CRUEL HOAX

Wage hikes without a compensatory increase in productivity are tending more and more to become an exercise in futility as higher production costs force prices up. For this reason, Secretary of Labor Shultz has made it clear that the Administration does not favor further minimum wage increases at this time. Thus it is more than a little surprising to learn that a three-man Wage Board in the District of Columbia has before it a proposal to increase the wage rates for retail employees in the District of Columbia to $1.80 an hour at once and to $2.00 on February 1, 1970. The Wage Board has the authority to order these wage rates. No approval by Congress, by the Mayor of Washington, or by the City Council is required.

Experience has shown and experts have testified that increases in minimum wages cost job opportunities, primarily for the disadvantaged and for young people. An arbitrary increase such as that proposed in Washington, D.C. by an autonomous Wage Board can perpetrate a cruel hoax on those who most need help. A representative of the retail distribution industry observes: "This disruptive proposal would be most unfortunate for D.C. residents and businesses, but because it is our nation's capitol, the ripple effects are likely to be felt throughout the country. Breaching of the $1.60 per hour rate and establishing $2.00 an hour has serious consequences for all . . . Congress should close this loophole." The minimum wage law can create unemployment among the people that business, industry and government are bending every effort to help through training and job opportunities.

LESSONS OF HISTORY

Although the U.S. Supreme Court has upheld the right of a labor union to discipline members who go over production quotas set by the union, a fundamental question remains. Regulating production by setting a ceiling on individual efforts is but a way of curbing incentive. Curbing incentive in a nation founded on basic principals of liberty and opportunity may be legal and, at the same time, from the long view, suicidal.

With the regularity of clockwork, living costs reach new highs and wage increases outrun productivity. In other words, people are being paid more for doing less, and the gap is covered by further price increases. Machines can never take the place of human incentive and human productive effort. As incentive is curbed, the gap between wages and productivity widens along with a steepening spiral of prices and inflation. What the country needs is more individual incentive and less government spending and less inflation.

Did you know? Enough people are born every 39 days to fill a city the size of New York? In 1968 world population increase equalled the combined populations of France and Spain. New Americans are being born at the rate of one every 14 seconds—a slowdown from 1964's one every 12 seconds.

PUBLIC NOTICE Proposed CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NUMBER NINE ON THE BALLOT (HJR8)

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:
Section 1. That Section 5, Article III, Constitution of the State of Texas, as amended, be amended to read as follows:
"Section 5. The Legislature shall meet in regular session each year at such time as may be provided by law and at other times as convened by the Governor. When convened in odd-numbered years in regular session, the Legislature shall devote the first thirty days to the introduction of bills and resolutions, acting upon emergency appropriations, passing upon the confirmation of the recess appointees of the Governor and such emergency matters as may be submitted by the Governor in special messages to the Legislature; provided that during the succeeding thirty days of such session the various committees of each House shall hold hearings to consider all bills and resolutions and other matters then pending, and such emergency matters as may be submitted by the Governor; provided further that during the following sixty days the Legislature shall act upon such bills and resolutions as may be then pending and upon such emergency matters as may be submitted by the Governor in special messages to the Legislature; provided, however, either House may otherwise determine its order of business during this session by an affirmative vote of four-fifths of its membership.

"Regular sessions in even-numbered years, commencing in 1972, shall not exceed sixty days and shall be limited to legislation on the subjects of providing funds for the support of functions and activities of the state government and emergency matters submitted by the Governor in messages to the Legislature. At each regular session, commencing in 1971, appropriations shall be made for the support of functions and activities of the state government for the next fiscal year."
Sec 2. The foregoing constitutional amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this state at an election to be held on August 5, 1969, at which election the ballots shall be printed to provide for voting for or against the proposition: "The constitutional amendment to provide for annual legislative sessions."

Handouts Destroy Character

THE City Planning Commission of New York has approved a 300,000-word, $19-billion plan that is expected to change the city's skyline and alter its economic and social structure. The $5 billion a year that this plan is expected to cost must come, so the planners say, from the Federal government.

The main purpose of the plan is to create a new middle class by giving three million poor people "direct payments, new public service jobs, subsidy of expanded jobs in the private sector and stipends during advanced training."

Giving money to poor people has never yet produced middle class people. It is more likely to reduce the present middle class to the poor class.

People achieve middle class standing by character, integrity, initiative and hard work. To greatly increase the burden on them in this attempt to buy a new middle class will reduce them to the poverty level.

What we need is more earned money and less free welfare. If able-bodied citizens were required to do useful work in return for relief payments, we would be on the road to a solution of the problem. Giving people more money without obligating them to do useful work for it, is destructive of character and will cause a rapid increase in the number of people needing and demanding relief. It is the road to bankruptcy and loss of freedom.

Many of our poor people are not able to earn standard wages, but they could earn something. If employers were not required to pay minimum wages to people incapable of earning them, many unemployed people would find jobs. There ought also to be an apprentice wage for younger persons until they acquire the skill and experience that would enable them to earn standard wages.

The destruction of freedom in the marketplace is responsible for the insoluble problem of welfare and the demand for more and more relief.

When government takes money from some and gives it to others, it is violating the Commandments against coveting and stealing. No nation will long retain its freedom if it continually expands that process.

Explorer Scouts Travel To Terrel In Canoes On The Red River

Men of Explorer Post 155 and guests put four canoes into the river at the Burkburnett Bridge early Saturday. The destination was Gainesville but all nine wanted to get away and test themselves against the river. Steve Bryant, Ronnie Gann and David Taylor met this test and are qualified for the "Gar Award" when a low hanging branch tipped their canoe. Most personal possessions were lost but they did save the paddles and the ice chest full of fresh meat.

Although Terrell, Okla., was the final stop and Gainesville still far away, it was disappointing. The River would not cooperate and was falling all the time. There was plenty of work, 12 hours of paddling and a three hour delay at Byers bridge set things back. But there were laughs that could be classified as (canoe tipplers). Dennis Cotton toed David Taylor to step out on a bank. The bank was stagnant water and Taylor never hit bottom. His second dunking for the day. Later Cotton stepped out on a shore that wasn't and hung a foot in the canoe and got wet too.

Four Eagle Scouts had to tie two canoes together cataram style and succeeded in being an hour late for lunch. Craig Wintzel and David McMahon were guests from Wichita Falls and Tsu Kreidler represented the Boy Scouts.

A late camp was made at Buck Leheau's ranch near Ringgold Saturday night. Almost 80 miles had been reached and the sore and tired canoers slept until 8:30 a.m.

Two miles were left to the Terrell bridge where O. C. Hurst met the group with the bus and canoe trailers.

Each boy did what most fathers would like to do. Not many people travel the Red River any more. Explorers met this great river and with respect.

Operation Clean-Up Proclaimed By Mayor F. R. McCandless

May 19-26 has been proclaimed Operation Clean-Up by Mayor F. R. McCandless in official recognition of a town-wide spruce-up campaign sponsored jointly by the city and the Burkburnett Community Service Council.

The campaign, which is aimed at homes, business houses and public facilities, will be coordinated by the Burkburnett

Jaycees with Joe Musgrave and Ronnie Crain as co-chairmen.

In view of pending changes in the disposal of city-collected trash, city manager Gary Bean has urged all householders to make a thorough clean-up of tree limbs, shrub prunings and other burnable refuse.

The 1969 clean-up campaign is of additional importance because it will probably be the last one in which the city will be permitted to dispose of refuse by burning it, he pointed out.

On July 1, state air pollution control regulations become effective prohibiting cities of over 5,000 population from burning trash. Until that date, material such as tree and shrub cuttings can be destroyed at the city dump near the river.

After July 1, the city must bury all refuse for which it is responsible. Land and equipment to comply with the new regulations are being acquired by the city, according to Bean.

Special collection of refuse by city trucks will begin May 26, with householders being asked to place all discarded materials near the location of regular garbage pick-ups.

ELECTRA FIREMEN WIN TOP HONORS IN CONTESTS HERE

The Electra volunteer fire department won first place in the six-man hook-up races and water polo when the Northwest Texas Firemen and Fire Marshals Association held their semi-annual meeting in Burkburnett Sunday. It was one of the best organized and best attended meetings held in some time, many of the visitors agreed, with 229 persons, including the ladies' auxiliaries and families registering. The two-man hook-up event was won by Archer City. In the ladies events, the Electra auxiliary took top honors in the six-woman hook-up as well as water polo. Times turned in by the women were impressive, almost equaling the times of the men. For instance, while the six-man team from Electra won their event with a time of 29.5 seconds, they were only 2.4 seconds ahead of the ladies. And in the two-man hook-up, Archer City posted a mark of 13.2 seconds, barely besting the Saint Jo Women, who turned in a winning time of 13.7. More than 75 firemen representing 10 cities registered for the convention. Following adjournment, the group gathered at Bulldog Stadium for a catered chicken dinner, where 225 persons were fed. The next semi-annual meeting of the organization will be held in Seymour in September.

BEHIND YOUR HEALTH

H. E. Kingman, Jr., D.V.M.

The public's growing concern over unreasonable and often destructive protest demonstrations has long existed in the scientific community with respect to the violent attacks on well established and ethically acceptable practices, like animal experimentation in biomedical research. Antivivisectionists protest all experimentation on animals. Individuals aware of the great progress that has been made in medical science through animal research during the past decade, not only in developing surgical techniques and drugs, but also in the field of basic research, look upon the claims of antivivisectionists as the utterances of fanatics.

Unfortunately a constant stream of protest gains attention and some acceptance by those who assume that there must be some truth or substance to the claims made of they would not dare make them. Recent examples are the attempts to prevent smoking research and automotive safety tests from being conducted on animals.

However, a thorough review of antivivisection literature over a period of years has shown that without exception their statements are misrepresentations.

Opinions differ on how protestors should be handled. Some say that if they are ignored they will desist. This is dangerous advice because the benefits to mankind from animal studies are too great to allow them to be jeopardized by a few irresponsible agitators.

Fishing Tips

Minimize the possibility of a fish hook wound by shielding the hook with a small cork over the barb and storing lures in the tackle box until they are needed. If a hook becomes imbedded in your hand or finger, don't try to pull it out. Your physician will be able to remove the hook preventing a deeper injury. If necessary, he will also administer antibiotics and tetanus toxoid.

Snake Bite

Snakes are more dangerous during spring and summer months. While only 19 of the 132 species of snakes are classified as poisonous, be cautious when traveling through snake country. Since most snake bites are inflicted in the legs, wear high leather boots or leggings. Signs of a poisonous bite include: bleeding at the bite, burning pain; rapid pulse; and discoloration. Snake bite victims should remain as quiet as possible, and a physician should be called immediately.

Dental-Related Headaches

Many headaches are related to dental disorders. Among factors contributing to head pain are missing teeth, decay resulting in drifting of teeth, recent tooth restorations that have altered the bite and gum inflammation. Periodic visits to your dentist for specialized treatment may remedy such problems.

Dear Miss Walker: The cost of heating our new house last winter seemed much too high. Friends tell us that additional insulation would "pay for itself." What do you think? W.D.

DEAR W.D.: The way your house is built affects the amount of heat that escapes. That's why insulation, storm windows and weatherstripping are so important for economical heat.

DEAR R.M.: It depends on the type of heating system you have. A hydronic (hot water) system with a cast iron boiler will ordinarily serve 35 years or more, but because of the tough material of which it is made and the minimum number of moving parts.

DEAR L.F.: Unless your house is on a concrete slab, with the heating ductwork built into the slab, it's probable that the duct and register can be moved. But expect it to be expensive and messy.

A SYMBOL OF SAFETY

When the ship is in danger, we can depend on the life-boats to take us over the seas to safety. It is comforting to glance at the life-boat when the seas are rough.

Our Armed Services are a symbol of safety when our country is in trouble, when war threatens to raise its ugly head. In the past, when war has come, our servicemen have not hesitated to give their lives to protect and defend us.

There is a special Day each year when we remember and honor our servicemen who have died in the defense of our blessed country. Let us not forget, as individuals, to honor these dead and give thanks to God for those who protect us even now. Remember them as you attend church this week.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Cooperative Home Economics Class Formed At High School

Four high school girls are the charter members of the first Cooperative Home Economics program offered in Burkburnett High School. The class was organized this school year and the girls enrolled are Ola Puder, Priscilla Duncan, Trudy Camerlin and Ellen Nelson. The girls attended school one-half a day and worked at an approved training position for three hours each day. One of the class periods at school was a class for the Cooperative Home Economics students.

Ola Puder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Puder, is a senior and she was an assistant to Mrs. Clarence Koenig at the Lutheran Kindergarten where she received valuable training in the line of work in which she plans to have career.

Trudy Camerlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Murphy, and Priscilla Duncan daughter of Mrs. Blanche McCraw, were both employed by the Evergreen Manor Nursing Home and completed the training period during the entire school year. They gained knowledge and understanding of the work responsibilities and know-how in the excellent training station.

Trudy and Priscilla are also seniors this year.

Ellen Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Nelson, is a junior and she completed her year of work in the high school cafeteria where she learned much about quantity food planning and preparing.

Each of these girls began her work at the beginning of the school year and did not change jobs throughout the year and were quite dependable as to attendance in school and on the job.

Next year promises to show quite a growth in the number of girls working at jobs related to home economics. Twelve training stations have already been approved and there are 25 girls tentatively enrolled depending on whether they find work or not. Mrs. Doris Hutchison is the teacher-coordinator for this program.

IRS TO CONDUCT SURVEY

DALLAS, Tex. — A "compliance survey" of many Wichita County business firms to determine if they are filing all required Federal tax returns will begin soon, the Internal Revenue Service said recently.

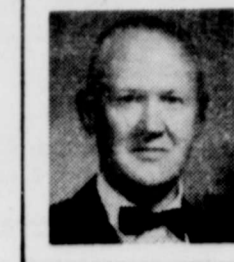

District Director Ellis Campbell, Jr., said the survey will take about three months to complete and will be conducted by Revenue Officers. A cross section of non-farm businesses will be checked to see if all required tax returns are being filed.

Mr. Campbell said the current survey is not designed to determine whether returns are accurate but only whether all required returns are filed. The survey will also be used to check the completeness of the IRS Master File of business taxpayers.

Most businesses comply conscientiously with the tax laws, Mr. Campbell said. However, he added, these laws are complex, and some business taxpayers may not be fully aware of all the tax returns which apply to their particular business operations. These may include returns covering income, withholding, social security, and a variety of miscellaneous excise taxes.

"Compliance surveys" Mr. Campbell said, are a continuous part of the regular IRS program to maintain high levels of taxpayer compliance.

Most of the delinquencies brought to light will be the result of honest misunderstandings and oversight. But the rare instances of flagrant abuse which may be discovered will, of course, be dealt with according to law, he added.

NIBBLING VERSUS MEAL EATING

Nibbling, or eating smaller meals more often than the daily "three square meals" of yesterday, continues to gain ground among nutritionists.

For one thing, it seems to make common sense these days when most people expend less physical energy in their work. Just as the city dweller abandoned his farmer ancestor's habit of having the heaviest meal in the middle of the day when it was needed for hard labor, so now are workers, and farmers, too, finding that labor-saving devices cut the need for calories.

And of most importance is when and how often you get those calories.

Research Supports Nibbling

Research at the University of Illinois and elsewhere indicates that nibbling makes energy available to the body in amounts that can be used. Meal eating, by comparison, can give the body more than it needs at that particular time, encouraging the body to store energy for future needs in the form of fat. This weight is added to the body.

Early man, who did not have enough food always available and whose physical activity was much greater (sometimes just in finding food), could get along, as animals do, on less frequent but larger meals.

But today our energy requirements are less and food availability has never been more constant.

Thus, if you're going to consider eating less, but more often, the pattern of foods to choose from is not different from what nutritionists urge for everyone. Your object should be a wide variety of foods at a calorie level to fit your needs. So, again, it's the four food groups for you. And since you already eat many of these foods, provided your former diet was acceptable, you now simply spread them over more of the day.

Have A Salad

That salad, for example: It's a lovely snack in itself, along with, say, buttered crackers and a glass of milk. Dessert can be an extra meal served separately with coffee or tea. Consider dairy foods such as ice cream, slices of cheese, cottage cheese or a flavored milk drink as almost small meals in themselves because milk products contain such a broad spectrum of needed nutrients. A hamburger or hot dog gives you protein and fat and carbohydrates along with vitamins and minerals.

Vegetables And Fruits, Too

Vegetables, and especially fruit are delights by themselves. Fish sticks, hard cooked eggs, anything and everything in bite-size — all these should be figured as the nibbler's dream. This means — as of course it always has, though lots of people didn't realize it — that those appetizing hor d'oeuvres at a cocktail are one of your meals, too. So enjoy them. But watch those calories.

School Loans For College Explained

"If you feel that Uncle Sam has neglected you, a member of the middle income class group, then you have not heard of the federally insured loans for college students.

If your family income does not exceed $15,000, you may be eligible to borrow up to $7,500 toward your college education, and have the interest paid by the federal government while you are in college. You make no payments until you are out of college.

If you would like to attend any college with assistance from this loan, then you may get further information by writing or calling the Scholarship Advisor, Cooke County Junior College, Gainesville, Texas 76240."

The City of Burkburnett reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive formalities.

Marian Bentley In 4-H Contests At Texas A&M

Marian Bentley is one of eight 4-H members from Wichita Falls who has won the right to compete at State 4-H Contests at the 4-H Roundup at Texas A&M June 3, 4 and 5. Marian won the right by winning first in the District 3 4-H Foods Contest held at Midwestern University May 3. Marian won with her demonstration called "The Recipe For A Healthy Body" which tells of the daily requirements of vitamins and minerals needed in the body each day. Marian also won the county contests in April of this year. If Marian should win the State Contests she would receive an all expense paid trip to National 4-H Congress in Washington, D.C.

Marian has been a 4-H member for 7 years and is currently serving as president of the Burkburnett 4-H Community Club and she is chairman of the Wichita County Council and the sub-committee. In 1967, Marian also won the foods contest and was eligible to go to state contests, although she didn't place. Last summer she won the coun-
