To tell a woman that she doesn't look well in what she is wearing at a garden party or a formal is an affront that will never be forgiven or forgotten.

Carl Dixon Showing New Lockers

Carl Dixon, Junior High School Principal, shows to a group of people the new lockers in the building where the sixth grades will be going to school this year. The building, located on Community Street, is a beautiful addition to Burkburnett's school system. Each subject will be taught in a different teacher.

School Tax Statements to Go Out Sept. 15

Dow Estes, Tax Assessor and Collector for the Burkburnett Independent School District and his deputy, Mrs. Betty Loveless, have been busy all summer preparing the 1962 tax roll. This has grown into quite a job for our fast growing community with the new homes being added along with the many changes being made in the ownership of some of these homes and farm land and oil leases making changes keep these two pretty busy twelve months of the year.

There has been no change in the valuation for 1962, the school using approximately 30 per cent of actual value for its tax value, but there will be a 5c per hundred dollar valuation raise in the rate this year bringing the rate for 1962 up to $1.50. This will be distributed at 90 cents for local maintenance and 60 cents for debt service.

For the past several years school tax collections have been around 97 per cent.

Special Week Of Activity For Jehovah's Witnesses

MARVIN C. HARBECK

Marvin C. Harbeck and Mrs. Harbeck have been Jehovah's Witnesses for the past 51 years and no retirement is in sight for them. He is here to direct the special week of activity for the Central Unit of Witnesses in Wichita Falls, 1601 Bluff, and he will visit the Congregation Bible Study of Jehovah's Witnesses here in Burkburnett, 309 Hayworth, Thursday, 8 p. m. Harbeck said, "We have examples of the Apostles John and Paul for us to follow in our untiring ministry."

Being a direct representative of the Watchtower Society of Brooklyn, New York since 1914, Harbeck has carried out his ministry service throughout the United States and much of Europe. Fluent in the use of English, German and French languages, Harbeck was used by the Society from 1926 to 1940 to supervise the Central European Branch Office, Berne, Switzerland, covering 11 countries.

They have an assignment now of 17 congregations, from Wichita Falls to Hobbs, New Mexico and from Lamesa to Plainview, to visit three times a year.

Harold P. Bruce, presiding minister of the Central Unit, said, "In sharing their teaching and ministerial experience with others in the training program of Jehovah's Witnesses, this week the Harbecks have approximately 30 assignments in their house-to-house visitation."

Harbeck will supervise the 5 classes, held by Jehovah's Witnesses weekly, for their teaching qualities. He will close his week of activity Sunday, 3:00 p. m., with the public talk, "Is It God's Will That Men Suffer and Die?"

Mr. and Mrs. Wylie Browning and grandson Jimmy Mason have returned from a vacation in Colorado.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Moreman of Palestine visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Moreman, here last week.

HOME SAFETY PROGRAM ENTERS ITS SECOND YEAR

Says Thank You To Merchants

Every year the merchants of our city donate money to sponsor Little League Baseball or Football teams. In the five years I have coached these sports, never once has the merchants failed to back the coaches and teams. They realize that each boy they help, builds a better citizen for our community.

We have the coaches and backing from our merchants, but where are the Mothers and Fathers? To organize and function properly we must have you the people in our meetings. The last meeting there were fourteen people present. Seven of these were coaches. Eight to ten thousand people in our city, surely there are some who can take time to attend a meeting once a month.

Our High School Quarterback Club is in about the same position. Twelve members attended this meeting. Six were coaches. I know it must be a big let down to our new coaching staff. The average membership for a city this size should be at least 300. We all enjoy a football game, but unless you know the coaches and players, we will make poor side line coaches.

Fellowship at these meetings builds an understanding between coaches, teams and members of the club. Our organizations will be just as good as the interest we show in them.

A meeting to elect officers and committees for your Little League Football teams will be held at the Ball Park by the swimming pool Tuesday, September 4th at 6:30 p. m. Please attend and help make this program a success. There is a lot of little fellows depending on each of us.

Fourth Annual "Miss Burkburnett" Pageant To Be Held Friday Night

Telephone Co. Representative Spoke to Lions

GLENN SCOTT

Some day it may be commonplace for telephone calls to be sent over a beam of light traveling through tiny pipes. Or for television programs to reach you "live" from distant lands. These and other developments were explained here Tuesday, August 28th in a program before the Lions Club.

The program was presented by Glenn Scott, public information supervisor for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Scott said millions of telephone conversations can be sent simultaneously over a small beam of light as a result of the invention of a device called the optical maser.

The maser was developed by scientists at Bell Telephone Laboratories in what is regarded as a major scientific breakthrough. The maser produces coherent light, which has qualities that make it valuable for communications purposes and has applications in a number of other fields, as well.

Scott said that light is essential in the operation of Telstar, the Bell System communications satellite. Light from the sun, transformed by solar cells into electrical energy, powers the satellite and makes it possible for it to relay telephone conversations, television and other signals to distant receiving stations.

KILL THE POSTAL BILL

It is time to kill once and for all the House passed and Administration backed postal rate bill H.7927.

Testimony has shown how this onerous bill would decimate the ranks of weekly and daily newspapers and magazines and add literally thousands from these and allied industries to the unemployment rolls.

Now the magazine "Electronic Design" points to the disastrous effect this legislation would have among controlled circulation publications in the scientific, engineering and technical fields, at a time when engineering know how is so important to the nation's economic growth and national defense.

It also is time to direct the Post Office Department to accelerate the electronic handling of mail and other mechanization to cut costs, with the objective of possible rate reductions, instead of further increases. More intensive automation and mechanization, and at a faster pace, are the only hope of the Post Office for handling, without business wrecking hikes in mail rates, the huge increase in mail it projects.

The exorbitant increases adopted by the House already have been thoroughly exposed as the most destructive ever enacted, affecting the publishing and business mail industries in particular. Witness after witness has appeared before the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee testifying to the loss of jobs, wages, Federal taxes and suspension of publications and wrecking of small businesses that would result if HR 7927 becomes law.

The Administration would be well advised to tell Congress now to kill the postal rate legislation. Then the Post Office should be advised to automate and come to Congress with appropriation requests for equipment that will enable the department to cut costs and reduce rates. That would be good business, and good for all the people.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

DENVER, COLO., WESTERN FARM LIFE: "Russia is now employing a powerful capitalistic persuader, incentive payments, in an effort to increase farm output and make good repeated promises to raise the standard of living and improve the national debt. . . . Since free enterprise has always been the motivating force behind farmers the world over, the regimentation of collective farming in Russia could hardly be expected to succeed."

SYKESVILLE, PA., POST-DISPATCH: "The older generation has to raise its standards before we can expect too much of the younger generation."

FOREST FARMERS

Of 1,800,000 firms and individuals who own the Southern Pine forests, the great majority are farmers.

Their increasingly extensive practice of forest management is evidenced by the existence of nearly 40 million acres of "tree farms" in 12 Southern Pine producing states. More than 60% of all Southern "tree farmers" are farmers in the strict sense of the term.

Had the good fortune to fall into some choice-to-prim farm pond fishing while vacationing in Missouri in the midst of some pretty hot weather, weather not usually conducive to good fishing.

Which came about more by accident than design.

Usually farm pond fishing is pretty good in early Spring in the Midwest, then slacks off with the onset of hot weather, with early morning and late evening the only times worth the effort of going out.

But rain has visited that country this year as if the Good Lord was trying to give Missourians a graphic lesson in what the country looked like from Noah's Ark, and as a result most of the farm ponds are muddied up and overflowing.

This makes it tough on a fisherman, because his lure is difficult for the fish to see in the muddy water. Also the rains wash fish food by the bushful into the ponds.

We trawled a 12-foot aluminum boat into a small pond in mid-central Missouri, a pond that had historically produced nice largemouth bass. Got the boat loaded, attached a 1000 Micro 30 Fishin' Twin to the transom, and trolled around, from time to time casting into the shore. Net result—nothing.

So I got lazy. Shut off the motor and drifted, allowing the deep water lure to sink to the bottom. And a four-pound largemouth picked it up and tried to take it home to show to the wife. We landed him, fired up the motor and went back to the same spot, where the same lazy method produced three more nice bass.

Then it stopped. Either we had emptied the "hole," or they had caught on to the danger of a lure that hardly moved at all. But we had a truly memorable bass dinner that night.

I work harder to keep your fresh fruit with refrigeration and to provide extra quantities of ice cubes and cold drinks.

There is more washing and ironing to be done, supplying the additional clean clothes your family needs during hot summer weather.

All the Communists have to do is to keep on doing what they've been doing and all we have to do is to keep on doing what we've been doing, and the Communist timetable calls for taking us over, within, by 1973. Yet our peerless leaders tell us the menace is entirely from without not from within. It is, of course, both—as any schoolchild should know, but doesn't.

There are reportedly less than 15,000 Communists in this country. Given the word, J. Edgar Hoover could jail them faster than the Supreme Court could turn them loose. Fifteen thousand Commies won't take us. If we're taken from within, it'll be the hundreds of thousands of do-gooders, fatheads, pacifists, socialists and fools in high places who are running the Communists errands for them. Rather than indulge in name-calling, let us judge anti-Commisists, anti-Socialists, anti-collectivists by what THEY do. If it walks like a skunk, looks like a skunk, acts like a skunk, and smells like a skunk, let's assume it IS a skunk until somebody proves it's not. The "menace within" and the "menace without" are inseparable. No one, including the President of the United States, can accurately say which we should now fear the most. ### News From The HD Agent Americans spend about 500 dollars a year on food supplements as a result of food scares, according to Thelma W. Wiggins, county home demonstration agent.

Money goes for supplements such as pills, powders, capsules and compounds which contain vitamins, minerals, exotic herbs, sea weed and dried vegetables, she explained.

Prices are paid for these products, because there are thousands of door-to-door salesmen, national advertisements, phony lecturers and audio-visual self-styled "food scientists" who promote their products in these typical patterns:

They make mysterious but convincing claims for the curative and disease-preventing powers of their products.

They denounce the nutritional value of common everyday foods which they claim are "poisonous" or "worn-out soils," or "over-fertilized" with chemical fertilizers, or "over-irradiated" with nuclear energy, or "over-preserved," or "over-processed" by their manufacturers for other reasons — none of which are true.

They claim that the "junk" in the grocery store is at the highest point in its history, and not only that, but that modern medicine is becoming more and more "phoney." It is time we all take a fresh look at this difficult social problem—for if quackery is to be eliminated, the public must be correctly informed and more and better law enforcement is necessary," Miss Wiggins said.

There is a vast amount of untrue information being circulated about calories, she added. "Calories do count, in dollars as well as in pounds," she emphasized.

From the middle of 1960 to the end of 1961, more than 100 new reducing aids were put on the market. There are no drugs which are effective to control appetite, which are safe to take without medical supervision. Most reducing products which can be purchased without a prescription are food supplements, which have no effect on food intake, Miss Wiggins said.

"No safe reducing diet is quick—and no quick reducing diet is safe," she said.

If one eats more calories than her physical activity burns up, there is a weight gain, and if one eats fewer calories than her body uses, there will be a reduction in weight — regardless of the source of these calories, the agent said.

Miss Wiggins urged homemakers to get their information on food and nutrition from recognized authorities. She suggested these sources:

- Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Washington 25, D. C.
- Council on Food and Nutrition
- American Medical Association, 535 North Dearborn Street, Chicago 10, Illinois
- Institute of Home Economics, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.
- County and State Officers of Agricultural Extension Service.
- The Wichita County Foods and Nutrition Committee has met to make plans for a new year. The committee considered the problem of food fallacies and plans for future work on this problem.
- They also planned work to help the homemaker manage her energies and time to the fullest.
- As well as work for home

FALSIES FOR STEERS

Rodeo rider fastens a set of false plastic horns to steer prior to a roping practice. Fake horns are fastened by a chin strap, do not hurt the animal. Approved by the Rodeo Association, they solve the problem of finding scarce steers with real horns, according to Popular Mechanics for August.

FOR WHOM THE BELL TOLLS

The bell tolls for skin divers, that's who! Newest tip for the divers is a brass bell mounted UNDER WATER at the end of the boarding ladder. A line comes back to the boat's cockpit. A tug on the string rings the bell whose sound carries sharply through the water for long distances. A set of communication signals can be quickly worked out.

According to the Southern Pine Association, two important modern aids to the performance of wood paneling are "penetrating sealers" and stain type finishes.

Sealers protect paneling from moisture absorption and help render it a permanent material. Stain finishes provide applied colors that look just as natural as the wood's own hue. They do not obscure the grain.

As a general rule, it's best for parents to follow the identical advice they give their children.

BARREL MUSKRAT TRAP

Try the farm boy's method of catching muskrats. He takes a stout wooden barrel and cuts a 6-inch hole in the top. Then anchoring it in likely territory, he carefully fills it with water until the top is only a few inches higher than the surface, but the water level in the barrel is only half way up the sides. Exploring muskrats (who aren't able to resist a trip into the hole), can't escape and quickly drown.

KEROSENE FIRE STARTER

Here's a good idea for the permanent camper. Fill an old hand pump fly sprayer with kerosene. Propitious squirts help stubborn fires to start.

Two remedies that always do the job expected of them are castor oil and alcohol.

How Builders Are Resolving Conflicting Needs of Home Owners

There's a definite degree of conflict in the desires of many home owners for both freedom and privacy. On the other hand, they want protection and isolation from prying eyes and the hustle of crowded streets. On the other hand, they crave greater freedom of vision and movement along with a generous parcel of outdoor living. At first glance, it would seem easier to fit a square peg in a round hole than to fulfill completely all of these contrasting "wants"—especially on the typically small urban lot. However, don't discount the ingenuity of today's designers and builders. In many a bright and novel package, they're blending all the necessary ingredients of freedom, privacy and outdoor living. To generate more living space in small homes on small lots, they're engineering roof designs, the Southern Pine Association says. One such system is wood plank-and-beam construction—an ideal medium for the high strength and natural beauty of Southern Pine. The high self sufficiency of this roof structure permits a simplified floor plans and partitioning. Some partitions can be eliminated for the sake of larger rooms. Others can be fashioned in the form of space conserving storage-type room dividers. At the front of the house, discreet clerestory windows form an attractive companion piece for plank-and-beam. These ceiling level windows let in light, but assure privacy. Beneath them, the walls can be covered with solid but appealing materials, such as wood boards-and-battens siding. The strong vertical look of the battens and boards blends beautifully with the handsome horizontal lines of the beamed ceiling. Toward the house rear, the self sufficiency of plank-and-beam fulfills the conditions of freedom and outdoor living. Here, the strength of the roof permits placement of large window areas adjacent to private and attractively landscaped patios. The outdoors comes streaming in and the rooms seem much larger than they really are. The "wood deck" plays a prominent part in this plan. Two inch thick lumber decking forms the roof structure and finished ceiling of the house. A wood deck may also provide a comfortable and attractive walking surface for the exterior patio. When the lumber is subject to severe weather exposure, it should be pressure treated with chemical preservatives.

Out Effort for Safe Driving During the Labor Day Weekend

An intensive effort to reduce traffic deaths, injuries and property damage over the Labor Day Holiday, the Department of Public Safety will conduct "Operation Motorcade" from 12:01 AM Saturday, September 1 through 11:59 PM September 3. Major Hutchison, Commander of Public Safety Region No. 5, has announced that "Operation Motorcade" is an all-out effort to reduce traffic deaths, injuries and property damage over the Labor Day Holiday. Hutchison said that the "Terrible Three" refers to the first three fatalities for the Labor Day period. "We hope to eliminate those first three deaths and end up with a zero score for a change," Hutchison said. "We know that we can hold the total much lower than the 21 that died last year if we have the co-operation of the public."

Major Hutchison explained that the "Terrible Three" refers to the first three fatalities for the Labor Day period. "We hope to eliminate those first three deaths and end up with a zero score for a change," Hutchison said. "We know that we can hold the total much lower than the 21 that died last year if we have the co-operation of the public."

Hutchison has ordered all men in his command to start a round the clock traffic safety effort with the beginning of "Operation Motorcade" in an effort to reduce the staggering number of accidents that kill and maim Texans during prolonged holiday periods. The Regional Commander has instructed his men to use all possible means to halt traffic violations that lead to automobile accidents. "Every radar speed meter in the region will be in action during the holiday," Hutchison said.

Despite the all out effort by our traffic officers to prevent traffic accidents, the driver remains the key figure in a successful accident prevention program. Each and every driver can cooperate in making Texas streets and highways safe by giving their full attention to the full time job of driving according to the rules and regulations this Labor Day or any day. "Remember, every time a driver fails to obey the traffic law, he or she takes a chance on being involved in a traffic accident that could mean injury or death," Major Hutchison concluded.

Texas State Health Dept.

Over 15 million meals will be served in 20,000 Texas eating establishments this week. If you're average you'll eat at least two of them.

You could go into the vast majority of those restaurants and cafeterias and be assured of getting a wholesome meal—totally obvious of the fact that you're eating food cooked and served by complete strangers.

How can this be, especially since some 26 different diseases can be spread by improperly handled food? Included in the list are such scourges as trichinosis, the deadly botulism, strep infections, and salmonellosis (food poisoning).

There are many reasons of course, but among the main ones are the three-day short courses in sanitation conducted by the State Department of Health for persons engaged in food preparation and service. In the past five years, according to official records, thousands of Texans have taken instruction. The subject matter, presented in a non-technical, easy-to-understand style with films and demonstrations, covers such essential points as basic bacteriology, insect control and personal hygiene.

One public health instructor from the Department's Division of Public Health Education, assisted by local health officials, will put on a course anywhere in the state on request. Attendance is open to anyone, but usually those who come to the two-hour daily sessions are cafe and cafeteria personnel.

Some cities encourage total participation of all food-handlers and one city has an ordinance requiring attendance.

When a restaurant employee completes the instruction, he is given a certificate of attendance, signed by the State Health Commissioner and attesting the fact that he has had the course. And when 80 per cent of the workers in a food service establishment complete the course, the restaurant is awarded a placard suitable for framing and display so customers can see the owner has an interest in health protection.

All of which accentuate the importance of the short course—and of the placard awarded to cafes when they support them. The next time you eat out look for it. It is a pledge to you that the restaurant is interested in your welfare.

The year 1909 was the high point in America for horse-drawn transportation, and in that year there were 30 traffic deaths for each 100 million miles of travel. That figure is more than 14 times as much as our present automobile fatality rate . . .

You can always spot a well-informed man. His views are usually the same as yours.

In a Home

Medallion Means Excellence

Families who want to be sure of the greatest comfort and convenience available today in a new home can be on the lookout for homes displaying the Gold Medallion-Home award.

A Gold Medallion is awarded by electric power suppliers to homes that meet rigid requirements for complete electric living.

This means that the sole source of energy for the house is electricity. A Gold Medallion Home is heated electrically, has a modern electric range, and is equipped with at least three other major electric appliances, such as an automatic electric dishwasher, a modern refrigerator-freezer, a freezer, room air conditioner, or an electric water heater.

A Gold Medallion Home must have at least a 100-ampere service and be wired according to strict requirements, with scientifically planned outlets in every room.

Modern lighting inside and out is a requirement that increases home safety, and assures correct glare-free illumination. Electric heating, and the insulation required for it, make a Gold Medallion Home the most comfortable available today.

Many electric heating systems have thermostats in every room. Because electricity heats without burning any fuel, Gold Medallion Homes are free of soot and fumes. House cleaning is easier, and draperies, carpets, upholstery, and clothing stay cleaner longer.

Electric heat has met the challenge of many a New England winter and has proved to be a winner.

Helps Homes Cozy

Electric Heat Meets Chilly Challenge, Winner Over New England Winters

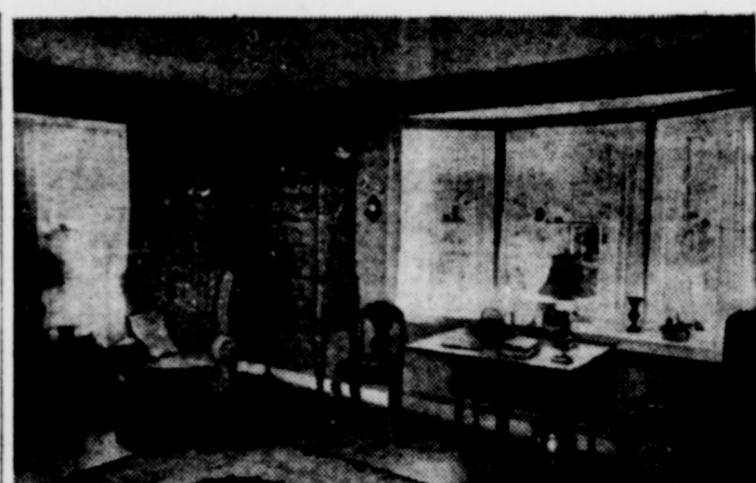

Electric heat has met the challenge of many a New England winter and has proved to be a winner.

In fact, the Hartford Electric Light Company in Connecticut, a small utility, expects to add almost 200 new Gold Medallion Homes to its lines this year. It will make a total of more than 500 Gold Medallion Homes in its service area and about 10 in the state. All Gold Medallion Homes are electrically heated.

Hartford Electric began testing and studying electric heating systems of various types in homes of employees ten years before launching its Gold Medallion Home program in residential electric heating systems on Hartford Electric's lines include baseboard, hydronic, ceiling cable, and heat pumps. The most popular is baseboard heating, which offers individual room thermostats as well as a space-saving heating system. Cleanliness is inherent in all electric heating systems and home owners are in complete accord about the comfort their all-electric homes offer. The home of the B. E. Wilkinson in Torrville, Conn., is a prime example. Although it is not a new house—its remodeling carried out in 1955—its reactions to electric living are "We love it!" Mrs. Wilkinson says. She gives several reasons aside from the comfort and cleanliness, one being that the electric baseboard units leave walls free for furniture placement. The Wilkinsons have a prize collection of antiques, beautifully restored, preserved, and displayed.

Electric baseboard heating in this all-electric home in Connecticut allows complete freedom of furniture placement and helps preserve precious antiques since it does not remove moisture from air. Baseboard heating unit is behind drop-leaf table.

Another reason is that a small room that would have been the furnace room if any other type of heat had been installed is a combination lavatory-laundry which also contains the electric service panel.

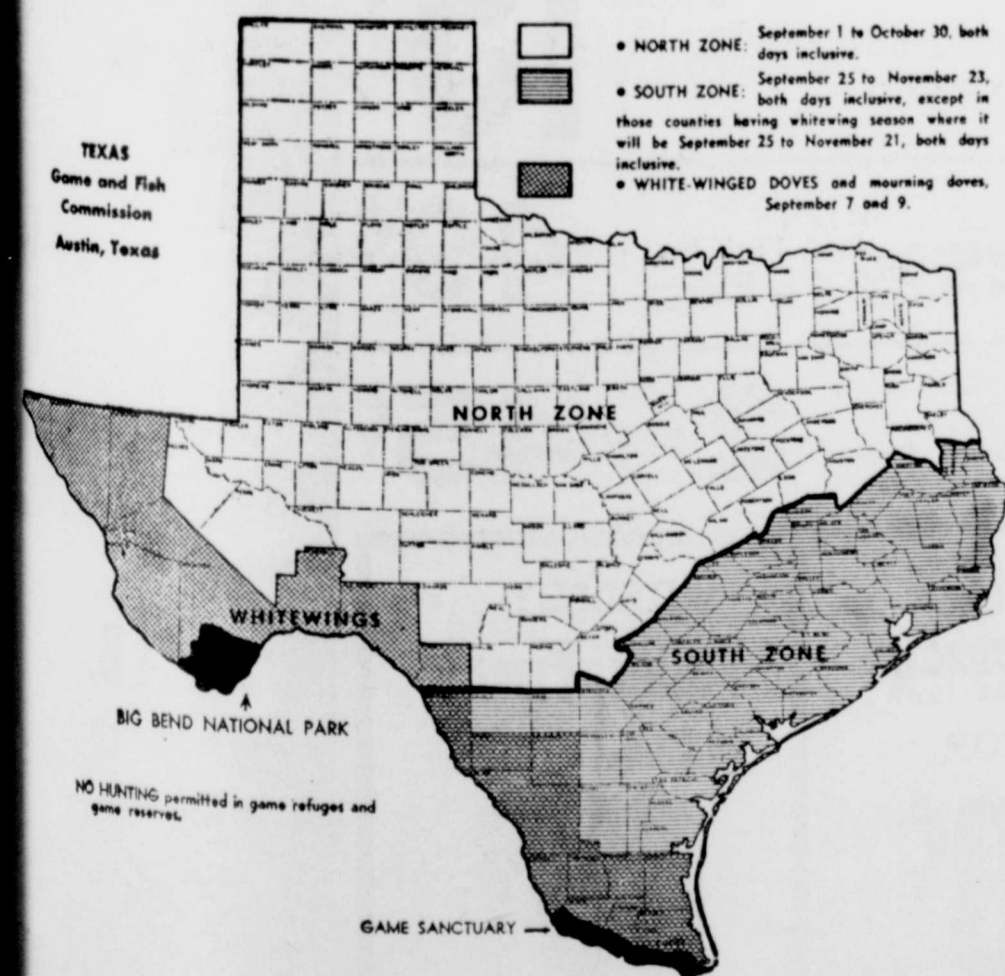

Mrs. Wilkinson points out that they were able to have all the wiring, as well as the electric heating system, installed for less than the heating system alone would have cost if they had not chosen electric heat. "There's no furnace or fuel tank, and no fuel deliveries to bother with," she adds.

Beautiful Glazed Pineapple Cherry Pie

Glaze a pretty arrangement of sunny pineapple chunks and sweet dark cherries to top this rich cheesecake pie. The filling's a brown sugar sweetened combination of sour cream and cream cheese, accented with cinnamon. Just pour it into a pie crust, add the elegant fruit topping and glaze with tart red jelly.

If you make it ahead of time, chill until serving. For a wonderful variation, try it in a graham cracker or vanilla wafer crumb crust.

GLAZED PINEAPPLE CHERRY PIE
 Pastry for single 9-inch crust
 1 (8-ounce) package cream cheese
 1/2 cup dairy sour cream
 1/2 cup brown sugar (packed)
 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 1 (14-ounce) can pineapple chunks
 1 cup pitted black Bing cherries
 1/4 cup Guava or other tart red jelly

Roll pastry thin and fit loosely into 9-inch glass pie dish. Leave 1/2-inch overhang of pastry. Fold this under and press against rim with tip of teaspoon to make a pretty pattern. Prick all over with fork. Bake in very hot oven (475 degrees F.) about 8 minutes. Cool. Soften cream cheese and beat in sour cream, brown sugar and cinnamon. Spread in bottom and sides of pie shell. Arrange pattern of well drained pineapple and cherries on filling. (See photo.) Heat jelly and 2 teaspoons pineapple syrup over low heat until jelly melts. Tint a deeper pink with few drops red coloring, if desired. Cool slightly and spoon over fruit to glaze. Chill until set. Makes 1 (9-inch) pie.

WHO'S A DOLL?

By Betsy Blake, Carnation Teen Committee

If you're fighting the battle of the bulge, there's one big fact you have to face. It never stops. You are what you eat. The girls with the craziest figures are the ones with the sanest eating habits.

Of course, if you can eat the goofiest goodies the most number of times and not have it show, you can skip this and go on to the Funnies.

For the rest of you, there are not so many chuckles. Those poor eating habits must go. We don't mean you have to give up the good things of life and nibble wheat germ and raw carrots for the rest of your days. We mean you eat moderately and sensibly. Get your mother to help you with the calorie count and the nutrition. Be sure you have the right amounts of protein, fresh vegetables, fats, minerals and vitamins every day. The natural sugar in fruits is just as satisfying as rich desserts.

If your problem is really excess poundage, don't invent a crash program of your own that will harm your health. Consult your doctor about how much to lose and how fast to lose it. And take his advice about what to eat. A gal we know went from 156 pear-shaped pounds to 125 lovely lightweight ones. When she started, her biggest battle was with will power. She resisted temptation to cheat by giving herself a day off every week. Stick to the unfattening things of life, she did for six days. The seventh, she allowed herself anything she wanted. It worked, because she liked her new silhouette more than sipping sodas... and gradually, she lost the cheating habit. She went from a monster mummy to a svelte sheath in six short months. And while she was developing that crazy figure, she could look forward to that day of indulgence.

One of her favorites for N-D-Day (Non-Diet-Day) was Lemon Ice Cream. To make about 1-1/2 quarts, chill 1-2/3 cups (large can) undiluted Carnation evaporated milk in refrigerator tray until soft ice crystals form around edges of tray (about 25 to 30 minutes). Meanwhile, combine 1-1/2 cups marshmallow whip (7-1/2 to 8-ounce jar), 1/4 cup grated lemon rind, 1/2 cup lemon juice and 1/2 cup sugar; mix. Whip evaporated milk until stiff (about 2 minutes). Add 1/4 cup lemon juice. Whip until very stiff (about 2 minutes longer). Fold marshmallow mixture into whipped evaporated milk. Spoon into refrigerator trays. Freeze until firm (about 3 hours).

The Carnation Teen Committee, made up of teens in schools across the country, make suggestions for this column. If you have an idea, write to CTC, 124 East 33rd Street, New York, 16, N.Y. A Teen Party Idea booklet will be sent on request.

Master Gland Key to Health

Why can some persons quickly and easily throw off every infection while others constantly wage a losing battle against one germ after another?

Why do most individuals react with overwhelming success to a vaccine, while it has very little effect on other persons?

Is there perhaps a master gland that triggers the immune reactions?

"Yes, it's the thymus gland," says Dr. Robert A. Good, research professor of pediatrics at the University of Minnesota, and March of Dimes grantee. Dr. Good recently won the annual award medal of the American Society for Experimental Pathology, much of his work being done with National Foundation financial support.

Dr. Good presented new evidence greatly strengthening this theory about the thymus gland in a paper he delivered before the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology at Atlantic City.

He detailed the results of experiments carried out in collaboration with other scientists which, he said, provide evidence that the thymus is a key organ in the body's endless struggle to protect itself against harmful substances. The thymus is located behind the breastbone in humans.

Much of Dr. Good's study was based on observation of 125 patients with agammaglobulinemia, a rare disease occurring most often in children whose bodies fail to produce gamma globulin, the substance in the blood which forms antibodies to fight off invasion by germs and other foreign substances.

Further study showed the association of other diseases with agammaglobulinemia, including a high incidence of rheumatoid arthritis and related diseases; leukemia and Hodgkin's disease (cancer of the lymph glands), and other disabilities suspected to result from malfunction of the immune system.

This led Dr. Good and his associates to the thymus as the important organ of immunity. The theory was tested by removing the thymus of rabbits less than five days old.

In his Minneapolis laboratory, Dr. Robert A. Good, March of Dimes research grantee in arthritis at University of Minnesota School of Medicine, checks an X-ray film.

They proved later to be unable to form antibodies in any way and thus could not throw off disease.

Secondly, Dr. Good found that these same animals would accept skin grafts from other rabbits. Normally, skin can be transplanted only between identical twins. By this means the doctor was able to show how the natural barriers to tissue transplantation can be knocked down merely by removal of the thymus in the newborn. This phenomenon, the Minnesota pediatrician believes, has a human parallel, namely agammaglobulinemia, where antibodies are usually absent. For example, one of the children with this disease now under study by Dr. Good's group has been carrying an intact skin graft for more than seven years—even though the skin had been taken from a unrelated donor.

Studies of this sort, Dr. Good pointed out, have been possible only during the last decade since modern treatment has enabled the survival of children with immunologic deficiency diseases, and new laboratory techniques made possible the accurate analysis of blood and tissue components.

"We are gradually getting much closer to understanding the whole process of immunity and its relation to disease," Dr. Good said. "We now can see a real possibility of learning how to manipulate and overcome the natural barriers to transplantation of human organs, such as the kidney, as well as other tissues."

"It's tempting to speculate that someday we may have thymus gland banks just as we now have blood banks and bone banks, in order to supply thymus tissues for persons whose immune response is below par. This may also provide us with a means of altering an individual's immunologic pattern by implanting foreign thymus cells when the need arises."

The March of Dimes-supported scientist pointed out that further studies of animals artificially deprived of the ability to produce antibodies are urgently needed to provide insight into rheumatoid arthritis and other diseases which occur in patients with agammaglobulinemia.

Fundamental research aimed at unraveling these disease mysteries is already under way with March of Dimes support at medical centers throughout the country, including Dr. Good's laboratory.

Doctor Prescribes Remodeling for Growing Pains of Practice

Aided by Gold Medalion awards for all-electric homes, Mrs. S. J. Ambrosio and Mrs. S. J. have redeveloped their modest ranch into a modern, 18-room office and clinic.

"Patient completely recovered." That's one way to describe this office-home of a New Jersey physician who added six rooms to meet the needs of a growing practice. Photo above shows new white asphalt shingle roof which helps integrate new and old sections of the 18-room building.

Chose Electric Heat

Ambrosios then decided on a new waiting room and the old one into an examination room. Because of the installation, electric heat chosen for the addition.

The whole house much more cheerful. Indirect valance lighting runs the living room and formal dining room. It has dimmer controls for a variety of attractive effects. Outdoors, soft, under-soffit lighting illuminates walkways, steps and driveways for nighttime safety.

Cool, Clean Kitchen

"I wouldn't have anything but an all-electric kitchen," says Mrs. Ambrosio. "We sometimes entertain as many as 20 people for dinner and I couldn't think of doing without my electric double oven. Even with everything going it's cool in the kitchen and there's no smoke or fumes to dirty up the house."

Wanted Good Lighting

The doctor needs good lighting to do the children's, she says. "And I think it makes in the kitchen. Mrs. Ambrosio's shopping chores have been substantially reduced. Other convenience features in the kitchen are an automatic dishwasher and a generous supply of easy-access outlets for a variety of work-saving electric housewares.

Basic building materials were carefully selected to contribute to the comfort and efficiency of all-electric living. For new roofing, the Ambrosios chose white asphalt shingles because of their attractive appearance and their heat-reflective quality.

Since an important feature of electrically heated homes is proper insulation, the Ambrosio house is completely insulated with batts and blankets of mineral wool, which keep the heat inside during cold weather and outside it's hot.

Hidden Treasure

Little known facts about the earth's mineral treasure POTASH IS ESSENTIAL TO LIFE... WITHOUT IT NOTHING COULD GROW

The first U.S. patent, signed by President Washington in 1790, was for a process to make "pot-ash" by soaking wood ashes in iron pots. The chemical was used to tan hides, make soap, glass and dyes.

THE FIRST AMERICAN SETTLERS FOUND INDIANS USING WOOD ASHES WHICH CONTAIN POTASH AND FISH TO FERTILIZE CROPS. SCIENTISTS DIDN'T DISCOVER THAT PLANTS NEEDED POTASH UNTIL 200 YEARS LATER.

Potash is now made from an ore found far underground. To open a new deposit in Canada this year, International Minerals & Chemical Corp. (Canada) Ltd. sank a shaft more than twice as deep as the Empire State building is tall.

THE WORLD'S FARMERS NEED GREAT QUANTITIES OF POTASH. THE TOTAL WEIGHT OF POTASH TAKEN EACH YEAR FROM THE JMC MINE—THE LARGEST IN THE WORLD—WILL EQUAL THE WEIGHT OF THE TOTAL POPULATION OF CANADA.

Let's Have A Tea Party!

With a handsome coconut cake and a pot of hot, fragrant tea for a setting, you'll spend a happy hour with your guests. The frosting and the filling make the cake! There's a lot of truth in that simple statement, as demonstrated here. The cake may be bought layers... or made from a cake mix such as lemon flake... or from your favorite recipe. Whatever the cake, this luscious, ambrosial frosting provides extra wonderful eating... and conversation, too!

Ambrosia Frosting

|-----------------------------|--|
| 2 egg whites, unbeaten      | 1 tablespoon grated orange rind                        |
| 1-1/2 cups sugar            | 1 cup packaged grated coconut                          |
| Dash of salt                | 1/2 cup chopped orange sections (about 1 large orange) |
| 1/3 cup orange juice        |  |
| 2 tablespoons water         |  |
| 1 teaspoon light corn syrup |  |

Combine egg whites, sugar, salt, orange juice, water, and corn syrup in top of double boiler. Beat with sturdy egg beater or electric beater about 1 minute, or until thoroughly mixed. Then cook over boiling water, beating constantly with egg beater (or at high speed of electric mixer) 7 minutes, or until frosting will stand in stiff peaks. (Stir frosting up from bottom and sides of pan occasionally with rubber scraper, spatula, or spoon.) Remove from boiling water. Beat 1 minute, or until thick enough to spread. Fold in orange rind.

To 1-1/2 cups of the frosting, add 3/4 cup of the coconut and the oranges. Spread on one cake layer. Cover with second layer. Then spread remaining frosting on top and sides of cake. Garnish top with remaining coconut and additional orange sections, if desired. Makes enough frosting for two 8-or 9-inch layers.

ENTERTAINMENT WALL FOR FAMILY FUN

All of the entertainment and hobby equipment used by the whole family can be centered in this compact storage wall. It includes a fold-down desk, a niche for a TV set, and has plenty of storage space, both open and hidden. As shown here, it is a dividing wall between two rooms. Built-in hi-fi and electronic components are at the end of the wall. In older houses, the wall can be erected as a built-in against one side of a family room. General instructions on adapting the wall to your home are featured in Booklet B205, "New Faces for Old Rooms," available for 25¢ from Service Bureau, c/o this newspaper, 740 N. Rush, Chicago 11, Ill.

Ordered

A common expression today is "that's an order" or "that's a must." It has a brisk military ring and sounds efficient and systematic. Sometimes I like it but more often I don't. Years ago, John H. Patterson of National Cash Register used to summon us to a conference with a memorandum that read, "Mr. Patterson desires your presence in the executive conference room today at 2 p. m." It was a command, but the phrasing was not so dictatorial.

The Practical Side Of Wood Siding

Intensive concentration on the aesthetic qualities of "wood siding" has tended to obscure some practical considerations. Wood siding is lumber that adorns the outer house walls. In its design and use, people are understandably pre-occupied with style, pattern, arrangement and color. However, an accomplished architect or builder sets his sights beyond visual impressions. He realizes that permanence, low maintenance, insulation and strength are just as desirable as beauty. And he knows that with modern methods and common sense planning, all of these attributes can be achieved.

Character of well designed well built wood exteriors is evident from famous old homes, still in excellent condition after two or three centuries of service. During the all but forgotten years when they were built, the techniques of enduring beauty were time consuming and limited to a privileged few. Today, however, the mediums are simple and standardized; widely and economically available. The performance of wood siding—like many other surface parts—is determined to a large extent by the quality of internal elements. Whether the outer walls are covered with wood or with non-wood materials, the supporting framework, or "bone structure," is nearly always formed with lumber. This arrangement explodes a misconception that wood siding isn't as strong as other forms of exterior surfacing. When both structure and siding are built of lumber, the two elements can be more closely integrated than if formed with different materials. This advantage can be further enhanced by the use of the stronger wood species such as Southern Pine, and by a seasoning process, which greatly increases the natural wood strength. The result is a solid margin of security that permits a safe streamlining of the residential form. All elements of lumber—the siding as well as the structural members and sheathing—should be "pre-shrunk" by proper seasoning. The resulting cohesiveness has a far reaching impact. With the entire house snug and secure, the surface lumber remains smooth and durable. The element of tightness has a favorable effect on paint performance. It also contributes to a larger realization of one of the most useful properties of wood siding—high natural insulation. When the latter is combined with weather-tightness, air and heat conditioning work with maximum efficiency at minimum cost. Proper seasoning and "pre-shrinking" of lumber are important for still another reason—the state of dryness that the process induces. This is the real key to lasting beauty. The solid dry core of properly seasoned siding is not affected by an occasional surface wetting. A "sealer" coat may be applied to the ends of the lumber to seal it against rain. Paint lasts much longer when applied to "dry" lumber. Other improvements have occurred in the manufacture of paints, which are more durable and more colorful than ever before. An attractive architectural device—the big roof overhang—is useful in protecting paint against sun and rain.

CHIEF PROPERTY

According to the National Small Homes Council, the most important property of wood in home construction is not its warmth or beauty—but strength. Tests by the U. S. Forest Products Laboratory have proven that some wood species are actually stronger, pound for pound, than steel. The Southern Pine Association says that its combination of strength and resiliency is responsible for the extensive structural use of lumber in home building.

TREATMENT

According to the Southern Pine Association, lumber should be pressure treated with chemical preservatives when used within 18 inches of the ground or under conditions of severe weather exposure. Modern chemicals are toxic to termites and impart distinctive colors.

The professional forecasters look ahead whereas the practical business man gets ahead.

IN NEED OF Specialized HELP

The car's acting up... sometimes he can repair minor problems himself... but this time it looks like it may require the work of a specialist. To correct this problem he needs a mechanic, someone who has the knowledge and equipment for this particular work.

In spiritual matters, individual worship is necessary and vital to one's life, but God in his wisdom has said that we need to worship with others too. At church we can receive help from those who have dedicated their lives to special service for God.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Burk Insurance Agency
 HOWARD CLEMENT
 New Location—Next to Legion Hall

long popular for patios, terraces and fireplace hearths—are now appearing in floors of entryways, halls and even some living and dining areas in homes. To make these surfaces easy to keep clean and to bring out their natural beauty, give them a finish of penetrating sealer which contains tung oil, suggests Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent.

Slate may be found in gray, black, green or blue tones, but any shade of slate may be dulled by wear or weather, she adds. To brighten it and also help it resist moisture, finish it with a thin type of penetrating floor sealer with a tung oil base.

"The finish is moisture resistant, forms a tough coating and helps prevent the mortar between the slate pieces from sanding off. The same finish can be used successfully for indoor flagstone or brick floors,"

Miss Wirges said.

For a screened-in porch or outdoor patio with slate or flagstone floors, use a penetrating floor sealer designed for exterior use, she suggests.

"Scrub the sealer into the slate or flagstone with a flat scrubbing brush. Wipe in and off any surplus finish with cloths that leave no lint," she adds.

This easy finish quickly changes the surface of the stone or brick from dullness to a luster with added beauty of color. Such surfaces don't have to be waxed, and you can wash them with a soap or detergent and water, the agent explains.

Record of one-event winnings for a pro rodeo season is held by Dean Oliver, Boise, Idaho, three-time world champion calf roping, with $28,841 earned in 1960.

COMBINATION

According to the Southern Pine Association, an effective medium for tying house and landscape design together is the use of vertical wood boards-and-battens, both for exterior house walls and for fences around the building. The strong vertical lines of the pattern give an impression of height and better balance to the typically low contemporary home.
