'Insurance' for Survival Industries Take Steps to Meet Nuclear Threat

American industry continues to beef up its facilities and training programs to be prepared to survive and recover from the worst an enemy could throw at this Nation.

Accustomed to insuring against ordinary hazards, the managers of many industrial and commercial enterprises in this country have taken measures to assure that their company and its employees could also survive even a nuclear attack and recover from the disaster. Most unions have enthusiastically supported such emergency preparations.

These measures are as varied as the American economy itself. Mostly, however, they fall into several categories:

- Fire fighting and disaster control to meet peacetime disasters and wartime damage on the fringe of a target area or in a zone affected by fallout.

- Shelters from fallout and sometimes blast for employees while at work. Frequently, civil defense survival information for employees' home use is provided.

- Secure locations, usually underground or in remote areas, for key personnel and records to assure that the company could continue after an attack and not suffer "corporate amnesia" caused by destruction of vital records.

Banks and insurance companies have been especially active among businesses in modernizing their records preservation procedures because of their utter dependence on records. An outstanding example is the Industrial Bank of Rhode Island, which built outside Providence an underground, self-contained, nuclear blast-resistant center to house its vital records and the computer for its centralized accounting system.

Underground operating center of the Southern Bell Telephone Co. at Griffin, Ga., is part of a special telephone headquarters for Georgia designed to maintain essential communications during and after a nuclear or other civil defense emergency. The fallout-shielded center has maps and records of all telephone facilities in the state to help in determining damage and how to repair it, a section to plot where and how long radioactive fallout might hamper repairs, an array of communications to other key outside points, and self-contained power, water, ventilation and living facilities.

Gene Robertson Holstein Produces 14,880 lbs. of Milk

Janlee Ormsby Pabst 4396589, a six year old Registered Holstein cow owned by Gene Robertson, Burkburnett, has produced a noteworthy record of 14,880 pounds of milk and 538 pounds of butterfat in 305 days.

Texas A and M University supervised the production, weighing and testing operations in cooperation with the official breed improvement programs of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

This level of production may be compared to the average U. S. Dairy cow's estimated annual output of 7,500 pounds of milk containing 275 pounds of butterfat.

Farm and ranch families throughout the United States will observe the twenty-first annual National Farm Safety Week, July 19-25, and are being urged by participating agencies and firms to utilize good safety practices in an effort to decrease the more than 2,000 non-traffic rural fatalities that occur in the nation each year.

The Production Credit Association of Texas, home-owned and operated agricultural financing institutions, are cooperating with the National Safety Council, the U. S. Department of Agriculture and various other agencies in the promotion of safety among the nation's rural population.

A slogan of "Safer American Families Everywhere" is being utilized, and emphasis is being placed on safe use of pesticides and tractors.

"Both pesticides and tractors are safe if they are used safely," commented Garland Eubank, general manager of the Wichita Falls Production Credit Association.

Eubank urged that farm and ranch families throughout Archer, Baylor, Clay, Jack Montague, Palo Pinto, Stephens, Trockmorton, Wilbarger, Wichita and Young counties, served by the operator-owned Wichita Falls Production Credit Association, observe proper safety rules the year around to help decrease loss of life and costly loss-time accidents.

The observance of safety rules in the use of pesticides and tractors will eliminate many costly accidents each year, Eubank said. Tractor accidents are caused chiefly by tipping, falls, power take-off, runover and highway collision, he said, and proper safety precautions will prevent many of these accidents.

In 1962, according to the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, there were 2,245 fatal accidents on U. S. farms and ranches, excluding traffic and home accidents. Highest number of fatal accidents occurred with machinery and highest incidence of fatalities occurred in the 15-19 age bracket, the figures revealed.

There are also several simple suggestions for the safe use of pesticides, he said, which will eliminate most of the serious accidents resulting from dusting and spraying: follow directions carefully, keep pesticides in safe places, do not smoke around pesticides, store in original containers, avoid inhalation, avoid spillage on skin or clothing, wash hands and face and change clothing after using, cover food and water containers when spraying or dusting, make thorough disposal of empty pesticide containers.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" By C. WILSON HARDER

Current events as they may be written by future historians.

And there came a time in the Great Land when the Poohbahs on the Potomac felt there was a stirring of unrest among the people with many believing that the great god that had been created, called U. S. Treasury, could not solve all problems.

So forthwith the Poohbahs brought back into being a C. W. Harder, god of a still more ancient peoples that one time lived on the River Tiber. This ancient god, called Janus, had two heads with each head looking in opposite directions. And because the ancient peoples never displayed Janus in times of peace, but only in times of war, the Poohbahs therefore declared a War on Poverty.

And thus it came into being that with one head Janus proclaimed to all the land that never before had there been such great prosperity, whilst the other head shouted equally as loud never before had so much poverty afflicted the Great Land.

And the peoples of the Great Land thought this wondrous strange indeed, and went about their business.

But it so happened at this time there was a mighty struggle going on for the minds of men between the Great Land and the Dark Land ruled over by the Ivans. Both sides wanted the other peoples of the world to follow them, yet neither.

wished to bring down on each other fire and brimstone to win the struggle in this manner.

So they were both engaged in a mighty effort of selling, which was a term used when there was a system that was called free enterprise.

And the Poohbahs of the Great Land had taken from their peoples billions upon billions of dollars to give away to the undecided people to convince them that their way was best. The Ivans of the Dark Land preached to all the peoples that the only way to prosperity and peace for all was to follow their way.

Now it so happened the Ivans of the Dark Land were not as scrupulously honest as the Poohbahs of the Great Land, and they only talked about what one head of god Janus said.

And thus the Ivans throughout the world heralded that one-fifth or more of the peoples in the Great Land were living in dire poverty, and thus the system used in the Great Land could not possibly be any good.

And these undecided peoples listened in wonderment, "How does it happen," they asked each other. "If the system of the Great Land is so great, they have gone to War on Poverty?" And they henceforth decided the thing they needed least was more poverty.

And that is how the whole world finally was, to use a word now extinct, sold, by the Ivans of the Dark Land, and communism became the system amongst all peoples throughout the world.

IT'S UP TO YOU

By Howard E. Kershner, L.H.D.

As quoted in the New York Daily News, President Johnson said recently in connection with his campaign to eliminate poverty:

"We are going to take all the money that we think is unnecessarily being spent and take it from the haves and give it to the have-nots that need it so much. Love, compassion, and charity — we understand — approve and try to practice, but this frank statement advocating the Communist policy of seizing the wealth of some and giving it to others is incredible."

Is the President "... going to try to take all the money that we think is unnecessarily being spent ... and give it to the have-nots ...?" If not, who is the "we" that is going to decide how much the American people are spending "unnecessarily," and then take all the balance away from whomsoever has anything left? Not only does this statement say Washington is going to take whatever we might have left but apparently, it is planning to tell us how much it is necessary for us to spend and then to take from us all the balance.

That is Communism pure and simple with the government exercising the right of deciding how much we should spend ourselves and then seizing all the balance to use in accordance with the judgment of the bureaucrats who have enslaved us.

That a President of the United States could have uttered such words is unbelievable. If he did, it must have been in an unguarded moment when he did not realize the significance of what he was saying. If time should prove that he knew what he said and meant it, then we shall have to find ways of successfully resisting it or the day of our total enslavement is at hand.

ROGER W. BABSON
 BABSON DISCUSSES LABOR COSTS

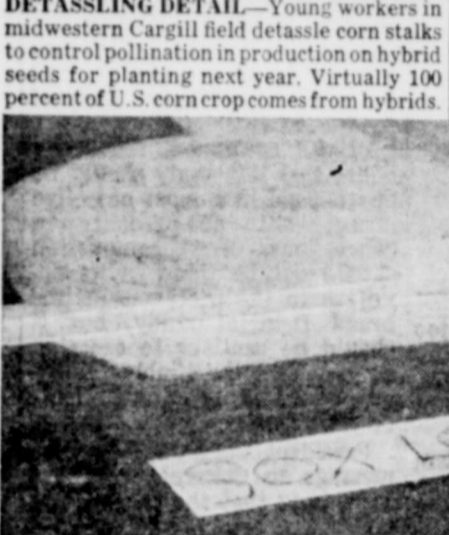

Any man who owns a business, no matter what kind it is—store, service station laundry, or factor—is going to see more of his money go for labor costs in the months ahead. This is fine, of course, for the employees, if the company is prospering and can manage to stay afloat; but it means more problems than ever for the owners.

No End in Sight
 There are plenty of good solid reasons to expect the rise in labor costs to continue, and both business operators and their workers should be interested in keeping their company thriving under these conditions. I am talking as much to employees as I am to their bosses, because only through their joint efforts can jobs and incomes be safe for both. If even a small firm goes under, it means a further burden of unemployment, not only for the families involved but also for the whole community.

 A look at union contracts in practically all of the important industries shows that the trend of both wages and fringe benefits is still strongly upward. I predict that for at least the rest of this year and next there will be no leveling off. Profits of nearly all the big corporations are high, and the union leaders are dead set on earning their keep by getting the biggest possible slice of the profits pie for their members. Remember, too, that it doesn't take long for the gains in unionized organizations to spread out to workers in non-only will be continued increases in pay rates and in fringe benefits, but that these increases may be bigger than booming and profits are sizeable.

 Fringe benefits will play a bigger part in labor costs over the period ahead. The unions highlight them in practically every bargaining session; and non-union businesses are forced to give them serious consideration in order to attract high grade people to work for them. I understand that most of those who go looking for work ask the personnel directors about health programs, pensions, vacations, holidays, insurance and such. Once in a while it seems as if an applicant is more interested in whether or not he will get a coffee break than he is in the basic wage rate or in the working hours he will have. There is no doubt about it—fringe benefits are here to stay; and both employers and employees should realize that such fringes are very costly—even though the cost may not be so immediately evident as that of wages.

Government Guidelines Ignored
 I suppose nobody really wants to flout the government's plea to hold the line on wages and prices; but the fact is, they are doing it! Pay and price inflation has become such a habit in this country that with things going well it is easy to forget that serious difficulties can result if such inflation becomes "runaway." So, until government gets more excited about pay-price inflation, I look for labor leaders and businessmen to keep a careful eye on both wages and production costs.
 As I have pointed out, the inching ahead of labor costs will mean a tighter squeeze on labor outlays for businesses all along the line. The only way that employers can avoid raising prices to hold profit margins is by lowering other costs. This means increasing efficiency, installing time, saving and labor saving equipment, and cutting out all possible waste. Even then, it will test the ingenuity of executives to come out ahead or at least hold their own. With high materials and service costs, still huge taxes, and the endless expenditures necessary to meet the bitter competition in promotion and sales, the very best and the highest grade executives should be secured and encouraged.

SCRANTON?

By TOM ANDERSON

One of the oldest political axioms is that "you can't beat somethin' with nothin'." Never has that been more accurately applied than the thought of beating Johnson with Scranton. Johnson is "really somethin'," the most cunning and ruthless political operator ever to occupy the White House. Scranton in baseball terms, throws a "nothing ball." As a matter of fact, he can't throw at all. Nor can he catch or hit or field. But he can dance. Bill Scranton is the scion of great wealth with an inheritance estimated at $8 million. His family tree goes back to 1637, and a town is named after his family. He inherited a hunk of a steel company, a railroad, a newspaper, the local gas and water company, etc.

William Scranton was born in 1917, and virtually as soon as the silver spoon was removed from his mouth he embarked on a social career at the most exclusive schools and clubs, including Hotchkiss and Yale. Among his other qualifications for the Presidency is that he has headed a United Funds drive and has been active in securing federal aid projects for the city of Scranton.

Experience?

It appears Mr. Scranton held his first political job, if not his first job, in 1959 when he joined "our" State Department as a liaison man and briefing officer. He doubtless learned a lot there. A year later he got elected to Congress, and two years after that was elected governor.

Congressman Scranton, who in his salad days dated one of the Kennedy girls, proved his friendship for the Kennedy's

My, How Clothes Have Changed

The year the attire of this tiny-waisted woman pictured on the left was the rage, both North and South Dakota were admitted to the union. Edison's phonograph was here to stay with its sign of approval by the Atlantic Monthly.

Female emancipation began—and our daring young creature covered richly and modestly in straight front, full-backed skirts draped over high and low bustles sought to take her place in the terrifying masculine world of business.

Some of these daring young women sat at a new-fangled machine called the "typewriter" and in time were to be called stenographers; this was the year that braid, velvet, chenille and fringe were strewn with a heavy hand over the better hats featured in Aldens first catalog in 1889.

Today the frills have been dropped from both the typewriter and mode of dress. Whether you head an office or a household as long as you stick to the classics for the fall of '64, you'll be making a smart buy and look your best. The Chanel "Blazer" suit pictured on the right, combined with its own bright bow-bow blouse to produce the sort of outfit prized by well-dressed women in every occupation.

Aldens version is tailored in loopy wool and nylon blend shined up brassy buttons on the double-breasted front and pockets. Whether in royal blue and gold or in green and beige the wearer of this blazer will be at home everywhere: on plane, suburban street or office.

From The Office Of Graham Purcell

Congressman Graham Purcell (D-Texas) is one of five members of the House of Representatives named to membership on the National Commission on Food Marketing House Speaker John McCormick announced Purcell's appointment.

The Commission is to consist of five Representatives, five Senators, and five members to be named by President Johnson. The chairman of the Commission will be Judge Marvin Jones of the U. S. Court of Claims in Washington, and the former Congressman from a West Texas district which then included most of the present 13th Congressional district now represented by Congressman Purcell.

The National Commission on Food Marketing will make an intensive one year study of the broad field of food marketing from the farmer to the consumer. Purcell said he was "honored and pleased" to serve on the commission and stated, "There have been many recent changes and technological advances in food marketing, and there is very little information available on which to evaluate the effects of these changes on farmers, consumers and all those in between."

"I strongly supported the resolution which established this commission because I feel that there is a real and urgent need for this comprehensive study of food marketing."

Purcell continued, "It is my belief that this study should be approached in a most objective manner with no preconceived conclusions. The commission should not be timid in its approach to the problems in this broad field of study, but it should be cautious to see that no one is unjustifiably criticized or injured by its statements or findings."

President Johnson, in his message to Congress on April 1st asking that the commission be authorized, said, "The growth and stability of our entire economy depends, to a large extent, upon the food industry. Its vitality and strength are important to farmers, processors, distributors, and retailers who depend upon it for their livelihood. Its practices affect all of us as consumers."

Congressman Purcell said the bipartisan membership of the commission, nine Democrats and six Republicans, includes outstanding individuals which "should insure a meaningful and objective study of the subject of food marketing."

A "How-To-Do-It" PAINT POINTERS

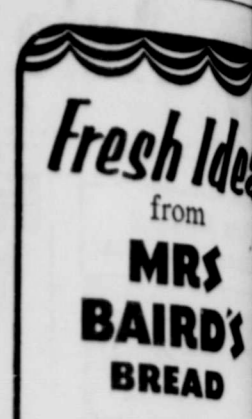

In many homes the basement is becoming more useful as a play and work area. A coat of paint makes it pleasantly livable. Cement block walls are rough yet they present an interesting texture when painted.

Here are some shortcuts: First, move everything back from the walls. Then brush down with a stiff broom or brush to get rid of loose sand, dust, and cobwebs.

You'll save a lot of time if you first dampen cement block. You can do this with a garden sprayer or the fine spray from a garden hose. Wet the wall three or four feet in front of the area you're painting and let the water soak in. You'll find this helps suck the paint into the porous block and makes painting by brush or roller much faster.

It is necessary to use a water emulsion material like "Lucite" wall paint. Since it thins with water, it is compatible with the dampened walls. It fills the pores more rapidly, and doesn't drip. "Lucite" dries with a very flat sheen, thus minimizing surface imperfections.

Fresh Ideas from MRS. BAIRD'S BREAD
PRETTY CUBES FOR DRINKS
Next time you serve punch or tall fruit drinks to guests, try one of these refreshing ice cube ideas. Fill your ice cube tray two-thirds full with any fresh frozen fruit juice. Or use cold-boiled water. It freezes more clearly than tap water. Freeze. Then top each ice cube with a sprig of mint, a strawberry, cherry halves or a pineapple chunk. Cover with more water or juice and return to the freezer. Float the pretty cubes in your punch bowl or fruit drink glass.

and for Socialism by voting with the Kennedy Administration two-thirds of the time, according to "Congressional Quarterly." He opposed the New Frontier on foreign policy questions only six percent of the time. Like Rockefeller, Scranton should be a Democrat or a Socialist.

Scranton, however, appears to be a different kind of Democrat than Johnson. Scranton is one of these Adlai Stevenson-Soapy Williams inherited rich bleeding hearts suffering from a guilt complex. He inherited so much money he wants to give yours away. Johnson is the Horatio Alger Do Anything For a Dollar Type who'll trade with and for anybody who'll pay the price.

Fighter? The "liberals" tried every body and everything to stop Goldwater. Rockefeller, Romney, Eisenhower, Nixon and Lodge fanned out, but finally the effete Scranton was badgered into tossing his homberg into the ring. All of which does not bother Battling Barry too much, since he knows Scranton, to coin a prizefight phrase, couldn't fight his way out of a paper bag.

So now at age 46, William Scranton's "experience" qualifies him for the Presidency to the same extent that Killer Khrushchev is qualified to be a Sunday School teacher.

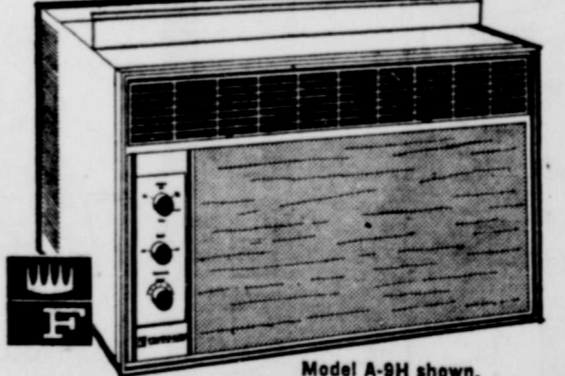

And now the "Liberals"—the people who agonize over and help select the Republican nominee and then vote Democrat—are working furiously to build an "image" for Scranton. Anybody but Goldwater is the Liberals' fond desire. Doubtless because Goldwater is the only Republican who has a chance to get elected.

Not only the American press, but the foreign press is avidly against Goldwater. Maybe if we elected him, our foreign freeloading friends and enemies will get so mad they'll turn down all our foreign aid!

Bathing Your Cat

Your cat should only be bathed in an emergency and never before the age of six months.

When a bath is a necessity, the Purina Cat Care Center suggests the following: Fill two tubs with warm, not hot, water. Lather your cat in one tub with a mild, non-medicated soap—special cat soaps and shampoos are available. Never use a strong detergent.

Rub the suds into your cat's coat, taking care to avoid its ears and eyes. After sudsing thoroughly, transfer your cat to the tub of clear water and rinse well. If your cat objects violently to being washed in the tubs of water, don't force it into them but simply suds him from one and rinse from the other.

Dry the fur thoroughly and quickly, and be sure that for several hours after the bath your cat is kept warm and out of drafts.

Remember that, contrary to old cats' tales, baths help cats with the endless job of keeping clean and also minimizes the problem of "hair ball," the nodule of hair that forms in the stomach as the result of all that licking and preening.

LADY REPORTER AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Nancy Interviews First Lady

One of the more unusual reporters at the conventions this year will be Nancy Dickerson, the lovely NBC News Washington Correspondent who manages to look like a high fashion model while she reports the news on television.

She will be a member of the Gulf-NBC-TV News team of more than 550 who, with Chet Huntley and David Brinkley as anchor-men — and "Instant Special" reporter Frank McGee — will provide coverage of the 1964 national political conventions and the ensuing presidential election.

The "Instant Special," an unusual concept in electronic journalism, has been presented since January, 1961, on NBC-TV under the sponsorship of the Gulf Oil Corporation. And continuing its broad policy of community and public service, Gulf this year will take exclusive sponsorship of NBC News coverage of the conventions and election, in addition to the two full-hour specials to be broadcast Sundays before each convention meets.

Nancy's soft-spoken, lady-like manner almost conceals her fantastic memory for names, family relationships, dates — and political detail — as Lois Weissfog, Gulf's photo librarian and photographer, will attest. Lois spent a day in Washington with Nancy, shooting her on-the-go.

Nancy's day began at the Senate, promptly at eight and finished twelve hours later at her couturiere shopping for her convention wardrobe. Lois photographed Nancy as she conducted interviews with key members of the Senate, wrote a radio news show while lunching in at her desk, chatted with Mrs. Lyndon Johnson at the White House, and interviewed the President's three Special Assistants.

After this twelve-hour whirlwind day, Lois commented: "I am even more anxious now to see Nancy covering the conventions on television. She's a good reporter. She works hard, and not only that, almost everyone in Washington seems to know and like her."

Ice Cubes Offer 'Cool' Solution To Stain Removal Problem

What would you do if your husband or son got a ball point ink stain on his fresh new sports shirt? After letting off some steam, you may also want to consider removing the stain.

All you have to do, if the stain is fresh, is to sponge repeatedly with rubbing alcohol. If it's an old stain, you might need bleach with chlorine or sodium perborate bleach or hydrogen peroxide. Rinse well.

Or suppose you let a candle burn down too far and get a candlewax stain on a nearby dish towel or washable table cloth. Just rub the stain with ice and gently scrape. Then place the stain between clean white blotters or several layers of facial tissue and press with a warm iron to remove the remaining stain.

Helpful hints such as these have been introduced as a new feature on the back of Surf detergent packages—laundry "recipes" that homemakers may clip out and save. They resemble the clip-and-save recipes that have long been a popular packaging feature for food products.

The Surf "recipes" consist of some two-dozen laundry hints on common washday problems. Each hint is printed on an easy-to-file, cut-out card and contains simple practical instructions for the laundering and cleaning care of various household items. One clip-and-save card is printed on every regular-size Surf and a set of three cards on each giant-size package. The packages, incidentally, are distributed in rotation to assure that homemakers can get different hints with each purchase of Surf.

The hints do not include instructions on how to prevent husbands and sons from getting ball point ink stains on washable fabrics. Well, you can't have everything.

Take Steps to Keep Old Staircase Safe

Do shaky stairs give you the shakes? Occasional checkups are needed to keep the staircase in solid condition. The newest post may need reinforcing with additional screws. The handrail brackets tend to loosen and should be braced with heavier screws.

Squeaky steps often can be corrected by working glue between the riser and tread, followed by driving additional finishing nails into the step. If balusters have become wobbly, check the filler strips and replace those that are too short. A few finishing nails in the square ends of the balusters will keep them rigid.

SPECIFY SIDING

Pre-finished mineral fiber house siding, in a variety of acrylic-coated colors, permits distinctive styling of homes, in both new construction and remodeling projects.

Thunderstorms in Bogar, Java, occur 320 days a year, on the average.

FOR SMOOTHER KNOWLEDGE... When you tie a monofilament leader to your nylon line a drop of clear fingernail polish on the knot. When it dries on another drop. You'll never slip again. You'll never slip again. You'll never slip again.

Roofing Figured By the 'Square'

Among building terms home owners should know is the word "square." A square of roofing material is the amount needed to cover 100 square feet of roof area.

For instance, if shingles weighing 235 pounds per square are used, each 100 square feet of roof will be protected from weather and fire brands by that weight of covering. Longer lasting protection may be gained from "heavyweight" asphalt shingles — those weighing 290 pounds per square or more — which have a normal life expectancy of 25 years.

WRESTLING WITH OUR FEARS

Our fears seem as big and as terrible as this alligator sometimes, don't they? Fear about this thing and that can paralyze us and prevent us from doing our daily work.
 Many of our fears are real. A great many of our fears, however, are unfounded — a result of thinking and worrying about ourselves. Sir John Denham phrased it this way:
"My fears are causeless and ungrounded, Fantastic dreams and melancholy fumes."
 There is only one thing that will dispel fear of this type. We must do something to get out of ourselves. That means loving and helping others.
 The Bible puts it so well in I John 4:18. "There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear; because fear hath torment. He that feareth is not made perfect in love."
 The Church is God's Agency designed to help you. We invite you to attend this week.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
