CITY RECEIVES LOADER FOR USE IN FILL OPERATIONS

A new front end loader, at a cost of $19,000, has been delivered to the city of Burkburnett.

The loader will be used at the city's trash dump, which will be converted into a land-fill operation.

As of July 1, state law forbids the burning of trash by cities of the size of Burkburnett, no matter how far they are located from the city or the residential areas.

The loader was purchased from Darr Equipment Company of Wichita Falls after bids were opened at the regular meeting of the city commission Monday night.

Under the land-fill operation, huge ditches are scooped into the earth, trash dumped in, and the loader then covers the trash with a layer of dirt.

The system is not new, and has been in use by many cities for some years. However, it will be mandatory as of July in Texas.

Another bid opened Monday night gave a $24,556 paving contract to R. B. Swinford of the Superior Asphalt Company of Burkburnett, who submitted the apparent low bid on a half mile of street construction.

The work includes new curbs and gutters and construction on several blocks of Avenue B, Berry and Sycamore.

The city tax equalization board, which has been in session for several weeks, will hold hearings from property owners on June 17.

The traffic signal at the intersection of College Street and Avenue D, which has been inoperative, will be replaced by a new signal light.

Rodeo and wheat seems to be the main topics of conversation over the coffee cups around town this week.

Tuesday's rain stopped the wheat harvest, but the conversation went on.

The program on Monday's regular monthly meeting of the Burk Chamber of Commerce, Winston Le Jumeau showed a film of the National Rodeo Finals, showing some of the nation's top riders, and some of the meanest bulls and broncs in action.

Advance tickets for the annual Boomtown Rodeo are now on sale at Burkburnett Bank, First National Bank, Corner Drug Store, First Savings and Loan, the Chamber of Commerce office, and by the time you read this, probably at several other places.

The advance tickets are priced quite a bit lower than gate admission, so if you plan to attend the rodeo on June 12, 13, and 14, get your tickets now.

Congratulations to T. M. Cornelius, on his admission to the Million Dollar Round Table, an honor accorded to insurance agents who provide a million or more dollars of life insurance protection in a year.

And welcome to Burk to Big John Mahaffey, who opened Big John's Barbeque Drive Inn last weekend. The customers really worked over John and his capable crew, with a much bigger turnout of customers than expected. John promises not to run out of beef or any other of the choice items again.

The grand opening of Monaghan's Mobile Home Sales last weekend was well attended. Hundreds of people turned out to view the latest in mobile homes, and to register for a free General Electric color television.

Miss Ramona Champ, Burk High School student, has been elected Sweetheart of the Burk Rotary Club for the coming year. Ramona will play for the club each week, provide dinner music, and be a guest at lunch at club meetings.

TIPPING THE SCALES

Like many pioneering ventures, the space program has had its share of critics who point to the billions of dollars that are being spent to put a man on the moon as an unjustified waste of resources. They say why send a man to the moon when we have so far failed to even solve rudimentary earth problems. The truth is, of course, that the space program and many of our earth problems are interrelated.

By sending a man to the moon, we are paving the way to solution of earth problems. This was made dramatically clear by Mr. Robert Anderson, president, Commercial Products Group of the North American Rockwell Corporation. He declares, "There is a growing realization that in the stored-up and developing technology of the aerospace and defense industries there is an asset of tremendous potential value to the American economy . . . it is our space program that is providing the greatest stimulation to the best scientific minds in our country . . . They are finding far broader applications today than the primary mission of putting a man on the moon."

Specifically, Mr. Anderson points out, there is a new and rising trend in the United States to make use of the technological resources of the largest electric-electronic-aerospace corporations to find solutions to such public problems as poor housing, congested mass transportation, air pollution and inadequate health, education and welfare. Under the stimulus of the space effort, science and technology have opened the door to advances that may literally tip the scales in the struggle of man to keep ahead of the problems that have rushed in on our civilization with the approach of the twenty-first century.

A new vehicle, the sand caster, has been developed to fight forest fires. It digs steel claws into the earth and hurls its load at the top of burning trees. The U.S. Forest Service and other forestry experts consider it to be one of their most valuable weapons in battling crown fires in which the blaze leaps from tree top to tree top.

SENSING THE NEWS

By THURMAN SENSING

CRISIS IN THE COURTS

President Nixon's nomination of Judge Warren E. Burger as Chief Justice of the United States is heartening news for a nation deeply troubled over the course and character of the nation's highest court. Judge Burger, described as a "law and order" judge, gives promise of providing a new direction for America's highest tribunal.

Certainly, a housecleaning at the Supreme Court is long overdue. The sordid Fortas affair shocked the American public. It underscored the wisdom of those conservative Senators who, when Abe Fortas was first nominated for the court, termed him a political fixer and wheeler-dealer unfit for judicial office.

The situation involving Justice William O. Douglas, another fiery "liberal" is equally shocking. The ramifications of his involvement with a foundation allegedly linked to hoodlum elements, should be examined in great detail by the Justice Department. It turns out that Justice Douglas was the paid president of the Albert Parvin Foundation and of the Center For the Study of Democratic Institutions, a "liberal" think tank in California that has kept up a drumfire against the foundations of American society, including law and order.

The Fortas and Douglas affairs actually should be regarded simply as openers in any study of the judicial mess. Much remains to be uncovered by investigators. Congressman John Rarick, (D-La.), already has revealed that Justices Fortas and Brennan, plus federal Judges Brazelton and Wright of the federal courts in Washington, have been engaged in business together in the nation's capital — a curious relationship indeed for jurists who are supposed to avoid even the appearance of impropriety.

Chief Justice Earl Warren's call for a code of ethics for federal judges amounts to closing the barn door after the cows have strayed away. Chief Justice Warren cannot escape responsibility that easily. He has supervisory authority over the federal courts, but failed to exercise it. Apparently he was so busy promoting his pet political theories that he didn't have time or the inclination to look for unethical behavior on the bench.

The problem of the judiciary is not simply in the area of ethics, however. The Supreme Court has been busily undermining authority in the nation. For example, in mid-May a unanimous Supreme Court threw out the conviction of Timothy F. Leary, former Harvard University researcher and drug experimenter. The ruling unquestionably complicates the U.S. government's ability to deal with the possession and use of marijuana, a profoundly hurtful mind-influencing drug.

The Associated Press, in reporting the decision, said that the ruling "seriously damaged—perhaps fatally—the marijuana laws." This surely would be a tragic development for the country. Marijuana, while not addictive in the manner of heroin and other hard drugs, upsets and deranges a user's personality and moral values. The Bureau of Narcotics of the Justice Department has pointed out that marijuana use is the stepping stone to hard drugs and to dangerous chemicals such as LSD.

In other words, the Supreme Court had a duty to be mindful of the social consequences of robbing the federal government of lawful authority over marijuana. But, as in so many other cases in the past 15 years, the court has been unmindful of the right of society to protect itself against known evils. Instead in the Leary marijuana ruling, the court said the government had denied Timothy Leary protection against self-incrimination.

Hopefully, Judge Burger will bring a new outlook to the Supreme Court. He is on record, in a 1967 dissent to a reversal of a narcotic conviction, saying: "I refuse to join in what I consider an unfortunate trend of judicial decisions in this field which strain and stretch to give the guilty not the same, but vastly more protection than the law-abiding citizen."

The Burger philosophy is desperately needed, for the Supreme Court has not only eased the lot of narcotic violators but has opened the door to the smut-peddlers who are flooding the nation with hard-core pornography.

The rights of society need the protection they have not had under the Warren Court.

THE HAMBURGER is still America's No. 1 sandwich. It was introduced 65 years ago at the International Exposition in St. Louis.

HAPPY HAMBURGERS FOR 65 YEARS

Hamburger on a bun may be a 65-year-old food idea, but it's not about to retire from the American scene.

Hamburger alone has been around for centuries. However, it didn't catch up with the bun until 1904. That was the year that somebody decided to serve hamburgers on buns at the great St. Louis Exposition. Introduction of the hamburger on a bun shared the spotlight with another great American innovation... ice cream in an edible cone.

The hamburger's ancestry goes back as far as ancient Egypt when meat was minced for quicker cooking. Through the ages, men found that grinding meat was a good method of tenderizing it.

Exactly how ground beef came to be called hamburger is a bit obscure. However, it was probably named for the German seaport of Hamburg. In medieval times, traveling merchants from the city of Hamburg went to the Baltic lands. They saw the Tartars scrape raw meat and season it with salt, pepper, and onion juice to make what we now call "Steak Tartare."

This is the way the Hamburgers ate their beef until some cook decided to shape the raw meat into patties and broil them crisp on the outside, nearly raw inside.

German immigrants brought their rare hamburger idea with them to America. Here people of English-Irish-Scotch ancestry leaned more to the well-done variety of hamburger. In England it was called "Salisbury Steak" after physician, Dr. James H. Salisbury.

Dr. Salisbury had recommended to his patients that they eat such "steak" three times a day with hot water before and after each meal. It was his contention that such a diet would relieve an assortment of conditions from asthma and bronchitis to hardening of the arteries and gout.

Nevertheless, it was simply because the hamburger proved to be so easy, economical, and popular with everybody in the family that it became a regular item in the weekly eating schedule.

Teaching Someone To Drive

On the day Margaret got a learner's permit, her boy friend Fred took her out for a driving lesson. As they approached another car, waiting at a stop light, Margaret suddenly "froze." Worse, so did Fred.

Result: a collision, with considerable damage to the other car. In due course, the driver filed a damage suit against Fred.

"I'm not liable," Fred protested in court. "A driving teacher does not guarantee that his pupil will drive carefully."

Nevertheless, the court held him liable — not for Margaret's bad driving but for his own bad teaching. The judge said Fred should have made some effort, either by word or gesture, to avert the crash.

According to law, if you take on the responsibility of teaching someone to drive, you also take on the responsibility of doing so with reasonable care.

However, the law does recognize that a teacher's control has practical limits. In another case, after the driving lesson was supposed to be over, the pupil — acting on impulse — started the car again and jerked forward. The teacher shouted a warning and pulled the emergency brake, but not quickly enough to avoid hitting a pedestrian.

This time a court ruled that, while the teacher did have a special responsibility, he had fulfilled that responsibility by his efforts.

Nor are you held to a teacher's responsibility if you do not, in fact, occupy that role. Thus:

When an accident resulted from the improper parking of a car by the roadside, a claim was filed not only against the driver of the car but also against his passenger. It seems that, while the driver was parking the car, the passenger had remarked:

"There, I think you are far enough off the road."

But the court ruled that the passenger could not be held liable for merely giving bad advice. The judge said the occupant of a car does not take over the role — and the responsibility — of a teacher, just by trying to be helpful.

Memo on Moving

by Carol Dalton

What are the things that pose the biggest question mark to housewives planning a move? This narrows down to probably three areas. To discuss them, it's easiest simply to pick a question on each of them from my mail at Allied Van Lines and then summarize my answer.

Q. How do we handle the children during a move?
A. I can think of three important factors here. First, it's vital, in making the move a happy, satisfying event for the child, for the parents to transmit a feeling of optimism and expectancy about the new home. Second, on moving day itself, be sure to keep the children out of the way of the moving crew. Third, when the move involves a long car ride to the new home, you can keep the children happily occupied — and, incidentally, help build that feeling of excitement about the move — by suggesting games about the new house: its size, rooms, distance from this room to that, how many neighbor children, and so forth. This could include guessing games, coloring games, and the like.

Q. What about our pets?
A. Movers, of course, are not allowed to take pets in vans. You must either ship them by other transportation — in which the moving company will assist you — or take them with you in the car.

Q. What about moving items that are extra large?
A. Most movers can make arrangements to transport a second car, even a boat if necessary. There are special rates for shipment of bulky items.

Local Legion Post Sponsors 3 To Boys State

A delegation of seven hundred and fifty high school junior boys will assemble on the Campus of the University of Texas, June 7 for the 1969 session of American Legion Boys State. Frye-Vaughn Post No. 264 will sponsor three boys, Bill Breeze, Joe Mendez and Roy Hudson.

The program sponsored by The American Legion, Department of Texas, is an annual event in which the organization teaches boys the responsibilities of citizenship in actual "do it yourself" type program from which comes its motto, "Learn by Doing."

Delegates will converge on Austin and commerce registration at 2 p.m., Saturday, June 7, at Moore-Hill Hall. Following an evening meal the new citizens of Boys State will assemble for orientation in their respective Boys State cities.

The American Legion believes that youth should be offered a better perspective of the practical operation of government; that the individual is an integral part of, commensurately responsible for, the character and success of his government. Boys State is an activity of high educational value, born out of a need for youth training in practical citizenship.

Boys State is one of the outstanding youth training programs of the Americanism Commission of The American Legion. Not only do the youths learn more about the functions of government but also they see the importance of the role played by each good citizen in discharging his basic citizenship responsibilities in voting. They soon discover how the quality of government is related directly to active interest of each citizen.

On Friday, June 13, the citizens of Boys State will visit the State Capitol and actually sit in the chairs of the office to which they were elected and run the state government for a day.

A Governor's Ball will climax the week's activities at the Student Union on Friday night.

Mrs. Sharon Lee (Dilbeck) Clem received her Bachelor of Science degree in education exercises at Southwestern State College in Weatherford, Okla., Friday night, May 30. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lee Dilbeck of Walters and the granddaughter of Mrs. Myrtle Dilbeck and Mrs. Nora Williams of Burkburnett.

COUNTY H-D AGENT NEWS

To help solve the storage dilemma for space-starved small homes and apartment dwellers, modular storage systems come to the rescue.

One New York firm produces a new system which works in any size home and includes storage cubes and shelving, all modern, all completely portable.

Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent, points out the advantages: it's completely furnished, assembled and disassembled without tools quickly, adjusts to three heights by turning pieces.

"Mobile Module" shelving units can be expanded both horizontally and vertically and come in six colors and two natural wood finishes.

According to the manufacturer, prices for both shelves and cube systems are low enough to be competitive with unpainted furniture. Like the shelves, the storage cubes come in oiled walnut, birch or six colors white, black, yellow, purple, orange and green. Based on a 15-inch cube, the "Mobile Modules" system adds a 15x30 inch rectangle, plain, with sliding doors with drawers or with record dividers.

Wrought iron dining furniture has moved into the house. Thelma Wirges suggests it be used in the dinette and in the semi-formal dining room. Designs in expanded metal are most popular currently for outdoor use, says the agent. Open work table tops, chair seats and backs let the breezes fan through.

Wrought iron is easy to care for. An occasional washing with warm water and a mild detergent and a rinsing with clear water keeps it clean. An annual coat of automotive wax helps preserve the color of the finish.

Touch-up paint should be used on chipped scraped spots to close breaks against rust. Most manufacturers offer a guarantee — up to 10 years relating to the rust resistance of their furniture.

Mrs. Shirley Marsh is including wrought iron in her plan for remodeling and redecorating. Mrs. Marsh is serving as a demonstrator for the Barwise Home Demonstration Club.

Carpet which has a thin sheet of vinyl behind the pile offers the comfort, luxury, ease of maintenance and sound reducing qualities of soft coverings plus the durability and resistance to wear of hard surface floor coverings.

This type carpet usually consists of several layers — a dense pile, a polypropylene backing, a layer of pure vinyl and a cushion backing, says Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent.

Since the carpet has a cushion backing, it can be cemented permanently to any type floor. The agent says this helps prevent moisture from getting under the carpet and damaging it.

Strength and endurance characteristics of this type carpet makes it an ideal floor covering for heavy traffic areas as in hospitals, supermarkets, offices and schools. One company guarantees their carpet against excessive wear for five years from the date of installation when properly installed and maintained.

If the carpet happens to be damaged as a burn or tear, it can be repaired by cutting out and removing the damaged area and installing a new piece.

If you are considering a start of furniture or as a gift, make it mobile, suggests Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent. Furniture with mobility has several counts in its favor. But primarily since it moves, it is more functional.

Mobile furniture items priced under $100 are popular for average-income families. She suggests some items which homemakers recently selected at the request of the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers.

For instance — a serving cart has two roomy shelves and a top that doubles in size when drop leaves are raised. Retail cost is about $85.

The pedestal, an unusual piece of furniture revived from past centuries, is becoming popular in today's homes. In French design, it could be a corner brightener.

A drawer commode offers extra storage space for living room or bedroom and serves as a lamp table. The piece boasts a super finish on solid hard rock maple wood, giving protection from household stains and other damage. The piece sells for

BAROMETER for the FUTURE

Webster says that a barometer is an instrument measuring the weight or pressure of the atmosphere, foretelling and measuring changes of weather and altitude.

If God were to place a barometer on our lives, would we be cold, lukewarm, or on fire for the Lord. The past we can not change. . . the future is up to us.

"... what doth the Lord thy God require of thee, but to fear the Lord thy God, to walk in all His ways, and to love Him, and to serve the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul." ATTEND CHURCH REGULARLY

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

WASHINGTON AND SMALL BUSINESS

Doorway to More Featherbedding

As any avid reader of fiction knows, the love triangle can provide seemingly endless varieties of drama, pathos, emotion and personality revelation.

But perhaps the novelists have failed to realize the full dramatic possibilities of an economic triangle. A true story which has unfolded at Scott Air Force Base, Illinois, involving a small building contractor, a carpenters union, and a military organization should illustrate the possibilities.

The real-life drama began routinely enough, when the contractor submitted the winning bid on construction of a new airmen's dormitory at the base. The contractor hired union carpenters and signed a contract with the union which seemed to cover all contingencies with a "no-strike" clause.

Work began last summer, and the union began complaining that the builder had purchased pre-cut doors, which it said, deprived the carpenters of some on-site work. The carpenters grumbled, but continued to work. Then in November, with only two weeks of work left, the carpenters walked out, demanding that the contractor give them "penalty pay" of four additional hours for each of the 290 doors, including the 258 that had already been hung.

Based on a $5.80 an hour scale, that would mean a "penalty" of almost $7,000. The contractor refused. The doors had been purchased from a unionized plant whose employees belong to the same National Brotherhood.

After four months of picketing, the Army Corps of Engineers, overseeing the dorm project, decided to slap a $100 a day fine against the contractor for failure to settle the dispute.

Instead of remaining neutral, the government thus applied pressure to make the contractor give in to union demands.

Justice seems agonizingly slow in labor disputes. The contractor has filed suit against the Engineers, charging coercion, and the union may, or may not, be "judged" by the National Labor Relations Board.

The union apparently based its action on a Supreme Court decision which upheld the right of a Philadelphia union to boycott a builder using pre-cut doors so as to preserve work for its members. But the cases are not identical and the union's demand for an arbitrary amount of penalty pay may lack judicial backing.

All concerned agree that the incident could have vast repercussions in the construction industry where union power has created economic waste and hardship for many. It is bad enough for the union to spread its featherbedding practices, but worse still for a governmental unit to add its pressure to the cause of featherbedding.

Teacher Exams Slated At M.U.

Wichita Falls — National Teacher Examinations will be held at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, July 19 in Room 110 of the University Center at Midwestern University.

C. M. Hagler, director of testing, said the tests are designed for college seniors preparing to teach and for teachers applying for positions in school systems which encourage or require applicants to submit their scores.

Bulletins describing registration procedures and containing registration forms may be obtained from the Office of Student Personnel at Midwestern. Hagler urged those who plan to take the test to obtain the test to obtain these bulletins as soon as possible.

The examinations include tests in professional education and one of 15 teaching area tests.

GREAT IDEAS!

By THOMPSON

LISTENING TO THE STARS TALK Radio astronomy—studying the heavens by examining radio signals from space—is a relatively new science demanding that its practitioners stay on the beam.
This fascinating field was opened in the 1920s when the late Karl G. Jansky of Bell Telephone Laboratories tried to determine the source of a noise that was interfering with the recently opened transatlantic radio-telephone service. By 1932, Jansky had established, by using a large rotating antenna, that most of the noise was caused by lightning flashes.

But he also detected a peculiar hissing which was identified as radio signals from outer space —signals that reached us in the form of static.
Actually, astronomers do not listen to the static, but record the intensity of radio radiation on charts. With the construction of large radio telescopes in the 30s, it became possible to map large areas of the heavens from the unseen
"radio stars" that emit these signals. Interestingly, the strongest signals came from the center of the Milky Way.

What causes these noises? It has been determined that the origin of this radiation is the interaction between gas clouds of colliding galaxies over 200 million light-years away. These gas clouds and those in our own universe contain neutral atomic hydrogen—the most common element in interstellar space. Before the days of radio astronomy there was no way to detect or study it. Now, through our radio data, we can learn how much of it there is in our galactic system.

The study of radio astronomy also has deep cosmological significance—bearing directly on our knowledge of star birth and evolution.

Charles Reagan and Ruddy and John Robinson, of Burkburnett, and Glen Gilbert of New Orleans, La., left this week for Austin where they will share an apartment and attend the summer session at the University of Texas.

Chita Rivera makes her Dallas stage debut as "Irma La Douce" in the musical of the same name when the Dallas Summer Musicals' 1969 season opens on June 10. The vivacious Broadway star, famous for her roles in "West Side Story," "Bye Bye Birdie" and most recently in the movie version of "Sweet Charity," will be joined by Walter McGinn, John Bennett Perry and a cast of other top-flight singers and dancers to bring this hit of the Paris, London and Broadway stages to Dallas for its first appearances here June 10 through 22 at the State Fair Music Hall.
