Instead Of Air Lift To Berlin

(From The HOUSTON CHRONICLE)

The Western Allies are reported to have agreed on an airlift to supply their garrisons in Berlin if the East German puppet regime attempts to control traffic along the ground routes.

This no doubt will be hailed in some quarters as an astute move, possibly even as a bold one.

It is nothing of the kind.

Instead of announcing that they would resort to a costly airlift—precisely what Khrushchev wants them to do—the United States, Britain and France should declare that their trucks are going through even if tanks, supported by planes, have to blast the path clear of obstructions.

The probability is that the East Germans would not attempt to exercise authority over ground traffic in that event. The Russians might even give up their plan to turn over control of the autobahn, railroad and canal traffic to the East Germans.

We don't have to continue compounding the errors which began with the calamitous decision in 1944 to allow Russia to occupy East Germany.

As a result of that decision, it will be recalled, American forces who had reached the Elbe River south of Berlin stopped there and waited for the Russians to come up. Then we withdrew our forces 125 miles and more.

We could have occupied most of what is now East Germany, including Berlin, for the Nazis would have surrendered the city to us rather than fight the Russians to the bloody end.

At the least, if the Western Allies were so insane as to allow the Reds to occupy East Germany up to the present frontiers, we should have retained out of the territory from which we withdrew a broad corridor into Berlin. Then the present situation would not have arisen, and neither would the previous airlift.

All that melancholy record is behind us, of course, but must we continue our lame policy of attempting to counter Soviet initiative?

Why don't we state that if Russia drops her role in the occupation of Berlin, the Western Allies will take over the occupation of the entire City, as is our right?

Why don't we carry the fight to the enemy sometimes. Why don't we demand that Russia live up to the Atlantic Charter pledge of no territorial gain from the war? Why don't we give Khrushchev something to answer, something to attempt to counter, instead of being eternally on the defensive and usually adopting half measures at that?

A Special Kind Of Business

The producers of minerals operate under special provisions of the Federal income tax laws. Varying percentages of their income from production are tax deductible.

It is often asked why these particular businessmen should be given a special deduction. The answer is simple. An expert on the subject, after pointing out that mineral production is a special kind of business, says: "The depletion provisions in the tax laws give recognition to the fact that the income of a producer of any mineral comes from the sales of a diminishing asset. The asset is his oil, gas, coal or ore in the ground, or whatever other mineral deposit it may be. This asset is used up—depleted—in the normal course of the producer's business, every time he sells a barrel of oil or a ton of coal or iron ore."

The depletion rate for oil and gas has long been set by Congress at 27 1/2 percent—higher than for any of the other minerals, because there is more risk involved in the search for oil and gas than in that for any other minerals. For instance, last year 8,014 test wells were drilled in hopes of finding oil or gas—and 7,142, or 89 percent, turned out dry and worthless. They produced nothing but red ink in the books. And of the 872 producers, fewer than half turned up amounts of oil sufficient for profitable operations. The depletion allowance is in no sense a tax loophole. It's a necessity if men are to take the long risks necessary to meet our demand for oil.

Something Else Again

Union heads are bitterly opposed to the right-to-work laws, which put union membership on a voluntary instead of a compulsory basis. They go all out in fighting these laws at the polls, which is their right.

But it is something else again when they attempt to prevent people from voting on the laws.

If this forecast is correct, organized labor will try to muzzle the electorate. Just suppose organized industry tried the same thing in regard to measures it opposes. The outcry would shake the country, and it should. Everyone who believes in representative government—no matter what his views on right-to-work—

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

ANTIGO, WISC., DAILY JOURNAL: "The advertising received by the Noble Prize winning novel 'Dr. Zhivago,' of Soviet Author Boris Pasternak through its condemnation by the Soviet press, will probably more than compensate for the prize money he found it expedient to reject. But, here, again, will he be able to collect and receive the royalty to which he is entitled?"

BEVERLY, MASS., EVENING TIMES: "While preparations by business to organize politically in an effort to counter big labor are encouraging in some ways to organizers, it is conceded that the results this year may leave much to be desired. Business can proceed only on the assumption that it will have to form an amply-financed organization right down to the precinct level. That's what organized labor is doing. There is no other effective weapon in politics."

LEROY, ILL., JOURNAL: "The greatest trouble in the world today is that too many people try to be smart instead of right."

NORWALK, CONN., HOUR: "Stung by nationwide criticism that de facto segregation is rampant in its public school system, the City of New York is attacking the problem on two fronts. The Board of Education has set up a special committee on intergration, pledged to work 'until the last stain of de facto segregation is removed from the City of New York.' And the superintendent of schools, Dr. John J. Theobald, will start in mid-term in February and experiment in assimilating newcomers—Negroes and Puerto Ricans."

YUBA CITY, CALIF., INDEPENDENT HERALD: "We have allowed politics to become a dirty business and through rank partisanship we have encouraged politicians to taint themselves with the same dirt until the man who can preserve sincerity and complete honesty in politics is as rare as a cow in teakette."

DON'T DO IT YOURSELF

There's a saying among lawyers that the man who serves as his own lawyer has a fool for a client.

Likewise, the man who serves as his own insurance counsellor may end up with a confused mind and a haphazard program which is far short of meeting his needs.

The only basis on which to build a sound program is by taking advantage of years of study, constant evaluation of new policies, personal experience, and the ability to meet all needs.

Take your problems to your local Capital Stock agent. He knows his job and he represents only SOUND, RELIABLE Capital Stock Insurance companies.

Refreshments of punch, cookies and candies were served from a beautifully decorated table to the following: Mesdames J. M. Goins, Leo Foster, Wylie Browning, J. C. Adams, C. L. Bowman, W. A. Minick, W. D.

West, Luke Warren, A. C. Harris, W. C. Davis, Paul Friedls, Ray Mills and A. H. Lohoefer.

My Favorite Prayer

J. Cameron Thompson

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, who of Thy great mercy has promised forgiveness of sins to all them that with hearty repentance and true faith turn to Thee; pardon all that we have done in wilful or thoughtless disregard of Thy honor, and our neighbor's good.

If we have this day by word or deed made life harder for any of our brethren, or faith in goodness less easy, forgive us. Confirm and strengthen us in all goodness, through Jesus Christ our Lord.
