THE DEPRIVED

In a Christian nation such as ours concern for the deprived is proper and expected. Indeed, it is the history of our people that concern for the deprived has prompted generosity admired by the entire civilized world.

Within our own borders, however, concern for the deprived has waned. And the deprived are grievously in need. Federal funds and projects have not been enough. Appropriations and budgeted bounties have not done the job. There have been commissions and authorities. Experts have been empanelled. Yet the plight of the deprived in our country grows worse, not better.

Who are these deprived?
The woman whose purse is snatched from her hand in the street.

The merchant whose cash register is emptied while he is held at bay.

The teenage daughter of a neighbor who is deprived of her virginity, by force.

The homeowner who returns to a house from which the TV, the radio, the silverware and the piggy-bank have been stolen.

The taxpayer whose family automobile has been stolen.

The jobholder who has had a knife or a gun jammed into his ribs a block from home, is mugged and beaten and robbed.

The vacationing family who returned to find the house stripped of even the furniture.

These are the deprived in our land. The really deprived. They outnumber the deadbeats on welfare, the poverty program spongers and the black-power marchers by ten to one.

Our police have been cowed into docility toward those who deprive us. Our courts have pampered those who deprive us. Our politicians have been nauseating in their pandering to pressure — and votes.

We are the deprived — we who pay the taxes, we who suffer pain and loss — of property and even life.

And the time has come to tell the judges, the police, the politicians, and Washington, that you don't aim to be deprived any longer.

If you are one of the deprived, start making noises. Loud. You'll be heard.

In an address, Mr. Roger M. Blough, chairman of the board of United States Steel Corporation, laid the responsibility for inflation squarely on the doorstep of government. He said that since our representative government is accountable to us as citizens and must do our bidding, it is up to us to encourage public officials to cut government spending, even if this affects our own pet projects or communities. Mr. Blough defined inflation this way: "When government spends more than it gets and when labor gets more than it gives, that empty feeling in your pocket is inflation. Thus the remedy — like the cause — lies wholly within the domain of government."

American students will receive almost $2 billion in financial aid for college with the majority going to those from families with low and middle incomes, according to an American Legion publication, "Need A Lift?" Major sources of assistance, the booklet reports are: Scholarship grants by colleges, 131 million, to 320,000 students. Loans by colleges from own funds, $24 million, to 68,000 students. Wages paid by colleges for part-time work, $145 million, to 439,000. National defense student loans, with the U. S. paying 90 per cent and the colleges 10 per cent, $221 million to 419,000. U. S. work study programs, $139 million to 199,000. Benefits for post Korean veterans, $520 million to 624,000. Social security payments to students of deceased or disabled workers, $355 million to 402,000.

Those who attack the use of trade-names, as in the pharmaceutical industry, overlook their vital function in the marketplace. According to the National Association of Manufacturers, "One of the most powerful factors in our American economy is the consumer's freedom of choice to purchase or to reject a particular product or service. By experience, assessing relative values, and through trade-name acceptance, the average consumer has become a most effective buyer. Legislative restrictions on the use of trade-names and compulsory use of generic ones would hinder rather than help the consumer at the marketplace."

County HD Agent Explains Annual Interest Rates

Regardless of where you live or what you want to buy, there are a dozen or more places where you can get credit. Does it make any difference cost-wise, where you borrow? Will it pay to shop for credit?

According to Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent, some of the places where you can get credit, and the true annual interest rate are:

Lender	Interest Rate
Banks	3%-12%
Credit Unions	8%-12%
Small Loan Companies	18%-42%
Finance Companies (autos)	12%-34%
Dept. Stores	18%-20%

Notice the variation in interest rates from the different places. The rates vary according to their different credit plans.

Banks—Banks are our biggest lenders. They charge all the way from 3 per cent to 12 per cent. Those 3 per cent loans are educational loans—and not for anything else! However, you may be able to get a similar one from a college loan department. Banks charge 8 per cent to 12 per cent for their personal and new car loans. Rates for used cars may be more than 12 per cent—if you can get the loan.

Credit Unions—Credit Unions are voluntary "selfhelp" associations of people who have a common bond, such as workers employed by the same company, trade union, fraternal group, or even housing development. Credit unions charge their members a maximum of one per cent per month on the declining balance and some as little as three-quarters of one per cent. These are true rates of 9 to 12 per cent a year.

Small Loan Companies — usually charge one and one-half to three per cent a month on the declining balance, a simple thing on local competition and how much you borrow. These are true annual interest rates of 18 to 42 per cent. The smallest loans carry the highest rates.

Finance Companies — These companies specialize in financing installment contracts arranged by auto dealers, and usually charge $6 to $7 per $100 for loans on new cars. If they are in a highly competitive area, they may charge a little less. These are true annual interest rates of about 12 to 14 per cent. On used cars, rates are usually $9 to $17 per $100. This could run up to about 34 per cent.

Department Stores — and mail order houses usually have two main types of plans: (1) Junior-charge, revolving-credit, budget, extended-payment, or continuous easy-payment plans, as they are called by different stores, usually cost one and one-half per cent per month on the declining balance, a simple interest rate of 18 per cent per year. In this type plan, which is widely used for clothing and such, you are given a limit; for example $300. You charge your purchases in different departments in the store, up to your $300 limit, and repay in monthly installments. As you repay part of the credit you've taken out! you can make new purchases.

(2) The second type of widely used retail credit is the traditional installment contract. This is a long-term plan usually used for furniture and appliances. You make a down payment, then monthly installments for one to three years. You sign a contract which gives the terms. Usual finance charges for installment plans are $9 to $10 per $100—true annual interest of about 18 to 20 per cent—and sometimes more.

The traditional 30-day charge accounts with no charge for credit are still available, but the accounts which run 60 or even 90 days without credit costs are practically a thing of the past—you'll pay one and one-half per cent per month, or about 18 per cent true annual interest rate.

These are the main sources of credit and their cost. Usually, you can save money by paying cash, but if you prefer to use credit, pick a place that charges less.

If interested in making a study of credit and its use, attend the series of meetings on "The Family Dollar." The next session will be Monday, February 19 at 7:30 p.m. in the Burkburnett Community Action Center.

Magician Entertains Cub Pack 151 At Blue And Gold Banquet Here

Bob Hale of Wichita Falls, a very capable magician, performed his act of prestidigitation for Boy Scouts of Pack 151 and their families, during their Blue and Gold Banquet held February 8, in the Town Hall. He was assisted by his daughter, Gwendolyn.

Hale mystified everyone with his feats of magic. Included in his performance were the act of producing a live dove from an empty receptacle; picking coins from the sleeves and pockets of the audience; and making a scarf appear to coil as a snake.

Said one little scout, "He'll have to show me!"—and the magician did just that.

He followed his magic act with a very amusing conversation with a dummy named Willie Wood, and proved to also be a very competent ventiloquist.

The scouts sang "She'll Be Comin' Round the Mountain" as part of the entertainment. Tsgt. Bill Thomas, Assistant District Commissioner of Boy Scouts and an instructor of First Aid, attended, with Frank Miller, Scoutmaster of Pack 151.

Father McCrary, pastor of St. John the Divine Episcopal Church, said the invocation and benediction.

Approximately 150 persons attended and enjoyed the fine food and entertainment.

County H-D Agent News

Fashion looks change as fast as a woman's mind and this year the look is as varied: a touch of the Thirties and the military ruffles, short jackets and waistlines belted naturally or higher. The scope is wide enough for something for every figure, age and personality.

Return of the Thirties influence has entered the fashion pictures. The long skirts and soft blouses look very feminine. says Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent. The blouses feature tiny yokes, bluff sleeves and are worn with a wide belted semi-full dirndl or skirt. Skirts, as one designer described them, "bouncing, swinging, flipping — one for everywhere in every mood."

The tendency goes to a slim, trim bodice and ease at the hemline.

The military flavor remains with capes, buckles, epaulettes and buttoned cuff tabs. The Mao look adds a new twist with its mandarin collars and buttons.

Colors are muted grays, beiges, browns, victorian pastels and bright prints with fabrics showing texture. Coral or shrimp is new with lots of turquoise and yellow.

It's a Cinch!
 THE homemaker's most troublesome cleaning problems, according to a recent survey, are cooking grease, fingermarks, spilled food and drink, heel scuffs and kick marks. Then come bathtub scum, appliances, sinks and grease-stained switchplates. Procter & Gamble conducted the survey to determine what homemakers would expect in a new cleanser. The result—Cinch—a heavy-duty spray cleanser that lets you wipe away soil with a dry cloth.

This excess chemical, which is a formaldehyde, causes the itching. The resin itself, if properly cured and not washed no problem.

In the new total leggy look, the weight of the stockings should be slightly lighter than the weight of the dress fabric. Heavy wool fabrics call for heavy textured or opaque hose. Opaque crepe hose should be worn with lightweight wool crepe and lightweight nets or laces with cotton and linen.

Cakes and gelatin salads that were left over were donated to the Evergreen Manor.

TOTAL CATTLE NUMBERS DOWN FOR THIRD STRAIGHT YEAR

According to John G. McHoney, Extension economist, the decline in the nation's total cattle numbers has been in dairy cattle. Beef cattle numbers increased slightly in 1966 and when the 1967 figures are in they will probably show a small increase, he said. Beef cattle numbers on January 1, 1958 stood at 24.2 million head and on January 1, 1967 at 34.6 million, an increase of 43 percent in nine years, points out the economist.

Her talk was climaxed with a discussion and demonstration of dried materials which can be used effectively for unusually beautiful arrangements, when garden flowers are not available. The five methods of drying flowers, collage and individual leaves were discussed. Mrs. Gilbow brought various materials to demonstrate her points.

"The importance of gathering early spring flowers and individual leaves, of the wild varieties, as well as garden flowers, can not be over stressed" she said, "and, since leaves are essential for an effective arrangement, the gathering of early wild plant leaves should not be neglected."

Among the materials discussed and demonstrated as being especially adaptable for drying were the early wild asters, dock, artichoke, pine cones, wild primrose petals and the various kinds of leaves, especially the fruitless mulberry tree leaves and leaves of lilies. The leaves become almost like soft leather in texture and retain the color and contour when preserved at the peak of growth.

Materials for line such as the wisteria and the grape vine, along with a single long leaf with graceful flowing lines, were used to demonstrate striking bottle arrangements. Arrangements in colored bottles are especially effective when the container is placed where the rays of the sun, or the light of a lamp can shine through the glass reflecting the vibrant color of the bottle. Bottles of this type are frequently found on our own pantry shelves and the results from such an arrangement are well worth the effort of cleaning bottles and making the arrangement, which should always be sparse with material and flowing in contour.

Time-Saving Tips for Busy Women

WHETHER you're an outdoor type and active in sports, or an indoor type busy with house and children, check these time-saving tips:

APPLY hand cream nightly before retiring. Pacquin experts advise that one application at night is worth many during the day, since natural moisture in the skin is protected by the cream against evaporation. Lotion also works!

WHEN eyes become irritated or fatigued by exposure to wind and glare, or by insufficient sleep and too much TV, give them comfort fast. New Visine eye drops reduce redness and restore sparkle in less than 60 seconds.

ACTIVE WOMEN have active hands, and a tendency to develop jagged, unsightly cuticles. A clear gel cuticle remover, Mani Magic, dissolves cuticle without cutting in less than three minutes. It also gets dirt out from under nail tips.

PAY PROMPT attention to cuts, scrapes and burns because they can result in infection. Many first-aid remedies come in sizes that take up room. The makers of Pfizer bacitracin antibiotic ointment have put their product in a small tube, intelligently sized for bathroom shelf first aid kit or travel. It's at all drug store counters locally.

Col. John Milling Assumes Duties Engineer's Head

COL. JOHN B. MILLING

Sheppard AFB — Col. John B. Milling assumed duties as commander of 3750th Civil Engineering Group and base civil engineer at Sheppard Air Force Base, the first of February.

He came to Sheppard AFB from Tinker AFB, Okla., where he had served as civil engineering officer for three and one-half years.

The colonel who received his commission in the United States Army Reserves in June, 1939 on his graduation from The Citadel in Charleston, S. C., went on active duty in April, 1941. He reported to Camp Davis in Wilmington, Del. As a civilian he had worked with W. S. Lee Engineering Firm in Charlotte.

Colonel Milling remained at Camp Davis about three years before being reassigned to Camp Edwards, Mass. While there he transferred to the Army Air Corps and took pilot training in the Southeast Training Command. He received his pilot wings at Turner AFB, Ga., in November, 1943. In this training he flew B-17's and B-26's. He then was in combat crew training on B-17's for two years at MacDill AFB, Fla.

His next assignment was with the 8th Air Force in Europe where he served as squadron commander of the 100th Bomb Group. He returned to the States in December 1945 for an assignment with the Continental Air Forces at Bolling AFB, Washington, D. C., which was later redesignated Headquarters Strategic Air Command at Andrews AFB, Md.

His first civil engineering assignment with the military was as air installations officer at Headquarters SAC in the base utilization and assignments sections. After two years there he went to the Air Command and Staff School at Maxwell AFB, Ala.

He next went to Okinawa as commander of the 822nd Engineering Aviation Battalion. In 1950 he returned to the States and was assigned to the Directorate of Civil Engineering at Headquarters United States Air Force where he remained for four years. He served as real estate division executive officer and deputy chief.

His other successive assignments were as squadron commander of 20th Tactical Air Command Reconnaissance Squadron flying RF80's; chief of combat operations for the 827 Air Division at Shaw AFB, S.C., and an assignment in operations and training at Headquarters Tactical Air Command.

In 1961 he was named chief of Plans and Development Division, Deputy Chief of Installation of Headquarters TAC. He was there three years prior to his assignment at Tinker. A native of Greenwood, S. C., Colonel Milling completed high school in Greenwood before entering the Citadel. A command pilot with 3,800

For A Dry Timepiece

You'll never get your watch wet as the consequence of an unexpected fall into the lake if you place the timepiece in a small plastic bag, seal the bag and carry it in your pocket. The clear plastic keeps the watch dry, yet permits you to see what time it is.

Liquefied, the powdered milk supplied by UNICEF would fill the United Nations Building 27 times.

News From The County Agent

Have you decided how to fertilize your pastures and spring planted crops? With recent rains, most soils have been too wet to sample for soil tests.

With favorable moisture, prospects are better for high yields; therefore, it is important that fertilization supply those plant nutrients lacking in the soil in amounts sufficient to meet the higher production requirements.

Even though 1967 was relatively dry in most areas, numerous demonstrations show that fertilization according to soil and crop requirements was a highly profitable investment. Since the plant food content of soils varies, as does the crop requirements, a soil test will provide information about the capacity of the soil to supply plant food and provide suggested amounts of plant nutrients to apply explains Haws.

Greenbug infestations have been showing up in damaging numbers in some fields in Wichita County. There has been much interest in what insecticides might be used to obtain control of these pests.

According to Emory Boring, III, Area Entomologist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, methyl parathion and parathion, both in the two pound per gallon formulation, are very effective for greenbug control. These materials should be applied at the rates of one to two and one-half pints of spray concentrate per acre.

The greenbugs are most active at temperatures between 55 and 75 degrees Fahrenheit. Below 55 degrees Fahrenheit, the greenbugs are less active and do considerably less damage to wheat. Methyl parathion and parathion give best control of greenbugs when applied at temperatures above 50 degrees Fahrenheit.

Malathion may also be used for greenbug control. This chemical is less effective than parathion or methyl parathion for greenbug control, but may be preferred because it is less toxic. Malathion also has a shorter waiting period from time of application until the wheat may be harvested or grazed. The waiting period of malathion is seven days and for parathion and methyl parathion is fifteen days before the wheat can be grazed or harvested.

There has been much interest in the use of Disyston for control of greenbugs. This material has just received a label in Texas and Oklahoma. These are the only two states to which this label applies.

At this time Disyston has not been considered as one of the insecticides recommended by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service for greenbug control. When used a waiting period of 45 days from application to harvest is required, and the wheat that is treated is not to be grazed. When Disyston is applied to wheat, it should be applied at the rate and in the manner stated on the label which is on the container.

Decorating Tips For a Lovelier Home

BY LIZ GOYAK

The new mod "wet look" now is available in wallcoverings. If you have admired this shimmering, glossy look in women's clothing and accessories — books, purses, shoes, outerwear and dresses — you might enjoy it on your walls as well.

Imagine bursts of bold blooms in psychedelic colors shimmering on your kitchen or laundry room wall. No need for meal time or washday blues and don't worry about splatters and stains. The "wet look" is completely scrubable and extremely durable.

The new wallcoverings by United/DeSoto are printed in a variety of contemporary and traditional designs — all with a shining heavy coat of vinyl over their face to achieve the desired glossy effect.

The "wet look" has been gathering steam for many years as the new vinyl fabrics were perfecting. For instance, Barbara Streisand startled her fans by having her kitchen walls covered with red patent leather.

As the vinyls became more plentiful, varied and cheaper, the Carnaby Street designers picked up the fad and made vinyl the thing for the mod set.

But you need not be a Beatle fan to enjoy the "wet look" on your walls. This new way of treating wallcovering will add sparkle to your home — even turn on the entire family. The new Fabricale and Feminique collections by United/DeSoto have a large selection of "wet look" patterns from which to choose. Both wallcoverings are scrubable and strippable; Feminique also is prepacked. Patterns from these collections represent a fashion investment for your home offering years of beautiful surroundings. And since these wallcoverings are strippable, you'll find redecorating quick and easy when that time comes.

CARE Asks Funds To Aid Needy Of South Vietnam

DALLAS—An emergency appeal for public support was made today by CARE to enable the nonprofit agency to contribute its relief program in South Vietnam. Al Russell, Southwest Director, estimates $500,000 is needed to support its aid program for refugees and other civilian war victims in the next twelve months.

Mr. Russell stated, the Vietnam Relief Fund has provided $1,548,310 in food and supplies in the past two years and is now running out. The fund is specially planned to relieve the most pressing human needs: food, clothing, health, education and a means of earning a living.

Uprooted families who arrive at relocation centers in tattered clothes are given textile packages, each of which can clothe a family of five, and sewing kits. To help refugees become self-supporting, CARE provides hand tools irrigation equipment and livestock for farmers and tool kits for carpenters, masons, blacksmiths and other craftsmen. To aid education, CARE distributes school kits to children, and it supplies mosquito nets, soap, vitamins and hospital equipment in the fight on disease.

CARE aid, administered by seven American representatives, reaches every province of the war-torn country. The agency also sponsors visits by medical and surgical specialists who volunteer through MEDICO, a service of CARE.

Send your dollars to CARE, South Vietnam Relief Fund, 216 Empire Bank Building, Dallas, Texas 75201.

Who is at the Helm?

Who guides our lives? Are we a ship without a helmsman? Are we adrift, going no place?

Thanks be to God, who loves us so, He is willing to guide us, to show us the way over all manner of seas. How glorious to know there is such a One! All of us follow someone, some standard, but the true standard is God and His Word.

Let Him take over the wheel. He doesn't promise smooth sailing all the time, but He promises to guide us through the storm, and show us the way over calm and sweet but sometimes marker-less seas.

"And the Lord shall guide thee continually, and satisfy thy soul in drought, and make fat thy bones; and thou shalt be like a watered garden, and like a spring of water whose waters fail not."

Isaiah 58:11

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

World's Largest Ship Launched In Japan

The Yokohama Dockyard of the Ishikawajima-Harima Heavy Industries Company launched the main section of the 276,000 DWT oil tanker ordered by the National Bulk Carriers, Inc. of the United States. Using the most modern shipbuilding techniques as befitting the leading ship building nation in the world, the new giant ship's body will be completed this March when her stern and prow sections are attached to the central core. This ship is the first of three on order from the National Bulk Carriers and is capable of transporting 350,000 kiloliters of oil per run. An indication of her size is the fact that height of her bridge is equivalent to that of a 15-story building.

MRS BAIRD'S Stays Fresh Longer

What would Mr. Edison have expected your electric company to do to honor his birthday?

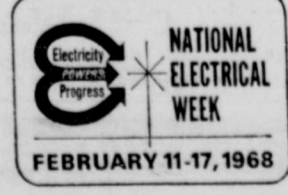

Deliver the goods.

Delivering dependable electric service around the clock is the best way we know of to honor the memory of Edison. And we're sure he would have agreed.

Edison was a tireless worker with a boundless faith in the future of electric service. His motto was, "There's a way to do it better—find it." And we are striving to follow his example. By working constantly to find new ways to serve our customers better. By taking advantage of technological advances to improve the quality of electric service and keep the price low.

This is what our customers have a right to expect, and we think it is what Mr. Edison would have wanted.
