P-R-O

Active Chamber of Commerce throughout the nation have speeded up their programs in their endeavor to lure new industry into their area. The Burkburnett Chamber of Commerce is no exception. In the past, where small towns and communities depended on natural resources and agriculture for the main stabilizers for the economy of the area, now find that this is not sufficient. This is due to the depletion of natural resources and the migration of farmers from the farms into the cities.

The quickest way to overcome this drop in economy is to create new jobs through a more diversified industry. To be able to determine the best location for their plant or factory, many facts and figures are gathered. In getting this information it tends to bring the people of the area closer together. Because so many people are contacted to contribute their bit to form the final picture, they get a feeling of being needed and also useful. To give you some idea of the information requested, and the response of the people of whom it was requested, the Chamber of Commerce would like to share it with you.

Recently, a garment factory showed interest in locating in this area. To impress upon the prospect the good relationship between Burkburnett and area towns, from which a large majority of the labor supply would come, the towns were contacted and asked to express their feeling toward Burkburnett. Letters were received from leading citizens and city officials from Devol, Grandfield, Randlett, Walters and Cookietown, Oklahoma. On the Texas side of the Red River, letters were received from Iowa Park, Electra, Clara-Fairview Organized Community, Sheppard Air Force Base and local ministers. Bear in mind, none of these people were prompted as what to state in their letters, other than to express their true feelings. Not a single letter was derogatory to the purpose. This pointed out to the prospect that Burkburnett is respected, cooperative and progressive. You, the citizens of Burkburnett should feel honored by these fine testimonials, it does however, burden you with responsibilities that you were probably unaware of before.

Since women make up ninety-five percent of the labor needed by a garment factory, it was necessary to know if enough was available.

It was determined that 36,420 people lived within a 25 mile radius of Burkburnett, excluding Wichita Falls. Of this number 12,847 were females 14-years-old and older, and 8,928 females not in the labor force.

The relationship between management and labor in a certain area is very important to industry. After checking with surrounding towns and present industries this relationship proved to be excellent. In fact, one company with organized labor, reported no grievances had been filed in 30 years.

Although much more information was supplied to the prospect pertaining to transportation, site location and cost, utilities, taxes, etc. this will give you some idea the importance industry places on the attitudes, actions, prejudices and political behavior of the people in the area.

This particular prospect chose to locate in another community. There will be others however, if you and I continue to keep the welcome mat out it is very possible our community will be chosen next.

Mrs. Lois Michael Wooton will leave November 2nd for Fukuoka, Japan, to join her husband, Howard Wooton, who is stationed there with the U. S. Army. They will be in Japan approximately 3 years.

Rummage Sale

The University Study Club will sponsor a BAKE SALE and RUMMAGE SALE Saturday, October 30 in building No. 208 on Main Street starting at 8:00 a. m.

Burk Bank Chairman Elected

Weldon Nix, owner of White Auto Store in Burkburnett, was elected chairman of the board of directors of The Burkburnett Bank, according to Jack Aaron, president.

Nix said he was honored to accept the office and expressed confidence in the board and bank's future. He pointed out that of the bank's 123 stockholders 98 per cent reside in the Burkburnett and southern Oklahoma area and reflect a broad cross section of area business.

He attributed much of the bank's success to the support of the stockholders and leadership of its officers and employees.

Nix, a well-known resident of Burkburnett is an active civic worker and has been a member of the Burkburnett Independent School District board for 10 years.

Nix and his wife, Danella, are the parents of two daughters, Mrs. Sharon Martin of Madill, Okla., and Tona, attending Oklahoma State University; and two sons, Danny, 9, and David, 5.

Bulldogs Travel To Vernon For Lion Hunt, Friday Night, 7:30

By DEE UNDERWOOD

A major safari is in the preparation stage, as the Burkburnett Bulldogs go Lion Hunting, Friday night, in Vernon's Lion Stadium at 7:30 p. m., seeking their first conference win in 4-AAA.

A week's layoff has put all hands in shape for this traditional neighborly "fued," as well as giving them an extra week to iron out some fundamental errors. While the Bulldogs sat on the sidelines last Friday, the Vernon Lions were having a double tough time in downing the Graham Steers, 7-6. It was the closest the Lions had come to defeat since their season opener. In that contest, they were beaten by Quanah, 22-16.

The Lions have the best balanced line, although not the heaviest, that the Bulldogs have faced all season. They average 173 pounds in the forward wall, their largest man being 195 and smallest 165 pounds. This means that the Bulldogs will be giving away 11 pounds per man.

In the backfield, Vernon will hold only a three pound per man average, but once again this is a balanced average of 161 pounds per man.

The Lions biggest weapon is something known as the "forward pass," the "bomb," or the "long ball." In other words, they sure can throw the ball. Directing this attack will be Ed Marsh, a 175 pounder with a strong arm. His favorite target seems to be end, Doyle Close, a 165 pounder who figured prominently in Vernon's win over the 1964 Bulldogs. Vernon has a good fullback in 165 pound, Ed Spradlin. Mike McCauley, 145, and Joe Eggin, 160, round out the backfield at left and right halfbacks.

The Lions have a fine offensive tackle in 195 pound, Mike

Baskerville, another proven veteran, Vernon scribes rate him as one of the best they've seen play for the Lions.

The Bulldogs will be throwing their "one-two" backfield punch at the Lions, featuring right halfback, Charles Herring, and fullback, Dean Thompson. Herring had a real good night at Graham, picking up 164 rushing. Thompson is dependable for short gainers and occasionally breaks away for the long ones. Tony Hodges displayed some fine form, in passing the Bulldogs some 60 yards in one drive. End, Wally Robinson made some brilliant catches, drawing praise from several people, including the Graham coaching staff.

The Bulldogs would like very much to improve on their 2-4 record and are eager to try the Lions. With two weeks of preparation and recuperation, we think the Bulldogs will rise to the occasion. So, we say Bulldogs possibly by a touchdown.

Junior Class Float For Homecoming To Depict Cleopatra

It has been decided that the theme of the Junior Class Homecoming float will be Cleopatra. The colors of the float will be white and gold and it will be decorated to fit the Cleopatra theme.

The Junior Class attendant to the Homecoming Queen is Miss Kris Smith who will be riding on the float along with Miss Donna Greer and Miss Stephanie Slusher.

The Junior Class float is sponsored by The Burkburnett Bank, Texas Electric, and the C. J. Lippard Insurance Agency.

Kings Seek Next Two Victories On The Road

Burkburnett's undefeated Burk Kings will go on the road for their next two games.

This week they travel to Rockwall, Texas where they will honor the original contract calling for a home game and away from home games with the Arlington Red Raiders.

This will make the third time that these two teams have played this year, (last week's game was the result of moving the Raiders in after Richardson failed to confirm their appearance again. This was necessary in order to avoid being open the week of the 23rd.)

Nov. 6, the Kings will journey to Corpus Christi to take on the Corpus Volunteers.

The Nov. 13 opponent here has not been set as yet.

November 20, the Kings will play the Oklahoma College All Stars which will feature name college players from practically every major university in Oklahoma, some of the better known players will be such players as Vernon Moore, formerly of Cameron, now with Central State. The Pennell brothers of OU, Larry Shields, formerly of OU and a Star football player during his high school days for the Wichita Falls Coyotes.

November 27 is indefinite.

December 4 the Kings will play the McAlester Convicts at Atoka, Oklahoma.

The Kings are hoping for a bowl invitation from the Tulsa Oilers at Tulsa's Skelly Stadium in Mid-December.

If the Kings can get by their next four opponents, then a Bowl invitation would climax the best season ever experienced by the Kings since their inception.

Senior Class Plans Float

President John Carrah called a meeting of the Senior Class, Monday, October 18 during lunch hour, so that the Senior class members could vote on one of the three themes which were submitted by the theme committee for the Homecoming Parade float.

The three themes were "Wild West," "Man in Space," and "Roaring Twenties." The Senior class selected "Roaring Twenties," as its theme. The afternoon of Thursday, Oct. 21, the seniors met to plan decorations and colors to be used on the float.

The float is being constructed at Billy Gilmore's Paint and Body Shop on East Third Street. Sponsoring the Senior Class are First National Bank and Owens and Brumley Funeral Home.

A SOVIET PLAN FAILS

A few years ago, various American delegations, some headed by important officials of the government, visited the Soviet Union in order to see what it was doing in the field of electric power development. On their return, spokesmen informed us that the Russians were going great guns and threatened to outdo us in producing and distributing electricity.

This, naturally, was the source of considerable concern in the United States. In the modern world, any nation's electric power capacity is a major indicator of its own strength.

Now, a United Press International dispatch, based on reports from Moscow, says: "The Soviet economy, which is in the throes of a new grave agricultural crisis, is suffering also from serious power shortages . . . the fuel and power sector of the Soviet economy has failed to reach its target for the seven-year plan which ends this year." Further, the UPI tells us, "Gone also is the battle cry of years past that Russia was well on her way to catch up and would soon overtake the American economy and its achievements."

The fact remains, we are still far ahead of the communists in electric power output from all sources - including nuclear energy. The Soviets, it is true, have been attempting to adopt some capitalist incentives to production such as the profit motive, but so far the results seem to have been sparse. The deadening hand of a massive bureaucracy still rules. The conflict lies between a state ruled economy on one hand and private enterprise on the other. Now, as before, private enterprise dominates the race, but how often do you hear one of our own government officials forthrightly commending the U.S. investor-owned power industry for the tremendous power development job it has done in our own country? They will praise instead a tax-exempt government-owned job that copies the Russian system.

WHY CAN'T WE?

The 25c piece you have in your pocket contains about 23c worth of metal. The new sandwich coin will contain about 2c worth of metal. If Uncle Sam can make coins for 2c and "sell" them for 25c, why can't you and I? Oh, we're well aware that it's against the law for private citizens to do that, but people have been known to risk the consequences of law-breaking for a much smaller margin of profit. So we ask in all seriousness - what is to prevent anyone with a yen for easy money and a little knowledge of metallurgy and mechanics from stamping out his own "sandwich" money in such fashion that it would be virtually indistinguishable, except through laboratory analysis, from the silverless 25c coins now being made in U. S. mints?

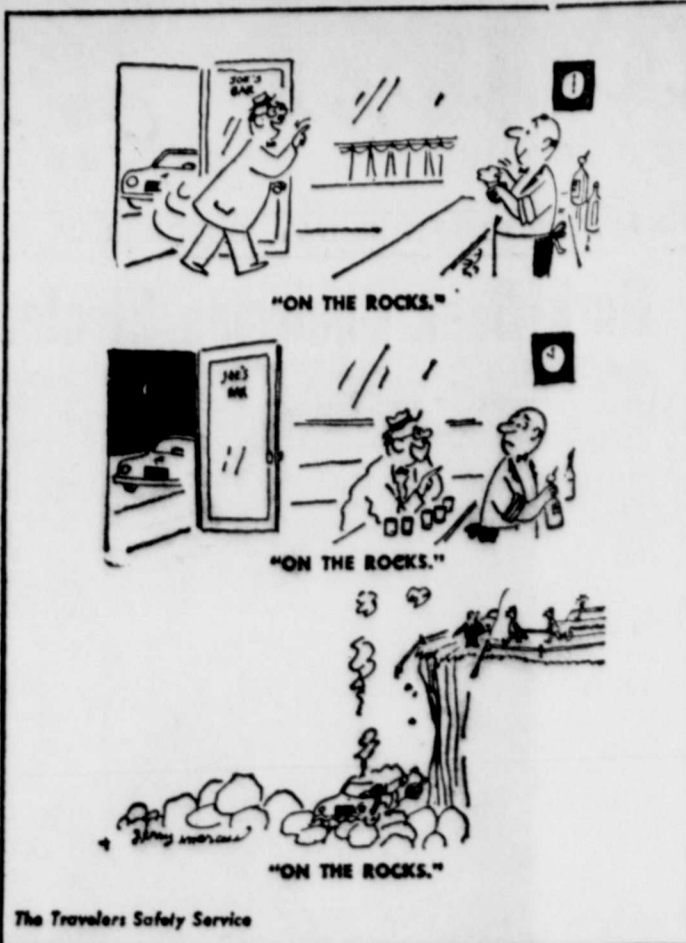

Even supposing that a counterfeiter couldn't match the metal content of the official product closely enough that his sandwich coins would work in the vending machines, a lot of two-bit sales are still made across the counter where a casual glance is all the coin will receive. And lest anyone accuse us of putting bad ideas into people's heads, we'll just mention that we didn't suggest to any of the easy money crowd that they should go out and sell "Medicare Insurance" to old folks just after that law was passed. We suspect that those most likely to engage in such activity are way ahead of us on this idea, too - possibly just waiting for the day when Uncle Sam starts distributing his bargain basement quarters so that they can start peddling theirs.

It is not only the possibility of domestic counterfeiting which disturbs us with the advent of silverless quarters. Castro, as just one example, could finance a grand-scale operation here and elsewhere in the hemisphere by setting up a U. S. coin-making industry in Cuba, or having some of his cohorts do it within our own borders. The fact is that 25c for 2c in an open invitation to amateur and professional counterfeiters and the invitation will remain attractive unless or until the purchasing power of the coin diminishes to a point near the cost of its production. And we don't relish that prospect, either.

From the Eli Lilly Company's 1964 report to stockholders: "The average physician in the U. S. works 60 to 70 hours a week, sees 20 to 30 patients a day, takes 14 telephone calls from patients daily, and makes hospital rounds and house calls. He treats, without charge, 400 needy patients a year, donates 100 hours a year to civic affairs and devotes 200 hours to professional meetings and research."

Some 6,000 additional persons will be added to the social security system's 35,000 employees to handle the added responsibilities of the medicare plan.

dear reader, that anyone who doesn't know who Gus Hall is would naturally think I have lost my marbles, or that to say the least, they need rearranging. And certainly anybody who never heard of the Council on Foreign Relations would be inclined to think Robert Welch is loco.

One of the world's foremost authorities on the atheistic, criminal conspiracy called Communism, Robert Welch is a near-genius who entered college at twelve, plays chess blindfolded with the masters, and had read Ridpath's seven volume "History of the World" when he was seven. I doubt that Barry Goldwater and some other Welch critics have read that many books in their lives.

SETTING THE RECORD STRAIGHT

It was at a conservative rally sponsored by the great nationally circulated conservative newspaper "Human Events." The year was 1960, I believe. Senator Goldwater had finished his speech and the floor was opened for questions and answers.

"Senator Goldwater," asked a man down front, "What do you think about the Council on Foreign Relations?"

"I never heard of it," replied the Senator from Arizona.

A murmur went through the audience. The questioner said, "Senator, I guess you didn't understand my question. What do you think about the Council on Foreign Relations?"

Goldwater flushed and stammered, "I don't know what you're talking about."

Cries of No! No! were heard as the well-informed audience reacted in utter disbelief. Several people remarked to me later: "The guy's a liar or a phony!"

"No," I replied, "he's an honest man. He just doesn't know much. He hasn't done his homework. We 'super-patriots' expect our legislators to know everything we know about the collectivist conspiracy. Goldwater is a typical, conservative businessman. He's been in Washington only a few years. He probably spends most of his working time attending committee meetings and listening to Arizona visitors who are trying to get advantage at the federal trough. Then he goes home at night and plays with his gadgets and turns on the boob tube. It is an established fact that he can read. But he doesn't."

Senator Goldwater has recently been prevailed upon to declare - and in a so-called conservative magazine - that Robert Welch is a nut.

Perhaps Goldwater needs to be reminded that today's mighty oak is just yesterday's little nut which stood its ground. During the so-called Presidential campaign you well remember that a poll of psychiatrists in a newspaper survey concluded that Goldwater needed psychiatric help. I've never known a psychiatrist who didn't need psychiatric help. But regardless, many people questioned putting a man in the room with the button who didn't have all his buttons. Actually, Goldwater is a man of greater emotional stability than is Lyndon Johnson.

To change the subject, but only slightly, an old school friend of mine, now President of a large corporation, thinks I've lost MY buttons in thinking there is a communist conspiracy in this country. He has informed me confidentially that the Catholics are a greater menace to our country than the Communists.

He asked in a conversation recently: "Who is Gus Hall?" Gus Hall, as I am sure all of this newspaper know, is head American Comrat. The point of this story is,

More bonded fabrics will be on the market this winter than ever before, says Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent. Manufacturers predict that in a few years about 60 percent of all fashion fabrics, including linens and bedding, will be bonded.

Consumers often ask why some bonded fabrics separate. The type of manufacturing process determines the longevity of the bond. There are three types of laminating methods used in making bonded fabrics:

1. Adhesives—glue the fabrics together. This is the least expensive process and the least successful as the glue is easily dissolved by solvents used in a drycleaning process.

2. Heat setting a polyurethane foam between two fabrics is more expensive but lasts longer since it is not destroyed by drycleaning solvents. This middle layer, however, is so thin that it is difficult to distinguish it from an adhesive.

3. Locklined fabrics are made of two layers connected during the weaving process. This is rarely found in clothing because of the expense of the construction process.

Miss Wirges suggests that consumers buy bonded fabrics carefully and look for the guarantee of permanent bonding on the fabric.

Poor posture spoils our looks, health and effectiveness at work, says Thelma Wirges.

A variety of things can cause poor posture.

Worry, fear, emotional disturbances and problems at home, school or work effect posture. Fatigue from overwork, or overplay may result in stooped shoulders and general slumping. Beds that are too soft or that sag will prevent proper rest and force the body into unnatural positions.

An infection, poor vision or poor hearing can cause poor posture. Many people with poor vision push their necks forward to enable them to see better. Defective hearing can also result in the head being inclined and the body being off balance.

Chairs that do not support the back or that are too high or too low can cause poor posture. A school desk the correct height for a child can improve his posture and quality of work.

Clothing can push or pull the body out of its right position, says Thelma Wirges. When feet are weakened or flat, the effect is felt throughout the body. Weak feet or improperly fitted shoes show in the face as well as the body posture.

Correct posture helps body organs do their work with less wasted effort. Energy is conserved. When you stand, walk and sit correctly, your lungs have space to expand. Proper breathing results in better circulation and a more efficient loss of body wastes.

Miss Wirges suggests that you practice lifting, sitting, running, walking, climbing and standing until you feel that you are performing correctly the movements of the body. You will feel better, look better and do better work.

The fashion spotlight will be on men's and boys' wear during the latter part of October as National Men's and Boys' Fashion Fair is observed in many sections of the state and nation.

Keyed to the theme, "It's Time to Winterize Your Wardrobe," the observance is planned by the consumer education division of the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear, Inc. in cooperation with local clothing industry representatives and educators, says Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent.

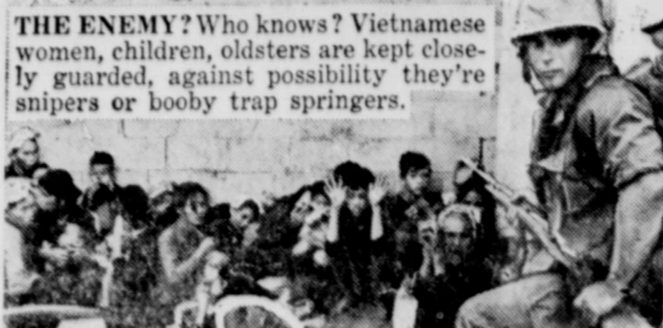

This winter's fashion assortment is one of the greatest ever in syle, in color and in good taste and good looks. Suits present a style picture for every man's taste; traditional, natural, classic middle-of-the-road and contemporary forward fashion.

An exciting extra this winter will be the shaped suit with a dressy new look in its figure-following lines and especially created accessories and furnishings. There are traditional hopsacking, tweeds, coverts, flannels and worsteds in blues, grays and browns; classic sharkskins, silk blends, worsteds in subtle iridescents, self-strips, twists and contemporary mohairs; all-silks, selfweaves in burgundy, black-green, bright blues and gold.

The pin-and chalk-stripe pattern—either white on color or color on color leads the way in suitings.

Sports coats divide themselves into the dressy softer finishes and the hardy rough finishes. Bold classic patterns highlight hacking - type shaped sports

Approximately 200 Texas home economists participated in a workshop in Dallas October 18 and 19 to explore additional approaches to working with families of limited resources. The workshop is one of a number being held throughout the nation as a follow-up to a low-income study made earlier this year by the American Home Economics Association, reports Dr. Alice C. Stubbs of the home economics research department at Texas A&M University, who is assisting with the workshop arrangements. Miss Thelma Wirges, Wichita County Home Demonstration Agent, was among the group.

Health and Safety Tips From AMA

A Guide to Health and Happiness

Exercise alone or diet alone cannot give lasting help to the figure-conscious American girl and woman. They must be coupled to the right psychological approach to acquire total fitness—physical, mental and spiritual.

This is the advice of one of the nation's leading authorities on physical education, fitness and figure control, Dr. Mary-helen Vannier.

This balanced approach to the "weightiest" of problems facing both teenagers and adults is interestingly and practically outlined in her latest book, "A Better Figure for You Through Easy Exercise and Diet", just published by Association Press.

to live better and longer, round out this balanced guide to fitness.

Before embarking on any program of physical or mental self-improvement, you must first analyze yourself carefully, Dr. Vannier insists. Once this is done—and Dr. Vannier outlines simple methods of doing so—you are ready to begin on a program that cannot fail to bring satisfactory results.

Greater physical attractiveness is only one of the benefits to be achieved. The right exercise, for instance, can reduce tension and fatigue; improve circulation, respiration, digestion; develop coordination, muscle tone and physical endurance; benefit heart, internal organs and glands; strengthen bone structure; build resistance to disease; help retard or minimize physical and mental effects of aging; encourage restful sleep.

Dr. Vannier provides more than the usual calorie-count tables and sample diets. In easy-to-digest form, her book contains a sound introduction to "nutrition for fitness and weight control."

Her chapters on the mental, emotional and spiritual ingredients of one's personality and how one can relax

Bed rest, or at least inactivity, is helpful. Your physician may suggest mild medication to help allay the discomfort.

Cold vaccines thus far are of little value. Evidence is lacking that any particular foods, vitamin supplements, special clothing or exposure to sunlight or fresh air have any effect on colds.

If a cold persists or seems unusually severe, see your doctor. Colds are great imitators and the early symptoms can mimic those of other much more serious infections. Recurring colds may not be colds at all, but may be allergic attacks that require medical attention.

Veterans News

The average monthly income—after taxes—of a veteran who obtained a GI home loan has increased from $473 in 1956 to $519 in 1964, a recent Veterans Administration survey reveals.

Jack Coker, Manager of the VA Regional Office in Waco, said the veteran home buyer's average housing expenses including loan payments, taxes, utilities, etc., has increased during the same period from $107 to $151.

The average purchase price of a home bought under the GI program has increased from $8,679 in 1950 to slightly more than $16,000 during 1964, according to the VA official. One of the main reasons for this jump is veterans are buying bigger and better homes.

Slightly more than 71 percent of the homes purchased with GI loan in 1964 were bought with no down payment, Coker said. The average loan term was 28 years and two months.

I DREAMED THEY REPEALED EDUCATION

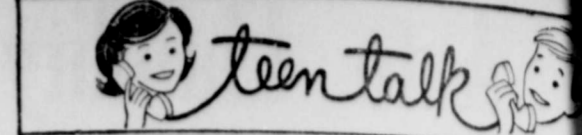

By Harry Browne

I had one of those dreams again last night—you know, the kind that always follows the pizza and pickle diet. They hit me periodically and I conjure up the strangest ideas. Take last night, for instance. I dreamed that every political agency—federal, state and local—washed its hands of the school problems. Every dollar of tax money and government control was withdrawn from education and the schooling of our precious young was left to the whims of the free market. So education was a free enterprise product like chewing tobacco or little liver pills. The collectivists would probably say the politicians had, in effect, repealed education. What happened?

It was quite strange. Parents were totally responsible for their children's education. No truant officers to blame, no tax money to use, no "experts" to tell them what was best and progressive. So parents started acting as if they were in a free market. They "shopped" the private enterprise schools like they were supermarkets. They chose their schools individually—picking between integration or segregation, three R's or progressive education, Americanism or one-worldism, prayers or no prayers. There was no more badgering one's neighbor to vote for the favored school board candidates. Parents simply chose for themselves the school that offered the most of what they wanted. Both the majority and the minority were being satisfied.

Where did the money for education come from? Where else?—from the people, just as it does today. Only, instead of everyone paying for everyone else's education, each family paid for its own. This meant the money was very carefully allocated; for no one could be forced to pay for something he didn't want. No more bond issues. The schools had exactly the right amount of money to work with. There were no longer undernourished—nor was any money going into unnecessary "frills". How could that be? How could the schools have exactly the right amount of money? Because they had exactly the right amount of people willing to pay for education. No one had to convince anyone else of anything; each paid for the amount and kind of education desired—and the schools reacted to consumer demand. And those who wanted education for the "poor" set up charities for the purpose. So they, too, got exactly what they wanted.

The strangest part was the interest parents started taking in education. No more political experts—so parents checked schools closely. They wanted proof that graduates were succeeding properly; they wanted to know that every dollar was being well spent. Of course, this was just a dream—so don't let it frighten you. We still have our rising property taxes, bond issues, progressive education, baby-sitting courses, insoluble problems and other nostalgic features of the government school system. After all, if education were turned over to private enterprise, who knows where it would end? The next thing you know, some people would be clamoring for private enterprise to produce our food or clothes or medicine or automobiles!

"I CAN'T GET THROUGH TO HER"

by Margie Blake, Carnation Teen Committee

A popular theory has it that everybody between 14 and 17 years of age is on the telephone every single minute—except for brief spells at school and a little time out for eating and sleeping. That's not fair, is it? But if you have a parent who has begun to imply (or say right out) that you dash on the phone as soon as you come in the house, and that the place is incommunicado except when you're out, then it's time to take stock. You have more bargaining power if you act before the boom lowers!

No stigma attaches to calls from boys to girls, but feeling runs high on whether girls should call boys. The idea that girls should NEVER call boys for ANY reason is Victorian; there are times when it's necessary. But the girls who call and call with coy, transparent questions are fooling nobody—but themselves. Ask the girls with brothers! At home, your brothers and sisters won't take kindly to having the phone always tied up by you. As for your parents, business calls might be important, and there's the time of day when Father might want to tell Mother to meet the 7:10 instead of the 6:40, or Mother might want to tell you to start dinner!

Should this be the case, delight her by preparing Meat Loaf Cups, quick to make and good to eat. In a bowl, combine 2/3 cup (small can) undiluted Car-

FISHING LINES
By DICK WOLFF

With the approach of the fall hunting season, some of us tend to retire our fishing tackle for the winter. This is a mistake, I found out one day many years ago.

My partner and I were duck hunting on a Minnesota lake, waiting for a flight of bluebills supposedly hurrying south ahead of a Canadian cold front. We were a day early. The front was still in Canada — so were the ducks.

The Indian summer sun blazed overhead. We shed our canvas coats, and ate our lunch while mosquitos divebombed the blind. Out of nowhere came a lone hen mallard sliding into the decoys on cupped wings. We fired almost simultaneously and the bird splashed down, feebly twitched — then lay still.

My lab, Dolly, wasn't with us that day, so I was playing retriever. I started to pull up my waders to go after the duck when my partner interrupted, "Hold on a second, I want to try something."

With that he reached into the game pocket of his hunting jacket and pulled out a compact, three piece Garcia spinning rod and a Mitchell reel. From another pocket he took out a floating bass plug.

My friend flipped the plug toward the floating dead bird. The lure missed by a couple of feet.

Hurrying the plug back for another try, my friend looked back with an apologetic expression. At that moment, I saw a V-wake heading straight for the plug and a second later an arm-long pike grabbed the plug and cartwheeled over a decoy. The line tangled with the decoy cord and the fish was off.

The duck hunting was forgotten for the next few hours, as we covered the shoreline of the small bay and picked up four nice pike and one husky smallmouth.

The cast and scene of this particular "drama" happened to be bluebills and pike in Minnesota. But, the protagonists could just as easily have been coot and founders in Long Island Sound, sprig and steelhead in California, or greenheads and bass in Louisiana. Doubly armed with a Mitchell or Ambassador reel and one of the convenient "back packer" rods any gunner can double his sport during these glorious autumn days.

Two Local Students Pledge Fraternity At Midwestern

Joseph Crowley and Dewayne Dark are among the ten students pledging Kappa Kappa Psi, social and service fraternity for college bandmen at Midwestern University, Wichita Falls.

Kappa Kappa Psi sponsors several social functions for the entire Midwestern band. These include a Christmas party, a spring banquet and a party near the end of the spring semester. The fraternity also awards trophies to the outstanding man and woman chosen by the band.

The organization serves as host for many contests, such as the University Interscholastic League competition, held annually on campus. This year, the MU chapter is organizing an alumni band to enable graduates to participate in band activities.

Midwestern was featured in the 1965 May issue of "The Podium," national Kappa Kappa Psi magazine. The article contained pictures of the new band uniforms and explained the band program at Midwestern. The local chapter of the band fraternity was also featured.

Crowley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Crowley. He lives at 707 Pecan St.

Dark lives at 518 N. Hilltop Dr. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dark.

The Treasurer, Mrs. Mae King reported the candy sale for the education fund was complete and had been a big success. The benediction was given by Mrs. Laura Todd. The November meeting will be held at Sloan's Restaurant at which time officers for 1966 will be elected.

CORK FLOAT SOLVES PROBLEM

When that extra-live minnow on your hook keeps on diving deep into vegetation where fish can't find it, try this. Attach a small cork just above the shank of the hook. Cork should be small enough that the fish can carry it down. But it should be large enough to prevent the minnow from getting too deep.

COMMUNICATION

Telephone lines spread across our nation, giving us immediate contact with loved ones. Vital business is rapidly contracted through this medium.

Our linkage to God is prayer. Through prayer we can express our love, our thanks, and seek God's help.

"Hearken unto the voice of my cry, my King, and my God: for unto thee will I pray."

Attend church, join others in fellowship and prayer to God.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God

Using Your Head

Everywhere you go these days, you hear "wigs and wiglets," "demi-wigs and wig-gery ward- robes" . . . "postiches, switches and curls" . . . "topknots and tendrils" . . . "braids and buns" . . . No, the beauty world hasn't gone mad. You might just say it has hairpieces on the brain! These terms are all names for this newest of fashion sensations. The styles and types of hairpieces now available are virtually endless. Whereas until recently wigs far outnumbered hairpieces, the popularity of the latter has increased to such a degree that they now account for 40% to the full wigs' 60%. A major factor in hairpieces' appeal is their versatility. Styles vary from the ultrasophisticated to the very simple. Take a basic piece like a bun for example. During the day, a career girl with short hair looks smart with a bun pinned at the nape of her neck. For evening, the bun is transferred high on her crown and jewelry is added for a striking, high fashion effect. No great skill is required to create such a hairdo. A little practice and anyone can do elaborate styling. The possibilities are unlimited. Hairpieces are fun. They bring out the imagination of their wearers. Some gals may twine their own hair through them; others use them as a filler and cover them completely with their own hair. Some women like to add bows, flowers, anything that strikes their fancy.

Your Savings Bond Quiz

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

(Q.) What is the objective of the Treasury's School Savings program, and how many dollars does it account for?
(A.) The primary objective of School Savings is to encourage school children to practice thrift and to participate in the responsibilities of citizenship through the regular purchase of U.S. Savings Stamps and Bonds. More than 100 million Savings Stamps are sold each year, mostly through schools, with a dollar volume of about $18.5 million.
(Q.) Running through some papers recently, I found several "F" Bonds which had matured some years ago. What is their present status, and can they be exchanged for H Bonds?
(A.) Although they have not earned interest since maturity, those "F" Bonds are worth their face value anytime you cash them in. They may be "re-invested" in H Bonds, without regard to the annual limitation on purchases, but there is no tax deferral privilege, such as is the case when E Bonds are exchanged for H's.
(Q.) E-Bond owners talk about the tax advantage to be gained by holding their bonds. What is the advantage?

(A.) The interest gain on an E Bond does not have to be declared for tax purposes until the bond is redeemed or finally matures. In the interim, interest is being earned on money that otherwise would be due in taxes.

Safety First

Always carry a safety pin with you. It holds hooks, small swivels, anything with an eye on it. Mend's rips and tears too. But here's a new wrinkle. If your lure is too light for casting, clip the pin on the hook eye. Extra weight may do the job and act as a fish-getting "wobbler."

Committee Of Service Council Held Meeting October

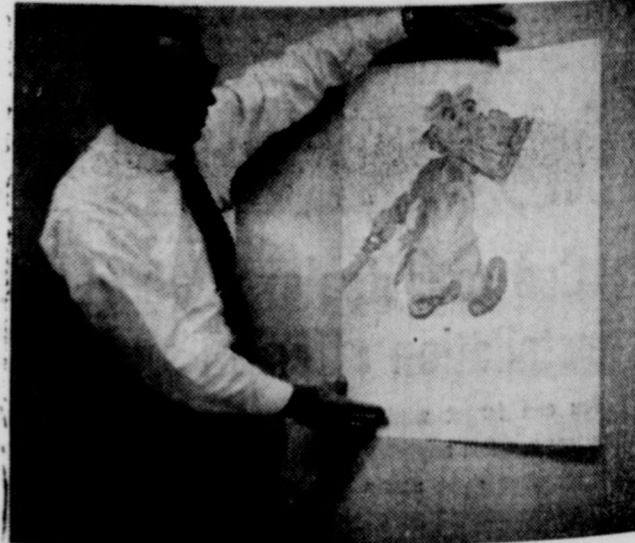

The Civic Improvement Committee of the Community Service Council met Monday October 25 in the Reddy Room.

Lonnie Dolan, Jaycee representative brought before the Committee the plans of the Jaycees to sponsor a citywide clean up. He told the committee the Jaycees realized they would need help from other clubs to successfully conclude so large and ambitious a program.

An informal discussion, led by Joe Salterman of the Civic Improvement Committee.

The Committee as Community Service President, Harold Ken call a meeting of the November 1.

Sketches of a possible "Community Spirit" symbol shown by Ken Blanker

Ken Blanker displays a drawing to the Civic Improvement Committee of the Community Service Council. Character shown in the sketch is one being considered to symbolize community spirit.
