Big Spring Chamber annual health fair highlighting local health care services

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

Healthy is a lifestyle, a choice, and is done one step at a time. For those looking to jump start that healthy lifestyle, looking for ways to educate themselves on local resources or just wanting to plan for the future, the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce annual Health Fair is a great one-stop shop. The Health Fair is set for April 4 at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum and will take place from 8 a.m. until Noon.

For those looking to reserve a booth space and share information on resources for the community, there is still time to get involved and become part of the largest health care gathering in Howard County. Last year there were around 55 area healthcare providers, businesses, organizations and resource providers in attendance.

“We are aiming at having around 60 available resources at this year’s fair,” ValVerde said. “We have expanded our focus a bit from previous years and are extending the call to all healthy living businesses, organizations and providers in our area. We want to focus on healthy mind, body and soul. Each piece is vital and there are resources

Booth registration is open until March 13 at a cost of $125. Late booth registration will be $150 between March 16-20. After March 20 no booths will be accepted, in order to allow for time for layout design and final preparations.

BSHS students get hands on CSI training

More than 70 students are benefitting from the forensics courses offered

By SAVANNAH GEER
 Staff Writer

Big Spring High School students are getting hands on training at being a CSI (Crime Scene Investigator) through the Career and Technical Education program implemented recently. This past weekend, the students were able to take part in a practice meet at the High School.

The Big Spring High School forensics class is one of the many options offered to the students as part of the Career and Technical Education (C.T.E) program. For the past two years, Mrs. Whitford has been teaching the forensics class and directing the student who have shown interest in this career field choice. The first year she only had one class, but this year she teaches three classes. There are 70 students split into three classes mostly made up of juniors and seniors.

Mrs. Whitford, Forensics Teacher said. “I think it gives the kids an opportunity to be excited about science and then also gives them good observational and reasoning skills because it opens your mind up to see things a bit differently.”

The class learned about blood splatter in the fall semester, along with blood types. This semester they have been studying hair and fibers. Every six weeks students do a case study on famous serial killers or murders that relate to the topic they are studying. Currently the class is learning about fingerprints; how to lift them and different ways to uncover them.

“We also have a C.S.I (crime scene investigators) team for competitive

Howard College Career Fair offering students opportunity to explore local job opportunities

By ANNA GUTIERREZ
 Staff Writer

Howard College will be hosting a Career Fair for all Howard College students. The purpose of this Career Fair is to let current students know about what type of jobs are available in the area.

“This career fair is just for Howard College students,” says Lauren Barber, Howard College LEADS Student Support Director. “This is an opportunity for different career fields in our community to come talk to students. They can provide information about that career, how to get into the career, some of the benefits you might expect, etc. If employers do have job openings, they are free to discuss those with participants, but this is really just for information about the careers available. If employers have promotional information, they can pass that out as the students love that kind of information.”

Continues Barber, “So far we have eight confirmed employers who will be participating, but we just sent out notifications so we hope we get more. In order to sign up for a booth, employers can go to the Howard College website to register, or they can contact me directly by phone or e-mail.”

“We have students who are interested in a variety of careers,” says Barber. “Anything from technical, education, law enforcement, and medical. There is a spot for everyone to come and present those careers to our students.”

The career fair will take place

Clayton Wheat Williams Jr.

Clayton Wheat Williams Jr. passed into heaven's gates surrounded by his loving family on Feb. 14, 2020. Clayton was born Oct. 8, 1931, in the small West Texas town of Alpine, to Clayton and Chicora (Graham) Williams. The son and grandson of legendary pioneering West Texans, he grew up in nearby Fort Stockton and graduated from Texas A&M in 1954 with a degree in animal husbandry. He then served two years in the U.S. Army before being honorably discharged. While in the Army, he waited tables at the Baker Hotel in Mineral Wells and learned firsthand that people like to be treated with respect and consideration.

Clayton took the $5,000 he saved from waiting tables and discharge pay, and, from scratch, started selling life insurance back in Fort Stockton. Soon after, Clayton entered the oil and gas business as an independent oil lease broker in 1957. From his Coyanosa Oil & Gas discovery, he founded Clajon Gas in 1959 which went on to be the largest individually-owned gas company in Texas when he sold it in 1988. He loved building pipeline and eventually built pipeline throughout Texas. A former employee said of Clayton that he out-worked everyone around him. Future employees for decades would also find that to be true. His legion of former and current employees loved him not only as a boss but as a friend and admired his work ethic. He felt the same way about his employees. He often said that he "ran his business like Christopher Columbus; when he left, he didn't know where he was going; when he got there, he didn't know where he was; and when he got back, he didn't know where he'd been. And like Christopher, in 1984, Clayton founded the first all-digital long distance company in Texas, ClayDesta Communications. Because an actor was too expensive, Clayton starred in his own commercials that were filmed on his Alpine Ranch. He would go on to be an industry leader in oil and gas exploration, production and transportation, Brangus cattle, commercial alfalfa operation at Fort Stockton Farms, oilfield services, telecommunications and diversify into banking and real estate. Along the way, he founded more than two dozen companies. Clayton Williams Energy owned 3,000 wells scattered over Texas, New Mexico, Louisiana, Alabama, Oklahoma and Utah and was a publicly traded company on the New York Stock Exchange until he sold it in 2017. Clayton's outspoken leadership during Texas' economic ups and downs earned him respect as a survivor and a man with tremendous tenacity and foresight.

Always a Texas Aggie, he continued to support his alma mater, Aggie football and contribute to many scholarship projects. One of his great joys was teaching a course in the business school at A&M from 1983-89. In 1989, the Clayton W. Williams Jr. Alumni Center was named in his honor.

An Eagle Scout and an All-American Wildcatter, he has received many awards for his leadership in oil and gas, agriculture and real estate development. He was honored with the A&M Distinguished Alumni Award in 1981, inducted into the Petroleum Museum Hall of Fame in 2005, earned many Lifetime Achievement Awards and was honored to give the Aggie Muster address at A&M in 2005.

When he wasn't working, Clayton and Modesta traveled and hunted all over the world. They loved seeing new countries and the adventures their many travels took them on. Clayton earned the Grand Slam and Super Slam of sheep hunting and loved retelling the stories that went along with each trip.

In 1990, Clayton was the Republican Party's nominee for Governor of Texas and continued to support Republican, conservative efforts.

Clayton was modest about his faith in God but gently shared the gospel of Jesus with others. He always had his favorite scriptures to quote with sick friends and loved ones to be sure they knew Jesus. On various tables in his CWEI offices, Clayton had the "Plan to Salvation" pamphlets for anyone to read or take home. He was a member of Community Bible Study for many years. He liked to refer to it as "cramming for finals". Clayton was an American patriot, loved God and his country and loved supporting the military, veterans and local and state law enforcement. Clayton and Modesta established The 200 Club in the 1970's to provide support for local disabled and wounded officers or for their families if the officers are killed. He felt privileged to also be a part of thanking America's wounded veterans at the annual Show of Support/Hunt for Heroes event and hosted hunts for some of the veterans every year.

Clayton is most proud of his 55 year marriage to his wife Modesta, and the couple's five children, nine grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Clayton and Modesta took delight in their family and took every opportunity to be at activities they were involved in. Family gatherings at their Alpine ranch were memorable times that forever linked the generations.

Clayton is survived by his wife, Modesta; and their five children, Kelvie Cleverdon and husband, Tim of Midland, Allyson Groner and husband, Jerry of Midland, Clayton Wade Williams and wife, Kristy of Midland, Jeff Williams and wife, Erin of Alpine, and Chim Welborn and husband, Greg of Midland. He is also survived by grandchildren, Joshua and Jered Groner, Michael Clayton Muhlauer, Anna Baum, Aubry and Chance Williams, Hyson and Modesta Welborn, Alex Williams; and five great-grandchildren, Ava Muhlauer, Brooks Groner, Cooper, Caleb and Logan Baum. He leaves behind many nieces, nephews, dear friends and loved ones.

Pallbearers are members of the Texas A&M Corps of Cadets, Clayton Wade Williams, Jeff Williams, Jerry Groner, Greg Welborn and Tim Cleverdon. Honorary pallbearers are Joshua Groner, Jered Groner, Michael Clayton Muhlauer, Clay Pollard, Scott Pollard, Graham Pollard, Adam Pollard and Michael Baum.

The family would like to thank Dr. Summer Merritt, Lee Sanchez, Emilio Castellon, Amanda Stuart, Liza Baumbash, Malisa Berry and Lori Davila for their sweet, attentive medical care to Clayton during these difficult days.

A visitation will be held Tuesday, Feb. 18, 2020, from 5 to 7 p.m., at The Branch at NPW, 3800 N. Big Spring St., Midland, TX, 79705. Funeral service will be held at 11 a.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 19, 2020, at First Presbyterian Church. There will be a private family burial.

In lieu of flowers, friends may contribute in Clayton's memory to the First Presbyterian Church of Midland, The Association of Former Students in the name of Clayton W. Williams Jr. Memorial Scholarship Fund, 505 George Bush Drive, College Station, TX, 77840, Permian Basin Petroleum Museum and Midland Memorial Hospital.

Arrangements are under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home & Crematory of Midland. Online condolences can be made at www.npwelch.com.

back some long time participants and supporters of the Health Fair, such as Scenic Mountain who has been with us since the beginning of health fair in Howard County," ValVerde said. "We also have H-E-B joining us in our efforts once again; they were recently recognized as the Russ McEwen Community Award recipients and the health fair is just one of the many ways they give back to the community."

She continued, "We are excited to welcome some new faces to the health fair as well; Conquer Nutrition will be on hand providing information on some healthy lifestyle tips, product options and more. The Boy Scouts will even be joining us this year providing some information that can get our youth out and about enjoying the outdoors."

The annual health fair offers resources for all ages. Through the support of the Big Spring Police Department and Star Dodge, the Bike Rodeo will once again be returning to the Health Fair. This will provide an opportunity to learn the proper way to ride a bike while adhering to different laws and safety measures and offers an opportunity for a few kids to take home a new bike.

"The Bike Rodeo is something we were able to add a few years back and each year it seems to get better and better thanks to the great community partners who make it possible," she said. "We are looking forward to sharing the training with even more kids this year and encourage parents to bring their kids out. We even want the parents to go through it and learn this information so they can share with their friends, relatives and other community members."

In addition to local resources, there will be an opportunity to take care of some free health screenings as well. A few of the area healthcare businesses will be providing demonstrations throughout the fair, such as Zumba and Yoga.

"The community is encouraged to join us at the health fair and to take this opportunity to speak with the providers who will be on hand, find out some health tips, maybe get information regarding chronic issues and even take part in a little exercise demo," ValVerde said. "These businesses gather together once a year and we hope the community will take advantage of the opportunity, gather the information and see what is available right here in Big Spring; you never know when the time might arise that having this information can benefit yourself, a family member or a friend."

For those wanting to sign up for a booth contact the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce at 432-263-7641 or stop by 215 W. Third Street. To find out more about the upcoming health fair, visit the Big Spring and Howard County Health Fair on Facebook.

crime scene processing," Mrs. Whitford said.

There were four teams comprised of three students who were tasked with not only brainstorming, but also tasked with building a crime scene for another team to solve.

Mrs. Whitford's teams came close, only half a point separating first and second place. First place went to Crime Kidz, second place was claimed by Panic at the Crime Scene.

According to Whitford, this meet showed the students their strengths and weaknesses so they know what areas to focus on before district at the SkillsUSA Competition in San Angelo at the end of Feb. The SkillsUSA Championships are competitive events showcasing the best career and technical education students in the nation. Contests begin locally and continue through the state and national levels.

"There is a lot of misconception with what I teach, it isn't all about serial killers there is a lot more to it than that. It's about learning the process to figure out a crime scene," Mrs. Whitford said.

"Anything that gets us excited about science is good, and certain areas that they haven't seen before pushing the bounds of what they know," she said.

She continued, "My first year I had one class, and we did a fair on the class I sent four kids in to talk about it and they generated so much interest I now teach three classes," Whitford said.

Museum's Rembrandt knockoff turns out to be the real thing

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Thanks to modern technology and some expert detective work, a nearly 400-year-old painting that had long been attributed to an unknown artist in Rembrandt's workshop has now been judged to have been a work of the Dutch master himself.

For decades, the Allentown Art Museum displayed an oil-on-oak panel painting called "Portrait of a Young Woman" and credited it to "Studio of Rembrandt." Two years ago, the painting was sent to New York University for conservation and cleaning.

There, conservators began removing layers of overpainting and dark, thick varnish that had been added over centuries — and they began to suspect Rembrandt himself was responsible for the original, delicate brushwork underneath.

"Our painting had numerous layers of varnish and that really obscured what you could see of the original brushwork, as well as the original color," said Elaine Mehalakes, vice president of curatorial affairs at the Allentown Art Museum.

Conservators used a variety of tools, including X-ray, infrared and electron microscopy, to bolster the case that it was the work of one of the most important and revered artists in history. The scientific analysis "showed brush-work, and a liveliness to that brushwork, that is quite consistent with other works by Rembrandt," said Shan Kuang, a conservator at New York University's Institute of Fine Arts who restored "Portrait of a Young Woman."

Outside experts who examined the 1632 painting after the completion of its two-year restoration concurred with the NYU assessment that it's an authentic Rembrandt.

"We're very thrilled and excited," Mehalakes said. "The painting has this incredible glow to it now that it just didn't have before. You can really connect with the portrait in the way I think the artist meant you to."

When "Portrait of a Young Woman" was bequeathed to the museum in 1961, it was considered to be a Rembrandt. About a decade later, a group of experts determined that it had been painted by one of his assistants. Such changes in attribution are not unusual: Over the centuries, as many as 688 and as few as 265 paintings have been credited to the artist, according to Mehalakes.

The museum has not had the painting appraised — and has no intention of selling it — but authenticated works by Rembrandt have fetched tens of millions of dollars.

The painting, currently in the museum's vault, will go on public display starting June 7.

South Texas shrine to Don Pedrito Jaramillo vandalized

FALFURRIAS, Texas (AP) — Authorities are searching for vandals who damaged a south Texas shrine to faith healer Don Pedrito Jaramillo.

The damage to the shrine to Don Pedrito Jaramillo in Falfurrias, about 150 miles (241 kilometers) south of San Antonio was reported Friday, according to Brooks County Sheriff Urbino "Benny" Martinez.

"We're really working hard on it because I think it's really unfortunate that that would happen to Don Pedrito," Martinez said. "It's been there for years and years.

"Right now we're all in the dark as far as the motive," Martinez told the San Antonio Express-News.

Jaramillo was known as "the healer of Los Olmos," for using natural remedies to heal the sick.

He came to the Los Olmos Ranch near Falfurrias in the early 1880s and died in 1907. The shrine began at his burial site and received a Texas Historical Marker in 1971.

Falfurrias City Administrator Melissa Landin said damage to crosses and statues of Jaramillo may be irreparable.

"The cross with Jesus, a large one that was on the wall, was on the floor broken in pieces. The Virgin Mary was broken into pieces. Two statues of Don Pedro were shattered," Landin told The Monitor.

Authorities said officers responding to the scene subsequently learned that there had been a shootout at the bar between rival motorcycle gangs. Police believe multiple suspected gang members were involved.

Third student-runner who was struck by speeding truck dies

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A third member of a suburban Oklahoma City high school cross-country team who was struck by a speeding pickup truck earlier this month has died.

Kolby Crum, 18, died Saturday at the University of Oklahoma Medical Center, said hospital spokeswoman April Sandefer.

Crum was among seven members of the Moore High School cross-country team who were struck while running on a Moore sidewalk on Feb. 3, authorities said. According to police, the driver, 57-year-old Max Leroy Townsend, was going 79 mph (127 kph) in a 25 mph (40 kph) zone when he crossed two lanes of traffic onto the sidewalk and struck the students and several parked cars.

Student Rachel Freeman, 17, died on the day of the crash and Yuridia Martinez, 16, died the next day.

Townsend was charged last week with two counts of manslaughter, and several counts of driving under the influence of alcohol and leaving the scene of an accident. He remained jailed Saturday on $1.2 million bond.

Cleveland County District Attorney Greg Mashburn told The Oklahoman that he plans to charge Townsend with a third manslaughter count.

The day before the crash, Townsend's 28-year-old son was killed in a multi-vehicle auto accident in Moore.

Court records do not list an attorney who could speak on Townsend's behalf.

Fourth quarter surge from Stamford ends Forsan Lady Buffs season

By SHAWN MORAN

Herald Sports Editor

HERMLEIGH — Playoff basketball was in full swing on Monday night in Hermleigh. The Forsan Lady Buffs (14-16, 5-5) took on the Stamford Lady Bulldogs (24-7, 9-2) in a first round bi-district matchup.

After 32 minutes of exciting, non-stop action between two battle-tested squads the Lady Bulldogs went home with a 54-34 victory.

"We were playing the way we needed to play and then the wheels fell off," Lady Buffs coach Lloyd Vedder said.

Both teams came out firing on offense and combined for 37 first quarter points. The crowd was into the game and you could feel the tension of playoff basketball in the air. Stamford's Tylee Jo Bevel notched 12 points in the first quarter and was controlling the low post. Her teammate Laylonna Applin scored six points in the opening quarter and the duo set the tone for the Lady Bulldogs' offense. They would finish the game having scored 38 total points between the both of them.

Forsan was being captained by a committee approach that had multiple players getting involved on the offensive end. Senior guard Katelin Colvin was able to hit two shots from deep when her team needed it most and kept the game close at 22-15 heading into the second frame.

The Lady Buffs were trailing by seven and needing a hot quarter to start the second quarter. Forsan forward Aubrie Smith was dominating the boards for her team and came up with seven first-half rebounds. Vedder's defense was able to limit Bevel's second quarter production and cut the lead to four points at halftime.

Stamford was only able to score six points in the second quarter and there game-plan seemed to change in the process. After beginning the game with a high-pressure, trapping style of defense, the Lady Bulldogs laid off of the Forsan ball-handlers in the second quarter.

"We can't duplicate size and speed in practice and it takes us a few possessions to get going," Vedder said. "Once we started adjusting to what we were seeing, I thought we did really well. Them going to the half-court trap was something I haven't seen them do. At times we did what we were supposed to do and other times we put our head down."

Forsan was trailing 28-24 at halftime and gas seemed to successfully swing momentum in their direction. A mixture of good shot selection and the rowdiness of the crowd had put the Lady Buffs in the driver's seat.

Both teams failed to get their offense's going in the third quarter and the Stamford lead was held steady at four points going into the fourth.

Then, the Lady Buffs offense stalled and Stamford ran away with the game. Forsan was outscored 17-2 in the final eight minutes of action. After a back-and-forth game that could have gone either way, the Lady Buffs had an ineffective fourth quarter and had their season ended.

The Lady Buffs have a young core group of players that will be back next season. With only one senior leaving the team, the potential for next year's bunch will be sky-high. They are a strong shooting bunch that play with a lot of heart and hustle on both sides of the ball.

"They never give up," Vedder said. "They find a way to keep getting after it. No matter the situation, they always kept going. I haven't seen those kids quit one time."

A disappointing finish to the season will not get in the way of appreciating all of the great basketball this Lady Buffs' squad has played this season.

There is always next year.

UP NEXT: Offseason.

Bulldogettes season ends following tough loss to Cisco

By STEVE BELVIN

Herald Contributor

MERKEL - The No. 16 ranked Cisco Lady Loboes were in a dogfight in the Class 3A bi-district game on Monday night. The dogs giving them the fight were the Coahoma Bulldogettes and Cisco got all it wanted. In the end, the Lady Loboes held on for a 68-56 win over Coahoma.

On paper, the game wasn't supposed to be this close. The Lady Loboes have lost just four games all season. They have an impressive resume that includes beating Brock, the No. 6-ranked class 3A team in the state. They also lost to No. 2-ranked Class 3A Jim Ned and to No. 6-ranked Class 2A school Mason, each by two points.

On this night, however, the Lady Loboes were taken to the wire by a resilient Coahoma squad of eight players who full-court pressed them as hard as they pressed Coahoma.

In the end, it was Cisco's height advantage and its abundance of personnel that proved the difference. It eventually wore down a Coahoma squad that perhaps played its best game of the season.

It started out like a blowout as the Cisco pressure forced Coahoma turnovers. Coahoma led 22-11 late in the first quarter until Coahoma's Caitlyn Corley trimmed it late in the quarter with a put-back basket and promptly got a steal and turned it into a layup. Cisco led 22-15 after one quarter, a quarter Coahoma turned the ball over seven times.

The game was fast paced from start to finish and the Coahoma trio of Corley, Julia Cox, and Makynlee Overton wouldn't let the Bulldogs fade away. Cox jump started Coahoma in the second quarter with two free throws and a short jumper to go along with a steal and a basket by Abby Lopez. Now Cisco was turning the ball over. Coahoma took its first lead of the game, 25-24, on another Overton basket. Later Cox added another basket and Coahoma took a big bite out of the Lady Loboes, taking its first lead of the game, 29-24, with 3:22 left in the first half.

Cisco, however, bit back by outscoring Coahoma 14-2 rest of the way to take a 38-31 halftime lead.

The second half was played pretty much on even terms. Every time Cisco would make a run, Coahoma would answer. The Bulldogettes made one last run in the final minutes of the game. Lopez scored a basket inside and Corley sunk two free throws, cutting the deficit to 60-55 with less than two minutes remaining. That's as close they would get as Cisco made it free throws down the stretch.

Overton put in a hard night's work, finishing the contest with game high of 24 points. She out-battled her taller opponents to grab 15 rebounds. Corley, who is now college bound for Sul Ross, put up 17 points on a 8-for-13 shooting night and also had seven rebounds, four assists and four steals. Cox was on the floor all night, clawing her way to seven points, six rebounds and five steals.

Cisco, which had a 10-player rotation, was paced by senior guard Landi Edgar who finished with 17 points and seven assists. Sophie Hurtado, a 6-foot-1 sophomore had 15 points, including hitting three three-pointers. Freshman forward Justice Fox ignited Cisco in the second half with her eight points and six rebounds.

Coahoma coach Jim Kinnear had nothing but praise for his squad that loses only two seniors (Corley and Macee Grant). "I am so proud of them. They played hard all year long. They fought to the very end," he said. "In the first quarter they broke our press down. We were not setting up. In the second quarter we got restarted and it led to some steals and easy baskets. They (Cisco) hit some threes and got the lead. Every time they got the lead we fought back."

Coahoma finishes the season with an 21-12 record. Cisco advances at 21-4.

COAHOMA (56) - Julia Cox 2 3 7; Caitlyn Corley 8 1 17; Abby Lopez 4 1 9; Makynlee Overton 9 6 24; totals 22 12 56.

Annie's Mailbox

Crazy About Boyfriend, or Just Stir Crazy?

Dear Annie: I have been seeing this guy for about eight months now and don't know how to explain what the situation is. He always comes to my house, and we watch TV and do a lot of talking. I feel like I have known him my whole life and am so comfortable with him. My problem is that we never go out or do anything together. I have asked him if he is embarrassed to be seen in public with me, and all he says, emphatically, is no, and then he changes the subject.

I truly think I'm going crazy. What do I do? -- Homebound

Dear Homebound: Don't end it; just change it. If you want to go out on a date, then go out on a date. The next time he says he is going to come over to watch TV, tell him you will meet him at a local restaurant or movie theater to have a night out.

It is important to communicate to your partner what is important to you. If it's a nice night on the town, then insist on it. You are certainly entitled to one. If he refuses, then yes, it is time to look for a new partner.

Dear Annie: I'd like to share my observations about married couples who approach social gatherings with different perspectives. It is not unusual if the husband is an introvert and the wife an extrovert, or vice versa.

There are some interesting books written about these personality differences. I found out that I was an introvert and started to feel more comfortable about why I felt that way. Extroverts like to be out and about on a regular basis. Introverts prefer to be out and about for a limited period of time, and then they are ready to go home and just be. So, then, you have a human doing versus a human being. I find being around people constantly very tiring, but an extrovert finds it invigorating.

Thanks for your column. -- An Introvert Married to an Extrovert

Dear Introvert Married to an Extrovert: Thanks for highlighting these key differences. It is always important to know what makes you feel good, and what makes your partner feel good.

Dear Annie: This is in response to "Frustrated Friend" and others who have hearing loss or are coping with friends' hearing loss.

Check out CaptionCall. It's a free service that provides a telephone with a monitor. I have it. Everything the other party says comes up on the monitor, and I can read it! The caller ID is terrific. I've worn hearing aids for years, and I know I am losing tones. Most calls are clear for me, but if it concerns business, an appointment or something important, I can save the call and review it.

To obtain CaptionCall, first check with your hearing specialist and see if he or she recommends it. Your specialist will sign a certification to submit with your request. CaptionCall will contact you to make an appointment, come to your house with the phone and install it. If you have problems, call the service number to schedule something quickly. -- Clear As a Bell

Dear Clear As a Bell: Hearing loss can make even the easiest, simplest tasks more taxing. This service sounds like a no-brainer for ease and peace of mind. Thanks for suggesting it.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22).

The universe is always giving signals. Most people are only open to the ones they prefer to read. To be wise is to be open to a wider range of information preferred or not.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You have views that reflect what pertains to you and have little to do with what the people around you want you to think. Explore your beliefs. Express them anew.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). It takes courage to share your inner life with the outside world, especially when you have no idea what they are going to think. It takes even more courage not to care. That's where you're headed -- to the realms of bravery.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Someone may be jealously guarding your whereabouts. Maybe you think of this as love, but it could also be considered a sign of insecurity, low self-esteem and an anxious attachment style.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). There will be some stress involved in your time with loved ones, and believe it or not, this is part of the joy. Belonging doesn't come free. The cost is tolerance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You'll think deeper into the situation. You're trying to crack a code. There will be many metrics to keep track of. Avoid any situation in which you need to monitor others. Being in charge of yourself will be enough.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). There's no victory hollower than the attainment of other people's goals. Before you get behind a cause, decide how it matters to you and why it's personal and specific to your heart.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). If pressed, you'll be surprised at what you know. There's so much you're learning just by being around a situation. Much is happening on a subconscious level.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Feb. 18). Because you are not completely satisfied with an outcome unless you know others have benefited as well as you, you will lift an entire group this year. Next month brings more resources to work with, and you'll turn them into an impressive outcome that could only happen with your specific gifts. Cancer and Capricorn adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 9, 40, 33, 1 and 18.

Pisces Sun Salutation

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Whether you want to learn to use a kitchen knife like a chef or ride a hot air balloon or see the pyramids of Egypt, this is the time to decide because in the next few weeks, you'll get the chance to cross something off your list.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). When people join a mob, they lose something. Stand on the outside. Even if you feel the same, do not join. To join would be to give part of your free will, which is too valuable a thing to trade.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Humans are essentially barbarians elevated by the structures of culture. Culture makes a person higher than a person. That's what you'll participate in today.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You'll mix your intelligence with a specialized skill and the wisdom to apply yourself effectively. The combo will bring you a lucrative result. Repeat and get ahead in this game.

Opening lead — four of hearts.

Many declarers have a tendency to focus on a particular suit without regard to the hand as a whole. This sort of narrow view can prove very costly at times.

Take this case where South was in three notrump and West led a heart. Declarer played low from dummy, losing to the king. East shifted to a spade, and West took the Q-A and returned a spade to South's king. Declarer crossed to dummy with a heart and tried a diamond finesse, losing to West's king. West then cashed a spade to put the contract down one.

If South had not been so myopic on the first trick, he might have seen the way to assure the contract. All he had to do was to put up dummy's ace of hearts and take a diamond finesse. Regardless of whether the finesse won or lost, or how the opposing cards were placed, he could not be stopped from finishing with at least nine tricks — five diamonds, two clubs, a heart and either another heart or a spade.

More than a few declarers would fall into the same trap South did. The heart finesse at trick one is such a natural play to make that many would try it from force of habit. They would finesse first and think about the rest of the hand afterward.

It is true that in the great majority of deals where declarer is faced with this heart combination, it would be correct to finesse. But generalities do not apply in a case where the finesse risks defeat, while rejection of the finesse assures fulfillment of the contract.

Tomorrow: Improving your chances.

Fun By The Numbers
Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

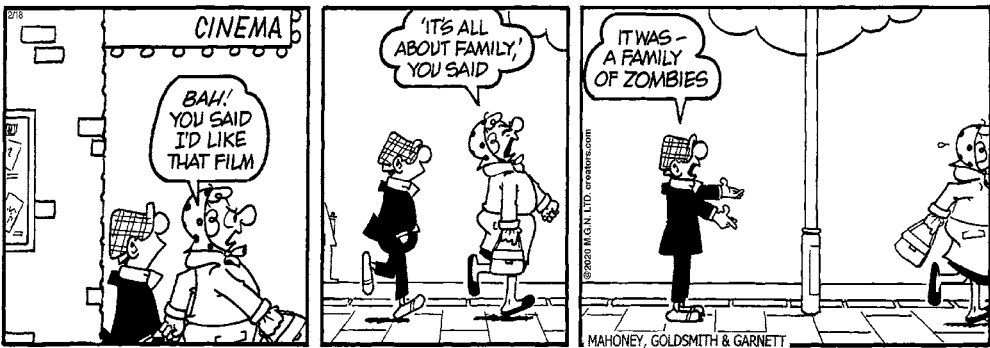

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
