P-R-O

The old PRO column has taken a vacation, and this issue of the Star marks its first appearance since it closed down for a short rest.

In the coming weeks besides keeping you informed of Chamber of Commerce activities, we hope to present information on the Community Improvement Program, the role of the City Planning Board, the function of the Retail Merchants Association, and other timely articles.

Although the PRO column has taken a vacation, the Chamber of Commerce has been unable to rest. One of the big undertakings of the Chamber has been the promotion and selling of Burkburnett to various groups. In July, a group of six members traveled to Amarillo for the purpose of showing a filmstrip on Burkburnett to some of the military personnel who are moving to Sheppard. Approximately 130 people were present, and many showed an interest in settling in Burkburnett. Many have arrived, and others are arriving daily. These new citizens are a welcome sight. Please welcome them if you have the opportunity, and the Chamber wishes to officially welcome them at this time.

Many fine acquaintances were made at Amarillo. A desire to pitch in and make Burkburnett a better place was expressed by these people before they ever arrived. Let's take advantage of these volunteers in our various clubs and organizations.

Another group of new citizens to Burkburnett is Bill Froman and his assistant coaches in the school system. These men are now hard at work with football. Season tickets are now on sale. Let's support our coaches and team, for what better ambassadors could a city have than a group of well trained, disciplined youth representing them.

Forty-five clubs and organizations were represented at a Friday night meeting at Town Hall. Purpose of the meeting was to determine if a need for a Community Coordinating Council exists in Burkburnett.

Mrs. F. M. McMurtry, president of the Council of Federated Study Clubs, presided over the meeting. Roll was called by Mrs. M. D. Cheney, acting secretary.

Chamber of Commerce manager, L. J. Byars, told the group of some of the problems of the Community.

Mrs. James E. Frye, Community Council Steering Committee chairman, explained the purpose of the meeting and led the spirited discussion that followed.

A show of hands seemed to indicate a need and desire for a Community Coordinating Council in Burkburnett, but there were many questions concerning just how broad in scope it would be and if leadership would be drained from other organizations. Mrs. Frye explained that the council would function as a clearing house of information on community civic projects needed and those already planned. She explained that this would prevent some projects overlapping while other needed projects might go unnoticed. The Council would have no power to decide on projects for the various clubs, but merely to inform the representatives of which projects are already underway or planned or needed.

Pointing up the need of a Community Coordinating Council, some of those present at Friday night's meeting said they welcomed the opportunity to tell of some of the needed projects in their particular field of interest.

John Larson discussed recreational needs of youth and others in Burkburnett.

Jack Aaron, president of the Burkburnett Bank, said that while not speaking for or against the proposed Community Council, he was for whatever would "Help build a better Burkburnett."

Motion was made by Sam Spencer, representing the organized Friberg-Cooper Community, that the steering committee draw up by-laws and constitution to present at the next meeting.

Mrs. Ralph White proposed an amendment to the motion that the Coordinating Council be placed under the leadership of the Council of Federated Study Clubs. Amendment was defeated.

Motion seconded by Clyde Conway. Motion carried.

Proposed by-laws and constitution will be presented at the organizational meeting September 30th at 7:30 p.m. at Town Hall.

Motion seconded by Clyde Conway. Motion carried.

The Power Of Communication

Writing in U. S. News & World Report, David Lawrence discussed problems that stand in the way of establishing world peace. He laid heavy stress on the need for moral force — for, in other words, world opinion that "... must cross all barriers — as it inevitably can when a just cause is advanced by the crusades of courageous men."

Then he said this: "Communication is the biggest problem of our times, but it is not unsolvable. "Communication based on constantly reiterated radio reports and the tidings carried every day by travelers can lay the foundation for the public protests that often turn into revolution. The concerted will of an oppressed people is stronger than any domestic police force. . . ."

The long-run potentialities of this are enormous. We live in a world in which technological achievements have made possible a level and scope of communication which would have seemed fantastic even a comparatively few years ago. Radio, as Mr. Lawrence said, is one. And, as he also said, so the words of travelers can be. Here is where the airplane, most especially the jets, have wrought such vast changes. We can go almost anywhere now in a matter of hours, and the cost is within the means of millions of us, not just the few. The traveler — whether he goes on business, or for education, or just plain pleasure — can and does make friends. And he can take the breath of freedom with him.

Ultimately, though the road be long and cruel, every nation's people decide what kind of government they will have. Communication, in all its aspects, can do much to feed the springs that produce liberty and justice.

Money Changers In The Temple

Time was when "sandwich money" meant the nickels, dimes and occasional quarter which we carried to school when mother was too busy to pack lunch. But now it means small change, itself, and still true is that fine old expression "What good is money? You can't eat it."

If things continue the way they're going, we unhappily predict that the day will come when Uncle Sam's metallic sandwiches will contain just about as much nourishment as any bread and butter variety which one of them will buy. For no matter how hard we try, we can't force ourselves to accept the official explanation that it's a shortage of silver, and nothing more, which has brought about those silverless coins. That same parent-sponsored instinct which caused us to clutch our school-days' sandwich money tightly right up to lunchtime keeps telling us that Uncle Sam's spend-thrift ways have more to do with the impending change in our coinage than the negligence of prospectors or the exuberance of photographers using up silver in film.

We recall that something similar to these new sandwich coins used to show up now and again on the school-grounds, when someone would dip a penny in quicksilver and try to pass it off as a dime. Come to think of it, one of those mercury-coated pennies probably would have more intrinsic value than one of Uncle Sam's new-fangled sandwich dimes. It may come to pass that it will have had more purchasing power, too, with or without its quicksilver coating.

Whether we have silver in our pocket, or a sandwich, we rather suspect that unless this new kind of money changer is driven from the temple of our government soon, we're going to need a new kind of Samson, one who will hold the pillars in place, to keep the gilded dome from crashing down upon all our heads.

Shortly before his untimely death in London, Adlai Stevenson said: "Aggression begets aggression. Retreat begets retreat. We either stand, as we discovered in Europe, and hold the line at appropriate places or we don't. And if we don't and aggression succeeds, they knock on door after door and find that they open. Ultimately they come to the ultimate door where resistance becomes imperative. Then you have a holocaust. You have a major war. This is what we are trying desperately to avoid in South Viet Nam."

While drilling for oil in the Sahara Desert, Oil Facts reports, U. S. oilmen discovered a huge underground lake of fresh water. More than 200 wells have now been drilled in the area, each capable of irrigating up to 500 acres. With this water supply the desert can produce three crops of fruits and vegetables a year.

Roger W. Babson Weekly Report

ROGER W. BABSON

REPEAL OF 14b AND UNION LABOR

Babson Park, Mass., Sept. 2—The big unions have been waging an uphill battle in recent years. Gains in membership have been hard to come by. As a percentage of the total work force, unionism has been slipping. But all that will be changed with repeal of 14b of the Taft-Hartley Act . . . doing away with the right of the states to prohibit the union (closed) shop. From now on, we say, watch the unions roll to new heights of power!

Looking Back A Bit

It was thirty years ago that labor was given its first magna carta, the Wagner Act. Under the sponsorship of the New Deal, this measure guaranteed the right of workers to organize, to negotiate with employers, to strike, and to be protected against unfair labor practices. Employers, in general, claimed that the law was one-sided, giving full consideration to the unions but restricting management. Over subsequent years, Congress has appeared to agree with this claim.

In 1947 the Taft-Hartley Act was passed, over a Truman veto, giving protection to management's rights. It was promptly dubbed a "slave labor act" by the unions. The congressional pendulum, nevertheless, continued to swing away from labor and toward management. By 1958 Congress was ready to force unions to file reports on their pension and welfare funds. Further restrictions were placed on organized labor by way of the Landrum-Griffin Act of 1959, which barred certain types of picketing and secondary boycotts.

Congress Slow To Swing To Labor

Over the last several years, union heads for the most part have maintained agreeable relations with the White House as well as with government labor agencies. Labor's progress with Congress, however, has been slow. Not until the current session has there been a safe majority who could be counted on to get behind major demands of the unions and push through legislation favorable to labor.

Partly responsible has been the hard-fought battle of AFL-CIO groups to elect friendly aspirants to both the House and the Senate. Then, too, President Johnson has given encouragement, even though sometimes rather muted, to a number of union legislative targets. . . . upping the minimum wage, for example—eventually to $1.75—and wider coverage.

Right-To-Work Ban Huge Boon For Labor

Perhaps no other piece of legislation has nettled labor leaders more than section 14b of the Taft-Hartley Act. The reason is clear. This section gives individual states the right to pass their own right-to-work laws making the involuntary union shop illegal. In the 19 states which have taken advantage of this opportunity under 14b, it has meant that workers no longer had to join a union and pay dues in order to get or keep a job. Repeal of 14b will erase these state laws and bring a return of the union-shop labor contract.

As a result, union exchequers in these 19 states could be increased by as much as $10 million by initiation fees alone coming from those employees who will have to become union members if they are to work with firms that are under union contract. This, of course, will substantially improve the financial condition of such labor organizations; for the newly signed up members will be contributing regular dues each month. This will serve to strengthen labor's economy position for lobbying as well as in political campaigns.

Labor Lifting Legal Sights

Top labor officials are steadily raising their sights for further demands in Congress. Still on the longer-term agenda are calls to reduce the basic work week from 40 hours to 35, to gain bigger and more prolonged payments for the unemployed, to promote ever-wider public works schemes, and to eliminate, eventually, other labor constraints in the Taft-Hartley and Landrum-Griffin Acts. Union lobbyists feel that under this Congress at least they have little to fear from forces that would try to cut back labor's legal rights by such means, for example, as placing unions under existing anti-trust measures. And labor surely will fight vigorously to improve its congressional "edge" at the 1966 elections.

Barbecues In The Royal Manner

Outdoor barbecues—a popular and pleasant summertime entertainment—have recently become internationally famous and prime ministers and potentates are discovering the appeal of good food in an informal atmosphere. Mastering the art of the barbecue is relatively simple and to help you become an expert at the grill, here are a few pointers. Use good equipment for best results. Barbecue should be easy to clean, have an adjustable grill, a firebed or vent for heat control and a good-sized cooking area. Especially serviceable are stainless steel barbecues that won't corrode even when left outdoors and are easily cleaned with hot soapy water and a stainless sponge.

Build the right kind of fire. Select a long-burning fuel that will give strong, steady heat with little tar, smoke or odor. A gravel bed one inch deep under the fuel helps the fire to "breathe" and acts as drainage; grease settles between the stones and does not flare.

Control the fire. Whether you use kindling, liquid or solid fire starters—never alcohol or gas—line-keep the fire burning at the proper temperature. For high heat, concentrate the coals; for low heat spread the coals out.

Keep the proper tools close at hand. Essential for tending fire and food are a set of long-handled stainless steel implements—tongs, spatula, fork, knife and spoon. Stainless utensils are rust-resistant, efficient and never mar delicate flavors with a foreign taste.

Don't undercook or overcook. Because wind conditions and the amount of fuel used can vary firebed temperature, use a grill thermometer to achieve the right heat for each type of food. For roasts, a meat thermometer provides the best guide to doneness. To avoid the embarrassment of dried-out chicken or underdone lamb, consult a time chart to determine how long foods should cook and at what temperature.

Vietnam Negotiation

THE whole world, from the United Nations to Podunk, is in a dither about negotiations to end the war in Vietnam. Apparently it is believed that if the Communists and those who believe in free government can sit down around a table together, they can iron out their differences and reach an agreement.

In the first place, this was done at Geneva in 1954. If that agreement had been kept, the present Vietnamese war would never have been started. It was destroyed by Communist aggression just as any new agreement would be destroyed if and when it was in the interest of Communism to do so.

In the second place, it cannot be too often repeated that the Communists are not seeking the solution of the Vietnamese problem. Their aim is conquest, and it will remain that with or without an agreement. They will resort to an agreement if by doing so they believe they can get the West to relax and lower its guard, making it easier for them to gain new territory by renewed aggression at the strategic time.

All talk of settling the problem in Vietnam by negotiations is idle. It cannot be done unless those who wage it are so eager for peace that they are willing to surrender. There might be some sort of face-saving formula, but it would be meaningless.

The Communists will negotiate only if they think that is the best way to gain more territory. The choice before us is simple. We must defeat Communism or surrender to it. Have not the Communists told us over and over that free government and Communism cannot live in the world side by side, but that if we do not conquer them, they will conquer us? The more we postpone facing up to that essential fact, the more likely we are to lose in the struggle for survival.

weather says Thelma Wirges. You don't have to waste any part of the cheese you buy. Cut off only as much as you need each time you use it. Store the rest of the cheese tightly wrapped in paper or a clean cloth. Use promptly before the cheese dries out. Cheese may mold without spoiling. If it does scrap off the mold and use the rest.

A knowledge of cheese is a handy thing to have. Distinct groups of cheese number about 18. Don't be alarmed by the fact that there are 400 varieties of cheese in these groups. Many of the same or similar varieties are known by different local names. When cooking cheese, go easy with the heat. Cheese melts completely and spreads its good flavor through the whole dish when cooked over low heat. Cooked too quickly, cheese gets tough and stringy

To speed up the melting and blending of cheese, cut it into small pieces before you heat it by breaking, grating, slicing or shaving it thin. Whenever possible, mix the cheese into a sauce before adding it to other ingredients.

Explore the cheese counter in your favorite grocery store soon, and have an exciting adventure.

Sweet corn is a delightful summer treat, reminds Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent. Examine the husks and kernels before making your selection, she adds.

The husks should be green and fresh looking. Kernels should be well filled, bright plump, milky and firm enough to give slight resistance to pressure. In addition, kernels should be free from insect damage.

Immaturity is indicated by small, soft undeveloped kernels —and such kernels lack flavor when cooked. Overmaturity is Sweet corn must be properly handled from the time it is packed until it is put into the kettle if high quality is to be maintained. Buy only the quantity of sweet corn which will be quickly consumed.

Corn handled carefully is of premium quality. Why? At ordinary summer temperatures, about half the sugar content of mature corn is lost within 24 hours. Cooling slows the loss of sugar.

Sweet corn should be the last purchase on your shopping tour. Then take it home promptly and put it into the refrigerator.

The Best Birthday Gift Of All

Kids and cats seem to go together. And the sweetest present you can give to your youngster is a cute, cuddly kitten. Because cats need gentle handling, a child must learn early — by instruction and example — to enjoy kitty without mauling or hurting him. Teach your youngster never to pick a kitten up by the scruff of its neck or to tug at its tail. On his first day in your home, Kitty has many adjustments to make and may be bewildered by the new surroundings. The newcomer will feel less lonesome if there's a "nursery" waiting. A cardboard box lined with a soft towel or flannel cloth is fine for a first bed. The cat experts at the Purina Pet Care Center in St. Louis caution that you resist the temptation to let your youngster pet and play with the new kitten for long periods. Little kittens, like any other young creature, need lots of sleep. As your new kitty becomes more acquainted with his new home, he will be more relaxed and playful.

GOD'S WILL

The greatest commandment is that we should love our God. This is a free choice that man has, but it is God's desire that all would seek Him. He is our heavenly Father, and desires only the best for us.

ATTEND CHURCH SUNDAY

Therefore thou shalt love the Lord thy God, and keep his charge, and his statutes, and his judgments, and his commandments, always.
Deuteronomy 10:1

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
 THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

By Vern Sanford
 TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, Tex.—As absentee voting gets under way for the September 7 election on the proposed constitutional amendment to increase size of the Texas Senate from 31 to 39 members, battle lines are drawn.
 State AFL-CIO is leading the opposition. It charges that the proposal is a "pig in a poke" offering no guides as to where the new districts will go.
 "Committee for Fair Representation," made up primarily of trade and industrial association representatives, contends that Texans would get "proper representation without jeopardizing the interests of sparsely settled areas" by adding eight new members to the Senate.
 Lobby groups acknowledge they favor the plan because increased membership would cut down a senator's work load somewhat and make it easier to communicate with him.
 The enlargement amendment, which triggered one of the 59th Legislature's most bruising battles, was intended to take some of the sting out of legislative redistricting by making it possible for most incumbent senators to keep their jobs.
 Big city forces are divided, while most rural interests tend to favor a 39-member Senate.
 Whether either campaign affects the expected light voter turnout remains to be seen. Most predictions are that the amendment will fail.

Crime News Study
 First three members of the Legislature's 11-member "Interim Committee to Study News Media on Proceedings in Criminal and/or Civil Courts" have been named by Lt. Gov. Preston Smith.
 They are Sens. Dorsey Harde-man of San Angelo, Culp Krueger of El Campo and Bruce Reagan of Corpus Christi. Yet to be named are three members from the House of Representatives, three from the news media and two from the State Bar of Texas.
 Panel resulted from controversy over deletion of a provision from the new Code of Criminal Procedure which would have severely restricted pre-trial news coverage. New code takes effect January 1.
 Study committee was authorized to take a sharp look at existing coverage.

AG Rules
 In requested opinions, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr has held that:
 —Texas Western College cannot use money appropriated by Legislature for tuition scholarships to aid students living in Juarez, Mexico.
 —Sections of a new act instituting jury wheel system in Young, Titus and Kerr counties are unconstitutional "local and special laws."
 —El Paso County commissioners have no authority to grant an easement across Ascarate Park for an underground gas pipeline.
 A city, after annexing an area including a county road, does not need permission of county to abandon and close such road or street.

Appointments
 Gov. John Connally has announced his first appointments in a series of several needed to get newly-designated agencies in gear.
 His choices for the Texas Commission for Indian Affairs are Dempsey Henley of Liberty, W. R. Beaumier, publisher of the Lufkin Daily News, and Ed Easterling of Beaumont, former District Attorney of Jefferson County. As Mayor of Liberty, Henley worked with the Alabama-Coushatta Indians to help achieve their severance from the State Board of Hospitals and Special Schools and self-government under guidance by the Commission.
 James B. Swann of Houston has been named to head new Texas Industrial Commission office of export expansion.
 Rep. Will Smith of Beaumont is interim chairman of a committee to plan office construction for House members.

Oil Allowable Held
 Texas Railroad Commission set September oil allowable at 28 per cent of potential, same as the previous month.
 Allowable amounts to more than 2,800,000 barrels a day, 41,000 less than for August. Commission emphasized this level would prepare industry for demands of peak winter months.
 On September 1, Commission will be set up District 8-A, composed of 21 West Texas counties. They are Bailey, Lamb, Hale, Floyd, Motley, Cottle, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Dickens, King, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Garza, Kent, Gaines, Dawson, Borden and Scurry.
 Commissioners say the new district will promote efficiency in administering oil and gas conservation laws.

Screwworm Battle Intensified
 Federal - state air invasion against the screwworm fly was stepped up during July with the release of 632,000,000 sterile screwworm flies over Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, California and 12 Mexican states.
 Dr. S. B. Walker, Director of the Texas Animal Health Commission, and Dr. John Wilbur, Veterinarian for the Animal Health Division of U.S. Department of Agriculture, report that 115,800,000 sterile flies were released over Texas where 63 confirmed cases of screwworm were reported. Special "hot spotting" was directed in Texas and northern Mexico river beds.
 Largest number of confirmed cases in Texas—25—was in Zavala County. New Mexico confirmed 29 cases; Arizona, 94; California, three; and Mexico, 800, where 438,600,000 sterile flies were released.

Brucellosis Program Moving
 At the end of July, 182 of Texas' 254 counties were engaged in some phase of Brucellosis Eradication program, with 128 qualified for certification. So reports federal and state animal health authorities.
 In Atascosa, Bosque, Brooks, Coryell, Duval, Erath, Falls, Hood, Milam, Parker, Potter, Somervell and Williamson Counties, area testing was in progress. But some of the heaviest livestock population areas in the east of the state were among the 72 counties not yet in stride, they said.

Labor Day Traffic Toll
 Department of Public Safety estimates 35 will die in traffic accidents in Texas during the three-day Labor Day holiday.

Violations of Texas traffic laws will be apparent in nine out of 10 of these accidents, says Col. Homer Garrison Jr., DPS director.

As part of stepped-up efforts to curb the toll, DPS will add 150 men from other uniformed services to supplant its regular Highway Patrol force.

Interbasin Canal Funds Asked
 Funds for more planning on the proposed 418-mile interbasin canal along the Texas Gulf Coast from the Sabine River to the Lower Rio Grande Valley are included in preliminary fiscal 1967 budget plans of U.S. Bureau of Reclamation.
 Budget calls for planning of Sinton and Baffin Bay diversion works and study of Lower Rio Grande Valley irrigation costs.
 Funds also are sought for study of proposed pumping of water from the canal up the Colorado River and pipelining to West Texas cities.

Short Snorts
 Texas Employment Commission reports that a breakdown of 60,328 farm placements made during July showed 41,894 workers placed in cotton farming activities; 10,888 in vegetable harvests; 1,448 in grain; 811 in fruit and nut trees; 487 in livestock work; 2,652 in general field crops; 1,225 in non-seasonal farm work; and 923 in dairy and poultry jobs.
 The 1,600 teenagers who attended this third annual Attorney General's Youth Conference on Crime will distribute their findings on causes of juvenile crime and school dropouts to youth and community organizations.

Texas Water Commission set October 25 for hearing on application of North Texas Municipal Water District, Wylie, to triple Lavon Reservoir conservation storage.
 Federal water system loans totaling $24,000,000 have been granted 213 Texas communities and 218 more are seeking loans, according to Sen. John Tower.

Texas Hospital Association has received a U.S. grant to conduct research on planning of community health resources for disasters.
 Monday saw the last meeting of Board for Texas State Hospitals and Special Schools, now replaced by new State Department of Mental Health.
 Texas Railroad Commission hearings are set September 8 on request of National Bus Traffic Association, Inc. for a 10 per cent hike in local and interline rates and charter services.

Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler has announced that 531,000 acres will be offered at the third oil and gas lease sale of 1965 on October 5 in the General Land Office.
 None of the 8,000 braceros who will be admitted from Mexico to the U.S. between September 1 and October 1 will work in Texas, according to Texas Employment Commission.
