FOR BETTER LEADERSHIP

All fifty states and three United States territories are combining their talents to improve education at every level, in every city and town, through a "Compact for Education."

Meeting recently in Kansas City, governors, legislators and layman formed a partnership to cooperate in research, planning and the exchange of information. This cooperative effort should go a long way toward helping the states regain some of the educational leadership they have lost to the federal government.

The commission will have the authority to collect and interpret information concerning educational needs and resources, encourage and foster research in education, develop methods for adequate financing of education and formulate suggested policies and plans for the improvement of education.

The commission will meet annually while the 30-member steering committee, including 10 governors, meets quarterly.

The Interstate Compact for Education is a positive step toward meeting the future educational needs of the nation, and the active participation by all states should be encouraged.

YOU WILL HAVE TO PAY

An enormous amount of notice was given to the nominal tax reductions which have taken place at the federal level in the last two years. The question now is whether this moderate measure of tax relief is to be something of a snare and a delusion.

On January 1, 1966, social security taxes are to be substantially increased. This, for great numbers of people, will wholly or largely offset the past reductions.

Then, what will happen in the future is a subject of much speculation now. For example, in one of his recent columns David Lawrence wrote that the people know little about "... what burdens for future years will result from the commitments by the last Congress. Expenditures to fulfill these commitments will grow year by year in the various fields in which the federal government has heretofore not entered. This will inevitably mean hereafter a bigger and bigger tax burden on the American people."

You may or may not favor medicare, the war on poverty, federal aid to education or any of the government's other ventures into unchartered areas of authority. But you and everyone else will have to pay for them—in increased taxes of one kind or another and, if the government continues to operate on a deficit basis, in a steady decline in the value of the dollar.

A rifle bullet rocketing down a barrel at 3,000 feet per second can be tracked, inch by inch, with a new nuclear radiation test system developed at the University of Michigan. The developers say that the system can test subjects traveling as fast as 30,000 feet per second.

GOING, GOING, GONE

The epitaph on the American tombstone should read: "This civilization died because the people didn't want to be bothered." The American people are acting like the mule in that age-old story. Farmer Jones had sold a mule to Farmer Smith. Smith met Jones a few days later and said: "You told me that mule wasn't blind! Yesterday he ran into the barn and knocked himself out." "I told you the truth!" Jones replied. "That mule ain't blind; he just don't give a damn."

American men are being slaughtered in Viet Nam as the Supreme Court systematically betrays the Constitution by an unbroken record of pro-communist decisions. The Court recently over-ruled the law passed by Congress prohibiting known Communists from holding office in labor unions. The Court has ruled that Congress cannot stop the free delivery by the U. S. Postal Service of communist propaganda from abroad. The Court has ruled that the State Department cannot refuse passports to Communists, etcetera and nauseum.

Nichlas Katzenbach, Robert Weaver, Thurgood Marshall, Sheldon Cohen, Arthur Goldberg, Abe Fortas . . . When will President Johnson nominate a person whose record, character and patriotism are unassailable? Or does he know any?

In her book, "A Pillar of Iron," the great American novelist, Taylor Caldwell, quotes these words of Aristotle 2200 years ago: "Republics decline into democracies and democracies degenerate into despotisms."

Aristotle saw Johnson coming!

A federal dictatorship was established in this country last December 14 when the Supreme Court handed down a decree stating that the Federal Government can step in and lay down whatever restrictions on American life it desires, and the judiciary can sanctify it as "the law of the land." The Supreme Court has ruled that it is legal to advocate atheism, free love, sexual perversion and the violent overthrow of the Republic, but that it is illegal to discriminate because of race, creed or color.

The greater threat to our Republic is from within, not from without. Our greatest menace is not fallout, but sellout. The Communists and pro-Communists have infiltrated our churches, our schools, our communications and key spots in government and business. The "civil rights" marches and insurrection on the college campuses are inspired and manned by Communists, degenerates and anarchists.

Communism, whether the Russian, Chinese or Yugoslav variety, is a criminal conspiracy to destroy God, family and freedom. Communists, pro-Communists, anarchists, subversives and all other traitors should be convicted of treason, imprisoned and/or deported, or hung. The dictionary defines treason

Wood Is Popular With Homeowners

College Station — Wood is one of the most versatile of home building materials, reports Bill Smith, Extension forester at Texas A&M University. "It's a fact that every 9 out of 10 American homes are made of wood construction," he said. These homes perform well for their owners.

For example, each 1 inch of wood in construction is equal to 12 inches of concrete in insulation value. In the summer months, wood insulates against the heat of the flaming sun. In the winter, wood retains the warmth generated from within the home and shuts out the icy wrath of those arctic winds from the north.

To most homeowners, their houses are constructed from something other than wood. "However, wood products can be used in such a multitude of ways that only a Sherlock Holmes could detect them," Smith stated.

He pointed out that roofing shingles may be the composition type referred to as an asphalt shingle. Like many of the wood products of today that appear to be made of other basic raw materials, the asphalt shingle actually contains more wood fiber than does the conventional wood shingle.

Traditionally, American homeowners prefer homes made of wood, even to the interior with beautiful wood floors and natural wood paneling and trim, Smith said.

aid has been the life-blood of Communism, has redistributed our wealth, eaten up our gold reserves, provided free see-the-world vacations for congressmen, consensus-crats, their families and girl friends. Some of our "superpatriots" scream that aiding the enemy is treason. Or is it our superpatriots who are guilty of treason? Depending on who finally prevails: "For if it prosper, none dare call it treason."

The Relationship Between Work and Income

MANY of our union leaders seem unable to grasp the fact that wages depend upon production. They seem to feel that their only duties are to shorten the work and to build up the hourly wage rate and the fringe benefits. If they would concentrate their attention on increasing output, they would be laying a solid foundation for greater earnings for their members.

Any type of collectivism, whether it be big government, big unions, or big business, which tends to separate or obscure the direct relationship between the amount of mental or physical work one does and his income, deprives the people of the better living standards which they could and would achieve if they understood the relationship between work and income. The man in business for himself understands it, and he does not limit his hours. The professional man understands it, and he works to improve his situation. We sometimes hear complaints because some doctors, some lawyers, some engineers, some architects, and other professional people earn large incomes. The truth is that they work long hours. Of course, brilliance and luck are also factors, but if the rest of us were willing to work as hard, we would see much improvement in our incomes. If we want more, let us work more and produce it.

It is incorrect to say that we will work ourselves out of jobs, for human wants are unlimited. We may have to change jobs and acquire new skills in order to produce what people want and will buy. We cannot go on producing something for which there is no demand. We must maintain a flexible economy so that what each worker produces will exchange readily with others who are producing other types of goods and services. If the exchanges are free and the economy not made rigid by government and union rules, all of us can work as hard as we like and readily exchange what we produce for that which we want of the production of others. This balance will be maintained if government intervention and the rigidities introduced by big unions can be eliminated so that constant daily adjustments will be made in the marketplace. The reciprocal relationships thus maintained between the different groups of producers both in our country and abroad will provide employment for all, and a steadily rising standard of living.

By Mary Whitman

A national magazine points out that jigsaw puzzle parties are a new fad. High-schoolers, the college crowd or young careerists like to get together for an evening puzzle contest. The host or hostess can provide dessert or do-it-yourself soda fountain snacks.

New puzzles, available at all variety stores, are popular for these parties. Staunch fans also like to use old puzzles, with time records, names and dates written on back of the box. A puzzle party is a good mixer if you assign boy-girl teams. Prizes can be preposterous — white elephants, gift-wrapped, do very well. "Puzzle parties would work for any age group," points out product manager John Rocknowski of Whitman Publishing Company, Racine, Wis., major producer of leisure activity items. "Puzzles from five to five hundred pieces give wide choice."

Young adults will want to watch for puzzles in new shapes and cuts now being designed. The grammar school set goes for juvenile puzzles, ideal for parties or every day. These puzzles are so strongly interlocked that they can easily be moved from one room to another by slipping a light piece of cardboard under them.

For pre-schoolers there are frame-tray puzzles with big, bright pieces. Handy! Because the puzzles come wrapped in clear plastic, they can be used as placemats at a birthday table. Unwrapped they serve as a game, with a prize going to the youngster who completes his puzzle first. Later, the puzzles can be taken home in party bags as favors.

Also pleasing to youngsters are "action" puzzles. These are of several kinds. A new series to watch for consists of puzzles that can be moved by a frame device to provide some animation to the finished scene. There are puzzles for all — juniors, seniors and in-betweeners. Giving a puzzle party may be a perfect solution when you want to get the crowd together.

"Today, All But The Baby Is Thrown Away"

"DISPOSABLE" is today's magic word in the nation's hospitals. They've found using disposable equipment and supplies affords great savings in labor costs of storing, sterilizing and transporting a variety of standard, re-use hospital materials.

Baby wards led the way. Hospitals for years have used disposable diapers, nursing bottles and nipples. Now they even have throw-away basinettes.

Disposable paper or plastic plates, cups, forks, knives and spoons came in next. Then came disposable patient bed-jackets, underpads and bedding. Now there are throw-away razors, wash cloths, towels and slippers.

Surgeons today wear disposable gowns, caps, masks, gloves and shoes. They have precision-made, high-grade steel surgical instruments, which are thrown away after an operation — at less cost than the sterilization procedure of the re-use instruments.

"Progress in creation of disposables has been swift and resourceful," William O. Elson, medical research director, Bauer & Black division, the Kendall company, said.

Pointing out that the cost of the average hospital patient's care has jumped from $10 to nearly $45 per day since 1945, Elson said:

"A way had to be found to make hospital care more efficient to cut patient costs. Physicians and the medical supply industry teamed up to find and test possible disposable items.

"Today's approach is the design of complete kits, sterile and ready for use, which take care of an entire medical or surgical procedure.

"Such packages include everything the surgeon or physician uses for a procedure. One example is called a 'wound-dressing team.' Recently developed by Curtly Laboratories, it is actually two kits which contain surgical instruments, gloves, sponges, antiseptics and other items, even a cardboard basin, which replaces the stainless steel basin formerly used and then sterilized for re-use. After an operation, the whole 'wound-dressing team' is disposed of in an incinerator," Elson said.

With less time spent on sterilization and on laundry handling, it is found that nurses' aides and orderlies can be utilized for more patient-care.

SENATOR RALPH YARBOROUGH NEWSLETTER

Dear Fellow Texan:

Recently, I reported to you on the major provisions of the new Farm Bill which is designed to provide more farm income in America. In addition to the parts of the bill covering the major crops in Texas, we were successful in having money appropriated for several projects in Texas that will improve life on our farms and ranches. Texas has the largest number of farms in the Nation with 224,000 farms.

Great progress was made in Congress this year concerning the eradication of the screw-worm, a long-time plague to Texas cattlemen. The program of eradication, financed with 50-50 matching funds between the State and Federal government, will be continued. However we were able to appropriate $2,806,000 of Federal money for the maintenance of a "barrier zone" to protect those areas which have already eliminated the screw-worm. Chairman George Mahon of Lubbock of the House Appropriations Committee, was a most vital factor in securing this fund. This money does not have to be matched by State funds, and will minimize the eradication which will have to be continued in Texas.

We also were successful in securing $25,000 for planning the completion of the construction of the $350,000 Southwest Great Plains Research Center in Bushland, near Amarillo, Texas. This center will do research in water and soil conservation.

Of great importance to the future of Texas' cotton crop was the appropriation of $664,000 to build a cotton disease research laboratory at College Station, Texas. We also appropriated the money for a $2-990,000 research laboratory at College Station to study the effects of pesticides.

Mrs. N. H. Harris returned home Tuesday from Abilene, Texas where she attended the funeral of her brother-in-law, Mr. N. E. Wilson.

The Great Plains conservation program, which includes 96 Texas counties, received approximately $17,432,000. This program is of great benefit to those farming and ranching people who live in the 96 Great Plains Texas counties and must practice conservation to survive.

We also voted $365 million for the Rural Electrification Administration, to continue the great programs of providing electricity to rural America, and an additional $15 million to continue REA telephone loans.

The Farmers Home Administration loan programs were also continued. By the end of 1965, over 200 rural water systems in Texas had been granted construction loans—more than one-fourth of the 770 systems developed nation-wide.

All of these programs will bring major rewards to rural America in the future. Although the new Farm Bill we hope will help farm families' income immediately, the conservation, research, electricity and telephone programs are geared to improve the future of rural life so that it will occupy a favorable position in the Great Society.

New World of Oil Heating Lengthens Pool Season

The weather outside may be brisk; the leaves on the trees may show that autumn is spreading across the landscape. But, for the family with an outdoor swimming pool and its own supply of heated water, the "diving-and-dunking" season is being extended far beyond the usual quitting time, these days.

Backyard pools and long seasons have always been associated with Florida and Southern California. But in other parts of the country, few families bothered much with permanent outdoor pools because the opportunities for using them were relatively brief.

All that's changing now. Oil-powered water heaters maintain the temperature of the outdoor pools at comfortable levels, regardless of the chilly atmosphere. And at very reasonable cost too, for the equipment burns the same No. 2 oil that keeps millions of Americans warm throughout the winter.

Last year, more than 30,000 heated pools were constructed in this country. And the way people are taking to the longer seasons, the probabilities are that this number will be topped again and again in the years to come. Oil-powered units, according to National Oil Fuel Institute, will produce almost unlimited supplies of hot water up to three times faster than gas, and up to six or eight times faster than electricity. That means operating costs drop comparably lower.

Oil-powered water heaters—of a smaller size, of course—are perfect for home use, too. They're not only more economical to operate in most parts of the country, but also their recovery rate is so great that it's next to impossible to run out of hot water.

Savings Bond Quiz

Questions - Answers

Question: Could the co-owner of an H Bond redeem the bond in the event of my illness? Answer: Yes, provided the co-owner has possession of the bond. If the registered co-owner is deceased, the permission of the Federal Reserve Bank or the office of the Treasurer of the United States, in the case of an H Bond, is required.

Question: What is the tax advantage of buying U. S. Savings Bonds? Answer: The advantage lies in the fact that Savings Bonds are exempt from state and local income taxes; second, interest on Series E Bonds is not reported for Federal income tax purposes until the bonds are redeemed. And Series E Bonds are exchanged for cash, tax on the accrued interest may continue to be deducted until the H Bonds are redeemed or reach final maturity.

Question: Should I cash in the bonds I bought back in the past and buy the ones offered at a higher rate of interest?

Answer: No—for two reasons. When the interest rate on the new bonds is higher, the old bonds were also made at a higher rate. Second, if you cash in your bonds, their accrued interest would immediately be subject to Federal income tax.

Banana Egnog Pie Fine Holiday Fare

"Make mine pie!" When it comes to dessert, it's everyone's favorite. So are bananas. Lasso The Kids To Breakfast

Whoopie—yaaahoo! Mom's makin' Rancho Pancakes this morning. Rancho Pancakes are irresistible tender hotcakes topped with melting cheese and a spicy sausage patty. Yes, the little buckaroos will be galloping to the table once they get a whiff of what's on the griddle.

Mom, you have a hankering for Rancho Pancakes real often, don't you? Of course, who wouldn't when a package of pancake mix is the start to such a tasty and easy breakfast. Mmmm—how about heading West for breakfast—that is, into the kitchen where mom has gone cowgirl with her favorite package of pancake mix. Tippee!

RANCHO PANCAKES

Make 4 servings

- 1 lb. pork sausage meat
- 1 cup milk
- 1 egg
- 1 tablespoon melted or liquid shortening
- 1 cup pancake mix
- 3 process American cheese slices

Shape pork sausage meat to form 8 patties; pan-fry until done; drain.

For pancakes, place milk, egg and shortening in shaker or bowl. (If melted shortening is used, add after pancake mix.) Add pancake mix. Shake vigorously 10 times or mix lightly until batter is fairly smooth. Somewhat lumpy batter makes light pancakes.

For each pancake pour about 1/4 cup batter onto hot, lightly greased griddle. Turn pancakes when tops are covered with bubbles and edges look cooked. Place a slice of cheese on top of each pancake. (Cheese will melt slightly while pancakes bake on second side.)

Top each with a hot sausage patty. Serve with apple jelly, if desired.

News From The County Agent

I have just been informed by Mr. Burris C. Jackson, Chairman of the American Cotton Congress, that arrangements have been made for Mr. John Schmitt, Under Secretary of Agriculture, and other of the USDA staff to come to Texas on December 11 to explain the regulations under the new cotton program. This falls on Saturday and it is the only time Mr. Schmitt and others could be with us.

Cotton producers, ginners, crushers, and others in the cotton industry who would like to attend this meeting are invited. The meeting will begin at 9:30 a.m. in Dallas at the Statler-Hilton Hotel.

Congressman W. R. Poage of Waco is also scheduled to be on the program. The meeting is being sponsored by the American Cotton Congress.

The amount of feed a dairy cow will eat depends a great deal upon the digestibility of what she has to eat. Digestibility is best or highest in early cut hay, lush pasture or top quality silage.

You don't fool the cow, by grinding, sweetening or pelleting low quality feed. But, the frequency of feeding and the physical form will influence the cow's feed intake when the feed is high in quality.

A cow's milk production depends upon the amount of feed she eats and her capacity for feed is set, in other words she can hold only so much. When a mature cow is full of low quality feed, three or four days may be required for it to clear her digestive system. High quality feed, on the other hand, will clear the digestive system in 36 to 48 hours; therefore, it is not surprising that a cow will eat twice as much of one feed compared with another.

The agent says a cow spends about a third of her time eating or 8 out of 24 hours. If the hay feed is of poor quality, she can consume only about 2 pounds an hour but if the hay is high in quality, she may consume up to 6 pounds an hour.

The cow getting low quality hay will not eat enough to get the job done even if she spends all of her time at the hay rake, says Haws. Top animal performance depends on a good feed intake and intake in turn depends on the quality of feed fed. Dairy men or other livestock producers whose herds maintain high performance records always check their feed supplies to make sure their animals are getting the best feed available.

Christmas trees can be kept green and fresh throughout the Yuletide season if cared for properly, advises county agent B. T. Haws. The tree should be placed in water and the tree stored in a cool, shady location as soon as possible, after cutting or purchase. Tree needles continue to lose water after the tree is cut. The higher the temperature surrounding the needles, the greater is the water loss and needle drop.

Haws says that water is still the best fire retardant for Christmas trees. Research by the U.S. Forest Service's Forest Products Laboratory revealed that the use of fire retardant chemicals on trees often did more harm than good.

Here are some suggestions for keeping the Christmas tree fresh and green. Make a fresh, angular cut at least an inch above the original cut just before the tree is put up in the home. Then place the tree in a stand that will hold water and keep the water level in the container above the fresh cut.

Other safety suggestions include making sure the tree is supported so it will not fall; place the tree at least 10 feet away from fireplace, heat vents, TV sets, or other sources of heat; lighted candles or other open flames should be kept well away from the tree; and finally, electrical cords should be free from frayed portions or exposed wires and of adequate size to avoid overloading.

DROPOUTS

SOME FACTS AND FIGURES

A. Dropouts: How Many? When and where? What they are like?

1. Approximately 4 out of 10 drop out of school.
2. Almost 1 million per year drop out; approximately 8 million will drop out in this decade, 1960-1970.
3. The largest number drop out in tenth grade, at 16 and 17 years of age.
4. The dropout rate varies from state to state. A national study showing the number enrolled in the 8th grade in 1951-52 and the percent graduating in 1955-56 reveals that:

a. 93.1 in Wisconsin graduated, while only 43.4% in Mississippi graduated.

5. 70% of the dropout registered I.Q.'s above 90, and 13% had I.Q.'s above 110.

6. A Maryland study found that 80% of the dropouts had parents who were former dropouts: seven out of ten reported no participation in extra-class activities.

7. The average dropout is two years or more retarded in reading; one researcher found that three times as many poor readers as good readers drop out of school.

8. Studies show that two-thirds of the parents of dropouts had negative or indifferent attitudes toward school; almost 100% of the parents of school stay-ins believe that a youngster will be handicapped if he does not complete high school.

9. The majority of dropouts come from families of the lower socioeconomic categories.

B. What It Costs

1. The incidence of delinquency is 10 times higher among dropouts than among graduates. New York City spends $65 million per year on juvenile delinquents.

2. A study showed that inmates of a boy's training school withdrew from school by age 16. The average had reached 9th grade.

3. Three times as many disadvantages are treated for mental illness as is the remainder of the population.

4. 90 per cent of prison inmates under 25 years are dropouts. 75 per cent of federal prisoners are repeaters.

5. 90 per cent of those on welfare rolls are dropouts. New York City appropriates $344 million per year for welfare.

6. It is estimated that 90% of farm children will leave the farm.

7. In 1900, semi-skilled and unskilled workers comprised 59% of the total labor force. In 1955 it dropped to 29% and is expected to drop to 22% by 1975.

The "Goo Goo" Days Are Over

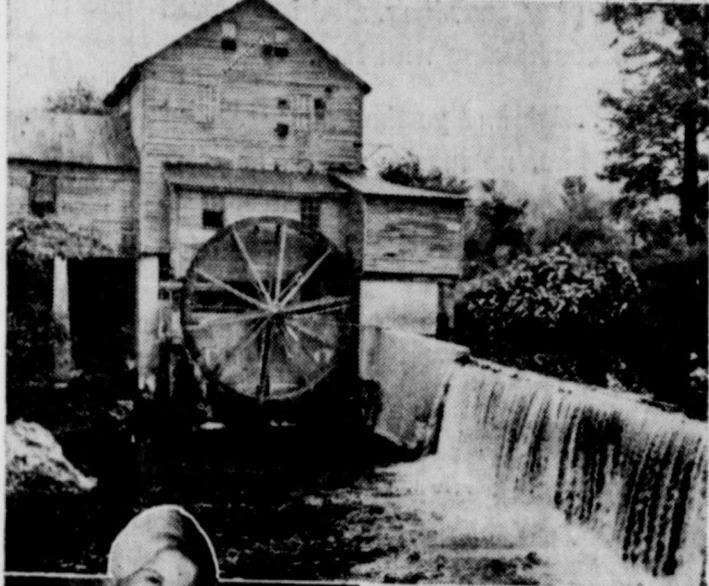

When hairspray first came out, it had three things wrong with it; it looked terrible; it felt awful; it smelled worse. You had to close your eyes and try not to breathe until the spray had settled. It collected—among other things—specks of dirt, assorted little mosquitos, moisture droplets, and very snide comments from the Male Contingent. It turned gooey and gummy and worst of all, it didn't let the hair swing. Your hairdo just sat there like a big, fat helmet. All this wasn't too long ago so you'll probably remember it. But things have changed (and aren't you glad)—the "goo goo" days are over. And the "ga-ga" times are here. (Note: "Ga-ga" is a boy-type reaction to a pretty girl.)

The secret's in the new hair preparations especially the fine hair mists that make your swinging hairdos stay, not lay. One of the latest, is Miss Breck Hair Spray, formulated especially to hold young hair and today's modern casual styles. Its crystal-clear formula is fast-drying and you can spray as often as you like without fear of dulling, drying, or gumming. Its unique blend of style-holding ingredients leaves the hair looking natural, shimmering with highlights in any weather.

Using a good hairspray is just the final step in your hair-care program. Remember a few of the preliminaries: Keep hair fresh and clean by shampooing often; Brush "the mane" daily to retain the shine; Set as often as necessary but don't overdo it; And above all, don't tease your hair till it cries out for mercy. A little backcombing for body is all right, but avoid the Tangled Tress Look that's such a devil to comb out later. Applying a little thought—along with shampoos, creme rinses and hairspray—will keep your Crowning Glory glorious.

LIFTING

You give a lift to lots of things every day—brief cases, suitcases, boxes, shopping bags, books.

Before that too-heavy bundle lifts you off your feet and puts you flat on your back, be sure you can handle it.

A new leaflet from the American Medical Association lists some basic rules that apply to lifting all objects——Stand close to the object, feet flat on the floor, about 12 inches apart.

—Keep the spine straight, bend the knees and grasp the object.

—Lift by straightening your legs. Do NOT pull upward with your arms and back.

—Face the direction in which you plan to carry the object. Its weight will pull you in the right direction.

To get off the ground with a brief case or a suitcase that is chock-full and heavy—

—Stand beside the suitcase, move the upper body slightly forward and bend the knees.

—Straighten the knees and lift the suitcase gradually.

—Shift the weight slightly to the side opposite your suitcase. Keep weight centered over your feet—don't bend at the waist.

Raising your free arm will help to keep your spine erect.

—As you walk, keep the case close to you and maintain body alignment. Don't slide your hips to the side.

Two suitcases are better than one, because equally balanced burdens put less strain on your spine.

Lifting a box from the closet shelf can tip you off your tiptoes. To maintain your balance, place one foot forward. Reach

Bride-Elect Of John Boswell Is Honored With Shower Dec. 4

Saturday night, Dec. 4, the Cashion Baptist Church W.M.U. were hostesses at the church for a bridal shower given in honor of Miss Shantal Fletcher and John E. (Butch) Boswell.

The table on which the gifts were displayed was covered with white nylon net over a white damask table cloth. The serving table also was covered in white. Blue and white bells accented both tables.

Punch and cake were served to each guest as they entered.

Approximately 25 guests attended and many friends of both families who were unable to attend sent gifts.

The wedding is to take place Dec. 15 in the bride's-parents home town of Los Angeles, California.

A PLACE TO PRAY

Man can, and should, pray anywhere. God has placed no limitations on his communing with him.

Our Lord has said, "... Ask and ye shall receive." God listens when we seek him, no matter where, however he desires that we gather together in prayer too. "... mine house shall be called an house of prayer for all people."

Attend church Sunday and know the joy of prayer with others.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

A LONG WAY FROM THE LITTLE LEAGUE

The Little League, Boy Scouts, summer camp are a world apart, far from these African youngsters. They belong to a "club" of a different kind—one that circles the globe. It is to be found wherever there is hunger, disease and inadequate shelter. If there were a club motto, it would be: "Please help!" You can reach the needy in Africa's new nations, and others in more than 70 countries, by again donating your serviceable used clothing, shoes, blankets and bed linen to the Catholic Bishops' annual Thanksgiving Clothing Campaign. Bring or send a bundle to the nearest Catholic church during November.

What is a Tree Farm

A tree farm is a woodland area on which timber is managed as a long term crop. It may be owned by a lumber company, a paper mill, a farmer or other non-industrial holder. The idea is to assure a perpetual yield of quality harvests.

The tree farms program was conceived by forest industry as a medium that permits farmers and other non-industrial holders of timberland to share the lumberman's knowledge of good forest management.

Since the program was introduced to the region by the Southern Pine Association in 1942, the South has developed nearly 43 million acres of well-managed tree farms—two-thirds the nation's total. More than 60% of the owners are farmers.
