Tuition Rights

FUND DATA IS OFFERED AT COLLEGE

GAINESVILLE, Texas—Cooke County Junior College here has initiated an advisory service to inform students from low-income families of their legal free tuition rights, student adviser Paul Thomas announced Wednesday.

Under the Connally-Carrillo Act passed by the Texas Legislature in 1967, Thomas said, a graduate of a Texas accredited high school can attend a Texas state-supported college with tuition and fees paid by the state if the student was in the top quarter of his class and if his family's total income does not exceed $4,800.

"We estimate that only about 1 per cent of the general public knows about this and we want to inform them," Thomas said.

The junior college has set up an information office to explain the law to prospective enrollees of state colleges. Thomas encouraged students who might be eligible to write or call the scholarship adviser, Cooke County Junior College, Gainesville.

Sixty-five Teachers To Receive Certificates From Region IX Education Service Center

Senior Citizens Club Met July 11 In Town Hall

Approximately 30 members of the Senior Citizens Club met Thursday, July 11th, in Town Hall. A delicious covered dish luncheon was enjoyed. Elder Nixon gave the invocation.

Mrs. Alice Goodwin, vice-president, presided over a short business session in the absence of Rev. Alva Browning, president, who is on vacation. Several reports were given. All were asked to try and enlist at least one new member. Mrs. Florence Trevena led in a sing song.

Dues are only $1.00 a year to be a voting member, this is used to help defray the expenses. But paying the one dollar does not keep any one from attending any or all sessions. There will be a covered dish luncheon at each meeting until it is voted otherwise.

Meetings will be held each second and fourth Thursday of the month. Town Hall will be opened at 10 a.m. and luncheon will be served at 12 noon. The second Thursday of each month a business meeting will be held following the luncheon, fellowship and games are enjoyed. The fourth Thursday will be devoted to a program following the luncheon. Birthdays for the month will be observed.

The next meeting will be July 25th. Remember at Town Hall.

ACP PROGRAM: There have been some questions raised regarding the planting of sudan, haygrazer, oats or other annuals following brush control under practice E-3 of the ACP. The practice is not applicable on land that, following the control of brush, is to be used for the production of annual planted crops, regardless of the use that might be made of such crops.

In some cases, the planting of an annual variety, such as oats or sudan might be needed as a renovation measure to condition the soil for the proper growth of desirable perennial vegetative cover. In these cases, there would be no objection to the use of an annual variety, if were among the honored guests it is planted for temporary protection until a permanent variety could be established the enjoyable ball seasons.

Co-champ trophies were given to the three first place teams, which consisted of in a manner that would materially delay the recovery or re-bait and Tackle House & First establishment of permanent varieties on the areas, the cost-trophies were given to Fawn Taylor of Clayton's Bait and shares paid under the brush-control practice will be recovered. Area Leaders Meet To Discuss Possible Junior College For Area

The possibility of building a Junior College in this area was discussed by area leaders from Iowa Park, Electra, Wichita Falls and Burkburnett, Tuesday, July 6, at a meeting held here.

It was agreed by those present that there is a need for training facilities.

According to Mr. T. M. Cornelius, 75% of Senior College dropouts do so because they are unable to adjust to the social environment of the larger colleges.

After two years of Prep. School training, the student may go on to a four year college may be further trained, for a require further education to special type position.

The Junior College is as a feeder system for the larger schools, such as Midwestern. It is a fact that most colleges are now over crowded.

Industrial firms, unable to hire trained personnel, are beginning to locate in areas where there is a Junior College to teach potential employees.

It was pointed out that many airman, though now being well trained to do a military job, will require further education to follow a chosen civilian profession. Sheppard Air Force Base has great student potential.

A Junior College, such as is being considered, will offer further education to those over 21, who do not wish that age, to begin classes in a Senior school.

A High School diploma is not required to enter a school such as the one under consideration by area leaders.

Other such meetings must be held before a decision to undertake or not to undertake, this project can be made.

LIKE CHARITY —

LOOK AROUND A BIT —

Just imagine for a minute, that you had to change your job location, and need to find a home a couple of hundred miles away.

One of the first things you would do is to make many inquiries about the immediate area of the new location, and then select a few cities and towns for personal inspection.

While "casing" the surrounding countryside, those areas with neat attractive homes, clean streets, and modern shopping areas arouse your interest, while those which are litter-strewn and spotted with un-kept homes are immediately rejected.

But, you don't have to move. Yet this imaginary visit has served a useful purpose. The way to keep America beautiful is to set a perfect example in your own backyard. It will serve as a challenge and reminder to your neighbors — and their neighbors will follow. When pride in cleanliness has permeated the neighborhood, this good example will encourage the entire city or town to follow.

Remember, it is the combined efforts of individuals who determine whether or not litter is to be downgraded and an entire area upgraded.

Milestone Of Human Progress

A timely feature of the Los Angeles Times-Washington Post Service recounts in a most dramatic manner what it is like to be present when an R&R flight of war-weary servicemen arrives in Hawaii aboard a jet airliner for a few days respite from the war in Viet Nam. Wives, sweethearts, parents and children are on hand to meet them Julie Byrne, author of the feature, says, "The big Pan American planes bring 162 weary fighting men from Viet Nam twice each day." Under the rest and rehabilitation program the men and their families are able to enjoy five days together in an environment as far removed as possible from the nightmare of war.

The R&R flights have become a milestone in the development of international air transport as essentially an instrument of peace. The history of these flights is an inspiring story of the way this country's biggest international air carrier has devoted its resources without stint to establishing an airlift that to date has carried more than 100,000 servicemen as R&R passengers. Originally, the airline bore the full expense of these flights. Now the government shares in the expense by reimbursing the carriers for out-of-pocket costs. The R&R airlift has shown more eloquently than words can express, the potential of international jet air transport as a builder of understanding and goodwill.

COUNTY H-D AGENT NEWS

Frozen fruits and vegetables spice year around menus with garden fresh flavor. But the nutritive value and quality of these fruits and vegetables depend largely on the treatment before freezing, storage temperature and method of cooking and serving.

Most fruits and vegetables can be frozen satisfactorily, according to Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent.

Select sound, ripe fruit which is slightly riper than for canning but not soft or mushy. Tree or vine ripened fruits contain more vitamins and richer flavor than fruits picked before freezing.

In general, fruit is prepared for freezing as for eating.

Keep fruit cool until it is frozen. Wash it in cold water but do not allow it to stand in the water. Some fruit loses food value and flavor and some gets water soaked.

Some fruits, such as peaches, apricots, apples and pears, discolor easily. Some ways to prevent this are: Ascorbic acid (Vitamin C) is available in tablet, crystalline or powdered form. Use one-half teaspoon of this per quart of syrup to prevent the discoloration.

If you don't want to pack the fruit in syrup, sprinkle dissolved ascorbic acid over fruit just before adding sugar. Use one-half teaspoon in one-half cup cold water to each quart of fruit.

Some special commercial anti-darkening preparations are on the market. These materials can be found at drug stores or where other freezing supplies are sold.

Most fruits have better texture and flavor if packed in sugar or syrup. Some may be packed without sweetening for use in special diets.

The way you plan to use the fruit determines the method of packing it.

Fruit packed in a syrup generally is better for dessert use; fruit packed in dry sugar or unsweetened is better for most cooking because there is less liquid in the products.

Quickly getting vegetables from the garden to the freezer is a must for top quality frozen vegetables. During hot weather, harvest vegetables in the early morning before they absorb much heat. Vegetables at optimum maturity will have best flavor and texture.

If you must store vegetables before freezing, the agent recommends spreading them out loosely in a cool, well ventilated place or packing loosely in the refrigerator.

Prepare vegetables for freezing similar to cooking them. Wash thoroughly in cold water. Drain and sort; peel, trim and cut.

Blanch them in boiling water. Head leafy greens for two minutes, the time varies with the vegetables.

This kills enzyme action in the product. The enzymes help the plants grow and mature but if not deactivated the vegetables will develop off-flavors and after discolor or toughen during freezing.

Place the scalded vegetables immediately into running cold or ice water. When the product is cool to the tongue when tested, it is cool enough to pack.

After the vegetables have been heated, cooled and drained, pack in airtight moisture-vapor-proof containers, leaving one-half inch head-space. Seal according to type of container you use.

A meal on a moment's notice: fresh corn in December; deer from last fall's hunt — all compliments of the home food freezer.

Freezing is one of the most simple, most popular methods of preserving foods at home. It retains the natural color, flavor, texture and food value of most fruits, vegetables, meats and baked goods.

The quality of the food frozen can vary with freshness of product used, methods of preparation, packing and conditions of freezing.

For successful freezing select good quality products. Freezing will not improve low grade food. Fruits and vegetables should be ready for table use.

Frozen meat, poultry, fish and eggs equal the fresh products in nutritive value. Retaining this value of fruits and vegetables depends largely on the treatment before freezing, storage temperature and method of cooking and serving.

Handling the food promptly also retains quality.

Undesirable flavors and appearance can be caused by improper packaging. The selection of containers depends on the type of food and personal preference.

Do not use ordinary waxed papers, household aluminum foil and cottage cheese or ice cream cartons.

Noise Means Luck at Berlin Weddings

Traditionally, wedding couples in West Berlin ride to church in such a white carriage. The favored month is August. Relatives and friends form a double line at the church entrance for the couple to walk through.

The wedding reception usually includes the reading of a "marriage manifesto" that pokes good-natured fun at the newlyweds. The license for the civil marriage which precedes the religious ceremony costs only 50 cents.

Both the bride and the groom bid farewell to single blessedness at a wedding-eve party in the home of the bride's parents. Since a German adage says that broken dishes bring good luck, the guests arrive with discarded chinaware to break on the doorstep as they enter. This "Polterabend" party is named for poltergeists, which also announce their presence with lots of noise.

Some 20,000 Berliners got married in 1967. In Germany, the median age at first marriages is 26-27 for men and 23-24 for women. At the last census, Berlin families averaged 1 1/2 children. New births in Berlin have risen steadily, from 17,456 in 1956 to 25,215 in 1967.

Perhaps this is due in part to the interest-free loans of $750, repayable in 11 years, to which residents of Berlin are entitled on marriage: $190 of this is written off for the first baby, with lesser amounts waived for the next two children, for a total reduction of $315. Since 1961, these grants have totaled about $77 million paid to some 103,000 families.

All packages should be airtight. Freezer burn, a surface discoloration on meat and poultry, often results when meat or poultry dry inside the packaging.

Give special care to foods which may become rancid, a result of natural fats and oils being exposed to atmospheric oxygen. These foods include fish, shellfish, beef, pork, meat, poultry, cherries, peaches, strawberries and asparagus.

Freeze fruits and vegetables at 0 degrees F. or below. Meat should be frozen in a commercial plant at -5 to -20 degrees F. for best results.

Since how rapidly heat can emerge from the product is more important than air temperature, space packages of unfrozen food at least one inch apart. But no more unfrozen food into a freezer than will freeze within 24 hours.

For quickest freezing, place packages against freezing plates or coils, says the agent.

Storage temperature matters. For example, many foods noticeably lose quality and vitamin content when stored at about 25 degrees F. in an "open-at-one-end" household refrigerator freezer.

Frozen foods undergo slow changes in storage and will not retain quality indefinitely. For best results, store them at 0 degrees or below.

Freezing does not sterilize the product, but the low temperature prevents the growth and development of harmful yeasts, molds and bacteria. Many micro-organisms are killed by freezing storage but some survive.

The key to preventing home burglaries: "inconvenience," says Liberty Mutual Insurance Companies. "It simply must be inconvenient and even difficult for the burglar to enter and leave the home undetected."

Women IN THE KNOW

By Jean Kingsley, Women's Consultant, The Travelers Insurance Companies

"When You're a Widow"

Whether childless or surrounded by a loving family, the widow is intensely alone through the shock and pain of being widowed. Young, old or middle-aged, all have said, "I don't know how to deal with this thing that has happened to me."

Some eight million American women have struggled through the pain of being widowed. One woman is trying to help. A widow herself, she's Clarissa Start — newspaper columnist, lecturer and author of "When You're a Widow," (Concordia Publishing House) a book of rare comfort for all widows.

We talked with Clarissa Start last month when her book appeared, about the plight of the modern widow — and what, if anything, she can do to make her own lot easier. One bit of advice, above all, seems to us to make real sense: Wives should be clued in, made aware of all the provisions their husbands have made in event of death. The future of the family is just too important to be left to chance born of insufficient knowledge — particularly when wives live longer and when detailed knowledge of insurance policies and other provisions crucial to keeping a family on an even keel are essential.

Instead of avoiding vital knowledge in the fear of seeming to profit from a husband's death, the woman in the know recognizes that insurance exists to provide not profit but security. This entire business of security (and it is something that should be approached on a professional level) is behind The Travelers agents' counseling services.

No counselor, of course, can ease all the pain of widowhood; the healing of the rupture takes time and faith. But the rupture will heal more quickly if the widow is relieved of worry, a burden that can be removed by wise family planning.

From The Office Of SENATOR JOHN G. TOWER

I know you have been closely following, as I have, this week's news about possible new talks and negotiations between the United States and the Soviet Union. It is always important when the two greatest world powers can arrange to sit down and talk about things, but I believe Americans must be very cautious, very restrained in their enthusiasm, and not build up great expectations for major progress from any U.S.-Soviet talks.

Our historic experience with the Russians tells us clearly that they do not talk to us or to anybody else except when they feel it is in their own interests to do so. Therefore, we ought to explore for a moment just why they may want to talk now.

The key issue proposed for joint discussion is, of course, limitation of both offensive and defensive missile strength.

It is interesting to me that this sudden Soviet decision to talk came within a week after the Senate—supporting the advice of its Armed Services Committee—decided to begin implementation of a missile-defense system for the United States. The Soviets already have a missile-defense around Moscow, Leningrad and probably elsewhere across their vast country.

I have a suspicion that in any talks with us they will be talking not about scrapping the defense system they already have, but about preventing us from putting in any at all.

In the area of offensive missiles which are the chief deterrent weapons on both sides the Soviet Union has observed that the United States has halted ICBM employment at about 1,000 hard sites. We know that by January the Soviets—who are continuing to build hard sites—will have more such offensive bases than we have. Then, presumably, they will talk about limiting such sites with the U.S. in a permanently inferior position.

So far as missile-firing submarines go, the Soviets have said they want to talk to us about limiting activities of such systems. That would hobble the deterrent effectiveness of our Paloris submarine force and restrict our submarine development at a time when our navy knows well that the Soviets are vigorously pursuing development of submarines that are faster and more silent than any we have under development.

Also, the Soviets having brought to the point of development their orbit-capsule, nuclear bomb system, are anxious to talk us into further procrastination on development of American defensive systems in near-space. Again, they would leave themselves a vast military advantage.

Clearly, the Soviets feel today they have a great deal to gain if they can keep the U.S. talking while they are working on new weapons; or if they can get an American administration to agree to limitations which place the United States in an inferior weapons position.

For these reasons any talks with the Soviets will be long and difficult. We will have to be constantly on our guard against promises and pledges and propaganda. Our experience with Soviet promises and treaties does not indicate we can trust the Russians to honor any treaty they feel like breaking.

We will need more than promises from the Soviet Union before the world can proceed to realistic arms control and toward international order and stability.

We will need open deeds of friendship, good will and mutual cooperation. So far we have not witnessed many such deeds.

—While professing a desire for peace in Asia the Soviet Union has kept the North Vietnamese war machine running on Russian oil and arms.

—On the very day they were signing a treaty banning transfer of nuclear weapons to smaller nations the Soviets pointedly exploded a huge, underground nuclear test of their own.

—Instead of working for stability in Europe, the Soviets continue to back their East German puppets in further pressures on the people of free Berlin.

But, in the most distressing action of all, at the very moment when our President was announcing his hope that new cooperation with the Soviet Union will be possible, that same Soviet Union was forcing down and into captivity a U.S. airliner with 231 Americans aboard.

There is very serious question in Washington whether that plane was in Soviet airspace at any time. It is possible it was initially diverted by MIG-fighters over international waters—that has been the view of the Japanese radar experts who were monitoring our plane's position.

Even had our plane been mistakenly over the remote bit of Soviet territory, it could and should have been warned and turned back, not captured.

If the Soviets persist in such things we must conclude that they do not want to cooperate

Camper Style Housekeeping

High camp or low camp, you have to keep house even on the road. Some suggestions for quick and easy tent or camper clean-up: Take a minimum of cleaning equipment along and make it the versatile variety. The tenters carry theirs along in a soft-drink carton—a scrub brush, lots of paper towels, a sponge or two and an all-purpose pine oil cleaner-disinfectant. This storage trick also works well for under the sink in the luxury camper and makes a neat carry-all. For added housekeeping ease, try disposable camping—from paper plates to disposable sleep gear, camp chairs and "paper" clothes, you can shed your equipment as you go along and no cleaning necessary. So whether you take the high road or the low road, don't let house-keeping keep you from camping.

 America had best proceed accordingly.

"Men Of The Year In Texas Agriculture"

The Texas County Agricultural Agent Association has named six outstanding agricultural leaders as winners of their top recognition award. They are Dr. Charles M. Smallwood, Canyon; Joe Brown, Wichita Falls; V. B. Shaw, Quitmen; J. B. Cooper, Roscoe; Eugene Weatherly, Nacogdoches; and David R. Winterman, Eagle Lake. All have many outstanding contributions to agriculture and rural living in their home counties and Texas. Several have or are now serving on national advisory boards or committees.

A car screeched to a halt at an intersection, barely missing a white-haired old lady. But instead of giving the driver a tongue lashing, she recovered herself quickly, smiled sweetly, and pointed to a pair of baby shoes dangling from the rear-view mirror.
 "Young man," she asked, "why don't you put your shoes back on?"

Car With Parts From Many Models Pride of Sergeant

By AMN. Hugh Margan
 SHEPPARD AFB, Texas — With a '60 chassis, '65 brakes, '66 engine, '65 steering assembly, Chevy tires and wheels and a fiberglass dune body, M Sgt. Paul D. Edmiston's Volkswagen renake is rolling around.
 The thinking of the 43-year-old noncommissioned officer-in-charge of the Printing Plant at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas, represents the VW ideology—improve the product. The buggy he has virtually completed with seven weeks' work began as a gray beetle in Germany in 1954.

"My wife wanted a car to take a trip around Europe with her mother so I bought the '54 from a man in Wiesbaden and modernized it," he explained.

During a three-year tour in Germany, the sergeant improved his product. From wrecked Volkswagens came a new engine, steering assembly, chassis and suspension systems. The ten-year-old car Sergeant Edmiston bought in 1964 had parts in it from 12 model years.

Two months ago, the sergeant decided to change the countenance of the bug by adding the glittering green dune body. Working with pervasive VW experience he ordered the two-piece fiberglass body from a local dealer, removed the '54 hull and had 14½ inches chopped from the chassis.

He mounted the new body, tuned up the 65 horse power engine, shortened the brake and clutch cables, mounted motorcycle headlamps and Chevy wheels, poured gas in the tank and hit the road.

Though he hasn't clocked the machine, 1600 cc. engine can push the buggy beyond 100 mph.

The sergeant estimated he has spent about $500 on the conversion. He wants to improve the exhaust system—the buggy roars like a lion—and an upholstery job will follow.

He is not a racer now, though his first interest in auto mechanics was in dragsters. Sergeant Edmiston thinks he might put on the wider back tires and give the vehicle a little desert experience once he returns to California.

Special Units Help Cotton Growers Harvest First Sunflower Seed Crop

Custom attachments convert standard combine to more efficient sunflower seed harvester.

Special sunflower seed harvesting attachments will receive their first extensive test in the South as hundreds of cotton growers attempt to determine whether sunflowers can be profitable alternate cash crop.

Sunflowers have been test-planted on about 33,000 acres in more than 12 southern states, according to estimates by the National Cottonseed Products Association, Inc. After extensive research, the association supported the trial. Approximately 525 participating cotton growers planted their first sunflower crop earlier this year. They will begin harvesting in a few weeks.

Tonnage per acre is one of the critical factors in determining whether or not sunflowers become an important alternate crop in the South. Since heavy seed loss has been experienced in other areas with standard combines, most southern farmers will be using special sunflower attachments.

Engineers at Willmar Manufacturing, Willmar, Minn., have found that custom-made attachments have the greatest harvesting efficiency. The firm fabricates attachments according to the individual grower's row spacing, thereby eliminating non-essential openings for seeds to fall through. Each unit is also built to fit the particular make and model of combine used by the grower.

Field testing has shown that the Willmar unit's 96-inch pan will catch heads regardless of where the stalks are cut. The nose cone below the head of the pan is designed to pick up low-hanging heads and the reel can be adjusted according to head size.

Over 100 cotton growers will be using Willmar sunflower attachments this year. Willmar Manufacturing has been developing and improving its unit since 1966, when interest in sunflower seed production was renewed in this country.

PARENTS' RESPONSIBILITY

"Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it." Proverbs 22:6

Ask anyone what his most precious possession is, and he will almost invariably say, "My children." The desire for the welfare of our children enables us to "move mountains". We will do anything, give them anything, if we think it will help them.

The one most important thing we can do for them, however, is to instill in them a love of God, and a desire to obey him. The church can help you in this endeavor, inspire and strengthen you. We invite you to take your family to church this week. It may make a great difference in the life direction taken by your children.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
 THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

SEN. RALPH YARBOROUGH'S NEWSLETTER

Today I report on developments for three great national parks in Texas—Padre Island National Seashore in South Texas, Gaudalupe Mountains National Park in West Texas (both already created) and the proposed Big Thicket National Park in Southeast Texas near Beaumont.

Congress passed my bill to create Padre Island National Seashore six years ago, but the process of acquiring the 100,000 acres of beautiful shoreline has not been completed.

The government condemned the land and courts fixed a price for the purchase, but Congress has not provided the money to pay those judgments. I have introduced a bill to authorize prompt payment, because the longer we wait, the higher the interest on those court judgments will become.

A similar money problem is slowing progress at Gaudalupe Mountains National Park, nearly a hundred miles east of El Paso on the New Mexico line. The Gaudalupe Mountains National Park bill became law in 1966. But we still need about $1½ million to buy 77,000 acres of land for the park.

The Bureau of Budget recommended that amount, but the House cut every dime of it out of the budget. I have been able to get the Senate Appropriations Committee to restore $200,000 of that money.

Finally, the Big Thicket National Park in Southeast Texas which I proposed, has received a tremendous boost from Interior Secretary Stewart Udall. This July he has called for a fullscale national park for the fabled Big Thicket near Beaumont, not a miniature park as some want.

This is the first time Secretary Udall or the Park Service group approved a full-scale park. The WALL STREET JOURNAL praised the park proposal in its edition of July 1, and the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs and the Sierra Club are behind my park.

This is the last real wilderness area of size remaining in Texas. Some lumber companies and careless citizens are wrecking the beautiful magnolia and beech trees, driving out many species of birds and wildlife inhabiting the Big Thicket. The Big Thicket is in danger of destruction forever.

It is late in the session and frankly, I am not optimistic about passage of the Big Thicket bill this year. But I will keep fighting for a park there next year in a new Congress. I implore residents of the area and the lumber companies there to help preserve this beautiful forest area. Let's save the Big Thicket for our grandchildren and for generations to come.

Motor Vehicles Up According to AAA

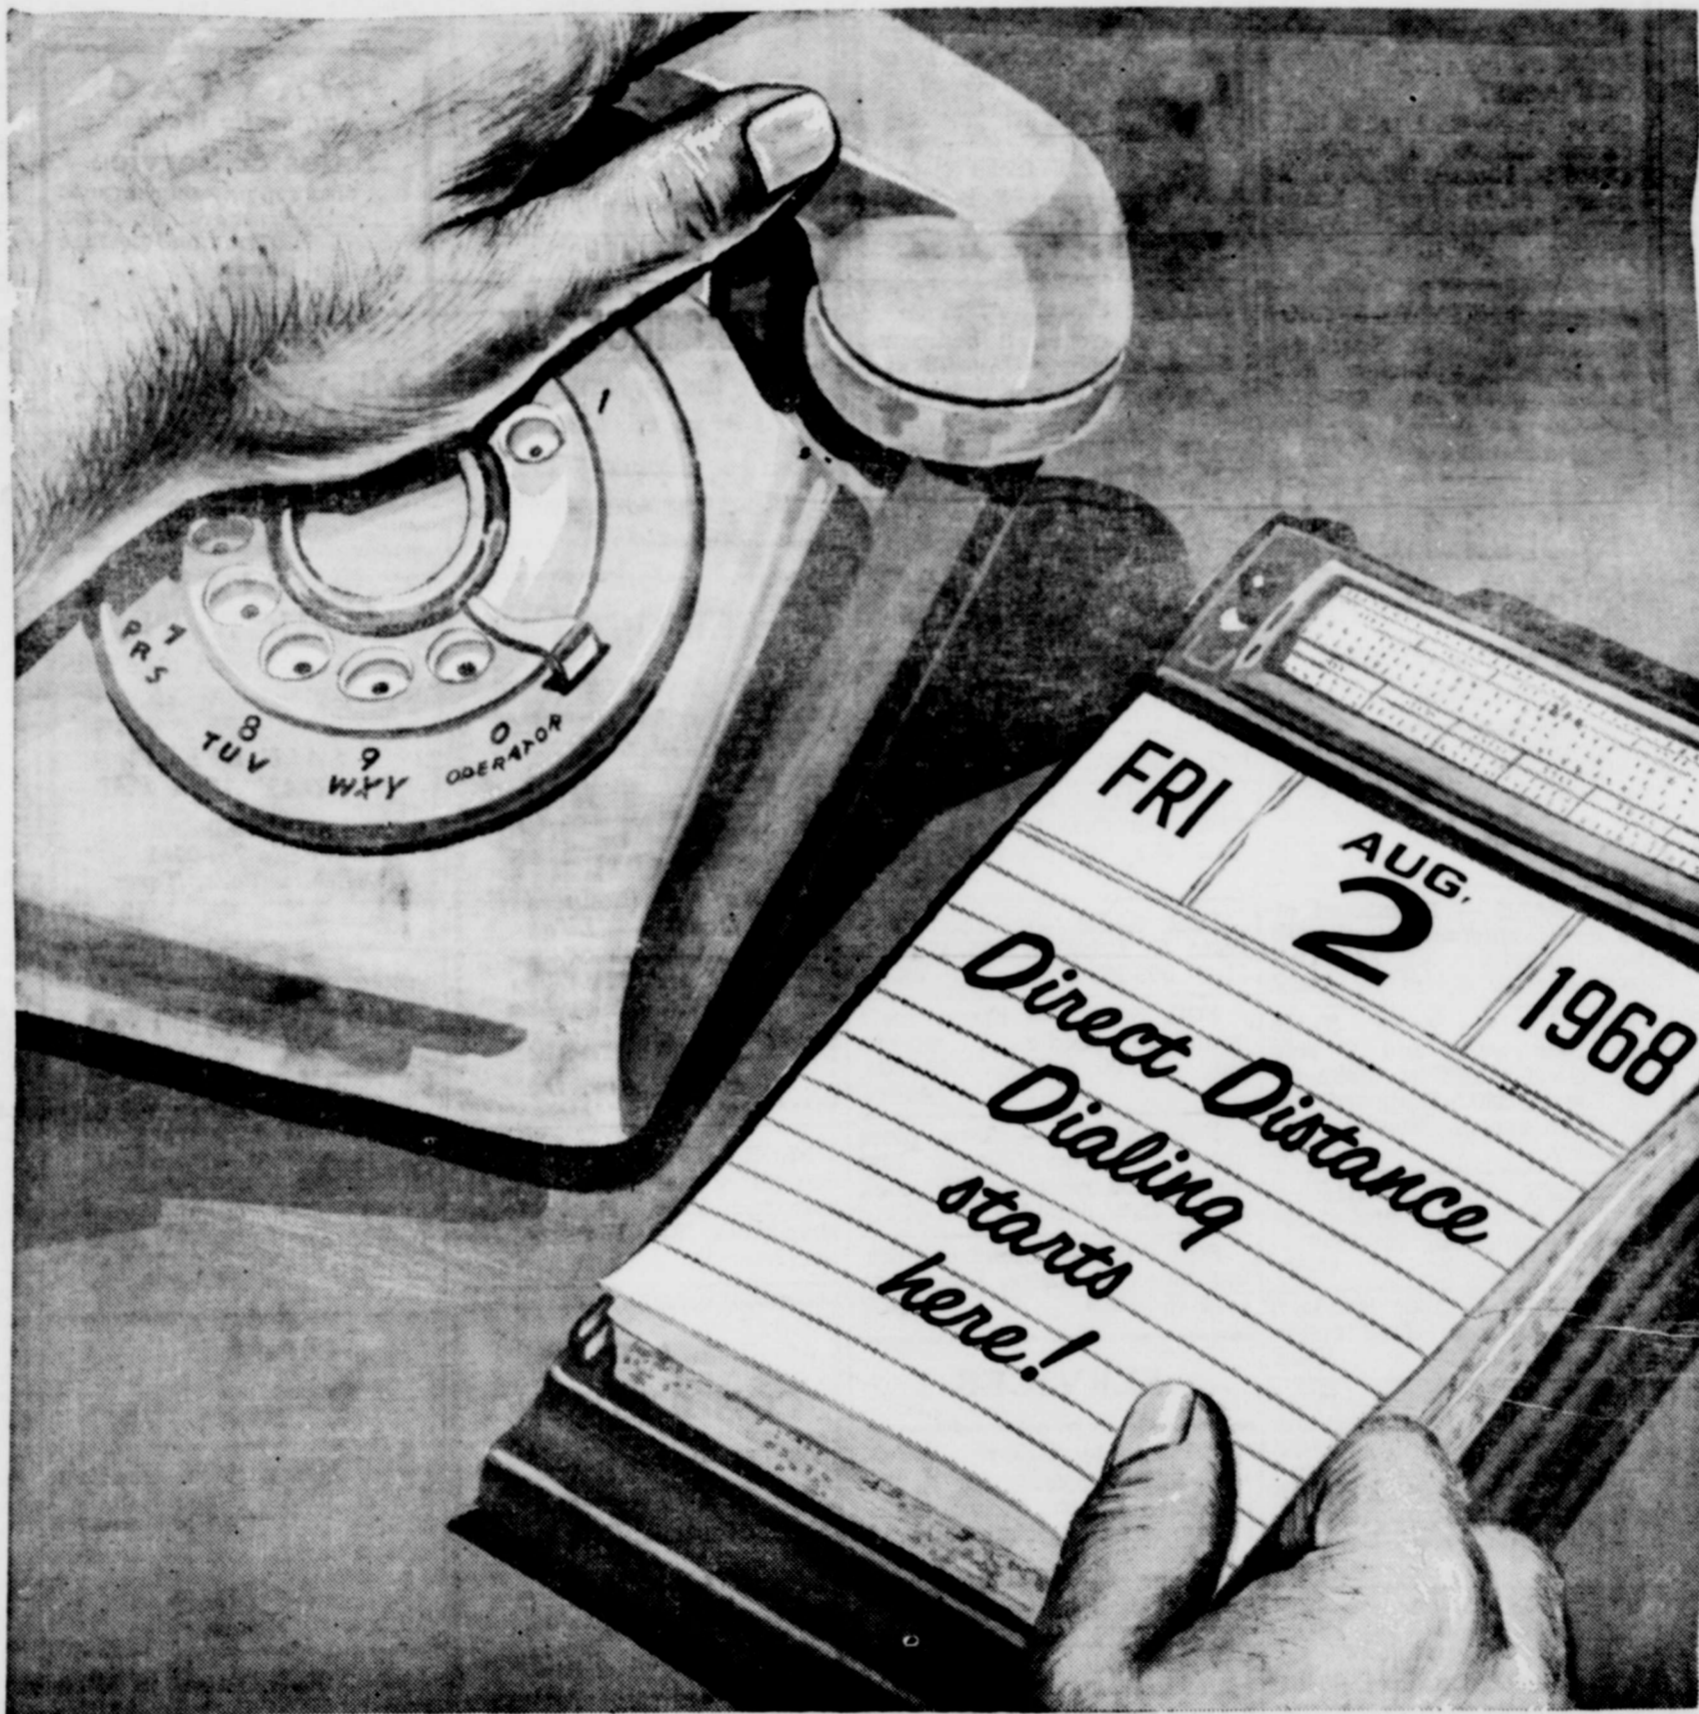

Total number of motor vehicles registered in Texas totaled 5,892,859 at the close of 1967, an increase of 3.2 percent over the preceding year, Wm. M. Coffey, Manager, American Automobile Association, Texas Division reported today.

The count, made by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, showed that of the state's total motor vehicles, 4,595,374 were automobiles, 13,799 buses and 1,283,686 trucks. In addition, 88,409 motorcycles were registered.

The AAA official said that for the nation as a whole, a total of 97 million motor vehicles were registered. This included more than 80 million passenger cars, 337,197 buses and over 16 million trucks. National total for motorcycles was placed at close to 2 million. The 1967 figure for all motor vehicles represented a 3.2 increase over the preceding year.

Approximately 25 Cub Scouts from Pack 151 were guests of the 17th Ordnance Company (SA) (GA) at the Fire Power Demonstration at Fort Sill on Saturday, July 13th, 1968.

The boys were accompanied by male members of the Pack Committee to the Key Gate No. 1. Captain G. Smith appointed Lt. The demonstration involved a parade and firing of artillery weapons, such as small arms, 105-MM and 155-MM Howitzer, 8-in. Howitzer and the Honest John Rocket; a display of the 75-MM Guns, and the Pershing and Sergeant Missil avsse and Sergeant Missiles was also provided.

Next the boys where taken in convoy to the 17th Ordnance Company's Mess Hall for lunch. On the menu was breaded pork chops, green beans, cantalope, choice of salad, ice cream, choice of drinks, and bread and butter.

With very full stomachs the Cub Scouts were taken on a tour of the Ft. Sill Museum. The museum is one of the outstanding military museums in the world. It occupies several of the original buildings of the old post, in which are preserved and displayed a host of items depicting the stirring history of the American Artillery and the epic Cavalry — Infantry — Indian history of Old Ft. Sill. The Cubs were allowed

Secretary of Agriculture Freeman has moved to assure farmers participating in the wheat program a price at least as high as the local Government price-support loan rate for their wheat. Any wheat delivered by farmers under this price support procedure will be moved to available storage at other points by the Department and added to Commodity Credit Corporation stocks.

News From The County Agent

Wood used in outdoor projects such as patios, picnic tables or fences should be protected by the use of preservatives. The best treatment is the pressure process. Pressure treated lumber is readily available. A paintable preservative should be requested if painting is required or if the wood will be in contact with clothing or the skin.

Years ago hogs went to market weighing over 400 pounds. Emphasis then was on fat because lard was in demand for high-energy diets, says County Agent B. T. Haws. Today's ideal hog is marketed at 200 pounds, and is mostly lean pork. Research has helped farmers make the change by developing lean-type strains of hogs and feed rations which allow producers to grow the types demanded by the modern market.

Production per cow in the Texas Dairy Herd Improvement Association herds is over 11,000 pounds per cow and climbing. Better care and disease control account for part of this gain. But feeding and breeding knowledge pioneered by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Land Grant Institutions, such as Texas A&M University, account for much of the increase.

Despite the progress made to date, important work still remains to be done in areas such as feed efficiency; prevention and control of disease and pests; marketing efficiency; and price determination. Thus, the need for continued research is evident, concludes the county agent.
