Burk Resident Shot to Death

A 46-year-old Burkburnett man was found fatally shot about 11 a. m. Wednesday in an alley behind a hardware store where he had purchased a shotgun and shells minutes earlier.

The man, Wilmer Bruce McNeill was rushed to a Wichita Falls hospital where he died at 11:30 a. m.

McNeill was a patient at the Veterans' Hospital in Waco and relatives said they had placed him on a bus earlier in the day for the return trip to Waco.

Employees of the Burkburnett hardware store said McNeill bought a 410 gauge shotgun and a box of shells at the store shortly before 11 a. m., and left by a rear door.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

Parallel Terraces are being installed for cooperators with the Wilbarger-Wichita Soil Conservation District, according to Elvy Sargent, Iowa Park Soil Conservationist.

Lyle Gill, Jr., farming about five miles southwest of Wichita Falls, will install the first such terrace, Sargent said. Only one and a part of another will be parallel, due to the topography of the land. Not all fields can be terraced with parallel terraces, however, the Soil Conservation Service will attempt to fit all parallel terraces possible into a system if the farmer so desires.

Range grasses can be improved by planned range defoliation. J. C. Clower of Friberg Community has excellent stands of sideoats grama and other grasses in a mixture seeding at this time. Mr. Clower seeded these fields to a native mixture in previous years. Plant vigor is increased and more total forage is produced. Farmers and ranchers can grow more grass by applying proper range practices, according to Soil Conservation range men.

The Roberts will be glad for all of their friends and neighbors to visit with them during the appointed hours.

SO THIS IS TAX EQUALITY?

A year ago President Kennedy promised the country he would put before Congress a major tax reform bill—aimed at—equal treatment of equally situated persons. Nothing wrong with that. And then just a few weeks ago, the President gave us some equally promising words. He would ask Congress for tax cuts for all. Certainly nothing wrong with that either. Not on the surface anyway.

But from the evidence at hand the new tax bill that's been brewing for over a year now will prove to be more like a 50 megaton bomb than a soothing syrup in its effect on the U. S. taxpayer. It will, on the face of it, provide tax cuts alright. But it will then reach back into every taxpayer's hide pocket—big and small—to pay for them. And it also appears that somebody forgot to pass along whatever formula the President had for "equal treatment of equally-situated persons."

This evidence is provided by the stated policies and objectives of the principal architects of the on-coming bill. They are Stanley S. Surrey, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury for Tax Policies; Walter W. Heller, Chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors; and Mortimer K. Caplin, Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All are long-time advocates of drastic tax reform—and if they favor tax equality, their devotion is strictly rhetorical.

Here's an example of how they would achieve "equal treatment of equally situated persons" and of what tax

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" By C. WILSON HARDER

It is perhaps difficult to imagine a housewife in Chattanooga, Tennessee, wrapping up her fairly new automatic washing machine and sending it parcel post to the factory in Sandusky, Ohio, to have remedied a defect that has developed.

Yet, those who oppose the principle of so-called fair trade laws seem to skip over such a preposterous situation with great aplomb.

Reputable C. W. Harder, makers of appliances, other manufactured goods, know the only way they can stay in business year after year, is to give customer satisfaction.

They also know that any manufactured item during its period of guarantee can show up defects despite careful pre-shipment inspection.

Thus, on the brands they wish to stay in business with, they seek to have them sold through dealerships that can afford, and are able, to take care of such routine servicing.

They also realize that such dealers cannot stay in business unless there is enough profit in their sales to permit them to give this customer service.

But unless a price can be maintained on these brands, the discount operators, will slash prices. The customer, it is true, gets a lower price on a prestige piece of merchandise, but if something goes wrong, the consumer is out of luck, and out of pocket.

The Japanese understand how to market manufactured goods. For example, the vast majority of transistor radios sold are Jap made. They do not expect dealers to service them.

The Japanese know that their best chance of selling is to take advantage of their cheap labor, and giving U.S. dealer, a product he can sell cheaper than it can be made in America.

But the Japs know that any manufactured item can go wrong, so when they ship their distributor they include an extra 10% more sets than are ordered. If there is trouble, customer gets a new one.

From the standpoint of the Japs, because labor is so cheap, this is preferable to paying transportation back and forth to Japan on defective sets. It is also cheaper than trying to set up servicing dealers. And obviously they do not throw in 10 extra sets with every 10 from charitable impulses. That extra 10% is reflected in the price.

But American labor is not Japanese labor. And if the American manufacturer cannot protect his brand, by protecting his responsible dealers, he has only one of two alternatives. One is to build the cheapest possible appliances with no guarantees, which will result in consumers playing a kind of Russian roulette every time they buy, or he can follow the Japanese plan. He can throw in 10 free washing machines with every hundred shipped to take care of the defective ones, and mark up his selling price. This is a factor that the theorists along the Potomac do not understand largely because so few ever made their living from private enterprise.

payers may look for in the new bill when it is presented to Congress in August:

They would end tax credits on dividends because they consider this a loophole for the wealthy. They would remove exemptions for the aged and the blind because such exemptions "erode the tax base." They would wipe out the benefits of joint returns because this constitutes "favored" treatment. They would eliminate deductions of state and local taxes as being another loophole for the "wealthy" and if you own and occupy your home they would tax you a portion of its rental value which they consider "investment income."

Such is tax equality on the New Frontier.

Policyholder Questions Answered by the Institute of Life Insurance
 Q. My wife and I are taking a spring vacation in Paris. If we go on a new jet, will our regular life insurance cover us? By the way can those jet pilots buy life insurance?

A. The insurance companies are keeping in step with the jet age. Yes, your policies, new or old, will cover you and your wife if you go in a scheduled airline jet. There is no distinction between jets and other airplanes.

Pilots and crewmen on regularly scheduled jet planes can buy life insurance at standard rates from virtually all companies. In a short span of 20 years, air travel has come from a costly extra risk to a standard risk in a large number of offices.

Q. Why do I have to pay interest on my life insurance policy loan, when it is my policy and my cash value?

A. It is your policy, but the cash value is yours only if you actually take it out and drop the policy. Until that time, the funds you are accumulating in your policy are part of a general fund in which all other policyholders are participating. You can always borrow an amount up to your policy's cash value, of course, but must pay the established interest rate which is specified in the policy. This interest is necessary, as the whole life insurance plan is based on anticipated earnings on the total accumulated funds. The entire system would be defeated if non-interest loans were to be made. If it were not for these over-all-earnings, the cost of life insurance would be materially greater than it is. The investment earnings add up, for the business as a whole, to about the equivalent of one-fourth of total premiums. Earnings on the cash values in your policy are a part of this. In fairness to all policyholders and to stabilize the cost structure of insurance, policy loans thus must contribute earnings.

Here's why a flameless ELECTRIC WATER HEATER gives you hotter water... faster

In a flameless, quick recovery electric water heater, two super-fast heating elements are in the water, inside the tank, rather than just one heat source outside the tank bottom. Element at top heats water at the point of draw-off. Element at bottom heats incoming water. Notice, too, that heavy insulation completely surrounds the tank, including the bottom. Heat is sealed in, and none is wasted up a flue, since an electric water heater is flameless and needs no flue or vent. That's why an electric water heater gives you the hot water you need for dishes, laundry and other uses . . . as fast as you need it. See both round and table top models at your dealer's soon!

The church encourages...

READING GOD'S WORD

The reading of God's word is a neglected love by many today. It has been too easy to forget the price paid by many in the past, to make the Bible available to all. There was a time when men were hungry for all the wonderful messages contained in God's word. The Bible is full of wisdom and the teachings that men need. "Man doth not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the Lord."

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Circle I of W.S.C.S. Met In Home Of Mrs. Blake Browning

Circle One of W.S.C.S. met in the home of Mrs. Blake Browning, Circle Leader Mrs. John Rigby called the meeting to order and led the opening prayer.

It was voted to change the meetings at the church to 2:30 p. m. except First Monday in the month to be at 10:30 o'clock with luncheon at 12:00.

Mrs. A. R. Bunstine had a number of Scriptures read in the Bible, "subject: 'Christ—Above All.'" Mrs. R. L. Gragg, program leader, "Our Youth" was her subject. She quoted, "There are three classes of youth in the constituency of the Protestant Churches: First, those who have had a genuine experience of religion; Second, those whose experience of religion is shallow and unsatisfying; Third, those who have no experience of religion worthy of the name."

Mrs. Beulah Hall said, "To help persons to be aware of God's self-disclosure and seeking love in Jesus Christ and to respond in faith and love."

Mrs. J. L. Caffey then spoke. For centuries men have responded to the ancient injunction: "Know Thyself" and have sought to discover and define the properties and qualities of human nature.

Mrs. Beasley's subject, "Our church in its endeavor to carry out the great commission has declared: 'The supreme aim of missions is to make the Lord Jesus known to all peoples in all lands and their divine Saviour, to persuade them to become his disciples and to gather these disciples into Christian churches, to enlist them in the building of the Kingdom of God.'" Mrs. Cauthorn quoted, "The Kingdom of God can be explained in terms of relationships. Young people are quick to see the gap that exists between what we preach and what we practice."

These members brought most interesting talks. Mrs. Rigby read hostesses and program leaders for the coming year.

After closing with prayer, Mrs. Browning and Mrs. Hall

DEVOL NEWS

Mrs. C. O. Woodley, Reporter

Rev. Frank Grantz of OK, Oklahoma, a town near Muskogee, has accepted the offer as pastor of the Devol Baptist Church and is expected to move his family into the parsonage this week. Mr. and Mrs. Grantz have three children.

A two-car collision at an intersection about one mile south of Devol, Saturday afternoon resulted in heavy damage to both vehicles and the driver of one car, Mr. Bob Pernel was hospitalized for X-rays and observation. Mrs. Margie Schwarz was driving her 1961 Oldsmobile west and Mr. Pernel was headed south in his car, arriving at the intersection at the same time. It is said they were unable to see either way, because of the tall growth of grass and weeds. There are said to be many such blind corners on country roads at this time by the unusual growth of the grass and other vegetation. Mrs. Schwarz was treated at a hospital for cuts and bruises and released.

Former Postmaster and Mrs. Albert Smith of Livingston, Tennessee were visiting friends in Devol Monday of last week.

Mrs. C. E. Johnson of Livingston, California visited her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hawhee last week. Mr. and Mrs. Hawhee, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Ethel McCasland drove to Tecumseh Wednesday to visit a brother of Mrs. Hawhee and Mrs. Johnson. They returned home Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Webb and family of Rockport, Texas arrived Sunday for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Mays, and brother, Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Mays and A. J.

Mrs. Guy Hutson returned home Saturday from a Frerick hospital where she was a patient several weeks. She is reported considerably improved at this time.

Mrs. Jim Eley returned home Saturday after a two-weeks' visit with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Beckner in Oklahoma City. Mr. and Mrs. Beckner are proud parents of a new daughter named, Kimberly Cloyce, born July 6th. Mrs. Eley reports everyone doing nicely.

Guests for the 4th of July holiday included Mr. and Mrs. Gene Wikison and sons and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Bowles and children all of Walters at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Wilkinson.

DOCTOR'S SIDE OF SOCIALIZED MEDICINE

By Harry T. Everingham

(Editor's Note: Harry T. Everingham is a national patriotic leader dedicated to non-partisan political action to combat Communist forces within the U. S.)

Is it possible that we are going into socialized medicine with our eyes closed? What do doctors think of it?

One doctor, Ruth M. Bain, M.D., of Austin, Texas, thought the subject of sufficient importance to write a letter to all her patients, and the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons thought enough of that letter to run it as a bulletin. Here's what Dr. Bain wrote:

"It is now 4 a. m. I have just talked by phone with a patient and, I believe, relieved her anxiety. She will not doubt be back asleep before I am. I wonder how well this will work some ten years, or perhaps less, from now when the government will probably be between me and my patient."

"Ridiculous? No! A very likely possibility in my opinion. Not because the American people want it, but because of lack of information and concern about what is happening to us—lethargy on the part of the public. I am greatly disturbed by the fact that every candidate aspiring to the presidency in 1960 came out for some form of government paid-for (socialized) medicine—admittedly on a limited basis at this time—but how long will it stay limited? If precedence set in other legislation is followed, the scope of the program will be broadened each election year.

"This year it is all for 'the aged.' Nobody knows what the needs of the aged are, but it has tremendous emotional appeal. Everybody—if they live long enough—will very probably have some health problem. Is this their greatest problem? Many of those I see have health problems produced primarily by loneliness and lack of a feeling of being needed.

Some have nutritional problems—not because of lack of food—but lack of someone to eat with, or prepare it. Will government medicine change this?"

"The medical profession has been and is being accused of selfish interests in their efforts to defeat or delay socialized medicine. This is without basis in fact. Do you know of any other profession whose every effort is toward elimination of need for their services? The medical profession is made up of rugged individualists—this is the type of person who makes a good doctor. It takes a fair amount of ruggedness (guts if you wish) to carry the responsibility and make the decisions necessary to practice medicine. This type of individual does not tolerate regimentation.

"I am convinced that when socialized medicine has been accomplished that the type of individual who chooses to go into medicine will change—and not for the best. Regimentation has a leveling effect—it breeds mediocrity. This will eliminate the type of progress that has added twenty years to our average life expectancy in the last fifty years.

"Is it selfishness that prompts me to fight these developments that, not only are distasteful to the point of nausea to me, but that I feel will be bad for everybody concerned—especially the future generations who will be paying the bills? Did you know that social security taxes by 1970 are already scheduled to reach the rate of nine per cent without any broadening of the program? And are you aware that in Sweden, 25% (1/4) of all pay checks is withheld for social security including the socialized medicine program of the country? Do you spend one week's salary per month paying medical bills?

"It is my very earnest desire to stimulate you to find out more about bills before your congress and to make your wishes known to your elected representatives. If you want socialized medicine, fine—I hope you will be happy! But if you do not, you must actively work to avoid it. It is very nearly a reality."—Sincerely, Ruth M. Bain, M. D.

COMPETITION TO LIVE BY
By Raymond C. Baker

Editor's Note: Guest columnist Raymond C. Baker is a former newspaperman who writes widely on economic and industrial subjects.

The American consumer is the most pampered in the world. In no other country does he hold the whip hand over the producer of goods as he does here. The fiercely competitive efforts on the part of many merchants of widely varied types bring to this fortunate nation the world's most generous supply of necessities and comfort luxuries.

Nowhere else does the fact of surplus goods dominate so completely the psychology of a nation. A curious, endless chain of circumstances results. Surplus generates competition. And competition, in turn, generates surplus. The problem of our society is to maintain a continuing effort to avoid breaking that chain.

Sometimes it is an over-solicitous act of government which threatens interference with the natural relationships of supply and demand, of labor and management, producer and merchant, or of the money market. The greatest upset occurs when inflation or deflation interferes with the normal purchases made to satisfy the needs of a nation.

Retailers and manufacturers alike cite the "cost-price squeeze" as the major management problem today. But the consumer enjoys its benefits.

The three largest department store groups in early post-war years earned four to five per cent on gross sales. Now profits range from one to three per cent. Likewise, successful discount chains earn little better than two per cent. Today the department store operates in competition with the discount department store, the supermarket and the all-purpose drug store.

To the department store, the answer is greater efficiency. By matching—or approximating—the price of the opposition, the traditional store can hold its public.

The department stores have $14 billion in sales annually, compared with $45 billion apiece for the discounters and the variety stores. But the latter groups are catching up. It is to the credit of the department store operators that they are overlooking no chance to hold their position by doing their job better.

One device for so doing is being demonstrated in a small department store in a suburb outside Baltimore. It is called Uni-Tote and has been developed by American Totalisator Company, a division of Universal Controls Inc., the company that produces and operates the parimutuel totalisators found at race tracks and county fairs.

This system fills a void in the processing of information from the point of sale to the point of management decision. It replaces the cash register with a unit that instantaneously makes all the calculations now torturing salesladies, produces a printed slip, checks the credit rating, and transmits all information about the merchandise into a computer process. As a result, the merchant has instant access to all the facts needed for decisions on inventory, reordering, tax payment, advertising and possible price cuts on less-favored items.

This is a typical example of how the American Free Enterprise system works. It demonstrates basic characteristics of American businessmen: the will to change the need to improve—for which the consumer is the chief beneficiary. Improvement comes only from competition. When government controls production and distribution (as it does in many other countries—and is doing more and more here), there is no competition, only total monopoly. As a result, there is NO will to change, NO need to improve.

The department and discount stores will continue their vigorous rivalry. Individual concerns may go by the wayside, but each of the types will continue to play an important part. And you and I are the beneficiaries—as is the entire economy.

Expert Uses Food Freezer, Many Ways

By ELEANOR WIESE
Director, Home Service
Public Service Electric & Gas Co.

A roomy freezer can make it seem like summer all year round. Either a separate food freezer or a modern electric refrigerator-freezer with a zero-degree freezer section can give your family fresh foods with the flavor of summertime long after the fields are blanketed in snow.

A freezer also saves the homemaker untold hours of work every year by cutting down on shopping time, and by storing foods cooked in quantity when there's time to spare. It also takes away that frantic feeling of preparing everything at once for a party if dinner's cooked and frozen well in advance.

There are dozens of other ways a freezer can help the homemaker. For instance:

Ice Cubes. If a crowd is expected, stockpile cubes in the freezer or make giant-size ice cubes for picnics and punch bowls. Use cottage cheese or gelatin salad containers or cut-down milk cartons. Fill with water or fruit juice and freeze.

Clothes. Sprinkle cotton clothes, roll them up, pack in a plastic bag, and keep in the freezer until ironing day. They'll stay fresh and defrost quickly for easy ironing to a smooth finish.

Crumbs. Fill two plastic bags with bread crumbs—one bagful plain, one mixed with melted butter for trouble-free toppings.

HEALTH AND SAFETY TIPS

Early this fall more than 238,000 young Texans will be entering both private and public schools for the first time.

Even though the opening of school is still some weeks away, parents are busy making preparation to insure that their child makes a smooth adjustment to his new environment.

The child's adjustment will be more rapid and satisfactory if he starts his school life in good, sound health.

Have your family physician or local clinic give you child a complete physical examination including an eye check. His teeth should also be checked by the family dentist. If these examinations show there are ailments or defects that can and should be looked after, follow the doctor's and dentist's advice and have them corrected, if possible, before you enroll him in school.

It's likely that your child has already been immunized against certain of the childhood diseases such as diphtheria, whooping cough and smallpox. If not, have it done immediately either by your doctor or by the local health clinic. If all immunizations have been done previously, make sure your child gets the necessary booster dose.

Insist on your child's getting regular and sufficient hours of sleep to help him enjoy school. He needs ten to twelve hours of sleep in a quiet, darkened room with an open window to build up his energy and offset his tiredness.

Proper nutrition is very important. When school starts, allow enough time for a wholesome breakfast. A good breakfast includes citrus fruit or juice, milk, whole grain cereal or bread, eggs or bacon or both.

Lunch and dinner should be a leisurely meal. The new adventure of school is a pretty fast pace, but mealtime offers an opportunity for the family to pause and relax together. Also, nearly every school district in Texas requires proof-of-age for first year students in the form of a certificate of birth.

You may obtain a copy by sending a dollar and a half plus the name of the child, the date of birth, the place of birth, and both the father's and mother's names to the Division of Vital Statistics, Texas State Health Department, 410 East 5th Street, Austin, Texas.

Use AREA CODE NUMBERS when you phone out-of-town

Area Code Numbers are an easy, convenient way to improve your Long Distance service. They are simply three-digit numbers which automatically route your calls to one of 117 Long Distance areas in the United States and Canada.

When you tell the operator the Area Code Number of the city you're calling, she can dial your call almost immediately. No waste of your time while she looks up the Code Number.

Area Code Numbers for cities frequently called are listed in the front of your telephone directory.

How to call: Suppose you want to phone KL 5-3677 in Birmingham, Alabama. A check of your telephone directory shows the Area

Code Number for Birmingham, Alabama, is 205. After you have the Code Number, then:

1. Dial "Operator" for Long Distance.
2. Tell her: "Area Code 205 KL 5-3677." (No need to mention Birmingham.)
3. When the operator asks, tell her the number you're calling from.

The Area Code Number here is 817. Let people in other cities know this Area Code so they can call you faster, easier.

For handy reference, include the Area Codes in your list of Long Distance telephone numbers. The Blue Book has a special column for listing Area Codes beside the numbers. If you don't have a copy, just call the telephone business office. No charge, of course.

Attic Heat Gain Cut 7 1/2 Times In Cooling Study

An uninsulated attic will allow approximately 5 1/2 times more heat to enter a house than an attic that's properly insulated.

This was discovered during an exhaustive study initiated by the Federal Housing Administration and conducted at the University of Illinois by engineers of the air conditioning and heating industry. This figure is based on an outside temperature of 90 degrees and an "average" range of daily temperature extremes.

Air conditioning authorities have found that proper insulation, in addition to assuring comfort, also helps keep operating costs low, and often makes it possible to reduce the size and cost of the air-conditioning equipment.

In new houses, batts or blankets of mineral wool insulation can be installed easily during construction. To insulate a house properly for air conditioning as well as electric heat, the National Mineral Wool Insulation Association recommends batts or blankets of mineral wool labeled R-19 for ceilings, R-11 for walls, and R-13 for floors over unheated spaces. The "R" number refers to resistance to heat flow.

A form of mineral wool called "blowing wool" is used to insulate existing houses. Blowing wool is forced through a hose under air pressure into spaces between ceiling and floor joists and wall studs. Qualified insulation contractors can install blowing wool in houses with virtually any kind of exterior facing material.

Another way to reduce the air conditioning load is the use of a light shade of asphalt shingles. According to the study, a combination of white or light color roofing and proper attic insulation was 7 1/2 times more effective in blocking the passage of heat into a house than dark roofing and no insulation.
