice.

Bedbugs are nocturnal, foraging out at night. When they bite, they puncture the skin to get their blood meal, causing a swelling and itching. Unexplained bites in the morning may denote the presence of this night visitor. Bedbugs lay their eggs in their hiding places and all bedbugs are parasites from the time they hatch.

How To Control Bedbugs Bedbugs are easily killed with insecticides. The trick is to get at them. Spray mattress buttons, and the seams of mattresses and pillows with an aerosol insecticide. Spray the bed-springs, bedsteads and upholstered furniture with a res-

The ABC's of Filter Facts

A number of our readers have asked us to tell them something about filters. In the main, their questions are concerned with when to use them and what kind to choose.

Though there are a great many different filters, we'd like to describe the three that you'd probably find most useful to you in your black-and-white snapshots this summer. These are a red or A filter, a medium yellow one called K2, and a deep yellow or G filter.

If you're looking for dramatic dark-sky effects with sharply contrasted clouds, try slipping a red filter over your camera lens. It's amazing what that little piece of dyed gelatine can do in turning an average shot into something quite spectacular.

A medium yellow or K2 will cut any haze there may be at sunset time. But for a brilliant scene, the deep yellow filter is in order. It's that G again for landscapes where tant details are important for bringing out textures of sand and under sunlit

You'll find that marine scenes can also be much effective when filters go on the job. To show up the mers and sparkles in your medium yellow (K2) filter is a good choice—but if you your print to have the water dramatically darkened, a yellow (G) filter is the trick for you.

Control Of Roaches Is Vital To Health

Second in a series of articles on bug control prepared by the Home Insect Control Bureau for the Real-Kill Co.

Ever lick an old stamp and find the glue gone? Chances are some cockroach was there ahead of you, getting his daily requirement of protein.

The unsightly cockroach, the most common household pest, constitutes a serious menace to our health. Much of the nation's food poisoning can probably be traced directly to this ugly disease carrier.

The cockroach has only one effective natural enemy, cold weather. Man, by providing food and shelter for himself, created a haven for the cockroach, too. And, very probably, the cockroach moved in first! Thus it evolves into a pitched battle between man and the cockroach. You either get the roach, or he gets you.

Requires Balanced Diet Cockroaches feed on anything, but require a balanced diet the same as human beings. Glue and other adhesives have great attraction for them, as do bread, eggs, dog food and soiled clothing.

The life span of the adult cockroach is from six months to two years. One pair of German cockroaches, if all its young lived and reproduced normally, could multiply into an army of 600,000 in one year.

There are four species of cockroaches, and all four could be found in the same house. The American and Oriental roaches are found in basements and other damp, dark places. The German roach is found in kitchens and bathrooms, and the Brown-Banded roach is found in bedrooms, living rooms, etc. The latter probably got the glue on your stamp.

How To Control Roaches Spray all cracks and crevices with a stainless, long-lasting surface insecticide containing a powerful bug killer such as Dieldrin, the most effective and most effective agent. A half percent solution of Dieldrin is considerably more effective and safer than four percent DDT. Spray every surface until wet, to afford long protection. In the kitchen, spray crevices in the kitchen, under stoves and refrigerator, along shelf edges and drawer slides. In the basement or utility room, spray above furnaces, hot water heaters and around floor drains. Outside, spray the foundation walls above the ground.

The best insect control is always, preventive control. Spray before a roach is seen. As a precautionary measure, spray at least three times a year.

SENTRY DUTY

IN AMERICA every editor is on sentry duty, guarding constantly against all encroachments on the Freedom of the Press. It has always been like this. Ever since the press battled for and won freedom of expression, its guardians have had to be on the constant lookout for infiltration by the enemies of that freedom. Infiltration—pressure from powerful groups to tone down comment on a situation...pulling of strings to keep a story from being published...predigested propaganda releases.

But the press knows the importance of never giving up its freedom. For on freedom of the press depend all other freedoms that make up democracy. Therefore, the men of America's press refuse to recognize any check—except military security—on complete, unabridged and inviolate freedom to print the truth.

That is the challenge of today to the courage and the vigilance of these sentries of America's press.

Roof Line Adds Size to House of the most successful techniques of Ned H. Abrams, prominent California architect, is to make a small house look larger. This is accomplished by accentuating the roof line.

house, now being erected on rolling hills overlooking San Francisco Bay, has three bedrooms, and sells for under $100,000.

leads to a 20 by 15 foot living room separated from the kitchen by a snack bar. The kitchen is on the front of the house to permit ready access from the living room to the outdoor living area at the rear.

much open planning and casual, outdoor-in-door living as possible in a small, low cost home. Additional information, including study plans, blueprints and specifications can be obtained from Ned H. Abrams & Associates, 575 Britton Ave., Sunnyvale, Calif.

House Needs Spring Check

Spring is traditionally house cleaning time, but it also should be house inspection time. A house takes a lot of punishment from winter's blasts—punishment which can result in costly damage.

This is especially true of the roof, which is a home's first line of defense against snow and ice. The weight and movement of snow and ice often can start serious trouble, especially if the roof is an old one.

A good time to check the roof is in the spring after the first heavy rain. Look at the underside of the roof deck, check the rafters carefully, and look closely at areas around the chimney and soil stacks.

Any signs of dampness may mean the roof is leaking. It's wise then to call in a reputable roofing contractor for a professional inspection. Perhaps the dampness is caused by condensation and your attic simply needs more ventilation. But if the cause is a leaky roof, you may need a one right away to prevent costly interior damage.

Don't be surprised if the roofing contractor doesn't offer to patch up the leaks. Reliable contractors know that patching an older roof is false economy, since a weathered roof generally has worn out uniformly. One leak means more will be coming.

In most cases, a roof of asphalt shingles can be applied directly over the old material, saving the expense and mess of removing the worn roofing. Home-owners who find they must re-roof also can spruce up the appearance of the house with one of the many colors available in asphalt shingles.

Love's Labor Often Lost By Gardening Enthusiast

"Picture wall" of ponderosa pine windows lets garden lover see fruits of his easy chair.

If you work hard at keeping your lawn and garden in good shape, have you ever suddenly dropped your tools, mopped your brow and wondered: "Who am I doing all this for, anyway? Me or my neighbors?"

It's true that all too often neighbors or strangers passing by are able to enjoy the beauty of a well-manicured lawn and colorful plantings more than the home-owners who slave over them.

The reason for this is blank walls and inadequate windows in many homes. The answer is a wall of windows looking out on the most attractive portion of the grounds.

The owner of the home in the photograph has taken full advantage of a scenic setting by installing sliding windows of ponderosa pine in a long row across the corner of the living-dining area.

This arrangement virtually brings the lawn and garden inside, permitting the family to enjoy them while dining or relaxing in the living room.

Windows of ponderosa pine come in many stock styles, shapes and sizes that are ideal for "picture walls" such as this one.

HOME OWNERS QUESTION BOX

Q—Will insulation in the floors above a crawl space make the floors warmer? If so, how can I get it to stay in place?

A—Thick mineral wool batts or blankets installed between the floor joists will keep cold out of the floors. The batts or blankets can be held in place by lengths of "chicken wire" stapled along the joists.

Q—How can decals be removed from a wall when re-painting?

A—An electric iron or broad-based soldering iron over a wet cloth usually will peel decals off quickly.

Q—Our home, which was built about 15 years ago, has a nearly flat roof. Now the roof is weathered and needs replacing. Is there any material we can use that is more colorful than the original dull black roof and will give good service?

A—If the roof slopes at least two inches in each horizontal foot, asphalt shingles can be applied by a method developed especially for low-slope roofs. The asphalt shingles are available in practically every color imaginable and will give long-lasting weather protection as well as exterior color. Incidentally, houses built low to the ground appear taller and larger if the roof is covered in a light color.

Wood Windows Offer Advantages To Home Builder

Ask most any builder why he installs wood windows in his homes and he's likely to come up with reasons like this:

1. Ponderosa pine, the wood used for most high quality windows, doesn't conduct heat. As a natural insulator, it eliminates condensation on sash and frames.

2. Wood does not rust and is not corroded by salt air or chemical fumes.

3. Most windows of ponderosa pine come in units, with weatherstripping installed and frame and sash fitted together at the factory. This reduces labor costs to the builder and assures easy operation.

4. New buildings settle slowly, often throwing windows and doors out of line. Windows of ponderosa pine can be readily adjusted to operate smoothly.

5. Wood takes any decorative finish, paint or stain, and can be redecorated when color schemes are changed, inside and out.

6. Wood doesn't readily transmit sound. Rattling due to vibration is kept at a minimum and operation is quiet.

'Entertainment Wall' Houses Hi-Fi Gear

Many high-fidelity fans are building "entertainment walls" with cabinets of ponderosa pine. The spacious cabinets house all the necessary hi-fi paraphernalia, record player and speakers, with plenty of storage for records.

A television set also can be included in the "wall." An ideal arrangement for this is to use a kitchen cabinet of ponderosa pine designed to hold a wall oven.

VALUABLE RESOURCE

Ponderosa pine is the most versatile wood found in abundance in North America. Because of its lightness, strength, easy workability, and clear grain, it is used extensively for fine windows, doors, and wood cabinets.

Insulation Cuts Cost of Installing Air Conditioning

An air-conditioned home needs thick insulation in its ceiling, walls, and floor to make air conditioning practical, economical, and completely comfortable, according to one of the nation's leading researchers in the field of home comfort.

Prof. John R. Watt, of the University of Texas, told an audience of air conditioning engineers and members of the National Association of Home Builders that:

"Every dollar's worth of insulation you install will cut an equivalent amount off the cost of air-conditioning equipment. A well-insulated house will save about $80 on equipment costs."

Studies have shown that thick mineral wool also reduces the costs of air conditioning by lowering operating expenses.

The effectiveness of mineral wool in making homes easier and more economical to air condition lies in the fact that tiny "dead" air spaces are trapped in the wool. This "dead" air blocks the passage of heat keeping summer warmth out of the house.

As an aid to winter comfort and economy, mineral wool works the other way around, keeping heat inside.

Owners of existing houses who plan to install air-conditioning systems, or who want to gain more economy in winter heating, can install batts or blankets of mineral wool themselves in accessible ceiling and wall areas. Walls, ceilings and floors that cannot be reached by the home-owner can be filled with mineral wool by professional installers who blow the insulation in by air pressure.

Civil Defense Gets 37-Millionth Chevrolet

The nation's civil defense program was spotlighted as Chevrolet Motor Division marked production of its 37-millionth vehicle. The milestone unit, a four-wheel drive Chevrolet truck, was turned over to the Federal Civil Defense Administration recently at the company's Willow Run, Mich., truck assembly plant. E. N. Cole, left, Chevrolet general manager, and Val Peterson, FCDA national administrator, examine gear from a rescue kit near the 37-millionth vehicle.

field research worker examines cotton freed of grass infestation by spot applications of dalapon. Grass at left and in the foreground offers comparison between treated and untreated land.

Spot treatment applications of dalapon are now being recommended for the control of Johnson grass and other weed grasses, according to Dr. A. J. Watson reports. Watson is in charge of the agricultural research station of The Dow Chemical Company in Greenville, Mississippi.

Dalapon has been tested by experimental stations in cotton producing states. In many of the chemical's use in cotton was accepted by federal regulatory agencies. On this is the chemical will be sold in directions for the spot treatment application in cotton production. Dalapon is marketed under the trademark, Dalapon.

The spot treatment method has been developed during years of research in the Cotton Belt. It is a chemical which kills the grass by the application of a spray. The chemical is taken in by the grass and kills from within the plant's system—ensuring effective grass control.

Cotton wet by the spray may be injured or killed as well as the grass. Watson points out. However, this loss is usually no greater than that from repeated hoeing, he says, and the Johnson

Egg Law To Be Discussed in Meeting At Wichita Falls

There will be a meeting in Wichita Falls, July 23rd, to discuss the recently passed egg law by the Texas Legislature, announced B. T. Haws, county agent. The meeting will be held in the Ballroom, Midwestern University Center, beginning at 1:30 P. M. At this meeting a detailed explanation of the law will be given by F. Z. Beanblossom, poultry marketing specialist from A. and M. College and Cal T. Wallace of the State Department of Agriculture, Austin, Texas. This will be a district wide meeting. This is one of 12 district meetings being held in the state of Texas.

Over 100 questions and their answers pertaining to the egg law will be available at the meeting for those in attendance. This meeting should be of interest to egg producers, egg dealers, egg buyers, feed dealers, egg retailers, egg brokers and hatcherymen.

Anyone interested in eggs is invited to attend this meeting.

Damage to Lawns By Insects Can Be Cut By Chemicals

Many kinds of insects and insect-like pests damage lawns, but this damage can be greatly reduced by proper use of available chemicals, says B. T. Haws, county agent.

Grubs of several kinds of beetles feed on the roots of grass, leaving bare spots where plants have been killed by their feeding. Others, such as sod webworms, armyworms and cutworms feed on the leaves or stems. Still others, such as the cinch bugs, false chinch bugs, Rhodesgrass scales and leafhoppers suck juices from the grass. Ants and earthworms dig holes in lawns and throw up mounds of earth, and ants may invade the house from their nests in the grass.

All of these pests can be controlled, according to the county agent, with insecticides such as chlordane, DDT, aldrin, dieldrin and heptachlor. For quicker results chemicals should be washed into the soil by watering after application. Insecticides may be applied whenever desired. Follow the application rates on the container and observe all precautions on the label, because insecticides are poisons.

The problem of moles in the lawn is related to insect problems since moles invade lawns and build tunnels in search of worms and grubs. So controlling insects may help control the moles as well, suggests Haws. Finally, the county agent suggests that you visit the office of your local county extension agent and ask for publications on lawns and insects.

Recognizing Kinds Of Grass Important Says B. T. Haws

The art of being able to recognize the different kinds of grasses on your farm is as important as knowing the kinds of livestock, according to B. T. Haws, county agent.

In Texas, grass is our greatest resource . . . but it is our most neglected resource. All grasses are not the same and it is very important that farmers and ranchers be able to recognize just what grasses they have in the pastures, and which of those are best for livestock production.

Range specialists at Texas A. and M. College have printed a bulletin called "Know Your Key Grasses". This bulletin contains 56 different kinds of native and introduced grasses found in Texas. It has pictures and descriptions of all the various grasses and gives the locations in the State that the grasses are commonly found.

If you would like a copy of this bulletin, "Know Your Key Grasses", contact your local county agent and he will be glad to give you a copy.

Cleanliness Improves Quality of Eggs

There is a lot more to quality to an egg than its shell, but keeping it clean is a good place to start. B. T. Haws, county agent, gives these tips:

Provide plenty of nests, about one nest for each five birds. Keep clean litter in the nests; this may cut down the number of dirty eggs by as much as 20 percent.

Gather eggs two to three times a day, and four to five times on very hot and humid days.

Dry clean eggs that are only slightly stained. Wash only those that are extremely dirty. Washing may lower the quality of the egg.

If you have a high percent of dirty eggs, why not try providing more nests for your birds with good clean litter. This may mean more profit.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Mabry

Just this year a representative of a writing automobile insurance company decided to enter business as an independent local agent.

This abrupt "switch" evoked considerable comment. But the new agent explained: "The decision to enter the independent general insurance field was a spontaneous thing—a realization of a need.

He concluded: "I am convinced that the gratification and satisfaction possible when the customer's needs are handled PERSONALLY, is the case of the independent local agent."

We agree with that sentiment one hundred percent. We would like to give you the advantages of PERSONALIZED SERVICE.

Why not place your insurance with us—be the judge.
